Current Annual Taxes Paid By The Railroads In County Total $15,270

Current annual taxes paid to the various government agencies by Texas railroads in Haskell County totaled $15,270, it is announced by the Texas Railroad Association. That amount was the county's share of the more than $10,000,000 the railroads paid in Texas on their own right-of-way and other property. The biggest railroad contribution was the school systems throughout the state. Large sums were also distributed to the city, village and county governments and for road and bridge funds. In addition, of course, was the large total in taxes the railroads' 33,410 Texas employees contributed on their own property. The vast majority of rail workers, many of whom live in Haskell County, own their own homes. "With the future of our country and state depending to a great extent upon the education of our youth, I am delighted that nearly half of the taxes paid by the railroads go to support the schools," said Walter Caven, general counsel of the Texas Railroad Association. "Recognizing this need for education, many of the railroads operating in Texas also make scholarships available to a large number of students every year."

Book Written By Former Haskell County Man Is "Off The Press"

As with the father whose first-born turns out to be triplets, Dr. Kermit E. Brown is amazed at the size of his first book, "Gas Lift Theory and Practice," published recently by Prentice-Hall, Inc. Dr. Brown is head of the petroleum engineering department at the University of Tulsa, Oklahoma. He is the son of J. W. Brown of Paint Creek, and a graduate of Paint Creek High School with the class of 1941. The book stands a foot high, is 8 1/2 inches wide, contains 924 pages, weighs 7 pounds and sells for $35.00. "I don't expect it to make the best-seller lists," Brown said, "but I do think it will sell well within the petroleum industry." The author said the book will enable the petroleum engineer to "bring his mastery of gas lift and multiphase flow up-to-date." Included are complete details for designing gas lift installations, including the design and selection of compressors for gas lift operations. The publishers claim the book will provide the "fundamental material required for the full understanding of modern petroleum engineering technology and offers the most complete coverage of the latest developments in gas lift theory and applications in a single volume." Brown said he and his publishers believe it will be an essential working tool for all petroleum engineers. Well-known throughout the petroleum industry for his technical papers and reports, Brown joined the Tulsa faculty in 1966 after 19 years at the University of Texas. Last fall he was named to occupy the Halliburton Chair in petroleum engineering. At the University of Tulsa he has established an honors program in his teaching field along with a drilling research program for industry. Last summer he represented the United Nations as a consultant in Bolivia for the government-owned oil company.

Drive Underway To Boost Center

James Powell, Haskell County Chairman, for the West Texas Rehabilitation Center, Abilene, is heading a drive for donations for the Center. A financial crisis threatens the survival of the Center, officials revealed a few days ago. Mr. Powell pointed out that the Rehabilitation Center has been used extensively by Haskell County, "and we should do our part toward keeping it in operation." Anyone wishing to contribute to the Center may contact Mr. or Mrs. James Powell, or mail their check direct to the West Texas Rehabilitation Center, Abilene, Texas. Shelley Vance Smith, Executive Director, West Texas Rehabilitation Center, Abilene, will be the guest speaker at the Elementary PTA meeting to be held here Wednesday, January 17, at 3:00 p. m. in the Elementary School cafeteria. Mr. Smith is a high school graduate of Georgetown, and a graduate of Southwestern University. He enrolled at Herman's Hospital School of Physical Therapy at Houston on a March of Dimes grant. Work in the sports field was at the moment, Smith's objective, but experience at Herman soon changed his thinking and he was placed in charge of the emergency polio department. More and more he became drawn to this field of work rather than sports. He began to think about an organization which might be geared to offer therapy for all sorts of disabilities and one location rather than spreading them about a lot of agencies. Smith headed west and went to work as a therapist for handicapped in San Angelo. He was there several months when he heard that the Taylor County Easter Seal Society was thinking of hiring a therapist to work with crippled children in Abilene and from this small three-member staff, Smith, a maid, and one special Education teacher, the Rehabilitation Center, a non-profit organization was born. Fifth grade parents and teachers will be honored at the meeting. Fifth grade room mothers will be hostesses.

C. O. Holt was program chairman for the day, and introduced the guest speaker. "The First Constitutional Convention" was the title of the guest speaker's talk, and he pointed out that the first form of government was the Articles of Confederation. "It took four months to write the Constitution and out of 74 men appointed to write it, 19 of them never showed-up," Fulenwider said. George Washington was chairman of the First Constitutional Convention. Benjamin Franklin, 81, was the oldest member of the group appointed to write the Constitution, and James Madison, 36, the youngest. "Only about five per cent of the people in the United States voted on the Constitution," the speaker said. In closing, the speaker quoted these words from the late John F. Kennedy: "Think not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country."

Your New Social Security

By R. R. Tuley, Jr. District Manager

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one in a series of articles giving the pertinent details of the new provisions in Social Security.

The changes in the social security law signed by President Johnson on January 2, 1968, will mean a benefit increase of at least 13 percent in the social security checks of about 30,500 men, women and children in the 15-county Abilene District.

The Social Security Administration's high speed electronic computers are now figuring the increases and will include the increases in the checks delivered early in March.

Beneficiaries need not take any action to get the increase. It will be sent to them automatically.

Some social security beneficiaries will receive more than a 13 percent increase. The minimum benefit for workers retiring at 65 is increased from $44 to $55.

The last increase in social security benefits amounted to 7 percent, and was effective January 1965.

About 3 out of every 10 beneficiaries receiving an increased check early in March will be someone under 65, many of them the children of working fathers who have died.

The value of social security survivors insurance is often overlooked. Social Security is more than just a retirement system. It is also income protection for the family in case of the breadwinner's death or disability.

With the increased benefit payments provided under the new amendments to the law, the face value of social security survivors insurance protection is increased to about $940 billion. This is just about equivalent to the value of all the private life insurance now in force.

Under the amended law, maximum payments to families now on the social security benefit rolls will go up from currently payable maximum of $309.20 a month to $322.40. In the future, the maximum payable monthly to any one family can be as high as $434.40.

The Exodus of America

By Terry Kay Diggs

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the Essay Contest sponsored recently by the Progressive Study Club, Miss Terry Kay Diggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Diggs, was the recipient of first prize of $10.00. Her winning essay follows:

It began almost three thousand, five hundred years ago—yet a dream ageless to all men who believe in the freedom of self-rule, the liberty of a people too long oppressed. The Exodus—frantic search for a perfect land. Born in the flight of a confused mass of refugees, the search continues even today, still confusedly, still led by refugees from internal peace—once called slaves, now called Americans. The Exodus—the faces change, the tongues become different; only the search itself remains the same.

If but three lines could tell the story of an ageless search perhaps these might tell it best. Perhaps, though, it would best be done by other lines in different rhyme, new key, or foreign tongue. But perhaps, the words themselves do not matter, for in each individual the words vary. Sing, rung, whispered, or shouted, the words are of no importance for the land at the end of the Exodus is perfect and therefore never-changing.

"This land is mine; God gave this land to me." America freely given gift of God. Given not in haste or at a particular moment, but promised to all those who struggle years to find it and given to those who earn it. Earned and given. Earned at Concord, at the Alamo. Earned in a cabin in Illinois, in a beach house on Cape Cod Bay. Earned five thousand times at two Jims, earned ten times more at Gattysburg. Earned not by one but by many; given not by many but by One. Earned and given. May there be no converse lost and taken. Lost in a Watt's riot; in a juvenile court. Lost in a turned-on hippie pad. Lost in the smoke of a burning draft card or the mushroom cloud of an atomic explosion. Earned by many; lost that way, too. Lost by negligence; lost by lack of pride. Lost—or perhaps, never quite found.

"A land where children may run free"

Running free—a jolt of sudden energy felt in those words; the wind felt whipping against your face or the swishing of grass felt about your legs. Running free. Running Americans; but Americans running a clock runs—sometimes too quickly and sometimes too slowly. Running too quickly to become involved, to take a stand; running too slowly when a stand takes us. Running too slowly not to have ample time to criticize; yet, strangely, running too quickly to build or improve. Running too quickly to vote; yet how slowly running to defend the privilege itself! Running slowly so the world will hear the shout. "I am an American, typical and God-fearing"; yet running too quickly to love, to forgive or to even remember on what day Armistice Day falls. Like a rusty machine we run too slowly for quantity and too quickly for quality. Like a machine, America's wheels must be oiled, her engine heated, her coat streamlined for only she herself, as an independent machine, can forge her way out of her now dark wilderness of deeds unremembered, pledges long forgotten, praises yet unsung and thus end her Exodus into light.

Talented Nine Teens Bring Lots Of Good Publicity To Haskell

By MARILYN KUEHLER Young Outlook Editor Abilene Reporter-News

One teen is a loner, two teens is a date, three teens is still a crowd, four teens is a double-date; five teens is almost a fight, six teens is a school play, seven teens is a crowded car and eight teens is a slumber party.

But nine teens? Why this is a group from Haskell High School. Add one teen pianist for accompaniment and you've got an all-girls singing group known as yep, The Nine Teens.

None of the girls are "nineteen," but seniors, juniors and sophomores selected by audition for a place in the group.

Under direction of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Bell (he's the school's music instructor), the Nine Teens stemmed from a 1956 group known as "The Dizzy Dozen."

The earlier group of 12 girls practiced during activity period at Haskell High, but the group soon dissolved.

In 1958, Mrs. Bell reorganized her singers, limited the number to nine, and arranged for practices after school. "Nine Teens" caught on, and yearly the majority of HHS girls turned out for practice.

The typical Nine Teen, said Mrs. Bell, "is a versatile person who is dedicated and will work. The girls chosen are respected by the student body and faculty."

School grades must be maintained, said Mrs. Bell, "and the average is preferably a 'B'. However, a 'C' is permissible."

Graduating seniors' places in the group are filled through audition, with the girls themselves helping in selection.

"The girls are evaluated as they perform," said Mrs. Bell, "and we choose them on the basis of sight reading, music background, range of voice and tone. We also like to select a girl who goes to church."

Mrs. Bell has no trouble in recognizing the character of her girls, for five of them took piano from her during their younger years.

Musical talent runs high, for all of the girls—except one—play either piano or organ. Debbie Darnell plays the oboe. Eight of the girls are in HHS's band group musical instruments include an accordion and ukuleles. Several plan on musical careers after high school.

The two big Nine Teen events for the year are the Christmas Concert and the formal Spring Concert.

Christmas is devoted to carols, but the Spring Concert includes classical, pop, folk and spiritual songs. And the girls work themselves extra, singing and planning dance routines.

"Rehearsals are held for two hours every day and nights for three weeks prior to the concerts," said Mrs. Bell. "We have to do this because, for example in the past 10 days, we have given seven 45-minute shows."

"We push them heavy," she said. "But without this, it would not be the kind of group it is. Besides that, all of our songs are from memory—and we hold no music."

Nine Teens programs this year included performances for HHS Homecoming, Knox City Women's Club, Masonic Eastern Star Dinner at Stamford, and the Christmas Concert.

But the girls aren't the only ones working for the success of the group. Organized as back-ups are the Mom-Teens and the Pop-Teens, for mothers and fathers of Nine Teen members.

Under supervision of Mrs. H. V. Woodard, Mom-Teens take care of props and stage settings and costuming for their daughters. As Daddies usually do, Pop-Teens provide transportation and "dig up greenbacks." They are also called on for night stage work for the concerts and building of the Nine Teens float for Haskell's Christmas Parade.

Mrs. Bell said the Nine Teens is a chartered high school organization, not financed by the school. A basis for finances is collected through yearly $5 dues paid by each girl.

Mrs. Bell said she works with the group "because they bring me pleasure and happiness—I've always wanted to devote myself to girls. I can't thank them for what they've done for the community."

So the girls follow Mrs. Bell's direction both in singing and in her philosophy. How do they feel about the Nine Teens?

Comments like "consider it an honor always wanted to be a Nine Teen" took music from Mrs. Bell and thought group was the greatest" are common.

"Teachers say the nicest girls come from the Nine Teens," said Janis Wall.

"I went to one of the concerts," said Judy Therwhanger, "and just wanted to be part of a great group."

Three-part harmony for such diverse songs has "Ave Maria," and "Born Free," and their favorite "Somewhere Over the Rainbow" are sung by members Sara Yeary, Rhonda Woodard, Judy Therwhanger, Janis Wall, Pam Harris, Jackie Beauchamp, Debbie Darnell, Patricia Toliver, Shiela Gilleland and Beverly Owens.

Officers for this year's Nine Teens are Pat Toliver, president; Shiela Gilleland, vice president; Sara Yeary, secretary, and Debbie Darnell, reporter. Accompanist for the group is Pam Harris.

Kay Newton To Make Tour With McMurry Chanters

Growers Take Steps They Hope Will Lead To Planting of More Cotton

Cotton growers in both the Rolling Plains and High Plains of West Texas have taken steps this week they hope will lead to the planting of a much larger cotton crop under the 1968 farm program.

Directors of the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., and of the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., authorized their executive vice presidents, Charles G. Bragg of RPCG at Stamford and Donald A. Johnson of PCG at Lubbock, to request USDA officials in Washington to extend the sign-up period from March 15 to June 15.

"Directors of the RPCG believe it is imperative that every farmer have an opportunity to plant the largest acreage possible in 1968, based on his individual farm situation," Bragg said here Monday.

"Because of the abnormally small crops in 1966 and 1967, our cotton surplus is gone," he said.

"This could result in permanent damage to the cotton industry through the further loss of markets due to the simple fact that we would not have sufficient stocks on hand to hold our present customers."

Bragg mailed a request to Horace Godfrey, Washington, administrator of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service of the USDA, to extend the 1968 cotton sign-up period from March 15 to June 15. Johnson requested an extension of the sign-up deadline until July 1.

"Godfrey has the authority to make such an extension in the program," Bragg said.

Congressman Omar Burleson of Anson, Congressman Graham Parcell of Wichita Falls and Congressman Robert D. Price of Amarillo said they would keep in touch with top level officials in the USDA in Washington in connection with the matter.

SAGERTON NEWS

MRS. DELBERT LEFEVRE

The cold weather and sickness have kept many at home this past week and no field work has been done in most fields since Christmas. Some farmers still have quite a bit of cotton in the fields.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tabor and daughter of Lubbock visited with Mrs. John L. Brooks and Buelah Mae Summers last weekend.

Larry LeFevre and his roommate, Steve Bowman, both students at McMurry, visited in the Delbert LeFevre home last weekend.

The L.O.C. Home Demonstration Club held their first meeting of this year in the home of Mrs. Emil Mueller in Stamford with nine members present.

The new president, Mrs. John Tichelman, presided at the meeting. Year books were distributed and committees appointed for 1968, and secret pals were drawn.

Those present were: Mmes. John Tichelman, Leonard Kieke, Verlene Corzine, Gene Tichelman, Herbert Stremmel, Herbert Nierdieck, Clarence Tichelman, Hubert Klose, and the hostess.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Herbert Stremmel.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ulmer visited in Hamlin Wednesday of last week with Ray Ulmer, who is a patient at the Hamlin hospital. Mrs. D. A. Ulmer of Hamlin came home with them for the night.

Mrs. Barney Ross is happy to report that her mother, Mrs. Claude Lyons, who is a patient at Hendrick Memorial Hospital, Abilene, is improving slowly.

Stitching And Stewing

By Ruth Ann Fansler County H. D. Agent

Be an individualist. Follow the look that looks best on you, not on someone else you admire.

These guides can help develop an eye for good proportion which is a major factor in the Fashion Forecast for 1968.

With short skirts, wear only short gloves—any longer than wrist length may give an unbalanced look.

Short clothes require short heels. Nothing looks more wrong than a girl in a mini-skirt on tall heels.

The heavier or more textured stockings are, the sturdier the shoe must be. The sheer or lacy leg look goes with more delicate shoes.

Use the luggage-look of bulkier bags with heavier sporty clothes; the neat, sleek look bags with neat, sleek dressier clothes.

Hems on short skirts must have perfectly even hemlines. Shirt cuffs are a marvelous show this fall with jeweled cuff links or clip-on earrings.

For tailored shirts, a collection of ties will add to your individualism. A wide variety is available.

Hair is to be kept neater. There are many kinds of clips, bands and barrettes to help keep hair in place.

Clothes must fit well. Fit is one of the most important things about your look as a stylist.

Good-looking garments begin with a certain construction. Use a pattern line, a minimum seams and few details. Fineness in sleeve shaped areas because be steamed or pressed.

Mercerized cotton, ester or "polyester" may be used. Zippers facings should be Tape, interfacings should have similar the garment fabric.

Avoid seam puckering. Avoid seam puckering. Avoid seam puckering. Avoid seam puckering.

As with all fabric construction, first try out test a test swatch. You use heavy pressure since the fabric is resistant to creasing.

VA Paid Out Estimated $256,409,000 In Compensation and Pensions In '67

The Veterans Administration paid out in 1967 an estimated $256,409,000 in compensation and pension benefits to 247,300 Texas veterans or their survivors, Jack Coker, Manager of the Waco VA Regional Office, announced.

Included in this estimate are increased pension and Vietnam era wartime disability compensation payments provided by the Veterans Pension Readjustment Assistance Act signed by the President last August, Coker said.

Of the estimated $7 billion of all VA expenditures nationally in 1967, approximately 406,300,000 was expended in Texas, Coker explained.

He said that an actual state-by-state count of the veteran population and of VA expenditures by major programs on a fiscal year basis will be available and released in 1968.

Compensation and benefits for approximately 1.5 million American veterans or survivors account for nearly $44 billion of the $7 billion total of VA expenditures this past year.

The next highest VA expenditure in 1967 was for hospital and medical services. To care for all and disabled veterans in its 166 hospitals and 202 outpatient clinics in 1967, VA spent more than $1.3 billion.

VA payments for insurance and indemnities in 1967 totaled nearly $800 million.

Education and training expenditures were the next highest item in the VA's budget this past year. Under this program, which cost approximately $320 million, about 468,000 veterans went to high school, college or postgraduate school, or received on-the-job, farm apprenticeship or flight training in 1967. Additionally, some 37,000 children of veterans who died from a service-connected disability or who are permanently and totally disabled as a result of military service, received about $27 million in educational assistance this past year.

The GI loan programs boosted by the participation of Post-Korean and Vietnam era veterans who accounted for more than two-fifths of the loans with a face value of nearly $3.4 billion in 1967. This past year VA also made slightly more than 12,000 three-year loans valued at nearly $150 million.

As in past years, the cost of administering VA's $7 billion programs of veterans' benefits and services was less than 3 per cent of its total budget.

A fisherman is no better than what he has in his tackle box. And if he goes in for salt water fishing, he needs some specialty items totally unneeded for fresh water fishing. So let's go over some of the basic items needed in the salt water tackle box.

Start with the hooks. Cheap hooks will cost you money in the long run. Stick with plated hooks to help lick the rust problem. Down on the coast the salt air penetrates into everything and unplated hooks can rust out in a hurry.

An ideal way to keep hooks in the tackle box is to put them in a plastic container or screw-top jar. Line the bottom of the container with a rig and soak it with fish oil. This will prevent rust and corrosion.

You might think regular oil will serve the same purpose as fish oil. It will when it comes to preventing rust. But a hook with this kind of oil odor on it will repel fish.

Snaps, swivels and metal line connectors should be stored in similar containers to prevent rust and corrosion.

Be sure to carry sinkers in various weights and shapes. The type of sinker used will be determined by the bottom and water currents.

A metal fish stringer is okay for fresh water but totally unsuited for use in salt water. Again the main problem is rust and Corrosion. Cotton line stringers are okay if new, but the yrot out fast. A stringer made of plastic is best.

Be sure you have some kind of float on the end of the stringer to keep your fish off the bottom. This is the only way to keep crabs from chewing your fish to pieces.

Remember that many species of salt water fish have sharp teeth and fins that can inflict nasty and painful wounds. This means that a fish hook remover is a must item in the tackle box. There are a number of these on the market. Long needle-nose pliers will serve just as well.

A must in every salt water tackle box is reel lubricant. Reels take a big beating in salt water fishing, and if you want to get decent life out of your reel, be sure to oil it frequently.

Although every area has its certain lures that "always catch fish," the same lures you use in fresh water angling will also produce results in salt water. With lures the problem is rust or corrosion on the hooks and metal parts. These must be cleaned frequently.

One of the handiest items in the salt water tackle box is a hook hone. Hooks used in salt water dull faster than in fresh water. Getting a fish on the stringer is often a matter of a sharp point on the hook.

After every salt water trip, close the tackle box tightly and spray it thoroughly with the garden hose.

Then after you wipe off the outside of the box, open it and mop out any moisture inside. Leave the box open and outside in the sun for a good airing and final drying.

IS PROPER TIME FOR MECHANICAL BRUSH CONTROL

Carson is a cooperater with the Wichita-Brazos Soil & Water Conservation District. His farm is located five miles northeast of Haskell. Carson is working through the Great Plains Conservation Program to bring about a complete re-establishment of the farm unit. He feels that brush control and re-seeding of the native pastures will produce an abundant source of high quality forage. Carson does not expect to secure pasture improvement without re-seeding the pastures following mechanical brush control and re-seeding. Past experience has demonstrated to Carson the true value of pasture deferment.

According to Hinds A. McGowen, Jr., Soil Conservation Service Technician at Haskell, the proper time for mechanical brush control is from December 1 through June 1, re-seeding at the same time with grasses adapted to the soils. McGowen stated that mechanical brush control is recommended for most all pastures where the stand of mesquite is dense and the percentage of bare ground in the pasture is high.

McGowen recommended that the assistance of SCS personnel be secured in determining brush densities, selection of adopted species of grasses and methods of brush control most suited to the individual pasture.

Every Effort Needs To Be Made To Grow Dependable Quality Cotton

"Growers cannot expect the short 1967 cotton crop to eliminate permanently the over supply situation and thereby solve one of their most vexing problems," said Charles Bragg, executive vice president of the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., in reviewing the year just passed. "With the changing rural to urban character of our Congress, farmers need to consider the unlikelihood of ever again growing cotton at a profit for government loan," he said. "Furthermore, we must take into consideration the increasing competition of man-made fibers and cotton grown in foreign countries."

"The International Cotton Advisory Committee expects total foreign production last year to exceed by 1.5 million bales the 38-million bale crop of 1966. Much of this is long staple cotton that spinners are demanding. And, because of lower production costs, it can be purchased by the mills at lower cost than the same staple in this country."

It all boils down to the necessity in 1968 of all Rolling Plains growers producing the highest quality cotton they can at the lowest possible cost. Some definite advancements in this direction were made this year, Bragg said.

varieties and staples in the bale. "Some advancement was made during the past year to reduce some of the human error in grading and classing of cotton," Bragg also said. "More and more emphasis will be placed on machine testing of the spinning qualities of cotton produced in the Rolling Plains," he predicts.

"All members of the industry, including growers, ginners and merchants in the Rolling Plains area need to work more closely to produce the best spinning cotton they possibly can at the lowest possible cost."

"Every effort needs to be made to grow dependable quality cotton, the kind a mill buyer can confidently expect to be the quality he wants for his spinning needs," Bragg stated.

More acreage was planted in improved staple varieties in 1967. More ginners exercised greater care to process cotton in their gin yards in blocks in order to maintain varietal purity. Ginners exercised greater care in flushing out their equipment to prevent the mixture of

MUCH THAT IS RIGHT

Those who like to criticize often downgrade the accomplishments of our economic system on the grounds that it has made us a nation of materialistic gadget collectors with a diminishing capacity to pursue or appreciate things of the mind. But, if this were true, why is the educational level of our young people on a constantly rising curve? Why is it that the best-trained minds in medicine, the sciences and the arts, come to the United States from other countries to learn and perfect their abilities in their chosen fields? How is it that this country is concerned with improving opportunities available to those now living at sub-standard levels.

The fact is that the competitive enterprise system produces the material necessities and luxuries of life so efficiently that it does not take all the average family's income just to pay for food, clothing and shelter. There is much left over for a stereo sound system. There is an insurance policy or a savings account for the youngsters' college. There is time to read and learn. There are increasing opportunities to travel. There is political freedom, and the constitutional system that guarantees individual rights and liberties.

Yes, there is much RIGHT with the United States. Because of all the things that are right, we have a far better chance of solving the problems and correcting the inequities that remain with us than any nation of people the world has seen before.

The Good Earth

By Mrs. B. F. Cobb

and Mrs. Edgar Lowe last week were her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Williams of Gorse. Sunday visitors were Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Young of Seymour.

Mrs. Edgar Lowe recently visited her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hubberford and her brother, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Williams in Lubbock.

Mrs. Carlton Couch Sr. had a novel Christmas tree this last Christmas . . . the tree was a Norfolk pine tree grown in a pot. The small limbs had grown about four inches since she had purchased the tree last summer. Mrs. Couch (Hassie) trimmed the little tree with tiny birds from Norway, and gold balls about the size of a B.B. The tree was about 12 inches high. Mrs. Couch has been an avid gardener for years and the tree is one of her greatest delights.

It would be very interesting if mothers with young children would purchase a tree like this and as the children grow, so will the tree. Some people have had only one tree as their children grew into adults. The tree that was purchased when they were wee babes. Memories like these stay with children the rest of their lives.

While the weather is so unsettled and too cold to garden outside, many moments of pleasure can be derived from planting by way of the seed catalogs. Study the different flowers and plants offered in the catalogs and draw a mental picture of the garden you want for next spring. Or, better still, draw a picture of your yard and ink in the flowers and shrubs you wish to plant.

This would be a good time for Haskell Garden Club members to plan what they would like to study for the coming year. We could make this one of the most profitable years if we devote our time to planning ahead. There are so many avenues of horticulture that have not, as yet, been explored. It is fun to explore the many methods of growing. I am constantly trying out new methods throughout the growing season. The result is that I find the one way of growing plants that is best for this climate.

If a more or less carefree garden is desired, plant perennials. They grow year after year with very little care. In this fast age we need things that will only take a small amount of our time.

We should all plant more trees and shrubs to help purify the air.
