Nominations being accepted for Man and Woman of the Year

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

Put those thinking caps on and get ready to turn in those nominations for 2019 Man and Woman of the Year. Nominations are now being accepted at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce and winners will be announced at the upcoming Chamber Extravaganza in 2020.

“It’s never too early to start thinking about who has made an impact on this community over the past year,” Debby ValVerde, Executive Director of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, said. “There are a lot of people who make a positive impact on a daily basis, but often stay behind the scenes. This is a great way to let them know we see their dedication to our community and they are appreciated.”

Nominations for Man and Woman of the Year must be submitted by a

VFW seeks membership to keep doors open 87 year history could be ending without new members

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

Just because the service is complete doesn’t mean the support is done.

The local VFW Post 2013 originally opened its doors on March 18, 1932, and was named in memoriam of SSGT Edward G. Christensen and PFC Sterling F. Tucker. For the past 87 years, the VFW has been serving as a place for combat veterans to come together, but in recent years membership has been declining.

“For the past 10 years our membership had declined, and we are at a point now, if we don’t gain new and active members, we could be forced to shut our doors,” VFW Commander David Leonard said.

SSGT Christensen was a 1940 graduate of Big Spring High School. He enlisted in the military in August 1942. After he completed basic training and received flexible aerial gunnery training, he was assigned to a combat crew for further training in gun positions on the B-17 aircraft. He was assigned to the 560th Bomb Squadron of the 388th Bomb Group and flew bombing missions from Knettishall, England.

As part of his assignment, he was scheduled to fly on a bombing raid to Bordeaux, France on Sept. 16, 1943. The primary target, along with the secondary target were obscured and could not be fired upon. After the two failed attempts, the command was given to seek targets of opportunity, which turned the formation to Pallice, however the mission came with a cost. The three aircraft ran out of fuel and were forced down.

SSGT Christensen’s aircraft and his remains were recovered in the North Sea, just off the English Channel. He was returned to the U.S. for burial at Fort Sam Houston National Cemetery.

“One of the main reasons we need to keep the VFW open is to ensure the history is not forgotten; the history of the veterans who have served and given the ultimate sacrifice, especially the history of SSGT Christensen and PFC Tucker,” he said.

PFC Sterling F. Tucker was a 1942 Big Spring High School graduate. He enlisted in January 1943 and began his military career. He received training with the combat engineers and was assigned to the 295th Combat Engineers, Company A, Tomahawk Division. His unit was activated on March 3, 1943, at Camp Shelby, Mississippi. He was part of the second front after D-Day; they landed on Omaha Beach on June 18, 1944. His company was assigned to seize, repair, and operate the locks on the Vire River. The purpose was to assist the 30th

Chamber member, but the nominee can be any resident in the Howard County area. A committee made up of community leaders will vote and make the final selection on the 2019 Man and Woman of the year, based on their contributions to the community.

"Nominations must include examples of how the nominee has contributed to the betterment of Big Spring and the surrounding area. This is an opportunity for the contributions that have been made to be highlighted," she said.

According to the nomination application, nominees should have a consistent track record of accomplishments rather than being honored for a single act or merit; although a single contribution or achievement is not ruled out if its of sufficient importance.

Last year's winners were Jerry Grimes and JoAnn Staulcup, who will be in attendance to announce this year's winners.

"We have a long list of people who have given so much to our community and it is through their hard work and dedication that Big Spring has advanced the way it has over the years," ValVerde said. "We have a large group of people who work behind the scenes ensuring that people see the positive things that Big Spring has to offer; many of them like to avoid the spotlight and do most of the work behind the scenes, we want to let them know without them Big Spring and Howard County wouldn't be what it is today. We appreciate all that you do and all that you will continue to do."

Applications for nominations can be picked up at 215 W. Third during business hours. For more information, call 432-263-7641.

Infantry Division in its initial operation, who was supposed to cross the Vire River and advance further. After serving almost two years, PFC Sterling was killed in action on March 21, 1945. His remains were returned to his family and buried at Mount Olive Cemetery.

"If we forget our veterans and their sacrifices then who will be here to tell the younger generations about them. If our history is forgotten, how will our youth learn about the sacrifices and the importance of those sacrifices," Leonard said.

According to Leonard, the VFW has 46 members, but has an average age of 55. The majority of members come from the Vietnam Era and the Iraq and Afghanistan wars. The majority of the World War II veterans have passed, which has lowered the membership numbers.

"Our veterans need to have a place to go. The VFW can serve as that place of fellowship, of support and a source of information," he said. "There are a lot of benefits out there available to Veterans and new stuff is coming out all the time. The VFW can serve as a local meeting place that can help you get connected to the VA, with the Texas Veteran Commission and other resources."

Those who are looking at getting involved with the VFW are encouraged to attend a meeting and to bring a copy of DD214.

In addition to being a connection to local resources and support groups, the VFW hosts a couple of annual fundraisers in the community. The VFW will be at Walmart in November for their annual fundraiser, with more details to come. Another source of fundraising comes from the rental of the VFW Post.

"Our ideal membership goal would be to draw in more of the Iraq and Afghanistan War veterans. We want to draw in the younger veterans which would allow us to get more involved in the community and hopefully become an icon in the community," Leonard said.

For those wanting to find out more about the VFW or to get involved, contact David Leonard at 432-816-6004. For those looking to rent the venue, contact Steve Turner at 432-270-5043.

Texas has few female game wardens

When Cynde Aguilar was growing up in Colorado City she had thoughts of becoming a teacher. But when her mom became a police dispatcher she had second thoughts. “These law enforcement guys were so nice,” says Cynde.

She attended Angelo State University in San Angelo and obtained a degree in criminal justice.

During her senior year a recruiter from Texas Parks and Wildlife went to the campus and Cynde visited with him.

“To be a game warden you have to have a 4-year degree,” she says. “I was a couple of weeks away from graduating so I threw my name in the hat. I was one of over 900 applicants and they took 40 of us and the rest is history. I attended the 7-month game warden academy in Austin.

When it was over they put you where there’s a need and I got sent right back here to San Angelo. I call it back home because I’ve lived here longer than I lived in Colorado City. I’ve been here 15 years. I was the first female in this region which stretches all the way from here to El Paso, to Del Rio, to Lubbock

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

I’ve been accepted here and that makes me really love this job. There’s something new every day.”

Texas has 533 game wardens. 33 of them are women.

“The turnover rate isn’t high at all. So once you get this job, you stay.”

Most people think game wardens are only involved with hunting and fishing. “But what they don’t know is we’re state police officers and do everything law enforcement agencies do like arrest people for all kinds of crimes. I do a lot of BWI’s, boating while intoxicated.

We also are called to do some federal work through the Department of Interior. We help out in natural disasters like hurricanes. We helped with the raid on the FLDS ranch in Eldorado and when the space shuttle Columbia exploded we got called to help pick up the pieces. We do undercover work. I have been sent to South Carolina, Louisiana and all over Texas.”

It is highly unusual to find Cynde in her office. “The greatest thing about our job is we work outdoors.

They give you a boat, a truck, a kayak, a 4-wheeler and you get out and go to work. I like being out there, meeting people and educating them about rules and regulations. I go to schools and tell kids about hunting and fishing laws. That’s what I enjoy doing most. We’re conservation officers. We protect the natural resources of the state of Texas. That’s the bread and butter of our job.”

Cynde has come across some unusual situations late at night. “Hunters go hunting then they like to drink at night and that’s fine. So when we go onto their camp or whatever and show up announced, we catch them off guard. They’re not always happy about that. So when you have eight intoxicated grown men and you have a woman come in demanding to see things like the deer and licenses, it’s kind of scary. But I’ve gotten used to it.”

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sincere thanks

Dear Editor:

On Sept. 12 through the 14th, four veterans including myself were honored by the DAV Chapter 47 of Big Spring to bird hunt. What an honor to have been chosen to participate as an honoree with three other veterans. We had a great time reminiscing our experiences in the military and in combat. It brought back a lot of good and bad memories and helped me to bring closure to some of these memories that has been haunting me for the last 50 years.

I will never forget how we, the Vietnam Veterans, were treated when we returned from Vietnam. This weekend was a great success in the healing process.

Here is a list of people who made this great honor possible: Moss Creek Ranch, lodging and rifle range; Wishbone Ranch, dove huntin and cat fish fry; Martin Family, breakfast; Al’s Barbeque, lunch and evening sides; Hill Family, dinner under the stars; Howard County Republicans, breakfast; Carlos Payen, moon art; Gerald King, medal art; Benny Matlock (A1 Graphics), coolers and daily drinks; Darrel Butts (Snap On), gun cases; Holcomb Family, shot guns; Mike Bagwell, shirts; Quilts of Valor, quilts; Jodey C. Arrington (U.S. Congressman 19th District), American Flags; Drew Darby (Texas State Congressman District 72), Texas Flags; Andon Specialties Inc., Ally Outdoors Gift Cards; and All the past honorees and the bird dogs.

I also want to make a special thank you to Mike Tarpley, for his work and dedication on behalf of the veterans of the area and for making the bird hunt possible. Also, I would like to thank the City of Big Spring and the citizens of Big Spring for all their support. We are truly blessed to live in a country we call the United States of America. May God continued to bless this great nation of ours.

Sincerely,

Eddie Hatch

What’s in a hot dog?

We’ve long been led to believe that we “can’t know the players without a program.” However, it’s generally agreed that they are needed for sports purists who want to identify all of the players, from the “stars to the scrubs.”

At the State Fair of Texas in Dallas—where they feature three football games annually during the event’s three-week run—attendees gobbling foodstuff on the midway may need programs to know with specificity what’s going down their gullets.

Or, maybe legal briefs at the corn dog place might be most helpful in determining contents of whatever adorns sticks that have been popular there for the better part of a century.

The masses, of course, won’t care as long as they think they’re putting away Fletcher’s corn dogs.

For many of us, a hot dog is a hot dog, ad infinitum. For political rallies and such where economies were stretched to the utmost, hot dogs “with all the trimmings” often were reason enough for folks to attend. (In many cases, “all the trimmings” included mustard and relish, with a splash of chili on rare occasions.

Wieners were usually encased in “day-old” buns, and wrapped in cheapest napkins.)

The late Hardy Reed, a long-ago friend who was a self-taught chef in our hometown, often was engaged to serve “hot dogs by the tub” for large crowds in Brownwood.

Smiling, he offered a definition for the hot dogs he served. “They’re barely an excuse for jaws to be moving.”

It’s not a laughing matter in Dallas, however. The Fletcher family—credited with originating deep-fried corn dogs at the State Fair of Texas back in the 1940s—has arrived at “splitsville” over naming rights.

The trademark lawsuit filed by Fletcher’s “Original State Fair Corny Dogs LLC” alleges “willful infringement and unfair competition.”

Defendants are Victoria Warner Fletcher and her daughter, Jace Fletcher Christensen, as well as their company, “Fletcher-Warner Holdings, LLC.”

Details of the lawsuit boggle the mind. Suffice it to say, however, that when a product generates more than $150 million in sales since it was introduced is far more than “an excuse for jaws to be moving.”

Christiansen and her mother, “estranged members of the Fletcher family,” claim to have rights to using “Fletch” as a trademark name.

A century ago, Christiansen’s great-grandfather, Neil and his brother Carl were vaudeville performers. They were offered a State Fair food booth, and Neil’s “deep fry discovery” was off and running.

Many notables have offered long-heard “plugs” for the State Fair feature. They include Oprah Winfrey, Julia Child and Mikhail Gorbachev, former Soviet Union leader.

While Fletcher descendants ran the business for years, the trademark was eventually sold to Tyson Foods and Sara Lee Foods, a subsidiary.

Earlier this year, however, all trademark rights were assigned back to the Fetters.

Claiming that her new restaurant will feature original food recipes with artisan cheese, Christiansen promises a menu “devoid of preservatives.”

With an opening coinciding with the dates of the 2019 State Fair, “Fletch’s” promises a menu that is “modern, hip and health-focused”....on a stick.

Fair-goers, I’m thinking, will give little thought to litigation—midway-born or otherwise—as they traverse the grounds. For most, diets will be put “on hold,” with eyes usually darting to whatever offerings begin with “deep-fried.”

For massive appetites, new offerings this year will range in cost from $5-$15, and big-eaters on the midway had best bring along a $100 bill if they want to consume many of the new items. They include Ruth’s stuffed taco cone, Fla’Mango tango, Fernie’s friend burnt-end burritos, Calypso Island shrimp bowl, big red chicken bread, peanut butter cup snookie, and Texas cream corn casserole fritters.

After all the food places have been frequented—and there are many—Alka-Seltzer booths should do well.

There’s bound to be long lines of fair-goers who can’t believe they ate the whole thing.

Buffaloes fall to Wildcats, 45-13

The Wink Wildcats dominated and defended their home turf against the Forsan Buffaloes Friday night, with a 45-13 victory. As the Buffaloes headed to Wink looking to continue their winning streak for the fourth straight week, the Wildcats were at home preparing a defense the Buffaloes couldn't break through.

While the Buffaloes gave their all and played hard until the final seconds of the game, the Wildcats came out with the win with 45-13 on the scoreboard at the final buzzer.

The Wildcats showed the Buffaloes they weren't playing around, scoring the first touchdown early in the first quarter. That initial touchdown got under the Buffaloes skin and awaked a fight inside the herd, but the Wildcats held control of the first quarter with a score of 7-0.

During the second quarter, the Buffaloes rallied together and executed a few plays well enough to carry them to the endzone. Buffalo Cayden Morgan ended up making his mark on the game, catching the ball in the endzone and placing Forsan on the scoreboard in the second quarter.

The Buffaloes weren't able to complete the extra point, and their score remained at 6. The Wildcats headed into halftime in the lead with 26-6 on the scoreboard.

Halftime served as a good motivation period and quick rest for the Buffalo herd. The boys came back out on the field ready to place a few more points on the board. During the third quarter, sophomore Chris Mendez, #21, scored the next and final touchdown of the night for Forsan.

As the clock wound down in the fourth quarter, Forsan regained

Canyon soars over Steers, 62-0

By Erica Morse

Herald Sports Contributor

Early Friday afternoon, the Steers loaded the buses and headed to Canyon, Texas, in hopes of claiming another win for the season, but this week, the Eagles proved to be too much for them.

The problems the team has experienced throughout the year - and the spread - continued to grow this week for Big Spring's Varsity Football team, as the Steers lost to the Eagles of Canyon 62-0 in the second shutout in a row.

The Steers went up against another strong defense in last night's non-conference game, getting shut down on every play. The young Steers team struggled on both offense and defense, as Canyon went in for the kill. This year, the team is relearning to work as a unit, since several of the seasoned players graduated last year.

The Eagles used every advantage they had against the Steers, including the sheer size of the team; adding insult to injury, Canyon rotated in new players every few minutes - a rotation the Steers couldn't afford, leaving an exhausted Steer defense. With a roster almost double Big Spring's, Canyon's Coach pulled out every trick to shut down and shut out the Steers.

While the game was not called on account of rain, the rain came pouring down in the final quarter and forced many out of the stadium with four minutes remaining, as members of the Canyon crew advised spectators to evacuate.

With Mother Nature helping yet another helping hand to the Eagles, they took it - and Canyon ran out the clock, while both teams cleared the field.

The frustration of the loss was evident in the stand, in the coaching staff and in Steer Nation. A comment was not able to be obtained from Steers Coach Cannon McWilliams before deadline.

Big Spring Steers will try to turn it around next week when they face the Demons of Dumas here at home in non-conference play.

Game time is 7 p.m. at Memorial Stadium. After the matchup against Dumas, the Steers will have an open week which will allow them to regroup, rethink and re-strategize.

Here's looking at you, Big Spring

By MATTHEW HORTON
HERALD Intern

For many years growing up, I would spend a week or so every summer at my grandparents' house in Big Spring. As the days remaining there inevitably winded down, I'd often look out the window at their yard and its sloping incline of grass that gave way to gnarled mesquite trees mixed with pine and the mountain and blue sky beyond. I always thought if I took in as much as I could and slowed down, time would as well; that I would have that much longer in a place I always considered a second home.

For me, Big Spring always consisted of that window and the view it held, along with the house it belonged to. It was the gravel trails behind my grandparents lot and the sense of adventure that accompanied them. It was the view from a swing on a mountain top to the winding corridors of the museum to the beautiful and odd mix of green and brown of the country club.

And yet, like most of us and the places outside of our own homes that are important to us, our world in those spaces is usually limited. I always knew that I was very much an outsider. I didn't know what day to day life was like beyond my family and their friends, nor did I know the city outside of my own specific context. I may have considered Big Spring a second home, but I was always a visitor.

While I certainly felt this, it wasn't until I was presented with an opportunity to intern for the Herald this past summer that I was able to see another side of the city, and what I found was a city full of people who truly want it to be a great place. People who want to foster a real sense of community and keep the spirit of Big Spring alive.

Big Spring is a city that features not only great design and architecture, something readily available to anyone who visits the Settles or the Municipal Auditorium. For a real sense of history and how deep the roots of the city run, one only has to go explore the exhibits of the Heritage Museum and Hanger 25 Air Museum, or take a trip to the pristine Historic Spring. A drive up the winding roads of the state park features landscapes that in many ways the place that conjures to mind Texas when people who have never been to the state try to imagine it. There amongst the untamed terrain with views of land dissected by innumerable roads and buildings can a place be found where nature and urbanization meet in a way not afforded to bigger cities.

My short time in Big Spring hardly leads me to feel as if I'm a weathered resident. In many ways, I'll always be that visitor, unable to separate my own personal time and place from any surroundings other than that. But, in my time spent at the Herald, I got a glimpse of the workings of a place that I've spent so much time in without seeing all of. And in doing so, the view from my grandparents' window got that much wider.

Roger's Review

Some of you Regular Readers of Roger's Reviews may have cottoned on to the fact that I enjoy myself a good superhero movie. I generally place super villain movies right up there too ... in theory. In practice, there haven't been just a slew of good super villain movies. "Catwoman." "Suicide Squad." I guess "Despicable Me" was good, and "Megamind" was okay for what it was.

"Joker," the new movie about Batman's arch-nemesis' descent into villainy, is a different animal. It's hard to talk about "Joker" in terms of "good" and "bad." It's quite often very hard to watch. It's protagonist is the definition of "loser...", one of the sorriest individuals I've ever seen on film. But Joaquin Phoenix portrays that loser...and his addiction to the chaos he begins to create in the horrible world of this film's version of Gotham City...brilliantly. It's an uncomfortable movie. We know where the story should end because we know the Joker from the comics, TV shows and movies, but Arthur Fleck at the beginning of "Joker" is pretty far from the super villain we know.

Roger Cline

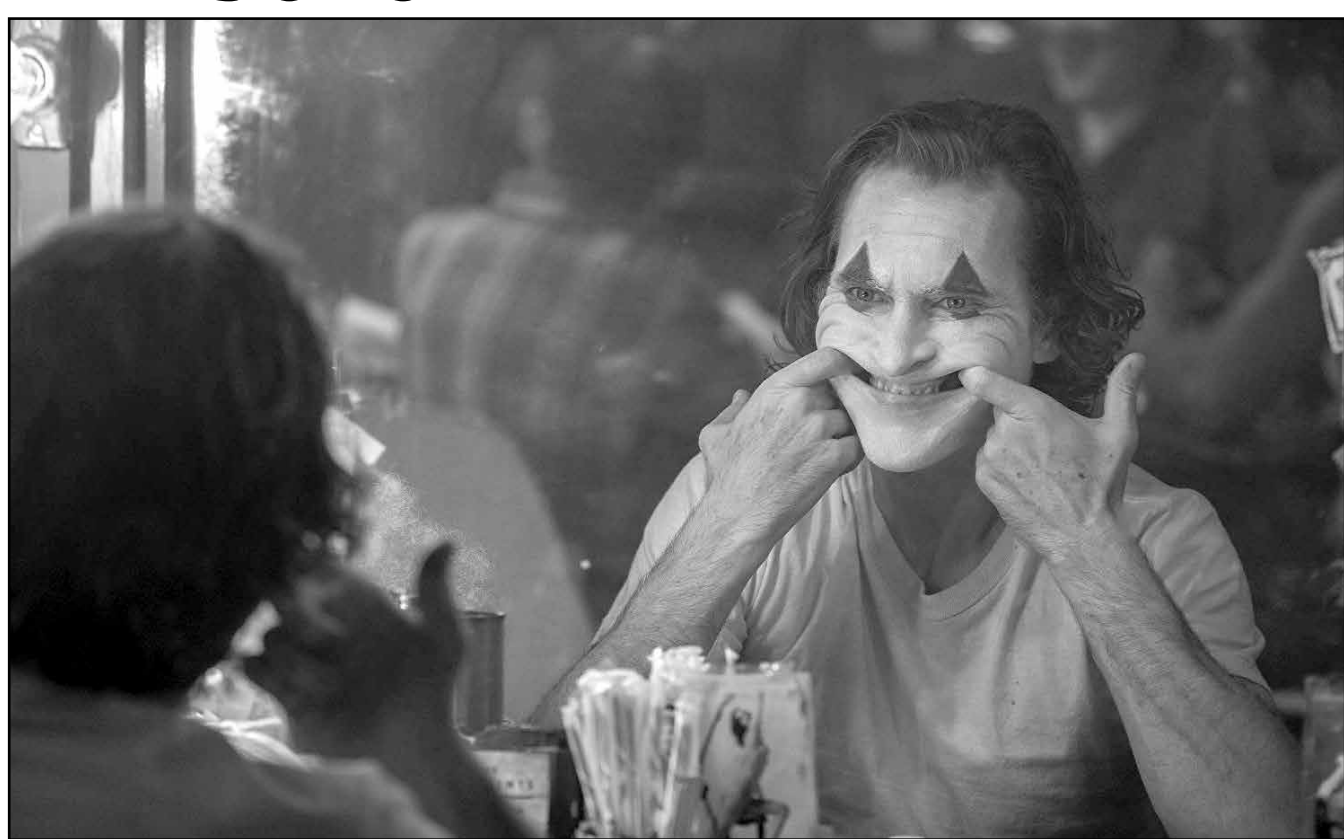

Arthur Fleck (Phoenix) is a loser. He lives with his mom Penny (Frances Conroy) in Gotham City, where he dreams of becoming a stand-up comedian as he works through an agency called "Ha Ha" as a clown for hire. Need a clown? Call Ha Ha and they'll send one out for whatever you need. He also suffers from a neurological condition that causes him to laugh loudly at inappropriate times. Apparently this is a real condition called pseudobulbar affect, which can cause either inappropriate laughter or crying. Look it up. We see him at an appointment with a social worker

One day Arthur is working for a store in his clown suit, spinning an ad sign to attract customers, when a some young men grab the sign out of his hands and run off. Arthur chases them into an alley, where they beat him senseless and smash the sign.

Arthur's co-worker Randall (Glenn Fleshier) hears about the incident and gives him a gun for protection, despite Arthur noting that carrying guns is against the agency's rules.

Arthur meets Sophie (Zazie Beetz), a young single mother who lives in his building and invites her to see his stand-up comedy routine.

Arthur's boss warns him that the store he was working at complained that he didn't return the sign, but gives him another chance - doing his clown routine at a children's hospital ward. In the middle of his act, the gun falls out of his pocket. Despite his pleas that the gun is a prop for a new routine he's working on, Arthur is fired from the clown agency.

Being fired accelerates the downward spiral that is Arthur's life...but I won't spoil things any more for you.

Other characters to look for include talk show host Murray Franklin (Robert De Niro); and billionaire Thomas Wayne (Brett Cullen), his young son Bruce (Dante Pereira-Olson) and their butler Alfred Pennyworth (Douglas Hodge).

I've already said much of what I want to say about "Joker."

It's a story told through a very bleak, depressing filter - as is appropriate for a man working his way up to becoming the clown prince of evil that the Joker is in the comics. It's quite violent. There's a lot of profanity...it earns it's "R" rating. This isn't a superhero movie for kids.

One Facebook post I saw recently compared the tone, violence and aesthetic of "Joker" to another movie starring Robert De Niro...1976's "Taxi Driver."

I'm going to give "Joker" eight and a half stars out of 10. It's a dark work of genius, and it gives insight into a seminal character in the DC universe. That said, parts of it are hard to get through because of the sheer grimness of it.

Check this out, at the library this week

This past week we had our first Tinker Tuesday, an hour of steam challenges, if you missed it we will have the next Tinker Tuesday on November 5th. We invite families to join us for Babytime on Tuesdays at 10:30 a.m. and Storytime on Wednesdays at 10:30 a.m. in the children's room.

This week's reviews include fiction and mystery titles.

"On Earth We're Briefly Gorgeous" (F VUO O) by Ocean Vuong is a letter from a son to a mother who cannot read. Written when the speaker, Little Dog, is in his late twenties, the letter unearths a family's history that began before he was born, a history whose epicenter is rooted in Vietnam and spans to Hartford, Connecticut.

The letter serves as a doorway into parts of his life his mother has never known, all of it leading to an unforgettable revelation. Ocean Vuong writes of people caught between disparate worlds, and asks how we heal and rescue one another without forsaking who we are.

The question of how to survive, and how to make of it a kind of joy, fuels this shattering portrait of a family, a first love, and the redemptive power of storytelling.

Alicia Berenson's life is seemingly perfect in "The Silent Patient" (F MIC A) by Alex Michaelides. A famous painter married to an in-demand fashion photographer, she lives in a grand house overlooking a park in one of London's most desirable areas. One evening her husband Gabriel returns home late from work, and Alicia shoots him five times in the face, and then never speaks another word. Alicia's refusal to talk, or give any kind of explanation, turns a domestic tragedy into something far grander, a mystery that captures the public imagination and casts Alicia into notoriety.

The price of her art skyrockets, and she, the silent patient, is hidden away from the tabloids and spotlight at the Grove, a secure forensic unit in North London. Theo Faber is a criminal psychotherapist, he is captivated by Alicia's story and jumps at the opportunity to work with her.

His determination to get her to talk and unravel the mystery of why she shot her husband takes him down a path more unexpected, more terrifying than he ever imagine, a search for the truth that threatens to consume him.

When Teddy Fay receives a freelance assignment from a gentleman he can't refuse, he jets off to Paris on the hunt for a treasonous criminal in "Skin Game" (M WOO S) by Stuart Woods, Parnell Hall.

But as Teddy unearths more information that just doesn't seem to connect, his straightforward mission becomes far bigger, and stranger, than he could imagine.

The trail of bread crumbs leads to secrets hidden within secrets, evildoers trading in money and power, and a global threat on an unprecedented scale. Under the beautiful veneer of the City of Lights, true villainy lurks in the shadows and Teddy Fay alone can prevent the impending disaster.

Open the files on an anthology of seventeen new crime stories to probe the brutal and complex hearts of criminals and unravel the strangest of mysteries in "Invisible Blood" (M CHI L) edited by Maxim Jakubowski.

A collection of seventeen brand-new crime stories from bestselling authors Lee Child, Jeffrey Deaver, Stella Duffy, and more. A secretive group of intelligence community officers traces Jack Reacher's steps through Heathrow in Lee Child's "Smile".

In Mary Hoffman's "Fallen Woman", a journalist on the trail of a secretive drug lord gets caught up in the violent suicide of a young woman in Siena. And in Jeffrey Deaver's "Connecting the Dots", detectives follow the trail of clues in the brutal killing of a homeless man, wherever it may lead. Invisible Blood is a gripping collection exploring the compulsions of the criminal mind.

Featuring additional stories by Lavie Tidhar, R. J. Ellory, Christopher Fowler, Lauren Henderson, Jason Starr, Stella Duffy, James Grady, Johana Gustawsson, Denise Mina, Bill Beverly, Ken Bruen, Cathi Unsworth, John Harvey, and A. K. Benedict, Invisible Blood is an essential collection of

crime fiction for any fan. Come by the library to check out any of these titles. "Books are a uniquely portable magic." - Stephen King in On Writing.

Howard County Field Day Oct. 8

Big Spring event to focus on brush control;

registration at 8 a.m. at G.C. Broughton Ag Complex

Special to the Herald

The Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service and Howard County Range Committee will hold a free Howard County field day on Oct. 8. The focus of the field day will be brush control.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m. for the program and participants should meet at the G.C. Broughton Ag Complex, 2411 Echols St. in Big Spring.

Lunch is sponsored by Corteva and there will be three Texas Department of Agriculture continuing education units offered, two general and one drift.

"Area landowners continue to be burdened by the encroachment of different brush species and questions on what choices to make when trying to control them," said Tommy Yeater, AgriLife Extension agent for Howard County. "That's why we and the Howard County Range Committee is putting this program on."

Starting at 8:30 the group will travel to Berry

Ranch to see prickly pear plots that have been sprayed with MezaVue. The tour will then continue on to the Sterling Ranch to look at a mesquite and prickly pear plot sprayed with Tordon and Sendero. From there, the tour will visit a plot of white brush treated with Spike. All plots visited will have been sprayed by helicopter.

Speakers for the field day will be Sam Eads, Corteva range and pasture specialist, Abilene; and Eddy Spurgin, U.S. Department of Agriculture- Natural Resources Conservation Service Howard County district conservationist, Big Spring; there will also be a representative from Concho Aviation.

"This will be a very informative field day to look at several different chemicals and several different species of brush that we are trying to control," said Yeater.

TEXAS A&M AGRILIFE EXTENSION

AAA Texas: Statewide gas prices trending cheaper; national average increases slightly

Special to the Herald

The statewide gas price average in Texas is $2.34 for a gallon of regular unleaded fuel, according to the AAA Texas Weekend Gas Watch. That price is three cents less than on this day last week and is 31 cents less per gallon compared to this day last year. Of the major metropolitan areas surveyed in Texas, drivers in El Paso are paying the most on average at $2.62 while drivers in Denison and Sherman are paying the least at $2.24 per gallon. The national average price for a gallon of regular unleaded is $2.66, which is one cent more compared to this day last week and 25 cents less than the price per gallon at this same time last year.

Nearly three weeks after attacks on major Saudi Arabian oil facilities, the majority of Texans are seeing signs of gas prices trending cheaper. While the national average may have increased slightly week-to-week, 10 states saw pump prices decline by a nickel or more. Crude oil prices have dropped close to where they were right before the drone attacks on the Saudi oil facilities. However, drivers along the West Coast region are still experiencing price spikes following a number of refinery outages that have tightened supply in the market.

"Crude oil prices have dropped close to where they were right before the drone attacks on the Saudi oil facilities," said Daniel Armbruster, AAA Texas spokesperson. "Market analysts anticipate that Texans will continue to see cheaper pump prices in the weeks to come."

Prices up to date at press time using market prices posted at 3:41 a.m. Motorists can find current gas prices along their route with the free and revamped AAA App for iPhone, iPad and Android. The app can also be used to map a route and learn traffic conditions along that route, find discounts, locate parking, book a hotel and request and track AAA roadside assistance. Fransisco Dominguez and Darien Stewart are two of seven Texas State Technical College students participating in the Eagle Aviation Repairman Program.

ABILENE - Balancing work and school is not an easy task. But for the right job, some Texas State Technical College students say it is well worth the extra hours.

TSTC students have the opportunity to work with Eagle Aviation part time in the Repairman Program while they pursue their Associate of Applied Science degree or Certificate of Completion in Aircraft Airframe Technology and Aircraft Powerplant Technology.

The Repairman Program is a job offered through Eagle Aviation to TSTC students who enter the aviation maintenance program to start earning experience and seniority in their career field while going to school.

"We currently have seven students working at Eagle Aviation while going to school, and they are looking to hire a couple more this semester," Josh Parker, lead instructor, said. "It's a great opportunity for these students to get on-the-job experience, get paid and see what they're learning in class be applied in real life."

Since the students have not yet earned their mechanic's certificate from the Federal Aviation Administration, they work as repairmen certified to complete certain tasks under the supervision of a licensed mechanic.

"I'm very proud of these students for taking advantage of this great opportunity and doing the work because it is not an easy schedule. But, it pays off in the end," Parker said.

Students are in class Monday through Thursday and work Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, earning either 26 or 30 hours of work a week.

Darien Stewart, a Navy veteran and Abilene native, said the program is worth balancing the hours because it has made him a better student.

"It usually works out that we'll learn something in school, and then I can go to my crew chief at work and see if we have something in the shop that I can work on that aligns with it," Stewart said.

Stewart has worked with Eagle Aviation for a year and a half and plans to stay there after he graduates from TSTC.

For Fransisco Dominguez, from McAllen, aviation is a family affair.

"My dad used to teach aviation at TSTC in Harlingen and then came to work for Eagle Aviation, so he inspired me to pursue aviation and to want to work there," Dominguez said. "Aviation offers a lot of opportunities to do something great; you just have to get started."

Dominguez will celebrate a year with Eagle Aviation on October 12.

Both students encourage anyone interested in aviation to explore the opportunities offered at TSTC.

WHAT'S THE LINK?

Below are two slightly different types of puzzles: Connections and Sequences. There are two Connections puzzles, & two Sequences puzzles.

• Connections: All of the four items shown are connected in some way. Your job is to figure out what the connection is. Look for an interesting connection... "They're all people" might be true, but it's probably not the answer.

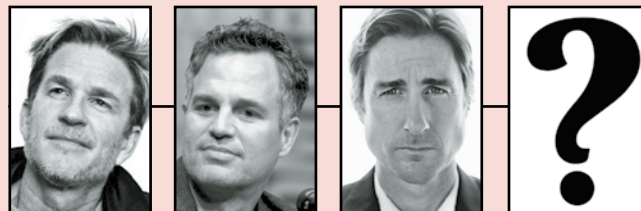

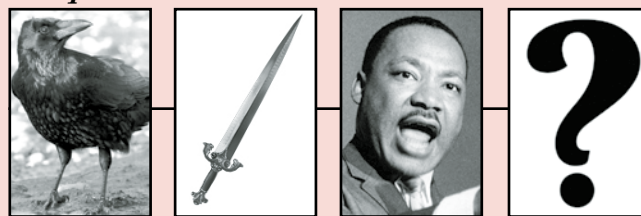

• Sequences: The three items shown will be in a sequence. Your job is to determine and describe an example of an image you would expect to replace the question mark with in order to continue or complete the sequence (i.e. if you were shown 1 - 2 - 3 - ?, the answer would be 4. Also acceptable would be 5...1-2-3-5 being the 2nd through 5th elements in the Fibonacci Sequence).

4 ♣ Pass 4 NT Pass
5 ♥ Pass 6 ♣

Opening lead — eight of diamonds.

Bad bidding sometimes makes for good drama. Witness this deal where South got to six spades. He was clearly entitled to investigate the possibility of a slam after North had raised one spade to two. North might have had a hand that would make six spades a laydown.

South had planned to stop at four if North had bid three spades over three hearts, but when North elected to cuebid four clubs, South pressed on to slam. Having made a slam try with his three-heart bid, South would have been better advised to return to four spades, and North would undoubtedly not have taken another bid.

West led a diamond, won by East with the ace, and — because the lead could have been a singleton — East returned a diamond. This proved fatal, as East later discovered to his sorrow.

South took the king, drew trump and ruffed the nine of diamonds, hoping the queen would fall. When it didn't, South played all his remaining trumps, producing this position:

North
♥ 9
♦ J
♠ A K 3

West East
Immaterial ♥ K Q
♦ Q ♣ 10 6

South
♥ A J 3
♦ Q 9

South cashed his three club tricks, and on the third one, East couldn't afford to part with the queen of diamonds, so he discarded a heart. Declarer then scored the last two tricks with the A-J of hearts.

The outcome would have been different had East shifted to the king of hearts at trick two. This would have severed a crucial line of communication between the North-South hands, and the slam would have gone down one.

Annie's Mailbox

Dining Department

Dear Annie: When I see someone with all four knuckles on top of a fork, I thank my lucky stars for my mother and the many, many lessons she taught me in my 19 years with her. So, Annie, what is the proper way to grasp a fork? -- Thankful in the Bluegrass

Dear Thankful in the Bluegrass: I think you already have a pretty good grasp of the subject, thanks to your dear mother. There's the European, or continental, style of holding a fork, in which the left hand holds the fork, with the tines pointing downward, the index finger resting on the back of the fork. Then there is the American way, in which the fork is held like a pen. In neither style does one grip the fork with all four fingers wrapped around it, "When's dinner"-style.

However, you never know what mobility issues a person might have that might cause him or her to grip utensils in an unusual or "improper" way, so let's withhold judgment.

Dear Annie: I'm in a relationship with "Ben," who is the father of my child. Ben and I have been together for about four years now, and living together for two. Ben is a total momma's boy, the youngest of four siblings and therefore the most spoiled of the four. Since we've been living together, I have to pick up after him and do everything else for him constantly. That seems to be the expectation because he is the one who brings in all the money. On the other hand, I do work hard to take care of our child, and I go to school full-time. Sometimes, I feel like he takes advantage of my kindness and uses me as his maid to get him things whenever he wants them.

For example, we were relaxing and watching TV in bed the other day when he asked me to bring him a bowl of cereal. I really don't think it's fair for him to be asking me to do things when he could easily do them for himself and we're (SET ITAL)both-(END ITAL) relaxing. Am I overreacting? -- Twenty-Three and Confused

Dear Twenty-Three and Confused: If you're going to live together in harmony, Momma's Boy has some growing up to do. Talk to him about how you're feeling. Let him know that you appreciate his hard work but that you are working hard, too. Talk about what you both think is fair in terms of household duties and child-rearing responsibilities. This will be the start of an ongoing conversation. Focus on progress, not perfection. He's not going to change overnight. But if he's open to striving to do better, and if you're open to hearing his point of view, too, you will both be on the path toward not only a happier home life but a healthier relationship.

Dear Annie: Do you have room for one more suggestion to "Sick of Being Treated This Way," who felt that others demeaned her? I'm an active independent 84-year-old woman, but I like to think of situations such as the ones she mentioned as "giving/receiving opportunities." When a person opens a door for you, offers to carry your bags, etc., assume that they are trying to give you a gift -- the gift of assistance, recognition or respect. By accepting that gift graciously, you are giving them a gift in return. So, instead of either taking certain niceties for granted or resenting what we see as condescension, just smile and say, "Why, thank you!" And if you can manage to really mean it, you might find that those three words will make you both feel good. -- Patricia F.

Dear Patricia: It's been quite some time since that letter from "Sick of Being Treated This Way" ran, but I just had to print your follow-up comment. Thanks for writing.

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Rude Opposition

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You won't be ready for the opportunity that arises today, but say yes anyway. You learn faster by doing things before you're ready, and the adrenaline rush will bring forth powers and talents you didn't know you had.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). The sort of love that has to take ownership of a thing isn't love at all; rather, it's the ego trying to bolster itself through acquisition. What you genuinely love will become part of you while somehow still remaining fully autonomous.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You'll come across instances where very talented people seem to think they are exempt from the responsibility of also being good. Of course, this is absurd. Be sure to hold all to the same moral standard.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Toddlers aren't the only ones who benefit from set schedules. Make a plan that will allow you to take as routine an approach as possible to the upcoming week. You'll be happier and more comfortable and successful.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You'll operate somewhere the rules have yet to be established; it's the Wild West. Here, the only thing worse than waiting for permission will be asking for it. In the Wild West, you make your claim and deal with what comes.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You care the most about what happens with a project, and you would probably do a better job than anyone if you were able to do every single job. But of course, that's not possible. Delegate, but retain the right to final approval.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). It's said that "what doesn't kill you makes you stronger," though it's not really true. Events don't "make" us anything. Much depends on our interpretation of them and the next action we take.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Though you may go along with your group, there are a few rules and values you don't agree with. Ultimately you answer to you. As long as you defer to your own code of honor, you'll feel good about what happens.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). The one who shows initiative will be given opportunities that are much different than the ones offered to those who do only as they are told. Any work you do on spec will pay off, though perhaps indirectly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Just because something isn't work doesn't mean that it falls under the category of rejuvenation, refueling or self-care. Tune into what charges your batteries and what simply makes you busy in a nonwork-related way.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Getting physical is the order of the day. There are things that can be expressed, experienced or released in movement that cannot get worked out any other way.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Baby yourself. Check in with yourself every few hours and serve your need of the moment. Today's self-care will ready you to take advantage of opportunities coming your way later this week.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Oct. 6). Dumb luck brings brilliant outcomes. You've a tendency to gravitate toward the action and then pay attention to your environment, making the most of the things you just happen to stumble upon. You'll get a top buyer for your work, property or ideas. You'll take care of people and be much loved in 2020. Cancer and Sagittarius adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 6, 40, 1, 12 and 50.

FORECAST FOR THE WEEK AHEAD: Focus is like Miracle-Gro. It doesn't matter if you pour it on a rose bush or poison ivy; the results are the same. It makes things stronger, bigger and more vibrantly alive.

With a rare opposition of Mercury and Uranus opening the week, unwanted things will be particularly good at grabbing our attention. Problems will wave us down like a fly tube wind-sock with a painted-on face, sky-dancing on the street corner. While it's important to take note of and assess what is actionable, do not dwell on the things that are not going right. Make your workaroud plan and execute it. Don't take the issue head-on, if you can help it. If you fight against the problem, it will only become stronger. Worthy opposition has a way of sharpening both parties. Instead, think about how you might make the matter take up less room in your life. Set boundaries. Erect blinders. Withdraw your attention from the bad and focus on the plan for moving on.

Tuesday, Venus moves from the sign of partnership to the emotionally intense station of Scorpio. In some relationships, this change will put the sizzle on the steak. In other relationships, the steak is ousted for a vegan option.

Guess Who?

I am an actress born in Texas on October 4, 1988. I had minor television roles before I got a break on the popular series Glee. That job helped me land a "super" role as a crime fighter on another popular TV series.

There's a new Chef in town, Chef Sergio Rico

By AMANDA DUFORAT & ANNA GUTTIERR

HERALD Editor/Writer

A five-star dining experience in the heart of Big Spring, hidden inside the Historic Hotel Settles.

While the Settles Grill is not a new restaurant and has actually been thriving for a few years now, the experience has been revamped, with the arrival of a new chef. Chef Sergio Rico, from San Angelo, has spruced up the menu by adding a few new creations for lunch and dinner.

New menu items add a dash of Mexican flavor, with street tacos garnished with queso fresco and pickled onions, alongside smoky chipotle pinto beans and Spanish rice.

Now, being in Texas, we all know if the rice and beans aren't good, well, just leave. I would definitely order this plate again.

"We are purchasing top-quality beef now, which adds another level of excellence paired with Chef Rico's creativity in the kitchen," Hotel Settles General Manager Najam Hasan, said.

For those looking for something a little 'lighter' the brisket nachos -marked as an appetizer, but fit for a meal - are a well paired mixture of Texas flavor.

"The portion size is enough for two or three people to share and the flavor was the perfect mix of everything you think about when you think Texas food," Cindy Jones, said speaking about the brisket nachos.

If you are looking for dinner options, with a little bit of normalcy with a taste for something different, then a huge, bone-in pork chop served with mashed potatoes, sauteed spinach and fried onion strings would be the way to go.

The pork chop is brined which makes it really tender and keeps it from drying out as it's cooking. When I say huge, I mean it. Ask for a to-go box.

Lastly, a personal favorite, the shrimp brochette. This is shrimp stuffed with jalapeno cream cheese and wrapped in bacon. It is served with stone-ground cheese grits which were creamy, cheesy, and oh so good. The shrimp was cooked perfectly which can be difficult to do while still getting the bacon crispy.

For seafood lovers and even those who aren't big on seafood dishes, this is definitely something to try. The bacon flavor overrides the shrimp flavor making you feel like you are outdoors at a barbecue.

Of course the ambience at Hotel Settles is unlike anything else in Big Spring. When looking for something a little out of the ordinary, or an elegant night out, don't dismiss what exists right here in town.

A historic location, a welcoming atmosphere and a top-notch chef who is ready to feed the community is waiting, right under your nose.
