"The happiest people are those with the right attitude." Jack Ridlehoover, pastor of the Pioneer Baptist Church, Abilene, told members of the Lions Club at the Tuesday noon-day luncheon meeting at Felker's Restaurant dining room.

Brother Ridlehoover, who is in Haskell this week conducting revival services at the First Baptist Church, was introduced by Troy Culpepper, program chairman for the day.

Asking the question "do you enjoy living", the guest speaker said for some people life is a drudgery, while to many it is a joy.

"Some people live more in one year than others do in a lifetime. To get the most out of life, we must serve humanity and God to make this world a better place to live." Brother Ridlehoover said.

"We need attitude of gratitude, and we should put more emphasis on what we give than what we receive," the speaker said. "Circumstances can make life BETTER or BITTER; it is up to the individual to motivate his life. We should put more emphasis on what we give than what we receive, and share our time and talents with others in order to realize the goodness of God," the speaker said.

Guests noted were Charles Hogan of Lufkin, who is conducting the singing during the First Baptist Church revival; Bob Tuley, of Abilene, and Emily and Elliott Cox. "Prexy" E. W. A graduate of McMurry College, and a native of Haskell County, Mr. Cowan has served as executive vice-president of Chambers of Commerce at Borger, Caldwell, Andrews and Denison.

Cowan said that in the next 25 years, 200 presently existing towns will not exist, because they have not kept up with the changing times.

"The kind of town Haskell will be 25 years from now will be up to its people," the speaker emphasized. "The name of the game is change, and many changes are coming. In the period of one lifetime, we have come from the speed of a horse to the speed of the Jet," Cowan said.

"The towns that can absorb the changes will be those that will survive. We know of towns in this area that at one time were thriving communities, but have died because they have not kept up with the changing times," the speaker said.

It is up to the business men in what he termed "ten mile towns" to see to it those towns survive, Cowan said. Cowan pointed out that the "ten mile" towns are those that were formulated to serve small areas of population before the advent of the automobile. Now

Telephone service to Rule, Rochester and Knox City was knocked out around 5:15 a. m. last Thursday and was out until late Friday, as the result of high winds which snapped some 50 General Telephone Company poles between Rule and Haskell.

Several crews moved into the area to restore service. General Telephone officials expressed thanks to short wave radio operators and others who helped out during the time telephone service was disrupted.

that transportation is much faster and technology has become so sophisticated, it is up to the small towns to keep pace with the growth of technology in order to survive.

He cited history to show how the "ten-mile" towns had been organized for trading purposes along the highway and railroad between Abilene and Wichita Falls. He pointed out that now people could travel easier from Haskell to Abilene, or Wichita Falls, by automobile than their forefathers had been able to travel from their farms to the nearby town.

"Haskell could very easily be the home of persons who would commute as far away as Dallas, or Houston to work," the speaker said. He warned his listeners to think about the future and to make plans for it.

Eleven towns including Houston, Abilene, Munday, Odessa, Weinert, Rochester, O'Brien, Anson, Sagerton, Stamford and Hamlin were represented at the banquet.

Robert Greenroy, retiring president and master of ceremonies, presided over the evening's activities and expressed his appreciation to the other officers and directors, and to all who worked so diligently for the betterment of Haskell the past year.

Due to the death of Mr. Thomas' mother, the family was unable to attend the banquet. Carl Bailey accepted the award for Mr. Thomas, and County Agent Bob Schumann made the presentation.

Rotarians Hear Program On "Agriculture"

"We must encourage our youth in going into agriculture," Willie Medford, a native of Haskell, now Vocational Agriculture teacher, Stamford High School, and also a farmer, told members of the Rotary Club at last Thursday's noon-day luncheon meeting at Felker's Restaurant dining room.

Charlie Conner was program chairman for the day and introduced the guest speaker. "Approximately six million people are producing food for over 200 million persons in America. As farmers are decreasing each year, and the population is increasing, the farmers must produce more food," Mr. Medford said.

"Problems concerning agriculture are lack of land for agricultural purposes; amount of synthetics on the market; and the investment in going into modern day farming," the speaker said.

Mr. Medford pointed out that the farming problems now are no greater than they were in the past, but those problems will definitely have to be solved.

During the business session, the nominating committee submitted the following slate of officers to head the club during the 1968-69 term: President, R. C. Couch, Jr.; vice-president, Eldon Anderson; secretary, Charles Thornhill, and directors Ed Hester and Desmond Dulaney. Election will be held at a later date. Rule Overpowers McAdoo 71-62 For Bi-District

The Rule Bobcats accomplished two "firsts" Tuesday night by defeating the McAdoo Eagles, 71-62, in Class B bi-district basketball.

Their most important "first" was earning the right to compete in the Canyon regional tournament. Their other "first" was chalking up a season record of 26 wins and only three losses, which better their last year's record by one more win.

This win against McAdoo wastime at Canyon this weekend.

especially sweet for the Bobcats, since McAdoo edged them out last year for the right to play in the regionals.

Rule hit 54 per cent from the field against only 29 per cent for McAdoo, which explained some of the Bobcat victory.

But the true explanation for the Rule win seemed to be what everyone was thinking: "A good big team beat a good small team."

High scorer for Rule was Johnny Westbrook with a big 26.

Rule has a 19-game winning streak going, and Rule fans are hoping to see that streak continue.

Bonus Books Mean Extra Values To Those Planning Trip To HemisFair

Extra values as high as 50 per cent are available to persons planning to attend HemisFair in San Antonio through the pre-opening sales of a wide variety of Bonus Books, now on sale through courtesy of the Haskell Free Press.

The Bonus Books range in price from $3.00 to $11.00 and carry admission to various special attractions on the grounds.

The variety includes Books for persons who already have their $2.00 gate admission and those who do not but are just beginning their vacation planning for the April 6-Oct. 6 International Exposition.

The gate admission will offer the holder free access to exhibits of foreign countries from every continent on the globe and a host of industrial pavilions as well as passage throughout the beautiful 92.6-acre fairgrounds.

The Bonus Books, however, include full price tickets to wide-ranging special attractions not included in the regular admission.

A $1.50 savings can be enjoyed on a child's Bonus Book at a cost of $3.00. The special does not include a gate admission, but does include an official guidebook and tickets for one Tower of the Americas elevator ride, skyride, mini-monorail trip, lagoon cruise, three fun rides on Fiesta Island, and admissions to the HemisFair Theme Gallery and the "El Encanto de un Pueblo" (The Magic of a People) exhibit showing new world life and customs in miniature.

The lowest price adult Bonus Book, which does not include a gate admission is available at $5.00, and represents an extra value of 45 per cent, containing tickets worth $7.25 on the Fairgrounds.

It entitles the bearer, after admission, to the tremendous display of exhibits, the guidebook, Tower ride, skyride, mini-monorail, scenic lagoon cruise, one fun ride at Fiesta Island, entrance to "El Encanto de un Pueblo," the HemisFair Theme Gallery and to Laterna Magika, a European hit show combining live actors and films in its first southwest appearance.

For $7.00, the traveler can buy an adult Bonus Book worth $9.85. It includes one gate admission, all the extra values of the $5 bonus book plus two additional rides at Fiesta Island.

The biggest Bonus Book savings, a 44 per cent extra value, includes two adult gate admissions, two tickets each to the Tower of the Americas elevator ride, mini-monorail, two admissions to each of the three exhibits included in the other Books, two fun rides, a guidebook, scenic lagoon cruise and skyride. The book may be purchased for $11.00, a savings of $4.85 under its $15.85 value.

Bonus Books will not be available on the Fairgrounds and are in limited supply. Fair visitors are urged to take advantage of this unique way to save on admission to some of the most exciting attractions at HemisFair before the World's Fair opens on April 6.

The Good Earth

By Mrs. B. F. Cobb

It is going to be hard for me not to believe in the "Moon Book" from now on, as they have hit the weather right on the dot, so far this year. Not hoping them any bad luck, but how nice it will be, if they miss the prediction they made for the month of March. They are calling for dust storms similar to the dust bowl era.

As soon as weather permits, it will be time to prune roses. They can still be given a dormant dusting of wettable sulphur, if one can find a night when the weatherman does not predict a freeze.

If you would like to have spring a little early this year, why not bring in small branches of forsythia, plum, pear, apple or peach and force them into bloom? Insert the twigs in a container of deep water, place in a warm room and in two or three days your reward will be blossoms long before they will bloom on the trees outside.

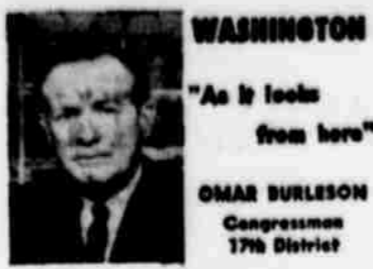

It would be nice to have some blossoms right now to drive away the gloom of a day when one must stay inside for fear of falling.

If hyacinths are out of the ground, a cardboard tube, or a large paper cup, with the bottom removed, will help to make longer flower stems if they are placed over the plants. Some people prefer to cut both ends out of a 46 ounce juice can and put these over the hyacinths; anything that will cause the plants to reach up for its light will stimulate longer growth of the flower stem.

Many who received Poinsettias for Christmas and would like to keep the plant are alarmed because it has dropped all its leaves and bracts. This is just nature's way of giving the plant a rest. Simply withhold all water, except enough to keep the stems from withering, until it is warm enough to take the plant outside. When all danger of frost has passed, find a bed where the plant can have full sun, then plunge the pot into the soil up to the rim; cut the stems back until they are only six inches long; water well and in a few days the Poinsettia will begin to grow. Leave the plant out all summer, but be sure to bring it into the house before the nights become too cool. Cool nights will cause the leaves to drop when the plant is left out and is suddenly carried into the house.

Haskell Garden Club members will have a general round table discussion of "The Favorite Flower In My Garden" when next we meet. Be thinking over your favorite flower, for we will be asking questions and have you discuss how you care for the plant. This should be an interesting program, for we will all have a part in making it worthwhile.

Omar Burleson, M. C. 17th District, Texas

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Congress is facing action on three separate fronts. The first is needed for efforts in Vietnam. The second is the battle against domestic crime and riots. The third to bring a more sound fiscal policy.

While these three confounding issues hold a serious preoccupation of the Congress, attention is being diverted from the internal security aspect of our Nation. For years we have been intensely interested about subversive activities but because of the great demands on time, more recent efforts towards an eye on subversive elements have not been adequate enough.

Although opinions differ among people of good intent, many of the disturbances which have been afflicting our land have been inspired by communists and radicals. Conditions have given them a catalyst and an opportunity to foment civil strife in a most severe form.

These are the people who want to see a disintegration of authority, both governmental and moral. This condition has been fed by the trend in our highest courts to tolerate such action and even assume a posture making it impossible to assert authority.

A number of us in the House of Representatives and others in the Senate, are now working to formulate legislation to plug loopholes discovered in some of our internal security laws and close gaps that have been blasted out by Supreme Court decisions.

As an example of some of these trends, between 1919 and 1942, the Supreme Court accepted jurisdiction in only 11 cases involving communist subversive activities. Seven of these were decided against the radicals and 4 sustained their appeal.

Since 1943 the Supreme Court has accepted 147 cases involving appeals by communists and other subversives. Of these, 93 were decided favorably for those charged and 54 against.

The fact that these radicals can win cases shows the impartiality of our judicial system in which the judges of our highest courts can overlook personal repugnance and grant justice when the law demands justice.

At the same time these statistics show it has gone far to accept jurisdiction in border-line cases and has tortured the law in such a way that there is an imbalance weight against the safety of our Nation.

The Supreme Court recently ruled void the law on the statute books making it illegal for subversive elements or members of an organization found to be a communist front to hold jobs in defense plants.

We propose to draft another provision which we hope to have enacted into law to cure this situation. In addition, it is hoped to absolutely prevent those who have been identified with subversive groups to hold positions in a labor organization, public schools or Federal agencies. The Subversive Activities Control Board, which has been virtually paralyzed since the Supreme Court struck down laws requiring communists to register will be revitalized. Under our proposal the Board will be empowered to determine who and what is inimical to the best interest of the Country. Since the Court's decision on a number of Federal cases have left a blank for our legal protection in this regard, greater tools are needed for our internal security.

Other probable features of legislation being drafted are protection of Federal employees from reprisals for giving information to Congressional Committees which might implicate their superior's wrong-doing; making failure to surrender a U. S. passport upon request a heavy penal offense; providing severe penalties for collusion with foreign governments to evade U. S. passport regulations; deny tax-exemption status to any organization making contributions to any group, or individual found on the subversive list.

Starting Good Heart And Health Habits Early Is Very Important

"As the twig is bent, so is the tree inclined."

This ancient maxim is something to remember when you consider the forces which in later years will shape your children's susceptibility to heart attack.

If good heart and health habits are begun early in life and retained, the individual's risk of heart attack is vastly improved.

The amount, character and frequency of exercise varies with age and with the individual. Generally, it can be stated that children with healthy hearts need have no fear of frequent and strenuous exercise. Adults, on the other hand, probably should not take strenuous exertions to which they are not accustomed. It is extremely important to develop in children an interest in physical activities which they can carry through adult life.

One way to promote physical fitness is to choose an activity in which the entire family can participate—bowling, golfing, bike riding, hiking, etc.

Why is exercise important? Not only does it build muscle tone and burn-off excess calories, but also it seems to be an important factor in reducing the risk of heart attack. Studies show that men who lead sedentary lives run a far higher risk than those who are physically active.

Explain to your children, with the hope of giving them longer and happier lives, the facts about cigarette smoking.

Young people are less likely to start the habit if their parents don't smoke and if they realize the fact that death rates from heart attacks in men range from 50 to 200 per cent higher among cigarette smokers than among non-smokers, depending on the amount smoked.

It has been shown that in the majority of families where parents don't smoke, neither do the youngsters.

The earlier a person begins to smoke, the greater the risk to his health in future years.

Parents should acquaint children with the fact that heart and circulatory disease is the nation's foremost health enemy, being responsible for more than 54 per cent of all deaths.

Literature available at your Heart Association will be most helpful in giving your children a realistic appreciation of the vital role of the heart and circulation in sustaining health and life. Encourage periodic physical check-ups by your family physician.

Explain to your children just how important it is, after they become adults, to have the doctor keep careful watch on health including one's blood pressure. If this disorder is found, the doctor can almost always treat it successfully, further helping to guard against the risk of heart attack.

Finally, parents should support their Heart Association through their gifts of time and money to the Heart Fund. It is their one opportunity to have an active part in the fight against heart and blood vessel diseases.

During four days in the nation's capital city, the young people will visit various governmental agencies and sites of historical significance. the nation. Each of the Youth Tour participants will be given a set of colored slides showing highlights of the Washington trip, Lester said. It is expected that the young people will use the slides in reporting highlights to local groups such as youth groups, service clubs, church groups, farm groups, or any organization desiring an interesting program for its meeting.

OUTDOORS -IN- TEXAS

By Vern Sanford

A truly American game bird is the wild turkey. It is native only to the North American continent. It was unknown before discovery of the new world.

Today there are more wild turkeys in Texas than in any other state. Our turkey population exceeds 100,000. Runner-up is Pennsylvania, with an estimated 10,000. Quite a difference!

Primarily, the two species found in Texas are the Merriam's and the Rio Grande varieties. However, some of the eastern wild turkey race have been released in East Texas. The eastern wild turkey is the most common of the six different varieties of this wild bird. It is the one that was eaten at the first Thanksgiving dinner.

History reveals many references to the wild turkeys by our earliest explorers. Flocks of 50 or more birds seem to have been common, and a number of writers reported observing more than 1,000 turkeys in a single day's travel.

In the beginning, the bird was not "many-wary" and it did not develop its extreme wariness of the human for many years after the arrival of the white man in America.

Literature reveals that the utilization of the wild turkey by Indians varied greatly. Some western tribes considered the hunting of these large birds as a social taboo. Others looked upon turkey hunting as a job only for children. However, most eastern tribes utilized the turkey both as food and for decoration. They used the feathers for dressing up clothes and headdress. Also for fletching their hunting arrows.

Spanish explorers who entered Mexico in the early 16th century found the Mexican turkey in both wild and domestic stages.

Cortez is credited with having introduced the turkey into Europe. He obtained a number of the domesticated birds from the Aztec Indians and carried them via ship to his native Spain in 1519. By 1530 the turkey had spread to Germany, and within a few years, England.

In 1693, Don Carlos de Seguenza, a Spanish citizen, in describing the area between Pensacola, Florida, and Mobile, Ala-hama, wrote, "The meat and game which are eaten include deer, buffalo, bear and native hens which have the same shape and are as large as the European turkey." This would indicate that the turkey had become well established in Europe, and Europeans now considered it as a species native to their country.

But once man increased in numbers, the demise of the wild turkey was dramatic. By the early 1900's, as a result of uncontrolled market slaughter and with farms replacing forests, the turkey population had been eliminated over much of its primary range. As early as 1854, a law was passed in Alabama which provided a closed season in some counties on wild turkeys.

Today the wild turkey is making a comeback not only in Texas, but throughout the entire United States. Many factors have contributed to this comeback. Among the most important are better protection for wild game, restocking, and improved methods of turkey management.

Gov. John Connally said due to HemisFair, Texas tourism is expected to be at an all-time high, perhaps even bigger than it will be in 1969.

Connally unveiled the official travel trails during the conference, and delegates were briefed on promoting local areas to attract the fair visitor, as the state's tourism industry turned full attention to HemisFair for 1968.

Jim Gaines, chief executive officer of the international exposition, also said the state itself will gain upwards of $18 million from new spending.

"There is no way that you can get to HemisFair without traveling through a lot of Texas - both going and coming," Gaines said.

Modern Homeowners Want Maintenance - Free Living

What does the homebuyer expect to receive for his money in 1968?

According to housing experts it is no longer enough to offer the homebuyer a house that provides shelter. He wants more value for his money.

Experts say the homeowner demands built-in conveniences, better building materials, and maintenance-free living. Homes must be designed with the entire family in mind. Typical plans should include: children's playrooms, spacious living rooms, luxurious bedrooms, study areas, sewing centers, workshops, well-equipped kitchens, hobby hide-aways and garages with ample wall storage.

Sensible room arrangements are a must and should provide good traffic patterns. Modern living also requires that there be plenty of convenient storage space located throughout the house.

The homebuyer, who now spends so much of his time outdoors, also wants an atrium or sheltered patio for family gatherings and informal entertaining, and he also enjoys having a pool in the backyard.

He looks for a house that combines beauty, durability and low care. Many builders achieve this, say the experts, through the proper use of building materials.

Many new houses feature the luxury look of hardboard paneling, which is attractive and easy to keep clean. Hardboard paneling is being used by many builders in family rooms, dens, dining areas, kitchens, bathrooms and living rooms, bedrooms and living rooms, as well as in hallways and garages. It

Highway Patrol Investigated Seven Rural Accidents In County In Jan.

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated seven accidents on rural highways in Haskell County during the month of January, according to Sergeant Frank Jirek, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

The crashes resulted in two persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $5,450.00.

Set Jirek pointed out that April 15 is the deadline to have motor vehicles inspected and reminded car owners that under new provisions of the law there will be additional inspection this year including: steering, wheels and tires, and front seat belts, where the anchorages are part of the manufacturer's original equipment.

Motorists who wait until the last weeks of the inspection period may find that they will need to install seat belts. With

STRICT ENFORCEMENT COULD REDUCE TRAFFIC TOLL NOW

Strict, fair enforcement of traffic laws could immediately reduce the state's high accident tolls, an official of the Texas Safety Association said today.

"The seriousness of the traffic accident problem in our state demands prompt and fruitful action," Robert F. Miller, TSA Vice-President for Traffic Safety and President, Trinity University Insurance Company, Dallas, said, and added: "Strict and fair enforcement of existing traffic laws can produce prompt improvement."

He said studies show that traffic law enforcement "unquestionably" plays a major role in effectively reducing accidents and pointed out that in a recent California study, total accidents dropped 13.3 per cent when the number of patrolmen was doubled on a section of U. S. Highway 101. Injury accidents dropped 24.1 per cent and property damage accidents decreased 5.1. It was estimated that five lives were saved and 133 fewer persons were injured as a result of the added enforcement.

The Safety Association officer noted that studies also show enforcement reduces accident costs significantly. A study by the University of Wyoming showed that for every additional dollar spent on the highway patrol, there was an average reduction of over $10 in accident costs.

In further commenting on the economic losses caused by traffic accidents, Mr. Miller said rising auto insurance rates are directly related to increases in accidents and their costs.

"When the number of accidents are reduced and the cost of accidents lowered, then insurance rates will be lowered also," he explained.

In addition to strict traffic safety activities at the local level "where the ultimate solution to our traffic safety problems rests."

The Texas Safety Association has stepped-up its traffic safety activities and is supporting a comprehensive action program calling for the establishment of more than 150 local safety councils in counties where active citizens' traffic safety organizations are not now in operation.

"The statewide safety organization is providing the tools for local groups to promote traffic safety. A complete package program is now available to any group interested in organizing a traffic safety council.

VA Questions and Answers

Editor's Note: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative questions. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q-I am a Viet-Nam Era veteran, married, and plan to take college courses under the new G. I. Bill. I know the educational allowance for a veteran with one dependent is $155 a month for full time enrollment, $115 for three-quarter time, and $75 for half time in college. But how many semester hours are required in these classifications?

A-Full time college training means 14 or more semester hours or the equivalent; three-quarter time training consists of 10 to 13 semester hours; and half-time is 7 to 9 semester hours of college courses or the equivalent.

Q-I understand most VA benefits are tax exempt and do not need to be reported as income. Is there any VA derived income that a veteran must report as taxable income?

A-Yes, a veteran who holds a G. I. insurance participating policy and has left his dividends on deposit with the VA has a source of income in the interest that these dividends are drawing. This must be reported as income. The dividends themselves, however, are tax free and need not be reported as income.

Q-As a widow of a retired officer, I am drawing a portion of my husband's retirement pay for my five children under the Servicemen's Family Protection Program. Does this preclude my children's receiving a survivor's pension allowance from the VA and college educational assistance under the Orphan's Educational Assistance program?

A-Your children may receive pension payments from the VA and may continue to receive them while attending college. But the fact that they are receiving pension indicates your husband did not die from service-connected causes, so the children are not eligible for the Orphan's Educational Assistance program.

THE EDUCATED MAN

U. S. Census Bureau statistics indicate that a college education is one of the best "investments" that a young man can make. For example, between the ages of 22 and 65, a person with eighth-grade education can expect to earn a total of $445,000. Four years of high school boosts lifetime earnings to $623,000, and those with four or more years of college may expect to earn $1,125 million by retirement. Earning capability has long been used as an inducement for a college education...but statistics do not tell the whole story.

Far more than earning ability is required today. Business leaders all over the country are warning that private citizens and business executives in particular must participate to a greater extent in public affairs, and must exert more initiative in helping to solve the social and economic problems of our time. The alternative is gradual submergence of our liberties in a sea of governmental bureaucracy and centralized authority.

A college degree looked upon solely as a source of superior earning ability often becomes no more than a license to exploit fellow citizens. The horizon of the truly educated man includes deep concern for the political and economic system under which he is privileged to live.

SEE ABOUT MEDICARE THREE MONTHS BEFORE THAT 65TH BIRTHDAY

Haskell county residents should get in touch with their social security representatives before the month they become 65.

That's the advice of Don Austin, social security field representative, who will be at the City Hall Annex, Haskell, on every Thursday in March at 10 a. m.

Eligibility for full medicare coverage is assured only if an application is filed during the three months before the month a person becomes 65, according to Austin. Even if one is still working, with no retirement, or if one worked under social security, this deadline applies.

(Actually, most people call during the day, when we charge our regular rates.) But long distance callers aren't interested in explanations. The only thing they care about is calling for the cheapest possible price. So to get more for their money, they devised a scheme you might call The Waiting Game. The idea is to do just what the name implies: Wait and wait and wait and wait. Because they know if they can hold out till after 7 p.m. or any time of the day on Saturday or Sunday, they can call anywhere in the country for a dollar or less. Which just goes to prove that anyone can afford to call long distance. Provided they know how to play The Waiting Game. General Telephone A dollar goes a long way.

Your New Social Security

By R. R. Tuley, Jr., District Manager

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one in a series of articles giving the pertinent details of the new provisions in Social Security.

Here are some of the more important improvements in the

Stitching And Stewing

By Ruth Ann Fanster, County H. D. Agent

The right kind of clothing can be a great asset in the growth of your child. The wrong kind of clothing makes good social adjustment slower.

Most important to a child is that his clothing conform to the style accepted by his friends. Being different is synonymous with being inferior.

A child wants clothes that get attention and approval. He wants clothes he thinks are pretty. Beauty viewed through the eyes of a child is very different from an adult's viewpoint.

A child wants to be independent. Self-help features include (1) front openings, easy to fasten, (2) garments with few large buttons and (3) designs that do not need buttons are features that assist in developing independence in your child.

A child wants clothes that are his own. At age 2 or 3, a child will not object to hand-me-down clothing; at 8 or 9 he usually objects.

Children like to help choose their clothes. A child wants clothes that stand hard and are fun. Quality of material and workmanship are unimportant to a child.

Children dislike garments that hamper activities. Too loose medicare program under the social security amendments signed by President Johnson on January 2.

Payment for Doctor Bills
Medicare beneficiaries whose physicians prefer to bill them directly instead of billing Medicare will no longer have to pay the bill and get it receipted before they can collect Medicare payments.

Under the old law, if the doctor did not want to submit his bill to Medicare, a Medicare beneficiary had to pay the bill and get it itemized and receipted in order to claim payment from Medicare. As of January 1, 1968, all the patient needs to send in with his request for payment is an itemized bill, even if he has not yet paid the doctor. If the doctor's office will fill out the bottom part of the standard Request for Payment form, this will serve as the itemized bill.

More Hospital Days Covered
Also as of January 1, a person covered under the hospital insurance part of Medicare will be eligible for 60 additional days of care partly paid for by Medicare. This is a "lifetime reserve" that you can draw upon if you have used up the 90 days in a "spell of sickness." During these additional days, your Medicare will pay all but $20 a day of your covered hospital expenses.

As before, a "spell" does not include a day period in which you were in any hospital or home. When a spell ends, you again become eligible for up to 90 days of Medicare benefits. To serve, however, is not to be served, and none of it is to be served after you use it.
