You ought to meet my friend, Will Dudley. I suppose Will must be seventy-eight or nine ... but you'd never know it. He's tall and lean and hard as a hickory. And although the only formal education he ever had was a few winters in the old red schoolhouse, I think that he's the wisest man I know in many ways.

For one thing, Will taught me the value of what he calls "Just a-settin!"

Come upon Will in the evening, when his hard day's work is done, and you'll find him "just a-settin," in a rocker on his porch. In one hand he'll have his old briar pipe and in the other, a tall cool glass of beer.

"Wholesome, appetizin' beer," says Will, "is standard equipment for proper settin! Puts a feller in an easy-goin' peaceful mood."

You see, Will holds the theory that in our present mixed-up world, a man needs a quiet hour every

Keep Long Distance VOICEWAYS clear for VICTORY!

The weight of war on the long distance telephone lines grows heavier every day. We can't build new lines to carry it because materials aren't available. We've got to make the most of the service we now have.

To keep our lines free for calls essential to fighting the war, we need your help and sympathetic understanding.

In general, of course, we are able to handle fairly easily calls over shorter distances. But remember always that if your call goes to a large city where war work is under way, or must pass through such cities, it may add to an already dangerous congestion. This is especially true in the rush hours from 9 to 12 in the morning, 2 to 5 in the afternoon, 7 to 9 at night.

On calls to more distant points during those hours, we are sure you will feel that your personal interests must give way to official messages that constantly are flooding our lines.

By thoughtful use of telephone service civilians can help to win the war. And we know you're glad to help.

War calls come first!

All Candidates Busy As Campaign Period Closes

With indications of a heavy vote in the county's five boxes in Saturday's first Democratic primary, Pat Mixon, Democratic chairman, is urging that voters go to the polls early. An early vote will greatly aid election officials in compiling the returns.

Candidates with opposition are bringing their campaigns to a whirlwind finish, working hard to see every voter before balloting time Saturday morning at 8 o'clock when the polls open The polls close at 7 p. m. and interest being taken at this time in the various races would indicate that near one thousand votes will

There are five voting places in the county: Box No. 1 in the Fire House; Box No. 2 in the Court House; Box No. 3 in the Fulton School House; Box No. 4 in the Lamar school house; and Box No. 5 in the Estes School House.

The County Democratic Executive Committee was petitioned No. 1 and 2. The supervisors are A. C. Glass and James C. Herring

A meeting of election judges and supervisors will be held Friday night at 8:30 in the District Court Room, at which time Mrs. Fancher Archer will review the election laws and conduct a discussion regarding the legal phases of holding elections.

FRIENDSHIP?

It's not easy for children to adjust themselves immediately when a major change occurs in their lives. But youngsters are certain to find friends if they are the friendly type. Parents should offer them guidance (but very discreetly) when they are forced to find new friends.

Make your home as attractive as possible-not with huge financial outlays, but with the spirit of true friendship. Children will recognize it!

old ways. It seems to Jean and Ann today that they never will replace the lost associations; but they will, and a year from now they will be innocently wondering how they could ever have feared that life would never be satisfying again. When you do leave for short holidays, go where nice young people go. This is one infallible way of making acquaintances. Boys will dance with Jean, girls will shyly make overtures of friendship to Ann, and before you know it you will be meeting mothers, discussing schooling, and sharing plans for the autumn. When you get this far, your next step is a hard one, but I think it is perhaps the most important duty that falls to a father and mother. I mean the duty of drawing a little circle of associates about your girls, knowing something about every one of the young men, and sacrificing not only your own time and comfort, but your own pride, in a sense, until you get things started. By pride I mean that you must take the hurts that youth quite unconsciously will inflict upon you and your plans. "Mother, his own house is just palatial!" Jean will say, when you speak of asking the nice Robinson boy over to spend an evening with you. "Mother, all my friends go to the movies and they all expect to go to the movies!" Ann will wail at the suggestion of chocolate shakes, cookies and games at home.

Suggests Games. But persevere. Ask a few youngsters to come in to celebrate-oh, anything! Jean's birthday, Admission day, Fourth of July. Have pencils, scratch pads and suggestions ready. No matter how awkward they are in starting, games will break the ice, and when you slip away to see to the refreshments, they will be carrying on at a great rate, on their own.

Make up your mind that at the first attempt you probably will draw seven girls and two boys; that at the last moment the boy Jean especially likes will telephone that he has a cold and that his mother doesn't want him to come, and resign yourself to the fact that (a) Jean won't want Ann anywhere in sight, (b) Ann will be raging, and (c) not until a successful party is over will you get the slightest cooperation or enthusiasm from Jean.

This is part of a mother's job. If you can get only three friends to come in, get three. Next time there will be nine, and the time after that the youngsters will form a hiking, dramatic and dance club and Jean's social start will be fairly launched.

With Ann it should be easier, for | fy in the National Open at 36 holes. she is young enough to want girl rather than boy friends, and the friends she makes in school surely are going to dancing classes on Friday nights, and in no time at all haps the most prignant the human she will have all the dates she can

"It is possible to run a mile around four minutes flat. But we won't see that for some time. Such miles as Glenn Cunningham ran were largely sprints. They were terrific. I should say that a fast 4:10 or better mile today is the toughest race on the track."

Same for Horse

"This distance goes for a horse, too," John Partridge, the veteran, said. "The mile is the hardest race. Young Suitor Felt Sure I mean a fast mile.

"You hear people talking about The Idea Was Correct the strain of a mile and a half or even two miles. This recalls Johnstown's speed and what it did to him. Johnstown in more than one workout beat 1:34. No other horse ever ran that fast.

"You hear a lot," an observing old-timer said, "about the fighters and the ball players and the football players and other competitors from years ago outranking present stars. Don't believe it. Everything is getting better. And I can prove it." "Just how?" I asked.

"Because everything that can be measured or timed shows a sure and steady improvement over old records. New records are being set in every sport from year to year. Can't you remember when 13 feet was a record pole vault? Warmerdam will make it 16 feet before long. They are now close to seven feet in the high jump. You'll see 9.1 seconds in the 100 soon. Look at all the old swimming records. Look at practically every competition you can time or measure.'

"They talk about the great pitchers of the past," he continued. "We that is forcing a faster pace. "Certain critics are always talking about the millions who sit and watch the few play," the old-timer went on. "I wonder if they know how many millions are also playing games? Football and basketball are two of our fastest games. If you take the high schools and the colleges and the clubs, there are more than a million or two taking active part in these sports.

"It is only natural that anyone who plays a game, whatever the game, is interested in seeing stars at play in his favorite sport. But that doesn't mean that all those who sit in stands or sit and watch don't also play when they get the chance.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headachee, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

HOUSING PROJECTS

WASHINGTON .- I spent one morning visiting low cost housing projects in and around Washington. Some of the people who were moved, because of the fact that the navy yard had to be enlarged, are in trailer camp nearby.

On the whole, the arrangements are good. I was surprised at how wonderfully the women manage in such small quarters. In one trailer three grown people and three children were housed, and yet everything was as clean and neat as possible. The camp is divided into two units. Each has a utility building where laundry can be done, and showers and sanitary toilets.

I did not see any of the new demountable houses which are to house so many defense workers. Property owners have in many cases objected strongly to having these houses go up in their neighborhood for fear of lowering the values. But since these houses are demountable and are to be sold at the end of the emergency and taken somewhere else, I do not feel the danger is very great.

The other sites I visited are all under the direction of the Alley Dwelling authority. I came away with a great sense of pride in the effort which people make to improve their living conditions just as soon as they have anything with which to work.

JAPANESE IN U. S.

Kockiyama came from New York city in 1940 to attend the University of California. At Tanforan he is a mess hall worker. CHILDREN'S HEARING

In my mail has come a letter from Dr. Morkovin, who is director of the hearing clinic of the University of Southern California. He writes that there are some three million hard-of-hearing children in this country, whose loss of hearing is discovered far too late for complete cure. This is largely due to the fact that mothers do not realize that complications which destroy hearing often arise after measles, whooping cough, infantile paralysis and other children's diseases.

Public opinion is indifferent to the fact that the hearing handicap may be a great deterrent to the development of the child. Therefore there are no state or federal agencies which care especially for hard-ofhearing children and they are not included in the benefits of the Crippled Children act. If we know how much could be done, there would be a weight of public opinion in favor of watching for any signs of impaired hearing in small children.

. . . 'THE FORTY PLUS'

I find that I am not the only person who is concerned about employment of older people. There is an organization called "The Forty Plus," which has branches in many of the big cities. It originated, I think, in Boston. But the most recent letter I have had comes to me from Pittsburgh, Pa.

The president, Mr. George Sheridan, writes: "The club was originally formed with the idea of relieving a situation then thought to have been brought about by the depression and with the hope in mind that as conditions improved, the situation would automatically take care of itself and that men with the ability of our members would find no difficulty in securing posi-

"To a certain extent this has been true, and we feel we have had good success, having placed 571 men since our organization was formed in Pittsburgh in July, 1939, to the present time; but we are still meeting with and endeavoring to overcome, a prejudice to hiring men over 40 years of age. We are trying to correct an impression on the part of many employers that the ability and capacity for work of men over that age is less than that of younger men."

WAR TIME SCHEDULES

NEW YORK CITY .- One day I came up by plane to New York city. I was interested to find that between Washington and New York city there were a number of empty seats, so I think the young man was right who urged me to give up traveling by plane.

I wasn't actually told I could have a seat until an hour before the plane left. However, I didn't have anything so vital to do for an hour after reaching New York city and a little uncertainty didn't matter.

Three years ago she became Miss Garson's stand-in-and how that young woman has forged ahead! Now Miss Garson has lent her for a second time (the first was when Theresa Wright got her for some scenes in "Mrs. Miniver") to Susan Peters, for scenes when Miss Garson doesn't need her in "Random Harvest"; they're rivals for Ronald Colman's affections, in the picture, but never meet.

Incidentally, some exhibitors thought so highly of "Mrs. Miniver" that they advocated showing it at advanced prices. But the suggestion was turned down, on the theory that this swell picture really belongs to the people, and that the greatest number should see it in the shortest possible time. Nicholas M. Vox Pop begins its third year of programs from military, naval and armament establishments along with its eighth of network broadcasting. It was the first radio program to adapt and contribute its facilities to national defense, the first to present the voices of selectees in training, the first and only one to undertake a Good-Neighbor Latin America tour.

Randolph Scott, Glenn Ford, Evelyn Keyes and other members of the cast got a real western reception when they arrived in Utah for "Desperadoes." Local cowhands held up the train and "kidnaped" the stars. Miss Keyes is the first Hollywood actress to make a hobby of collecting military insignia representing armed forces of all the United Nations-has more than 300 insignia buttons.

Fruit Canning

Plan now to put up those fruits from the market or your victory garden while you can still capture their garden-freshness and summer sweetness. This year's canning will require more careful planning than ever before, for waste in the fruit itself, canning jars, rubbers or sugar is highly undesirable.

Chart your plans before embarking on the canning program. Consider first how much sugar you will have available, with the five pounds per person allotment for people who are canning. Plan this amount so it will do for the jams, jellies, preserves, and sugar syrups for fruit

If possible, can in the early morning hours when you are rested and your mind free from too many other thoughts. You will then be able to follow recipes more carefully, to work with more energy and spirit. The day before you will, if you are the bright and alert homemaker, have gathered together your jars, washed them, bought necessary supplies of rubbers and covers and other equipment.

Bring out the preserving kettles and pressure cookers, too. See that they are well scoured, that you have the racks, petcocks, pressure gauge, and steam-tight cover on the pressure cooker well in order.

A hot water bath is best for processing fruits because they are acid.

They can safely tures, and texture, flavor and color are best. Oven canning is good also. For the hot water bath, / use a large wash boiler or vessel with tight fitting cover. Fit this with a rack at least 1/2 inch from the bottom. Fill the rack with enough water to cover jars at least one inch over the top. Count the processing time as soon as water surrounding the jars begins to boil. There should be free circulation of water around jars.

For oven canning, set the temperature at 250 degrees. Set jars on a rack in the cold oven, however. Start counting time when the oven is switched or turned on. Do not allow the temperature ever to exceed 250 degrees as this causes liquid to boil away and evaporate.

In placing your jars in the oven, allow for free circulation of heat between them. Do not allow the jars to touch each other, as this will often cause breakage, and do not allow them to come in contact with the sides of the oven.

If liquid evaporates during the processing in the oven, do not fill the jars after you take them out. Some evaporation does not affect successful canning of the fruit.

The Sugar Question.

Fruit may be canned successfully without sugar or sugar syrup with water or fruit juice used in its place. Sugar, however, does mellow and ripen the fruit, giving it a better flavor. You might try making your fruit syrups for fruit canning less sweet than usual if you are short on Honey may be used in place of sugar in making the sweet syrup, but the fruit will be somewhat more dark than if sugar is used and the fruit flavor will be intensified. Use honey for each cup of sugar in the substitution.

Lynn Says:

How many jars are you putting up of the fruits? Here's a guide to help you pick out jars: Cherries: 9 baskets yield 2 pints pitted, 7 pints, if whole. Peaches: 21/4 pounds (small basket) yields 1 quart. Plums: 1 14-pound basket yields 25 pints. Strawberries: 1 crate yields 26 pints, if canned whole; 31 (71/2ounce) glasses of jam.

NOAH: GOD'S COVENANT WITH MANKIND

LESSON TEXT-Genesis 9:1-16. covenant.-Genesis 9:15.

God does not forget. He keeps His promises now just as He did in the days of Noah. Since our lesson of last Sunday, a long period of time had elapsed. Generation after generation had come and gone, and all the while man grew more and more wicked. Finally, God saw that He must put an end to the corruption of the human race, saving just one righteous family, that of Noah, with which to begin anew.

He warned Noah of the judgment of the flood, and he in turn doubtless warned others, but finally the day came when God shut him in the ark and poured forth the waters of judgment upon the then inhabited earth. But the same God who shut Noah in (Gen. 7:1), in due time called him out (Gen. 8:15, 16).

Noah had obeyed God, and He now rewarded him. The man who had borne the ridicule was now honored by Him. The experience of Noah brings before us-

God's Three Gifts to a Believing Man:

I. Power (vv. 1-4).

Man is the "lord of creation," not because he has brought about its subjection, but because God gave him that power. It was first given and berries. Make the syrup by usto Adam (Gen. 1:26), and it is renewed here, with the additional promise of the animal as food. This was not to be, however, after the manner of wild beasts (v. 4).

No man ever lost anything by obeying the commands of God, even though appearances may seem to so indicate. The ridicule of those who called Noah foolish for obeying God, had now been silenced by the judgone part water to one part sugar ment of the flood, and he stood forth vindicated, empowered by God, with authority over the whole earth.

Faith is still the victory. Men who put their hopes in the kings and empires of this earth have seen them "rise and wane," and even unbelievers are beginning to talk about the necessity of a spiritual anchorage for the souls of men. It is a simple square neck. You'll like found only in Christ, but in Him is the effect if you apply to the skirt found both peace and power for two bands of the material you use victorious living.

But we see a second gift of God-II. Protection (vv. 5-7).

Human life is not as cheap as men would have us think. Their estimate based on greed and lust tight, process in hot water bath 25 for power makes man but a unit in minutes, or in the oven (at 250 a machine designed to build up podegrees) 75 minutes. If using a pres- litical power. The blood of those who are not profitable to such an enterprise, is shed in utter callous-

> Those who do such things, need to read the words of God, "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed: for in the image of God made he man" (v. 6). What a tremendous bill some men will have to pay when they stand before the seat of judgment of our God. Even the animals who kill men are to be slain (v. 5). How much greater shall be the condemnation of the man who violates God's command. But we see a third gift of God, designed to remove a deep fear from pack in clean, hot, sterilized jars. his heart, namely God's-III. Promise (vv. 8-16).

God made a covenant with Noah and with his descendants and every living creature (vv. 9, 10). This is the third of God's eight covenants with man, beginning with the one to Adam in the Garden of Eden (Gen. top, screw on firmly, and process in 1:28), and closing with the new cova hot water bath for 20 minutes, or enant (Heb. 8:8).

This was a promise of God's grace that there should be no more judgment by flood, and as a sign He chose the rainbow, which, appearing in the very time when rain should fall, would reassure men that a new flood was not coming upon them. What a beautiful symbol!

"I will remember," said God, and He has not forgotten. Though thousands of years have passed, there has never since been such a cataclysm of judgment. How unspeakably precious it is to recall that God has not forgotten a single one of or 3 syrup. Put on cap, screw us; that He remembers every promtightly. Fly Is Paralysis Carrier Discovery that common flies carry the virus of infantile paralysis has been made by Drs. John L. Paul and James D. Trask at Yale university medical school.

It is now evident that poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis), which cripples 10,000 persons and kills from 500 to 1,000 every year, is a disease of the intestinal tract as well as the spinal cord, and that flies may carry the virus from sewage.

The discovery of Drs. Paul and Trask makes the common house fly more than ever an enemy to health and even to life itself, especially among children.

(STATEMENT REGARDING LETTER)

On June 22, 1942, I wrote a large number of the ship yard workers the foregoing letter. It was my aim to write such letter to every ship yard worker that was a qualified voter of Aransas County, Texas. However, I may have overlooked some due to the inadequacy of my list, and in those cases where an Aransas County voter was overlooked, I offer my apologies for the oversight and I hereby assure you that the foregoing letter was meant for you as well as all of the other ship yard workers. My object in writing such letter was to introduce myself to the ship yard workers and to encourage their taking an interest in local politics.

Now my political enemies, some of them having felt the long arm of law enforcement in Aransas County, Texas, during the past two terms that I have served as County Attorney, have taken copies of the above letter, cut out part of it, twisted it around, have put unfair interpretations on the statements made, and in such altered condition have passed it around secretly, and insidiously, ostensibly trying to injure me politically. I have nothing to hide in this matter and am printing a true copy of such letter askng you to read the same and pass judgement as to whether I or my political enemies are right in the above matter. (COPY OF LETTER SENT TO SHIPYARD WORKERS) June 22, 1942

Mr. Ship Yard Worker, Rockport, Texas My Dear Sir:

As a stockholder in the Westergard-Rice Bros. Boat Works, I feel that I have a mutual interest with you in the great job yor are doing in the defense of our country. I realize that the part I have done, that is the subscribing and contributing a small part of the funds that enabled the organizers to form their corporation, get their first contracts, and establish their yard, is small as compared to the part that you are doing in the building of the boats. However through the efforts of others and myself, it has been made possible for you to have remunerative employment and to do your part to-

I am now calling upon you for a favor. I am asking you for your vote to elect me County Judge of Aransas County. I feel that I have qualifications that my opponent does not have that entitles you to elect me to that office. I have the following qualifications:

I own the home in which I live.

I pay an appreciable amount of taxes.

Between now and the 25th day of July I shall contact you personally and discuss with you the matters of my candidacy. However, I can not see every one at the same time, and in the meantime, I am wanting you to know that I approiate the great work that you are doing at the ship yard, and that I appreciate the generous contributions that you have made to the Red Cross, U. S. O. and the many other drives upon which you have been called to

Until I see you personally, Very Truly yours,

EMORY M. SPENCER Candidate for County Judge Aransas County, Texas

I Propose To Provide Adequate Drainage For Aransas County

MY OPPONENT'S ONLY ARGUME. T FOR RE-ELECTION FOR THE 5TH TIME SO FAR AS I HAVE BEEN ABLE TO ASCERTAIN IS THAT HE NEEDS THE OFFICE FOR ANOTHER TERM.

MY ANSWER TO THAT IS IS THIS:

DURING THE TEN YEARS THAT HE HAS BEEN IN THAT OFFICE HE HAS BEEN PAID OUT OF THE TAX-PAYERS MONEY NO LESS THAN $20,000. HE HAS DONE ONE OF TWO THINGS WITH THIS MONEY. HE HAS EITHER SAVED A PART OF IT AND AS A MATTER OF FACT DOES NOT NEED THE JOB AS HE CON-TENDS OR HE HAS LIVED IT UP. IN WHICH LATTER CASE HE HAS HAD A VERY MUCH HIGHER STANDARD OF LIVING THAN THE AVERAGE ARANSAS COUNTY VOTER THAT HE IS ASKING TO PUT HIM BACK IN OFFICE.

HAVE YOU HAD $200 OR MORE PER MONTH FOR LIVING EXPENSES?

Let's Elect a Lawyer County Judge

RUSSIA:

Nazi Steamroller

Adolf Hitler had demonstrated that the long delay before he launched his monster offensive against the Soviet Union had not been wasted and that despite terrific losses his tank forces had lost one of their striking power.

For the mighty thrusts which started originally in the Kursk and Kharkov areas had steadily gained n weight and momentum, forcing heir way through the Don basin. The attack developed three spearheads aimed to split the armies of Marshal Timoshenko in the Ukraine and those of Marshal Zhukov in the Moscow area. The northern objective was Voronezh on the Moscow-Rostov railway; the central thrust was aimed at Kuibyshev; and the southern had Stalingrad as its goal.

Moscow made no effort to minimize the danger of a broad breakthrough. For once holding a line from Rostov to Stalingrad, the Nazis would be in position to swing southward to Astrakhan on the Caspian sea and into the Caucasus itself, where waited their supreme prize -the fabulous oil pools of Tiflis and Baku. Moreover, such a move would pave the way for a junction by Nazi Marshal Von Bock with the armies of Japan poised on the borders of India far to the east and those of Field Marshal Rommel, on the shores of the Mediterranean.

EGYPT:

Collision of Tanks

Air-borne from Crete came Rommel's long-awaited reinforcements. Tough and battle-seasoned were they and expert at storming defenses such as the British were manning against them in Egypt's crucial El Alamein sector.

Tricky Marshal Rommel employed a battle device that had won for him on many a previous occasion—that of beginning his attack at dusk when the sun was in his opponents' eyes.

Bringing up heavy tank reinforcements, both sides battered each other in battles on which the fate of Alexandria and Suez depended.

The Nazis' immediate goal was a desert coastal ridge five miles west of El Alamein which the British had won from him days before. In the fiercely contested struggle, the RAF was actively engaged, with fighter bombers and light bombers scoring many direct hits on tanks and ranging far to the rear to harass Rommel's thinned-out supply and communication lines.

DRAFT: 'War Effort'

"Contributing to the war effort" will be an important factor in determining the draft status of married as well as single men.

In defining what constitutes "contributing to the war effort," selective service headquarters outlined 34 different types of jobs which would place a man in that categor: and thus delay his induction. Draft officials emphasized that the supply of single men of all classes would have to be exhausted first.

Trends were clarified in the revised policies announced by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service. While reiterating that "bona fide family relationships will be protected as long as possible," General Hershey instructed local draft boards that when the time comes for calling men with dependents to service. those who are not contributing to the war effort should be called first. Last class to be inducted would are contributing to the war effort.

SURPLUS WHEAT: To Sell at 83c

News bulletins had carried the bare announcement that the house of representatives had concurred with a senate proposal to convert government owned surplus wheat into United Nations war needs by feeding it to livestock to produce meat, milk and eggs.

But back of that announcement was the story of the breakup of a six-months' legislative log-jam, a victory for the administration's antiinflation program and acknowledgement by the farm bloc that it must accept less than a parity rate for the sale of this grain. Twice before the house had voted to bar the sale of surplus wheat unless it was made at the full parity price of $1.35 a bushel. Now it agreed to go along with the senate and allow the sale of 125,000,000 bushels of government-owned wheat at 85 per cent of the parity price of units of the Royal navy and macorn-or about 83 cents a bushel- rines carried on the greatest raid for feeding cattle and hogs. We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

 In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.

• It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy It. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared.

9 When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. Thus advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows Itself as an aid toward making all our business relationship more secure and pleasant.

On their way out to the ranch after persuading Tenison to give them the job, Con and Caramba met Monk Irby, one of the Megeath crowd. Megeath and Dud Paramore, leader of another band of outlaws, hate both Nevil Lowe and the Broken Wheel outfit. In the fight which followed their meeting with Irby, Con knocked out Irby. Then he and Caramba fought off more of Megeath's men to protect Janet Lowe. When Mrs. Tenison sent Con to find out how the "nesters," the Gracevs, were coming along, Con found Mr. Gracey dead and Mrs. Gracey and the boy seriously hurt. Topeka sent Con into town for a doctor, with instructions to tell the constable Janton, and no one else about his suspicions that it was Monk Irby who shot the Graceys.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER XV

The constable was in a poker game in a corner of the big cantina. The place was almost deserted Two or three such games as that of the constable looked to be of the all-night variety.

Con went back to straddle a chair opposite Janton, and when a hand was finished, the lanky constable looked curiously at him.

"Don't tell me you already quit Busted Wheel!"

No. Not yet. I was sent in to ng the doctor and-to put a murder case in somebody's lap. Yours,

"That's the sheriff's bailiwick," Janton said drawlingly. "Hell on murders, Nevil Lowe is.'

"Where is he, here in town?"

"He was heading this way, the see it done. I couldn't swear to a thing."

"Best not to talk much if you can't swear to things," that cowboy next to Janton advised him sagely.

The players laughed. Con shook his head, sighed, and got lazily to his feet.

"I believe I'll get a drink and call it a day."

He ate breakfast in Carmelita's, among other early risers, cowboys and freighters and prospectors and ose men of Onopa who had stores other businesses to open. Janton came in, alone. When he saw Con at a vacant table, he slouched over to sit down and grin.

"I don't want you should think I don't give a hoot about murders." he said genially, "just because I never got worked up about Gracey. Us that's been around here a long time naturally, we know things you don't. Now, Gracey, he was always just begging for a killing.

He drank coffee noisily, squinting, shaking his head.

"You know-nothing personal! but -some folks might say you coming in with this tale about Monk Irby murdering Gracey was all part of a scheme to put Monk out of the way. Because Monk and Slash was awful good friends and Monk's a dangerous man, any way you take him."

"No. No, you're wrong about that," Con disagreed placidly. "I'm not a bit more afraid of Monk than I am of-of you, Janton, and you need your two barrels of buck to make me nervous. Well, I've got to take the doctor out and report to Topeka Tenison about what you said and did."

The constable moved uneasily, said nothing. Con paid for his bre fast and went out. He walked s ly toward the doctor's house, zling Janton's manner.

He met the doctor, hurrying the street with his bag.

"Be an hour or two before ready," the gray little man pa "Been up since four."

"I think," Con told himself some pleasure, "that now I'v time to look around for M Irby. And if he should want member me, goodness forbid put anything at all in his w

"They bulged into town a-licking their sores like a bunch of scalded hounds. Nobody was killed, but some was shot awful bad. They say Gloomy's promised to wipe out your mark. But from what Monk Irby spewed out, he ain't going to wait for Gloomy!' Con asked the bartender where Gloomy and Monk were.

"There's a li'l' bitsy plazita, just two-three Mex' houses, on the road to Helligo Canyon. The bunch stops there lots of times. I think that's where they went, yesterday. Watch your step, young fellow!"

He went up the bar to serve customers and Con lifted his glass and set it down empty. Then a rasping voice sounded, almost in his ear. "Ain't you workin for that damn

Then from behind him a hand knocked down his Colt, struck his arm again and the gun roared as it fell. He took a heavy blow in the back that drove him forward. > Con fell into him and clung, lifting his feet off the floor and kicking viciously backward. He felt a heel strike something soft and heard a groan. Then his toes touched the floor again and he kicked the big man on his shin. The grip on his arm relaxed slightly and he snatched free, to rise on tiptoe and swing a long right to the cheek. Blackbeard staggered and Con rushed in. He slid back as the big figure crumpled, began to turn to get at the second man, and felt the impact of an almost knockout blow on his jaw.

"He sure does set up nights to hate a Busted Wheeler, Latimer does," one of the voices said marvelingly. "But if it hadn't been for that nephew of his helping him, there's one Wheeler would have killed him first crack out of the box. He beat Latimer to it, only that boy knocked his arm down. Latimer had his hand on the cutter, Con sat up so abruptly that men bent over him jerked back out of the way. Automatically, he put his hand inside his shirt and groped for his Colt.

Hands helped him. He peered around and the bartender pushed over his pistol. He spun the cylinder to see that the loads were intact, let down the hammer upon an empty chamber, and shoved the gun into his waistband. He stood sulkily for a moment, but the doctor took him by the arm and moved him toward the door. Riding beside the doctor's buggy, going out of Onopa, Con asked about the Latimers and was told that they had been in the country less than a year. Latimer had a small outfit between the Broken Wheel and Helligo Canyon. "Ah!" Con said softly. "Between the Wheel and the Canyon." "That's what Topeka thought! The first time he found Latimer wandering around the Wheel side of the line, he called it a natural accident. But the second time it happened, he and the boys with him escorted Latimer across the line and invited him to stay there. Latimer has hammered every Broken and Wheel cowboy he could find, since liquor | then. You're the seventh or eighth."

"Why, maybe I'll be the last one, then. If that nephew of his hadn't hit me from behind, today, the Lat-imers would have been holding lilies, not guns.' The doctor looked very tolerantly at him and shook his gray head. They talked little, after that. Con was becoming more and more conscious of his soreness. He was glad to swing down in the Broken Wheel yard and take the doctor's buggy in charge. Dinner had been eaten. but Con got a handout from the cook, who asked no questions about his battered face.

Then Perch looked into the kitchen of the bunkhouse and with sight of Con whooped shrilly and whirled

"Gale!" he yelled. "Oh, Gale! Twenty Johnson just come in, packing the Latimer trademark. Why'n't you tell this pilgrim what he might run into, around Onopa?"

Goree appeared, behind him. But before he could speak, Topeka Tenison looked over Perch's shoulder. He shook his head slightly, frowning. Con continued to eat placidly. but he was beginning to feel irritation. A corner of Tenison's mouth lifted and he turned to Goree.

"We won't wait for the horses from Red Mesa," he said. "I won't hold the wagon, I mean. You take the boys that are ready and pull When Johnny Dutch and Skeets and Caramba come in from the Mesa with the horses, the rest of the boys can get fixed up. Now, you got your rep's picked?"

"All right," Tenison answered Goree's nod. "We'll meet the other wagons at Antelope Springs and scatter our rep's. You stay here on the place, Twenty, You, too, Perch.'

"Huh?" Con grunted, putting down his coffee. "You don't want me on roundup? I certainly would like to-"

"Got plenty. Somebody's got to stick here," Tenison told him curtly, turning away.

To be left here as a sort of choreboy was bad enough, but to be left because Tenison weighed him against other men, and classed him as a weakling by Wheel standards, was far worse. He went toward the corrals, eyes moodily upon the ground. Then from the house Mrs. Tenison called him.

"I'm glad you're going to stay with us," she said, smiling at him, "I asked for you, but it didn't seem that I was going to get you. Gale thinks a lot of your roping. But you're staying and that pleases me, son. For, with all the trouble we've been having-You know, of course, that Megeath intended to carry off Janet the other night. I'm glad you're going to be around, son."

"I'll play bulldog," Con assured her evenly. "How's the hospital, by the way? That boy all right?"

"I'm going to keep him in bed for a while yet. He developed more fever. The only way we could talk him into lying quiet was to tell him you'd ordered it."

"He minds what I say because he thinks I'm your mother," Mrs. Tenison said, with a soft, strange little laugh. "And he looked at Janet and called her "Mis' Twenty" and said all right; if you had told us to tell him to be quiet, he would!"

"I'm certainly getting fixed up with a family, now!" Con cried-and felt that he was flushing and wondered why he should be. "She's a fine girl, Janet," Mrs. Tenison sighed, as if speaking aloud. "Her mother was the best friend I had and Janet was born right here. She's a pretty girl and a fine girl any way you think of her."

St. Louis Cardinals, Houston Buffs to Hold Trial Camp

Houston, Tex., July 21.-Do boys selected from major league try-out camps ever get to the top? To find the answer to this question, any young man who has that burning desire to be a professional baseball player has only to study the St. Louis Cardinal roster.

Originators of the "farm system" of developing baseball players, the Cardinals certainly practice what they preach. At the present time. the entire Red Bird infield and catching staff, four of the five outfielders, and seven of the ten pitchers got their starts in baseball with some Cardinal "farm club." And many of them were first discovered at tryout camps like the one which will be held at Buff Stadium in Houston, starting Wednesday, July 29.

Marty Marion, Johnny Hopp, Ray Sanders, and Enos Slaughter are among today's stars who reported to Cardinal tryout camps along with scores of other boys- to get their starts in the game. In a few years they were major leaguers.

The tryout camp scheduled at Buff Stadium will be under the direction of Wid Matthews, Cardinal scout and field official, who is well known in this section of the country. Wid, who has helped many boys develop into stardom, was a former major league outfielder, and is known to be one of the best ivory hunters in the Cardinal organiza-

All boys between the ages of 17 and 23 are invited to attend the camp opening Wednesday, July 29, for tryouts under the eyes of experienced baseball scouts. They should be on hand at Buff Stadium at 9 and uniforms. Out-of-town boys of things that bathing suit fashions must finance their own trips to Houston and living expenses while here. Man-Eating Rooster Is Nabbed, Captor a Hero

GLIIN COVE, N.Y.-Frank Doxey, the local dog catcher, was hailed as a hero after capturing a maneating rooster that had been terrorizing residents for several days.

Eating up their favorite rose bushes was not too bad an offense, home owners said, but when the rooster took several bites out of Mrs. Maurice Cohen's legs and pecked at her back, that was something else.

Summoned post-haste after the felonious assault. Doxey snared the wild bird with a neat cast of his net, and it now resides behind bars.

In the 11th inning she became so interested she turned off the gas and by the time the game ended in a 5-5 tie four innings later she had changed her mind.

Prisoner Robbed in Jail;

His Cellmate Is Accused MEADVILLE, PA .- An hour after a prisoner in the jail shouted "I've been robbed," Police Chief E. C. Gibson booked the prisoner's excellmate on a larceny charge. Two workers had occupied the same cell after being arrested on a charge of drunkenness. After one of the men was given his freedom his companion reported $24 had disappeared. The chief gave the accused thief a separate cell.

Those Who Really Want to Swim Fitted Suits Are Favored by present two distinct trends to be considered, for dressmaker fabric

With some the selecting of swim suits is a matter of picturesque garb which spends more hours on the beach in the style parade than in the water. To these the dressmaker styles which play up novelty and fabric dramatically make definite ap-

Then there are the real swimmers who go in for health and exercise and trophies and who want suits which give perfect freedom of action to the body. To these fearless divers and swimmers it is the suit of wool knit which makes appeal. It is efficiency they demand for their suit, with color glory and chic styling added. They will find all they long ture. The designing of these models manages the task of allowing freedom of movement while remaining perfectly molded to the figure.

Favored by real swimmers is the one-piece suit pictured to the right. This bright red ribbed knit, subtly elastic and flexible, is a masterpiece. The adroit shirring is brought up into a pretty bow effect at the front, at the same time that it makes the suit conform to the body. Thus it meets the ideal of the ardent enthusiast who is battling with the big last season the Argyle plaid wool knit swim suits like that pictured to the left in the group are is the mother of invention." triumphantly in the lead this summer. This one-piece suit with front skirt is a real swimmer, and it rides on the crest of the wave of fashion as well as on the waves of the ocean. You can get it in muted colors or in bright, lush colors that are thrilling. The young and sleek two-piece red and white striped wool suit centered in the group has all the characteristics which go to make up the ideal garb for a swimming enthusiast. The texture is very new, being a most interesting seersucker construction. Its amazing light weight and its midriff treatment appeals to the young set. Amidst the confusion of play clothes which crowd summer beaches, one is impressed with the number of two-piece novelties made for in the handsome yet practical of jersey. An outstanding model is fashions illustrated in the above pic- in black and white striped jersey with bare midriff and covered shoul ders, the sleeves stopping midway to the elbow.

The all-white vogue is represented in many charming jersey suits. Especially charming is the white jersey, the halter-neck top of which is cut out at the front midriff only. Bowknots in contrasting jersey are appliqued here and there.

While there is still a limited supply of rubber bathing caps to be had comes the comforting news that substitute, rubberless caps are being produced. These are of cotton Just as the plaid sweaters scored treated with pyroxiline to make them weatherproof. And that goes to prove once again that "necessity

Wine and Gray

Wine and gray checked cotton gingham makes this jacket dress for town wear. There are interesting details that give this stunning outfit distinction. The beautifully cut jacket has bias bands of the gingham on pockets and cuffs. The bias idea is carried out, also, in the pleated skirt and the jabot. A very significant detail is this jabot, for it is an innovation for it to be of self fabric. This technique has been used successfully by a leading designer for lightweight cloth suits.

Gray Chambray Is Ideal for Summer Refreshingly new and ultra chic is the suit or dress made of chambray in a "Puritan" gray that is lovely for summer. Favor for this gray washable is sweeping through style centers at the moment, the grays challenging the much-talkedof town blacks to a lively contest.

Women love the new gray chamuse, for one reason brays. among meas, they launder so easily and exquisitely. Then, too, they yield so attractively to white accents, and they have that immaculate looking way about them that is so much sought for by women who dote on a perfectly groomed appearance.

A new styling given to a gray chambray dress buttons the surplice bodice over to the left underarm with large white pearl buttons running down the skirt to the hemline. The message of gray satin for afternoon dresses is also being broadcast' through fashion circles, but of course these are for "date" wear and such.

The gray chambrays are so definitely practical for all-purpose wear they'll prove a constant source of joy.

Two-Piece Ensemble Has

Wide Scarf for a Jacket When the fall season gets in swing one of the sights you'll see that's good for the eyes is the tweed twopiece ensemble that college girls will adore.

It has a tweed skirt finished off with self fringe (the edge raveled) up and down the wraparound edge to the left. Instead of a jacket there's a wide, shawl-like scarf. The shawl also has matching self-fringed edges. Add a bright blouse to bring I the costume to a perfect climax.

HARMONIOUS beauty for bedroom linens is offered in these new designs. Graceful baskets of brown filled with colorful flowers are for pillow slips, dresser scarf and vanity set. Outline, lazy daisy, blanket stitch and French knots are the simple stitches required for the motifs.

Pattern No. Z9463, 15 cents, brings a usable-several-times transfer which includes all of the motifs shown, together with directions. Send your order to:

Henry Morgenthau Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, today made public the official War Bond Quotas by States for the month of July, which places the nation on a Billion-dollar-a-month basis to aid in meeting the War cost. The above table also gives May War Bond sales in the various states in comparison to the May Quotas. (June sales by states will be available for publication shortly.) The percentage of Quotas range from 71.3 percent above quota in Utah, to 22.6 percent below the quota in Montana, but puts the nation as a whole above the $600,000,000 total May quota. Vulnerable Alaska and Hawaii led all states in sale of War Bonds on quota basis.

These huge 60-ton heavy tanks cost $120,000, and America's automotive and locomotive plants are turning them out on a never-ending assembly line. Our army uses light tanks, weighing 14 tons, and medium tanks of 28 tons also, but we favor the medium tank over the other two.

These neavy tanks are needed for certain phases of modern warfare. and with their thick armor and heavy-gauge guns they are almost unstoppable. They are considered superior in gun power, in maneuverability and in the power of their huge tractor motors to Axis tanks. Americans everywhere are helping to pay for these monsters of war through their purchase of War Bonds. Invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day. U. S. Churchill's Son Sees Victory In 1943 or 1944

NEW YORK, July 23, - Randolph Churchill, 31-year old son of the British Prime Minister, predicted today that "if we're lucky" the United Nations would win the war by the end of next year "and if we're unlucky then we'll win by the end of 1944."

"We, the British were only onequarter ready for this war" Church said at a press conference. "Germany prepared for twenty years for this war. The English have not been as clever in this war as the enemy."

"We have been largely enthusiastic amateurs in this war as
