ARANSAS CO. BLACKOUT SET NEXT WEEK

PILOTING

Aransas County citizens should begin now preparing to co-operate to the fullest extent in a practice blackout that is to come within the next week. These practice blackouts are merely preparatory to times in the near future when the "lights out" signal will be given without warning. We don't believe they will ever have to be invoked on citizens of Aransas County, but stern measures are provided to deal with any one who fails to co-operate to the exact letter of instructions.

Seriousness of the war, and how close to home it is coming, was brought forcibly to Oscar Davis, employee of Kane's Cafe, this week. He formerly worked for a cafe in Port Aransas where members of the ill-fated Alan Jackson ate and drank when in port. The Alan Jackson was torpedoed off the east coast Sunday. "I knew most of those boys," Oscar said.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Dickinson had a cheering work from their son, Edgar S. Dickinson Jr. in a letter this week from the Far East. Edgar is in the U. S. Navy, joining in December and is now in the midst of things out in the Pacific. He said he was being well-cared for and everything was nice—even to swimming.

Ray Reazin, Harper Kansas, newspaperman and his wife were visitors in Rockport this past week enjoying fishing. They were guests at Oland's Court and were reported to have had an enjoyable time.

M. A. McClary, out-of-stater who spends his winters on the Gulf Coast, says: "Rockport is the best on the coast—and there is nothing like it anywhere else." He adds emphatically that he has been around on the coast for the past 22 winters and that this is the best spot on the coast and "unless a man's a liar, he won't say that it isn't." Mr. McClary believes so strong in Rockport that he may become a property owner here.

An airplane every four minutes . . . two ships a day . . . a tank every seven minutes. That's the war work schedule that President Roosevelt has set for American industry. That's what 125,000 planes, 75,000 tanks and 10,000,000 tons of shipping mean in terms of actual production. Some idea of the size of the job ahead may be had from the fact that the airplane goal is six times our 1941 output.

Even though it's a big job, industry's past record indicates that it's not too big to handle. It will take hard work, of course, and long hours. We'll all have to get along with fewer of the comforts and conveniences we accepted so casually in peace time. We'll all have to make sacrifices and do our share. But, with a continuous flow of materials and the co-operation of all groups concerned the job can be done.

And it shall be done. That is the important fact. The industrial system that in former years gave us the highest standard of living in the world can now give us the most weapons. In peace time, that system was the envy of our enemies. Now in war time it will be their final destruction.

America has always been a wasteful country. Nature has been so lavish and mass production so prolific that we've had an abundance of everything from crude oil to hair pins. Advertising and attractive prices have encouraged our natural tendency to get something new rather than to patch things up or get along with the old.

Now things are different. Over night, almost, there are shortages. We begin to see dimly for the first time what it would mean to have to make the old thing "do" much longer than we wish—what

Will W. Wood Announces for Sheriff Opening 1942 Political Races

Pioneer Resident of County and Veteran Peace Officer First to Announce.

Will W. Wood, native of Rockport and a veteran peace officer, this week announced his candidacy for the office of sheriff of Aransas County—opening the 1942 political races.

Mr. Wood was born in Rockport, but until last October had resided in San Antonio for some 30 years, where he served as sheriff of Bexar county for four years and as constable for six years, and as deputy sheriff for a number of years.

"We have been making Rockport and Aransas county our home since October 1, 1941," Mr. Wood stated, "renting from James Sorenson manager of Forest Park Cottages. We own property in Aransas county and will build our home as soon as present building conditions will permit."

After handing his announcement to the Pilot this week, Mr. Wood left for San Antonio to accompany Mrs. Wood back to Rockport. They will arrive here this week.

Mr. Wood stated that he was running for the office on his ability to perform the functions of the office of sheriff, and believes that his past experience qualifies him for the position he seeks. He assures the voters that their careful consideration of his candidacy and their votes and support in the forthcoming Democratic primary will be appreciated.

Born in Rockport, Mr. Wood was in the ranching business here many years, and while a resident of this county was at one time Postmaster, United States Deputy Marshal and State Game, Fish and Oyster Commissioner.

Radio Station to Salute Rockport On Lone Star Beer Program, Jan. 27

The City of Rockport will be honored on a program which will be heard on Radio Station KTSA on Tuesday, Jan. 27, 1942 at 12:45 p. m. The program, "The Lone Star Beer Texas Parade," features the music of Adolph Hofner and his boys.

"The Lone Star Brewing Company is very appreciative of the patronage which residents of Rockport and its territory have shown for Lone Star Beer," said Harry Jersig, Vice President and General Manager of the Lone Star Brewing Company, San Antonio.

"On the program which will be heard at 12:45 p. m. Tuesday Jan. 27, 1942 the Lone Star Brewing Company will try to show its appreciation by advertising the city of Rockport to the thousands of KTSA listeners throughout Texas."

"Because of the increasing demand for Lone Star Beer," Mr. Jersig said, "Lone Star brewery at San Antonio has recently expanded the production capacity of the Lone Star Brewery to double its former capacity."

"The Lone Star Brewing is one of Texas' fastest growing industries," said Mr. Jersig. Thousands of loyal Texas folks are proud of the fact that their state now produces a real premium quality beer, which surpasses in quality most out-of-state premium beers sold in Texas."

Funeral Services Held for Richard Bludworth

Funeral services for Richard W. Bludworth, aged 58 were held Saturday, January 17th, 10:00 a. m. at the First Baptist Church, with Rev. James F. Stanley officiating.

Mr. Bludworth, born December 5th 1883, was married to Miss Lenora Bond on December 23rd, 1907, to which union five children were born. He passed away at the Fred Roberts Hospital in Corpus Christi on Thursday, January 15th, after a severe illness.

Survivors include his widow; two sons, Richard William, a Corporal at Chanute Field Illinois; and Robert of Rockport; three daughters, Mrs. William J. McNulty of Dallas; Mrs. F. P. Robertson of Houston, and Loraine Bludworth of Rockport; two brothers, Jim of Alta Loma, and Hubert of Galveston; and two sisters, Mrs. Hannah Culpepper of Beeville, and Mrs. Idah Bond of Houston.

"Shorty" Townsend Enlists with U. S. Coast Guard

E. W. (Shorty) Townsend enlisted Sunday with the United States Coast Guard to become one of a swelling list of volunteers from Rockport. Leaving for Galveston at the time of his enlistment, he is not yet certain where he will be stationed. Townsend has been employed with Westergard-Rice Bros. Co. here in the immediate past.

Bill Gray Enlists With Naval Reserve

Bill Gray underwent a physical examination in Corpus Christi this week, following his enlistment in the Naval Reserve. Subsequent to the final acceptance of his enlistment, however he must take a second examination at a post in Houston, which is expected to be within the next ten days.

Gray has enlisted as a Boatsman 3rd Class, which is equivalent to Coxswain. He has been employed in the immediate past with the St. Charles Bay Hunt Club and has been an active member of the Rockport Volunteer Fire Department.

First War-Time Blackout of County Is Being Arranged for Next Week

Lights to Be Out for One Hour; Twenty Air Raid Stations and Wardens Designated to Carry Out Enforcement Work.

Get set! Next week Rockport citizens will get their first experience in a real war-time blackout.

The first of probably many blackouts to come will be held throughout Aransas County next week and will be one hour long. During the blackout hour no light is to be visible.

County Attorney Emory W.

Judge Fox to Attend Meeting to Arrange General Blackout

County Judge Fox is in receipt of a communication from Wyatt O. Selkirk, Coronet Commanding Matagorda County Civilian Protective Defense Unit.

The communication invites all county judges of the coastal strip to attend a meeting at Bay City on January 23 at 1:00 p. m. to arrange for a general blackout on February 5 of all counties in the territory.

This will in no way conflict with plans of individual county practice blackouts before or after February 5.

Plans will be prepared in co-operation with Army authorities and authority for the blackout will be obtained from the Governor.

Judge Fox will attend the meeting in company with several committee chairmen from the local defense unit.

Results of the meeting will be found in the next issue of the Pilot.

Federal Auto Use Stamps Received At Postoffice

The new federal auto use stamps have arrived at the Rockport post-office and are ready for distribution. Miss Ethel Friend, Postmaster announced Thursday.

The stamps must be attached to all motor vehicles, including automobiles, trucks, motorcycles, trailers, and motorboats, and will sell for $2.09 each.

The way to purchase the stamps is simple. Just know how many stamps you need, and bring along $2.09 for each stamp to cover the cost.

Each purchaser will be given a card to fill out at his home or office which must be sent to the collector of internal revenue at Austin. The card owner must list on the card the make of his vehicle, the body type, the year and the engine number. This card serves as evidence that he has purchased a stamp.

No Duplicates Issued
Persons who lose this card will not be given another.

The postal authorities said they still are without specific information as to where the stamp must be attached on the car, other than it must be attached in a "conspicuous place."

The new stamps are green and approximately 1 1/2 inches wide and two inches long. They carry a picture of the Liberty Bell and inscribed on them are these words: "Federal use tax on motor vehicles, $2.09. This stamp expires June 30, 1942. Keep stamp pasted on vehicle. Stamp is transferable on vehicle. United States Internal Revenue."

Drunken Man Says He Had Green Light

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—A police squad car raced to the scene of an automobile-pedestrian collision and found Verne Osborne, 52, lying on the pavement, his leg broken.

"I had a green light with me," he told the officers.

That was all right except there was no traffic light in the vicinity. He was booked for drunken and careless walking.

Spencer, assistant chief air raid warden, states that preparations are being made for the first blackout of Aransas county under war-time conditions. Exact date of the test blackout is pending information from army officials and the Office of Civilian Defense.

Circulars giving complete instructions for the blackout will be distributed on the day the test is to be made. All citizens are advised of the necessity for the fullest co-operation.

Nineteen air raid warden stations have been designated along with the wardens to be in charge of each station. Each of these wardens is to have at least two assistants. Each of the stations has telephone connections.

A complete list of the designated air raid warden stations and wardens is being published, and Assistant Chief Warden Spencer urges that each warden named notify him of the acceptance of the appointment at once.

Meet Monday Night

Mrs. Alice Thomerson, sheriff of Aransas county and chief air raid warden, has been confined to her home with illness, but the assistant chief warden, Emory Spencer, is carrying forward plans for an immediate practice blackout in the county.

Spencer has called a meeting for Monday night, January 26 at 8 o'clock in the district court room at the court house. He urges that all those who have been designated as air raid wardens attend the meeting so that final plans for the test blackout next week may be made.

"We will expect to call on all citizens for some kind of service, especially members of the Fire department, and American Legion," Spencer said. "Some of those who are now designated as air raid wardens will be called to the army and will have to be replaced and citizens not called for air raid service at this time may expect to serve in the future."

The assistant chief warden urged that at least one woman be named warden at each air raid post.

Black-Out for One Hour

The first practice blackout will be from 9 to 10 o'clock on the night that is to be decided upon, Spencer said. He explained that without the elaborate two-way radio set-ups that are employed in some of the larger cities that a full hour will be required to perfect the blackout in Aransas county.

"This first blackout will be for practice only," Spencer continued. "Probably within the next two weeks this county will participate in a blackout of the entire Gulf coast. Thereafter citizens can expect blackouts without any particular notice or preparation."

It was pointed out that because blackouts will likely be frequent and come unexpectedly on orders from the local defense council or from the Army or Navy, citizens may do well to prepare for them so they will cause as little inconvenience as possible.

"Wherever it is practical and not too expensive the owners of homes and businesses should prepare to blackout all windows and openings so that lights will not shine through," Spencer explained.

"In homes at least one room should be prepared so that lights may be used in it, and this should be a room where the telephone is located, or where radios may be used.

"It is not difficult to blackout by turning off all lights, but this practice will probably cause much inconvenience in the future, especially when the air raid or blackout signals sound without warning."

Traffic to Be Stopped

All traffic will be stopped in Aransas county, as spotted on the roof of the court house.

Official Tire Inspectors Named By Rationing Board

Rockport and Aransas County's Tire Rationing Board, composed of J. E. DeWhitt, Montgomery Drunzer, and J. F. Bullard, met Monday, January 19th, to appoint Tire Inspectors for Aransas County.

The six new inspectors will include Norvell Jackson, G. M. Townsend, Charles Garrett J. W. Sorenson, D. H. Caspary, and Dudley Bracht.

Applications for new tires must be made to the Rationing Board and must be accompanied by a certificate from one of these official Tire Inspectors, stating that the tires of the person presenting the application are in no way able to be repaired or improved.

The Tire Rationing Board will meet on the first and third Mondays of each month at 9:00 a. m. in the County edge's office, and in emergency meetings to consider applications as circumstances dictate.

Auxiliary Firemen Organize Monday; Drill Twice Week

The Auxiliary Firemen met and organized Monday evening at the Fire House, with the meeting presided over by Chief Francis Smith.

Monday and Thursday nights of each week at 7:30 have been designated as drill periods for this group, which will probably include about 20 auxiliaries when present recruiting plans are completed. Training will be under the direction of the Rockport Volunteer Fire Department and Aransas County Emergency Corps.

The first regular drill will be held Thursday evening, and as many men as possible are urged to be present to be in on the "ground floor" of the training.

INDIANS INVEST IN BONDS

OKMULGEE, Okla. — Euchee and Creek Indians of Oklahoma in a special assembly in the inter-tribal council here have voted to spend $400,000 for defense bonds. They voted unanimously to turn over the money, now on deposit in Washington, to the government.

Fishing

MORRISON'S report the following catches and comments during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Renfro, hailing from Frederick Oklahoma, caught a back-breaking string of 300 beautiful specks during their trip this week to Rockport's popular yacht basin, and emphatically state that they are coming back next winter. This was not their first trip here, as they very nearly equalled this season's catch here last year when they brought in some 250 trout.

Two Houstonians, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert West, decided to spend their winter vacation in another sea town, and chose Rockport. They had "a good trip," said the Wests, having caught over a hundred sea trout out of the fish bowl, averaging a gigantic 2 pounds apiece.

Three Waco ladies, Mrs. John Kubitzka, Mrs. Frank Merritt, and Mrs. A. C. Lane, also caught nice strings of trout from the basin, and say they had a "great time coming again."

J. Alliar and H. P. Hill of Springfield Illinois, say that the fishing from Rockport's famous "fish bowl" is "the best in Texas." This is their first trip here, and a profitable one from a fishing standpoint. They reeled in some 225 pounds of trout.

Near-by Victoria lent two of her sons to Rockport this past week when R. E. Powers and V. E. Cockerham made their first visit here. Their nice string averaged over two pounds per fish. "Like it fine," say the Victorians.

Not only Rockport's excellent fishing, but also her excellent tourist courts received high praise this past week when a party from Houston, including C. E. Cumming, Mrs. Cumming, and Eddie Rapp, made the following statement: "Had a good time and the accommodations were splendid." Among the 74 fish they caught (which totaled 125 pounds) was one red fish. The remainder were trout.

Congratulations to Mr. And Mrs. L. Roberts

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Roberts are the proud parents of a baby son born at 9:16 o'clock Saturday night at the Fred Roberts Hospital in Corpus Christi. Young Master Roberts weighed 5 pounds, 4 ounces at birth.

Bank Officers and Directors Re-Elected

At a recent meeting of the officers and board of directors of the First National Bank of Rockport, the following men were re-elected: President, F. W. Heldenfels; vice-president, Fred A. Bracht; cashier, A. C. Glass; assistant cashier, Pat Mixon; Directors, F. W. Heldenfels, Fred A. Bracht, F. W. Heldenfels, Jr., A. C. Glass, and Travis Johnson.

Rockport Men Attend Church Meeting In Port Aransas

Thursday evening several men of the Rockport Presbyterian Church attended a quarterly meeting of the men of the Corpus Christi District of the Presbyterian Church which convened at Port Aransas. Those enjoying the fellowship of the meeting and the splendid program and banquet included Norvell Jackson, Judge James A. Steele, Harry Mills, Fred Brundrett, Evans Corbin, Fancher Archer, Craig Steele, and Rev. T. H. Pollard.

The car owner must list on the card the make of his vehicle, the body type, the year and the engine number. This card serves as evidence that he has purchased a stamp.

No Duplicates Issued Persons who lose this card will not be given another.

The postal authorities said they still are without specific information as to where the stamp must be attached on the car, other than it must be attached in a "conspicuous place"

The new stamps are green and approximately 1 1/2 inches wide and two inches long. They carry a picture of the Liberty Bell and inscribed on them are these words: "Federal use tax on motor vehicles, $2.09. This stamp expires June 30, 1942. Keep stamp pasted on vehicle. Stamp is transferable on vehicle. United States Internal Revenue."

Drunken Man Says He Had Green Light

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—A police squad car raced to the scene of an automobile-pedestrian collision and found Verne Osborne, 52, lying on the pavement, his leg broken. "I had a green light with me," he told the officers.

That was all right except there was no traffic light in the vicinity. He was booked for drunken and careless walking.

Spencer, assistant chief air raid warden, states that preparations are being made for the first blackout of Aransas county under war-time conditions. Exact date of the test blackout is pending information from army officials and the Office of Civilian Defense.

Circulars giving complete instructions for the blackout will be distributed on the day the test is to be made. All citizens are advised of the necessity for the fullest co-operation.

Nineteen air raid warden stations have been designated along with the wardens to be in charge of each station. Each of these wardens is to have at least two assistants. Each of the stations has telephone connections.

A complete list of the designated air raid warden stations and wardens is being published, and Assistant Chief Warden Spencer urges that each warden named notify him of the acceptance of the appointment at once.

Meet Monday Night

Mrs. Alice Thomerson, sheriff of Aransas county and chief air raid warden, has been confined to her home with illness, but the assistant chief warden, Emory Spencer, is carrying forward plans for an immediate practice blackout in the county.

Spencer has called a meeting for Monday night, January 26 at 8 o'clock in the district court room at the court house. He urges that all those who have been designated as air raid wardens attend the meeting so that final plans for the test blackout next week may be made.

"We will expect to call on all citizens for some kind of service, especially members of the Fire department, and American Legion," Spencer said. "Some of those who are now designated as air raid wardens will be called to the army and will have to be replaced and citizens not called for air raid service at this time may expect to serve in the future."

The assistant chief warden urged that at least one woman be named warden at each air raid post.

Black-Out for One Hour

The first practice blackout will be from 9 to 10 o'clock on the night that is to be decided upon, Spencer said. He explained that without the elaborate two-way radio set-ups that are employed in some of the larger cities that a full hour will be required to perfect the blackout in Aransas county.

"This first blackout will be for practice only," Spencer continued. "Probably within the next two weeks this county will participate in a blackout of the entire Gulf coast. Thereafter citizens can expect black-outs without any particular notice or preparation."

It was pointed out that because blackouts will likely be frequent and come unexpectedly on orders from the local defense council or from the Army or Navy, citizens may do well to prepare for them so they will cause as little inconvenience as possible.

"Whenever it is practical and not too expensive the owners of homes and businesses should prepare to blackout all windows and openings so that lights will not shine through," Spencer explained. "In homes at least one room should be prepared so that lights may be used in it, and this should be a room where the telephone is located, or where radios may be used."

"It is not difficult to blackout by turning off all lights, but this practice will probably cause much inconvenience in the future, especially when the air raid or blackout signals sound without warning."

Traffic to Be Stopped

All traffic will be stopped in Aransas county, as spotted on the roof of the court house. (Continued on last page)

How often has it been said "A chain is no stronger than its weakest link." Similarly, a country cannot grow stronger than its weakest subjects. Thank God that here in America we are united as never before to stand as one... to make every link of our National life chain stronger than ever before.

We all know that we will be called upon for extreme sacrifices... we stand ready to accept whatever burden the fruits of victory will surely bring... are willing to pay the price of preserving for us and our posterity the American Way of Life now being attacked. May the New Year bring a quick decisive victory with lasting Peace echoing throughout the universe...

Kathleen Norris Says:

Women Pay Great Price for Indiscretion

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

THERE was a time, not so many dynasties ago, when the New York Giants were the most valuable franchise in baseball—worth more than almost any stock on the big exchange. Now the same Giants are in a spot where it may well take a million dollars to bring them a first-division ball club, where the success of the Brooklyn Dodgers kept them floating neck deep in the surf.

It is a far and eerie cry from McGraw's Giants of 1905 to Mel Ott's Giants of 1942 and the home-run hitter from Gretna, La., has a long and rough pull upward to get them on the old camping grounds. That 1905 delegation was the first batch of McGraw Giants I ever saw in action, and it still remains in memory among the best in the game. At any rate, you'll find no stronger battery work today than Mathewson and McGinnity pitching to Bresnahan.

There was plenty of Irish on that Giant squad—McGinnity, Bresnahan, McGann, Devlin and Mike Donlin, to mention only a few. It was the beginning of a new Giant history that was packed with merry sagas up until the last three years when Bill Terry's material dropped to the second-division class and floundered out of polite baseball society.

The Giants, in their day and time, have had such pitchers as Mathewson, McGinnity, Wiltse, Ames, Marquard, Tesreau, Nehf, Schupp—and the great Hubbell. They have had such ball players as Devlin, Bresnahan, Donlin, Beauty Bancroft, Heinie Groh, Pep Young, Buck Herzog, Larry Doyle, Bill Terry, George Kelly, and a long line of others well up on the list. It is different now.

Ott's Job

No one can expect Mel Ott to reach into the dugout and bring forth a miracle. These are tough rebuilding days for any owner or manager.

You'll read where the Dodgers need maybe two or three additions—where the Cardinals can stand pat—where the Reds need a few changes—where the Pirates need pitchers—but the Giant need takes in the pitching staff, the infield and the outfield.

Mel Ott is a smart, keen baseball man who knows his trade. But he will need at least 10 or 12 new, good ball players before he will be back in old Giant territory, around the top. And good ball players are not picked up around the first corner. It is hard enough to get one or two good new men, much less 10 or 12 or more.

Someone has let the Giant machine go to rust. It will take a large bale of money to have it shining again. MacPhail at Brooklyn has proved the job could be done. But he found no substitute for money on his way up. For that matter, Tom Yawkey and others have found that even money isn't always quite enough, no matter how much you spend.

The Changing Years

I can take you back to the days when the Yankees were struggling on the old hilltop and the Dodgers were just another club in the National league. At this time the Giants were the Mt. Everest of baseball. Under McGraw they were winning 10 pennants. The Yankees and Dodgers were trying to get out of the second division the greater part of the time.

Last fall the Yankees and Dodgers met in the World Series show with the Giants so deep in the second division that it took a deep-sea diver to locate their bodies.

Just who it was that let the Giants go to seed—Stoneman or Terry—isn't so important now if the right move is made to bring them back. But the point is that the Dodgers and the Cardinals are already strongly fixed around the top—the Reds have the pitching that may again carry them close—the Pirates and the Cubs have been building for another upward surge. It is easy enough to understand the killing job Mel Ott faces in clearing most of these hurdles, especially if first baseman Babe Young goes into the army.

My married life was perfect until a man I knew in college turned up in our neighborhood. The story of our affair is not new. All the lessons in the world can't save me from what is going on now.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

NO LANGUAGE is strong enough to convince young boys that theft and forgery are wrong. And not merely wrong in being punishable crimes. Wrong because of what they do to a boy's character, even if he is never found out. Wrong in boyhood, because the stolen quarter or the forged school excuse are steps to more serious forgeries and thefts, and once schooled well in those directions it takes heroic fortitude—it takes indeed a complete change of personality, to resist later temptations.

In the same way I wish I could find words impressive enough to help girls to see just how great is the price women have to pay for that thrilling "giving in" to the young lovers of school and college days.

If your husband told you, one of these cosy winter evenings, that during his senior year at college he supported himself entirely by stealing and forging, you would be horrified. You couldn't laugh it off, tell him that it didn't make the slightest difference to you. You could not honestly say, "I love you for what you are, dear, not for what you were."

Having sold his honor once, you would feel—and the world would feel—he might sell it again. And in exactly the same way a man knows that a girl, who was reckless in giving her favors in girlhood, is not going quite suddenly to attain an entirely different position toward what ought always to be the sacred symbol of her honor.

These are old-fashioned phrases, and to girls mine seems an old-fashioned attitude. But I can assure them that, viewed in the light of later years, they will see the whole thing differently. It would be easier for a young wife to explain to her husband that she lifted some money out of the department-store cash register when she was working there years before her marriage, than to explain that she was intimate for a few months with one of the men who is known to her husband in business.

Buried Secrets Reappear. Of course, if she can avoid it, and hope permanently to avoid it, a girl doesn't tell her prospective husband these things. But that security isn't always as sound as it seems. Hardly a day goes by without bringing me a desperate letter from some young wife who has supposed her secret long forgotten and buried.

Many of these women say that, feeling it would be more comfortable to admit to the affair before marriage and start on an apparently honest basis, they have softened the story by saying that the man was "someone you never met. He died the following year."

This does smooth things over for the moment. Few men, especially in anticipation of an immediate marriage to an adored woman, will waste time on jealousy of a dead man. But matters are much worse when the perverse turn of events brings this man into contact with the family again, and the unsuspecting husband is perhaps cordial to him. So that the wife must either make a clean breast of the whole thing, or put up with the insufferable situation of having a secret with one of the guests of the house that would crush her husband's

NOT WORTH IT No amount of good advice will keep some girls from saying to themselves "Everyone else does it, why shouldn't I?" So they willingly give away their future security and peace of mind. Perhaps they do "get away with it" for a while. But sooner or later they must come face to face with their earlier indiscretion, only to find that it really wasn't worth it after all. Be sure to read Kathleen Norris' advice to the "J. G." of this letter, a happily married woman whose girlhood folly threatens to destroy her home and the love of her invalid husband.

pride and faith in her if it were made known.

Such a case is that of "J.G.," who writes me from Georgia:

"When I married my husband, I loved him," says her letter, "but now after 11 years of unclouded happiness I know that my early love was only a shadow of what real love could be! He is not a strong man; we live for our garden, our books, and our one daughter. Reggie was invalided after a terrible bout with pneumonia four years ago, and we took what capital we had and bought a tiny farm, which my nine-year-old Rachael and I have brought to the point of being an asset rather than a liability. Meanwhile Reg had started writing, little bookish essays at first, for which he was not paid; later more ambitious literary studies, one of which is to be published in book form in the spring. Our lives were perfect—perfect perfect, until a man I used to know as a college student turned up in the neighborhood.

"The story of our old affair is no new one to you. I thought it concerned only ourselves. I was away from home for the first time, and every other girl did it, why not I? The 15 years between that time and this have been disciplinary years, and I know they have made me a finer and wiser woman than anything that was promised by the nature of that girl of 19.

"But all the lessons in the world can't save me from what is going on now. I suppose you would call it blackmail. Victor amuses Reggie, who calls him a 'rough diamond,' and Victor wants to come and live with us. He has no job, no money, no ambition. He has grown heavy and lazy, but on the three occasions when he has called her as, I say, made himself amusing, and outlined what he would like to do with the farm to develop it.

"Oh, Reg wouldn't divorce me or leave me," the letter concludes, "but his faith in me, his pleasure in what he calls my 'lily' girlhood, would receive a terrible shock. He is not strong; he cannot go about as other men do. He has so few pleasures! His utter pride in Rachael and me is the greatest of them all."

I've written "J.G." telling her that the only way out is the way of full confession. That means she can dismiss the odious Victor in no uncertain terms and then resume her happy way of life with no further reference to the cloud that has come up so suddenly. Victor will have her old letters, of course, and she the sting of old memories. And Reg will have to replace his idealistic love for his wife with something less fragile—less perfect.

I wonder what her answer would be today if she could hear that girl, of 15 years ago, asking, "What's the difference?"

Innocent Bystander:

"Dear Walter: Here is a suggestion you might pass on. Why don't the theater orchestras which play 'The Star Spangled Banner' at the end of the night, play it in a key that the average person in the audience can sing? Everyone knows that our National Anthem has a wide range that is difficult for the untrained voice. But it isn't so hard when played in a lower key. Even the recordings used in theaters are too high. For instance, last night at the Roxy the recording of the Anthem was played in the key of E-flat, much too high for the average voice. A key of G would enable many hundreds of others to sing it all the way through.—Kitty Carlisle."

The capture of the German ship (Odenwald) in the South Atlantic recently (despite its disguise as an American vessel) happened, we hear, because of a boner. When the warship first encountered it—it was certain the stranger was American but asked for identification, anyway.

Promptly came a breezy reply—typically Yankee Doodle in spirit and zing—but it contained one word that trapped it.

The word was Broadway slang and the Germans used it wrongly. That aroused the suspicion of the U. S. warship and the rest is now in the history books.

What was the slang word? Sorry. That's a naval secret.

A Parking Problem

By JANE OSBORN (McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

EVERY morning—save Sunday—at almost precisely five minutes before eight a shabby little motor runabout drew up in front of the Hindley place and stopped at almost precisely the same spot.

"He's got a brass nerve," remarked Mr. James Hindley, viewing the arrival of this little vehicle from the vantage point of his place at the head of the table in the Hindley breakfast room. "Parks that vile car of his there until six-five every evening. I'll see the authorities about it."

"But there isn't any law to prevent parking there, is there?" asked Doris Hindley. "Probably the man who owns the car is a commuter living quite a way out in the country and he doesn't like to leave the car right in front of the station for fear it would be in the way, so he just parks it here."

"It isn't a man," informed Ted, the nineteen-year-old son, hitherto deeply engrossed in his omelet, toast and coffee. "It's a girl."

"That doesn't really alter the situation," remarked Tom of twenty-five, who had overheard part of the conversation as he entered the dining room and really thought that his father needed a voice on his side of the argument. "The car's a mess. The owner could be considerate enough to park her car further down the road."

"I'll have Benson speak to the young woman," said the father of the family. Benson was the entirely dignified elderly chauffeur who drove Mr. Hindley's expensive car.

Mr. Hindley spoke to Benson that morning about it as Benson drove his employer to his office in the brick works that had made him a millionaire. And the next morning, on seeing the shabby little car again parked under his favorite maple tree, he questioned Benson.

"Well, you see, sir," said Benson, trying to hide some confusion and embarrassment, "the young woman that owns it is quite young and—well, I didn't like to frighten her. I hadn't the heart, sir, to insist on her putting the car so elsewhere else. She said the leaves of the trees were so thick it served to keep the rain off in summer, and also served to keep off the bright sun which would blister the paint."

"If you're too soft-hearted to attend to it," said Mr. Hindley patiently, "get one of the men to do it. No—perhaps that wouldn't be quite courteous. I'll ask Miss Doris."

"That Miss Kelsey is a most interesting girl," said Doris at dinner that night. "You really ought to meet her"—this to her brothers. "She's studying art in the city and living out in the country with an old woman because it's cheaper that way. Her father was a court painter in Russia before the war and managed to escape with her when she was a little girl. Then he died and she had to work at anything. She sold papers for a while and then she worked in an office until she could save enough to begin studying art. She bought that car for twenty-five dollars and got it into condition and painted it herself and—she's the prettiest thing—"

"Did you tell her about parking further down the road?" asked Mr. Hindley, growing impatient.

"I forgot all about it," said Doris in surprise. "We had such a short time before her train went and I was so interested."

"Yes," said Mr. Hindley, wearily. "Perhaps you'd be willing to say something about it tomorrow." He addressed his younger son. Ted agreed and was sure he would be successful, but next night he reported the remarkable coincidence that he had discovered on talking with Mazie that her very best friend in art school was Laura Drake, that peach of a girl he had met in the mountains the year before. "After that, it seemed a bit awkward to ask her to move her car. I thought perhaps you'd be willing to speak to her about it." This remark was addressed to Tom, his elder brother. So Tom said he'd do what he could. Next night he made no report until he was reminded by his sister.

"Blame it all," he said. "The girl is so sweet and pretty I just couldn't. It didn't seem quite gallant." He didn't mention the fact that the reason why he declined to play bridge after dinner with his family that night was because he was going to drive his speedy little roadster out to the farmhouse that Mazie called home.

So, somewhat vexed and really very tired of the sight of the shabby car in front of his house, Mr. James Hindley said he would speak to the young woman himself. That night Doris, Ted and Tom interrupted each other to ask him what luck he had. "Why, yes," said the older man, smiling a little sheepishly. "I suggested to the young lady that she would do better to leave the car in our garage, where it could be looked after."

CLAUDETTE COLBERT'S dressing room has been doing a bit of traveling, to the amazement of inhabitants of Los Angeles who saw the one-room bungalow riding along on a truck one evening. It was made for Miss Colbert at the Paramount studios, when she was working in "Skylark." She was so proud of it that she had it taken to Twentieth Century-Fox when she began "Remember the Day." Back she went to Paramount, then, for the new Preston Sturges picture—and back, too, went the bungalow.

Snack on a Frosty Night—Broiled Wienies
(See Recipes Below)

Wintry Snacks

The cold, frosty evenings with their full program of basketball games, sleigh ride parties, skating and other winter-time amusements call for piping hot, hearty snacks to take care of brisk appetites. While in warmer weather, the family could raid the ice box, now the problem is slightly different, as hot food, satisfying but still simple, is in demand.

Here's a dish that just seems to fit the bill: the broiled wienies and hot potato salad pictured above. Of course, hot potato salad with wienies is an old favorite but there's a touch of something new in the wienies broiled with cheese and the green beans around the potato salad to add a touch of color.

Broiled Wienies.

Select two to three skinless frankfurters for each person to be served, two will do nicely for the girls and women but better count three for the men and boys. Split the frankfurter and insert a strip of American cheese. When almost ready to serve, pop into the broiler and cook until cheese melts and browns slightly.

Hot Potato Salad.

(Serves 6)
6 potatoes, boiled with skins on
¼ cup finely chopped onion
2 hard-cooked eggs, diced
Salt and pepper
8 slices bacon, broiled until crisp, crumbled
Peel potatoes and cube. Add remaining ingredients. Just before ready to serve, mix with this hot dressing:

Cooked Salad Dressing.

3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon yellow mustard
1½ tablespoons flour
1 egg yolk
¾ cup water
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon butter

Blend dry ingredients, then add egg yolk and blend until smooth. Add water, then vinegar, stirring constantly. Cook over boiling water, stirring all the while, until thick. Remove from fire, add butter and serve hot, mixed with potato salad. Spaghetti is and has been for some time now one of the reigning favorites among hot dishes to serve in the evening. Here's one dish you'll like because it's both tart and satisfying, with plenty of cheese and sauce baked right into the long strips of spaghetti:

Baked Spaghetti.

(Serves 8)
1 pound package of spaghetti
3 small onions, chopped fine
2 tablespoons oil
1 pound ground beef
½ pound sausage (in the bulk)
½ pound mushrooms
½ teaspoon pickling spice
1 teaspoon salt
4 small cans tomato sauce
¾ pound grated American cheese
Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water 12 to 15 minutes. Drain and run cold water through it. Sauté onion, ground meat and sausage in oil until brown. Add mushrooms, spice, salt and tomato sauce. Simmer slowly for 40 minutes. Put thin layer of spaghetti on bottom of buttered casserole. Then add a layer of sauce, then cheese, another layer of spaghetti and so on until all sauce, cheese and spaghetti is used. Bake 30 minutes in a moderate (350-degree) oven.

Lynn Says:

Here are a few quick snack ideas you'll like to paste in your notebook: Baked beans garnished with brown bread, cream cheese sandwiches, placed around the bean pot. You might try the canned baked beans with sliced ham, too. It's quick, easy and delicious. Toasted buns with hamburgers, cheeseburgers, or ham and cheese slices go over nicely, too. Toasted English muffins with an egg fried or poached with ham are high in favor.

Another tomato-meat dish which is guaranteed to be aces with your guests dropping in after a basketball game, sleigh ride or what-have-you is this:

Tamele Pie.

(Serves 8)
1 medium-sized onion, chopped
3 tablespoons oil
1½ pounds beef, cut in cubes
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon chili powder
1 large can tomatoes (2½ cups)
1 cup yellow bantam corn
1½ cups corn meal
5 cups boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup grated cheese
Brown onion in oil, then add beef and cook until brown. Add salt, chili powder, tomatoes and corn and cook slowly 1 hour. Add corn meal to salted water and cook 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Cool mush, then line buttered casserole dish with a 1-inch layer of the mush. Pour in meat-vegetable mixture, then top with remaining mush. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 1½ hours. During last quarter hour, sprinkle top with cheese. Serve with a sauce made by heating one can of tomato soup to which has been added 1 can of ripe, pitted olives.

Are you one of those homemakers who is always looking for one dish that can be modified and yet seem to be different every time it's served. I think baked beans is one of those dishes, and because of its hearty appeal you can serve it often.

Bean and Sausage Bake.

(Serves 4)
1 small onion, sliced
½ pound link sausage
1 can baked beans
1 tablespoon pickle relish
1 tablespoon chili sauce
Place onion on bottom of casserole and lay sausage on top of onion. Bake in a moderate oven 15 minutes, then drain off excess fat. Combine beans with onion, sausage, pickle relish and chili sauce. Return to oven for 20 minutes to reheat.

If you have only eggs, don't ever despair for they have excellent possibilities as snacks. Try scrambled eggs with cheese, bacon fried crisp and brown and crumbled, or broiled sausages. Omelets made with a slice of American cheese before they're folded are menu tempters, as are omelets made with a tomato sauce folded over them before serving.

*Peach Crisp Pudding.

2 cups diced, dried peaches
2 cups water
½ cup sugar
½ cup honey
½ cup butter
½ cup sugar
2 eggs
½ teaspoon each, cloves, nutmeg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups ¾-inch toasted bread cubes.
2 cups corn flakes
Soak peaches in boiling water 10 minutes. Drain, add water and sugar; cook covered for 30 minutes. Remove from heat, add honey and stir until well mixed. Cream butter and sugar thoroughly, add eggs and beat well. Stir in spices, flavoring, bread cubes and corn flakes. Place one-half of mixture in buttered baking pan. Spread peaches evenly over top and cover with remaining mixture. Bake in a moderate (375-degree) oven about 25 minutes.

THE TEMPTATION OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 4:1-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—For we have an high priest . . . (who) was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin.—Hebrews 4:15.

"We have not a high priest that cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but one that hath been in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin" (Heb. 4:15, R.V.). We recognize that Jesus was tempted as the Messiah (see Matt. 4:3, 6) and as One who had no sin, and yet He was tempted in all points as we are; and we may learn from His temptation how to meet temptation and be victorious over it.

I. Temptation.

It is the common lot of all mankind to be tempted (I Cor. 10:13). The strongest and most noble of men are subject to it; angels were tempted—yes, even Jesus was tempted. We need to know about temptation, so we note

1. What It Is (v. 1). Temptation is of the devil. It is, as Principal Fairbairn expressed it, "seduction to evil solicitation to wrong. It stands distinguished from trial thus: trial tests, seeks to discover the man's moral qualities or character; but temptation persuades to evil, deduces that it may ruin. God tries. Satan tempts."

Note that temptation is not sin, but yielding to the temptation is sin.

We are told by James (Jas. 1:13-15) that man is tempted by his own lusts. He also tells us that God may permit temptations or trials to test our faith (Jas. 1:2, 3), but His purpose is only to prove us able to stand. God does not suffer us to be tempted beyond endurance, but provides a way of escape (I Cor. 10:13).

2. How It Works (vv. 2, 3, 5, 6, 8, 9). Satan has only three temptations, although he is a master at giving them different appearances. The temptation of Jesus followed the same threefold line as that of Adam and Eve (Gen. 3:6), which is described in I John 2:16 as the general temptation of all men, namely, "the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life." Observe how Satan worked on Jesus: (a) By appealing to the flesh (vv. 2, 3). Jesus had fasted 40 days, and Satan took advantage of that fast to suggest that He use His divine power of creation to satisfy His hunger. To do so would have been to deny His very mission on earth.

Satan observes in man the normal appetites of his body, excites them to a high degree, and then tempts him to satisfy them in an improper way. (b) By appealing to pride (vv. 5, 6). God had promised to keep Jesus "in all his ways" (Ps. 91:11), but casting Himself from the temple was not one of God's "ways" for Him.

The devil wants us to be presumptuous and call it faith, and this is his pitfall for one who really wants to believe—because him to become a fanatic and substitute foolish presumption for faith. (c) By appealing to the eyes (vv. 8, 9). By showing Christ the kingdoms of the earth in some kind of striking panorama, or moving picture, he offered a short cut to their rule by a brief act of worship of him, rather than by way of the cross. The devil showed his real purpose here. He wants worship—he wants us to bow to him instead of to God.

II. Our Lord Was Victorious Over Satan.

We, too, can triumph in His blessed name. To do so we need to study the way of victory.

1. How to Gain It (vv. 4, 7, 10). Three steps appear: (a) By the right use of Scripture. If our Lord needed and used that weapon, how can we possibly do without it? How can we use it if we do not study it, and hide it in our hearts (Ps. 119:11)? (b) By complete dependence upon God. Every Scripture used by Jesus against Satan honored God the Father. We cannot fight Satan on our own strength. Luther was right—"Did we in our own strength confide, Our striving would be losing."

The real victory for the Christian is to bring Satan to the foot of the cross. Christ defeated him completely there, and we may plead that victory. (c) By denouncing Satan. Jesus sent him on his way. We may do the same, in Jesus' name. It is always a serious error to argue with Satan, or even to discuss matters with him. He is not divine, but he is a supernatural being with knowledge and cunning which are too much for us. Meet him with Scripture, honor God by your faith in Christ, then "resist the devil, and he will flee from you" (Jas. 4:7).

2. What It Brings (v. 11). When the defeated devil left Christ, angels came and ministered to Him. The overcoming of temptation brings victory, peace, and blessed rest. This is ever true in the life of the believer. Temptations victoriously met make one stronger in meeting the next temptation. There is always a next one, for we read (Luke 4:13) that the devil left Christ only "for a season."

30,000,000 Indians
Found in New World

WASHINGTON.—The Vanishing
American is no longer vanishing.
John Collier, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, has cited population figures showing that Indians in this country are increasing faster than general population and that Indians in the Western Hemisphere now total 30,000,000.

In Columbus time, he noted
there were approximately 900,000
Indians in this country. This number subsequently was cut almost one-fourth by wars, famine, disease, removal and it was believed the Indian was a dying race. Today, however, Indian population has grown to more than 361,000,
of which almost half are full-bloods.
The increase, he said, is due to "steadily improving health and economic conditions largely brought about by an intelligent national interest in Indian problems."

EDITORIAL

National Thrift Week

This week has been set aside as National Thrift Week. In my opinion it should be, especially during these war times, one of the most generally observed weeks of the year of 1942. Because essential products are all hard to get, thriftiness should be exercised by all classes and kinds of people.

Thriftiness in schools is an important factor of this week. In schools, many dollars are wasted directly and indirectly by carelessness, not thinking students, chalk and erasers are wasted. Paper, which is greatly needed in national defense, is thoughtlessly strewn about. Chairs and desks are carved on. They are hard to replace. Magazines and books should be better taken care of. Paper is scarce and because of that fact, writing on the back of paper would be a thrifty and economical plan to adopt by the students.

Now that our country is at war, students should take more heed to conservation of necessities at their school and plan ways to save them. Also showing they are observing National Thrift Week, every pupil, teacher, woman and man should buy National Defense bonds and stamps.

Former Students In the Services

Alphord Morgan of the summer class of '38 is an electrician's mate 2nd class of the navy. He is now training at a submarine base in New London, Conn.

Norman Fuller, who last went to school here in the seventh grade is in the navy also. When last heard from, he was stationed "somewhere" in the Pacific.

Don Sellers of the class of '41 has recently joined the Coast Guard. At the present time he is training in Galveston.

Clark Bailey, graduate of the class of '37, has volunteered for the air service. He is now stationed at the Naval Air Base at Corpus Christi.

Plans for P. E. Class

Miss Coley has made the plans for the last half year for her Physical Education Class. She plans to take up first aid about two days each week. Some of the things they want to learn are how to bandage and take care of wounds, make bandages, take care of bed patients, and the care of the bed.

Next, to do their part in National Defense, they plan to knit such useful articles as: sweaters, helmets, gloves.

The main project of the class is the landscaping of the grounds around the high school building. They plan to plant shrubbery in the beds that the N. Y. A. boys have prepared. The girls have studied shrubbery, the planting of shrubbery, etc. They are going to plant what shrubbery that they get as soon as possible after receiving it.

Book Reviews

Wuthering Heights (Reviewed by Mary Jameson)

WUTHERING HEIGHTS, by Emily Bronte, is a book well worth the time one spends in reading it. It is a story of the hatred and bitterness one can have toward one's own family. The story is written about England in the early nineteenth century. The beginning of the story is about a tenant who has gotten the servant to tell him the story. She tells about the Master's going to Liverpool one day and bringing back with him a filthy, ragged little boy with jet black hair and dark complexion. This little boy could not speak a word of English, or much of anything else, for that matter. So, this was Heathcliff, the main character of the book.

Heathcliff grew up to be a selfish and despicable person, caring for no one but himself and Catherine Earnshaw, the Master's daughter. But Catherine married Edgar Linton, not because she loved him, for she did love Heathcliff with all her heart and soul but because Edgar could give her riches and social standing. Because she married Edgar, Heathcliff married Edgar's sister for spite. Catherine bore a child named Little Cathy. Catherine later died with a broken heart.

Little Cathy was quick to learn and a good scholar. When she was about 13 years of age, her cousin Linton was coming to live with her father and her. But when he did come, he could only stay overnight, for his father, Heathcliff, sent for him. Linton was a frail, weak little fellow. So Heathcliff would send for Little Cathy to come entertain him. Catherine would slip out and go, but she hated to deceive her father, who hated Heathcliff and any thing about him. Heathcliff forced Cathy to marry Linton, and soon afterwards Linton died.

Loneliness forced Cathy to help Hareton, another cousin, with his education. This blossomed into love, and he and she were married. Heathcliff died leaving all his estate to Miss Cathy.

JANE EYRE

(Reviewed by Joy Johnson)

JANE EYRE is the story of a poor orphan girl. With precision Charlotte Bronte, the author, expressed both thoughts and emotions and created situations of memorable quality. Charlotte Bronte describes the setting so well one can almost see it.

Jane Eyre is the orphan daughter of a wealthy lady of society whose family disowns her when she marries a poor minister. Both Jane's father and mother passed away before she was old enough to know them. Until she was ten she lived with her aunt Reed, who treated her very cruelly. At the age of ten she was sent to Lowood Charity Institute. Here she remained for eight years two of which she belonged to the faculty. When she was eighteen she went to Thornfield Hall to become the governess of Mr. Edward Rochester's small ward. At Thornfield Hall she fell in love with her master, Mr. Rochester, but she fled on her wedding day after learning that he already had a wife, who was insane. After leaving Thornfield Hall, Miss Eyre went to Morton where she became a school teacher. Here she found three of her cousins and inherited a large sum of money which she

"SPYGLASS"

Well, it seems Harold has been snooping around places and people where he's not concerned, by the looks of that big bandage on his forehead.

H'mmmmm — Spy Glass just wonders who was in the back of Sweetheart's car with Willie Saturday night. Come on Willie—give the rest of the boy's a chance.

Who are Lena Fay's four STEADIES. Well, you guess the rest.

Times DO change . . . Natalie and Charlie haven't. They were out at the Triangle Saturday night with that game look in their eyes.

H'mmmmm—You wouldn't suppose Otis is "going steady" with Baby Hill again would you? He was in Ingleside last Friday nite and has a date with her next Friday nite. Keep up the good work, Otis.

San Antonio seemed to have attracted Kathryn and Eddie Pat over the week-end . . . or had you noticed?

Did anyone see Marvin over the week-end? If you need more than one guess, he was probably mourning over Jenny's illness.

We all wonder who Joy had a date with Friday nite. Was it Roger or J. D. (Hint; J. D. took her home).

Roger is up and well again and raring to go to Ingleside. CAN you imagine why?

Where was Lizzy Sunday afternoon when Simpson was looking for her? They say she was horse-back riding, and she wasn't alone.

How many fish did you catch Saturday, Delo? Or was it FISH you were after?

The Navy heard that one of the Davis girls had the measles and was QUITE relieved when he found out it wasn't Polly.

My! My! weren't the fish biting Friday nite at the beach . . . or were they???? Five car loads of snacker fishermen thought so.

We wonder which Lloyd Mills and Elzona enjoyed most, the show or the walk home?

Picnic Proposed by Senior Literary Club

The Senior Literary Club met Friday morning, January 16. The club voted to have a picnic after mid-term, the time and place to be decided by a committee composed of Quentin Drunzer and Natalie Smith.

Book reviews by Roger Branch, Willie Shuster, and Natalie Smith were given as entertainment at the club meeting.

Personal Mention—

Kenneth Bowland, a new student from Woodsboro, has registered and is now going to school here. He is a student in the Junior class.

Maisie Mundine has withdrawn from school to accept a position as Bookkeeper at Hooper's Grocery. She had been taking a post-graduate course here.

Lena Faye Phagan has also withdrawn to enroll in the Corpus Christi Junior College in that city. She was also taking a post-graduate course.

Wm. McGrath, former public music teacher, was in Rockport last Sunday. He said to tell all his former pupils and friends "hello."

divided with them.

Because she is still in love with Mr. Rochester, she refuses to marry Mr. Rivers, one of her cousins. Fearing that Mr. Rochester is in dreadful need of her, she returns to Thornfield Hall to find it burned to the ground. She learns from an old man that, while trying to save his crazy wife, Mr. Rochester lost his eyesight and that he is at Ferndean Manor. She goes to Ferndean Manor and two years after her marriage to Mr. Rochester he began to regain his sight. They went to London where he had an operation. "I will show you a heroine as small and as plain as myself, who shall be as interesting as any yours." So exclaimed Charlotte Bronte in an impatient moment, which gave the vision and plot of JANE EYRE.

Thrift Program Given for Assembly

In the Elementary Assembly, January 16, 1942, the fifth grade give a Thrift program sponsored by Miss Marie Johnson. First was a short pageant. Next, Jean Faye Johnson read a story. The next number was an original poem given by Doris Voories. Then a thrift story was read by Jean Faye Johnson. The program was ended with a thrift play.

Junior Class Gives Assembly

The Junior Class gave an interesting and enjoyable assembly program in the auditorium last Wednesday morning.

The program opened with the singing of patriotic songs by the entire assembly. Then Kathryn Rouquette, Rebecca Falcon, Loraina Bludworth and Evelyn Salch gave health talks. A comical skit was given next in which Lloyd Gorney played the part of Doctor Quack and prescribed his remedy to all who wished either to reduce or grow larger. A talk was then given by Vesta Nell Morgan on Nervous Fatigue, which concluded the program.

Band Practices Marching

Under the teaching and supervision of Mr. Howard of the home defense guard of Corpus Christi, the school band marched Monday evening from 3:30 to 5:00. They received training in several military "streamlined" drills as well as rehearsal in old ones. Mr. Howard appointed Harold Picton, Charles Roe, and Marvin Pollard to practice the band on these drills whenever possible. He plans to return for another afternoon's workout sometimes in the near future.

Mr. Gene Raeder, who is employed at the shipyard, is now conducting rehearsal. Besides the regular schedule, Mr. Raeder is individually instructing the band by the sections.

Band Receives New Uniforms

Thursday morning, January 15, the members of the Rockport High School Band received the new uniforms for which they have been waiting. The uniforms, purchased at Sol Frank Brothers in San Antonio, are of military style. The yarn of green 100 per cent wool whip cord with white stripes down the pockets and sleeves. There is a white stripe down the outside of the trouser leg. The uniform consists of trousers coat, Sam Brown military Belt, and a military cap. Everyone is well pleased with them. The uniforms will be shown to the public at a concert to be given in the near future.

Cultivation

The highest purpose of intellectual cultivation is, to give a man a perfect knowledge and mastery of his own inner self. —Novalis.

Culture would not be culture if it were not an acquired taste. —John Cowper Powys.

That is true cultivation which gives us sympathy with every form of human life, and enables us to work most successfully for its advancement. —Henry Ward Beecher.

Nurseries of character should be strongly garrisoned with virtue. School-examinations are one-sided; it is not so much academic education, as a moral and spiritual culture, which lifts one higher. —Mary Baker Eddy.

That alone can be called true refinement which elevates the soul of man, purifying the manners by improving the intellect. —Coleridge.

The primary indication, to my thinking, of a well-ordered mind is a man's ability to remain in one place and linger in his own company. —Seneca.

Old Year Memories

Let us forget the things that vexed and tried us,
 The worrying things that caused our souls to fret;
 The hopes that cherished long were still denied us,
 Let us forget.

Let us forget the little slights that pained us,
 The greater wrongs that rankle sometimes yet;
 The pride with which some lofty one disdained us,
 Let us forget.

Let us forget our brother's fault and failing,
 The yielding to temptations that beset,
 That he perchance, though grief be unavailing,
 Can not forget.

But blessings manifold, past all deserving,
 Kind words and helpful deeds, a countless throng,
 The faults o'ercome, the rectitude unswerving,
 Let us remember long.

The sacrifice of love, the generous giving
 When friends were few, the handclasp warm and strong,
 The fragrance of each life of holy living,
 Let us remember long.

Whatever things were good and true and gracious,
 Whatever of right has triumphed over wrong,
 What love of God or man has rendered precious,
 Let us remember long.

So, pondering well the lesson it has taught us,
 We tenderly may bid the year "Good-by,"
 Holding in memory the good it brought us,
 Letting the evil die.

—ANONYMOUS.

Inside Jim's billfold I found this little poem, tattered and worn, which so clearly portrays his creed for living. I thought perhaps it might help some friend of his to better living since he can no longer speak to them save through the example of his way of facing life. May the sunshine of his smile cheer the lonely hearts he has left behind and the memory of his cheery whistle give them courage to carry on.

Lovingly dedicated to his memory by his wife—

Right to Work in Security, 40-Hour Week on FDR's 'Nine Freedoms' for Winning Peace

WASHINGTON. — Nine "freedoms," including the right to work and the right to security, and a universal 40-hour week for labor, were proposed by the National Resources and Planning Board today in a report on planning for post-war America.

President Roosevelt transmitted the report to Congress as one outlining "some of our major objectives in planning to win the peace."

The board declared, "we must plan for full employment, for maintaining the national income at $100,000,000,000 a year, at least, rather than to let it slip back to 80 or 70, or 60 billion dollars again."

The nine freedoms, amplifying the Roosevelt-Churchill "Atlantic charter," were outlined as follows:

1. The right to work, usefully and creatively through the productive years.
2. The right to fair play, adequate to command the necessities and amenities of life in exchange for work, ideas, thrift and other socially valuable service.
3. The right to adequate food, clothing shelter and medical care.
4. The right to security, with freedom from fear of old age, want, dependency, sickness, unemployment and accident.

5. The right to live in a system of free enterprise, free from compulsory labor, irresponsible private power, arbitrary public authority and unregulated monopolies.
6. The right to come and go, to speak or be silent, free from the spyings of secret political police.
7. The right to equality before the law, with equal access to justice in fact.
8. The right to education, for work for citizenship and for personal growth and happiness.
9. The right to rest, recreation and adventure; the opportunity to enjoy life and take part in an advancing civilization.

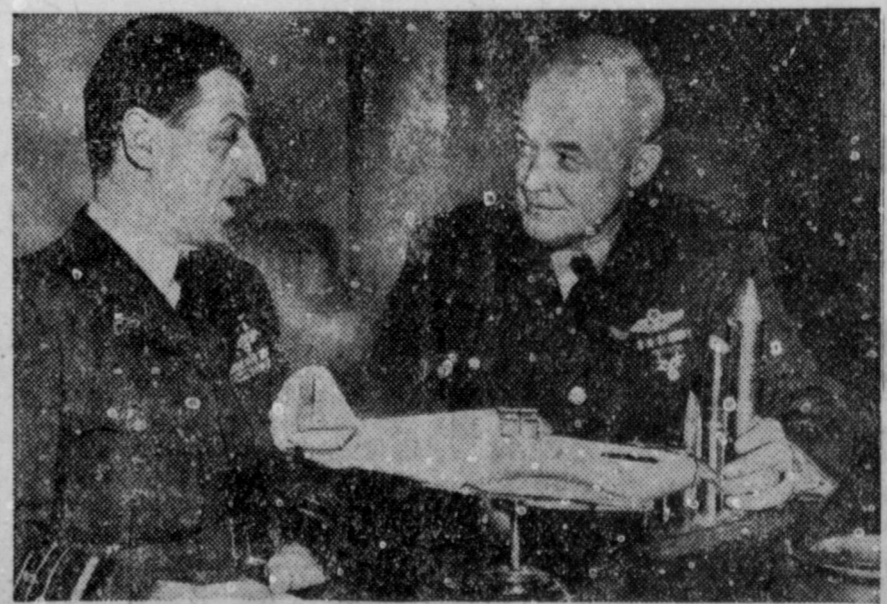

President Roosevelt said in his message of transmittal that "plans and programs to win the war and to win peace must grow out of our common national purpose and with democratic participation in planning by all of us." He added:

"Through efforts to state our objectives and public discussion of their merits, we play our part as free citizens."

Pirates Beat by Adams and Ingleside

Pirate B-Team Beats the Ingleside Colts

The Rockport Pirates went to Adams last Tuesday night and were defeated by the score of 27-25. The game was played close and even and there were only 4 fouls in the whole game. Reynolds, the referee, was from Taft.

The Pirates went to Ingleside Friday night and the B-team started off at the Ingleside Colts, beating them 14-6. The younger team had several fouls called against them. The Pirates then faced the Mustangs in a hard and tiring game which they lost 38-16. Price was high point man for the Mustangs with 13 points, and Schuster was high man for the Pirates with 7 points.

Examinations for U.S.C.G. Academy To Be Held

WASHINGTON. — The 1942 competitive examination for appointment of cadets to the U. S. Coast Guard Academy will be held May 13 and 14, according to an announcement made here by Congressman Richard M. Kleberg for the benefit of young men in the Fourteenth Congressional District of Texas.

The examination is open to young men between the ages of 17 and 22 years and the mental requirements are, in general, those necessary for admission to engineering colleges. The Coast Guard Academy is located at New London, Connecticut and the course of instruction is basically scientific and engineering in character. Pay of a cadet while undergoing instruction is $780 a year, plus an allowance for subsistence.

Successful completion of four years of cadetship at the Coast Guard Academy leads to a career in the Service and upon graduation cadets are awarded Bachelor of Science degrees and are eligible for commissions as Ensigns. The Coast Guard at this time is functioning as a part of the U. S. Navy, having been placed under its jurisdiction on November 1, 1941, by Executive order. In normal peace time the Coast Guard functions under the Treasury Department.

Detailed information concerning the examination and the Coast Guard Service may be obtained by interested young men by addressing Congressman Kleberg U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

General Motors to Fulfill Its Share

DETROIT. — General Motors President C. E. Wilson, whose firm is embarked on a $3,347,623,173 armament - building program promised Saturday that G-M would fulfill 10 per cent of President Roosevelt's production program for victory in the war against the Axis.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

President Names Production Czar And Reorganizes Defense Set-Ups To Speed Up All-Out War Effort; Report Submarines Off East Coast

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Leon Henderson, director, Division of Civilian Supply of the Office of Production Management, tries out one of the "Victory model" bicycles produced by manufacturers at request of OPM. This lightweight model is constructed of less costly material, and shorn of all gadgets. The new bikes will be built for both men and women. Photo shows Henderson pedaling, and Miss Betty Barrett of York, Neb., in the luggage basket. A sure way for the boss to get his secretary to the office on time.

NELSON:

Production Czar

As the United States moved forward into all-out war production, Donald M. Nelson had been named production czar, placed in sole command over OPM, SPAB and all other vital production organizations.

His position was compared to that of Bernard M. Baruch in 1917. Mr. Nelson had been, before his promotion to sole command, the head of SPAB, the priorities control board, and thus had been sitting with his hands on the needle valve which kept materials flowing smoothly to defense plants.

His post also was compared to that of Lord Beaverbrook in England.

He was given command by executive order, and though the order did not immediately make legally clear how far his power went, there was enough in President Roosevelt's statement to show that it would go far enough to put Nelson into sole command.

A board, including Messrs. Knudsen, Hillman and other chiefs of various vital groups, was to work under Nelson.

The President said, in part: "Mr. Nelson will no longer serve as director of the priorities division. He will devote his entire time to directing the production program. His decisions as to procurement and production will be final."

Thus Mr. Nelson has authority over not only the industrialists and labor leaders who were in Washington to harness American production to a program for victory, but also over the army and navy themselves, in a way, because his decisions as to what they might have in the way of arms and munitions would be final.

They would still have legal contracting authority, but Mr. Nelson would have to pass upon these contracts before they could go into effect, and could, in effect, make them larger or smaller, quicker or slower.

LUZON:

Defense

When the history of World War II is written it will have become evident that the defense of Luzon by the American-Filipino forces under Gen. Douglas MacArthur should be placed alongside of other famous "last stands."

Conceded only the slimmest possible hope of hanging on until help might arrive, the MacArthur forces, entrenched in the Mariveles mountains back of Manila bay, had reported not only stemming an "all-out" Japanese drive, but that they had driven the attackers back.

They had forced the Japs to remove their big guns far to the rear, out of range of the American batteries, and had raised havoc with charging detachments of tanks and infantry.

Not in any way claiming that the Japanese advance had been permanently checked, General MacArthur reported to Washington that the 24-hour battle had shown definitely that the American guns and gunnery were superior to those of the enemy.

The Japs claimed that they had taken Olongapo, naval base on a bay to the north of Manila bay, and this had been confirmed by Washington.

There was more than a suspicion that the Japs were content to let the present armed forces now in the Philippines do the "mopping up" against the MacArthur army, and had turned their attention rather to increasing the tempo of the all-important Malay offensive, and the general offensive against the Dutch East Indies, using Mindanao as a base.

SUBMARINE:

Action

Navy planes and ships had a busy time chasing enemy submarines reported lurking off the East coast of the U. S.

Two ships were reported sunk by submarine action off Long Island, N. Y. The first was the Panamanian tanker Norwest which was hit by three torpedoes about 120 miles from the coast. Next day watchers on shore claimed they saw a submarine sink another ship about 23 miles from shore.

Meanwhile U. S. underwater craft were also busy, but the location of their action was not disclosed. The navy reported that a 17,000 ton Jap ship of the type used as a plane carrier had been sunk by U. S. submarines in Far Eastern waters.

MALAYA:

Scorched Earth

The house of commons criticism of the British Malaya forces in not carrying out the scorched earth policy was met by dispatches which had been delayed tending to show that the British had applied that policy in the completest way possible.

An eyewitness description of the British evacuation of Perka, Selangor and Kuala Lumpur, the latter an important rubber city and the capital of the Federated Malay States bore this out.

A Durin dispatch to the Times from Seremban stated that in Perak and Selangor alone millions of dollars' worth of rubber stocks and rubber processing plants and millions more in tin mine dredges and tin ore processing machinery had been destroyed.

In addition the destruction of petroleum products totaled several millions of dollars.

Copra and coal docks were dynamited or burned. Dynamiters were mining the country through which the Japs were approaching closer to Singapore, and this was evident in the slowing down of the Japanese advance.

Describing the evacuation of Kuala Lumpur, Durin wrote that the British had opened the larger stores and had removed what stocks it wanted, and then had left the stores open to allow the population to take what it wished.

The inhabitants seethed up and down the streets which were littered with refuse, carrying what they had been able to get aboard rickshas, on bicycles and on shoulders and heads.

From every corner of the city sounded the booming explosions as the Punjab sappers and dynamiters destroyed bridges, roads and other communication links as soon as the British convoys had moved through the city.

Two large department stores were completely despoiled of goods within a few hours. Coolies who had never tasted chocolate candy went about with their arms full, giving them away to others who had none.

The burning of the rubber trees was not possible, but since the plants producing rubber and the rubber stocks were burned, the British say it will be a long time before the Japs can get any.

HITLER:

Has He Fled?

Unconfirmed reports had been received from the Russian front that Hitler, with Smolensk threatened by the Russian armies, had fled to a safer point.

While this had been impossible of confirmation, the Red headquarters reported capture of towns in the "Smolensk area" which showed that the war was coming uncomfortably close to "Der Fuehrer" if he was still there on the scene of actual service.

'War Orphan No. 1'

"I am war orphan No. 1," said Mrs. Helen Nelson, wife of Donald M. Nelson, Chicago, Ill., whom President Roosevelt appointed chief of war production just recently.

AIR:

Supremacy Sought

There was every indication that the battle for air supremacy in the Far Eastern theater of war was definitely being battled for.

The news dispatches had contained increasing reports of air battles on all fronts, and though there was still no indication that General MacArthur had any sort of an air arm, both the British and Dutch defenses were being bolstered by American, Chinese and Australian planes.

The Dutch early had said that if the Allies would give them enough planes, they could defeat Japanese efforts to capture important strongholds in their islands.

The Japs, on the other hand, were continuing to capture some, including the island of Tarakan, a small islet defended by about as many men as had stood before the Japs at Wake island.

The Dutch defenders finally had to surrender, though more than half of the garrison got away and lived to fight another day. Before leaving and before the remainder were forced by the odds to lay down their arms, they reported having mined and blown up all the oil wells on the island, an important small producer of petroleum.

It still was not definite where the high command had set up headquarters, save that it was somewhere on the island of Java, but whether at Batavia, from which most of the dispatches were coming, or at Surabaya, could not be learned.

An idea of what the capture of Tarakan meant, by the way, was the Dutch figure on its oil output, 80,000 tons monthly of the finest grade of petroleum. The Dutch, in describing the destruction of the wells, said: "simply: 'The Japanese have found that we were not bluffing when we announced that no oil installations would be permitted to fall into their hands.'"

PAN-AMERICA:

Opens Conference

Of vital importance had been considered the Pan-American conference of nations, which had opened its sessions at Rio, with Sumner Welles in charge of affairs for the American state department.

There were really only two doubts on the list, but they were important, and covered the southern half of the continent—Argentina and Chile.

Yet, as the conference met, with the announced purpose of further fulfilling the general blockade against the Axis by a continental breaking of relations with all Axis nations, it was felt quite hopeful that Argentina and Chile would come in and enter the joint action wholeheartedly.

OUSTER:

Against Dye Men

Five of the principal operating executives of the General Aniline and Film corporation were summarily ousted from their position by order of the treasury department, which had been trying for several months to establish that the company actually was owned by the Nazi firm of I. G. Farbenindustrie. The men suspended, all naturalized citizens of German birth, were Dr. Rudolph Hutz, a director; Hans Aickelen and William Von Rath, both former directors who resigned within the past month; F. W. Von Meister, general manager of the Oxalid division, and Leopold Eckler, acting general manager of the Agfa-Ansco division.

They have been refused the right, among other things, to enter the premises of the company. December 12 the treasury department placed 17 of its operatives in the main offices of the company.

MISCELLANY:

London: Germans were resuming constant raids, though on a small scale, of British towns. Most of them were on the northeast coast and in East Anglia.

Rio de Janeiro: Uruguay became the second of the Latin-American republics to sign a lease-lend pact with the United States, entitling it to receive substantial shipments of arms and munitions.

DEEP WATER ISLAND

INSTALLMENT EIGHT

THE STORY SO FAR: Karen Watson, convinced by her lawyer, John Colt, that she has a claim to the island estate of her grandfather, Garrett Watson, has come to Honolulu to attempt getting the property. In an effort to find out something about the Wayne family, now in control of Alakoa, the island, she ac-

I imagine, Wayne," said John Colt smoothly, "that you are lying."

"Difficult to imagine," John Colt murmured.

"Many things that actually happen are difficult to imagine. Who would have imagined, for example, that the granddaughter of Garrett Watson would turn up on my boat wearing false whiskers? Yet I give you my word, John, that is exactly what she did."

Neither Karen nor John Colt seemed entertained.

"I see the American ambassador to Japan," Dick said; "and some tobacco company boys, going out to their stations in China; and quite a sprinkling of movie stars from Hollywood; and a gentleman who cut a throat in Singapore, to my positive knowledge."

"You are pretty well acquainted," John Colt inquired suavely, "among cutthroats?"

"Only among those indigenous to the Pacific. I also see here half a dozen gentlemen that I cannot quite place. A few years ago I would have said that they were American financiers of the hit-loot-and-run type. I had understood that conditions on the mainland were no longer favorable to those types."

"You seem well informed," Dick said. "This is a crossroads," Dick said. "You get a perspective upon both sides of the Pacific from here. But I still can't make out those wandering financiers. Oh—I get it now. Since they have been smoked out of the mainland, naturally quite a few of them would come here, of course. Fugitive empire builders, by God! John, I see you are not alone."

"Naturally," Dick said pleasantly, "quite a few of your type are here already, looking around to see if anything is lying loose. I must say, John, that your plans seem better thought out than most. I'm afraid that you are the type that thinks things through. Your prospects look excellent, John, from the outside."

"I'm inclined to think so myself," John Colt said.

"Would you say that your chances are worth one hundred thousand dollars, John?"

Only the faintest suggestion of contempt showed in John Colt's eyes as he smiled. "Have your brothers authorized you to make that offer?"

"I haven't seen them," Dick admitted; "they have already gone back to Alakoa. However, I think you will find it necessary to deal with me. I'm afraid I can't let youicker with my brothers. They're tough too easy to cheat."

"And I am afraid," John Colt said, his voice so modulated that in the general din of the lanai Dick had almost to read his lips, "that I'm not interested in dickerings with either you or your brothers."

"You definitely refuse one hundred thousand?"

"I'm sorry."

"Perhaps you'd care to make a counter offer?"

"I'm sorry," Colt said again. Tonga Dick Wayne looked at Karen Watson for a full minute, and his frivolous manner dropped away. Twice Karen met his eyes, but both times dropped hers again. Dick Wayne was looking at her with a real and unaffected regret.

"One proposition more, Colt," he said, "and this is my last. One hundred thousand dollars to you, and one-third share in Alakoa to Miss Watson."

"Miss Watson," Colt said, "is not interested in any proposition at all."

"Karen," Tonga Dick said, "you have just heard the end of your Pacific adventure."

John Colt's face was hard and serious, but there was a glint of intense satisfaction in his eyes which he could not repress.

"Don't let him worry you," he said softly to Karen. "He's shown his hand—and it's just as I said. The Waynes haven't a hope in the world. That's exactly why there has never been any reason for compromise, from the first. Unless they knew they were beaten, they would offer no compromise at all."

"Not particularly," John Colt drawled. "You have a lost case, Wayne."

"I'm going to kill your case," Dick said tonelessly. "No, I'm going to do worse to you than that—I'm going to give my brothers the means with which to kill your case. To do that will cost me a great deal, in some very obscure ways. It will, in fact, cost me more than my share of Alakoa is worth. That is why I offered to settle with you. For Miss Watson's sake, but principally for my own, I'm sorry that you refused. But you're finished, Colt—through—washed up—gone."

"I get what you mean," John Colt smiled.

"If you think a little further," Tonga Dick said, "you'll see even more clearly what I mean. Your case has one hole in it. Ask yourself what that hole is."

Karen Watson, watching John Colt's face, saw a curious thing happen then. The faint, tired smile on Colt's face lingered there still, but after a moment Karen saw that it was only the form of it that remained. Colt's eyes were fixed hard on Tonga Dick, and Karen thought she had never seen anything like the intensity of that uninking stare. If ever a man tried to look into another man's mind and take it apart, Colt was trying it now.

Dick Wayne was filling his pipe. The very fact that he was smoking a pipe at a tea dansant made him look more at ease thereby, as if he alone, of all the people on that broad lanai, was completely at home.

"You're thinking of exactly the same thing I am, John," Dick assured him softly.

Once more the eyes of the two men met and held.

"I imagine, Wayne," said John Colt smoothly, "that you are lying."

Steadily, unhurried, controlled—there was nothing in John Colt's voice to indicate that he knew what it was to doubt. Yet, somehow, Karen knew with utter certainty that Colt was shaken—more deeply shaken perhaps than he would have admitted even to himself; and when Karen saw that, she was oppressed by a gray conviction that John Colt, gambling for Alakoa, in her behalf, had irrevocably lost.

It was late in the evening when Dick dropped anchor in Alakoa's little bay, and immediately was driven up to the old house high in the gorges.

His brothers, as he might have expected, had already retired. It was surprising in how many superficial ways they imitated the virtues of James Wayne—without ever seeming to accomplish anything thereby. Dick did not cause them to be roused, at once. Instead he sent for Charles Wong, and with the assistance of the efficient Chinese set about a brief survey of the condition of Alakoa's books.

A careful audit would have been necessary in order to check through, with any accuracy, that great array of his uncle's books which recorded the financial transactions of Alakoa. Dick knew what he was looking for, however; he steamed rapidly through such of the summaries as interested him.

The story that those books told should have pleased anybody, but it did not please Dick Wayne. He was hunting for something else, the existence of which he only suspected, and to which he was perfectly certain his brothers had no clue at all.

When he had hunted a long time without result it became apparent to him that Charles Wong, under guise of assistance, was in subtle ways managing to confuse his search, and bring it to nothing. As this became definitely evident, Dick Wayne went back and searched again, and this time found what he sought. It was an inconspicuous item for the year 1930, easily brushed over, and obscure in meaning when found. It consisted of nothing more than an entry, under miscellaneous operating expense: "Old debts, $25,000."

The entry was posted where it did not belong—a practice untypical of either James Wayne or Charles Wong, and Dick turned sharply upon the Chinese.

"What debt was this?"

Washington, D. C. SCRAP IRON

It may be that those who let millions of tons of scrap iron go to Japan are not too anxious to advertise our present dearth of scrap, but the real fact is that it is so serious as to cause the shutdown of nine blast furnaces in Youngstown, Ohio, alone.

To meet the shortage, the OPM has been conducting an experimental campaign to collect scrap iron in Erie, Pa., and is launching other campaigns in Boston, Pittsburgh, Bridgeport and Akron. However, the campaign is going very slowly. Chief trouble is that collections are made through the normal scrap iron trade.

Therefore, it looks as if the American public might have to take things in hand. A survey of Butler county, Ohio, shows that every farmer has an average of about 50 pounds of usable scrap iron and rubber rusting or rotting behind his barn. On this basis, the OPM estimates that it should be possible to collect 1,500,000 tons of scrap from American farmers.

Not many people realize the importance which scrap plays in the iron and steel industry. Ordinarily, steel is made 50 per cent from ore and 50 per cent from scrap iron. But today ordinary supplies of scrap iron are diminished, not only by previous sales to Japan but by the fact that war industries supply no scrap. Many tanks, guns, and military motor trucks are shipped off to Egypt, Malaya or Russia. They never come back. Ordinarily, industry supplies its own scrap iron from junked automobiles, etc. But now there will be fewer automobiles to junk.

So the scrap iron problem is one which will require every farmer and householder to look around behind his barn or in his basement to see what he can spare for war industries.

You can check off lead as the next strategic material to be put under interdiction for civilian use. OPM's banning order will be issued shortly. That will mean the end of lead foil and numerous other items of normal everyday use. One possible exception may be lead for automobile batteries, but even that will be under severe restrictions.

Reason for the ban is inadequacy of domestic supply to meet the increasing need for bullets. War production tables call for a lead consumption of 60,000 tons monthly by June; 100,000 tons monthly by next January. For military reasons, figures on U. S. supply can not be disclosed, but it is below what is needed even with production increases now under way plus imports from Canada, Mexico and other foreign sources. So civilian use will be restricted for the duration.

WLW ICELAND
The largest standard-wave broadcasting apparatus in the U.S.A.—owned by WLW Cincinnati—may be set up in Iceland to drown out Hitler's rasping broadcasts to the German people.

For many years WLW operated a 500,000 watt station in Cincinnati, but was forced by the Federal Communications commission to reduce to 50,000 watts, which is the maximum for ordinary commercial stations in the U.S.A. Therefore, WLW has now offered its big 500,000 watt set to the government to be established in Iceland. Since Hitler's stations are nowhere near as strong as 500,000 watts, WLW's beams from Iceland could drown out his voice any time he went on the air.

Furthermore, WLW Iceland would not operate on short wave, which the German people are not permitted to hear. It would operate on a standard broadcasting beam and would come in over the ordinary German radio. By turning a button in the station in Iceland, the wavelength could be changed to cut in on any German program.

There is one catch to the proposal, however. WLW Cincinnati wants to make a deal with the government whereby it would be permitted to set up another 500,000 watt station in the United States in return for sending its equipment to Iceland.

To make more office space in Washington, the Farm Credit administration is being moved to Chicago.

Through its nation-wide co-ops, Harry Slattery's Rural Electrification administration has erected more than 370,000 miles of transmission lines. Fifty per cent of our vitamin A is being sent to England. This, together with the shortage of fish livers and oils from Norway and Japan, is causing a shortage of vitamins in the U.S.A.

My WEEK

by Eleanor Roosevelt

UNKNOWN SOLDIERS TOMB

One morning, two children, who were staying in the house, decided they would like to go to see the Unknown Soldiers Tomb, so we took them there and to Rock Creek cemetery to see St. Gauden's memorial. To me, that memorial is one of the most beautiful things in Washington, in snow or sunshine.

I said my prayers of thankfulness and of hope, with my eyes fixed on that strangely enigmatic woman's face. She lived a full life, I am sure, but I am never quite certain whether she just became resigned, or whether life gave her a complete and peaceful contentment.

Back for luncheon, after which some of our guests left, so that I spent a fairly quiet two hours in my sitting room before Mrs. Aymar Johnson came in with some English children who are staying with her. Later, about 15 political science students from Mt. Holyoke, with their teacher, Miss Victoria Schuck, came to see me.

They asked a number of questions and I arranged for them to go to the Office of Civilian Defense to find out all they could about our work. Miss Jane Seaver, of our youth activities division, came to us from Mt. Holyoke, so I am sure they found a friend and made use of the Washington Bureau of the International Student Service also.

WOMEN'S SERVICE

After writing my column one afternoon, I went over at 6:30 to the opening of the American Women's Voluntary Service Club house. They have been given the use of Mrs. Sumner Welles' stable, and they are to use it for their activities.

I hope that the attendance at the opening means that they will have a large number of workers, because I feel sure that there is plenty for them to do. There are too few places in this city for the newcomers who are department workers, or for the influx of sightseers from the camps, etc., to meet in a congenial atmosphere.

After dinner, I went up to the Library of Congress to the opening of an exhibition of South American posters. A few of our own are also shown, but I do not think we have yet learned to use our best artists, so our posters do not seem to be quite as vivid and colorful as some of those from the South American countries.

I was struck by the fact that so many of them dealt with questions of social security, housing and youth activities. I hope a great many people will see this exhibition.

TRIP TO BOSTON

Back from the poster exhibit, I dressed for the train, then had a short talk with one of the assistant directors of Civilian Defense and, finally, Miss Thompson and I made the 11:00 train for Boston. We arrived there next morning and after breakfast at the Hotel Statler, drove out to Hingham with Mrs. Frances MacGregor.

I would hardly have come at the present time, if I had not broken this engagement when I went west right after Pearl Harbor. I have been able to do some of the things which I had to give up at that time, but I am afraid I shall never be able to catch up on others.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

I listened to the President's message over the radio and wished that I could be in two places at once. It is rather an interesting thing, when you are accustomed to watching a person speak, to hear him now and then over the radio, and to have an idea of how it seems to other people who never actually see the person face to face, even when they know his voice quite well and have listened to him many times on the air.

The war news seemed a little better that evening and for some reason we all seemed in a carefree mood at dinner. Perhaps I was just happy myself because I had talked to Franklin Jr. and so imagined that everyone shared my mood.

MUNITION BASE

I had a chance to see the tremendous development at the naval ammunition base at Hingham, Mass., the next day. Then, before lunch, our hostesses, Mrs. Gordon MacGregor and Mrs. Janet Raymond, took us to a meeting of the League of Women Voters. Afterwards, Mrs. MacGregor and I went over all the very beautiful pictures for her book. Then Miss Thompson and I caught the 4:20 plane and arrived in New York city in time to dine at home and go to the theater.

THEATER PICKETS

I had planned on seeing "In Time to Come," but on getting out of the taxi, I was confronted by two pickets who belonged to the musicians union. I do not cross a picket line and so I turned in my tickets. Mr. Meyer Davis and his daughter, who came up while I was standing on the sidewalk, felt as I did about crossing the picket line.

We crossed the street and obtained tickets for "Best Foot Forward," which gave us an entertaining evening before we caught the night train to Washington.

it would mean to 'get along' with what we have. We begin to realize that discards tucked away in the attic, or piled up in a shed in the back yard, or even thrown on the village dump heap, have value.

Freedom to waste is among the luxuries we must sacrifice during the war. We've got to begin saving our resources, turning them to the best account for victory. Though we may have to pull in our belts now, in the long run the habit of saving will do us good. Perhaps after the war, when our factories begin turning out all kinds of civilian goods again, we'll make more careful use of our raw materials and have a greater appreciation of manufactured products than we've ever had before.

BLACKOUT—

Start 'Em Flying Young-- If You Want to Keep 'Em Flying

Rockport's youth has this week answered the call for model airplane builders, growing stronger each day during the war when a group of young boys organized a model airplane club under the name "Rockport Sea Gulls," with Evans Corbin, accomplished model builder and youth worker, as sponsor.

The "Rockport Sea Gulls" are initiating Rockport in this vital phase of modern youth training, grounding the boys in the principles and mechanics of aeronautics, the workings of the atmosphere, types of modern planes (so necessary to airplane spotters), and other aspects of aviation.

Officers for the club are: President, Vernon Steele; vice-president, Bill Buchanan; and Secretary-Treasurer, David Herring. Charter members include Joe Adolphus, Albert Hunt, and Jim Herring. The club is growing each day and meetings will be held each Friday night at 7:30 p. m.

Each member is required to build at least one model each month, until that time when advanced model-building will require two months for construction.

One air meet each month will be held, when prizes will be awarded to first place winners in each event.

A phase of youth training vital to the production of skilled pilots and a powerful air corps, model plane building has long been recognized as such by Germany, Russia, England and Canada. During the years that Hitler and his henchmen were building up a vast air force with a minimum of equipment, during the long period of training hundreds of thousands of young Nazis in the building and flying of aircraft, Germany instituted model-plane classes and contests that exceeded by far anything that had ever been developed for aero-modeling.

They found, as later did Russia and the other combatants in World War II, that men who have gone on into the more advanced stages of model building have less difficulty in basic air training departments than other students, and that a student who has worked with model airplanes furnishes ample proof that his interest in aviation is genuine. Modelers realize that the aviation industry requires long, intensive training periods; desires only the skilled craftsmen; has little place for the incompetent, the unwilling and the uninterested.

To "Keep 'em Flying," we must "start 'em flying," and model aviation is the best way to start 'em thinking of flying and beginning their careers in the aeronautical field.

F.B.I. Gets Man with 9 Wives; He Also Has 28 Aliases

WASHINGTON.—The F. B. I. reported the arrest of a man with at least nine wives. Agents identified him as John William Melville 40, and said he had 28 aliases, one for every arrest.

To impress the women he wooed the F. B. I. said Melville: Told them he 'spent a couple of years with the government,' but neglected to mention they were spent in a penitentiary.

Told them he was born in London, although the only London he ever saw was the London, Ohio prison camp.

Pretended to medical knowledge but failed to mention it was limited to what he learned while working in the hospital of the Ohio State Penitentiary.

Gained the confidence of women of good reputation, obtained as much of their property as possible—passed bad checks and disappeared.

Melville was arrested in Los Angeles as a probation violator and will be returned to the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth to serve out a term for bank robbery. He is listed as a native of Roanoke, Ohio.

Mother of Homer Graham Passes Away in Riviera

Mrs. Rosanna Florence Kilebreth Graham, 85, mother of Homer Graham of this city, died at 1:09 a. m. January 18, at her home in Riviera after a long illness. Interment was in the Riviera cemetery, following services at the Riviera Baptist church, Sunday afternoon.

Enlistees Must Secure Letter from Local Selective Service Board

"All applicants for enlistment henceforth will be required to present to the recruiting officer a statement from their local Selective Service Board that they are not employed in technical or key positions in war production for the Army or Navy and they have not been ordered to report for actual induction," stated Sgt. Sizemore, recruiting officer in Corpus Christi. "There are two exceptions to this rule: those who apply for immediate enlistment as aviation cadets and those 18 and 19 years old."

"Those who secure letters can still enlist, however, even after they have received their medical examination and up to the date they actually receive an order to report for induction," Sgt. Sizemore said.

Rockport Scouters Attend Boy Scout Banquet On Plaza Deck

Among the four hundred Scouters from 16 counties of the Gulf Coast Council of the Boy Scouts of America expected to be present for the annual banquet on the Plaza Hotel Deck Thursday evening, will be Rev. Hubert McGloin and Mr. and Mrs. Norvell Jackson of Rockport. Jackson is chairman of the local Troop committee.

Scheduled to begin at 7:30 o'clock, the banquet will feature an address by the Rev. R. O. Cawker, past president of the Community Chest and pastor of the First Baptist Church in Corpus Christi.

The remainder of the program will include presentation of veterans awards, recognition of 1941 Eagle Scout, investiture ceremony for 1942 officers and presentation of the Silver Beaver award.

The Rev. Mr. Cawker's address will be broadcast from 9 until 9:30 Thursday evening.

Victoria Music Festival To Be Postponed During Emergency

Scheduled for February 7, the annual Victoria Music Festival will not be held this year due to existing national conditions.

"Because of the scarcity of rubber and conservation of material time, money, etc., the festival has been postponed for the duration of the emergency," Mr. J. H. Bankston, superintendent of Victoria schools, stated.

These festivals were begun in 1936 and the Rockport Public Schools have participated in many of them. Some 60 bands attend from South Texas schools each year and present non-competitive concerts before outstanding critics.

Radio Station Features Songs By Rockport Composers

Two Rockport composers of rising renown, Misses Peggy Johnson and Betty Dolan, have heard their songs played over Radio Station K-E-Y-S in Corpus Christi several times the past month. Among these compositions are the following: "Blue Moonlight," "Navy Patrol," "Old Fashioned Waltz," "Come Down to Earth," "Lady of the Moonlight," "Petals of a Rose" and "Wake up, America."

These songs may be requested by those who would like to hear them by mailing a card to the Radio Station, or by a personal telephone call.

P. T. A. Luncheonroom Burglarized; Pavilion Looted

For the second time this winter the P.T.A. Luncheonroom was broken into by stealth and burglarized of foodstuffs and dishes.

The theft which occurred some time Monday night was more serious in nature than that which happened just before Christmas, with a great many more articles of food and dishes taken. P. T. A. authorities state that among the stolen articles were a dozen silver teaspoons, a dozen glasses, a half a bushel of apples, over a hundred peanut butter cookies that had been baked for the Tuesday lunch, 10 pounds of sugar a pound of cocoa, several pounds bacon, and an indefinite amount of canned milk and canned tomatoes.

It was reported also that the Rockport Pavilion, under the management of Miss Allyn Bunker, was broken into Tuesday evening, but that only a few trinkets were taken. The culprits left the front door of the establishment open, Miss Bunker said, but that little damage was done to the interior.
