Burkburnett To Receive Credit on Insurance Rate

Burkburnett will receive a nine per cent credit on its insurance rates for the year 1935, according to a report from R. J. Kelly, fire commissioner. This information was given to the Fire Insurance Commission at Austin last year. The city was assessed a 15 per cent penalty on its rate.

For 1934 this penalty cost the burkburnetters $1,000, according to estimates from insurance agents here," pointed out Kelly.

STILL HAVING FUN

Any Burkburnett citizen who still thinks this nation is close to the financial rocks should study the figures sent out by Uncle Sam covering amusements. They show the American people spent the vast sum of $519,500,000 on amusements last year, an average of $4 for every man, woman and child in the U. S. That is at the rate of $18 a family. Motion pictures took 75 percent of it. Radio was the second most popular amusement, and bowling and billiards came third. In taking this census the bureau did not classify the huge automobile expenditures under amusements, although the motor car undoubtedly constitutes the greatest amusements outlet of the present day. So it can be seen that we Americans are still having plenty of fun. There can't be anything so terribly wrong with a nation that digs down into its pockets every year for more than half a billion dollars to spend on amusements.

IT'S SEED TIME

About this time as the Old Farmers' Almanac used to say, look out for the seed catalogue on the living room table. About now the average Burkburnett householder, in the comfort of his easy chair, pores happily over those glowing pages on which are depicted flowers and vegetables in colors the rainbow can't match. He may not realize all his dreams. There are plagues of pests to be encountered; the droughts of summer in many sections and too much rain in others, and the weeds and the heat of an August sun have to be reckoned with later on. But blessings be on the head of the seed catalogue man. We can forgive him if he paints the roses and the beans a little too brightly, for any inducement that persuades a citizen to spend less time loafing and wondering and fooling, and more time in a useful and healthful pursuit like gardening, helps make a healthier man and a better citizen.

SCOUTING BIRTHDAY

February reminds us that the Boy Scouts are having a birthday. This time it is the twenty-fifth, the Silver Anniversary, celebrating a quarter of a century of Scouting. During that time 6,530,330 boys and men have in all branches followed its happy, healthy outdoor program and committed themselves to the Grand Oath and Law, which has been described as the Sermon on the Mount in Scouting. Congratulations to America that it has Boy Scouts. The movement was originally devised as a game and is even now played in that spirit. But underneath the fame, permeating every aspect of it, are the intangible permanent values of character, of loyalty, good faith, courage and service in forgetfulness of self and in the remembrance of others. "Do a good deed every day" is a motto the Boy Scouts never lose sight of. And in doing that good deed every day they set a fine example for their elders, and better equip themselves for their future place in the world.

Wonder if those Burkburnett girls who build air castles ever think to include a dishpan and washrag in them?

Peter has quit borrowing to pay Paul, and vice-versa. Both now find it more convenient to borrow from Uncle Sam.

Any Burkburnett man may be sure he is past middle-age when he quits growing at both ends and starts bulging in the middle.

Public Enemy No. 2 seems to be one who provides machine guns for Public Enemy No. 1.

So far as known, man is the only animal in the world that can be skinned more than once.

Depression Over Says Henry Ford

The depression is over, declares Henry Ford in Liberty Magazine, asserting that we are due "to see lavish production of high-quality goods in every line at prices every one can pay."
 "When our cardinal and inclusive quality of individualism begins to stir again, as surely it will, in our 125,000,000 individual Americans," he writes, "we shall see the nation move forward."
 "That is what I expect to see in this coming year—This country is going to need all the production it can get."

The motor magnate reviews his reasons for the statement and tells of what the past four years have meant to his company.
 "We have learned during the last few years that we 'can take it,' as the boys say, and that it takes a lot to hurt these United States. The far-off future everybody agrees is safe. But the immediate future is safe too. Wise men are getting ready to start now."

 The world's three outstanding regimenters outside of the United States are themselves the most typical individualists, writes Mr. Ford.
 "What would our own would-be American regimenters propose to do about their own extreme individualism they do not tell anyone. Are they so convinced of its evil that they are willing to sacrifice it along with ours? They are prescribing for us but not for themselves. They have as their goal reducing our people to masses but they evidently have it in their minds to remain the masters. Of course, this event will not come off."
 Liberty Magazine.

PERFECT ACCORD
 "I don't like to say anything that might embarrass the summer boarders," said an old farmer to his new hired man. "If I frown at you when you are at the table, that means for me to quit eating."
 "All right," replied the hired man. "I don't like to say much myself. If I frown back at you that means I ain't goin' to stop."

Training The Child's Mind

By DR. WILLIAM SCHOLES
 A child is, aside from his basic hereditary characteristics, largely the product of his environment. His mentality is to a very great extent moulded by those about him. The veneer of civilization may be thin but it does suffice to cover the Tartar underneath. Some day we'll be high grade stuff all the way through.

Some day the child's mind will be developed at birth to such a degree that he will be able to speak soon after he is born. He will not require discipline because he will know the difference between right and wrong. He will have learned from the experience of the centuries that to be good for the sake of being good is the only reason for being good at all, and he will act accordingly.

Incidentally, by "some day" I mean about ten million years from now. That's the measure of my faith in humanity. If one could convert ideas into facts and ideals into actualities, a generation might suffice to make this millennial dream come true.

What To Do In the Meantime
 So in the meantime we must cultivate the child's mind and hope that despite disease, war, crime, ignorance, superstition and the other millstones about the neck of humanity there may gradually be the nucleus of the human race of the future.

The child should be assisted in developing self-control, thus enabling him to bear up under the trying experiences of life stoically and with the kind of attitude that will enable him to overcome opposition and turn a disadvantage into an advantage.

From earliest babyhood the child should be taught to be fearless. Frightening a child, making them afraid of the dark, of bogeymen, and so on, is laying the foundation of future weakness.

The questions asked by a child are the cravings of his mind for knowledge. Always answer those questions as fully as possible. Try to explain his "whys" even though at times they seem unreasonable.

Stimulate the child's curiosity and cultivate his imagination. The child's curiosity is the man's investigation, his imagination the man's dreams and plans.

Teach the child poise and self-assurance. Not to the extent that he becomes bold and precocious, but enough to prevent his becoming backward and self-conscious.

Praise the child sensibly and constructively, not to the point where he "knows he's cute," but enough to encourage him to always do better. Never belittle him, particularly in the presence of others. An "inferiority complex" thus created has kept many a man from ever attaining success.

Be a companion to your child so that he will bring all his problems to you and not let him bury them in his unconscious mind to mar his future happiness and usefulness.

Science is still trying to find a substitute for gasoline, but the nearest approach so far is shoe leather.

What has become of the old-fashioned Burkburnett grandma who used to wear red nightcaps and tell the children Bible stories at bedtime?

We learn that silk hose are soon to be made from pine trees. From limb to limb, so to speak.

 Mr. and Mrs. John Ashton motored over to the Owens family last Monday evening and visited with the family several hours. Their call and visit were appreciated greatly so call again, friends.

The Tom Smith Public Sale which he had last Tuesday on the Ed LaBarre farm, proved a big success in spite of it raining all afternoon. Everyone and their relatives were there, a crowd of both men and women. Everything was sold very high considering the scarcity of money all over the county, and it being a cash sale. Quite a few Burkburnett cattle buyers were on the ground. Among the buyers from Burkburnett were Col. Wid Philips, Captain Guy Willis, Matthew Riley, A. L. Willis and several more. The Valley View ladies served lunch and proceeds derived from the lunch were $15.18, so the writer has been informed.

The writer has just been advised that H. C. Stiggins, the son of Mrs. Wm. Williams, was taken to the Government Hospital in Muskogee, Okla. Tuesday evening. His mother received a letter from her daughter-in-law, Mrs. H. C. Stiggins, Saturday, stating that Mr. Stiggins had not undergone his operation as he was too weak, and that he was very bad off. His host of friends in this community is very much uneasy about his recovery.

This neck of the woods has been visited with about one inch of rain in the past week, which has put the farming land in fine shape for plowing of spring oats. There will be more oats planted this spring than at anytime in the past, due to the fall-sown oats being killed out by the freeze.

Mrs. Ed Owens, for over a week now, has been on the sick list with the flu, but at this writing is some better and is able to be up and around again.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mewer's two little sons had a light attack of the flu the past week, but are up again at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Williams and their son and daughter and Mr. Williams sister, Mrs. Edith Flowers, motored over to Burkburnett Saturday afternoon to do their coming weeks shopping.

Fletcher Babers was on the sick list with the flu week before last, but his many friends in this community were glad to see Fletcher out at Tom Smith's sale last Tuesday.

Mrs. Fred LaBarre and her son, Clarence, called on the Owens family last Thursday evening and visited to a late hour.

Our little red store down on the corner is doing a fine business every day, so the writer has been advised. The owners of the little country store is Mr. and Mrs. Jess Kinnaird.

The writer is guessing now that all those non-believers of ground hog weather thinks that Mr. Ground Hog sure knows is onions by the way those northers are popping up. Believe me, we will still have this kind of weather until the six weeks are gone beginning from the 2nd of this months.

If you think that all the changes have been rung on western conflicts of law and banditry, of sheriffs, and cattle rustlers, of beleaguered young ladies and desert rats, you are advised to see Zane Grey's latest screen story, "The Dude Ranger," starring George O'Brien Friday and Saturday at the Palace Theatre. Advance reports term it "the best vehicle O'Brien has ever had."

Second Student: What did you do then?

First Student: I was so mad that I just got up and come to class without finishing my breakfast.

George O'Brien
Has Fine Role
In New Film

Washington.—It begins to appear that the Roosevelt administration has returned from its excursion into foreign affairs and is now ready to engage in rehabilitation of domestic affairs to the exclusion of international problems, except the matter of reciprocal treaties. It is true that Secretary Hull of the Department of State, Secretary Roper of the Department of Commerce, and Senator Borah, in the senate, have talked about foreign affairs in one way or another, but none of them occasioned any observation or suggestions from the White House by their assertions.

Among the occurrences in the recent period that tend to show how the administration again is putting home affairs to the forefront are the new banking bill, the plans for recovery revival under the five billion dollar public works bill, and the determination of house and senate lately, under a White House spur, to clip the wings of, if not wholly eradicate, the so-called holding companies. Attention might be called also to the uprising in the Department of Agriculture where Secretary Wallace, and Agricultural Adjustment Administrator Chester Davis combined a few days ago to eliminate left-wing members of their respective staffs. They did it summarily, but the end is not yet, either as respects plans of Messrs. Wallace and Davis, or the yelps that may be expected from the radicals who were ousted.

The general information is that, in shelving foreign matters, Mr. Roosevelt has determined to lay aside the St. Lawrence waterway controversy until "pressing domestic matters" are disposed of. Almost in the same breath it can be said that new activity has been disclosed on the part of the New Dealers to spread their doctrine into the states and establish, if possible, uniform laws everywhere concerning privately owned utilities such as electricity and gas. While no one will say so, it is the understanding that considerable pressure is being placed behind the effort to get state legislatures to pass uniform public utilities bills, measures which have been drafted in the Public Works administration here.

Probably as important as any legislation that has gone to congress in recent months is the new banking bill. It was transmitted to congress in a most unspectacular manner. There was no out-and-out endorsement by the White House, nor was the sponsoring of the draft made clear. The legislation was dropped into the house hopper the day after Representative Steagall, chairman of the house committee on banking and currency, had given out his own summarization. Chairman Fletcher of the senate committee on banking and currency received the bill the same day as Mr. Steagall and immediately went into a huddle with himself behind closed doors to study the draft. Later he announced with apparent pleasure that it was a great piece of legislation.

Now that the bill has been printed and is available for public inspection, a perfect furore has been aroused. The conservative critics began to squawk immediately that the measure proposes to destroy the Federal Reserve system and concentrate on power of credit and currency expansion or contraction. In the hands of a small group in the Treasury they contend that this amounts to establishment of a central bank and that, under our political system, a central bank would mean an unstable currency. What more could there be then, they ask, to destroy confidence in the currency which we use?

New Dealers, in defense of this new banking legislation, have been given to making wise-cracks about the Old Dealers, who, they assert, desire to see conditions of 1928 and 1929 repeated. They cite, with some justification it seems to me, that central banks exist in most of the major countries of the world and that their service has not been a bad thing at all. Further, the New Dealers argue that the political capital of the United States is in Washington, and the financial capital has been in New York. Why, they ask, should there be such a division?

In between these two schools of thought are sound money advocates and courageous conservatives who take the position that the bill has many good qualities and that it likewise has many provisions definitely to be avoided. You have heard very little expression of opinion from this type because, it is apparent, they are giving the measure close study. They will be heard from later when the legislation is taken up by the respective committees of the house and senate and it is made to appear that some changes surely will result.

To summarize the banking legislation—and I think it is of paramount interest to every one because it touches the currency and credit so directly—the real end likely to result from the legislation is a centralized control in Washington of the very nerve center of business, money. The bill proposes to establish what is called an open market committee

Constipated?

Doctors say... Use liquid treatment. The soundest advice anyone can give on the subject of laxatives is based on medical opinion. We urge you to have the benefit of this medicine no matter what laxative you buy. The secret of real relief from constipation is reduced dosage. You can't get the bowels unless you can get the help you give them. That's why doctors use a liquid laxative; it can be measured to a drop. Liquid laxatives that you can't put in dosage, especially those that require larger doses than you began their use. Under the doctor's care, you usually use a liquid laxative. The right laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of smaller and smaller doses—you don't need any. Liquid laxative generally used is Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara—natural substances that form no habit.

Burk Central Ward Has Low Percentage

Failure or non-promotion has been the dread and dismay of American school children for generations. Classmates and parents persistently ask that hard question, "Did you fail?" As years go by, high schools, colleges, and business asks the same question, so that the child's future as well as his present is affected by failure in school.

Probably few teachers realize fully the power of this weapon they use so frequently and many times so carelessly during the tender years of the elementary pupil. It is practically impossible for an elementary school child to discover the relationship between his activities during a semester or year of school work and his failure to be promoted. He cannot, at promotion time, evaluate activities directed toward trying to do his work and relate them to failure to be promoted. The elements in promotion are so uncertain, so varied and so far removed from the activities involved that it is practically impossible for children to understand and point out their reasons for non-promotion.

Failure many times leads the pupil to return to school with a weakened purpose to make a good record. Especially is this apt to happen when non-promotion has been experienced more than once. Many times this brings about a "don't care" attitude and causes the pupil to want to be an annoying factor in the school program. Thus, interest in school work is destroyed and the results of non-promotion is poorer achievement.

The extent to which a particular pupil is affected by non-promotion, of course, depends almost entirely upon the individual and the circumstances under which he experiences non-promotion. Occasionally, there may be individuals who can profit from effects of such an experience. In the large majority of cases, however, the effects of non-promotion are apt to be unfavorable. In many instances failure in schools account for the almost complete loss of self-confidence, initiative, and self-respect by thousands of children. The following statement comes from Bagley: "The glow of satisfaction that comes from the consciousness of work well done sets free the energy that can be concentrated upon the new and more difficult task, thus multiplying the chances for a fresh triumph and the sickening sense of failure will similarly choke up the channels of energy and multiply the chances for a second defeat."

Columbia University made a study of a school system of approximately 5,000 pupils over a period of seven years. After making a very careful investigation of promotions and failures the following conclusions were reached: "Of all non-promotions during these 7 years, only 21 per cent do better after repeating than before; 39 per cent show no change; and 40 per cent actually do worse."

An experiment was made in Long Beach, California during the school year of 1927-1928. All the failures or non-promotions from the high school through the low sixth grades were used in making this experiment. Out of 140 potential failures in the above grades 70 of these were actually made do their work over again and the other 70 were allowed to go on trial. These groups were divided evenly in regard to their mental ability and achievement. No parents were notified of the experiment so that extra help from the outside might enter into the results found. At the end of the year standardized tests were given and teachers estimates were tabulated with the following conclusions:

- Children of normal ability gain more from trial promotion than do children of equal ability from repeating a grade.
- Children of less than average gain little more by repeating a grade than they gain by trial promotion.
- Pupils in grades IV and VI profit more from a trial promotion plan than do those of grades II and III.
- The trial group shows greater average gain in educational tests than does the repeat group.
- The record of promotion at the close of the term shows 90 per cent of the trial group promoted.

Many other experiments of similar nature have been made throughout the United States and in all cases the results are nearly the same with regard to the failing child. The findings of these studies support the judgment of a number of competent students of education concerning the influence of failure on the achievement of the individual pupils that fail.

After studies and experiments have been made along the line of non-promotion there are many questions that we should ask ourselves as teacher or parent. Have I worked as I should to help avoid this failure? Is it best to have this pupil do his work over and brand him as a failure? Will he gain more by repeating the work or by going into newer fields of endeavor? Do some pupils that are not promoted show higher achievement than some pupils who are promoted? Are there pupils who should be given special remedial instruction and care? Are certain pupils over-age or under-age? What type of environment does the pupil live in and who are his associates? Many questions may be asked that would effect both the teacher and the parent while working with children.

We feel that it is our duty in the schools to do everything that we can to avoid this undesirable phase of school work and by working both in and out of class we are doing everything in our power to avoid non-promotion. With the aid and cooperation of the home we feel that we will be able to keep our percentage of failures very low.

Below we are giving a comparison of the percentage of non-promotions as listed in a National Survey made by Peabody College of Nashville, Tenn. and the percentage of failures in the Burburnett Central School for the first semester of the school year of 1934-1935. To the left is the grade; left, per cent of non-promotions national survey; right, per cent of non-promotions, Burburnett Central School:

A universal favorite is the American Magazine with its fiction by popular authors and its human interest articles. For more thoughtful and discriminating readers there are the "Atlantic Monthly" and the "Golden Book", "Hygeia", published by the American Medical Association, presents the latest discoveries about health. "The Readers' Digest", another great favorite, contains well-condensed articles from leading magazines.

Especially prepared for high school students is the "Scholastic". It fits in especially well with the work given in English, history, civics, economics, and social science.

Othar: He did but she dyed.
Tex: Yes, she'll do 85 per.
Hubert: Per gallon or perhaps.
Mother: Where have you been?
Marian: To a dead circus.
Mother: What is a dead circus? What do you mean?
Marian: A museum.

Voice: Give me liberty or give me death.
Miss Kirby: Who said that?
Voice: Patrick Henry.

Cop: Hey, there, don't jam up traffic, why don't you use your noodle?
Nedra: Oh, I didn't know the car had one.

Mr. Duncan: That's rather a queer assortment of studies you're taking, what's the reason?
Billyjane: Oh well, you see there are no elevators in the building and I'm not taking anything above the first floor.

The only time it pays a woman to be long winded is when she's blowing out the candles on her birthday cake.

Howard: Is it easy to kiss Lorean?
Hubert: Like falling off a log.
Howard: Where did you get that black eye?
Hubert: I fell off a log.

Maline (bragging a little): I'm one girl in a thousand.

Spanish Song, Dances, Charm Spanish Pupils

Seniorita Luisa Espinel danced many Burburnett Spanish songs last Friday night, February 18, in the Junior College Auditorium at Wichita Falls, with her group of typical folk songs and dances of hispanic countries including those of Northern Spain, Central and Southern Spain, Southern Mexico and the Caribbean Countries.

For the dances and songs of the present time, she wore the costume of which had been typical of a member of the royal Spanish family. This long skirt of blue and white Spanish painting that is an art museum of New York. Another striking costume was worn by the women of Tehuacan, Mexico about which she told a legend.

After the program the Spanish pupils met her and found her interested in them because she was learning her beautiful language.

Arbor Day

Arbor Day grew out of conditions peculiar to the Great West, a country practically treeless over much of its area. Arbor Day originated and first observed in Nebraska in 1872. The plan was conceived and named "Arbor Day" proposed Sterling Morton, then a member of the Board of Agriculture, later U. S. Secretary of Agriculture. At a meeting held at Lincoln, Nebraska, on April 4, 1872, he introduced the resolution that Wednesday, the 13th of April, 1872, be consecrated to tree planting in the State of Nebraska, and that the State name it Arbor Day. The resolution was adopted and wide public response was given to the plan, and over a million trees were planted in Nebraska that first Arbor Day.

From being practically a treeless State, only about 3 per cent of the total area having originally been covered with natural timber, Nebraska has become one of the leading States in practical forestry and much identified with tree planting. On April 4, 1895, the legislature passed a resolution that the day be popularly known as the Planter's State.

The time of the observation of Arbor Day varies greatly in different States and countries, being determined somewhat by climatic conditions, in many States it is combined with Bird Day. In general the day in the year in the South is set further along toward summer in the more Northern States. Some States it is in the fall and others two dates are set, one in spring and the other in the fall.

Arbor Day was first observed in Texas in 1890, the resolution being adopted in 1888. The day for Arbor Day in Texas was established as February 22, Washington's birthday. Plant a tree.

After the business meeting game Hearts were enjoyed, after which refreshments were served to following: Misses Alice Moran, Norene Kirby, Natalie Gorin, Ma Dunaway, Edna Hightower, McCallard and Messrs. Westfield, Jimmie Guest, Morris Strong, Blackwell, Carl Pommering, Gladys Wesbrooks.

Volley Ball

The volley ball girls did not have very good luck this season. They improved a great deal in their play and their accuracy in serving. Most of the girls were first year girls. Bernice McDonald and Mildred Milford are the only two who were on last year's squad.

The squad includes Bernice McDonald, Mildred Milford, Jean Shuffler, Marcelle Foster, Mary Morse, Della Ashmon, Mary Bowden, Irene Evans, Mary Clements, and Ruth Jeffers, business manager.

A captain was elected just before the season.

The girls are selling candy, and pies, sandwiches and anything and everything in an effort to raise money with which to buy new awards.

—Scholastic Play

Scholastic play for F. H. S. has been chosen by Mrs. R. D. Watkins as director. All who have been chosen to be in the play think it to be an elimination of all school plays ever enacted in this section. The play, "The Fairview", was written by an author from the Fairview community. There are two acts. The first act was presented at the present time, but within a few days there is to be an elimination of all school plays ever enacted in this section. —Freshman News

Wonder if our freshman girls like us yet. (We hope so.)
Wonder why a certain freshman likes the seventh grade more than high school. (What do you think?)
Wonder how Lois Edwards will like her new dress?
Wonder how Virginia Bayne will like her new school?
Wonder if Mary likes Wilson as much as he likes her.
Wonder if Hazel writing she doesn't know.
Wonder if Jack Bryary is mean as he pretends to be.
Wonder if the "Fish" can take it.

—Make-Up

Are certain that title would be yours, and the more you read the more you will be interested in the play. The play, "The Fairview", was written by an author from the Fairview community. There are two acts. The first act was presented at the present time, but within a few days there is to be an elimination of all school plays ever enacted in this section.

—Sophomore News

Sophomores had charge of the program last week. There were many numbers on the program, including the following: The Choral club, tap dance, "The Fairview", given by members of the Sophomore class. The Sophomores regret that their director, Zella Graham, is leaving. She is moving to Electra. They hope she is appreciative of her work in Fairview. Zella is leaving a good friend.

Hints for the Household

By BETTY WEBSTER

Although it is early for outdoor gardening, now is the time to peruse carefully the seed catalogues and landscape gardener's plans for your summer garden.

It is nice to have flowers all through the season, but in order to have an ever-blooming garden, forethought and work are necessary. Consult the landscape gardener and his booklets, when possible. He is an expert in his line and can give the advice so essential to the preparation of an attractive garden spot.

DO YOU KNOW THAT:

1. Cookies will be much lighter if the dough is rolled on a canvas cloth (to avoid too great an absorption of flour) rather than a board?
2. One-fifth more butter should be used when substituting butter in a recipe calling for lard and one-fifth less lard in one calling for butter?
3. Butter and margarine have less shortening power than lard and vegetable fats because they contain about fifteen per cent water?

RECIPES

Hain Mousse

2 cups of finely chopped ham
2 tablespoons of minced parsley
1-4 teaspoon of paprika
1 cup of whipped cream
1 tablespoon of gelatine, soaked in
2 tablespoons of cold water and dissolved in
1-4 cup of boiling water
Mix ham, parsley and paprika; fold into the cream to which the gelatine has been added. Turn into individual molds which have first been dipped into cold water and chill. Serve on crisp lettuce.

The girls playing their last game Friday night were Ada Marsh, Virginia Bogy, Ruth Vogel and Elva Stimpson.

Tournament News

The F. H. S. cagers battled the Cashion Cats in the first round of the tournament Friday night. The game was rather evenly matched it seemed, but the Fairview cagers, as usual, came out of the hard fought game victorious. The scores were 22-26.

The second game, Saturday, was not nearly so hard a victory, the F. H. S. team defeating the Clara Greyhounds, winner of the Iowa Park-Clara game, to the tune of 17-30. Very good, boys.

The final games of the tournament was between the Bears and the Valley View Harvesters. The game was a very evenly matched game all the way, but the luck seemed to favor the Bears and the game ended with a score of 28-24 in favor of the Harvesters.

There is to be a three-game play off between Fairview, winner of the Round Robin, and the Valley View team. The first game is to be played on the Valley View court, the second on the Fairview court, and the third, if necessary, on the Electra court.

Fairview vs. Valley View

February 18 at Valley View, the first game of the championship play-off was played. The thrilling game was a victory by a one point lead, 27-26. The game started by both teams showing signs of being nervous and missing many shots. Valley View led at the half by a score of 12-10. The lead changed hands many times and at no time was there more than six points difference in the lead. With less than four minutes to play the score was Valley View, 23 and Fairview 19, but a last minute rally saved the game for Fairview.

Regrets

We regret deeply that we must lose Lucille Graham to the Electra school. Lucille has been a letter member of the F. H. S. volleyball team for these past two years. Lucille came to us from Burkburnett and now we must lose her to Electra. May the Electra school be as proud of Lucille as we are.

We Want You to Know

Mrs. Staggs is our room mother and Mrs. Northcott our P. T. A. mother. We hope they will be with us the rest of the year. Mrs. Studyvin was our room mother, but she moved, therefore, we elected Mrs. Staggs. We hated to lose Mrs. Studyvin but we are glad to have Mrs. Staggs.

"Get my kit ready quickly," shouted the doctor. "Some fellow has phoned that he can't live without me."

"Oh, that call is for me," said his daughter as she seized the phone and glued her ear to it.

The summer boarder asked: Why is it that old hog keeps trying to come into my room? Do you think he has taken a fancy to me?

Little Willie explained it: Why, that's his room during the winter.

Tamale: What is meant by poetry of motion?

Came: I think it must be the poetry that keeps going from one editor to another and never is published.

THE WELL-DRESSED MAN
"Ah," said the custom officer, producing a bottle, "I thought you said there were only old clothes in that trunk?"
"Aye, that's ma night cap," said the Irishman.

Boy Friend: Give me a kiss honey.
Girl Friend: Don't bacilli.

More and more municipalities which operate their light plants are realizing the advantages of such projects. The mayor of Bowie, Hon. T. J. Wright, speaks for his citizens when he says, "The citizens of Bowie are proud of the benefits that they are enjoying as a result of their ownership of their own electric utility system. Regardless of what anyone may say concerning the 'Fallacy of Government Ownership,' we know that our rates are lower than in neighboring cities; we can point to our well-lighted streets; we know that most of our cost of operation remains in circulation in our city; we know what is being accomplished with our utility surplus; and we realize that the plant is saving the citizens money in many other ways."
