Short Ballot Faces County Voters In Second Primary

$1,058,220 Is Paid During 1965 In Haskell County By Social Security

1,514 people in Haskell County received a total of $1,058,220 in social security benefits in 1965, R. R. Tuley, Jr., social security district manager in Abilene, revealed today, an increase of $144,024 and 96 people over 1964.

A large part of the increase in payments resulted from changes made by the Social Security Amendments of 1965, Tuley said. Those changes which were in addition to the new program of health insurance for the aged, included a 7 per cent increase in month benefits retroactive to January 1965; benefits for widows as early as 60; benefits for full-time students between 18 and 22; benefits for some people over 72 who hadn't worked long enough to get social security before; and the payment of disability insurance benefits to workers who are unable to work because of a disability that lasts 12 months or more.

"In addition," Tuley stated, "a good many older people, upon applying for medicare, found they were eligible for regular social security benefits, too. All in all, the 1965 figures for Haskell County include 787 retired workers, 101 disabled workers and their families, and 448 wives and children of retired or deceased workers. In addition, 178 widows, widowers, or dependent, aged parents receive benefits. The average monthly social security retirement benefit for Haskell County beneficiaries amounted to $68.05 in 1965."

"These figures," Tuley said, show how wide the protection offered by social security has become. Just about every man, woman and child in Haskell County has in social security the assurance that loss of income because of retirement, disability, or death will not result in destitution—and now with medicare the aged have the assurance of help with the costs of operations or medical services."

The hail smashed the glass in the large windows in the west and north sides of the press and engine room Thursday evening. The room was flooded with water and the machinery was wetted and messed to such an extent that the printing of the paper was delayed until Saturday afternoon, hence the failure to reach our subscribers on time.

Mr. J. B. Wadlington of the northeast part of the county is serving on the grand jury this week.

Mr. Jon F. Gilliland of near Carney, who is a candidate for Commissioner in the Haskell precinct, was among the voters in town this week.

Brides Should Have New Names Shown on SS Cards

The month of June is the most popular month for brides. R. R. Tuley, Jr., district manager of social security in Abilene, has an announcement for all the June brides-to-be in his district.

"If you have a social security account number card, be sure to notify your social security office when you change your name. A new card will be issued showing your new name with the same account number, and the social security records will be changed to show your new name.

"There are some 150 million individual accounts in the social security records. Your earnings record is kept according to your name and your social security number, and we want to make sure you get credit for your work," Tuley said.

The people in his office, located at room 2321 Federal Building, will be glad to help you change the name on your social security card or to get a duplicate card if yours is lost. He further stated that application blanks may be obtained from all post offices.

URGE SUPPORT OF VIETNAM EFFORT THROUGH BONDS. Helping mark the Silver Anniversary of the U.S. Savings Bonds program this month, Lyle N. Pearson (right), President of Torginol of America, pledged the support of the entire seamless flooring industry in the national effort to underwrite the nation's efforts in Vietnam through the increased purchase of bonds. Shown with Pearson are Marie Esquivel, "Miss Liberty," and Capt. James C. Maloney who will fly a blimp over parts of the country with the aerial admonition shown above.

Saltiest Ship In The Fleet

When the destroyer USS Morton sailed recently for the Western Pacific, it had on board the first 50 cases of more than 20 tons of iodized salt being given to South Vietnamese civilians by the Morton Salt Company. The remaining 1,000 cases will follow aboard cargo vessels. Off-duty servicemen will distribute the 26-ounce blue packages as part of the Navy's "Project Handclasp" people-to-people program. The 25,000 containers of salt will help meet a basic need for the vital commodity and assist in combating serious goiter problems among the Vietnamese. A later 1,000-case shipment is planned as well. Although the similarity in names is coincidental, a relationship has grown between the nationwide salt company and the destroyer, which proudly flies a flag proclaiming itself "the saltiest ship in the fleet."

THOSE DEPRECIATING PENNIES

Once again the government is endeavoring to hold back inflationary pressures of its own making, by resorting to punitive measures against a single industry. In this case, export quotas have been placed on cattle hides by the U. S. Department of Commerce, in an effort to hold down hide prices and hence the price of shoes.

The effect of the government's action on the price of shoes is nebulous. As vice-president Aled P. Davies of the American Meat Institute points out, hide prices have little to do with the price of shoes. He cites a study by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, indicating that only 6.8 per cent of the retail price of shoes is represented by cured hides. Moreover, from 1951 to 1966, the wholesale price of footwear advanced 17 per cent, while cattle hide prices dropped 44 per cent. He added that measures for controlling inflation exists in the areas of fiscal and monetary policy, particularly in the matter of government spending.

"Business as usual" political spending piled on top of the war in Viet Nam makes inflation inevitable. Business and industry have to operate on the same kind of pennies that the housewife uses to buy groceries. As government policies destroy the value of those pennies, it takes that many more of them to do business.

THE VOICE OF THE MOTORIST

Practically every American family regards the automobile as a necessity. We are a nation on wheels, in which mobility is always the order of the day.

According to Bureau of Public Roads estimates, some 95.6 million Americans are licensed to drive motor vehicles. And, every time they start the engine, they pay a pretty penny for the privilege.

In 1935, says the publication Oil Facts, we Americans paid $7.2 billion in state and federal motor vehicle fuel taxes. That was three times the amount collected 15 years ago. And the gas tax is a good example of how, once government gets its hands into the taxpayers' pockets, it is never satisfied. It digs deeper and deeper.

The tax had humble beginnings. Oregon was the first to levy it at a mere one cent a gallon figure. Since then, it has become universal. State taxes of six cents and more a gallon are general. Then the federal government loads on another four cents. The result is that the tax represents about half of the pre-tax, retail price of regular grade gas. And the pressure for still higher gas is always on.

The voice of the motorist must be constantly heard if any limit at all is to be imposed on this tax. Few out and out luxuries, much less an absolute necessity, bear so heavy a burden. It's time to call a halt to further raids on the motorists' pocketbook.

Working Past 65 May Up Social Security Benefits

People who continue to work, or return to work after applying for social security benefits may qualify for higher payments because of additional earnings. R. R. Tuley, Jr., district manager of the Abilene social security office, announced today.

"The Social Security Administration will use its electronic computers to determine whether recent earnings will increase benefit amounts," according to Tuley. "If so, the increase will be made automatically. In the past it has been necessary for a beneficiary to file an application to have his benefit amount refigured. Now the application is not necessary."

Tuley emphasized that this change should encourage people to file an application for benefits before they become 65. Such an application can be filed as early as three months before one's 65th birthday.

An additional and very important reason is the fact that applicants who file applications during the three-month period before they reach 65 will have medicare protection at the earliest possible date. A delay in filing would, in turn, delay the date their medicare protection would become effective.

Persons born before March 2, 1901, must enroll for medicare before 5/31/66 or be barred from such enrollment until October, 1967, he concluded.

...VE that there is but one true and living God; heaven and earth and all that in them is; the Omega, who ever was, and is and shall be time and Amen; that He is infinitely holy, mighty, tender and glorious; worthy of all possible love and confidence and obedience, majesty, dominion and glory now and forever; and that in the unity of the Father there are three, equal in every divine perfection distinct but harmonious offices in the great work of redemption.

Father—Whose glory is so exceeding bright that man cannot look upon His face and live, but who was so filled with love and pity for His lost and perishing children that He freely gave His only Son to redeem and reconcile them unto Himself.

Son—Co-existent and co-eternal with the Father, received by the Holy Spirit and born of the Virgin Mary upon Himself the form of man, bore our sins, sorrows, and by the shedding of His precious blood on the cross of Calvary purchased redemption for all who would believe upon Him; then, bursting the bonds of death and hell, rose from the grave and ascended on high, sitting at the right hand of the Father, that as the great Mediator between God and man, He might stand at the right hand of the Father making intercession for those for whom He died.

Holy Spirit—The third person of the Godhead, the Father shed abroad, omnipotent, omnipresent, performing an inexpressibly important mission upon the earth, convicting of sin, of righteousness and of judgment, bringing sinners to the Saviour, rebuking, pleading, comforting, guiding, quickening, teaching, glorifying and enduing with power from on high, and leading us into all truth, preparing them for the great day of the Lord's appearing.

The Good Earth

by MRS. R. F. COBB

The "Good Earth" seems rather hot and dry on the surface. Many tractors are bogging down in the fields. Cotton planters are running full force where the fields are dry enough to plant.

Everywhere there is promise of a good year for farming and gardening. The cold changeable weather is retarding growth of plants.

Many throughout town are having trouble with spider mites. These tiny microscopic insects feed on the underside of leaves. They leave tiny webs on the foliage. The web gives a silvered look to leaves.

Red spider mites can usually be controlled by a very strong spray of water. Oil sprays are also often effective. I like to dust the ground with sulphur (either wettable or dusting type) before washing plants to eradicate red spider mites. When the insects are washed off into the sulphur they usually die. The water doesn't always kill the mites and they return later to once more ravage the plant. If water alone is used, wash plants at least once a week until no webs are present.

We sold our place to Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Donham before we had a chance to move back. Our new home is 300 North 14th Street. We are renting my brother's (James Kennedy) house. Many in Haskell know Mr. Kennedy worked on the Shell pipe line, near Mattson, for several years. We bought the car wash from Mr. Donham, and because of the nearness of our business we like this location. As the place has been vacant for several years there will be much work before our beds are ready for planting either a garden or any shrubs or plants. I did set out 12 double petunia plants I purchased at the nursery, two scarlet sage, one malva and one lantana Mrs. Owen Cox gave me. There is a japonica shrub here that is very healthy and strong. It is blooming this 26th day of May. That and two lantana plants were the only flowers left here.

The trees are beautiful; my grandchildren are having the time of their lives climbing trees and swinging from the limbs. I almost have to put some brush on the table to get them to stop climbing long enough to eat.

The house has a warm lived-in feeling and is filled with memories of many happy visits with my brother and his wife when our children were growing up.

Mrs. J. M. Diggs has had a riot of color in her iris beds this year. Deep yellow California poppies blended into the picture. A double row of canna promise color all summer.

Mrs. Paul Kuentler's filling station is a welcome sight as one approaches Haskell from the north. Paul has landscaped his grounds with petunia, canna, iris and hollyhocks.

Mrs. Kuentler is a member of the Haskell Garden Club. She and Paul share a deep interest in the love of flowers.

Controlling Heel Flies In Cattle

By F. W. MARTIN
County Agent

Cattle running across the field with their tails held high in the air or standing in water are pretty good indications that heel flies are busy. The animals try to protect themselves in these ways from the egg-laying flies.

Heel flies, the adult stage of cattle grubs, neither sting nor bite. Instead, they merely attach their eggs to the hairs on the legs and lower body parts of cattle. As the eggs hatch, the small maggots bore through the skin at the base of the hair, enter and migrate through the leg muscles, through the abdominal and chest cavities to the esophagus and neural canal for further maturation.

During the late summer and early fall, the larva move to the animal's back and each forms a pouch under the skin. A month or two later, the full-grown grub emerges through the breathing hole and falls to the ground. It develops into a heel fly within a few weeks.

Heel flies can be effectively controlled only while they are in the animal's body. A number of methods and formulas are available to control them, including sprays, systemics, dips and powders.

Since heel flies travel only a short distance, the controlling of cattle grubs at home will keep the parasites to a minimum.

For details on the control of heel flies, ask your county agricultural agent for Texas Agricultural Extension Publication MP-69L, Texas Guide for Controlling External Parasites of Livestock and Poultry.

When you used to bring the outdoors to look as if you were in the outdoors, it was by using the latest decorating ideas to keep us on the "out" is "in" that confuses us. It's supposed to be the newest outdoor furniture as it is Unexpected places are carpeting is found a swimming pool practical for all, recreation room running right out the result of this new vocabulary for instance, tennis.

2. Cleaning a Hercules olefin carpet is easy. It will get wet if it's outdoors but it will not be harmed by water. Most of it will run off just as water runs off the deck of a boat or the edge of a pool. Spills of food, or trackings of dirt or sand on children's feet are also easily removed. Brushing or carpet sweeping will take care of any dry dirt. Spills of food — even greasy ones — can be wiped up with a damp sponge. A booster shot of a little detergent suds will speed the cleaning job.

3. Choose a color you like — you'll have it a long time. If you want to stick to the greens for real outdoor use you can put down a "lawn green" (which never needs cutting). There are also several other colors now available for indoor-outdoor use. Most effective are the reds which spark up a downstairs room and give a gay "red-carpet" look to the outdoors.

The Children's Corner

The favorite children's classics have thrilled boys and girls for generations. Parents and children are equally well acquainted with the timeless characters in these books and the excitement of their adventures are shared in common.

What father or son could forget the adventures of Jim Hawkins in "Treasure Island" as he thwarts the ambitions of Long John Silver and his treasure-hunting pirate crew?

Mothers and daughters have their favorites, too. It could be Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland," Alice, the White Rabbit and the Cheshire Cat have fired the imaginations of young girls since 1865.

An easy way to obtain a collection of children's classics the whole family can enjoy is to take advantage of a new offering of quality paperback editions of nine favorites—absolutely free. The offer is described on the back of Good Luck Margarine packages. It's a great way for scout and church groups to add to their libraries, too. Z

Water Toll Races Past '65 Shocker

Skyrocketing water sports fatalities accelerating the season's grim rate ahead of the 200 casualties pace last year, prompted the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department to make an "in-between" report as a safety precaution.

Ordinarily the Department informally tabulates the water recreational deaths every two weeks, but reports for one late May week alone reached nineteen drownings from assorted causes.

This increased the total to 73 for the season, six deaths ahead of the mark this time last summer.

The sordid statistics reflected several fatalities from school picnics, traditionally being held at school's end.

Thirteen of the 19 drownings reported to the Department involved youngsters 17 or under. Three 14-year-olds perished; one 11; one 12; one 13; one 15; one 16, and one 17.

Ten of the latest victims were involved in bathing accidents and five in boating mishaps. Three were fishing. An 8-year-old, on an overnight river fishing trip, stumbled on the bank and fell to his death in the Brazos River.

The worst single tragedy occurred when a Kaufman man, his 11-year-old daughter and 4-year-old niece, drowned when their boat capsized in a lake. A Dallas family's fishing trip was

Parks Boom Under Vast 1966 Fling

Mail bags are bulging and wires humming at state parks, according to reports to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

It's all because of the seasonal mass movement into the wide open spaces.

Texas state parks are better prepared than ever. And the tremendous desire in getting away from urban life, combined with the unprecedented interest in travel and water sports, pre-figures a record patronage.

A Department spokesman said all indications point to a total attendance exceeding the record near 10,000,000 total last year.

The new peak is expected to be augmented by complete all-summer readiness of new large all-purpose parks like Lake Whitney State Park in north central Texas and Martin B. Dies (Dam B) State Park near Jasper in East Texas.

These vast installations were so popular last summer that the hustle and bustle of major improvements continued side by side with the gaiety of camp life.

Huntsville State Park, easily accessible from Houston; Garner State Park, in rugged southwest Texas near Uvalde; Lake Corpus Christi State Park near Mathis; Lake Brownwood State Park in west central Texas, and Inks Lake State Park in central Texas, are again reporting huge advance reservations.

This is mainly because of water sports, although Garner has access only to the picturesque ever-flowing Frio River, and Huntsville's pine-ringed lake is too small for anything but fishing boats.

SOLICITS SUPPORT OF PRECINCT 2 VOTERS

I want to again express my sincere appreciation for the fine support and vote given me in the first primary. I have worked very hard to see every voter in the precinct, but of course, have missed some and I want you to take this as a personal solicitation for your vote and influence, if I have failed to see you.

If elected, I want to assure you that the job will receive my full time and undivided attention. I realize that the county business is probably the largest and one of the most complicated businesses in the county and places a tremendous responsibility upon the commissioners. This responsibility I intend to accept and will conduct the affairs of the precinct in an economical, efficient and fair manner.

I will be available at all times to discuss problems of the precinct and will appreciate your suggestions and opinions, for it is through your cooperation that I can serve you best if elected.

I will have experienced, qualified employees to maintain our roads and this will mean better roads, more economically maintained.

Every decision will be an honest one, fair and impartial to the best of my judgement. I will endeavor to keep the people of our precinct informed of what is being done at all times.

I have been in the precinct fifty of my fifty-two years and most of you know me, but I invite those who do not to investigate me as thoroughly as you wish and I believe you will have no doubt of my ability to make you a good commissioner.

Between now and Saturday I will be glad to discuss my campaign with any voter of the precinct.

How To Pick Out The Right Barbecue Grill

The barbecue boom is still booming. Americans are now spending more than $100 million every year for barbecue grills and accessory outdoor cooking equipment and this figure is expected to grow rapidly with population increases, suburban growth trends and the increase in leisure time.

Barbecue buyers face wide choice.

According to recent surveys, about seven out of ten American families cook out of doors frequently, thanks to convenient, inexpensive and easily operated mobile barbecue grills. And with hundreds of different barbecues to choose from — ranging in price from a few dollars to more than a hundred — selection of the proper equipment can be confusing.

In recent years, the round brazier model, generally costing about $15, has been the most popular. However, retailers are reporting a trend to higher quality, better equipped wagon-style models. These bigger units with their full range of equipment until recently were priced in the luxury class. But design improvements and manufacturing advances have brought their cost within reach of any outdoor chef.

"As a result, the two-barbecue family is becoming as commonplace as the two-car family," says Eric Mell, vice president of Tonka Corporation, a leading manufacturer of outdoor barbecues.

"Barbecue enthusiasts are finding the ideal combination is a simple, low-priced grill for barbecuing hamburgers, hot dogs and steaks together with a fully equipped wagon barbecue that challenges the imagination and versatility of the outdoor cook. Lower-priced portable grills with folding or removable legs and carrying handles are ideal for picnics or camping trips, while the big wagon models, complete with smoker hoods and warming ovens, will prepare the most elaborate meals." Mell cautions both novice and experienced backyard chefs to "shop around" and compare before purchasing a barbecue. Designs may seem outwardly similar, but if you compare construction and operating features, you'll discover a wide range of values.

Here are his tips for the prospective barbecue buyer:

- Often overlooked is ease of assembly. Most barbecues are sold "knocked-down" and the impulsive buyer may find himself faced with the prospect of a very late dinner while he fits and tightens dozens of screws and fastenings. Quality barbecue models have major components pre-assembled at the factory and include easily handled fasteners for hoods and sockets for legs. This makes for quick, easy assembly and a more sturdy, durable unit.

Assembly ease is most important.

- Starting and maintaining a good cooking fire is basic in barbecuing and special features have been built into new barbecues to make this easy. One manufacturer has incorporated built-in, adjustable vents to provide adequate draft in bowl-type barbecues and has developed a unique "fire-starter" unit which requires only a sheet or two of newspaper to start charcoal quickly and safely.

- Grill adjustment is critical for anything but the simplest kind of barbecue cooking. The range of adjustment of the grill to the fire makes you the master of your coals, allows you to regulate cooking temperatures. Check carefully the amount of adjustment possible and the ease of operation in the adjusting mechanism. One wagon line, for example, features a self-contained firepan that can be adjusted to eight positive cooking heights beneath the grill.

- Hoods add to the cost of basic barbecue units but they perform useful functions. They reflect heat, a necessity for spit cooking, and shelter food and fire from wind. In more expensive models, hoods are combined with useful warming ovens equipped with vent controls and temperature gauge.

- Once considered accessories, spits and motors are now included with all but the least expensive barbecues. The spit bar and forks should be sturdy enough to hold a sizeable roast or fowl. Look for the Underwriters' Laboratories listing on the motor and be sure the electric cord is long enough. An on-off motor switch and hinged mounting that allows the motor to pivot away for convenient basting are useful features.

- One reason for the growing popularity of wagon barbecues is a smoker door which converts the grill into a true barbecue oven. Enclosed "smoke cooking" gives a juicy, savory barbecue flavor. Check to see that the smoker hood includes a heat-proof oven window, vent controls essential to maintaining cooking temperatures and a temperature-gauge.

- Design innovations have made cleaning your barbecue a simple job. Built-in vent openings and "fire starter" units double as convenient clean-out points for removing ashes. Fire pans of wagon barbecues are usually removable for quick cleaning and the double grills of up-to-date wagon models are sized to permit clean-up in the kitchen sink or dishwasher.

Twin barbecues fit the family.

Many Benefits Derived From Food Packaging

For every dollar spent for food eight to ten cents goes for its packaging, says Mrs. Barbara M. Elliott, County Home Demonstration Agent.

Mar-shoppers criticize packages from time to time. They find packages that won't open, are cracked or damaged, or whose shape will not fit on the storage shelf.

There are, however, several benefits derived from good packages. One is the convenience a good package gives to its user. For example, most milk cartons are equipped with handy pouring spouts that help prevent spillage and waste.

Another benefit is that of safety. Modern packaging has improved so much that we can now store meats, fruits, vegetables and many other foods for months without refrigeration or special care—and then eat them with perfect confidence.

Still another benefit is that of education. Most packages are equipped with labels that give information such as: ingredients, style, serving suggestions, number of servings and quantity of product.

FARM FAMILY HOLDS NUMBER ONE SPOT IN AGRICULTURE

Is the family farm on the way out? "Far from it," reports Tom Prater, Extension farm management specialist at Texas A&M University.

"In fact," said Prater, "according to the 1964 census of agriculture, the number of family farms in the U. S. is growing—and the future looks even brighter."

A 1964 estimate of farm numbers shows that family-operated farms make up about 60 per cent of the total. They also account for about 75 per cent of all farm marketings, said Prater.

Another optimistic note: the most rapidly expanding part of the farm economy, says Prater, is family farms producing $10,000 or more in gross sales annually.

Of all the farms in the U. S. with $10,000 or more in annual sales, 88 per cent are family farms. These family farms account for 67 per cent of the national farm production.

And among larger farms—those with $40,000 or more in annual sales—the rapid increase in family farms is even more noticeable. Estimates are that family farms make up some 40 per cent of these larger units and are growing every day.

The number of all farms in the U. S. is declining, but those which have disappeared were small units, said Prater. Most of those which have dropped from the scene produced less than $2,500 annually in sales. This means production will be concentrated on a smaller number of farms.

During the next five years, Prater sees the number of farms in the $10,000 plus category continuing to grow. Since these are mainly family farms, the bulk of the nation's food and fiber will be produced by farm families who operate and manage their own business.

Retirement Can Be Enjoyed If Home Accidents Don't Mar Your Health

Retirement can be enjoyed if home accidents don't needlessly mar your health. With planning and a little extra effort, most accidents can be avoided, says Mrs. Barbara M. Elliott, County Home Demonstration Agent.

Light can help reduce accidents in dark hallways and on stairways. A bedside light and a flashlight in good working order can be other aids for older citizens.

You can prevent many home accidents by learning to use the stair rail to prevent tripping or falling. Never wear loose shoes when going up or down stairs.

Loose electric cords stretched across the floor are potential causes of home accidents which can result in serious injury. Tape or staples can be used to secure cords away from traffic lanes.

Spilled liquids on the kitchen or bathroom floor are an open invitation to accidents. Spills should be mopped up as quickly as possible. Give special attention to careful removal of any greasy spots, for these are especially dangerous.

Long, loose sleeves or loose cords or ribbons are a safety hazard around the kitchen stove. Loose garments can catch fire quickly, and should never be worn when cooking. The extra minutes required to turn a saucepan handle away from the stove's edge may prevent a serious burn.

"Accidents don't just happen—they are caused. With care and patience, home accidents can be prevented. So safeguard your retirement years by observing home safety rules," says Mrs. Barbara M. Elliott.

Wasted Food

By Mrs. Barbara Elliott, County H. D. Agent

You and your family waste a good deal of food every day, usually without noticing it, states Mrs. Barbara M. Elliott, County Home Demonstration Agent.

Food waste in the United States last year averaged two-thirds pound per person per day, the USDA reports. Since some agricultural food specialists predict a possible food shortage in this country by 1970, homemakers need to start now to make better use of food resources.

Take a look at a typical day in your food preparation and consumption. At breakfast, if you hurry, you spill part of the instant coffee powder. The partially eaten toast, cereal and milk is scraped into the garbage. When you come home from grocery shopping, into the garbage go the wilted lettuce leaves, carrot tops and excess fat from the chuck roast.

As you put away the groceries, you find food in the refrigerator that needs to be thrown away. At dinner time, thick peelings from potatoes go into the garbage and the liquids from the canned beans and peaches go down the drain. You use a lot of water over the potatoes and after they are cooked, throw away the excess. Also thrown away are the drippings that are cooked out of the roast.

This thrown-away food represents not only a waste of food dollars but a waste of your time and energy spent in shopping for and preparing the family's food supply. Even more important are the habits of waste you are developing—and you are not only permitting but setting an example for your children to form habits of wasting food.

Make it a habit to store food promptly. Use stored food while it's still fresh. With good planning, you can cut down on peeling and chopping. Use liquids and drippings from cooking and the liquids drained from canned foods in gravies, soups, sauces and gelatin dishes. Encourage family members to take smaller servings at mealtime.

Know What To Do With Flaming Frying Pan

By Mrs. Barbara M. Elliott
County Home Demonstration Agent

What's one of the most common types of home fires?

According to research statistics, a flaming frying pan is a most common cause of fire in the home. It may result in serious burns or even the destruction of property, warns Mrs. Barbara M. Elliott, County Home Demonstration Agent.

Here are some fire-fighting guidelines to use, if a fire should start in a frying pan. Turn off the gas or electricity. Do not move the pan from the burner, cautions the agent. If a lid is handy, slide the lid over the top of the pan in a motion away from your body, and smother the flames. Do not lower a lid over the flames. This will cause flames to spread sideways and perhaps burn your arm or ignite your clothing or other nearby articles.

If a lid is not available, use salt or baking soda to smother the flame, urges Mrs. Elliott. Simply pour or throw either of the items directly on the flame, but be careful not to push the grease and flames outside the pan. Do not use flour, sugar or water to try to put out the flames. Flour will explode, sugar will burn and water will only push the fire out of the pan onto some other surface.

In addition to remembering these simple hints, it's also a good idea to have a fire extinguisher handy, the agent says.

ROLLING PLAINS INSECT SURVEY TEAMS AT WORK

The Rolling Plains Cotton Insect Survey began June 1 and will continue through August 31. The survey is a part of the overall effort of the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers to achieve control and possible eradication, of the boll weevil from the Rolling Plains of Texas. The cost of the survey is estimated at $30,000.00. Funds are provided on a matching basis by the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers and the Texas Department of Agriculture. The survey will be conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service with Emory Boring, Area Entomologist, as coordinator. County agents in each of the 31 counties involved are responsible for local survey coordination.

occur, and with counties that have organized for early season control.

It is hoped that farmers will quickly learn the fields being surveyed so they can keep up with the insect situation in their community this summer. Regular reports will be issued by the county agents and farmers are urged to contact them.

The insect survey is a fine example of what can be accomplished when farmers band together and the results will be one long step toward control of the boll weevil in the Rolling Plains.

Edward J. 'Sam' Neinast

Solicits the Support and Influence of the Voters for

Commissioner Prec. 4

I have made an effort to see all the voters of Prec. 4 since the first primary, but am sure I have not seen some of you, so would like for you to see this as a personal solicitation for your vote and presence in the second primary, Saturday, June the 11th.

Check my qualifications as thoroughly as you can before voting and I feel that you will find I am capable of handling the job.

If elected I assure you that taxes will be held to a minimum and the county's business will be conducted in an economical, business-like manner at all times.

For the roads of our precinct, I will have qualified and experienced men to maintain them at all times, and will assure good roads at the least possible cost.

If elected I will be glad to discuss any county business with the voters of the precinct at any time and will appreciate your opinion and advice.

Again may I express my appreciation for the fine support I have received and solicit a continuation of your support in the second primary, June fourth.

(Political Adv. Paid for by E. J. Neinast)

problems involved in putting a child into school, keeping him there and educating him well enough to become a productive, happy member of society.

The 65,000 Texas dropouts who should be part of the class of 1966, but who are not, stand in ironic contrast to one man on the moon.

Still more ironic is the probability that not a small number of the 123,166 who are graduating and going on to college, will find themselves in careers that in various respects will be devoted to conquering the social complexities created by school dropouts.

Backaches Caused By Poor Sleeping Positions

Did you ever wake up in the morning with a backache and wonder why? Often a backache "the day after" is caused by exercising too long and too hard, or by lifting something that's too heavy. But lots of times the trouble didn't start the day before, but while you were asleep.

Sleeping in the wrong position can play havoc with your back. For example if you're one of those people who sleeps with your body in a contorted, twisted posture, you are also twisting your spine as you sleep. To do this for several hours at a time is inviting a backache in the morning.

And backaches may be only the beginning of your waking problems. By sleeping in a bad position, you may also be getting less out of your sleep as well as building up tensions that will be with you all day. According to TODAY'S HEALTH, a magazine published by The American Medical Association, people who suffer from back trouble also tend to experience chronic fatigue and tension. Thus a backache resulting from tension in the spine can produce overall tension and fatigue. This makes it doubly important that you sleep in a position which doesn't put a strain on your back.

What can you do to get the most out of your sleeping hours and avoid waking up with these problems? The following suggestions are offered by Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, a major manufacturer of spring wire, used in the construction of quality steel innerspring mattresses:

- First make sure your mattress is well made and not too hard or soft. Remember that you spend about a third of your life in bed and that you deserve a mattress of good quality. Avoid mattresses which are too soft as these tend to make your spine curve, no matter what position you lie in, thus creating an atmosphere for pains and tension.
- Second, make sure you sleep in a position that won't hurt your back. The best position to sleep in is on your side with your knees slightly bent. Some people prefer to lie flat on their backs but it's best to keep your knees slightly bent which is hard to do on your back. Whatever you do avoid a twisted position.
- Third, don't take chances. If you develop persistent back trouble, get in touch with your doctor. Chances are he'll be able to pin-point the cause.

To The Voters Of Precinct 4

I want to express my sincere appreciation for the wonderful support I received in the first primary and for the encouragement I have received while campaigning for the second primary.

I have made a strenuous effort to see everybody since the first primary but of course, this has been impossible in the short time I have had to work. So I want to ask that each and every voter take this as a personal solicitation for your vote and influence.

If you see fit to elect me as your commissioner I want to assure you that my entire time will be devoted to the job. I will put forth every effort to see that county business is conducted in a fair and efficient manner. I will be available and willing, at all times, to discuss the affairs of the county with the voters.

Honesty, efficiency and courtesy will be my policy and any citizen will be welcome at the Commissioners Court meetings.

Again may I solicit your vote and support in the second primary, June 4th.
