

LARGEST INDUCTEE GROUP LEAVES MONDAY

PILOTING

With indications that the mosquito control work now being carried out by the State and Federal Health Departments will greatly reduce the mosquito menace here, citizens generally should do their part. Everyone can help by cutting weeds and cleaning up their own premises.

Rockport people will be keenly interested in a movement started last week at A. & M. College to bring about a greater utilization of the resources of the sea in this country's war effort. Hundreds of thousands of tons of food and marine life and by-products are available for the taking, according to Gordon Gunter, State Marine Biologist stationed here who attended the meeting. A program is being designed to bring about a greater use of the products of the sea, and more about this program will be given soon.

As an example of what this development of marine resources could mean to the people of the Nation as well as Aransas county, is shown in a statement regarding mullet. Mullet is considered generally in this section as a fish to be used for bait only. Along the Atlantic Coast and other sections of the Gulf Coast some 60,000,000 pounds of mullet are taken every year for food. The Texas coast yield is only from 600 to 6,000 pounds. Mullet, as evidenced by the great quantity consumed, is considered one of the finest of edible fish.

Into Joe Johnson's drug store this week walked a young man who earns money shining shoes. He bought a can of polish priced at nine cents. Handing Joe a dime the lad turned to walk away, saying: "keep the change for a tip." Joe grinned, said thank you, and kept the penny.

Louis Cox, sports editor of the Dallas Times-Herald, was the guest Thursday of Carl Gentry on his boat for a trip to the Gulf Mackerel fishing. With Cox were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Autry, also of Dallas. Out on the Gulf the party began chasing mackerel schools, caught an ice-box full—besides a 25 pound king fish taken by Cox. They did so much casting about and fishing that on the return trip the boat ran out of gas within a few miles of Rockport. The Dallas party went out on the Gary Edith on Wednesday, the guests of J. H. Mills, and while here stayed at the Oak Shore Apartments.

Out Dallas also comes a letter from "a satisfied customer" to Jack Blackwell of the Chamber of Commerce: Quote: "Outside of the big rain on Sunday night our vacation at Rockport was delightful and we will remember it for a long time. The fishing was excellent, the accommodations were superb and the people were so courteous and friendly that it was a delight to spend the time there. We will be very glad to pass the news on to others and we hope to return next year for a longer stay. Want to personally thank you for the help you gave us." —E. F. Zarr.

Fire Dept. Sponsors Life Saving Program Sunday

Public Invited To Attend Meet At Rio Theatre

Lecture and Demonstration On Artificial Respiration To Be Held

Everyone is invited and urged to attend a lecture and demonstration Sunday afternoon on artificial respiration at the Rio Theatre. The demonstration, to give the public a general idea of life-saving measures now in use, is set for 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon and is being sponsored by the Aransas County Emergency Corps and the Rockport Fire Department.

"The demonstration will be open to the general public, except children," Edward Barnard, fire chief, said. "All public officials, members of civic organizations, officials of Rice Bros. & Co. Shipyard and Navy personnel are especially urged to be present."

Purpose of the program will be to familiarize the public with the modern methods of artificial respiration now in use here, including the use of the inhalator, and to create a better understanding of this work.

Lectures will be given by Fire Chief Hugh Brinkley and Assistant Chief Bob Dodson of Corpus Christi, and possibly by one or two officers of the Department of Public Safety.

Federal Officers Take Fugitive Captured Sunday

Federal officers assumed custody Tuesday of Vernon Miller, 23, fugitive from the Ohio State penitentiary, taking him to Corpus Christi where he was charged with violation of the Dyer Act in Commissioner's Court before J. S. Mount.

Miller had been held in Aransas County jail since his arrest Sunday morning at Cavasso Creek bridge following a man hunt begun Saturday afternoon and continuing through the night. More than 30 men patrolled highways and roads and combed the brush for the man who made his escape by covering two border patrolmen and Marshall V. Clark, Game Warden stationed here; with a gun when they stopped to question him on Highway 35 near Lamar Saturday.

The fugitive first attracted the attention of the officers when they noticed the car with a Massachusetts license plate parked on the wrong side of the road two miles north of Lamar with the man asleep in it.

They aroused him and asked for identification papers. He produced a registration card which showed that he had not been classified. Unable to produce papers on the car, he was asked to show his driver's license. Saying that it was in his suitcase the man got out of the car on the opposite side from the officers, and reaching into the bag brought out a gun, with which he held the investigators at bay while he backed down the road and disappeared into the brush. Several shots were fired at him.

A posse was organized and watches placed on all exits from the county. More than thirty volunteers entered the search which lasted through the night. The hunted man was spotted about seven-thirty the next morning under the bridge over Cavasso Creek by a high school boy named Gormey.

Gormey went for assistance, meeting Ben Earp and M. W. Haynes who took Miller in charge. The prisoner said that the mosquitoes had nearly driven him to give up several times during the night.

He was badly scratched and his clothes were torn, but he is said to have been quite calm, both upon being arrested and on the preceding afternoon.

Before Sevastopol Fell to Nazi Hordes

Sevastopol, gallantly defended Russian bastion, added another glorious chapter to its history before it fell to the invading Nazis. More than 100,000 Nazis fell here, according to the Russians. ### Red Cross Meet

Mrs. Dwight Davis of Washington, D. C., national director of volunteer services of the American Red Cross, is shown in Los Angeles shortly after her arrival to attend the first Red Cross conference to be held since the start of this war. More than 60 women leaders of Red Cross volunteer activities attended the three-day conference.

later to F. B. I. agents, Miller told a story of prison sentences beginning when he was 18 years old, on charges of burglary and assault with firearms. He was serving a term on an Ohio prison farm at the time of his recent escape. He stated that his prison "buddies" knew of his intention to "run" and supplied him with money to go to Maine and buy a "rod". Upon leaving Maine he headed for Corpus Christi.

Malaria Control Group Covers Standing Water With Oil And Opens Drainage

"Most of the area now breeding mosquitoes has been sprayed with oil and it should be covered by the end of the week", stated Aubrey L. Willard, area engineer of Zone 4, in charge of Malaria Control under the direction of the State Health Department, Wednesday.

An emergency crew of ten men and a foreman were put to work here Friday. The crew was divided into two groups, one oiling and the other cleaning and draining ditches. In five days work 960 gallons of oil had been used Willard said.

The area will be sprayed again next week, but without more rain, there will be less water to cover, due to the draining and evaporation, and the crew will give more time to opening of existing ditches for draining.

The emergency crew will be kept on here until the regular crew of Zone 4, which includes Aransas, Kleberg and Nueces counties, is able to resume work here, Willard said. The Malaria Control group has been operating here, spraying or checking conditions at least once each week since May 1, at which time Dr. George W. Cox, chief of the State Health Department, designated Rockport as a defense area due to the concentration of navy personnel and defense workers.

There is little evidence of a malaria mosquito in this vicinity but the department is interested in preventing any possibility of its breeding. After the recent heavy rains here, Dr. Cox in answer to an appeal from the city gave permission to hire extra men to control the breeding places in Rockport and within a one mile radius of the city, since one mile is the average range of the malaria mosquito.

Beginning in the south part of town the crew has worked back and forth across the streets and is expected to work outside the city limits next week.

Little Evidence Of Malaria Mosquito In Rockport Vicinity

"We hope Rockport gets relief from the mosquitoes by next week, which will be less time than it usually takes", Willard said, and added that the public health service would operate here for the duration and that the area would be checked regularly.

"We have been asked why there are still so many mosquitoes, and there are several reasons", he said in explaining the habits of the insect. The most prevalent type here is the 'salt marsh' mosquito a pest only, which is capable of traveling 30 or 40 miles with favorable winds.

The average life of a mosquito is two or three weeks, and could be longer but for their natural enemies.

The eggs now hatching may be from one to three years old, having lain dormant until conditions were favorable.

The male mosquito does not bite, only the female. It is necessary for her to have a blood meal before she can lay. Having acquired the meal she proceeds to a body of water to deposit eggs. If the water is coated with a film of oil, the mosquito is stuck and soon dies.

Petty Officer Fined For Hunting Out Of Season

Six doves, one quail and one bullbat cost John Robert DeForrest, a chief petty officer, U. S. Navy, $36 in justice court Tuesday morning.

New Kaufman Department Store Will Open July 24

Opening date of the new Kaufman Department Store has been set for Friday, July 24, Sam Kaufman, owner announces this week.

Installation of fixtures and re-finishing of the store are nearing completion. Quantities of new merchandise have already arrived and are being placed on the shelves, Kaufman said.

A special section devoted to the opening of the new store will be included in next week's issue of the Pilot, with announcements of important attractions for the opening day.

Group May Return Here After Exams

Those Accepted For Army Will Have Two Weeks To Prepare

Leaving Monday morning, the largest quota to be called for induction from Aransas county will report to Ft. Sam Houston for examination. Upon being accepted by the army the men may secure a 14 day leave before going into active service.

The following men will leave here at eight o'clock the morning of the 20th: Amos G. Adolphus, W. B. Allen, Eugene C. Bracht, James L. Brasher, Mordis W. Britton, Guy R. Barber, John Baugh, Maurice R. Curry, Malcolm Campbell, James C. Clinton, Jose Covarrubias, Lyle F. Diederick, Thomas P. Delgado, Harry E. Dunkerberger, Willis H. Dakin, Ben A. Earp, Arthur G. Gray, Willis J. Gaedcke, John William Hawes, John E. Harvey, Charlie H. Henning, Edwin W. Koenning, Ramon DeLeon, Ernest V. Leal, Thomas L. Laird, Samuel D. McCulloch, Marion L. McElveen, Jessie Owens, D. D. Reed, Floyd A. Rouquette, Chris C. Rooke, William H. Stanley, Perry E. Shaylor, Charlie M. Shedd, Archie W. Salch, Galton E. Wilcox, George Walker.

San Antonio Rose Added to Rockport Pleasure Craft

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Thurmond of San Antonio have selected Rockport as home port for their brand new pleasure boat, the San Antonio Rose, and as headquarters for their vacation fun.

The San Antonio Rose put into the yacht basin Wednesday night, being brought from Corpus Christi by the Thurmonds. She is a 26 foot Chris Craft deluxe cabin cruiser, with dinette. The boat accommodates four persons, and will be kept at Morrison's Boat House.

"We have looked all along the Gulf Coast", Thurmond, who is in the oil business, said, "and we decided that Rockport is the most delightful vacation spot to be found."

The Lady Cora Goes Into Service For Coast Guard

Largest of the motor yachts in Rockport's pleasure fleet, the Lady Cora, goes on war duty in the Coast Guard service soon, according to Mrs. T. Noah Smith, owner.

Notice that the Lady Cora would be needed by the government was received by Mrs. T. Noah Smith Wednesday, and that she will probably be called for next week. This is the second boat the Smiths have given over to the service. The Adroit II, Smith's own cruiser was one of the first to be taken, she has been on duty since January. The boats will be returned to their owners after the war.

A farewell cruise on the Lady Cora was taken Wednesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Smith and their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Kramer and their daughter Miss Jane Kramer, of San Angelo; Mrs. Werner Beckmann; Mrs. Jim Smith and her daughter, Miss Jerry Smith of San Antonio; Kay Bynum; George Smith, U. S. N.; Waldon Smith, Jr.; and Chick Roberts were aboard.

Miss Dorothy Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson of Sinton, is a guest of her cousin, Miss Shirley Johnson.

Gene Shults, former Rockport citizen and employee of the Pilot, has returned here to again work in the mechanical department of the paper. For the past several years he has been employed by the Texas State Highway Dept. in Gonzales county, having resided at Gonzales and Nixon.

Mr. and Mrs. Shults and their children, Berta Jean and Wayne Ray, arrived in Rockport Thursday afternoon to make their home.

NEW IDEAS for Home-makers

UPHOLSTERY repair work is rather costly hand labor. However, if you can clear a corner where you may work on it a little at a time, it is easy to do.

SUPPOSE we could put on a baseball carnival that included Cy Young, Ty Cobb, Nap Lajoie, Tris Speaker, Joe Jackson, Ed Walsh, Babe Ruth, George Sisler, Rogers Hornsby and Hans Wagner. It would be something to look at—especially for those who carry memories of other baseball days.

Or suppose you could put on a series of fights that knew such names as Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, John Lawrence Sullivan, Jim Jeffries, Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney and Joe Louis.

Turning Back the Clock. When it comes to turning back the clock in Chicago's golf ensemble we can give you Chick Evans, an ex-caddie from the Edgewater G. C. in Chicago, who was a star golfer 35 years ago—and who is still good.

Or we can give you Walter Hagen who threatened at Brookline in 1913, and came along to win the U. S. Open in 1914 at Midlothian, Chicago.

Or Bobby Jones who starred at Merion in 1916, only 26 years ago, at the age of 14.

Or Gene Sarazen, who at the age of 20, won the U. S. Open at Skokie, another Chicago course, in 1922—a mere lapse of 20 years.

And don't think that Jones and Sarazen can't break 70 today.

Hagen, Jones and Sarazen together have won something like 30 national and international championships. Jones and Hagen have been the two great golfers of all times and when it comes to the combined check-up of skill and color Sarazen isn't far away.

The Modern Group. No one could expect Cobb, Ruth, Speaker, Young, Lajoie, Sisler or Hornsby to compete with the present day crop—Ted Williams, Joe Gordon, Bobby Doerr, Joe DiMaggio, Pete Reiser, Terry Moore, and others.

So no one could expect Jones, Hagen, Sarazen and other old-timers to match scoring swings with Byron Nelson, Ben Hogan, Sammy Sneed or Craig Wood.

But this is one outstanding feature of golf. The old-timers, here and there still will play holes and shots as brilliantly as any Nelson, Hogan or Sneed can produce.

They no longer have the physical or the concentrative stamina to hook up shot after shot through 72 holes. This means a twelve or a fourteen-hour grind, where there is no let-up on nerve pressure—where only those who have battled from coast to coast, week after week through many months, are well enough seasoned to go the route.

But these old-timers still can play all the shots any of the modern crop can produce.

The only trouble is that they can't link them together, stroke after stroke, and hole after hole. It is the linking process that counts. Even 20-handicap golfers have made holes in one, or hammered brassie shots dead against the pin.

So it would be foolish to expect any member from the Old Guard to keep on the heels of a Nelson, Hogan or Sneed, to mention only three members from the modern group.

Jones and Sarazen might—in an 18-hole test. But not over the 72-hole route, where concentration and nerves begin to disintegrate and fall apart, and the old urge fades out—not overlooking a little matter known as youth—competitive youth.

For all that, the golfers hang on the longest. They still can stick around when the others are merely records covered with dust.

A Faster Pace. There isn't any debating the fact that modern golfers have set a faster pace than old-timers could offer. Their game is more standardized—a 270-yard drive and then a wallop for the pin.

But I still think they lack the variety of shots old-timers could play—the half and three-quarter iron, for example.

The dynamiter or blaster of the modern crop has made a big difference in bunker play. You also can call it the "wedge."

Kathleen Norris Says:

On Week-End Visits Take Food With You

When you go on a week-end visit take along things your host and hostess really need, not ridiculous toys that bore the children, or candy, but essentials such as coffee, split broilers, butter, tinned ham, eggs, bread.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

YOU'LL BE WELCOME. As a week-end guest are you always sure of your welcome?

If not, then here's a tip that will do much to insure a standing invitation. Don't burden yourself with a lot of expensive, useless gifts for your host or hostess.

When a young couple buy a suburban home they are in for a delightful experience. The sun-flooded rooms, the privacy, the garden, the very feeling of owning the ground under their feet and the roof over their heads is wonderful; it is a feeling all young persons ought to have.

Perhaps the most enjoyable phase of it is the opportunity it offers for hospitality. Bob and Betsy are enchanted by that extra bedroom and bathroom. Betsy puts all sorts of pretty furnishings in, finishes the bathroom with pink soap and pink towels, equips the dressing-table with a score of pink trifles to match its pink bows.

They can't wait for the fun of having Martha and David down, and when they arrive she exultingly announces that Lydia and Sam, Sonya and Phil are coming in for lunch the next day, too.

Costly Hospitality. It is only after two or three week-ends that Bob and Betsy look at the bills, look ruefully at each other, and add up the bills again. The cost of the soft drinks, coffee, butter, ice, lemons, ham, soap, laundry work, firewood and telephone charges that this happy hospitality represents simply appalls them.

They can't keep it up! But they don't know how to stop it. Sundays are hot in town and their lovely garden isn't very far away. Out come the friends, to sit panting under Bob's trees, to present the small son and daughter with seven-dollar snowy lambs or large complicated games, to hand Betsy a box of rich candy and to feel that these gifts entitle them to about twenty dollars' worth of food, drink, service, rooms and comfort.

Everything else has changed this year, and it is for visiting friends to change this, too. When you go on a week-end visit take things the Bobs really need, not ridiculous toys that only bore the children, or candy that gives everyone prickly heat.

Load up your car with such essentials as coffee, split broilers, cases of bottled drinks, pounds of butter, tinned hams, eggs, bread. You'll find a warmer welcome from flushed little Mrs. Bob than you ever got before.

This rule obviously doesn't apply to big establishments, where a staff of servants is kept. The older persons who manage such homes are prepared for the onslaught upon their ice-boxes. But to any couple of moderate means, living quietly with no help or part-time help, your loaded grocery box will be a blessing, and brighten the week-end for your hosts as well as yourselves.

Inherited a Farm. "For many years," writes an Iowa wife, "my brother and sister, their wife and husband, and from one to five children have been coming out to us for every holiday they could seize. We're all country bred and when we inherited this farm on the death of Jim's grandfather, loud and envious were the shrieks from the rest of the clan.

"Immediately we built an outdoor kitchen and dining-arbor, put hammocks on the porches and told the family it was open house. Jim shared the crop profits with the tenant farmer; I was in heaven, with plenty of fresh air, milk, eggs, fruit for my babies—from the first week I wanted to share it with those I loved. When he came home at noon on Saturdays, Jim had marketed for me, and sometimes the list was as long as my arm.

"One month that first summer my grocery bill, exclusive of the milk, vegetables, butter, eggs and so on from the farm, was more than one hundred dollars. We had to call a halt.

"We all had an honest talk. It was an agonizing talk for Jim and me. We told them all frankly what the trouble was; that an occasional box of candy, swim suits for the children, guest soaps and guest towels, although welcome and charming gifts, did not pay our bills.

A Practical Suggestion. "My husband's brother, a prosperous doctor, who adores our farm, and is never so happy as when he and Jim and the other men are felling trees, building a dam, gathering fruit, working themselves exhausted, was first with a practical suggestion.

"When Minna and I bring the girls out here," he announced, "we'll bring food to the amount of three dollars apiece. Any other outing would cost us that, and this is our favorite outing."

"We protested of course, and we finally did get them to cut it down to two dollars apiece. Since then, and that was eleven years ago, when my sister and her husband, or my brother and his wife, bring their boys here, they bring between them eighteen dollars worth of food. This means that all week long I don't pay a cent for groceries, that their coming—always welcome—is doubly welcome because it means no strain on my budget. On the contrary, they call me the rich old boarding-house keeper, and I don't care a bit.

"Also, I think it gets children into responsible habits. When ours go away for a visit they always ask me for jams, fresh eggs, bacon, fruit or butter as a present for their hosts. 'What would they like, mother? What shall I take?' are questions heard as often as 'What can I wear?' Or 'Where's my tennis racket?'

Something to Remember. "Now, this year of all years," this helpful letter continues, "I think this is something to remember. Remember that if your host on a hot day turns himself into a sort of bar-keeper, and is going back and forth with glasses all the time, that that costs a surprising lot of money. To find a case of soft drinks costly established near your ice-box, when the guests have gone, is to burst into a sort of prayer of gratitude: 'Well, God bless old Tom! He never forgets!'

Letter to the German-American Bund:

Thanks for betraying yourselves. Some of us have been hollering all along that the Bund was a school for traitors. The FBI just snatched eight saboteurs from Berlin who confirmed it. That was very helpful. It may even shut the mouths of certain disreputable American dopes, but don't bet on it. From the beginning we always argued that you had to be a sneak and a cut-throat to get into the Bund. We figured that a guy hired to sell out a country that sheltered, fed and welcomed him had to be a 100 per cent no-good. The dopes claimed you were nice guys—just misunderstood. So thanks again for coming forward and proving yourselves rats.

All eight of the dynamiters under arrest were Bundists, they admitted. So you see where that leaves you, don't you? It puts the official Nazi stamp on your activities. It comes out that the Nazi consul in New York, San Francisco, New Orleans, etc., directed you. It doesn't jell with your claim that you ganged up for athletics and to improve German-American relations.

But then I suppose you can get a few laughs out of fooling those distinguished American dopes. Those so-called good citizens who squatted on Bund platforms and orated how wonderful you were. I'll bet you felt good that night in Madison Square Garden, when they came right out for you. Remember the incident? Dorothy Thompson (the canny girl) spotted you for scum—so you threw her out. You must have been proud of the way you tamed those Americans, who roosted on the rostrum and let you get away with it. They even agreed that Miss Thompson was a trouble-maker. That must have killed you: Americans calling Dorothy Thompson—from a Bund platform yet—a trouble-maker!

How do you like that $170,000 the eight saboteurs carried over here? That's bad. They had to explain it as bribe money, you know, to pay off the subversives for help to blow up war plants, bridges, stores, etc. That looks like something that involves you Bundists. You can bet your dialects that if the saboteurs know any subversive people, they met them at Bund rallies. See where it leaves you? You have no idea of the record Mr. Whiskers has of your chumps. He used to jot down your license number when you came to meeting in your car. Ach! Dot Hoover!

The hell of it is this: You don't know just how much J. Edgar Hoover has on you. He's so wily, that Hoover. He puts out so much to the papers, then holds out quite a lot to work on. That's why you don't know when your front door is going to be kicked in and you'll have to explain how come. It was a bad day for you, wasn't it, when you chumped up with these eight? The minute they're in trouble—boppo—they drag you into it. A fine way for the Master Race to behave.

And don't expect a lift from Hitler. You Bundists are cheap labor. He can buy you in herds. He uses you, but the minute you can't take care of yourself he throws you to the wolves. What makes you think you punks mean anything to him when he butchers his own generals when they fail to deliver the goods? And look how he left Fatzio Fritz Kuhn out on a limb. Fatzio was dumb, but he worked hard. Worked like a dog, but the minute things went wrong what did Der Fuehrer say? He said: "The Reich cannot concern itself with stupid failure." See? He wouldn't even send you a copy of Social Justice to while away the time in jail.

And have you been reading about all the Bundist suicides right here in New York? And can you be sure they were suicides? Lots of the Bundists are better off dead, especially since the FBI's roundup. They had too much to tell, in case the law reached them. So they were found in the river. Or maybe they fell eight stories into Yorkville. How about you, Fritz? And you, too, Hans? Are you too informed? Be very careful. Some bosom pal is going to drop in some night and shoot you right through the square haircut—and blow all the data right out of your head. Working for Hitler is a tough way to make a pfennig.

Any way you look at it, it's a pretty stiff price you're going to pay for strutting around in brown shirts and feeling good about being the Master Race. You can't be very proud of your fellow Aryans for the way they wretched. You wouldn't catch the Czechs doing that. Those brave people, unarmed and conquered, told your armed bullies to go hell themselves when they were tortured for a squeal on who sent Heydrich to hell. More than 800 of them died before they'd please a Nazi.

Washington, D. C. BEHIND RAF RAIDS

Few people outside the inner circle know it, but the recent bombing raids on Bremen, Cologne, Essen, have been accomplished in part through the farsightedness of Ed Stettinius Jr., who, long ago saw the importance of high octane gas and demanded that the administration start large scale production.

Stettinius has taken it on the chin regarding the slowness of aluminum production and has admitted he was wrong. (Real reason for the tragic error was his reliance on Aluminum Corporation of America figures). But on two other vital commodities he was way out in front.

One of these was rubber. Stettinius was the first to see the need of building synthetic rubber factories to prepare for the fall of Singapore and began dining on Jesse Jones for nearly a year before he could get Jesse to move.

The other commodity was high octane gasoline, without which the current bombing raids could not take place. One bomber takes about 1,000 gallons of gasoline to fly from England to Germany and back, so with 1,000 bombers staging a raid, 1,000,000 gallons of fuel is used up in one night.

U. S. PRISONERS IN BATAAN

Ex-Undersecretary of the Interior Jack Dempsey has taken up with the American Red Cross the problem of getting a Red Cross representative in Manila to look out for U. S. prisoners from Bataan and Corregidor.

So far, the Japs have not permitted a Swiss Red Cross representative in Manila, though they have admitted Swiss representatives to Tokyo, Shanghai and Hong Kong.

No excuse has been given by the Japs for not permitting a Swiss representative in Manila, but U. S. officials presume it is because they don't want anyone from the outside world to see what is going on there.

Meanwhile, however, the treatment of U. S. prisoners in Japan and China is reported to be good. The Swiss representatives make regular reports, state that American prisoners have no complaints, that sheets on the beds are changed frequently, and that married men are allowed to go to see their wives every week-end.

ROYAL PRESS CONFERENCE

At King Peter's conference with the press, the Yugoslav monarch was completely poised, though admitting the camera men faced him a bit. With characteristic zeal they monopolized the proceedings with popping flash-bulbs.

A reporter asked Peter what his outstanding impressions were of the U. S.

"One that stands out is your friendliness," he answered promptly. "Everywhere I have gone I have noticed that."

"Does that include photographers?"

"Well, they are persistent, aren't they? I wouldn't mind if they didn't keep shooting off things in my face."

TANKER-SAVING PIPELINE

American automobile owners don't know it, but indirectly they had the British to thank for the final decision to build a new pipeline from the South to the Middle West.

Secretary Ickes had been urging construction of this pipeline for more than a year—always being rebuffed by the War Production board.

Part of Ickes' argument was that it was foolish to waste American tankers by having them carry oil all the way to England from the Gulf of Mexico. If, on the other hand, tankers could load oil and gasoline at a Middle Atlantic port, they could save 1,000 miles of travel and reduce the exposure to submarine attack. Tankers are getting scarce these days, and the shorter the distance they have to steam, the more trips they can make.

Ickes put forth this argument emphatically at the last hearing before the War Production board, but was rebuffed by Lieut. Gen. Brehon Somervell, head of the army's service of supplies. Somervell pooh-poohed the idea that England was hard up for oil or gasoline, said he had just returned from there, and that Ickes' argument was pure poppycock.

Ickes made no immediate reply, but cabled the British government. The British were boiling mad, and the reply he received clinched the matter. The War Production board decided Somervell didn't know much about British oil supplies. The pipeline was ordered built.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Capitol insiders are betting that before the tax bill finally emerges from congress it will contain some kind of provision for compulsory war savings as an anti-inflation measure. Secretary Morgenthau has been opposed to this, but recently seems willing to shift his view.

Former OPM boss William Knudsen, in his new role as a lieutenant-general in the army, has inspected 285 war plants and in many of them he has recommended changes which have increased production.

DEATH OF A COUSIN
WASHINGTON. — One afternoon the sad news was telephoned to me that my cousin, Mr. Henry Parish, had died very suddenly. When I was young he was always more than kind to me. Mrs. Parish is my godmother and my mother's double first cousin, so she always took great interest in me and in my younger brothers. My brother Hall and I spent many vacation months with them and Mr. Parish did a great deal to teach us to enjoy the out-of-doors.

Later, when I tried to master my own finances, he was patient with me. Though he could never quite teach me the intricacies of double entry bookkeeping, nor make me keep the kind of accounts which he thought were presentable, still he did a great deal to help me manage my own money. I owe him a debt of gratitude, not only for many good times, but for valuable discipline.

In the last years of his life, it must often have been very difficult for him to accept many of the things for which my husband and I stood. Yet he was always sweet to me and ready to offer help if there was anything he could do of a personal nature.

I know that none of us has any idea of how many people he has helped and who have depended upon him, both in a business way and in his private life. None of the people who were close to him will know how much he did for them until they miss the little daily things which he did so unobtrusively. I have rarely known a more disciplined or more unselfish character, and I am sure his influence will live long after him.

VISIT IN THE SOUTH
NEW YORK CITY. — I found some friends staying in the house when I reached Washington on return from New York and two of them even joined me at a very early breakfast before I went off to Richmond, Va., by train. Because of some difficulty with a pipe, we were three-quarters of an hour late in leaving Washington, and by the time we reached Richmond, we were one hour and a half late.

I knew that Governor Darden and some of the officers of the Veterans of Foreign Wars were planning to meet me. Luckily, they had discovered how late the train was and all we had to do was to hurry through lunch. We reached the hall on time and I was sorry I was not able to stay for the whole meeting.

The governor took me on the afternoon plane, so we had an opportunity to talk for a little while. I was impressed by his sincerity and interest in a number of questions which are very important to his own state and to all southern states today.

He would like to see his state do on a state scale what the Farm Security Administration does on a national scale, in making more productive the poorer farms of the state. If every state would do that, we would cease having soil erosion. We would soon have more intelligent farming which would improve the land for the future and produce more for people to eat and to market at the present time.

U. S. BOYS IN IRELAND

I think you will all be interested in a quotation from a letter which has just reached me. Lady Reading, who heads the Women's Voluntary services in England, writes: "I have just come back from Northern Ireland, where I met a great number of your people and visited some of your camps. I was immensely struck by the extremely nice type of boy and the freshness of his outlook as well as the sincerity of his beliefs. I do hope they can be mediumly happy on this side of the Atlantic, and that we shall not fail in according to them the measure of welcome we wish so earnestly to give them and that we are so characteristically tongue-tied in giving."

Lady Reading is a fine person and has done extraordinary work in organizing the British women. I hope that in every community which is near a camp where British boys are training as cadets in this country, our Women's Voluntary services will take an interest in their welfare and make them feel at home and try to create a better understanding between them and our own boys.

There is no use thinking that because the British speak English we shall automatically be friends. We sometimes find their particular brand of English hard to understand and they look upon ours as equally odd.

CO-OPERATIVE ARTISTIC GROUP

The Yiddish Theater division for the Army and Navy Relief funds is giving a benefit at the National theater in New York City. I hope very much that it will be very successful. I am much impressed by the way in which the theatrical and other artistic groups throughout the country have actually given, not only of their money, but of their time for these benefit performances. They have brought in a great deal of money throughout the nation and I think all of us are grateful.

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE
Released by Western Newspaper Union.
LARRY PARKS, young Columbia Pictures' leading man, and eight other lads who are making their first bid for screen fame have taken over the 26-room house once owned and occupied by the late Thomas Meighan. Larry, who heads the group, has an important role in the Astaire-Hayworth musical, "You Were Never Lovelier." He says it cost only $14.75 to furnish the house—it cost Meighan more than $9,000! They've thrown four rooms together and built a theater in which they rehearse parts for pictures coming up. There is a large portrait of Tom Meighan over the living room fireplace—they picked it up in a Hollywood prop house.

The sponsors who, seven years ago, were farsighted enough to see the potentialities of an obscure radio couple and build them into the famed Fibber McGee and Molly, give radio another innovation this summer; they're substituting a

John Nesbitt and Meredith Willson

Metro news commentator and a musician in a half-hour replacement program while Fibber and Molly vacation. The commentator is John Nesbitt, the musician, Meredith Willson. The program combines music with snatches of history, literature and current events.

Walt Disney, whose "Bambi" will soon be released through RKO, has acquired the screen rights to Major Alexander P. de Seversky's "Victory Through Air Power," and will make it into a feature picture for exhibition sometime this fall.

Imagine Charles Boyer producing and acting in something called "Flesh and Fantasy." It will be his first production for Universal; he'll star in one episode, Edward G. Robinson in another, and let's hope they change the title!

Capt. Hewitt Wheelers, the army flier who was cited by the President for his exploits in the Pacific war, will play himself in a short subject, "Beyond the Line of Duty," which Warner Brothers will produce for the army air corps.

This shortage of leading men has proved too much for Harold Lloyd. He's produced two pictures for RKO, "A Girl, a Guy and a Gob" and "My Favorite Spy" and has left the studio. His next picture would have been "Butterfingers," a football comedy.

Samuel Goldwyn will select six of the loveliest and most talented secretaries of Washington, D. C., for roles in "They Got Me Covered," co-starring Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour. The story brings out the part that Washington secretaries play in helping to run the government; it's said that they arrive in Washington at a rate of 5,000 daily!

The biggest all-star lineup ever gathered for a summer radio show is the one that Bob Hawk's sponsors have booked for Friday nights; it's a 60-minute show featuring Xavier Cugat's orchestra, Connie Boswell and Margo, Lanny Ross and a new comedian, Herb Shriner.

Richard Denning, male lead in "Beyond the Blue Horizon," has held many of filmdom's stars in his arms. He made the test with Veronica Lake which won her her role in "I Wanted Wings." Paulette Goddard got her Paramount contract after making a test with him; Ellen Drew's test set her for "If I Were King"; Mary Martin's put her into "The Great Victor Herbert," her first film role. A closeup of his chest substituted for one of Bob Hope's; his back did the same for Bob Burns'. Now he's getting a chance, all of him, in the Lamour picture.

ODDS AND ENDS — Paramount plans to present the Quiz Kids in feature films following the completion of their present series of short subjects at that studio. . . Ruth Hussey takes another step toward well-deserved stardom with the role of Mrs. Andrew Johnson in "The Man on America's Conscience" . . . Eddie Albert will play opposite Lupe Velez in "Ladies Day," a comedy of the woman's side of big league baseball. . . Patricia Morison wants a horse—but don't send her one unless it's a 14-hand Palomino. . . Metro has bought "Cabin in the Sky," one of last season's most successful musicals.

Vegetable Preparation and Processing Guide

Stock Those Shelves

Well-justified pride is yours if you can gaze at the summer's crop of vegetables, nicely put up on your canning shelf for, comes the winter, you have but to open one of those brightly colored jars with tomatoes, peas, beans, beets or carrots or any of the other vegetable favorites and part of that well balanced meal is planned and on its way to the table.

Time was when canning was an unscientific and highly questionable process, but all this is past now, and you can now put up any of the vegetable and victory garden produce, and be certain that it will be attractive to look at, good to eat, and will not be spoiled if you take the simple precautions that make for successful canning.

Safest method for canning vegetables is by the pressure cooker. Your concern here is to be sure to process the exact length of time the vegetable requires, as indicated by the table at the top. If not properly processed, the food will spoil.

Selecting Vegetables.
Young, tender vegetables, freshly gathered, give you the best finished product. Canning cannot remedy tough, over-mature produce, so do not expect it to. Nor, should you expect to can what you cannot dispose of at the table while fresh. Commercial canners use vegetables grown to order, not leftovers, so it behooves you, homemakers, to take a tip from them.

Cleanliness is important. You'll enjoy letting cool water trickle, trickle over the vegetables to free them entirely of every trace of soil. Any soil left on the vegetable can carry bacteria, and thus be a major factor in spoiling an otherwise good product.

Process the jars of vegetables as soon as they are packed, never allowing them to stand around until you get to the serious business of canning.

Spoilage Factors.
Mold, yeast and bacteria cause food spoilage. They lurk in air, soil and water and must be destroyed by proper processing if the food is to keep in perfect condition. Then to assure food keeping well be sure the jar cover is fastened as tightly as possible. This you can do by any number of available devices.

It is also important when packing the jars, after vegetables have been precooked and you are spooning them into the jars, to wipe off any excess before fastening on the cover. Any small particles which lodge between cover and jar will cause spoilage.

Cooling the Jars.
Proper cooling is important to the good keeping of canned food. Do not

Lynn Says:

How many jars will it take? That's the question many home canners are asking when it comes to figuring the number of jars she should have.

Here are hints on some of the common canned goods:
Tomatoes: 3 pounds yield a quart jar.
String Beans: 1 bushel yields 17 to 20 quart jars.

Greens: 1 bushel spinach yields 13 pints; 1 bushel dandelions yields 15 pints.

Corn: 100 ears of golden Bantam makes about 14 pints.

Beets: 12 pounds yields 6 pints in the stalk, 2 pint jars, if cut in pieces.

Peas: 1 bushel pods yields 14 pints.

set them in a draft, but rather away from one, with jars far enough apart to allow a free circulation of air around them.

Stacking the jars or covering them with a cloth does not allow for free circulation of the air. Jars should not be packed in boxes or in the canning cupboard until they are properly cool.

When the jars are cool, test to see if they are sealed properly, by taking a spoon and tapping the lid gently. If they give off a clear, ringing sound, they are properly sealed. If the sound is low and dull, there's a leak somewhere, and you would do best to re-can the food, and prevent spoilage.

Sterilizing Jars, Caps, Lids.

To dip the jars, lids and caps in hot or warm water is not proper sterilization. Before placing in sterilizer, wash all caps and jars and lids in soapy suds, then rinse thoroughly. Place in a pan on a rack or on a cloth laid on the bottom of the pan and pour warm water over them. Bring to a boil and boil for 15 minutes. The equipment may stay in the hot water longer, until you are ready to use it.

Speed Is Necessary.

The time from which the vegetables or fruit are picked and canned should be pared down to exceed not more than two hours. Changes take place in the composition of the food which makes it less desirable for canning, each hour it is allowed to stand without being canned.

Packing the Food.

Sandwiching the food down in the jars too tightly prevents the heat from getting around it and will result in improper processing. Especially important is a fairly loose packing with vegetables like corn, peas, greens and lima beans.

If liquid boils away or evaporates during processing, do not replace this other liquid before sealing the jar. Even though all the vegetables or fruits are not covered with juice, they will keep perfectly well, provided the contents are cooked properly and sealed well.

Since tomatoes are technically a fruit and are acid, they are canned differently from vegetables.

Tomatoes.

Scald tomatoes in boiling water 1 minute. Soak in cold water 1 minute. Peel, core and pack into sterilized jars. Add 1 teaspoonful of salt to each jar and cover with boiling water or tomato juice to within 1/2 inch of the top. Put on cap, screw tightly and place in pressure cooker for 10 minutes at 5 pounds, in a hot water bath for 35 minutes or in the oven for 75 minutes.

Vegetable Soup Mixture.

- 1 large onion (cut fine)
- 1 quart tomatoes (cut fine)
- 2 cups okra (cut fine)
- 2 cups corn (cut fine)

Combine the ingredients, stirring carefully to prevent scorching, for about 12 minutes. Pack loosely into clean jars and add 2 teaspoons salt to each jar. Put on cap fastening it tightly, and process in pressure cooker 40 minutes at 10 pounds.

If the directions for the vegetables you wish to can are not given in today's column, or if you have any vegetable canning problems, write to Miss Lynn Chambers, explaining your problem to her. Address your letters to her at Western Newspaper Union, 210 South Desplaines Street, Chicago, Illinois. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply.

Improved Uniform International LESSON

CAIN AND ABEL: A CONTRAST

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 4:1-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—By faith Abel offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice than Cain, by which he obtained witness that he was righteous.—Hebrews 11:4.

The weed of sin is fast growing, and brings forth bitter fruit. The disobedience of Adam and Eve resulted in their being put forth from the garden, but that judgment did not terminate the awful plague of sin. We see it in this lesson showing forth in their son, as it has in all the sons of Adam down through the centuries.

It is a dark picture and one which would discourage us did we not know that redemption has been wrought out by "the second man, the Lord from heaven" (I Cor. 15:47).

We have here two sons of Adam with their differing personalities, a clash and the first murder, and then one man, a vagabond on the face of the earth.

I. Two Sons (vv. 1-7).

The birth of a child is always an exciting occasion, and one can readily imagine what it must have meant when the first boy ever to be born put in his appearance. What joy, what concern for his welfare, what plans for the future! And then, what disappointment and sorrow!

But before speaking of that, let us observe how he and his brother differed in their interests and personalities. It is a surprising thing how completely divergent two sons in the same family can be.

Abel chose the work of a shepherd, much honored in the early history of man. Cain became a tiller of the soil, which with the passage of time has come to be more important than the other.

They also had a different viewpoint on worship. Cain was a religious man. He apparently was the first to worship, but he came in the spirit of one who recognized God only as his Creator, the One worthy of his homage. Abel came also with a gift, but his attitude was quite different. His offering spoke of sacrifice, the need of a covering for sin (cf. Gen. 3:21). It was more than homage, it was a plea for forgiveness.

The Lord's acceptance of Abel's sacrifice made Cain angry (v. 5). Here again he differed from Abel, for there was no angry response on his part. Abel had recognized God's desire in worship. Cain not only failed to do so, but rejected God's instruction and His plea (vv. 6, 7). Jealousy led to anger, and anger (as it so often does) led to

II. Murder (vv. 8, 9).

Instead of repentance and correction, the anger of Cain carried him to the awful conclusion of hatred, the taking of life. We tend to think of murder as a crime which only a desperately wicked man would commit. We hardly think of the "respectable" little sin of envy as being the root of murder, but it is, often and sometimes very quickly.

Actually there is no little sin, for it is the genius of sin to grow, to increase, to go step by step, yes, often by leaps and bounds, to its horrible fruition. "The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked: who can know it?" (Jer. 17:9). Why trust it?

The deceitfulness of Cain's heart is shown by the callous evasiveness of his reply to God concerning his murdered brother. His sin brought God's question. It always does. Do not assume that you can hide from Him. It has been suggested that committing sin is like touching a burglar alarm—the bell rings, and one must answer for his act.

"Am I my brother's keeper?" is the perfect expression of the selfish and indifferent attitude of the world. Human beings are regarded as simply those to be exploited, beings upon whom they may prey. For example: Just to make money, men are willing to destroy a fellow man with intoxicating liquor, or break down his decency and morality by selling him indecent books or magazines.

Murder having taken one of the two sons, we find that the remaining one is just

III. A Vagabond (vv. 10-15).

Judgment for sin made Cain a wanderer and a fugitive. Never would he be able to get away from the cry of his brother's blood (v. 10). No wonder he said he could not bear it. But notice that his cry was not one of repentance or contrition, but only of fear, of retribution.

So God shows mercy, forbidding the judgment of men upon Cain. Vengeance belongs to God, and in this first murder He reserved judgment to Himself. Later He put upon man the responsibility of judging and punishing murder by death (Gen. 9:6), but here He put His protecting hand on Cain.

Yet, to be a fugitive, with no real abiding place on earth, and every man's hand against him, was indeed a heavy punishment. One could have wished that it had brought repentance, but it did not. May none of us go the way of Cain.

Patrick Discovered No Murmuring of the Crowd

Patrick went to a funeral home to pay his last respects to a business acquaintance, who had been a grasping fellow. The funeral service was an imposing one, and Pat sat patiently through it. And when it was over he approached one of the mourners and inquired: "What did he die of?" "He died of a Tuesday," was the reply of the mourner. "No, no," said Pat, "I don't mean when he died. I mean what was the trouble? What was the complaint?" With that the mourner's eyes lighted up. "Oh, I see what you mean. Well, to tell the truth, there was no complaint. Everybody is satisfied."

 mer flowers. Mrs. Annie Weber, local noble grand, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Helen McCormick, noble grand of the guest lodge,
 presented Mrs. Job with a gift from the two chapters.

Degree teams from the two lodges gave a drill in connection with the presentation of the gift. Participating from this chapter were Mrs. May Dietrich, Mrs. Joe Smith,
 Mrs. Leonard Roberts, Mrs. C. A.
 Brown, and Miss Eunice Piper.
 Refreshments were served for an informal social hour.

Jack Greers Will Make Their Home In Rockport

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Greer, formerly of Corpus Christi, have moved to Rockport to live. They are staying at the Oleander Court.

Greer will be employed at the shipyard. Mrs. Greer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Crawford.

Mrs. Tom Rooke's Guests Are Former College Classmates

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rooke last week were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Moore of Dallas and Mr. and Mrs. Stafford Mc Leod of Yoakum.

Mrs. Rooke, Mrs. Moore and Mrs.
 McLeod attended Lancaster Military School, a co-educational college formerly located at Lancaster Texas, and were together for two years. This is their first reunion in 12 years.

Miss Constance Kelly of SanAntonio was a week-end guest in the Catholic rectory, visiting her uncle, the Rev. J. H. Kelly. Miss Kelly is employed in the offices of the U. S.
 Army Engineers.

Mr and Mrs. C. D. Cox and their daughter, Miss Evelyn Cox and Miss Martha Frye, all of Dallas, arrived here Tuesday for a two weeks vacation. Their headquarters is Mills Wharf.

Mrs. E. R. Casstevens left Monday for her home in New York
 after a stay here with her husband,
 Lieut. Casstevens.

Mrs. Ben Rozelle
 Celebrates Her
 76th Birthday

Mrs. Ben Rozelle was honoree to a surprise birthday luncheon given by her daughter, Mrs. Irma Cloberdants in her home Tuesday,
 the anniversary of Mrs. Rozelle's
 76th birthday.

A shower of gifts was presented the honoree by her guests. On the luncheon table the centerpiece was a white birthday cake trimmed with candles of pink and blue.

The guests were Mrs. J. M.
 Sparks, Mrs. E. S. Coghill, Mrs.
 Mary Hall, Mrs. J. W. Townsend,
 Mrs. W. G. Harrist, Mrs. I.
 O. Blackwell and her daughter,
 Elsie, Mrs. Lawrence McLester and her daughter, Dora Belle, and Jim Ben Cloberdants.

San Antonio Parties Are Summer Visitors

San Antonioans arriving this week for vacations here include Dr.
 and Mrs. Lucius Hill and their daughters Eleanor, Elizabeth and Charlotte. They are staying at Oak Shore.

Mrs. Helen Ballard with her daughter, Grace, and son, Rollins, are stopping at Oak Shore.

Mr. and Mrs. Mauerman and their daughters Grace, Lenore and Mildred, are vacationing at their summer cottage on the beach.

Frank Maessen returned to San Antonio Monday after a fishing trip here of several days.

Leslie Sparks Honored With Birthday Dance

Leslie Sparks was entertained with a surprise party Saturday night by his mother, Mrs. J. M.
 Sparks and his sister, Miss Molly Sparks, in their home. The occasion was Leslie's 16th birthday.

His guests surprised the honoree with gifts. The evening was spent in dancing to record music. Those attending were: Misses Mary Catherine Powell, Marjorie Nell Brun-drett, Alice and Charlyne Davis,
 Lois Hunt, David and Jimmie Herring, Harris Pollard, Albert Lee Hunt, Floyd Mills, William Buchanan, Claude Roberts and Roy Mul-limax.

Mabel Bryant Finds Texas Highlands Agreeable And Interesting

Civil Service has a way of taking people to unexpected places, as Mrs. Mabel Bryant found when she accepted employment with the commission and was sent almost across the state, to Marfa, where she is the property clerk in the U.
 S. Area Engineer's office.

The project on which Mrs. Bryant is employed is the building of the Marfa Airfield, which is to be a training field for bombardiers. The office in which she works is located nine miles from Marfa on the Alpine highway on a tract of 2,560 acres.

"This country has a distinct charm" she writes in reply to the Pilot's inquiry, "and its friendly, genuine folks are a part of it. The climate is really wonderful, in fact,
 I have found nothing 'small' about the Texas highlands and like it better every week."

Noon times on the job have been like daily picnics, Mrs. Bryant reports. While waiting for the new luncheon to be finished it has been necessary for the force to carry lunches, and they spread and eat them together. She is spending her day off this week on a ranch
 22 miles up in the mountains.

When Mrs. Bryant arrived on the job there was nothing in sight but the pastures, and since she signed up "for the duration" she is likely to be there for a long time. Then somewhere else with the Engineers, "until the war is over."

"But Rockport is my first love" she said "and its people are my people. And I am looking forward to the time when I shall have earned enough days off to make a visit home."

Plans for the entertainment of the zone meeting of the Corpus Christi district of the W. S. C. S. to be held in Rockport July 23,
 were made in the meeting of the local society when it convened in regular session Thursday afternoon in the Methodist church. Mrs.
 Claude Roberts, president, was in charge of the session and appointed committees for the entertainment.

The business meeting followed the regular mission study program conducted by Mrs. E. G. Cooke.

The request for a good Gumbo receipe has been answered by a distinguished visitor from San Antonio, Martha Calhoun, writer of the Pilon column on the San Antonio Light. She calls it Fish Gumbo and her friends call it the Best. They were helpful in persuading her to tell us how it was made.

"The okra is fried in butter until it is 'slippery and not stringy' and just beginning to brown. The chopped onion is fried, too. In a separate pot the shrimp and crab are boiled and part of the water used for the gumbo. The meat is separated from the shell, for Martha's gumbo is "wholly edible". Then the fish, okra, onion, fresh corn, canned tomatoes and one chopped green pepper are all "dumped together" and cooked for 2 or 3 hours. It is served with rice, cooked separately and blanched so that the grains stand apart.

"The gumbo is most palatable
 when served with salt air" a friend said, and added it was "delicious for dunking."

A relic of early days in Rockport was exposed by the recent deluge.
 The washout under Morrison's boat house removed four feet of soil near Main Street exposing pipes which were identified as a part of the first ice factory ever built here.

Recipients of Public Aid Encouraged To Take Employment

AUSTIN, June—(Sp)—All recipients of public assistance money have much to gain, and nothing to lose, by finding jobs they can do, according to Paul W. Reed, Supervisor of the State Department of Public Welfare, who explains: "Recipients of old age assistance may qualify for Old Age Insurance by working 18 months in some employment covered by the Social Security Act. Old Age Insurance is a form of pension and will be paid for life as an earned right upon retirement. Old Age Assistance now being given to approximately 174,000 aged persons in Texas, is given only on the basis of need and the amount varies as needs change.

Mothers receiving Aid to Dependent Children, who are physically able to work, and who can qualify for jobs, are being encouraged to take employment, the welfare supervisor said, as this will enable them to give much better support and opportunities to their children. Many may be able to secure training to secure employment in war industry. It was pointed out by the welfare supervisor that a maximum of $16 may be given to families having one child and $24 to families having two or more children.

No statistics are available at this time to indicate the number of Old Age Assistance recipients, or mothers now receiving Aid to Dependent Children will be able to take employment," Mr. Reed said, but emphasized that recipients who work may continue to have their earnings supplemented by the department if they do not earn enough to buy the necessities. Any person resigning from the rolls to accept employment will be reinstated without delay should he be unable to retain the job," the welfare official said.

Seven and eight-tenths percent of all Old Age Assistance recipients received $30 per month in May. Next was the $18 grant which went to 7.7 percent of those on the rolls. The $20 grant was third, going to 7.5 percent.

Three and one-tenth percent of the 172,324 old age recipients in May received $10 or less per month; 60.9 percent received $20 or less; 39.1 percent received above $20.

Blind assistance grants were distributed fairly evenly from $14 to $30 with only 42 percent receiving under $14.

Ninety-five percent of all recipients of Aid to Dependent Children received maximum grants.

Travis Owen And Jack Kennemer Enlist In "Sea Bees"

Two of the 500 men enlisting Wednesday in the "Sea Bees" in Houston were Rockport boys. Jack Kennemer, son of Mrs. Betty Kennemer, was enlisted as carpenter's mate, 3c; Travis Owen, son of Mrs. Arthur Edmison, received the rating of QM, 2c.

Both Owen and Kennemer returned home to await orders. They were advised that they would pro-

17 Contested Places On Primary Ballot

Voters Can Go To Polls Knowing They Are Privileged To Vote Secretly

Aransas county voters will probably go to the polls nearly one thousand strong on Saturday, July 25 to decide the political fortunes of ten county-wide candidates and four candidates for two precinct offices.

County voters will also do their part in deciding the outcome of fifteen state political races; involving a total of fifty-five candidates.

In going to the polls this year in democratic America, voters here will realize more appreciatively than ever before that they can vote in secret according to the dictates of their own conscience. There are few countries left in the world where there is secrecy of the ballot.

"The secrecy of the ballot is carefully guarded," says Pat Mixon, Aransas county chairman of the Democratic committee in regard to the casting of votes in the coming election. "The system of vote counting is practically fool proof against the possibility of even those who tally the ballots knowing how anyone votes."

The Democratic committee is made up of the chairman and one person from each precinct; this year they are Miss Iris Sorenson for precinct 1; Edward Barnard for precinct 2; Elwood Weber for precinct 3; Billy Sontag for precinct 4; there is no appointee for precinct 5.

This group appoints presiding officers for each voting box, who are S. B. Daggett, precinct 1; Miss Violet Percival, precinct 2; Ray Wendell, precinct 3; Rob Johnson, precinct 4; Amos Glass, precinct 5. This group the appoints judges and clerks.

According to election procedure, no votes may be counted until there are at least ten in a box, and near the closing hours of the balloting, no votes are counted until the polls are closed, in order that there may be at least ten in a box at that time, Mixon further explained.

Ballots are counted in each precinct and an unofficial return made to the county chairman. The returns become official after the committee meets and approves them.

After the tallies are made in each precinct, the boxes are sealed and stored in the vault at the county clerk's office, where they are held for 12 months. At the end of this time, the county clerk removes the ballots and burns them in the presence of witnesses. Any voter is eligible to be a witness.

Three copies of the register of voters names, with numbers corresponding to those on the ballots are made. One copy is sealed in the necessary to break into the boxes only once and that was for a legal recount.

Absentee votes are equally confidential, being sealed by a notary public and mailed to the proper county chairman, who two days before election delivers them to the presiding officer of the precinct. This officer holds the ballot until 2 p. m. of election day when he casts the absentee votes. Voting box with the ballots and destroyed at the same time, the election chairman keeps one and the county chairman keeps one. They also are destroyed at the end of one year.

To open the sealed boxes except for a recount of a contested vote is a penitentiary offense. A. C. Glass, who has been Democratic chairman here since 1924 reports that in his experience it has been

Less Cotton For Civilians

The ruffles that you omit from your next pair of curtains, the pleated flounce you leave off your new slip cover, will help spread the available supply of textiles among civilians, the OPA Consumer Division says.

WPA order has directed cotton mills to turn over a part of their looms to the production of textiles needed for such military purposes as sand bags, camouflage cloth and food and agricultural bags.

Obviously this means less yardage for civilians. It means also that we must use whatever fabrics are available in the wisest way possible. We must streamline our wearing apparel. For the duration American homes, like American clothing, will emphasize simplicity and efficiency, without frills.

Wichita, Kan., Is Guinea Pig Area

A defense-rent control area "guinea pig" for the Southwest OPA region has been established at Wichita, Kan., center of vital war industries.

First in this region to come under the rent control program, actions in the Wichita area rent office headed by Mrs. Margie Charles will serve as a guide for action in 64 other defense-rental areas in the near future in Kansas, Texas, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma.

What happened in Wichita will happen in other areas as summer passes.

Special Notice CONCERNING NEW UTILITY CONNECTIONS

Urgent Need of Copper and Steel for War Purposes Eliminates Nearly All New Connections....

NEW connections for Electric, Water and Gas service are now heavily restricted. Only in rare cases for war needs can we take copper and steel from our present stocks to connect new homes or buildings.

Contractors, builders and all prospective new users of our service are requested to get in touch with our office before making any plans or spending any money on construction. For either temporary or permanent service, we must comply with amended Preference Rating Order P-46 of the War Production Board.

Everyone regrets the inconvenience which the war will cause some people, but with copper and steel scarcer than silver and gold—as scarce as rubber—we feel sure nobody will complain when the situation is understood.

Recipients of Public Aid Encouraged To Take Employment

AUSTIN, June—(Sp)—All recipients of public assistance money have much to gain, and nothing to lose, by finding jobs they can do, according to Paul W. Reed, Supervisor of the State Department of Public Welfare, who explains: "Recipients of old age assistance may qualify for Old Age Insurance by working 18 months in some employment covered by the Social Security Act. Old Age Insurance is a form of pension and will be paid for life as an earned right upon retirement. Old Age Assistance now being given to approximately 174,000 aged persons in Texas, is given only on the basis of need and the amount varies as needs change. Mothers receiving Aid to Dependent Children, who are physically able to work, and who can qualify for jobs, are being encouraged to take employment, the welfare supervisor said, as this will enable them to give much better support and opportunities to their children. Many may be able to secure training to secure employment in war industry. It was pointed out by the welfare supervisor that a maximum of $16 may be given to families having one child and $24 to families having two or more children.

No statistics are available at this time to indicate the number of Old Age Assistance recipients, or mothers now receiving Aid to Dependent Children will be able to take employment", Mr. Reed said, but emphasized that recipients who work may continue to have their earnings supplemented by the department if they do not earn enough to buy the necessities. Any person resigning from the rolls to accept employment will be reinstated without delay should he be unable to retain the job," the welfare official said.

Seven and eight-tenths percent of all Old Age Assistance recipients received $30 per month in May. Next was the $18 grant which went to 7.7 percent of those on the rolls. The $20 grant was third, going to 7.5 percent.

Three and one-tenth percent of the 172,324 old age recipients in May received $10 or less per month; 60.9 percent received $20 or less; 39.1 percent received above $20.

Blind assistance grants were distributed fairly evenly from $14 to $30 with only 42 percent receiving under $14.

Ninety-five percent of all recipients of Aid to Dependent Children received maximum grants.

Two of the 500 men enlisting Wednesday in the "Sea Bees" in Houston were Rockport boys. Jack Kenemer, son of Mrs. Betty Kenemer, was enlisted as carpenter's mate, 3c; Travis Owen, son of Mrs. Arthur Edmison, received the rating of QM, 2c.

Both Owen and Kenemer returned home to await orders. They were advised that they would probably go to the polls nearly one thousand strong on Saturday, July 25 to decide the political fortunes of ten county-wide candidates and four candidates for two precinct offices.

Less Cotton For Civilians

The ruffles that you omit from your next pair of curtains, the pleated flounce you leave off your new slip cover, will help spread the available supply of textiles among civilians, the OPA Consumer Division says.

WPB order has directed cotton mills to turn over a part of their looms to the production of textiles needed for such military purposes as sand bags, camouflage cloth and food and agricultural bags. Obviously this means less yardage for civilians. It means also that we must use whatever fabrics are available in the wisest way possible. We must streamline our wearing apparel. For the duration American homes, like American clothing, will emphasize simplicity and efficiency, without frills.

Wichita, Kan., Is Guinea Pig Area

A defense-rent control area "guinea pig" for the Southwest OPA region has been established at Wichita, Kan., center of vital war industries. First in this region to come under the rent control program, actions in the Wichita area rent office headed by Mrs. Margie Charles will serve as a guide for action in 64 other defense-rental areas in the near future in Kansas, Texas, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma. What happened in Wichita will happen in other areas as summer passes.

17 Contested Places On Primary Ballot

Voters Can Go To Polls Knowing They Are Privileged To Vote Secretly

Aransas county voters will probably go to the polls nearly one thousand strong on Saturday, July 25 to decide the political fortunes of ten county-wide candidates and four candidates for two precinct offices.

County voters will also do their part in deciding the outcome of fifteen state political races, involving a total of fifty-five candidates.

In going to the polls this year in democratic America, voters here will realize more appreciatively than ever before that they can vote in secret according to the dictates of their own conscience. There are few countries left in the world where there is secrecy of the ballot.

The secrecy of the ballot is carefully guarded," says Pat Mixon, Aransas county chairman of the Democratic committee, in regard to the casting of votes in the coming election. "The system of vote counting is practically fool proof against the possibility of even those who tally the ballots knowing how anyone votes." The Democratic committee is made up of the chairman and one person from each precinct; this year they are Miss Iris Sorenson, for precinct 1; Edward Barnard for precinct 2; Elwood Weber for precinct 3; Billy Sontag for precinct 4; there is no appointee for precinct 5.

This group appoints presiding officers for each voting box, who are S. B. Daggett, precinct 1; Miss Violet Percival, precinct 2; Ray Wendell, precinct 3; Rob Johnson, precinct 4; Amos Glass, precinct 5. This group also appoints judges and clerks.

According to election procedure, no votes may be counted until there are at least ten in a box, and near the closing hours of the balloting, no votes are counted until the polls are closed, in order that there may be at least ten in a box at that time, Mixon further explained.

Ballots are counted in each precinct and an unofficial return made to the county chairman. The returns become official after the committee meets and approves them.

After the tallies are made in each precinct, the boxes are sealed and stored in the vault at the county clerk's office, where they are held for 12 months. At the end of this time, the county clerk removes the ballots and burns them in the presence of witnesses. Any voter is eligible to be a witness.

Three copies of the register of voters names, with numbers corresponding to those on the ballots are made. One copy is sealed in the necessary to break into the boxes only once and that was for a legal recount.

Absentee votes are equally confidential, being sealed by a notary public and mailed to the proper county chairman, who two days before election delivers them to the presiding officer of the precinct. This officer holds the ballot until 2 p. m. of election day when he casts the absentee votes. The voting box with the ballots and destroyed at the same time, the election chairman keeps one and the county chairman keeps one. They also are destroyed at the end of one year.

To open the sealed boxes except for a recount of a contested vote is a penitentiary offense. A. C. Glass, who has been Democratic chairman here since 1924 reports that in his experience it has been

ARANSAS COUNTY JUDGESHIP

TO THE VOTERS

In the recent outburst of serious criticism against the glaring inefficiency in high official places and by some of our $1-a-year big moguls wielding vital war powers for continued selfish ends, there appeared a most trenchant warning by pundit Walter Lippman, that logical, logistical ace columnist. He summed up his convincing diatribe as follows:

"When the fate of the nation and the lives of millions are at stake, we find that our standards of judgement are soft and complacent. A man, known by every one to be altogether inadequate to his task, can be indulgently tolerated just because he is where he is, and it is such an infernal nuisance to remove him and find some one better. The cult of incompetence is one of the fatal diseases of modern life. It will be the ruin of us if we do not look out. What is more, this will not be the century of the common man, or in any event it will be a ghastly century if we do not sober up from being drunk with quantity and set up for ourselves standards of quality, where not the mass of things but excellence is the objective."

The fate of our Nation is linked with the fate of every city, town, county and state. Slipshod local government in any region engenders a fatal cancerous growth. Apathy and indifference as to the quality of the administration of public affairs by our elected official servants, begets a quantity of feeble and futile and illegal acts. Most holders of public offices become chary and obsequious only a brief period before election time, or during the hasty (Oh, so hasty!) biannual sessions of grand juries. Watching keenly such politicoes constitutes a liberal education in human nature and a deep insight into the mysteries of psychology. It was a wise philosopher, weary of human frailties, who declared: "We first grieve, then endure, and then embrace!"

Taking note of pundit Lippman's timely warning, we wonder what the voters of Aransas County will do about the all important office of County Judge. For some ten years past, that vital position has been incompetently managed. The present incumbent, B. S. Fox, has repeatedly violated laws solemnly and prudently enacted by the people's Legislature to govern and to regulate 254 such essential offices in Texas. Fox, like all weaklings who hold public office too long, believes his title to the County Judgeship should be valid until his demise. So why go to the expense of an election? It is a waste of time. There is no choice. The voters have no further say. It long has been obvious that Fox believes he now "owns" his public position and should be permitted to go on running it in his own bumptious, arrogant, no-appeal way.

Having had legitimate cause, we spent several months investigating certain phases of Fox's public records (as many of you know), and we exposed in signed articles some of his many irregularities, personal prejudices and bias, as well as his gross violations of law. We found that charging Fox with malfeasance in office was akin to pouring water on a duck's back. He is foxy by nature as well as by name, for he hunts his hole when hunted. He never permits himself to make any direct answer, verbal, written or printed; in reply to any criticism, or to any charge of dereliction of public duty, however severe and justifiable the complaint may be. Even the Auditor whom Fox keeps on the county pay roll, pointed out the absolute illegality of the transfer of certain funds, and also the lack of any authority or of any right for the County Judge to help himself to $100 per year for his automobile expense.

He who aspires and is qualified to hold and to masterly execute the prescribed duties and responsibilities of the highest public position in Aransas County should be an outstanding citizen whose personal worldly interests are dependent upon the healthy, economic growth of the community both physically and financially. He must realize its supreme needs and its merited goal. Since 1895 we have spent much time, effort and money to aid in placing Rockport and Aransas County "on the map" and in the public eye. We performed pioneer work for the Deep Water at the Pass, for Causeway, State Highway, Water-front Improvements and for Oil-Gas Developments. During that same lengthy period, we made examinations in Arizona: in Counties, at request and employment by grand juries; in Tucson, as Mayor, and at request of both political parties, as well as the presidency of the University of Arizona; in the State (certain departments), on two separate employments, years apart, by the Legislature. In recent years (1936-7), at our own request and for self-protection and self-preservation, we spent several months investigating the Assesment-Equalization records of Aransas County. We are not chargeable with hyperbole when we declare that these last mentioned public records were found to be the most deplorable and reprehensible, insofar as B. S. Fox, himself, was involved, that we have ever examined and reported upon.

Later Fox gave proof of his characteristic duplicity by sending, without our knowledge or consent, a purposely misleading telegram to Governor Allred regarding the personal selection by Fox of a judge to try a case in his court against us in which he himself was vitally interested. That's a true, accurate measure of the lack of any sense of justice governing the official acts of the present judge of Aransas County. A photostat of said treacherous telegram, certified by the Secretary of State, was furnished us by the Governor, who, to quote him, had declared that Fox's official wire had fooled him and had jobbed us.

One of our early Colonial patriots, John Adams, uttered this appeal during revolutionary days: "Let us dare to read, think, speak and write". And so, we dare another illustration of the disqualification of Fox for County Judge. Ingratitude matches duplicity as a despicable human failing. Fox is afflicted with both. When the late sheriff Brundrett died shortly after his reelection in 1940, there ensued a political scramble for that office. The Commissioner's Court, headed by Fox, had the power to appoint for a full 2-year term, Brundrett's successor. During the scheming and wire-pulling behind the scenes, Fox persuaded the best friend he ever possessed in life, to enter the contest. It would have been a most excellent appointment from every viewpoint. It looked like a cinch; a mere matter of formal routine duty. But trades, double crossings, bad faith, and whatever-you-please, resulted in this best of friends not receiving one vote,—not even Fox's! Why?

The solution of the riddle of the failure of Fox in public office probably lies in the fact that for some 25 years after reaching early manhood his business work and experiences were inculcated on Hearst's ranch in Mexico, where he bossed unskilled laborers. That was not properly training to qualify for a Judgeship in a County of the United States.

During his ten years possession of the Aransas County Judgeship, Fox must have been paid by easy-going tax payers, approximately $20,000 to $25,000. Speaking for ourselves, we consider we did not get "value recieved". In our judgement it would be more economical to pension Fox,—not to re-elect him for a sixth term. The times are too fateful, too hazardous. We must have a firmer hand, a clearer head and a stouter heart in charge of public affairs. July 14, 1942

University Program Designed To Meet War Conditions

USTIN, TEXAS—Over 70 per cent of the University of Texas' men students next fall will be members of one of four military reserves, Dr. Homer P. Rainey, president of the University, predicts.

Pointing out the swift changes from the educational ways of peace to those of war, Dr. Rainey declared in Austin that every student and faculty member of the University will be directing his activities into some war channel when long term classes begin next September.

"We have already reorganized our curriculum to meet needs of the federal government, the requirements of the armed services and other duties imposed upon us because of our place as an outstanding educational institution," Dr. Rainey declared, "but the real evidence of these new emphases will not be fully seen until our fall term gets under way."

The broad University program—designed, Dr. Rainey says, to prepare students for the peace as well as the war—will next fall be demonstrating its place in the war in more forceful manner than ever before.

In this connection he predicts that most of the men students in the University will become members of the four military reserves which have been set up by the army, navy, and Marine Corps for the purpose of providing a future supply of officers.

Under these four plans, Dr. Rainey points out, high school graduates may enter the University this fall starting their education by enlisting in one of these four programs, they may continue their college work with the full approval of the armed forces and at the same time be preparing themselves for fighting roles where they are needed.

The navy, army, air corps and marine corps have all instituted large reserve classifications which will take in students with good grades, guarantee they will stay in school at least through their sophomore years and draw upon their reserves for future officer material.

"With these four plans," Dr. Rainey declared, "a college student may continue his studies, preparing himself to be a better soldier or officer, and guaranteeing to the forces a better supply of officer material. Moreover, the students will be having a direct work in the war as they will be filling certain requirements to continue their eligibility for reserve services."

Keeping the St. Lawrence Free From Subs

Canada's new mosquito boats are busy at their job keeping convoys safe from submarines in the St. Lawrence river. The sub-chasers, which are the Canadian navy's version of the U. S. "mosquito boat," are called "Fairmiles." They are 100 feet long, fast, and capable of carrying a record volume of depth bombs. In picture at the left two husky crewmen are given the ticklish job of loading a depth charge on a "Fairmile." Center: Typical, French-Canadian sailors enlisted in the Royal Canadian navy operate a blinker signal to escorting destroyers. Right: One hundred feet of water from the St. Lawrence cascades into the air as a depth bomb blasts the "sub" below.

Chemical Warfare Demonstration

A barrage of 25 shells is fired from "Livens projectors" during the army's chemical warfare demonstration at Edgewood arsenal, Maryland. The projectors are used to throw destructive chemicals against the enemy, or smoke bombs to screen troop movements. Men in the foreground are telephone operators in contact with advance forces and the "plunger" man who sets off the charge.

Yankee Tanks in Northern Ireland

Armored units of the American expeditionary force in Northern Ireland, among the most recent arrivals, have lost no time in getting into hard training and preparing for the opening of a possible second front. Negotiating rough country in Northern Ireland, these "General Grant" tanks, followed by U. S. infantrymen, are proving that they can take it—and give it!

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Nazis' Drive Into Don River Sector Endangers Rich Caucasus Oil Fields; Jones Warns U. S. of Inflation Peril; FDR Says Tire Seizure Is Possible

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

RUSSIA:

Nazi Menace

Breaking through the Russian front east of Kursk and Kharkov, a Nazi armored assault had driven 100 miles into the upper basin of the Don river and given Adolf Hitler his first significant success in his summer offensive against the Reds.

With both sides throwing in all available manpower and equipment, the greatest armored battle in history raged.

To hard-pressed Marshal Timoshenko it must have seemed that he faced more disastrous threats than he could meet. Although counterattacking gallantly and fighting grimly, the Red forces had been forced steadily back. Violent combat had centered around Voronezh, key link between Russia's central and southern armies.

And the goal, as before, was the rich oil fields of the Caucasus to the southeast. Possession of this prize would mean unlimited fuel for Hitler's mechanized legions.

Two immediate targets of the Nazi offensive were the Don river, one of Russia's chief transportation arteries, and the Moscow-Rostov railway which parallels the Don and feeds much of the Soviet's industrial and military machine.

Meanwhile in Egypt, Marshal Rommel's headlong drive had been stopped by the British under General Auchinleck. Refusing to be bottled up in stationery fortresses, the "Auk" had chosen his own battleground when he turned on the Nazi army. The site was a narrow funnel-shaped front between El Alemein on the seacoast and the Quattera marshes 40 miles inland. Here, aided by reinforcements, fresh equipment and slashing blows by the RAF and their American flying Allies, he had brought to a halt the Nazi steamroller headed for Alexandria and the Suez canal.

INFLATION:

Perils Revealed

Like a stern pedagogue pounding the three R's into the skulls of his scholars, gray-haired Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, read the American people a lecture on the ABC's of economics.

His theme: The dangers of inflation. Mr. Jones said that the American people will have "over $30,000,000 more income in 1943 than the value of the things for which the money will be spent" and termed this "a potential 'inflationary gap' greater than any the world has ever known."

The secretary's remarks followed hard on press conference warning by President Roosevelt that it would be necessary for Americans to adopt a national economic policy which would control inflation.

Among maxims Mr. Jones laid down were:

"No business man or industrialist can expect higher prices for his products without paying higher prices for having them made."

AIR TRANSPORT:

Saga of Service

The answer to what had become of civilian luxury airliners taken over by the army after Pearl Harbor came when it was announced that these planes were among craft that had flown 5,000,000 miles during the past five months rushing war equipment and personnel to strategic points in the Pacific.

The saga of this bold aerial venture included chapters highlighting the heroism of hundreds of pilots,

RUBBER:

Tire Confiscation?

The administration's nation-wide rubber hunt had produced disappointing results. Only a portion of the hoped-for scrap rubber stock pile had been turned in and meanwhile 30,000,000 American motorists continued to roll along on steadily thinning tires.

Hence it was not a surprise when President Roosevelt declared at a press conference that if war conditions grew worse, the government might be forced to confiscate every automobile tire in the country.

The President tempered his warning with the cautious hope that nation-wide gasoline rationing could be avoided. But, he emphasized, he was trying to save the nation, not gasoline and rubber.

Mr. Roosevelt's review of the situation came after the army, the navy and Petroleum Co-ordinator Ickes' office had appealed to East coast motorists to discontinue immediately all unnecessary use of gasoline, regardless of what their ration cards entitled them to. A joint statement said joyriding in the gas rationed area was preventing war workers from getting enough motor fuel to get to work and back and was threatening to hamper seriously the war production program.

Fortunate were congressmen, members of state legislatures, other government officials and candidates for public office. For under regulations promulgated by the OPA for permanent East coast rationing, such persons were given "preferred" mileage ratings providing them with gasoline for transportation needs "in pursuit of legislative business."

SABOTEURS:

History Recalled

Once before a military commission had sat in Washington deliberating over evidence that was to send a band of conspirators to their death. That was 77 years ago when eight defendants were tried in the dingy old penitentiary building for the assassination of Abraham Lincoln.

Now again, a military commission sat in Washington. This time it was to pass sentence on eight Nazi saboteurs who had landed on the East coast to launch a campaign of destruction against American arms plants. The trial this time was held in the new department of justice building.

In proceedings marked with the same secrecy that characterized the former trial, the prisoners learned whether they were to meet a firing squad or go to the gallows—for death was the penalty they faced.

Observers who noted the coincidence between the two famous trials—eight defendants in each case—remembered that only five of the Lincoln conspirators, including a woman, Mary Surratt, were put to death.

MISCELLANY:

SYDNEY: A highway capable of maintaining heavy military traffic has been completed across the trackless northern territory of Australia, in a little more than a year, a government report revealed. The highway is so designed that army vehicles will not be halted during the rainy season. Civilian road workers, including several United States engineers, worked on the project.

TIRPITZ:

Reds Foil Plans

On the loose again from her Norwegian fjord refuge, the powerful Nazi battleship Tirpitz had harried Allied convoys on the U. S.-British supply route to northern Russia, until two well-aimed torpedoes from a Soviet submarine damaged the raider and drove her to cover.

A Red communique revealed that the action saved a big Allied convoy and let the merchantmen through to Russia intact. The communique reported that a German naval squadron in which three heavy cruisers and eight destroyers accompanied the Tirpitz had aimed to intercept the convoy carrying arms to Russia. The crippling attack on the Tirpitz, however, was said to have disrupted their operation and permitted all ships to reach the safety of a north Russian port.

MANPOWER:

19,900,000 Needed

One out of every six Americans faced the prospect of being inducted into war activities—military and industrial—during 1942 and 1943. At least that was the forecast of Brig. Gen. Frank J. McSherry of the War Manpower commission, who declared that 19,900,000 persons would be required.

Of this "staggering" total, he said, 10,500,000 men and women must be put to work in war industries this year and 2,500,000 more in 1943. Of the remaining 6,900,000, McSherry estimated, 3,400,000 will be inducted into the armed forces during 1942 and 3,500,000 next year.

WAR PRODUCTION:

Nelson 'Realigns'

With the headache of an organization shakeup happily out of the way, War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson turned with obvious relief to a contemplation of the WPB's future activities.

The chairman said that the WPB had now reached the end of the tooling-up period and was going ahead with the task of conversion, especially of the nation's smaller plants. He said there was little "fat" in the civilian economy, but stressed the fact that vital civilian needs must be taken care of because the economy—although "thin"—must be kept healthy.

Forecast for some time, the WPB's "realignment" program brought William L. Batt in as vice chairman, or "chief of staff," leaving Nelson free to devote his time to essential policies. Batt had previously been chairman of the requirements committee. James S. Knowlson, present director of industry operation, became the other vice chairman.

CHINA WAR:

Sad Anniversary

As China's war with Japan entered its sixth year, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek bravely assured his 450,000,000 countrymen that "Japan's collapse was only a question of time." Chiang declared that the United States "is bound to deal with her first and most threatening enemy, Japan" and "is beginning to discharge her supremely important duty in the Pacific."

"Matter of Time."

Meanwhile Chiang's peasant army was heartened by the triphammer blows struck recently by United States air forces against the Jap invaders.

Summing up the price Nippon has already paid for its attempt to swallow China, an army spokesman reported that 1,000,000 Japs had been killed and 1,500,000 wounded in five years of war.

In spite of brave words, the stark fact remained that China's position was desperately grave. Japan was steadily severing her communications. With all but air-borne supplies from her allies cut off, China had to depend on her own slender material resources and her under-armed peasant army to carry on the fight against the Mikado's strong forces.

CANADA:

War Transformation

From a placid agricultural country, Canada has been transformed into a giant war factory from which men, planes, tanks, guns and foodstuffs are pouring across the Atlantic to Britain and the other fighting fronts.

This picture of the war's impact on our neighbor of the north was painted in an official report which told a vivid tale of the Dominion's industrial progress.

RED RANGE

By EUGENE CUNNINGHAM
W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: Forced to run from the law to save his life when he is suspected of being the notorious "Comanche Linn," Con Cameron is trying to prove his honesty. With his pal, Caramba Vear, he is working for Topeka Tension, owner of the Broken Wheel ranch. Nevil Lowe, marshal of the neighboring town of Tivan, is after him but doesn't yet know that the "Twenty Johnson" of the Broken Wheel is the man he suspects of being Comanche Linn. Lowe's sister, Janet, is staying with the Tensions. They are deeply attached to her, having lost their only child, a boy, when he was kidnapped many years before. On their way out to the ranch after persuading Tension to give them the job, Con and Caramba met Monk Irby, one of the Megeath crowd. Megeath and the Paramores, headed by Dud Paramore, hate both Nevil Lowe and the Broken Wheel outfit. In the fight that followed their meeting, Con knocked out Irby. Now he has had to fight off the rest of Megeath's men, who followed Tension and Janet out from town.

He staggered slightly as he stood beside Pancho.

CHAPTER XIV

"Con overhauled his outfit after dinner. He was ready before Caramba and Skeets and he went wandering curiously about the place. Janet called him from a side veranda, and when he walked up to the big house, dusty Stetson at his knee, she was sitting beside a small, white-haired woman. Con looked curiously at Mrs. Tension and she studied him intently for a moment, before she turned smilingly to Janet.

"Why, honey, he's just a boy! From all you said—"

"Nearly twenty-one. Not quite," Con told her, wondering why Janet's face was suddenly so flushed. "And you are not so terribly old that twenty is terribly young to you!"

"Good—lands! He's dangerous!" Mrs. Tension gasped. "Paying compliments to old women—"

"I used to know a girl in Chicago," Con said truthfully, "and she had the prettiest gray hair, almost white, from the time she was nineteen. Somehow, it just made her look younger. The way yours makes you look."

"What were you doing in Chicago? Go up with cattle? Don't tell me you're a city boy! Not after the top-roping Mr. Tension says you did—and Janet says you did."

Con hesitated. Janet, still very pink—and prettier than he had ever seen her, he thought—was looking steadily at him.

"I worked for horse dealers and all sorts of commission men. So when my uncle and aunt were killed in a train wreck, I started for Texas. That was last year. I took on with the 20 Bar trail herd and made the trip to Wild Horse. Then I started this way, to learn the cow business. And here I am, roping Mr. Tension's colts."

She shook her white head and smiled at Con.

"My boy would have been about your age. Twenty-two next December fourteen. But he—he was stolen from this very yard, by a partner of Mr. Tension's, a man who must have been very hard and vindictive, or he wouldn't have done a thing like that to pay a score with a man. He and Mr. Tension had trouble about a mine and—and one evening he took my boy from this yard and—just vanished. We hunted and hunted, but his trail disappeared within fifty miles and from that day to this—"

"I heard some of that," Con told her awkwardly. "Well! I reckon Skeets and Caramba ought to be ready to start for Red Mesa."

"There's a nester family, a man and his wife and little boy, on the road to the Mesa. When you boys go by, see if you can sort of sneak around and have a look. Into the kitchen, if possible. If it looks like they're really in bad fix, I want to know it."

He nodded and turned away. Skeets and Caramba were waiting and they mounted. They went on very cheerfully for ten miles or more, climbing into the foothills. Presently, where a narrow trail angled off along an arroyo, leading toward wooded heights, Skeets jerked his head to indicate the track.

"Gracey road," he said. "Nester family. Gracey, he's an oldish fellow, kind of. But his wife is a mighty pretty woman. Not over twenty-three or about that. They got a boy seven-eight years old. Yes, sir! Mis' Gracey is mighty pretty. She jiggled some hearts around and about, I reckon. But Gracey ain't a man to cross just for the fun of it. He sent one Helligo Canyon hair-pin howling home with a hole in him. Caught him projecting around the place one morning."

Pancho covered a half-mile of twisting trail, up the arroyo and out of it across a low mesa, then into scrubby pines. The tall trees were ahead and above. Where a tiny creek cut an opening in the woodland a rifle barrel came poking out of green brush beside the trail and a shrill yell checked Con.

"I never done it, none a-tall!" he cried, lifting both hands. "No, sir, it was the big fellow with the long, black whiskers."

"Stay back off Gracey land!" a thin little voice commanded fiercely. "Stay back or I'll kill you dead!"

"But what for?" Con asked plaintively. "Come on out, Mr. Gracey, and talk to a man. Where's your pa?"

"He—he's dead! Them dirty dogs, they shot him, day before yesterday, early. Shot Mom and me, too. She's worse'n I am. She's awful sick. I couldn't go for nobody. Ain't a horse on the place I can catch up. Besides, I got to stay and give her water. And I got to be ready to kill 'em, if they come back. I like to shoot you."

"Good—Lord!" Con exploded. "Come on, boy! We've got to do things."

The child came out of the bushes, dragging the big Winchester, a sturdy, blue-eyed towhead, who seemed to Con so tiny that his manlike way was incredible. He staggered slightly as he stood beside Pancho. A flour sack was wrapped clumsily around his right arm.

He sagged wearily against Con and his face was hot against Con's hand. Pancho went on across the creek, past the bucket which the boy had evidently come down to fill. Twenty yards beyond was the little adobe house. The door stood open.

Con set the boy down and swung off. At the door he stopped to look into a dusky, untidy room, that kitchen which he had promised Mrs. Tension to examine. In a corner sprawled the body of a tall man in faded chambray shirt and patched overalls, barefoot. Con went over to Gracey and looked down at the grim, beard-stubbed face. Only a glance was needed to see that he had died almost instantly, of a bullet near the heart.

In the other room Mrs. Gracey lay upon a home-made bedstead, breathing harshly through her mouth. She was fully dressed and her thin, work-hardened hand picked at a bandage as rude as that upon the boy's arm. She had been shot through the right shoulder.

The boy came in and leaned against the wall, with fever-bright eyes moving from his mother to Con.

"She's awful sick, ain't she?" he whispered. "But you can get the doctor, now. I tried to get her to eat."

Con went at the run to Pancho, swung up and loped to the dropped bucket. When he came back with cold water he took a clean white shirt from his alforja and ripped it into bandages. He looked dubiously at it, then shrugged.

"Well, no way to boil it and dry it, here. The thing is to get her down to the women."

He asked the boy if anything on wheels was here.

"Old spring wagon," the child said drowsily. "One horse. But Pa had to sell Coaly. He was our harness horse. And one shaft is busted and so's the seat. It's out back."

Con heard Caramba calling from the trail. He went out and waved the two up, to tell them quickly and shortly of the woman's condition. Caramba swore incredulously.

"Doc" ought to be at the house, time we hit there," Skeets said frowningly. "Topeka told Gale that Doc's due out to check up on Mis' Tension's heart. Let's look at the wagon."

"I'm going to try cleaning up their bandages," Con told them. "I'll be out when I get done."

He washed the quiet woman's shoulder and she hardly flinched, then bandaged it cautiously. The boy's wound was a deep gash like that on Con's own thigh.

The old wagon was as dilapidated as most other things on this shabby place. They took off the wheels and greased the axles, wired and braced the snapped shaft, patched and reinforced the harness. Pancho went between the shafts without trouble and only put back his ears nervously when Con drove him experimentally about the yard.

The three of them lifted Mrs. Gracey gently and carried her, mattress and all, out to the wagon, packing and about with bedding and old clothes against road shocks. Then Con got on the seat with the boy beside him. Caramba and Skeets helped ease the wagon down to the more level range at the mouth of the narrow trail.

"I reckon you can make out," Skeets decided, there. "Me and Caramba better go on to Red Mesa like Gale said."

"I can go out pretty early tomorrow," the doctor told him. "But I have got to be here tonight. Sick woman here, too. She'll about reach a crisis around daylight. Are you staying?"

"I reckon, I'll side you out. I have to hunt up Janton."

"Come by around breakfast time then. I'll know what I can do about leaving."

"They just shot twice, as soon as your pa opened the door?" Con prompted him.

"Shot a lot of times. Two men done it. They come in the room where we was and Mom told 'em she was shot, too. She says to him that she was dying. They brought the lamp in and looked to see if she was. I just laid still by her. One was a towhead, same's me. He cussed a lot about Mom being shot and waved his six-shooter around. And he grabbed the blässerhome and wiped his six-shooter with it—"

"Grabbed the what?" Caramba thrust in.

"The blässerhome! Aw, you know them things women makes to stick up in houses! God—bless—our—home; that's about what they always say. We wiped out his six-shooter with it."

Con and Caramba stared at each other, then nodded.

"I said to Monk Irby that it was bad luck," Con drawled. "And we'll try to make it come true, huh, Caramba? Well! I'll take her down. It's going to be dark before we make it."

Men came out of darkness when he drove into the wheel yard and up to the kitchen door. Gale Goree and Tension pushed up to the wagon and Con answered their surprised questions shortly.

Mrs. Tension came out, Janet at her heels. She called for lights.

"Janet," she said briskly, "you trot in, honey, and fix the bed in the west bedroom. The boys will bring her in. Peek! you and Gale and Twenty and Perch carry that mattress. Careful! Where's her boy? Is he hurt much?"

She went in ahead of them, calling to Mexican house servants. The four carried Mrs. Gracey into a clean, orderly room and put the old mattress down. Mrs. Tension looked at it and clucked, then waved them out.

"Let's get to work, Janet! If we want you men, I'll call. Peek! we can't wait for the doctor. Send somebody to town, fast! He may not show up for a week. My heart's an old story to him and I think he just comes out for barbecued chicken, Scoot!"

In the kitchen, Tension looked at Goree, then at Con.

"You better make the ride," he drawled. "Grab some coffee and a chunk of meat and catch up a fresh horse. If the doctor's not in town, trail him. He sent word today that he might be two-three days getting out."

He reached behind him to the big coffee pot and motioned to a cup. When he had poured the coffee he set out steak and biscuit. Con told them what the boy had seen and heard, between bites of his supper.

Man Killers Are Puzzle to Police

Girls Don't Miss When They Shoot for Love.

NEW ORLEANS.—This is a problem that stumps a lot of policemen: Take a woman (not one of those college Annie Oakleys, of course) out to the target range, put a pistol in her hand, and she can't even nick the white of the target.

But when "she shoots him because she loves him" she never misses.

Sergt. Preston Friloux, the New Orleans police department's firearms instructor for the last 12 years, should have some idea about it, but declares:

"I just can't make it out. It seems they close their eyes, point the muzzle of a gun at their target, pull the trigger, and bingo!—the object of their affections hits the floor."

"And the bullet nearly always hits a vital spot. But I've taken many of 'em to the police pistol range, put a revolver in their hands and watched 'em go to pieces. They were unable to hit the white of the target from 10 feet away. They seemed too timid and frightened."

"I haven't heard of any that missed the mark when they were shooting at the real thing."

Clerk Patrick O'Brien, a 24 year veteran who has "handled more women shooting than I can remember," said he'd found that "in most cases only one bullet does the job," but added, "Don't ask me to explain—it can't be done."

He picked up, as an example, the record of a shooting in which a man was killed by one shot fired by a woman who had never even discharged a cap pistol before.

George Reyer, superintendent of police who has broken many a bank robbery, can't crack this case.

"I've often wondered about it," he admitted, "but it's beyond me. There must be a reason. Our record room is filled with reports of women picking up a revolver for the first time in their lives and putting a bullet into a man. They don't ever miss."

John J. Grosch, chief of detectives, passed it off with:

"They're just natural born marksmen when they want to 'shoot him because they love him.'"

'Baked Cushion' Saves Walter's Head in Wreck

ROCK SPRINGS, WYO.—A one point landing on a chocolate cake probably saved Walter Lietz from more serious injury than a frosted pate in an automobile accident near here.

The Lietz car rolled over twice when a tire blew out.

"Are you hurt?" inquired Mrs. Lietz as she and her husband gingerly tested themselves for injuries after crawling clear.

"My head feels funny," said Lietz, reaching to remove his hat. "It's gummy!"

His hat was gone, but there was a covering on his head.

"Looks like some of the upholstery," said Mrs. Lietz, inspecting it.

"I think it's that insulation material I bought recently," Lietz speculated.

Then Mrs. Lietz gasped, peered into the back of the car and groaned. Lietz's halo was the chocolate frosting of the homemade cake that had been on the back seat when the upset occurred.

Bristling With Guns—This Fellow Really Was!

SACRAMENTO, CALIF.—E. B. Prosser of Spring Valley, Minn., is almost a one-man army.

He wrote Gov. Culbert Olson that he intended to take a job as a guard in San Diego and that he would like a permit to bring his 13 guns into the state.

If he found he would not need them all, Prosser said he was willing to donate the extra ones to the state, understanding that there was a shortage of weapons in California.

Prosser said his personal arms included three high-powered rifles, one .22-caliber rifle, two shotguns and seven automatic pistols and revolvers.

Detective Traps Queen As Bees Block Traffic

TACOMA, WASH.—Detective Captain Bill Farrar is a specialist—akin to a bomb-disposal squad.

A swarm of bees blocked traffic at a downtown intersection. The captain was called. He set up a hive, inscribed "Return to Captain Farrar after nightfall," deftly pushed the queen inside the hive and went back to headquarters.

Smartly Styled Washables Are Made to Wear Long and Often

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THERE is a great to-do being made about the "soap and water" look for summer. Because we want to look immaculate and feel cool, because we've found that only washables can give us that wonderful, fresh-from-the-laundry cleanness, we are growing more and more to appreciate how completely washables attain to our ideals of perfect materials for perfect summer days. This summer we'll wear washables all day, every day and for late in the night.

This season, more than ever before, we are discovering that there can be and is true aristocracy and a wealth of possibilities in sterling quality-kind linens, piques and other of the myriads of lovely weaves we've hitherto taken for granted. And now that the women of America have been led by designers and style creators to look upon washables as fabrics of beauty and a joy forever we are yielding utterly to their lure this season.

Women who insist on being beautifully dressed no matter how busy their lives may be will appreciate at first glance the appeal of fine artistry and deft workmanship reflected in the three dresses illustrated above. They live up to the tradition of the designer who created them and who is noted for exquisitely simple styling and unusual detail.

Among fine wash weaves Moygashel linen has ever been noted for its superior look, feel and wear. Happily this linen is still being imported from the North of Ireland. The demure little suit dress shown to the left in the above picture is just about as pretty and cool for a summer afternoon as ever a dress might be. This beautifully cut original has a brief peplumed jacket and a graceful unpressed pleated skirt. Exquisite Venise lace borders the jacket and cuffs. Three flower buttons clear almost to transparency blossom down the front. It's lovely and feminine as any one could wish, charming and choice enough for any young woman of faultless taste to wear in the most select environs. Practical, too, for it washes like the proverbial "hanky."

Simple line is the important detail which makes the adorable dress centered in the picture. It's one of those classics of sophisticated simplicity to live in and love all summer long. Of soft rayon shantung, with tiers of hand-turned scallops on the pockets and pearl-buttoned bodice, it has all the high class styling of the best in washable summertime fabric manipulation. Worn with a shady-brimmed hat, nothing could be cooler looking or feeling.

Stop, look, listen! In the dress to the right in the above group you are receiving advance notice of a fashion you'll see more of this fall and winter, that is, the use of rich embroidery on the slim-lined dress. It's of cool Moygashel linen. Made very simply, with a deep-throated neckline and soft front fullness its restrained simplicity the more keenly highlights the chalk-white embroidery on collar and pockets. Wear it proudly and often, for it washes well and is easy to keep fresh.

One of the favored washables is pique, birdseye pique, eyeleted pique, printed pique, or embroidered pique. With this immaculate-looking washable designers are performing wonders in the way of sports apparel, daytime costumes, jacket dresses and party frocks which are most intriguing. Pique takes beautifully to trimmings of Irish crochet lace, which is being used very effectively. Printed pique combined with plain injects a splurge of color attuned to this summer's mood.

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Fringe-Printed

Smoothly cool, shape-holding and comfortable, rayon jersey is a popular summertime fabric. This striking and most charming New York creation is of deep green and white fringe-printed jersey. This season's prints are noted for versatility and originality in design, but of all prints brought out nothing more unusual in a print has been shown than the fringe effect as here illustrated. Smartly simple and style-right for informal town and country daytime functions is this gown, and it is a forerunner of a new movement in prints.

Herald Lavish Use Of Embroideries

All signs point to a lavish use of embroidery on fashions now on the way for fall. One of the present season's highlights is the trick of trimming a black frock with contrasting embroidery in chalk white.

There is intriguing originality expressed in the embroidery technique employed in advance modes, such as the flower motif placed at the waistline of a slim frock which simulates a huge corsage. The new one-piece wrapover dresses invite ingenious introduction of embroidery used variously in border effects or in splashes of bright hand stitching in effective placement of flower clusters.

Materials for exotic looking turbans are also embroidered, and 'tis said that belts, bags and gloves will be cunningly needle-worked with yarns and chenilles.

Milliners Do Wonders With a Little Organdy

While there is big news in handsome white straws bordered with flanges of white ribbon and in cunning little flower turbans and pique types both broad of brim and milliner, it is in the exquisite hats milliners are making of organdy and other diaphanous materials that the thrill of thrills is found. On the head they look as airy and lovely as drifts of snowy clouds on a summer day.

Favorite types have pleatings of the organdy encircling transparent white brims. Other white chapeaux are styled of gleaming white cellophane straw made with the intention of stressing their transparency.

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

● In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.

● It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most pleasing feeling in the world; the feeling of being adequately prepared.

● When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. This advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an aid toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

Shrimp Season In Bay Waters Closed July 15

Shrimping in inland salt waters entered a closed season July 15 and will continue until September 1, according to information received here from J. B. Arnold, director of the Coastal division of the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission this week.

Shrimp trawls may continue to operate in the Gulf, and shrimp for bait may be taken in tidal waters with a minnow seine not more than 20 feet in length. Shrimp to be sold for bait may be taken by licensed persons with a cast net or with a shrimp trawl provided the trawl shall not be more than 10 feet wide and 25 feet long.

The bays will be closed to large trawls except in port and enroute to open waters, the notice stated.

Rockport Boy Wins Shooting Award

Pvt. Roy Ivey of Rockport has been awarded a medal for highest score in rifle shooting in a recent contest at Camp Callan, according to information received by his wife here this week.

Ivey has been in the service less than two months, he was assigned to an anti-aircraft training battalion and sent at once to San Diego after his induction at Ft. Sam Houston. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Ivey.

Mrs. Ivey left Wednesday to join her husband in California.

C. B. Grays Return To Rockport To Live

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Gray recently of San Angelo, arrived here last week to make their home. They have lived in San Angelo for the past 37 years, where Gray was employed as a postman.

Upon his retirement Gray is returning to the vicinity where he was born. He declares that he has always liked being on the bay and intends to stay there the rest of his life. He is a brother of Cecil Gray and Will Gray of Rockport.

Oklahoma Minister Guest Speaker At Methodist Church

"Rockport is the best resort spot on the Coast", declares the Rev. Edmond Parker of Oklahoma City, who with Mrs. Parker left here Monday after a weeks vacation which they spent at Hunt's Court.

The Rev. Parker preached the Sunday evening service at the Methodist church here. He and Mrs. Parker were guests that day of Rev. and Mrs. Almus D. Jameson. He is the executive secretary of education of the Oklahoma Conference of the Methodist Church, and was formerly a professor of education in Goodwell State College, Goodwell, Okla.

The Parkers were enthusiastic about Rockport, they enjoyed the swimming and had good luck fishing. They plan to return later in the summer with relatives from Florida for a longer stay.

OAKLAND, CALIF.—The Fraternal Orders of Condors, composed of glider pilots who are in training for the armed services, have chosen the meeting place for their first annual convention. It is Tokyo. Only the date has been left open.

Graves Announces For Re-Election

Judge Harry N. Graves was elected four years ago to fill the unexpired term of the late Judge O. S. Lattimore as a member of the Court of Criminal Appeals of Texas. He has actively participated in the work of the Court since that time, and has written his share of their opinions.

This Court has disposed of the cases submitted to it and is up with its docket, and he requests a second term at the hands of the voters.

Would it be wise to change the personnel of this Court at the present time?

A Fourth Generation Fighter SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—Donald L. Berger represents the fourth generation in his family to serve Uncle Sam. The young sailor's father was in the first World War; his grandfather served in the Spanish-American conflict, and his great-grandfather wore the Blue in the Civil War.

If you have any questions to ask, address your letter to Station KPRO c-o United States Coast Guard, and they will be answered the following week.

Masons Organize New Lodge At Naval Base

Senator Rogers Kelly of Edinburg, the Deputy Grand Master of Texas Masons, will set to work the Oso Naval Lodge at a meeting scheduled for 8 o'clock Saturday night, the 18th of July, in the Masonic Temple, 906 No. Chapparral St. Corpus Christi, according to Judge James M. Wilson, District Deputy Grand Master for that district.

The new lodge composed principally of Navy and civilian personnel at the Naval Air Station, will start with a membership roster of fifty-four Masons. Senator Kelly is being sent here at the dispensation of Dr. E. M. Wood of Anson, Grand Master of Masons in Texas.

The officers of the new lodge will include:

- W. M.—Dr. Irving M. Dietz
  - S. W.—Archie R. Connell
  - J. W.—Edmund E. Moore
  - Treas.—James C. Thompson
  - Sec'y.—Clark P. Sherwood
  - Chaplain-pro-tem, James W. Mc Fall

W. L. Patrick Is Commissioned In U. S. Engineers

Lieut. and Mrs. W. L. Patrick, with their children, Margaret and Billy, left Wednesday for Roswell, N. M. following a visit here in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sorenson.

Patrick, a highway engineer, was engaged on the construction of the defense highway out of Seadrift until July 4, when he was commissioned in the U. S. Engineers. His work will be in the maintenance department for the present.

Army Firemen Visit Meeting of Home Town Department

Francis Smith and Lloyd Lassiter, firemen in the U. S. Army at Camp Hulen, spent short leaves at home Thursday.

While here they planned to attend the regular meeting of the Volunteer Fire Department, of which they were formerly chief and assistant chief.

Blasting Disturbs Hatching

ALEXANDRIA, Ind.—It's been a futile spring for the hens near the National Gypsum plant here. Blasting in progress at the plant apparently kills the egg germ upon which the hens are hopefully sitting and baby chick production is almost down to zero.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I wish to announce that screens have been placed on the windows of the Methodist church and those who attend the services next Sunday will not be subjected to the torture of mosquitoes as they were last Sunday evening. The house will be thoroughly sprayed also just prior to the worship and the double precaution should insure your comfort.

ALMUS D. JAMESON, Pastor
