ANTI-AIRCRAFT UNITS MOVE IN ON ROCKPORT

Workers Completing Housing Survey Find Few Vacancies

Piloting

Rockport's fighting sons across the seas probably would have felt doubly at home had they been here this morning after anti-aircraft units pulled a surprise move-in on the city last night in carrying out a "war problem."

We have been trying at intervals for several days to figure a V-mail letter from Gerald Adolphus, who is with the Seabees in the South Pacific. Trouble is the V-Mail photographer did a bum job of recording the letter. The first part of the letter says that he has been getting the Pilot since he has been in the South Pacific area, and that he enjoys it. Another part of the letter is only partly legible, but we hope that Gerald is proud of the Seabees and the important work they are doing. At the close we find that he has seen the South Pacific Rockport Gar.; Chester Johnson, Tode Howell, Lyle (Dago) Diederich, Jack K. Knemer, and Harold Bahr.

(Please try it again Gerald. We'll never be satisfied about this letter and the parts we can't figure out. Best o' luck.)

If you want a job done, get the women to do it! There won't be any last time, and it will be done in good style too. Last Monday a group of Rockport women were asked to help out in solving a civic problem by conducting a housing survey. The plan was explained to them at 4 o'clock and by 5 o'clock a good many houses had already been listed. Before Tuesday noon a large part of the work was done—and it will all be done by the end of Friday. It was a big job, and an important one. They did it in a hurry and did it well. All of them are due a big vote of thanks.

Neal Miller, who spent more than a year in Rockport as an inspector at the shipyard, is here on a visit and wants to come back to stay. "I never knew how much I really miss Rockport until I was away," he said. He has been at Orange, but is hoping for a transfer back to Rockport.

Some of the Labor Unions, we understand, are preparing blacklists that include the names of congressmen who voted for anti-strike legislation to end work stoppages in essential war industries. We'll bet that the boys on the fighting fronts also have a blacklist—and we'll bet again that it doesn't include the name of a single congressman who voted for anti-strike legislation.

It looked for awhile that unions had gained some ground for the laboring man, but the position of organized labor is most unenviable at this time. This is probably due mostly to the efforts of John L. Lewis and his type.

Thoughts of the day of peace and the return of millions of men now in the service to civilian life must give the Big Boy Labor Leaders a real headache. We have an idea a few of the country's politicians also need a bromo-selzer when they think of 9 or 10 million men now in the service marching to the polls again, accompanied by many millions more of wives, mothers, fathers, sisters, brothers, aunts and uncles. Wow! There'll be many a playhouse broken up in the big day of reckoning.

The men on the fighting fronts have the most unpleasant, the most dangerous and the biggest part of the war load to carry. But, the people at home also have important work to do, and most of them are doing their jobs, despite a few unpatriotic strikes. The Dallas News 1 man editorial on June 3, pointed out a few significant facts along this line:

"In the war news, the big headlines go to the air raids, the commando landings and the taking of large territories and great cities. The loudest acclaim naturally goes to those who take the biggest risks and make the most sensational achievements. Yet full credit (Continued on Last Page)

No Vacant Houses Out of 400 Listed

Survey to be Completed During Week By Volunteer Women Workers

Rockport's housing survey will be completed this week and an incomplete check of the survey shows that few vacancies will be found to alleviate the over-crowded condition that has come with an influx of air field workers.

Some fifteen women are giving their time to make the survey which may be used as a basis by the Federal Housing Agency in determining if Rockport may be allowed additional housing facilities.

Listing on four hundred houses had been made by the volunteers up to Thursday. These showed no vacant houses. There was some measure of relief seen however for individuals. Sixteen bedrooms were listed as being available to renters.

Tabulations will be completed by the Chamber of Commerce by next week and the information will be made available to the war housing agency. The information will also be used to help locate places for workers to stay.

Women who would help with the survey were requested to attend a meeting last Monday afternoon in the district court room. There they met with a chamber of Commerce committee, Judge B. S. Fox, Fred Booth and H. W. Driesslein.

The city was divided into sections and each of the women was assigned certain sections to make the survey. Some of the women worked following the meeting Monday and completed the survey before Tuesday afternoon.

Judge McBride Performs First Marriage

Justice of the Peace D. C. McBride performed his first ceremony on the fourth day of his tenure of office. He was appointed to the office on Monday, June 14, and Saturday night following, the candidates for marriage presented themselves at his home.

They were George Coleman, and Irene Donelson of Aransas Pass. The ceremony was witnessed by Mrs. McBride.

Jack Kennemer Will Undergo Operation

Jack Kennemer, C.M. 3-c, Navy Construction Battalion, stationed in the South Pacific, is soon to undergo an operation on one of his knees. Relatives here said that Kennemer injured his knee playing football in high school and believe that the old injury may be giving him trouble.

DeWilton Jefferies Now Lieutenant, j.g.

It is now Lieut. DeWilton Jefferies, (j.g.), and he is on active duty aboard a subchaser somewhere in the South Pacific. Lieutenant Jefferies, who enlisted in the Navy a year ago as an ensign, received his promotion about six weeks ago. Mrs. Jefferies is making her home here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. T. Picton.

D. M. Picton of Houston spent the week-end with his family who are here for the summer.

Servicemen's Center To Open Here In July

A Different Kind of War

Chessboard warfare is very different from the bitter conflicts they Purple Heart wearers have weathered in the Tunisian campaign. They are, left to right, Corp. Vernon D. Tifford of Los Angeles, Calif., Pfc. Robert G. Usery of Rockingham, N. C., and Pfc. Raymond Deadman of Boston, Mass. They are recuperating at the Hillman hospital in Staten Island, N. Y., from wounds received in action.

End of War for Nazi Generals

Monocled Gen. John von Broitich apparently still thinks he is in charge of the situation as he crosses the threshold of an Allied headquarter after his capture in North Africa with 200,000 other Nazis. In front of Von Broitich is another captive, General Cramer. Captured general receive all the courtesy due their rank and Von Broitich looks as though he expects it.

Wage Earner With Family to Benefit, Analysis of Withholding Tax Reveals

Frank Seofield, Collector of Internal Revenue First Texas District and War Bond Administrator for Texas, gives the following statement relative to the withholding tax:

We have just put Uncle Sam's new withholding tax under the microscope and find that it isn't as frightening as we first thought.

In fact, the next tax which goes into effect July 1 is rather painless when it is brought into proper focus. It has more balm than bite.

For instance, our examination of the withholding brackets shows that a man with a wife and two children who earns $40 a week will be nicked for only 80 cents a week. This is 50 cents per week less than he is now paying out of his wages for the 5 per cent Victory tax—and his entire federal income tax is all paid up. If the same family earns $50 a week, the withholding tax will be $2.80 a week. There is no mathematical nightmare about this.

When Mr. Taxpayer realizes that the withholding tax includes the Victory tax he is now paying, he should breathe with considerable relief. In many cases, the new income tax deduction from his pay will be less than it is now.

Let's examine the status of a married man with two children now earning $25 a week. He will pay 40 cents a week as compared with 70 cents now going to Victory tax.

If the same worker makes $30 a week, his new deduction will be 50 cents against 90 cents now coming (Continued on Last Page)

New Building For Service Men Nears Completion

USO and Churches to Help Provide Entertainment

Rockport's new recreation center for service men will be opened between July 1 and 15, according to Rev. A. D. Jameson, secretary of the local USO and instigator of plans that resulted in the new building here.

The building is located on the Methodist church grounds and was built with funds donated by citizens and business establishments here. It will provide a place where service men here may go for recreation and entertainment.

"We are planning a big opening," Rev. Jameson said, "with the USO and local churches co-operating. The general public will be invited and refreshment will be served."

Rev. Jameson said that each of the church groups in the city would be assigned the privilege of presenting a program or entertainment. One entertainment program will be provided each week, with the responsibility for programs rotating among the churches.

Arrangements are being made for a sound and projection machine to provide moving pictures of special interest to service men.

The recreation room will be supplied with a billiard table, ping-pong table and card tables. The library will be well-stocked with books and current magazines. Facilities for letter writing will also be available.

The grounds around the building are now being cleared and improved. When completed there will be a tennis court and croquet court in the rear of the building.

"It is also our intention to have a percolator full of hot coffee at all times," Rev. Jameson said, "and we will serve coffee and doughnuts to the boys free of charge."

The building houses a 10 x 10 office, 10 x 20 library, 29 x 30 recreation room, 9x11 kitchen, a ladies' rest room and a shower bath and rest room for men. There is a fireplace in the recreation room and the whole interior of the building will be finished in white.

Hunt Reported Wounded In African Area

Family Informed Hunt Is Released from Hospital After Being Wounded

M. K. Hunt, with the American forces in North Africa, is reported to have recovered sufficiently from serious wounds to be released from the Army hospital.

He is the husband of Mrs. Gertrude Stewart Hunt, who is employed at the Red and White store here, and a son of Mrs. Sarah Hunt, and has numerous other relatives in Rockport.

Word was received by the family last week that Hunt was seriously wounded on May 23. This information from the War Department was followed on June 9 by a cable gram from Hunt to his wife here asking her "not to worry."

Another telegram was received this week from the War Department that further reassured the family that Hunt was out of danger. The last message said that Hunt had been released from the hospital, indicating that he had recovered or was well on the road to recovery.

Mrs. Charlie Downs and son Paul of Tucson, Arizona, are visiting her brothers, Kim and Dan Haynes.

Hundreds of Soldiers, Manning Trucks Jeeps and Guns 'Steal' Into City Wednesday Night For War Problem

Most People Unaware of Movement of Troops Into City, Awake to Find Anti-Aircraft Guns Bristling In Many Sections of Town

The Army "stole" into town Wednesday night while the people slept, set up scores of anti-aircraft stations that surprised early-risers found bristling in spots they little dreamed would be army outposts when they went to bed the night before.

Some few residents reported that the rumbling of scores of heavy Army trucks awoke them in the middle of the night, but for the most part the soldiers moved in unbeknownst to the general populace and set up their battle stations for a "war problem."

From early morning until late Thursday evening jeeps buzzed about the city. Riding along streets, roads and highways one could observe carefully camouflaged guns, trucks and other military equipment. In many instances the soldiers sweated under a broiling sun until noon, digging trenches and carrying out the plans of the problem.

It was rumored that the problem of anti-aircraft units was to protect mythical infantry troops that were supposed to have been sent back from the "front" for a rest.

"I wish I was in the infantry," one whispering private lamented as he rested his shovel a few seconds. How long the soldiers would be in town no one seemed to know.

A few of the citizens here became excited early this morning, wondering if it was the "real thing," and "if they are expecting something."

It was also a big day for a few youngsters at several of the stations. The youngsters would ease up to one of the stations to satiate a burning curiosity, only to find himself in a few minutes fetching ice water, or doing some other of many small favors for the men in uniform.

It was much like a circus day for some of the kids, who made the rounds looking things over and begging for rides that could be had in the jeeps.

Arrangements for the maneuvers here were made several months ago when officers from Camp Hulen came to Rockport and enlisted the co-operation of city and county officials. Permission for the troops to move in and set up was secured at that time.

No definite information as to the number of troops involved could be given out. Civilians who approached any of the stations were promptly halted by guards.

Tilton's New Gift Store Has Busy Opening

Tilton's Gift Store enjoyed a brisk business on its opening day last Saturday. The new store is the first of its type in Rockport and offers a wide-variety of gift items.

The store is operated by Mrs. S. E. Tilton, who came here from Victoria. She will be joined later by her husband, who is at present employed in Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. Tilton are former newspaper people, having operated newspapers in the valley and other parts of the country. They picked Rockport as a location for their store, because they said they believe the town has bright prospects.

Rockport Boys Leave For Marine Base

Walter Lassiter, Kenneth Bowland and Roy Mullinax left Rockport Wednesday for San Diego, Calif., where they will report at the Marine Base for training. All three volunteered for service at the end of the past school term.

CLUB MEMBER

SHERIFF A. R. CURRY Made Club Member

Sheriff A. R. Curry this week was made an honorary member of the Port Bay Hunting and Fishing Club, of which he had served as manager for 25 years. Sheriff Curry attended a meeting of club members in San Antonio this week, when the honorary membership was conferred.

Sheriff Curry Honorary Member Port Bay Club

Sheriff A. R. Curry was made an honorary member of the Port Bay Hunting and Fishing Club this week at a meeting of members in San Antonio. The honorary membership was conferred in recognition of Curry's 25 years of service as manager of the club.

The club membership meeting was held in San Antonio and was attended by eighteen members. G. M. Harrell, present manager of the club, and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Curry attended the meeting from Rockport.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Cleveland accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Curry to San Antonio.

Dale Skoog Transferred to Houston Yard

Dale Skoog, who has been stationed in Rockport for more than a year as representative of the diesel engine division of General Motors here, has received his transfer orders. The transfer comes as a promotion and he will leave Saturday to go to Houston where he will be stationed at the Brown Ship Building Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Skoog made many friends here during their residence.

Judge Fox Injures Leg In Fall at Court House

Judge B. S. Fox suffered a painful injury to his right leg Monday afternoon as he fell while descending a flight of stairs at the court house. No bones were broken, but he was forced to remain at home Tuesday and Wednesday.

Who's News This Week

By Delos Wheeler Lovelace

Consolidated Features.—WNU Release.

NEW YORK.—Maj. Gen. Eugene M. Landrum, who snatched the island of Attu back from the Japs, is exactly the type of man you could readily picture wrestling a hard bitten strip of land like that away from a wily foe. Short, stocky, and firm jawed, he radiates pugnacity and courage. Those who favor the fashion plate genius in their military men would never glance twice at him. If they met him in civies on the street of a small town they would pick him out as the hard working village doctor, especially if he were carrying his battered Gladstone bag and had his well-caked black pipe clamped between his teeth. He is 52.

General Landrum is a man who got to the top the hard way. Back in 1916 he entered the army as a private in the coast artillery. By the time the United States entered World War I he was wearing the silver bar of a first lieutenant on his shoulders. Two months later he had become a captain. In the years following the Armistice he kept moving slowly and quietly ahead. He was not the kind of officer to make the headlines, especially in peacetime, but his superiors knew him as plunger and they approve of him. He was graduated from the Army War college in 1936 and just six months before Pearl Harbor, he received his colonelcy.

General Landrum is a native of Florida and he calls Pensacola his home town. Mrs. Landrum, however, is now in California. Like many another wife of an army or naval officer she likes to look at the same ocean her husband does.

IF it had not been for the late Kaiser, William E. Lynd might still be practicing law in Idaho instead of being, at 49, a brigadier general in the army air corps. He actually started out as an attorney, in fact after earning his degree at the University of Washington. Then he took on military training as a sideline with the Idaho National Guard. In 1916 he went to the Mexican border in the fracas that served as a curtain raiser to the first World War. He had hardly settled back at his law books before the real show started. On March 27, 1917, he was called back to the colors and eight days later was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry.

Christmas eve, 1917, is one he will always remember, for his outfit sailed for France just as St. Nick hitched up his reindeer. Overseas he was switched to the air service as an observer and he finally reached the front in a plane in August. A few days later he was the proud possessor of a Silver Star, earned in an air battle with the Germans.

Like many another veteran of the AEF, Lynd found civilian life dull and in 1920 he rejoined the army, this time for good. He has as another air medal now. He won the second award for a spectacular reconnaissance flight over the Pacific in the first year of the present war. More recently he was at Attu, and the other day he visited the White House to tell President Roosevelt what his fliers had done to lick the Japs there.

WHEN the censors finally released the news that Artemus L. Gates, assistant secretary of the navy for air, had been on a tour of the Pacific fighting front, his longtime friends said in unison, "We might have known it." In World War I his experiences were like something out of fiction.

When the war clouds lowered over the United States 25 years ago, Gates was in his junior year at Yale. He had just been made captain-elect of the football team, an honor earned at tackle for two seasons. By April, however, he had abandoned his cap and gown for a naval uniform.

In the summer of 1916 he had had a fling at flying and it did not take him long to get into naval aviation, then still in its infancy. August, 1917, found him in France and long before the Armistice he was commanding the U. S. naval air station at Dunkirk.

While there he was decorated for saving the crew of a British plane which had crashed into the sea. Later the French drafted him for one of their bombing squadrons. In an air battle behind the enemy lines in October, 1918, his plane was shot down. When the Germans rushed up to grab him, they found him calmly trying to destroy his ship. On the way to prison, Gates managed to leap through the window of his train and escape. Just before he reached the Swiss border, he was recaptured, however, and on November 11 he was a prisoner in Germany.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Mediterranean Victories Prepare Way For New Allied Campaign Against Axis; Essential Production to Be Increased By Simplification of Consumer Items

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Under the watchful eyes of U. S. guards, Axis prisoners march in internment camp in Camp Aterbury, Ind. Since fighting in North Africa, many of these camps have sprung up throughout the country, the average concentration holding 2,000 prisoners and 500 American troops. Prisoners of war are treated under rules of an international convention.

MEDITERRANEAN: Eyes Turn to Sicily

With Allied shipping reported massed in the Sicilian straits, all Italy awaited invasion. Preparatory to the expected blow at the "underbelly of Europe," Allied airmen ranged over the Italian islands of Sardinia and Sicily, the Axis remaining bastions in the Mediterranean following the fall of Pantelleria, Lampedusa, Lampione and Linosa.

Airfields at Catania and Gerbini in Sicily were attacked. At Catania, enemy fighters rose in force to challenge the Allied assault.

Although Allied headquarters remained silent on their military movements in the Mediterranean, the Nazis reported that their airmen were engaging in running fights with large convoys off North Africa. The Axis also stated that the Allies had massed invasion barges at Bizerte.

Meanwhile, the Allies kept the Axis guessing about their next move. Strong aerial formations attacked Axis shipping in the Aegean sea, where the Nazis have fortified the islands leading to the Grecian mainland.

SIMPLIFY GOODS: From Cradle to Grave

In an effort to increase production of necessary essentials, the government has ordered the simplification of more than 1,000 manufactured items. Elimination of frills and variety of sizes is expected to result in enough conservation of material to add to production.

The simplification order will affect Americans from the cradle-to-the-grave. Metal will be restricted in baby's cribs, and the length, width and depth of coffins will be limited. Cast iron kitchen utensils will be confined to 12 items, and 40 styles of enamelware have been eliminated.

Wood furniture will be reduced to 24 basic patterns. Whereas 1,150 types of tools formerly were made, only 357 now will be permitted. Production of electric bulbs will be cut from 3,500 types to 1,700. Feminine apparel will be simplified along with children's sportswear and rayon dresses.

AIR OFFENSIVE: Cities in Flames

Bremen's big Atlas shipyards were rocked by a dozen bomb hits as American airmen continued their joint attacks with the RAF over German industrial centers. Results of the U. S. raid on the submarine base of Kiel were unobserved, as swarms of Nazi fighter planes arose to the defense.

While the Americans hammered the Atlas works, strong British units, bolstered by huge four-engine bombers, ripped Duesseldorf and Bochum in the Ruhr.

Blockbusters caused heavy damage in both cities, sweeping fires adding to the havoc. Mass evacuations were reported, and the German radio asked people in other districts to make room for the refugees.

Size of the raiding fleets can be gleaned from the Nazi claim of having shot down 46 planes, 29 of which were supposed to be the four-engine machines. German aerial activity meanwhile was limited to a short, sharp sally over a London suburb, where bombs were dropped.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

SOFTWOOD: Softwood lumber will be made available for essential farm repairs. About half a billion board feet will be released by the War Production board.

TOBACCO: Possibility of a shortage of tobacco, caused by unrestricted buying for export, was voiced when government officials conferred with leaders of the industry recently.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS: World Cooperation

American participation in the establishment and maintenance of post-war peace was unanimously recommended by the house foreign affairs committee.

In a simple, 35-word resolution which it recommended to the house and senate for approval, the committee declared: ". . . Congress hereby express itself as favoring the creation of appropriate international machinery with power adequate to establish and to maintain a just and lasting peace, and as favoring participation by the United States therein."

Introduced by Representative J. W. Fulbright (Ark.), the resolution was passed after being stripped of the phrase calling for the organization of an international body to prevent future aggression, and to maintain law, order and lasting peace. Since this section touched on the highly controversial subject of an international police force, it was eliminated.

FOOD CZAR: Wanted by Congress

Shortly after a bi-partisan group of legislators conferred with President Roosevelt and suggested that he appoint a single czar to handle the food situation, the War Food administration prepared issuance of a report dealing with unavowable crop and meat prospects.

Led by Senator Walter George, the five senators and four representatives urged that a single authority be delegated to co-ordinate production, distribution, preservation, rationing and pricing agricultural commodities.

It was reported the President suggested an appropriation from 1 1/2 to 2 billion dollars for subsidies to be used in "rolling back" the prices of foods. Many legislators oppose the subsidies, contending the money used only will have to be repaid in taxes.

In commenting on crop prospects, the War Food administration declared floods in the Midwest and dry weather over the great plains have caused considerable damage. Meat slaughter and dairy production have failed to approach expectations.

DRAFT: Fathers Due for Call

"Fathers will be placed in uniform at least by the last quarter of this year."

With this statement the War Manpower commission, headed by Paul V. McNutt, announced the Selective Service board's new draft policy in informing employers to prepare for replacement of married men with children in industry after October 1.

In addressing 5,500 employers who have filed replacement lists with state draft directors, the WMC said that after July 1 the employers also should plan to release the childless married men within six months.

Although the WMC's remarks were directed to the 5,500 employers, it indicated that its new policy would be broadly applied throughout all industry. Speaking before a house appropriations subcommittee, Draft Director Hershey said 10,900,000 men will be in uniform by December 31. During the first six months of 1944, 115,000 men will be inducted monthly, Hershey declared.

RUSSIA: Action in the Center

Official announcements pertaining to the Russian front continued to be as confusing as the fighting.

While the Reds claimed to have thrown back German counterattacks in the Orel region in the center of the line, the Nazis reported the continuation of the strong Russian offensive in the Caucasus.

In neither sector, however, did either side claim any major advance. In relation to renewed Russian activity in the center, the Nazis said the Reds were massing huge forces there, apparently to press the initial attacks of a week ago when big holes were punched in the German line.

Bolstered by the addition of American planes arriving under lend-lease, Russian airmen continued sweeping attacks over the German rear. Military installations and transport were bombed.

OIL: 'Situation Worse'

"We are rapidly passing from an exporting to an importing nation in oil."

With these words Petroleum Administrator Harold Ickes forecast an increasing shortage of crude oil. Such a shortage, Ickes said, would not develop because of a lack of natural resources but rather because of a scarcity of labor, transportation and other factors.

While stating that imports of oil would have to be increased from Venezuela, the Caribbean and Mexico, he declared that California will not be producing sufficient crude by the end of the year to take care of the Pacific war theater and her own needs.

Ickes also blasted the Office of Price Administration for its handling of the gasoline rationing, declaring the OPA was too lenient in its allotments. He said home owners could expect fuel oil rationing next winter.

CORN: Plan Call on Loans

Aiming at loosening the tight situation in corn for processors and feeders, it was reported Commodity Credit corporation planned to call its loans on 57 million bushels of 1942 corn.

Under the proposal, farmers would be allowed 30 days to liquidate their loans. The call would not interfere with the agency's previous move to redeem 35 million bushels of corn on the 1938-'41 crops, effective July 1.

Decision to call the 1942 loans was reported reached after the War Food administration, headed by Chester Davis, turned down proposals for requisitioning the corn. The WFA said requisitioning only would increase farmers and leave the government with the problem of shelling, grading and hauling the corn off the premises.

MEAT PRICES: Down 10%

Answering to President Roosevelt's "hold-the-line" order, retail prices of meat have been "rolled back" 10 per cent, a move that will save housewives an average of three cents per pound.

The "roll-back" will be accomplished by government payment of subsidies to meat slaughterers to cover their costs of livestock.

Although the action will reduce meat prices, consumers will be compelled to eat even less beef. The War Food administration announced that federally inspected slaughterers had been ordered to reserve 45 per cent of their steer and heifer production for the army.

Flat price ceilings on meat have been drawn by the OPA for four classes of stores, starting with the small independent doing less than $50,000 worth of business a year, and ending with the large operator with an annual volume over $250,000.

NAZI SPY: Intrigue in Hawaii

In November, 1941, Bernard Julius Otto Kuehn offered his services as a spy to the Japanese vice-consul at Honolulu. In a confession to the FBI, he said he volunteered to supply the enemy with information about the national defense of the U. S.

Shortly after, Kuehn worked out a system of signals to transmit intelligence of American fleet positions to the Japs. According to testimony, the signals were developed through a window light in the dormer of Kuehn's home near Pearl Harbor.

Mrs. Kuehn played a prominent role in the intrigue, according to the FBI. In 1939, her daughter operated a beauty parlor designed to attract "navy business," and in 1940 Mrs. Kuehn visited Japan, returning with geographical literature describing American and British islands in the Pacific. Kuehn, first sentenced to death, was later committed to 50 years at hard labor.

SUPREME COURT: Bans Compulsory Salute

Reversing a previous decision by a 6 to 3 vote, the U. S. Supreme court ruled that the nation's public schools cannot require pupils to salute the flag.

Said the majority: "Compulsory unification of opinion achieves only the unanimity of the graveyard. . . . No official . . . can prescribe what shall be orthodox in politics, religion, nationalism or other matters of opinion. . . ."

Kathleen Norris Says:

Those Who Go On

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

Get into work with our servicemen, canteen, Red Cross, or in one of the recreation projects that exist everywhere for our no-less-heroic and necessary factory and munitions workers.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

WOMEN I do not know and never will see are writing me these days to ask for a word of comfort when the dreaded news comes; when they know that the dear familiar boy who was banging in and out of the house only a little while ago, leaving crumbs and blobs of jam on the kitchen table, leaving books on the stairway and unrecognizable lumps of muddy socks on the bedroom floor, chattering at dinner about scout work, and enthusiastic over nothing but somebody's "twenty-two" — when they know that he is "missing in action," that he isn't coming home again.

Nothing that I can say can help these mothers. But there is help for them nevertheless, firm and unflinching; there is joy ahead for them again, if they will lift up their hearts and their eyes to find it. Not by looking down into the earth or into the depth of the sea will they find it, but by raising mind and spirit to the blue sky and the stars, and what lies beyond.

To begin with, train yourself to take a comprehensive view of the titanic combat in which the whole great world is involved. Then take a long look at life, at its mistakes and troubles, disillusionments and burdens, and ask yourself if the boys are really to be pitted when they quit this bewildering scene in youth, go out gloriously and swiftly in battle, a battle, which means confusion, excitement, thrill, complete forgetfulness of self. No grind, no drudgery, no disappointment, divorce, worry, for them; no illness, failure, old age, boredom. At the very height of vitality and eagerness and keen absorption in what they are doing, they depart for other scenes, and leave such suffering for us, who cannot follow.

Future Will Bring Remuneration. But, ask the grieving mothers, will we find them again? Ah, if we KNEW that we would find them again, that they are really safe, and happier and wiser than before, that would take away all the sting of grief.

But we DO know that we will find them again. It does not take mere blind faith to convince ourselves of that; it is not wishful thinking, combined with sentimentality and conventional religious docility. Any woman who will dry her tears long enough to read the written Word, and study the facts, will find so deep and real a consolation that presently she would not change her certainty even for the old joy of the boy's living presence.

It will be granted that only one Voice has ever spoken truth in this world. All other true voices were either prophesying the coming of that Voice, or echoing it after it ceased. There was but one Christ; in the two thousand years following his death there has never been another to silence it. It lives still. What the Master said in his lifetime was utterly incomprehensible to the men who were his friends; it didn't make sense to them, and it doesn't make sense to us. But feebly, blindly, stupidly we cling to it, because we know that it is true. We know that a peasant, preaching for but three years, followed by a few unimportant friends, never writing a word, executed as a common criminal — we know that He is still the most powerful influence in the whole world.

All Must Work Toward Religion. And this is to say that He did not deceive us, isn't it? For we could never claim that he told us some

PRAY AND WORK TO EASE GRIEF

"Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted." This is Kathleen Norris' message to mothers who have lost sons in the war. She asks them to try to get their minds off their grief by exhausting themselves for the needs of others. She suggests that mothers may find some happiness by being of help to other boys. Solace can be found by taking a comprehensive view of the world struggle and, best of all, by prayer.

truths and some untruths. And we KNOW that His doctrine works because whenever we have the courage to apply it, harmony and peace, fellowship and love follow it. Difficult as it is to visualize a world in which enemies are forgiven, possessions are shared, the hungry and naked are soled, a world in which evil is not overcome by evil, but overcome by good — hard as it is to envision, yet all of us know that those are the conditions of His Kingdom on earth, and that it is for every one of us to work toward that Kingdom. There is no disputing THAT.

But having gone so far, heart-broken mothers, go a little farther, and see what else he told us. That those who love Him — and this means all the splendid boys who are offering their lives today for a new world of safety and freedom — "shall not taste death forever." They are living, out of your sight. The wisest among us hasn't the vision that they have now. "This night thou shalt be with me in Paradise" was said to a poor, wretched stranger, a criminal. Are we to believe these words of a dying Saviour? Or are you going to pick out certain words to believe and others not to believe?

"Blessed are they that mourn for they shall be comforted." That was said for you. The Voice that was divine as well as human said that, the one voice in all the world that speaks the truth. So hold fast to that, for that comfort will be beyond all your imaginings of bliss.

Get in the habit of stepping into a church every day; kneel for a few minutes, asking only the favor that you may be of use and help to other boys. Get into work with our servicemen, canteen, Red Cross, or in one of the recreation projects that exist everywhere for our no-less-heroic and necessary factory and munitions workers. Get tired; get your mind off your own grief in exhausting yourself for the needs of others. And in other boys, just as young, eager, heroic, homesick as your boy was, you will find him again. Give up your own sorrow, fears, your own hopes and will, surrender them all to the unfailing guidance of God, and you will be rewarded in a way that will make you feel that you never were truly living before.

Fighters Think of Home.

Here is part of a letter from a boy who went through the battles of Midway and Coral sea. It was a great comfort to another boy's mother, and, even though your boy may not have had time to write you, perhaps his feelings would have been something the same, perhaps he knew, in the last minute, that the home people were thinking of him and praying for him.

The writer is 29 years old, has been in the navy for 17 months, and is still out in the South Seas.

"Dear Mrs. Blank: I thought you would like to know that Jim never was in better spirits than he was that last morning.

"We had breakfast together and he was just his same usual self, at ease and happy. When the crash came he was laughing.

THE STORY SO FAR: The story of their part in the battle for the Philippines is being told by four of the five naval officers who are all that is left of Motor Torpedo Boat Squadron 3. They are Lieut. John Bulkeley (now Lieutenant Commander), squadron commander; Lieut. R. B. Kelly, second-in-command; and Ensigns Anthony Akers and George E. Cox Jr. Manila has fallen, and we have lost our naval base at Cavite. Lieut. Kelly has told how he spent New Year's Eve in the hospital on Corregidor, while Lieut. Bulkeley was discussing with the Admiral a plan of escape to China. Lieut. Bulkeley is telling about a night raid two of the PT boats made against the Japs. Lieut. Bulkeley rode in the 34 boat.

CHAPTER VI

"So we separated, expecting to meet at dawn. It was the last I ever saw of the 31 boat. But here's what happened to our 34 boat in Subic. First, remember it was darker than hell, and the shore line was loaded with Jap field guns. None of us had ventured in there since the Japs took over. We had got in just a little way when a Jap searchlight spotted us and blinked out a dot-dash challenge, asking who we were. Since we didn't know the Jap code reply, naturally we didn't answer, but changed course, veering away. But the Japs were getting suspicious by now, and from over by Ilinin Point a single field piece opened up. None of it fell near us—maybe they were shooting at DeLong in the 31 boat.

"When we were about abeam of Sueste light another light came on to challenge us—this time from a ship—maybe that cruiser. We changed course to go over and have a look, but she was small fry—not worth a torpedo—the hell with her—we were headed for Binanga and the cruiser.

"By one o'clock we were off the north entrance to Port Binanga, where we were to meet DeLong in the 31 boat and go in together for the attack, and when he didn't show up, I began to be afraid something might have happened, yet I couldn't be sure.

"But there was nothing to do but go on in alone. To make the sneak, we cut the speed down to eight knots, skirted Chiquita Island, rounded Binanga Point, and entered the little bay on two engines at idling speed. Everything was quiet, no firing down here, and then we saw her ahead in the dark not five hundred yards away. Creeping up on her, we had just readied two torpedoes when a searchlight came on and in dot-dash code she asked who we were.

"We answered, all right—with two torpedoes—but they had hardly been fired when I gave our boat hard rudder and started away. It isn't safe for an MTB to stay near a cruiser. One torpedo hit home with a hell of a thud—we heard it over our shoulders. Looking back, we saw the red fire rising, and presently two more explosions which might have been her magazines.

"But we had no time for staring, for we were into plenty trouble. One of those torpedoes had failed to clear its tube and was stuck there, just at the entrance, and was making what we call a 'hot run,' its propellers buzzing like hell, compressed air hissing so you couldn't hear yourself think. But worst of all, a torpedo is adjusted so that it won't fire until its propeller has made a certain number of revolutions—I shouldn't give it exactly, but let's say it is three hundred. After that, the torpedo is cocked like a rifle, and an eight-pound blow on its nose would set it off—blowing us all to glory.

"So what to do? Somehow that torpedo propeller had to be stopped and stopped quick, or else a good hard wave slap on the torpedo's nose would blow us all to splinters. And at this point our torpedoman, Martino, used his head fast. He ran to the head and swiped a handful of toilet paper. He jumped astride that wobbling, hissing torpedo like it was a horse, and, with the toilet paper, jammed the vanes of the propeller, stopping it.

"We'd stopped for all this, but we couldn't afford to wait long. The cruiser's fire was lighting up the bay behind us. Ahead, all over Subic, hell was breaking loose. So we started up, gave her everything we had to get through that fire.

"With three motors roaring, and us skipping around in that rough water with everything wide-open, I guess we made considerable commotion. Anyway the Japanese radio in Tokyo, reporting the attack next day, said the Americans had a new secret weapon—a monster that roared, flapped its wings, and fired torpedoes in all directions. It was only us, of course, but we felt flattered. We got the hell out of there, and that was all there was to it."

"Well," said Kelly, "MacArthur wouldn't quite agree. He gave you the D.S.C. for what you'd done."

"But DeLong has the real story," insisted Bulkeley. "I pulled up outside the mine field off Corregidor to wait for him. Neither of us could go in until it got light, because otherwise the army on shore, hearing us in the dark out there, would think it was Japs and set off the mine field. But when the sky got light and I saw my boat was alone, I realized DeLong was in trouble. And since he's now a prisoner of the Japanese—if he's alive—we'd better tell his story for him.

"After we parted company at the entrance to Subic Bay, he started around its northern rim as we'd planned. But just before midnight he developed engine trouble—the saboteur's wax had clogged his strainers. He cleaned them and had just got under way when more trouble developed—the cooling system went haywire. They stopped, and were drifting as they repaired it when there was an ominous grinding sound under the boat—they were aground on a reef in Subic Bay.

"They rocked the boat, and finally started the engines to get themselves unstuck. But the noise now attracted the Japs, and a 3-inch gun on Ilinin Point opened up on them—splashes coming nearer and nearer. They worked frantically, finally burned out all reverse gears so that the engines were useless. DeLong gave orders to abandon ship. They wrapped mattresses in a tarpaulin to make a raft, and all got aboard but DeLong, who stayed to chop holes in the gas tanks and blow a hole in the boat's bottom with a hand grenade before he jumped. That was the end of the 31. Then he couldn't find the raft in the darkness, and being afraid to call out, swam to the beach.

"The raft had shoved off with all twelve aboard at three o'clock.

"He waited on the sands until dawn. Then, in the gray half-light, he picked up the tracks of nine men. He followed these until they led into a clump of bushes, where he found most of his crew. They explained they had stayed with the raft until dawn was about to break. Fearing sunrise would expose them to the Japanese, they had decided to risk a swim to the beach, where they could hide. But Ensign Plant and two men, who couldn't swim very well, decided to stay. What became of them the nine didn't know, and no one knows for sure to this day.

"But the first thing DeLong did was to post lookouts, and all day they stayed in that clump, with an eye on the Jap observation planes which flew over them in relays, watching a hot little skirmish between the Americans and the Japanese on the far shore of the bay. At one point the Japs were falling back, and there seemed to be a chance that they could make a run for it in daylight, rejoining the American lines. But never was it quite possible, and in the meantime they had spotted a couple of bancas, native boats, farther down the beach.

"Two men who were sent out to investigate, crawling on their bellies through the grass, returned to report the bancas were in fair condition. So when the sun had set they crawled to them and started getting them in shape. For rowing they had two paddles, a couple of spades, and a board. They had to work fast and quietly, for the Japs were all around them—just as they were launching the bancas they heard Japanese voices not two hundred yards away.

"But a heavy wind came up, and at nine o'clock at night, both boats capsized. They righted them, but the shovels and the board were lost, and they now had only one paddle for each banca. Yet with these they continued to fight the head wind until three in the morning, when they were so exhausted that they decided to try the shore. So DeLong landed on what he hoped was Napo Point. They picked their way through the barbed-wire entanglement on the beach, and then found themselves up against a steep cliff.

"They kept very quiet until dawn, not knowing whether daylight would find them surrounded by Americans or Japanese. But when it became light, the first thing they saw was a Filipino sentry.

"Hey, Joe—got a cigarette and a match," they called out. And an hour later they were telling their story to Captain Cockburn, in the Ninety-second American Infantry's field headquarters tent. The nine were back with us at Sisiman Cove the next evening."

"That afternoon Bulkeley came over to tell me the story of the engagement. When he was through, 'Kelly,' he said, 'we need you.' 'Let's get hold of that doctor,' I said, 'and you tell him that.' This time it worked. The hole in my finger was still almost three inches long and about an inch wide, with some of the tendon exposed (but in a month it was healed, except that I can't move my finger joints). I had to promise them faithfully I would show up every other day for treatment, but the point of it was I got out of that place.

"Two days later I took the 34 boat out on my first patrol from Corregidor up along Bataan toward Subic Bay—Bulkeley, who as squadron commander rode all boats on patrol, and I. He was with me. It was a calm night—and chilly. Sweaters were comfortable over our khakis, although in the daytime we wore only shorts or trunks.

"Everything was going well, in fact it was monotonous. But when we were about twenty-five miles up the coast, hell suddenly started popping. Our own batteries were shooting at us. Bulkeley explained to me that was the main excitement these days—to keep from being sunk by your own side—and calmly altered course to get out of their range, which we could tell by the light of their tracer bullets.

"Half the time those dumb bastards don't know friend from foe," he explained.

"Five minutes later we saw a dim light, low in the water, and headed toward it. Was it a Jap landing barge, trying to get ashore behind General Wainwright's lines. Then it occurred to us that it might be Ensign Plant and the two other men of DeLong's boat who had disappeared in Subic Bay. They might have stolen a boat and now be headed home—we couldn't take chances. So without firing we drew nearer, watching the light.

"Presently it began to blink—dots and dashes, all right, but no message that we could read. Bulkeley ordered general quarters as a precaution, and the men were crouching behind their machine guns. It was about twenty-five yards away now—a queer-shaped boat, low in the water—and suddenly its light went out.

"Bulkeley stood up with the megaphone. 'Boat ahoy!' he called. He got a quick answer. Br-r-r-r-r-r-r! They opened on him with machine guns. It looked like a fire hose of tracer bullets headed for our cockpit, and now they speeded up, trying to head for shore. But we were pouring the fire back at them.

"Now we could see it was a Jap landing barge, packed with men. It had armor on the bow and the stern, and kept twisting and turning, trying to keep those thick steel plates pointed toward us. Of course our maneuver was to come in from the side, and let them have it where they couldn't take it.

"All this had been going on for about thirty seconds when I heard a cry of pain from behind. It was Ensign Chandler. 'I've been hit,' he said. A Jap bullet had gone through both of his ankles. We pulled him out of the cockpit and laid him down on the canopy, meanwhile circling the Japs and pouring the steel down into their vulnerable sides. We could soon see we were getting them. The barge sank lower and lower in the water and presently gurgled under, while we pulled off to lick our own wounds, give first aid to Chandler, and locate any other boats in the vicinity. Surely the Japs wouldn't attempt a landing with a single barge. All we got, though, was more fire from our own shore guns—a swarm of tracers and then 3-inchers began whistling over—one of them landing two hundred yards away. But we didn't mind. The army seemed to enjoy it, and it wasn't hurting us.

"We fooled around until almost dawn and were headed for home—we couldn't have got Chandler through the mine fields to the hospital until sunrise anyway, when Bulkeley happened to glance back.

"Through the half-light he could see, bobbing in the swell, another low-lying flat craft. Should we go back? You're damned right we should, the men said—to get even for Chandler by sinking some more.

"As we got closer, sure enough, it was another landing boat, this time apparently leaving the coast of Bataan, and we opened up on her with everything we had from four hundred yards away.

"But their return fire was curiously light and spasmodic. So we closed to about ten yards. Their fire had stopped, but their boat wouldn't. Our bullets would hit its armor and engines—you could see the tracers bounce off and ricochet one hundred feet into the air, but still it kept going. Suddenly a tracer hit its fuel tanks—up they went in a blaze, the motor stopped, and now the boat was only drifting. But even as we pulled alongside, those Japs, nifty devils, gave her hard rudder and tried to ram us.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for June 27

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

JOHN'S COUNSEL TO CHRISTIANS

LESSON TEXT—II John 4-11; III John 5-8
GOLDEN TEXT—Beloved, I pray that in all things thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth.—III John 2.

Christians need guidance, especially in their home and church relationships. The apostle John, under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit, wrote the two personal letters known to us as II and III John. They abound in sound spiritual, practical advice. Note that these two words belong together, for what is truly spiritual cannot help but be tremendously practical and perfect for the direction of thought and life.

In these letters five admirable lessons are taught. Let us give heed to them. They are appropriate to our day.

I. Set an Example Before Your Children (II John 4-6).

We may not like to admit it, but our children are largely what we make them by their training—or lack of it—in the home. Parents have the grave and at the same time precious responsibility of being what they want their children to be. We set the mold of their thinking and acting, not only about material things, but mentally and spiritually, which is far more important.

Above all we must teach them by precept and example to love God supremely, and to walk after His commandments. Father, mother, how do you do your duty? Are your children "walking in truth" (v. 4)?

II. Be on Guard Against False Teachers (II John 7-11).

We are not to countenance false teaching even by entertaining such teachers, or having close fellowship with them. To create the impression before the world and the Church that they are "not so bad," by appearing as their friends, is to partake of their evil works (v. 11). This is a serious matter, and one which is a problem in the Church today.

Such teachers may easily be recognized. They are aptly described by Dr. Douglass: "In all ages the Church has been plagued by those who want to substitute something for pure Christian faith, or to embroider it with bright ideas of their own conceiving. Such people may try to strip religion of its supernatural aspect and reduce it to a merely rationalistic system. They may seek to slyly, loosen the moral standards of the Church because their own lives are deficient when measured by such standards. They may try to minimize the teaching of the cross because it stands for sacrifice." Watch against them, and stand against their destructive teaching.

III. Be Diligent in Putting Forward True Teachers (III John 5-8).

The door which should be closed against false teachers should be opened wide to those who are faithful teachers of the truth. This refers primarily to the hospitality of the home, and reminds us of a grace which has been all but forgotten in these days of small apartments. Whether we are able to open our homes to God's servants or not, we can show a Christian spirit of genuine hospitality in helping to bring them forward (v. 6) in their work. This may be done by gifts of money, by a real interest in their work, by recommending them to others who wish to hear the truth.

Do everything possible, then, to hinder the false teacher, and be just as diligent to put forward the ministry of the true man of God.

IV. Do Not Trust Proud, Self-Seeking Leadership (III John 9-11).

A man may be orthodox, and intensely loyal to the denomination, and at the same time be a wicked man whose example is to be shunned. No word is said against the teaching of Diotrephes. He was not condemned for being careless about the affairs of the church, or unfaithful in his attendance and devotion to its interest as he saw them. The sin of Diotrephes was pride, a desire to be the boss of the church, "No. 1 man" in its affairs. Lacking the true spirituality which always results in humility, he opposed the apostle. Not only did he refuse to receive him, but used pressure on others who were willing to be hospitable.

V. Emulate the Life of the Man of Good Report (III John 12).

A good man! No words of praise could possibly surpass such a testimony. The world is full of brilliant, skilled, wealthy and prominent people, but there is an appalling dearth of good men and women.

How refreshing to meet, and how delightful to know, such a man—such a woman. Like Demetrius, they have not only the witness of the "Church men," but also of the "all men." But last week we said the world hates real Christians. It does, but it also respects them, and is forced to bear witness to their reality and goodness.

Professed fellowship with God in Christ which does not result in goodness of life may well be scrutinized.

Serve Perfect Little Cakes for Garden Party (See Recipe Below)

Keep Cool!

Foods that don't cook the cook and leave a lot of K.P. after the party is over are two golden rules for summer entertaining. If you are baking anything in cool morning hours, and if there's a warm dish to be served, make it something that doesn't require more than 15 minutes of cooking.

If your table decorations and settings are cool appearing and the food carries this out further, then you will have done a lot toward making your guests comfortable. Refreshments may be simple, in fact, they should be, for then guests and hostess alike can enjoy themselves. Here's a lovely salad that's the last word in coolness and smoothness, thereby filling the order for perfect summer refreshment:

*Orange Ring Salad. (Serves 8)

- 1 tablespoon gelatin
  - 1/2 cup cold water
  - 1/2 cup boiling water
  - 1 1/2 cups orange juice
  - Juice of one lemon
  - 1 tablespoon chopped mint
  - 1/2 cup sugar
  - 1 1/2 pounds white grapes, skinned and seeded
  - 2 cups shredded lettuce
  - 2 packages cream cheese
  - 1 cup sour cream dressing
- Soak gelatin in cold water 5 minutes. Add boiling water, lemon and orange juice, sugar and chopped mint. Stir until cool. Mash and form cheese into balls the size of large marbles. Pour a little of jelly into bottom of a mold and place balls at intervals while pouring on thickened jelly. Place in refrigerator and chill until firm. Unmold and fill center with grapes mixed with lettuce and dressing. Surround mold with peeled orange sections. Serve with crackers.

Sour Cream Dressing. (Serves 8)

- 1/2 cup french dressing
  - 1 teaspoon sugar
  - 1 cup sour cream
- Mix ingredients well and chill thoroughly.

A lovely combination of citrus fruit juices are included in this salad guaranteed to keep you cool: Orange Ice Salad. (Serves 6)

- 2 cups orange juice
  - 1/2 cup lemon juice
  - 1/4 grapefruit
  - 1 slice canned pineapple
  - 1 large orange
  - 1/2 cup sugar
  - 1/2 cup water
- Grated rind of 1 small orange
- Cook sugar, water and grated rind together for 5 minutes after coming to a boil. Strain and cool. Add to lemon and orange juice and freeze. Pack into a ring mold. Freeze until firm, then unmold on lettuce. In the center place a bowl filled with mayonnaise, and garnish around outer edge with sections of orange, grapefruit and pineapple.

Lynn Says:

Salad Pointers: Have all salad ingredients as cold as possible. Chill salad bowl and salad plates to assure absolute coolness to salads.

To skin tomatoes: Hold tomato on fork over flame and turn slowly for about 1 minute. Slip off skins.

To flute cucumber. Peel, lengthwise, and run prongs of fork through lengthwise, then slice cucumber thinly.

To sieve egg yolks or whites: This is pretty for garnishing. Separate yolks or whites from hard-cooked eggs, place in a small sieve, and rub through with wooden spoon on salads to be garnished.

To decorate lettuce: Dip edges in paprika.

Lynn Chambers' Point-Saving Menus

- *Orange Ring Salad
- *Hostess Sandwiches
- *Cheese Sandwiches
- *Tiny Tim Cakes
- Beverage
- *Recipes Given

Tiny little cakes attractively decorated with a cool drink may serve as refreshments for a garden party or evening:

*Tiny Tim Cakes. (Makes 8 cakes)

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 2 cups sifted flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream shortening and sugar together until light and fluffy. Add egg, beating well. Sift dry ingredients together, and add alternately to creamed mixture with milk. Mix to a smooth batter. Drop from a spoon into well-greased muffin cups. Bake 25 minutes in a moderate (350-degree) oven. Frost with tinted frosting.

Grapefruit Swizzle.

- 1 quart grapefruit juice
- Juice from 8 limes
- 4 sprigs of mint
- Sugar syrup to taste

Mix lime and grapefruit juice. Stir in syrup. Add mint leaves, crushing them after added to drink. Stir thoroughly. Cool in refrigerator. Fill glasses with crushed ice and pour over swizzle. Garnish with a sprig of fresh mint.

Sugar syrup to keep on hand for cool drinks is made by boiling 3 cups of sugar to 1 1/2 cups water for 10 minutes after it starts boiling. Pour into bottle.

Fruit Freeze.

- 1 fresh ripe pineapple
- 2 lemons
- 1 quart cold water
- Fruit syrup to taste

Pare pineapple, remove eyes and core. Run pieces of pineapple through food chopper, add water, lemon and syrup to taste. Chill and fill glasses to within a third of the top and add a scoop of raspberry ice.

Sandwiches using unrationed food for fillings are always a grand way to take care of the refreshment problem:

*Hostess Sandwiches.

- 1/2 pound mincemeat, packaged
- 3/4 cup water
- 3 ounces cream cheese
- Whole wheat bread

Mix mincemeat and water and cook until all moisture is absorbed. Cool. Cover thin slice of buttered wholewheat bread with cheese, softened with cream and slightly salted, then with mincemeat and another slice of bread covered with cream cheese. Cut in strips or fancy shapes and decorate, if desired with candied fruit.

*Cheese Sandwich Filling.

- 1 package cream cheese
  - 6 chopped olives
  - 3 pieces finely chopped parsley
  - 3 strips cooked bacon, chopped fine
  - 1 tablespoon horseradish
  - 1 tablespoon mayonnaise
- Mix all ingredients together, add salt and pepper to taste, and spread on buttered bread.

WHAT HAPPENED TO FATIMA

Mystery Solved by Newspaper Man
Fatima was a dancing girl whose picture was once familiar to nearly every cigarette smoker in the United States. Fatima, depicted in one of her bewitching poses, was the trademark on the cigarettes that bore her name. The cigarettes were the most widely advertised and largest sellers among all brands in the United States.

What has become of Fatima? That is a question John B. Long, manager of the California Newspaper Publishers Association, is asking audiences he addresses throughout the state says the Marysville, Cal., Appeal-Democrat. Long first asks his listeners to produce any cigarettes they happen to have with them. The result always is the same: plenty of the brands made popular through newspaper advertising, but no Fatimas.

Long supplies his own answer as to the fate of Fatima. Years ago her manufacturers decided she had received sufficient momentum from advertising to travel on her own power. But it did not work out that way. Fatima did not remain the darling of the smokers who turned to new favorites, whose names soon replaced hers in the popular vocabulary. Now they all reign in Fatima's place and have won the commercial pre-eminence she once enjoyed.

The example is only one of scores that might be mentioned. If you will recall many commodities that once were best known, but now are seldom mentioned—Force, Sapolio, Pearlina, Gold Dust, Duke's Mixture—the list is a long one. Many of them stopped advertising during the earlier world war, and never regained the prestige that had been theirs. Some of them tried to come back but found the going too tough; other more far-sighted merchandisers had established their products.

The Appeal-Democrat frankly admits a selfish interest in advertis-

Marvin Smith and Victoria Regnund Married Here

Marvin Smith has been driving a Bowen bus on the Hug-the-Coast route for the past three years, but before he had a run from Houston to Dallas—and that is where this story begins. There was a young lady Miss Victoria Regnund—who boarded his bus frequently at Byran. They became acquainted and a romance blossomed, but waned when Smith was transferred the Hug-the-Coast run and the two did not see much of each other.

About a year ago Miss Regnund boarded a bus for Corpus Christi. Smith was the driver. The romance blossomed again, and this time culminated here at the Methodist parsonage, where the couple said their "I do's" before Rev. A. D. Jameson, pastor of the church.

The wedding was on June 12 and Mr. and Mrs. Smith are now residing in Corpus Christi.

John B. Taylor and Miss Yvonne McCain of Corpus Christi were married by the Reverend A. D. Jameson at the Methodist Parsonage, Saturday night, June 19th.

E. E. Brisson and Miss Beatrice J. Pate of Corpus Christi were married June 14 at the Methodist Parsonage with Rev. A. D. Jameson officiating.

Wilbern Hamblin, Lucille Haynes At Kerrville

Misses Wilbern Hamblin and Lucille Haynes left last Saturday for Kerrville where they will attend the Methodist Assembly at Mt. Wesley. They will be gone a week.

ing. It is the lifeblood of newspapers, on which their welfare, their service to the public and their economic independence depend. But advertisers will again allow themselves to drop out of the procession in the present abnormal conditions of wartime; the lesson of Fatima is easy to read.

First Lady of the Lone Star State Is Fifth To Be Featured in Cotton's Portrait Series

Mrs. Stevenson's Picture Appears In Mademoiselle

Joins Other First Ladies In Praising Cotton's Serviceability

Memphis, Tenn.—The First Lady of the first state of cotton will be featured in the July presentation of the cotton industry's "Governor's Lady" portrait series.

She is Mrs. Coke Stevenson Jr. and her state is Texas. Her portrait, the fifth to be published in the series being sponsored by the National Cotton Council and Cotton-Textile Institute, will appear in the July issue of Mademoiselle. With Mrs. Stevenson will be shown her two lovely daughters, Scottie Gayle and Linda Fay. All three, of course, will be wearing cottons to show women all over America the lovely-looking, long-lasting garments that can be made of this favorite family fabric.

Made at Mansion
The portrait, taken in front of the stately Governor's Mansion at Austin, was made by Wynn Richards of New York, one of the nation's leading photographers, who has been commissioned to do the portraits of the First Ladies of all the cotton-producing states. For the picture, Mrs. Stevenson selected a smartly tailored dress of white pique, with matching hat. She dressed her daughters in delightful big and little sister costumes of striped chambray, with eyelet ruffle pinafores.

Wearing cotton is nothing new for either Mrs. Stevenson or her daughters. "Cotton is my choice because it is cool as well as cool-looking," Mrs. Stevenson said. "I like its freshness and durability. In fact, my daughters wear nothing else because it's so easy to keep clean."

Mrs. Stevenson, a native of Cleburne, Texas, is a Texan from start to finish. Consequently, she appreciates the value of cotton to her state. She attended the University of Texas where she met and married Coke Stevenson Jr., son of the Governor of Texas. Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson Jr. made their home at Junction, where the Governor's family had settled almost a century ago, until the death of Governor Stevenson's wife last year. The young Mrs. Stevenson then moved to the 85-year-old mansion at Austin to serve as official hostess for the Governor.

The portrait series, presenting for the first time a typical picture of the cotton-country as well as the story of cotton's serviceability on the home-front, already has featured the First Ladies of Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee and Oklahoma. Next month, Mrs. Ellis Arnall of Georgia will be pictured followed in succeeding months by Mrs. Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina, Mrs. Spessard L. Holland of Florida, and Mrs. J. M. Broughton of North Carolina.

A. L. Bracht Family Gathers For Father's Day Dinner

Fathers of the A. L. Bracht family were honored Sunday at a family reunion and dinner here at the family home. A picnic dinner was served under a spreading china tree in the yard of the Bracht home, the menu consisting of baked turkey, fried chicken and all the trimmings.

The afternoon was enjoyably spent in reminiscing and at mid-afternoon home-made ice cream and cake were served. A theatre party was also enjoyed in the evening by several of the group.

Fathers and their families and other guests attending included: Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bracht, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bracht, and sons Roger and Bobby, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bracht, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Farm Program Is Lagging Report Shows

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The Agriculture Department, describing crop prospects on June 1 as the poorest in 3 years, expressed little hope Thursday that this year's production of food and feed would reach last year's record level, much less the government's goal of an increase of at least 5 per cent.

Adverse weather has so delayed planting operations in important farming sections, the Department said that there is little prospect that the 1943 crop acreage will be as large as last year. Further it said, aggregate yields as high as last year are no longer within reach.

War Food Administrator Chester C. Davis, commenting on the report said that given average weather during the remainder of the season, the total food production—including livestock products as well as food crops—would probably "about match or reach that of 1942."

Mrs. Sue Haynes of Brownwood is visiting her sons, Kim and Dan Haynes.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bean are now located in Siloam Springs, Arkansas.

ARMY officers have been criticized more than a mere trifle for inability to "understand the need of hard, competitive sport."

This isn't true of the large majority of army officers. They have had nothing to say about it.

The decision was made by a small leading group, and the army in general has disliked the ruling as much as any one else.

This applies especially to football in various colleges which the army has taken over.

Colleges under navy control will be able to play any student who cares to play, who is up in his work and who has the time.

If West Point and Annapolis, who have a 16 hours per day schedule, can find time for intercollegiate competition, there is certainly no reason why the colleges can't.

Football's Problem

Several colleges will be starting summer practice soon. But football's main problem will be in facing the army edict that prevents any budding soldier from taking part in intercollegiate sport.

Those colleges that have drawn army students will either have to give up football completely or else depend upon the few available men left.

They will be badly outclassed by the navy school. We understand there is an effort under way to drag the navy over to the army's side of the argument.

As the navy has the stronger side of the case, this would be a bad mistake.

Racing's Splurge

A number of noncombatants can't understand why racing has come in for such a boom and why so much money is bet at various tracks.

This is simple enough. As a starter there is something like 12 billion extra dollars loose around the map, with many spending outlets under a blockade.

For one example, you see few people buying cars today.

In the second instance, there is a greater demand for quick action on the side of thrills, which to many only a bet can satisfy.

Belmont is sure to end its summer season with the highest average ever sent through track mutuels, well beyond the million dollar mark.

Even with the big crowds that once traveled to Santa Anita, a $700,000 daily average was considered on the high side.

You can understand how strong the fever gets to be when so many thousands are willing to walk so far in order to buck 11 or 12 per cent.

Bing Crosby's Winner

And speaking of racing, a well-worn radio gag has been wrecked and dismantled.

It rests today in ruins. It all happened at Belmont park recently when Bing Crosby's Argentine horse, Don Bingo, came spinning along to the front.

Don Bingo made it two in a row. Not only that, but he ran away from strong fields, coasting into the wire. This ends all that talk about Crosby's stable. I happened to be with Bing when Don Bingo won his last start.

As his Argentine entry came sweeping to the front, Bing began calling:

"Where is Bob Hope? Will someone please page Bob Hope?"

Armstrong and Angott

There is still a healthy doubt around the landscape as to whether even the windmill or whirlwind style of Henry Armstrong can force Sammy Angott away from his wrestling holds.

Sammy remains the Human Python, a hard man to beat, but a harder man to watch.

It may be that Armstrong's method of tearing in will finally leave Angott in an untangled situation, where he will do his own share of punching.

But he will have to prove that to quite a chunk of his fellow citizens before they will believe it.

Still, it would be no thick surprise to see Armstrong return to his old spot on top of the lightweight heap before the scramble is over, not forgetting Montgomery and Beau Jack.

SPORTLIGHT BRIEFS:

Before joining the Yankees in 1921, Ed Barrow had served as president of two minor leagues and manager of seven clubs.

Joe McCarthy says Ewald Pyle, Washington left-hander, is the best pitching recruit of the American league this season.

Bill McGowan is the oldest umpire in the major leagues in point of service. This is his 19th season.

Connie Mack caught his last game for Pittsburgh in 1896. In his 664-game career he had 842 assists.

NAME IN A CASUALTY LIST In Africa, Wilbur Smith, Willow Falls, Mass.; next of kin, mother, Mrs. Charles Smith, Willow Falls.

Somehow that entry in the casualty lists brings the war home. Wilbur Smith... why, he was "Red" Smith's boy... the Argyle Road Smith!

Wilbur was just a kid romping around the fields of Willow Falls... fishing in the Wepawaug... playing "catch" on the school ball team... taking off gates on Halloween night... and swiping loose wood for the Fourth of July bonfires!

He was such a good-natured, pleasure-loving youngster. He could take care of himself in a scrap, but he was the easy-going, tolerant, hard-to-arouse type. He was always grinning.

I remember running over to the Smiths on a Christmas Eve once and helping trim the tree, the first one Wilbur was old enough to comprehend... There were all sorts of presents, but I remember a set of toy soldiers most of all now!

It seems only a few days ago that he was toddling around the Smith porch, just learning to walk... falling down... getting up... tumbling over again, but always getting up laughing. I got a picture of Wilbur on his first three-wheeler, tearing up and down the street, making a noise he seemed to think was like a siren.

Then one day I saw him in a football uniform, looking a little ridiculous, but coming back from practice. He had a shiner. And it sort of disturbed Mrs. Smith. But Wilbur kept saying: "Aw, mom, it's all in the game. Y'gotta expect to get hurt a little now and then."

Then there was the time a big, gangling boy came to cut the grass. It was Wilbur, but I didn't know him, he'd grown so. He used to deliver the paper and sell us the Post, too... I can see him now, dropping the lawn mower at the tinkle of the Good Humor cart... or forgetting all about the grass while he followed the flight of a robin to a nest in the fir... and climbed up to get a look at the young ones.

He kept pigeons and bantams and liked to hunt squirrels... He was the typical barefoot boy with check of tan.

With thy turned-up pantaloons, And thy merry whistled tunes; With thy red lips, redder still Kissed by strawberries on the hill; With the sunshine on thy face, Through thy torn brim's jaunty grace...

It couldn't have been longer ago than last year that I saw his picture in the village paper as the boy voted "the best liked in his high school graduation class."

I remember seeing a crowd at the station one fall morning and asking, "What's up?" "Big crowd of boys going out today," said Eb Hill.

It was another group of lads off for the draft camp... Wilbur was there...

I hadn't seen the Smiths in a long time. I'd forgotten about Wilbur. And now... "In Africa, Wilbur Smith, Willow Falls"...

That sort of does it to me, inside. Those words keep coming back. "Aw, mom, it's all in the game. Y'gotta expect to get hurt a little now and then..."

AXIS VIEWPOINT

(Hitler and Mussolini, denouncing aerial warfare, call Americans bombing gangsters.)

A bomber is a wondrous thing As bombs it freely showers— Provided that it is, of course, A bomber that is OURS!

A bombing blitz is splendid war— Its purpose we defend— With other people and not us On the receiving end.

Indian of Today, Like His Forefathers, Proves He's 'First-Class Fighting Man'

More Than 11,000 Red Men, Most of Them Volunteers, Are Fighting for Their Native Land as Soldiers, Sailors and Marines.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON Released by Western Newspaper Union.

THE recent announcement by the War Department that Maj. Clarence L. Tinker Jr. of the United States army air forces was missing in action in North Africa was a tragic coincidence, in that just a year ago the War Department announced that his father, Maj. Gen. Clarence L. Tinker, commander of the army air forces in Hawaii, was missing in action. He had led a flight of army bombers to attack the Japanese fleet east of Wake island and he was killed in the Battle of Midway.

Interesting, too, is the fact that the Tinkers, father and son, were North American Indians and, at the time of his death, General Tinker was called "the greatest Indian fighter in the present war." But although they are outstanding examples of the "fighting red man," modern version, they are only two of an estimated 11,000 Indians in the armed forces of the United States and most of them didn't wait to be drafted for service but enlisted voluntarily.

Taken by itself, that number does not seem large. But in proportion to the total number of "native Americans" in the United States today, it is a more imposing record. If an equal proportion of white men had likewise voluntarily enlisted we would have an army of nearly four million volunteers in addition to the millions who are in the army through selective service.

Incidentally, an interesting situation in regard to the enrollment of Indians in Uncle Sam's service arose soon after the Selective Service act of 1940 was passed. Into federal court in New York city one autumn day in 1941 marched five brilliantly dressed Indians to watch a white man fight for their rights according to the white man's rules. They were descendants of the warriors who, away back in 1784, made a treaty with the United States by which the young and struggling federal government recognized the Iroquois Indian Confederacy as a sovereign and independent nation.

"Independent, Unconquered Nation." They had come into court to maintain by legal means their identity as members of that confederacy which, as "an independent, unconquered nation," was subject only to its own lawmakers and not to the congress of the United States. On the records of the court the case appears as a writ of habeas corpus for one Warren Edreth Green, a 21-year-old Onondaga Indian, who had been drafted into military service the previous May. Young Green had no particular objection to entering the army—as a matter of fact a number of his fellow-tribesmen had already voluntarily enlisted—but he was being used as a test case to challenge the right of the United States government to conscript the young men of an "independent, unconquered nation."

White counsel for the Indians argued that the Iroquois Confederacy had been treated as a foreign nation until 1924 when a law was passed conferring United States citizenship on Indians. No such law, he contended, could apply to members of the Six Nations without their consent. On this premise he argued that the law was unconstitutional and therefore members of the Onondaga, Cayuga, Seneca, Mohawk, Oneida and Tuscarora tribes could not be numbered among the "citizens" who might be drafted under the Selective Service act.

The case was taken under advisement by the judges who heard the arguments. That was late in October, 1941. Then came Pearl Harbor. After that fateful day, nothing more was heard of the case. The tribesmen of the Six Nations may have regarded themselves as members of an "independent, unconquered nation" living within the United States but they were Americans first, as well as "First Americans."

GERONIMO

Among them were descendants of many a famous Indian leader whose name has come down in history because he was a patriot who rallied his warriors to defend their lands against the encroachments of the white men. One of the greatest of these was Tecumseh of the Shawnee, who tried to organize a confederacy of all the Indian tribes in the Ohio valley in the early 1800s but whose plans were upset when his brother, the Prophet, launched his surprise attack upon the soldiers of Gen. William Henry Harrison and was badly defeated at the Battle of Tippecanoe in 1811.

One of the first of the "fighting red men" of today who attempted to enlist in Uncle Sam's armed forces was Kiutus Tecumseh, a descendant of the great Shawnee leader. He was rejected for military service, however, because he was partially disabled by wounds he received while serving aboard a navy sub chaser during World War I.

There was a time when the name of Geronimo was a name of hatred and terror in the great Southwest, for this Apache leader blazed a trail of death and destruction through New Mexico and Arizona. Run to earth at last in 1886 by soldiers under the command of Gen. Nelson A. Miles, the "Apache Devil" was held as a prisoner of war in Florida, Alabama and finally at Fort Sill, Okla., until his death in 1911. Thirty years later, Homer Yahnoza, a Mescalero Apache and a direct descendant of Geronimo, was one of the heroes who fought at Bataan and Corregidor.

Out in Nevada a county and a city perpetuate the name and fame of Winnemucca, great chief of the Piutes, who in his day was a "first-class fighting man." Today that fighting tradition is carried on by his great-grandson, Stanley Winnemucca, who is a "Fighting Marine." Although more Indians have gone into the army than into the marines or the navy, there is at least one who holds high rank in our sea forces. He is Francis J. Mee, a Chippewa, born in Detroit Lakes, Minn., a commander in the navy.

The "Model American Soldier." If the Indians in World War II follow the precedent of those who fought in World War I, then some of our greatest heroes of the present conflict may be copper-skinned soldiers, sailors or marines. For more than 17,000 Indians heard the call to arms in 1917 and among them was Odus N. Leader, a Choctaw, who was foreman of a cattle ranch in Oklahoma. It is an ironical fact that, soon after we declared war on Germany, this "First American" was the victim of rumors that he was a German spy! To prove his loyalty, he gave up his business and enlisted. He saw action at Cantigny, at Soissons, at St. Mihiel and in the Argonne. He was twice wounded and gassed and when the French government sought a "model American soldier," of whom an oil painting was to be made to hang on the walls of the French federal building, where types of all the Allied races were to be represented, Sergt. Odus N. Leader was chosen for that honor!

Other Indians who received the Croix de Guerre included Sergt. James M. Gordon, a Chippewa, who braved shell fire to rescue a wounded French officer; Chester Armstrong Fourbear, a Sioux, cited for his bravery as a messenger at Bellecourt; John M. Harper, a Ute; Marty Beaver, a Creek; Bert Hayman, a Seneca-Modoc; Gus Gertez, a Pueblo bugler; Joseph Oglohombi, a Choctaw; and Corp. Nicholas E. Brown, another Choctaw, who was killed in action and received the award posthumously.

Winners of DSC and Croix de Guerre Among those who received the Distinguished Service Cross of their own United States, as well as the Croix de Guerre of France, were Joe Schenderleon, a Crow and Navajo-Apache; and Thomas D. Saunders, a scion of the most formidable fighters the United States army ever encountered in the days of the old frontier—the Cheyennes. Here is his record, as given in General Orders of the Second division:

"Corporal Thomas D. Saunders, Company A, Second engineers, while a member of the first wire cutting platoon, made his way forward in advance of the unit until he was in line with and in company with Private Wilkerson, Company B, Second engineers, were the first soldiers to enter Jaunly, then infested with snipers, and swept with wicked machine gunfire, being occupied by rear-guard detachments of the enemy. They alone captured 63 German prisoners after searching the caves of a hospital with persistence and courage. This at Jaunly, France, on September 12, 1918.

"Corporal Thomas D. Saunders, Company A, Second engineers; at St. Etienne-Armes, on October 8, 1918, he bravely conducted a patrol under heavy fire. During the night, he made a reconnaissance close to the enemy, of the position which his section was to occupy in the front, and returning, conducted it to that position."

Returning war reporters tell of the melodrama on a ship which brought back prisoners of war... The Geneva convention, it appears, ruled that officers of war prisoners would handle the discipline of their own men... On this ship, some of the prisoners included a few of Germany's former social democrats... Now that they were prisoners, the war was over for them—so they refused to salute their Nazi superiors... The infuriated officers sought satisfaction from the Americans in charge... "We demand," one of them stormed, "some pistols and permission to have these men shot."

The request, of course, was ignored.

The correspondents tell us they are amazed about the rumors over here regarding the WAACs in Algiers "allegedly being a headache to Eisenhower"... "We didn't see anything to indicate that," said the scribes. That was Sunday afternoon... That evening about six, the Sultan was handed a copy of the booklet the army got up with the help of a Harvard professor of anthropology and some of his experts who were over there ahead of time... This booklet, the Sultan learned, was found on the body of an American soldier killed in the landing at Port Lyautey in the attack on the Kasbah there, which was repulsed by native troops... The booklet was blood-stained... The man who brought it to the Sultan was an Arab dignitary favorable to the Allied cause... Is the 'Unknown Soldier' in Arlington an American Indian?

Is the "Unknown Soldier" who sleeps in the nation's shrine in Arlington cemetery an American Indian?

He might well be! When that American soldier was enshrined there on November 11, 1922, four Indian chiefs were present as official representatives of the red men who had given their lives for their country. They were Red Owl of the Oglala Sioux, Stranger Horse of the Brule Sioux, Lone Wolf of the Kiowas and Plenty Coups of the Crows. To the latter fell the honor of placing on the marble tomb a war bonnet and a coup stick—appropriate gifts for a dead warrior.

As Plenty Coups placed them on the tomb he said: "I feel it an honor to the red man that he has taken part in this great event today because it shows that the thousands of Indian soldiers who fought in the great war are appre-

Jamaica Will Send Farm Help to Relieve Shortage

WASHINGTON. — Approximately 10,000 agricultural workers will be brought from the island of Jamaica to the United States to relieve farm labor shortages in critical areas, it was announced.

A joint announcement by the state and agricultural departments said an agreement had been signed with the government of Jamaica providing for the movement of agricultural workers. The agreement was said to be similar to earlier pacts with Mexico and the Bahaman government.

The Jamaican nationals will be available for work as needed in the West, Middle West and the East. They will be housed in farm labor supply centers.

The announcement said that the imported laborers will not be used to displace American farm workers or to reduce previously established wage rates. United States health authorities will pass on the physical fitness of the Jamaican workers and the latter will be returned to Jamaica when their work contracts expire.

The laborers will be 18 years of age or older.

Sharpshooter Wife

Misses, Hits Husband WORLAND, WYO.—Mrs. Wanda Hampton, once a sharpshooter in a carnival, was sure of her marksmanship.

When she aimed a shotgun at her husband during an argument, she said she intended only to frighten him. She shot him in the arm.

Hampton, a prominent rancher, was recovering in a hospital. Mrs. Hampton faced a charge of assault with intent to kill.

Pigeons Save Gas for Numbers Racket Writers

WILMINGTON, DEL.—City detectives, cracking down on numbers writers, picked up three carrier pigeons and theorized that gasoline rationing had caused "pickup men" to switch from automobiles to the pigeon carrier system.

Two of the birds carried slips for 285 numbers but the third bore the cryptic message: "Nothing Doing." The pigeons and their alleged owner were held by police.

It's a Pleasure, Judge!

TOPEKA, KAN.—Police Judge Eldon Sloan sentenced a 16-year-old speeder—a second offender—to 10 days in jail. Then he paroled the youth on condition that he buy a $25 war bond immediately.

52 Years at Sea, Ros'n Signs Again

Doctors Pass Him as Fit For Active Duty.

CHARLESTON, S. C.—At the age of 68, Warrant Officer Stanley J. Lunger, a bos'n in the United States navy with 52 years of service, recently passed his medical examination for another tour of active duty, according to announcement by the Sixth Naval district.

The veteran of the three wars "supposes" his greatest navy thrill came in 1893 when, as chief quartermaster on the USS Newark, "I had the whole international fleet, following me from Cadiz, Spain, to the United States."

The fleet composed of ships from the navies of the world, the Columbus caravan, was crossing the Atlantic for the Chicago Exposition.

With his 52 years of service, Lunger is the oldest navy man from point of service, stationed at the Charleston navy yard. Returning to active duty when the war broke out, Lunger was assigned to the port director's office in Charleston. Transferred to Jacksonville a few months ago, the warrant officer went back to the Charleston Naval hospital for a medical survey. After giving him a tough going over, the doctors pronounced him "fit for active service."

Lunger helped put the Great Lakes training station in commission. Aboard the USS Wompatuck during the battles of Manzanillo, the first, June 30, 1898, the second, July 18, 1898, he holds campaign medals for both. During the First World war, he wore five gold "hash" marks, which usually bespeak long naval service.

History Will Write Details Of Lewis-Roosevelt Feud

Story Begins During 'Roaring Thirties' as The Forgotten Man Is Remembered By New Deal and CIO.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

Today there came to my desk a mimeographed sheet from the Office of War Information. It was headed "The Nazi Slave Labor Society."

As I read that title, my mind shot back to a very few days before this writing, one of the days when your capital was tense over the coal strike from one end of Constitution avenue to the other, and on both sides of the Potomac. I say "Constitution" avenue instead of "Pennsylvania" (which you and I have come to feel is the main street of Washington) because this coal strike struck deep into a lot of offices and bureaus beside the White House at one end of this historic thoroughfare and the Capitol at the other.

Naturally, Harold Ickes, in his offices looking down the mall from that strange modernistic pile that is the new Interior building, was concerned. He was, at that moment, responsible head of the soft coal mining industry and the industry wasn't functioning.

Naturally the members of the War Labor board were concerned. The board's existence was threatened.

Two Worries

Over across the Potomac in that marvelous architectural achievement, the Pentagon building, where the army is housed, officers paced the floor of their pentagonal offices. They had two worries. One: Will there be a coal shortage that will hold up production of important war supplies? Two: Will we have to go out and push people around with bayonets?

I haven't mentioned what was going on at the Capitol or in the White House. Plenty. Every enemy of the administration, every friend of the administration who was angry at Lewis, everyone who was for 100 per cent prosecution of the war—and they weren't necessarily different people, but people with different ideas—was yelling for Lewis' eyebrows and some of them were threatening the President if he didn't bring them in (on a silver charger) for breakfast.

Inside the White House, there were meetings which, because of the presence and absence of certain persons, I would like to report in greater detail but I can't—that will have to be left to history.

As I write these lines, I cannot predict the aftermath of the action which began late one afternoon on June 3 when, contrary to reports circulated earlier in the day, a statement was issued from the White House ordering the men back to the mines by June 7. But between these lines of that statement was the story of "Franklinstein" and the creature which he created, as dramatic, if not as tragic, as the horror tale by the gentle Mrs. Shelly, written early in the 19th century.

Self-Destroyer

A copy of that book ("Frankenstein") is on my table as I write. On the last page are the lines spoken by this strange being which the hero had created, hoping to raise the standard of humanity but which, alas, had found itself heir to the human weaknesses and turned against his creator. The "being," just before it destroys itself, speaks to its creator:

"... thou didst seek my extinction that I might not cause greater wretchedness; and if yet, in some mode unknown to me, thou hast not ceased to think and feel, thou wouldst not desire against me a vengeance greater than that which I feel. Blasted as thou wert, my agony was still superior to thine..."

(You really ought to read the book—it's far superior to the movie version.)

But why do I bandy with this ancient tale? Because I do believe that all of us build, materially or physically, creatures which come back to haunt us.

Look at the record of John Lewis and Franklin Roosevelt.

John, born to the pits, a man who won to literacy, yes, to scholarship the hard way.

Franklin, born to the purple.

Both endowed with that indomitable something that lifted them, in spite of their respective handicaps, to leadership. Egocentric enough to elbow their way up to the counter; altruistic enough to have something to contribute to the general welfare when they got there. Reader, be fair even if you have your honest prejudices—both these men are gifted.

A Quick Look

Pick up the story in the roaring thirties—the New Deal is beginning to strut its stuff. The "forgotten man" has been remembered and he's grateful to Roosevelt.

The forgotten laborer is being remembered; he's grateful to Lewis. I mean the man who couldn't because of the by-laws of the AFL, get into a labor union any more than he could get into the Union League club. Lewis stepped out of the AFL with his miners. The CIO was formed in 1935.

It looked as if John of the eyebrows and Franklin of the amber cigarette holder had something in common. They did. It began by being an ideal—a better deal for the man who hadn't had such a good deal before. Later, the issues became more complicated but we won't go into that now.

Anyhow, the Wagner act was passed in 1935. (Labor's Magna Charter, they called it.) That gave the poor, heretofore outsider, the workman who couldn't qualify, to join the snooty AFL, a chance to be somebody. If there were more of his group than there were of the AFL's in a plant, shop or factory, his outfit was recognized as the collective bargaining unit.

That was a real step forward in economic democracy.

The CIO thrived. It had the blessing of the administration. It gave its votes in return. It also gave the largest campaign contribution in return. Some of the starry-eyed young men in the New Deal (they have departed, most of them, for Puerto Rico and elsewhere on the fringes) dreamed dreams. They told their dreams to Lewis.

"Why not a real labor party, Jawn," they smiled encouragingly, "with you as the leader? We'll get rid of the democrats without imagination. You'll be vice president next time..."

The Siren's Song

But then Mr. Lewis made a great mistake. He went to Paris. Other men have erred in that once-fair city before this. (I visited it myself.) But John met another siren... he witnessed the sit-down strike.

Now, frankly, this is hearsay but I am told that it was Lewis brought that illegitimate Gallic child of the proletariat, conceived in a strange moment of aberration, back to America. It did not thrive. It needed a more rarified atmosphere than that which blows across the prairies and once flapped the cover of the covered wagon.

Mr. Lewis went to the White House, jerked the previously welcoming latchstring, and went in. But old man Vox Populi got there before him. Up to then, V. P. had been pretty satisfied with things as they were under the New Deal.

But things had changed. In a chilly voice V. P. said: "No, Franklin, no John. No dice." Franklin listened. John got mad. That was the end of a beautiful friendship and the rest is history. Lewis turned against the man who had made his success possible and there is, as we know, no feud like the feud of former friends.

The soldier on the battlefield, utterly unable to comprehend why men strike while he is risking his life for a fraction of the pay the strikers demand, cursed and threatened; the miner, with many just grievances, stood confused, looking for his oracle to speak, but cringing under the sneers at his lack of patriotism. Small-minded bureaucrats, more interested in saving their faces than saving the country, sputtered and strutted. Lewis and Roosevelt, the two men who, working together, might move mountains (of coal and coalition) were forced to square off against each other, the public backed the government and, as usual, decided the issue.

Oh yes! That "Nazi Slave Labor Society"—it can't happen here!

BRIEFS... by Baukhage

The Japanese-controlled Bangkok radio has issued more advice on good manners to the people of Thailand. "Since the clothing and manners of those who are in private business are not respectable yet, we request that they observe the following principles: 'Be well dressed, be clean, be agreeable to customers, do not smoke or be intoxicated, have good manners, be honest."

The United States was producing fighting equipment eight times as fast as Japan in the spring of 1943.

A popular joke in Holland deals with the bicycle shortage. So many men's bicycles have been stolen that it is asked what happens to the ladies' bicycles. "Oh, they're being kept for the Scotch Highlanders when they get here."

Household Hints

To clean water bottles fill rather more than half full with hot soapy water and add some torn-up pieces of used blotting paper or brown paper. Let the bottles stand for two or three hours, shake up well, and rinse thoroughly with clean cold water. After they have drained, polish them gently with a fine glass cloth.

Gilt frames can be cleaned by dipping a soft cloth in milk and rubbing gently over the soiled spots. Repeat several times if necessary.

Baked ham is glorified by pouring honey over the ham before browning. It gives a delicate brown color and a delicious flavor.

Square corners on small linoleum rugs or mats often become broken and unsightly. Cutting the corners round will prevent this and make your rugs stay new much longer. When so treated they will lie flatter on the floor and will not be kicked about so easily. To make sure the corners you cut are uniform, trace a cutting line on the rug first with a saucer or pie plate.

Several strands of wire placed from end to end lengthwise over the poultry feed trough will prevent chickens from getting into the trough with their feet and wasting and contaminating the feed.

When drying a sweater or sweat shirt, use a wire coat hanger and bend the ends almost together while putting the garment on the hanger or removing it. This prevents stretching the neck of the garment.

Start root vegetables in boiling, salted water, about one teaspoon of salt to a quart of water.

FOR ITCHING OF MINOR SKIN RASHES

get this kind of medicated powder often recommended by many specialists—for diaper rash, heat rash, burn and itching of sunburn and mosquito bites. Get Meisana, formerly Mexican Heat Powder. Costs but a few cents. Ask for genuine Meisana.

Cut in Teams' Travel
Each major league baseball team will travel an average of only 8,600 miles this year instead of the usual 13,000 miles.

Battleship a Menagerie

For over a century, seamen on British war vessels were permitted to own pets, with little restriction on their number and size, says Collier's. The practice was banned a few years ago, when the admiralty learned that one battleship carried an assortment of 1,560 animals, which included large snakes, bears, deer and antelopes.

EARLY American wall pockets cut out of light weight pine or scraps of half inch material may have many modern uses. In the kitchen they are just the thing for ration books and a pad for the grocery list.

Originally these pockets were made in a great variety of designs and were used for letter boxes. They are still useful for this purpose or for a leave-a-note pad and pencil. If you enjoy working with wood you may want to cut these pockets out by hand with a coping saw as shown here. If you have a jig saw it is much faster, or you may mark your design and take it to a woodworking shop to be cut out for a few cents.

NOTE—Mrs. Spears has made patterns in actual size for three of these Early American letter boxes. The patterns are on one sheet with complete directions for making and finishing. Request Pattern No. 281, enclosing 15 cents. Address:

JUST

Nothing New
Wife—I see by the paper that women are getting men's wages these days.
Hubby—Humph, haven't they always?

These Days
"I hear you've been doing very well at school, Alfred," said the fond grandparent. "What is your best subject—reading, writing or arithmetic?"
A look of quiet contempt crossed young Alfie's face as he replied:
"Don't be so absurd, grandpa! I produced the best plan for post-war reconstruction."

Don't It?
"Pessimism never pays."
"Oh, I don't know! Look at all the money dentists make by looking down in the mouth."

So, No Men
He—The artists whose paintings show that angels are all women certainly didn't know women.
She—That is perhaps true. It may be that they knew only men.

When you hear a Marine called a "Leatherneck," it has nothing to do with the epidermis of his neck. Years ago the Marine uniform was equipped with a high stiff leather collar. From that time on, "Leatherneck" has been the word for a Marine. The word for his favorite cigarette is "Camel"—the favorite cigarette also of men in the Army, Navy, and Coast Guard. (Based on actual sales records from service men's stores.) And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. S., and to men in the Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard wherever they are.—Adv.

should also go to those on the home front whose daily service is essential to victory. This vast group includes not only those who build ships, planes, tanks and other war equipment but every person who works faithfully in an industry that is bolstering the war effort.

"The electric power industry, for instance, is one without which no other war industry could operate. There must be power for the lathes, punches, riveters and other machines that make our war weapons power to light our factories for night shifts, power to take workers from their homes to their jobs and back. One of our main defense aims is to protect our power plants one of the main objects of our bombers to destroy the enemy's generating plants.

"General Cable Corporation, which makes wires and cables through which electric power is transmitted, does well to call public attention to what the power industry is doing to hasten the day of victory. This industry has given the United States more electric generating capacity than all the rest of the world and has delivered this power to the places where it is most needed and could most readily be harnessed to the war effort. In this and other essential industries, every worker should know that victory depends on his doing his part and should have recognition for unusual performance."

Miss Mary Ella McElveen, post office clerk here, underwent an operation for appendicitis in the Spohn hospital in Corpus Christi on Tuesday. She is reported to be recovering satisfactorily.

New Port Captain Has Charge of Rockport Area

Lt. George B. Dermody, U. S. Coast Guard was scheduled to become captain of the port of Corpus Christi, which includes the Rockport area. He will succeed Lt. M. A. Ransom, who is to leave for a station on the West Coast.

Lieutenant Dermody has already arrived in Corpus Christi from duty on the Atlantic Coast and will take over the post there upon Lieutenant Ransom's departure.

Lieutenant Ransom came to this area in January.

The Coast Guard is operating an office here at the Morrison Boat House each Wednesday to take care of the identification card and boat paper needs of commercial fishermen and others.

Mrs. Morgan Hostess To Baptist W. M. U.

The weekly meeting of the W.M.U. of the Baptist church was held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. C. Morgan.

The Bible Study on the books of "Zephaniah," "Haggai", and "Zerchariah" was led by Mrs. George Walton.

The next meeting being Industrial Day, the members plan to spend that time in cleaning the newly painted parsonage.

Auxiliary Madden, Private Madden Visit Rockport

Auxiliary Lena Mae Madden and Private Robert Madden have spent a few days here visiting their parents and other relatives and friends. They form another of Rockport's husband and wife teams now serving their country in the Army and Women's Auxiliary Army Corps.

Pvt. Madden has been in the Army for more than a year and Mrs. Madden enlisted in the WAAC last February, to become the first woman of Aransas county to enlist in that branch of the service. They received leaves at the same time and came home for the visit.

Last week Pvt. Johnnie DeForest and Auxiliary First Class Evelyn DeForest, another man and wife team, ended a leave visit here.

Mrs. DeWilton Jefferies And Baby Return From Air Trip to Oklahoma

Mrs. DeWilton Jefferies and son DeWilton, Jr. will arrive tonight by plane from Enid, Okla., where they spent two weeks with Lt. Jefferies' mother, Mrs. Cora Jefferies.

Red Cross Ships 649 Children's Blouses

The Aransas County Red Cross Chapter this week shipped 649 children's blouses to the national headquarters. These garments will probably be sent overseas for the use of war sufferers.

Mrs. J. F. Brundrett is home service chairman and in charge of all production.

Yoakum Party Here to Spend Week's Vacation

Dr. M. A. Rowan of Yoakum, Lt. and Mrs. Maynard A. Rowan of Warner Robins, Georgia are spending the week at Forest Park.

Lieutenant Rowan is stationed at Warner Robins Air Service Command.

Sunday Services At First Baptist Church

"The Lord's people always look forward to Lord's Day and the assembling of themselves for praise and worship," Rev. E. John Meyers pointed out in quoting Hebrews 10:25. "This is as it should be, especially in these days of war and affliction when death and judgement are abroad in the world."

Bible school at the Baptist church will be held at 10 a. m. with the morning preaching service at 11 o'clock. The pastor's morning subject will be "Helpers and Hinders in the Church." The evening service will be at 8:30 and the subject will be "God's Recovery Act." Congregational singing will be led by C. F. McKinley.

Boy Scouts From Dallas Visit In Rockport

Nine Boy Scouts from Dallas Troop 23, known as the "Roving Troop" visited Rockport Tuesday and spent the night at Goose Island State Park. The boys were in charge of Scoutmaster George Theriot and since leaving Dallas had camped in San Antonio's Brakenridge Park, on the beach at Corpus Christi and were scheduled to spend Wednesday night on Mustang Island.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Torpedo Junction

"Awash amidst!"

"Sparks," the radio operator, has sent his final message from another U-boat victim. The lifeboats are pulling away from the doomed vessel as millions of dollars' worth of food, supplies and munitions settle to the ocean bottom in another allied catastrophe in the Battle of the Atlantic.

Millions of dollars' worth of material that was paid for by the dollars we saved and invested in War Bonds. Thousands of man hours have been lost.

We can have but one answer: work harder, save more and invest more frequently in War Bonds.

Pay As You Go--

out of his pay.

If he earns $35 weekly, he will pay 70 cents where he is now shelling out $1.10.

Of course, when the man of the house with two children reaches $45 a week it starts to become a different story. His tax will be increased 20 cents a week—from $1.60 to $1.80.

The increases come rather rapidly from there on.

The same wage-earner earning $60 a week will see his tax jump from $2.10 to $4.80 a week.

And so it goes on up to a $100 a-week salary where the Victory tax is now $4.10 per week but the new withholding tax will be $12.80 a week out of the pay envelope.

When Mr. taxpayer gets into the so-called upper wage brackets, the withholding tax does not cover the total tax. Taxes begin to accumulate against him for the annual settlement.

But from our analysis of the set-up it looks as if all wage-earners pay less to the extent of the difference between a 3 per cent and a 5 per cent Victory tax.

And the harassed taxpayer should not forget the 75 per cent skip-a-year forgiveness on either his 1942 or 1943 income tax.

We do not expect any falling off in either over-the-counter sales or in plants where payroll deductions for war bonds are in operation.

The new tax is not a flat 20 per cent tax, but 20 per cent on that portion of income in excess of allowable exemptions. The 20 per cent includes 17 per cent for income taxes and 3 per cent for Victory taxes.

Miss Norvell Hunt of Corpus Christi is visiting in Rockport.
