Jury Rules In Favor of The Plaintiff

In case No. 1907-R. L. Hawkins vs. Raymond L. Hawkins and G. L. Patterson, which was moved by agreement from Throckmorton to Judge Ben Charlie Chapman's 39th Judicial District Court, was tried here Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

The jury ruled in favor of the plaintiff, but found no damages against the defendant. G. L. Patterson, Plaintiff, to receive $5,000 damage from the defendant, Raymond L. Hawkins.

The defendant, Raymond L. Hawkins, is the son of the Plaintiffs. The case grew out of disagreement of oil and gas lease monies in Throckmorton county. Raymond Hawkins held half interest in the oil and gas lease in Throckmorton county, which was subject to interest in net profit held by his parents. On August 1, 1966, Raymond L. Hawkins assigned the lease to G. L. Patterson.

The defendant's mother and father contended that from 1961 to date that the son sold the lease, Hawkins and Patterson operated it and did not pay them their share of net profits and that defendant spent the money on other leases and personal expenses to extent of some $15,300.

The defendants were represented by Maurice Brooks and Tom Gordon of Abilene and plaintiffs by Stanley Wilson and Bob Surovick, of Abilene.

Serving on the jury were R. C. Ezell, Bill Fouts, Ernest Peiser, C. G. Harston Jr., J. B. Dunnam, Ed Hester, Henry Harris, Ben Kittley, Alton Middleton, Morris Neal, J. B. Gipson and Lewis Thomas.

Lions Annual Mop and Broom Sale Slated May 11

If you see a roaring Lion stalking your neighborhood next Thursday, May 11, be not dismayed. Be not afraid, for it is the Lions' Annual Mop and Broom Sale.

Yes, come next Thursday. Lions will take to the streets and sidewalks peddling mops and brooms door-to-door to raise funds primarily to "stash a little cash" in their "kitty" to help less fortunate families at Christmas.

Some thirty-six items of merchandise to be offered for sale are made by the blind workers in blind shops, or Lighthouses in Texas, furnishing them employment on a non-profit basis.

Funds obtained from the sale will not only benefit the Texas Lighthouse for the Blind, but will also help the Lions to help support worthwhile community projects.

So, when a Lion comes knocking at your door "Open the door, Richard" and let him in. You need the merchandise, and the Lions need the "dinero" to carry out their projects.

Royce Wood and Charles Thornhill are chairmen of the project.

Downtown Haskell will be worked prior to the residential area which will be canvassed late in the afternoon.

Want To Shop, Swap, Trade Or Buy, Come To Haskell "Crazy Daze"

Remember back during the good old days when "First Monday" was all the go, and Dad and Mother would load up the kids, gather-up the eggs, take along some chickens, maybe a cow, a span of fast-stepping horses and head for town to shop, and swap.

Well, that "good old day" is coming back to Haskell not on a Monday but on Tuesday, May 16, Dollar Day, when merchants will stage one of the "dad-dum-did" Crazy Daze and Trades Day you have perhaps ever "eve-balled."

The Commissioners Court has granted the use of the wide sidewalk around the courthouse square to be used for display for trading or selling any article of value.

All rural area residents are especially invited to bring to town, farm equipment, livestock, poultry, household items or in fact just anything of value to trade or sell.

All merchants will set-up tables on the sidewalk in front of their places of business, and will be wearing crazy dress, or western wear (also Rodeo Week).

Haskell merchants have not gone "loopy" but from the bonanza of bargains they will be offering and the way they will be dressed, you'll probably agree "Crazy Daze" Trades Day, Tuesday, May 16, will be a day you will long remember.

So, we'll come!

They were married at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Sagerton on April 17, 1917, by Rev. F. A. Bracher, Sr., one of the pioneer pastors in this area.

Attendants for the wedding were: Roxie Wienke, now Mrs. J. B. Pope of Hempstead, Texas; Christine Ender, sister of A. C. Ender, Chris Welsh, and Ed Perch, brother of Mrs. Ender.

Mrs. Ender was Josephine Pesch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Pesch. She was born at Houston and later moved to Shackelford County, near Albany, with her family. Mr. Ender was the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Ender, and was born in Corvett County and moved to Haskell County with his family in 1906.

Mr. and Mrs. Ender lived near Albany from 1917 until 1921 and Mr. Ender worked on the Brovies Ranch southwest of Albany, taking care of 200 head of cattle and 70 head of horses and mules. "In those days,"

Mr. Ender reports, "the hard." He tells the story of Mrs. Ender's illness and caught a rooster, with part of a wedding cake back to Haskell. Mr. Ender has lived here ever since, engaged in farming. In 1921, he moved to the place now known as Sagerton, about four miles from Sagerton, bordering son's Ranch.

They have one son, and two grandsons, Stanley, all of Sagerton.

Guests attending the wedding were from the towns: Fort Worth, W. H. Eland, Bovina, Hamlin, Moran, Brockering, field, Abilene, Rule, Sagerton, Midland and Glory.

Assisting with the wedding were: Mrs. Otto Eland, Mrs. Minnie Schmidt, Mrs. da Koch, Mrs. August man, Mrs. Frank Ender, Mrs. Raymond Ender.

When Conversation Lags

Silence may be golden—but at a party it becomes pretty leaden. The hostess is the one entrusted with keeping the conversation ball afloat, bridging the gaps when happily wagging tongues suddenly fall silent.

Compliments and questions that lead somewhere are good opening plays. "What a lovely dress!" expects a "thank you" and little else. But a more perceptive compliment like "what an unusual charm bracelet you're wearing" might lead to a whole discussion of jewelry, heirlooms, collective mementoes, and so on.

The hostess can inject a little healthy controversy—often by taking the Devil's Advocate role. "Well, I was a little disappointed in Albee's last play" is sure to get some response, positive or negative. Or "I wonder where Ronald Reagan's political future lies" might trigger an interesting political discussion.

Sometimes, arguments started in calm end up in verbal collision, and as the hostess you are expected to come between the combatants. Remember at this time that hard drinks reinforce hard heads, while soft drinks can have a cooling and leveling effect. A large chilled pitcher of Pepsi-Cola is always a must at my parties to quench thirst—and arguments.

When you are making up a guest list, be sure to include some sparkling conversationalists, because good talk is the "secret ingredient" of a successful party.

cut like this will broil satisfactorily even though it comes from a lower grade animal.

Also, top round and chuck, traditionally considered best for braising with a cover, rated just as tender and flavorful when they were broiled or roasted.

An important point to remember in cooking beef with dry heat is the need for slow cooking in a low to moderate oven, approximately 300 degrees. This helps retain moisture and keep food tender.

When choosing beef for broiling or roasting, look for meat with small flakes of fat within each individual muscle and a minimum of tough, white connective tissue. These are signs of tender, juicy beef.

Herbicides Can Be Useful Tools

Herbicides can be useful tools for controlling weeds if they are properly applied. But Haskell County Agent, R. W. Schumann warns that improper application can cause crop damage and lawsuits from neighbors.

To get satisfactory results from herbicides, Schumann says to follow the directions on the label as approved by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"These directions should be followed exactly," he said. To avoid chemical wind drift

Two Chemical Type Bleaches For Home Use

There are two chemical types of bleaches for home use, says Barbara M. Elliott, County Home Demonstration Agent.

Chlorine bleaches are available as liquids and powders. Oxygen bleaches come in powder form.

Chlorine bleaches should not be used on fabrics containing silk, wool, or spandex fibers, or on fabrics with a chlorine-retentive resin finish. Fabrics with these finishes are usually marked "Do Not Use Chlorine Bleach" on the label. The chlorine bleach could yellow rather than bleach these fabrics, and could cause serious fabric damage, the specialist pointed out.

Liquid chlorine bleaches are fast acting and should be mixed thoroughly with the wash water before clothes are added. Never use more than one tablespoon of liquid chlorine bleach to one gallon wash water. Never add bleach to rinse water.

Dry Chlorine bleach is slower in action than liquid bleach. It does not need to be mixed with water before adding to washing solution.

The whitening effect of fluorescent whiteners present in the laundry detergents is reduced by chlorine bleaches. To get maximum effectiveness from both whiteners and bleach, agitate the clothes with the detergent solution for about four minutes before adding bleach. Oxygen bleaches are safe for all fibers, natural and man-made and for resin-finish cottons. They are less likely to cause damage to fabric if improperly used than chlorine bleaches.

onto the susceptible broadleaf plants, Schumann says to make application only when wind velocity is below 10 mph. He urges all herbicide users to have some type of wind gauge in the field so they can know when conditions are dangerous.

Amine salt or low volatile formulations are safest, Schumann said. They do not vaporize and drift as much as the high volatile formulations.

The county agent gave these three rules for applying herbicides:

1. Use chemicals only on crops for which they are recommended.
 2. Use only the quantity called for on the label.
 3. Apply the chemicals only at time recommended on the label.
- Texas A&M University specialists report that the greatest problems with herbicides are occurring where inexperienced operators are making applications. They suggest that even on extremely small plots, great care be taken when applying chemicals.
- All interested persons are advised by Schumann to utilize information on herbicides available at the County Extension Office.

Horsemen Warned Of Danger In Using Forages

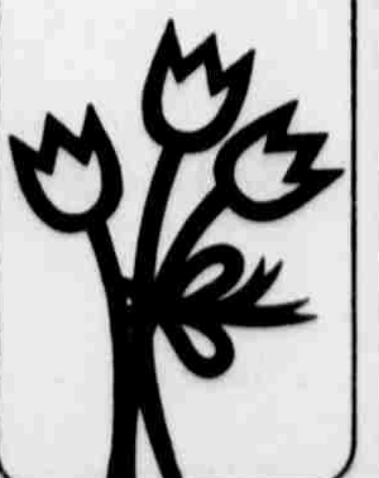

There appears to be some evidence that sorghum-sudangrass type forage hybrids used extensively for cattle grazing and greenchop may be injurious to horses, warns R. W. Schumann, Haskell County Agricultural Agent.

These widely used grazing and feed crops appear to be a factor in causing cystitis syndrome in horses, a little-known disease of equines which is characterized by incoordination of the rear quarters, uncontrolled urination and possible abortions by the mares. Death sometimes occurs in chronic cases. To date, there is no known cure for this ailment, but it is not contagious. In addition to the sorghum-sudangrass type hybrids, cystitis has also been found in horses grazing Johnsongrass, common sudangrass and sweet sudangrass in a few isolated instances.

Exact cause of the ailment has not been pinpointed and Yeates says thousands of horses have probably grazed these forage crops with no ill effects; however, horsemen should be warned of the danger involved in using the forages in their horse programs, and they must be very cautious until continuing research can establish the exact cause of the syndrome. A&M scientists say that there is no reason for cattlemen to become alarmed, as no injuries have been reported from grazing or feeding these forages to ruminants.

The seed industry is cooperating with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station of Texas A&M University to help support continued research in an attempt to isolate and avoid causes of the cystitis syndrome and to find a cure.

In "The Good Old Days", Mattson Had Enrollment of 500 Students

With the close of this school year, Mattson, which at one time had an enrollment of 500 students, will be "Gone With The Wind", so to speak as it will consolidate with Haskell, effective at the beginning of the 1967-68 term.

There are only 46 students in the entire school and that includes grades 1 through 12. Five boys make up the senior class.

Three students are in the junior class—and they're all kin to each other. Finding the school's no problem. Turn at the Throckmorton highway sign in Haskell, go 8 miles east to a sign that says Mattson and turn left. But it's a little surprising to find a school surrounded by fields and nothing else.

Mattson's truly rural—no post office, no store, no filling station. Everyone comes to school on one of two buses.

Ben Anderson drives one of them and teaches also. His classes include biology, chemistry, earth science and PE. Mrs. Anderson teaches the 4th and 5th grades.

They chose to teach at Mattson rather than a larger school in LaMarque. "This is our home," Anderson explains. "We have fewer students and we really get to know them. The atmosphere is relaxed and we have few discipline problems. Everyone here is from about the same economic and social level, so we don't have those kind of problems either."

Next year after Mattson closes, Haskell will enter dental school.

Raised Own Money
He's also senior class sponsor. His five boys have raised $1,000 since the beginning of the year for their trip to Acapulco by hauling hay, washing cars, sponsoring volleyball, basketball and domino tournaments.

"We even tore down and moved a house," Anderson said. "And since it's the last year the school will operate, the junior class has made enough money to go the week before we do."

The school hasn't been large enough for class activities for several years, but the whole school participates in the Harvest Festival every fall.

As a matter of fact, Superintendent Tom Alvis says they belong to state association of small schools and Mattson is the smallest member.

"That probably makes it the smallest in the state," he says. Alvis is a young man who is originally from Haskell. He also teaches in addition to his superintendent duties.

"I wanted some administrative experience," he says.

Alvis is not the only one at Mattson who gets to do a little of everything. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Therwanger both teach at Mattson.

She teaches in elementary school and he teaches high school students. But Mrs. Therwanger was a speech major, so she teaches that in high school and Therwanger substitutes for her during one period.

Once Had 500 Pupils
Mattson has a lunchroom, seven classrooms and a gymnasium. Once 500 students rather than 46 mingled in the hallways and filled up the classrooms.

Anderson says they had expected the school to close for the past 10 years. Everyone is "surprised it lasted as long as it did."

H. W. Smith who served on the board for 25 years, said:

"We consolidated nine little community schools back in 1936," Smith recalls. They were Powell, Roberts, Pleasant Village, Vontress, Cottanwood, Ferris Ranch, Douglas and Irby.

They moved all the old buildings together and the Mattson School used them for awhile until they burned. Then they built the present brick school.

"But to start with, we didn't have any electricity," Smith says. "So we bought an old generator, a Ford Panel and Buick—the Buick motor pulled the generator so we had electricity for the school, but someone was always having to work on it."

Mattson didn't get real electricity until about 1948.

Primitive At First
In the early days, kitchen facilities were rather primitive, but Smith helped remedy that. "They had nail screen so the flies could sail right in," he remembers.

"They didn't have any cabinets so they had to line the dishes up on an old counter and cover them with cloths."

"All they had to cook on was a four-burner oil stove and an old burned-out wood stove."

When he discovered the situation, Smith promptly threw out the old stoves and built doors and cabinets from the paneling off the old Ford.

Smith claims credit for another modern convenience at Mattson—indoor plumbing. "I kept after them until we finally put it in in 1953," he recalls.

"Then we had open house and everyone wondered why we had not done it a long time before," that amused Smith.

The last graduating class at Mattson includes Sammy Decker, Ricky Hamblenton, James R. Wolf, Frankie White and Leslie Wittenborn, the only one who has attended the school for 12 years.

Like To Stay

They are all a little sorry to see the school close. As Kathy Hager, a sophomore, explains, "I've been here ever since I was in the first grade, and I'd kind of like to stay."

They like it, too, because the teachers are not so formal... you can get away with a lot more, but it's harder than a big school since they can spend a lot more time with each person.

But the students are also looking forward to more social life that going to school in Haskell will mean.

Most of the teachers will find jobs teaching in some of the surrounding towns—some already have.

No one's sure yet what will happen to the little school in the middle of the fields next September. Probably it will be used as a community center... Smith says, "but it will always seem a little too quiet and empty."

"We've had some good people come out of this school... doctors, lawyers, dentists, too," Smith says.

Dates Set For Cowboy Reunion At Stamford

The 37th annual Texas Cowboy Reunion will be held on July 1, 3 and 4 this year in Stamford, Texas with three night performances and a matinee on the afternoon of the 4th.

Traditional with ranching people, "laying by" on Sunday is still observed when a Sunday intervenes with dates of the show. However, there are always a lot of "free" shows and activities going on all day at the arena. The Palomino Horse Show is scheduled for 9:00 A. M. on Sunday, July 2, at the Quarter Horse arena, according to Cecil Eager, chairman for this part of the show. The American Quarter Horse Shows will be on Monday and Tuesday under supervision of Charles Stenholm, chairman.

Officers have been elected for the show this year with Eugene Swenson, president; Carl Swenson, vice president; John R. Rice, treasurer; and Lee Walker, secretary. Directors elected were H. G. Andrews, Sr., Russell Crowover, A. C. Humphrey, A. J. Mills, A. M. G. Swenson, W. G. Swenson and Bernard Buie.

Trends Noted In Feeding Of Livestock

Today's consumers, with more money to spend, are demanding higher grades of meat. To meet this demand, commercial feedlots in Texas are growing rapidly, and with them, certain economic trends are evolving.

Increased production of heavy beef along with further gains in slaughter calf feeding have met this demand, says Dr. Edward Uvacek, Jr., Extension Livestock marketing specialist and assistant professor, Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology, Texas A&M University, Texas, for the most part, still prefer fed calf, however; but their tastes are rapidly shifting to heavy beef. More growth in Texas cattle feeding may emphasize the tremendous demands for fed calf in the Gulf Coast states.

With the economies of transportation favoring shipment of feeder animals rather than fat cattle, feeding in this state will become more oriented to local market demands. Furthermore, emphasis should be forthcoming on carcass yields and the ability of an animal to reach the Choice grade at a light weight.

Market demands, contends Uvacek, will dictate the types and classes of cattle produced in the future. A shift in the southwest has been toward a heavier weight slaughter calf producing a 400-500 pound carcass while other areas of the country are moving toward a lighter weight heavy beef carcass in the 600-700 pound range. Both trends are, however, for Good and Choice grade carcasses.

The animal of the future will be the meat-type steer. It will be efficient in the feedlot and will produce the desirable type of carcass at least possible cost, says Uvacek. This animal may not belong to any particular breed or type of beef animal known today and might very well be a mixture.

The revolution that is occurring within the Texas cattle feeding industry will result in a future which will bear little resemblance to the cattle industry of yesterday. Further details and a more adept explanation of this revolution can be found in the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station bulletin, B-1055, "Economic Trends in Texas Cattle Feeding."

Despite Heat And Stench, Pvt. Cook Says Experience Is Educational

The following letter was received recently by Mrs. Floyd Cook, of Haskell, from her son, Pvt. First Class Kenneth W. Cook, in Vietnam:

"I am about to burn-up. I don't know just how hot it is, but I suppose the temperature lies somewhere between that of a desert and hell. That's warm! It's not bad as long as you are in the shade and not moving, but just go out and you are in a furnace."

"We arrived at Saigon Airport around 2:00 p. m., Wednesday afternoon (I think) and were greeted by billboards advertising American products and even one board stating... 'The Church of Christ Welcomes You to Saigon.' I almost felt at home, but I soon changed my mind. We came through a town which I am sure is quite typical. The streets were covered with cars, motor scooters, bicycles and just plain people. There were many women carrying heavy loads upon their shoulders which were equally distributed on each end of a pole. People were gathered around small market places... others around small concession stands, drinking a Coke. There was one thing I did notice, almost everyone appeared busy. The town was made even more strange by the appearance of the buildings. Many of them were protected by barbed wire and guarded."

"The city had the peculiar odor of human waste, and I was glad to be an American. I am now located about six miles outside of Saigon. The camp is a combination of tents

The Big Difference between a man who displays this seal and an insurance company salesman might mean hundreds, perhaps thousands, of dollars in your pocket

As an independent insurance agent, he represents not one but several insurance companies. He is thus free to choose the best car, home, or business insurance for you, to make sure you are paid both promptly and fairly when you have a loss. On the other hand, the services of an insurance company salesman usually end when he has sold you the policy which his particular company offers. As independent insurance agents, we are ready to give you continuing, personal attention—The Big Difference in insurance today. Look for our Big "I" Seal... call on us for the facts about complete insurance protection.

Rolling Plains Cotton Growers To Conduct Cotton Quality Contest

Many farmers throughout the Rolling Plains area are going to be trying a sack or two of a new or improved variety as they plant their cotton in 1967. It was felt by the Board of Directors of the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers that there was a definite need of a planned system of varietal evaluations under actual field conditions so that producers can be informed as to how the new or improved varieties actually performed under 1967 weather conditions throughout the Rolling Plains in comparison with our older established varieties.

OIL NOTES

Haskell County has gained site for a proposed 2,700-foot rotary Tannehill Sand wildcat in the area six miles northwest of Rule.

The venture is Alinda Hunt Hill Trust of Abilene No. 1 Billy Bob Smith. Drillsite is 2,885 ft. from the north and 1202 ft. from the east lines of M. H. Chatham Survey 5.

The lease is composed of 232 acres.

To fill this need RPCG has developed a Cotton Quality Contest which it hopes will stimulate more farmers of 4-H and FFA members to conduct accurate and meaningful variety demonstrations that will begin to provide valuable information for future variety planning, regarding variety performance. Charles Stenholm, Executive Vice President of the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, urges all area farmers or future farmers who are going to plant a sack or two of a new variety to enter the contest and follow a few rules. What RPCG is asking is that you take a little time and effort to insure that you have a fair demonstration. You may win a nice cash prize but more important, you will be helping yourself and Rolling Plains cotton.

After you have followed a few simple rules and kept a few records, you are then asked to provide a sample to RPCG for mechanical evaluation both of seeds and the mechanical analysis.

CANCER EDUCATION SURVEY RECEIVING GOOD RESPONSE

Around $2,000.00 had been collected early this week in the Haskell County Cancer Crusade, Jesse Priest and Billie Jack Ray, co-chairmen of the local Jaycee-sponsored fund-raising campaign project, reported.

Tremendous response to the new Cancer Education Survey has been reported in every section of Texas, as cards are being returned and counted as quickly as volunteers can handle the mail.

The Survey conducted in conjunction with the American Cancer Society's Residential Crusade, consisted of a pair of cards with several brief questions for men and for women. The cards, filled in and unsigned, are being returned to offices in each of the sixteen areas and five largest cities of Texas.

Although the Educational and Fund-Raising Crusade has just begun in most counties, volunteers who visited their neighbors' homes have reported that most everyone seemed pleased to be participating in this massive fact-finding endeavor of the Society. The total amount of funds raised across the state is already $100,000 ahead of the total at this time last year, with the $2,000,000 goal one-third completed within a week.

Residents of Haskell County have returned their cards to the District 13 Office in Wichita Falls, which has reported 55 of the cards already returned within seven days of the kickoff. The total is expected to reach twice that number by the end of the Crusade, May 31.

The American Cancer Society's fund-raising campaign to support research in Texas, as well as public education programs, has been endorsed by President Johnson, Gov. Connally as well as Texas Crusade Chairman Speaker Ben Barnes, who added, "The importance of the new Survey is establishing what people know about cancer—and what they do about their health—will ultimately become one of the most important services the ACS has ever brought to Texas."

Everyone who has received a survey card is urged to complete it and return it as soon as possible. Contributions to the American Cancer Society may also be mailed to the same address as on the Survey envelope.

How Much Of Income Should Parents Spend For Children's Education

How much of their income should parents be able to spend for their children's education? A guide has been developed by the College Scholarship Service for use throughout the United States, says Mrs. Barbara M. Elliott, County Home Demonstration Agent.

The guide is used by more than 700 colleges and universities as one yardstick in determining whether a student should receive a scholarship, loan, a part-time job, or other financial aid.

Here are the CSS figures on how much of the parent's income should be used for a child's expenses at college each year.

	8,000	1,900	730	440
10,000	1,850	1,150	750
12,000	2,450	1,650	1,130

College financial-aid officers also take into account earnings of a student from a summer job, family savings and other assets, and unusual expenses such as protracted illness in the family, other children in college, or an elderly dependent.

Then the adjusted estimate for family support is compared with costs at that college to see if a student meets its requirements for financial aid and in what form.

"Block Party" Postponed Due To Weather

The old fashioned "Block Party" scheduled at the City Park last Friday night to climax a week-long, city-wide clean-up campaign was cancelled due to inclement weather.

Christene Greene, Operation Sparkle committee chairman, said that the block party would probably be held early in June. Information as to the exact date and time will be released later.

CORRECTION
In the art exhibit story, along with pictures printed in last week's issue of the Free Press, showing pupils of Mrs. Opal Richey's First Grade, the name of Judy Leide should have read Carol Sue Leide.

The information sheet released to this newspaper listed Judy's name instead of Carol Sue Leide, but anyway the Free Press is happy to make the correction.

A SENSELESS WAR

The Oregon State Game Commission Bulletin describes how the real victim of the running battle between the farmer and the sportsman and recreationist is wildlife. In order to discourage city visitors, the farmer also seeks to discourage the visitations of wildlife on his land. "He plows up his hedges and fence rows," says the Bulletin, "not only to halt the spread of noxious weeds, but also to cut down the number of pheasants and quail, which in turn, attract less hunters to trample his crops." On the other hand, "To the public, private property is a dirty word. A clean field is a dump for beer cans, unharvested grain is but to trample, fences are to cut, cattle, rural phone installators and water tanks but to shoot, newspaper columns but a place to grumble about the farmer."

Despite the best effort of game commissions and conservationists throughout the country, wildlife wages a losing struggle unless the public, individually and collectively, shows greater respect for the wild land, property of others and the preservation of wildlife. If given a chance, the game bulletin concludes, "...the farmer will cooperate with the public, for he was a naturalist before they were, and a love of wildlife is inherent in his very nature."

—THIS WEEK'S— SERMONETTE

"LORD, PUT US IN PRISON"

Royce E. Wood, Minister
Christian Church

Many of God's people were prisoners for Him; Joseph, Daniel, Peter, John, Paul and others. We may discern several characteristics in these prisoners that could greatly benefit the cause of Christ today.

First, let us notice the Prisons and Proclamation. It was a prison term that led Joseph to initiate a series of events that caused God's name to be known in all of Egypt. Daniel, when thrust into the lion den, proclaimed respect for Jehovah over all of Darius' kingdom. The Philippian imprisonment of Paul and Silas resulted in conversions! Acts 16. The apprehension and release of Peter and John seemed to embolden their preaching. Acts 5. Lord, if it takes imprisonment to cause thy name to be proclaimed, then put us there!

Second, observe Prisons and Praising. In Acts 16 we find the record of Paul and Silas with their backs covered with lashes and their feet locked in stocks praying and singing at midnight. Lord, put us in prison, if we do not now praise as we should in our freedom!

Third, explore Prisons and Parchments. Paul, writing to Timothy, told him to be sure that he brought the parchments. Paul used his time in prison to study God's Word and to write several of his epistles. We are admonished to study God's Word and the deplorable ignorance of the Bible demands increasing heed to that admonition. Lord, if it takes imprisonment to make us study to show ourselves approved unto thee, then, put us there!

Dr. T. L. Lewis, who has been attending the state dental college at Dallas, came in Tuesday night.

Mr. S. A. Hughes has become associated with Messrs. Foster and Jones, one of our oldest and most extensive real estate firms.

Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Clough and Mrs. Myer and daughter, Miss Katie Myer, were in the city shopping Wednesday.

Evers, the new harness man at Haskell, has the largest stock of horse collars in the county.

Mr. M. S. Pierson, president of the Haskell National Bank, accompanied by his family, who spent the winter in San Antonio for the benefit of Mr. Pierson's health, arrived home Wednesday. Mr. Pierson is looking well and says that his health is greatly improved.

Judge H. G. McConnell made a business trip to Munday yesterday.

The Good Earth

By Mrs. B. F. Cobb

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Black have an unusual and attractive yard.

The first thing that catches one's eye as they enter the yard, is two pecan trees surrounded by white wrought iron fences. The mail box rests on a stand of wrought iron of the same pattern as that of the fences.

To the left of the walk stands two large iron wheels, connected by an axle, with a raised arm that supports one large iron pot and two small bean pots of iron. Cactus of several kinds are growing in the pots.

In the center of the raised arm is a large iron bell, flanked on either side by sad irons. Directly above the bell hangs the name plate of the Black's.

Two pot-bellied stoves, near the porch, holds iron tea pots. Both small and large iron pots parade across the front of the house. Plants of many different flowers are growing in the pots. Near the porch, a statue of a monk stands as if in meditation.

When the flowers come into full bloom the yard will really be attractive, even without blossoms, the scene, created by Mr. Black with his pots of plants, is eye catching.

were greeted by a realistic farm scene...A mesquite tree towered over a scarecrow made from straw and dressed in old clothes. An owl and a crow sat on bales of hay at the feet of the scarecrow. A bale of hay, with an arrangement of yellow iris in an old copper cowbell, acted as a table from which visitors were registered. Theme of the show was...Big Country Roundup.

The Junior Gardeners showed great talent in their entries. Two arrangements especially appealed to me...The Subject Was...Little Stray.

One arrangement was a lonely Florida rose partially hidden in a bed of lacy Schott leaves. I could almost see the little doggie hiding until some cowboy took the wanderer back to the herd. The other arrangement was of one lonely rose sitting bravely in a bed of dead trees offering berries and twisted stalks of the vine. She also stood the show. The judges division. The show was in condition and some blossoms were deep.

Mrs. James Westward of distinction arrangement of dried berries and twisted stalks of the vine. She also stood the show. The judges division. The show was in condition and some blossoms were deep.

Rate Increases For Surface and Airmail In Effect

An increase in international surface and airmail rates went into effect Monday, May 1. Postmaster Tommy Davis, announced today.

The new international rates, he said, do not apply to mailings for members of the Armed Forces overseas. Domestic postage rates are applicable to mail addressed through APO's and FPO's.

The rate increases for both surface and airmail—averaging 13 per cent—were first proposed on January 14 and publicly confirmed on March 1. The Department explained at that time that they were needed to help offset a deficit of about $16-million in international mail operations.

Specific information on the new international rates can be obtained from the service window at the post office, Postmaster Davis said.

"Postage rates for surface first class letters and air letters and surface 3rd class type printed matter to Canada and Mexico correspond to U. S. domestic rates, which are set by the Congress, and are not being changed at this time," Postmaster Davis said.

TAX MAN SAM SEZ

The good tax folks are often asked "What do you do after April 15?" Most of the Internal Revenue employees do the same thing after the filing period that they have been doing all year, since the enforcement program goes on throughout the year.

Only a small part of our Federal taxes are collected on the April 15 deadline. There are many filing dates, and many tax deadlines besides April 15. The tax collection job goes on throughout the year.
