Aransas County Called On for Work In War Salvage Program

Piloting

The Christmas season is here—even though the weather is still warm.

Mailing of gifts for Army and Navy personnel must begin by September 15, if many of the men and women in our armed services are not to be disappointed; and September 15 is less than a month away.

Christmas gifts may be mailed by parcel post to army men and women overseas only between September 15 and October 15. After the latter date, such parcels may not be mailed unless a written request from the soldier for the article is presented with each parcel. No soldier should have to ASK for a Christmas gift; so gifts must be mailed on time. The Navy also urges that gifts be mailed between September 15 and October 15.

Reasons for the early mailing dates are: The vast distances that the parcels must travel to reach our men at war fronts and stations the world over; frequent transfers of thousands of men from one location to another, which means forwarding of the mail and consumes additional time; the necessity for giving preference to reinforcements, arms, munitions, medicine and food in allotment of shipping space, which often means that the shipments of gifts must wait. And it is most urgent that gifts be delivered to the men IN TIME FOR CHRISTMAS, to keep their spirit high.

The only way to insure against disappointment for the fighting men is to buy at once and mail early—mail your gifts as soon as possible after the September 15 starting date.

Those who have relatives or friends in the service should remember that we have fighting men in Alaska, Greenland, Iceland, England, Sicily, far-separated regions of Africa, the Near Eastern countries, Australia, many of the South Pacific Islands, India, China, South America, and other areas.

Weeks are required for a ship to reach many of these stations. There can be no assurance, of course, that the first ship sailing for any of these locations will have space available to carry Christmas parcels. Gifts may have to wait until vitally needed supplies and equipment have been shipped, to assure victory and to save the lives of our men. If the parcels are not mailed early, that delay may prove to be just enough to prevent their arrival by Christmas day, with consequent disappointment to the men who are offering their lives for their country and ours.

Mail of all kinds is vital to the spirit of fighting men. Every officer who has inspected our Army and Navy postal facilities overseas has reported that thousands of fighting men disregard mess call when it conflicts with mail call, and get their letters first. Officers at our large military and naval stations report that the spirit and efficiency of their men receive a distinct lift when mail is distributed, and that a delay in mail service caused a decided decline in spirit with a sequent letdown in efficiency.

A disconsolate soldier or sailor who thinks he has been forgotten at Christmas obviously is not at his best. So the gifts MUST be mailed on time so that they can arrive on time.

Rules for Christmas mailings to the fighting forces overseas were made public in June for the guidance of early shoppers. They include:

The parcel must not exceed five pounds, and must not be more than 15 inches in length or 36 inches in length and girth combined. It should be marked "Christmas parcel" so that it may be given special attention to assure its arrival before December 25.

Not more than one parcel may be mailed in any one week to the same member of the armed forces by or in behalf of the same mailer. The parcel must be well and strongly packed, in a container of metal wood, strong fiber board, or similar material, then wrapped in strong paper and tied with twine. The cover should be such that it

Federal Income Tax Men to Be Here Aug. 30-31

Harvey Bradley and C. W. Williams, deputy collectors of the Internal Revenue Department, will be at the court house here on August 30 and 31 to assist taxpayers on their 1943 declarations for income taxes.

Taxpayers calling on them for assistance are requested to bring with them:

1. Retained copy of 1942 income tax return.
2. Amount of Victory Tax with held.
3. Estimated amount of withholding tax.
4. Itemized statement of ordinary and necessary business expenses.
5. Amount of money paid on 1942 income tax.

Coast Guard 'All-Powerful' On Local Waters

Even the people's duly elected and appointed peace officers are subject to the whims and orders of the Coast Guard Captains of Port—that is if they dare venture out in a boat on local waters. This is true whether it be a row boat or powerboat.

Lt. George Dermody, Captain of the Port of Corpus Christi and in charge of this section of the coast for the Coast Guard, says that if a local peace officer, who didn't have his coast guard identification card, was in pursuit of a wanted person and had to use a boat that the Coast Guard would not interfere.

"But, if we catch an officer with a fishing line hanging out the back of his boat, we'll run him in," the port captain warned, that is, if he don't have his Coast Guard identification card.

Lt. Dermody pointed out that this is "war time" and that through a presidential proclamation federal law supersedes state law and that the Coast Guard is placed in charge of enforcement on coastal waters, which include the bays around Rockport.

The question came up when Chief Deputy Sheriff Sherman Mundine applied for an identification card. He could supply signatures of three responsible people who had known him for over twenty years, but these people could not swear as to when and where the chief deputy was born.

Under new Coast Guard regulations every person residing within 150 miles of the coast must have a Coast Guard identification card to go out in a boat. A birth certificate or other acceptable proof of citizenship is required before the card will be issued.

Persons living more than 150 miles from the coast and only coming down four times a year, or less, for pleasure fishing are not required to have identity cards if they go out with a properly identified boat captain.

Rev. E. John Meyers Bitten By Rattlesnake

The Rev. E. J. Meyers, pastor of the First Baptist church here, discovered this week that he had been bitten by a rattlesnake—almost a week after the snake struck him on the leg in his garage.

The Baptist pastor said he paid little attention to the two tiny holes in his leg—not knowing when the snake struck him—but several days later the place became infected and swelling was noted. He consulted a physician and was informed the wound was caused by a rattlesnake. He says he has felt no ill effects.

It is believed the snake's fangs penetrated his leg after passing through his trousers, thus minimizing the poison.

Kleberg Visits With Friends At Home

Mayor Sends Greeting to Rockport Men Now Stationed In Canal Zone

On September 7 there will be a "Texas Round-up" in the Canal Zone and Mayor Travis Johnson has sent greetings to a number of men in the service from Rockport, now stationed there.

The gathering of Texans will be held in a USO club and will include service men stationed there as well as civilians who are from the Lone Star State. The mayor's message will be posted in one of the USO halls, along with similar messages from other officials of Texas cities represented at the Round-up.

Rockport Woman Shoots Hole Through Kettle

A Rockport woman this week picked up her husband's gun to examine it, and in some way cocked the hammer back. The only way she could think of to get the hammer down was to pull the trigger—this she did.

The result: a hole through the center of a tea kettle on the kitchen stove.

Shark Plays Trick On Visitor From San Marcos

Mrs. Dexter Tucker of San Marcos was the victim of a prank by a shark here this week.

Mrs. Tucker was fishing from a skiff in the bay when she laid her rod and reel down for a moment, the lure remaining in the water. She heard a bumping noise and looked up in time to see the rod and reel going overboard. Efforts to retrieve the expensive tackle were fruitless, so a bait bucket was weighted and floated to mark the spot so that salvage operations could be pursued later.

Giving up in the effort to retrieve the rod and reel, someone in the boat hauled up the anchor. Wound around the anchor rope was Mrs. Tucker's line, and on one end of the line was the rod and reel—and on the other a two foot shark.

Mrs. Tucker, and her husband, Lieutenant Tucker, came here from San Marcos this week as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Addison Buckner also of San Marcos and are staying at Fulton Family Cottages.

Three New Members Appointed On Ration Panels

Three new members have received their appointments to places on ration panels of the Aransas County War Price and Rationing Board. They replace members who have recently resigned.

W. M. Ferris and H. W. Driesslein have received appointments to serve on the tire panel, and L. A. Shuffield has been appointed to serve on the gasoline panel.

J. F. Bullard will remain on the tire panel.

Dr. Cron Says No Polio Cases In Aransas Co.

Dr. Chas. F. Cron, city-county health officer, said this week that there are no cases of infantile paralysis in Aransas county, the county thus far having escaped the disease which spread to epidemic proportions over the state.

Dr. Cron said that a false rumor was current that an ill child here had poliomyelitis. He said that the sick child had been subjected to spinal puncture tests, which revealed that the child did not have polio.

Alice Patricia Hansen Becomes Bride Of Lt. Thos. D. Picton

Miss Alice Patricia Hansen became the bride of Lieut. Thomas D. Picton on Tuesday morning, Aug. 17, at 10 o'clock at the St. Anthony Catholic church in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Mrs. Picton's home is in Ft. Lauderdale and Lieutenant Picton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. T. Picton of Rockport. Lt. and Mrs. Picton are now on a wedding trip and are expected to arrive in Rockport this week-end for a visit with the groom's parents.

Lieutenant Picton is stationed at Boca Raton Field.

Football Meeting

A meeting of all boys interested in playing football will be held Monday morning, August 30 at 9 o'clock.

The meeting was formerly scheduled for the afternoon.

SNAKES WANTED

Mrs. Hagar Wants One Coral Snake, One Green Tree Snake

Mrs. Jack Hagar, local orthologist, for the present is looking for snakes instead of birds. She wants one coral snake and one green tree snake. She wants them alive, but securely fastened up inside a glass jar.

Mrs. Hagar will turn the snakes over to Lt. Lloyd Ingles, Rodd Field Instructor from the State Teachers College at Chico, Calif., who will take color motion pictures of the snakes and then send the snakes to the college as specimens.

Baptist Having Successful Revival Meeting

The revival at the First Baptist church which is now in its second week will close out with the Service Sunday night. Up to going to press there have been eleven confessions of faith and awaiting baptism. The ordinance of baptism will be administered the first Sunday in September preceding the evening sermon.

E. John Meyers, pastor announces that he will speak next Sunday morning on "Christ Our Foundation." At 8:30 p. m. His message will be "Christ the Savior of the Incurables." There will be congregational evangelistic singing led by Singer McKinley at both services. The Junior Choir which has now reached thirty members, has added much to the revival with their sweet young voices. Don't fail to hear them.

The pastor announces the services are open to all who will come, and a most heart welcome is extended.

No Birth Certificates Required To Subscribe To The Pilot

For the past few weeks the Pilot personnel has told hundreds of persons that "you have to have a birth certificate" to get a Coast Guard identification card.

It has become almost force of habit when someone walks in to ask "have you got a birth certificate?"

This week a man walked in to pay his subscription. The employee waiting on him misunderstood and told him he "would have to have a birth certificate."

Vernon Keller Has Exciting Time In Convoy

Keller Now Stationed In Iceland Writes Interesting Letter

Vernon Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Keller, is now stationed in Iceland and with the lifting of censorship regulations was able to write his parents here about many of the exciting things that have happened to him.

Keller, radar operator of his unit, graduated from the Rockport high school in 1938 and went into the Army January 9, 1942. In January this year he was in a convoy on its way to Iceland and the ship he was on was torpedoed. He tells of the excitement in the following letter:

Dear Folks:—

Just have received your letter of July 14th and was glad to get it. Haven't received the pictures yet.

I'm glad you ran across someone to tell you about this country. I believe the people are getting more friendly slowly. A lot of soldiers go with the girls here but the main trouble seems to be the old folks frown on the "stukas" when they go with a "doggie". Some girls go with soldiers secretly and it seems that most all of them would if it weren't for the old people.

Another trouble it that there is a small population here compared to the army. The old tradition of cutting the girls hair has been abolished. When the Army first came here the people were a hundred years behind times. They spun their clothes, etc. but now they are as modern as the States, due to the soldiers and using U. S. materials. Most of them have learned some English, especially the children.

When the soldiers walk down the streets, the children run up to them and ask for "Ten Dum" (chewing gum) or tandy. They usually get it. Since censorship has been changed and I can tell you the experience. I had coming up, is something I'll never forget and hope I don't experience it again.

On the ship we pulled guard every other day. I went on at 2 o'clock on this particular morning and when I reached the deck, I found flares lighting the skies and heard numerous explosions of depth charges being dropped by the escort ships. Word has gone around that submarines had found following the convoy for several days but I wasn't especially worried because little disturbances had been taking place practically every day for the last few days.

This noise had been going on for sometime before I came on deck and lasted for a while after I was on but the time I was relieved by the next sentry things had quieted down considerably. It was cold weather and we always drank coffee after we came off guard so I went after coffee, not thinking any more about the action. I had just picked up a dirty cup and was washing it when the heaviest vibration I have ever heard. Simultaneously the ship gave a big lurch which made me catch my balance. Most of the men were knocked off their feet. There was no doubt, it was a torpedo.

The life boat I was assigned to was filled with water in letting it down. The torpedo had hit at 5

Plans Made For Salvage Of Tin Cans Here

Chairmen Named For Various Sections of Salvage Program

Aransas county people will soon be called upon to make a greater effort to salvage waste materials for the war effort, including tin cans, fats and greases, silk and nylon and iron and steel.

Fred G. Vincent, Salvage Division of the District Office in Austin, was in Rockport Tuesday assisting Charlie Townsend, county salvage chairman, in organizing committees to handle the various phases of the salvage program.

Chairman Townsend appointed the following chairmen: Charlie Roe, chairman fats and greases; Morgan C. Wheeler, chairman scrap iron and steel; Mrs. Charlie Garrett, chairman silk and nylon hose recovery; and Jack Blackwell, chairman of tin can collection.

The tin can and silk and nylon collections are new to Aransas County and plans will be announced shortly.

Aid of the Boy Scouts will be sought in the collection of tin cans, with that organization being allowed the revenue to be derived from the salvaged tin. Full details will be announced.

It is expected that another concerted drive for scrap iron and steel will start in October.

Fathers Will Not Be Called Before October

Fred Booth, chairman of the Aransas County Selective Service Board, said today that it was unlikely any father would be called into service before October 1.

In the meantime, however, the draft chairman pointed out that all fathers now in 3-A will be classified as 1-A and if over 38 as 1-AH. After being classified as 1-A the men will be called up for preliminary examination, but will not be called for induction until after October 1.

Autry (Soapy) Smith, Jack Kennemer Back From Pacific

Pfc. Autry (Soapy) Smith and Jack Kennemer, CM 3-c, are both back in the United States after service in the South Pacific. Both are in Corona, Calif., for medical attention and expect to receive furloughs soon for visits here with homefolks.

Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith has been overseas for a year and spent six months in the Solomons. He was sent home for medical treatment. Kennemer, son of Mrs. Betty Kennemer, was sent back to the States for a knee operation.

Eller Brothers Arrive In States From Alaska

Lynnwood and Erie Eller, brothers in the U.S. Navy, arrived at Camp Parks in California this week from Dutch Harbor, Alaska. They are expected home Sunday on a 30 day leave. The two brothers have been together since enlistment.

Lynnwood is the husband of the former Miss Ettoil Harris and Erie the husband of the former Miss Jane Little.

Federal Officers May Come Here On 'Clean-Up'

Reports reaching here are to the effect that Rockport and Aransas county is included in an area which will be subjected to inspection by federal health officers.

It is reported that the federal health officers will stage inspections in all areas where military personnel are stationed or where such men visit. Charges will be filed against places which do not pass rigid inspection.

Italy's Industrial Belt Feels Weight Of Continued Allied Bombing Attacks; Grain Crop Production Shows Decline; U. S. Airmen Hit Both Ends of Pacific

ITALY: Toe and Thigh

As the bulk of the German forces streamed across Messina straits from Sicily to the big toe of the Italian boot, Allied bombers struck at Italy's industrial belt high on the thigh of the leg-like peninsula.

As the final curtain was being drawn on the Sicilian campaign, suicidal German rearguards planted themselves in the craggy island's hill tops and mountain sides, and with mortar and machine gun fought Entering Palermo with American troops, Private Joseph Mole of Jamestown, N. Y., found a 14-month-old abandoned wife named Josephine, seen in his arms. Relief authorities took over her care.

Allied advances fiercely, as the bulk of their forces were evacuated.

In those last hours, the German rearguards' position became more precarious as daring units from Gen. George S. Patton's American 7th army landed behind their lines, and aided by naval batteries and dive bombers slashed their way through bayonets to firmly entrench themselves on shore.

Despite heavy anti-aircraft fire which was said to have thrown up a wall of steel, waves of Allied bombers hit the important industrial center of Milan. Terrific detonations could be heard on the Swiss border miles away as the bombers pushed their way through the flak to drop their incendiaries and block-busters.

DRAFT: Induction Order

Now that Selective Service officials have authorized the drafting of fathers October 1, plans have been drawn for induction according to the importance of a man's occupation.

Under the new plan, a new classification known as "super-eligibility" would be created, under which certain skilled jobs in direct war production would place the employee last in the draft list.

The plan also would extend the list of non-essential jobs, holders of which would be eligible for immediate call, regardless of number of children. In this case, such men would be given the opportunity to switch to more essential industries.

Thus, those in non-essential occupations would be called first, before essential and "super-eligible" employees. About 300,000 fathers are to be drafted this year.

RUSSIA: Fighting Unsurpassed

Russia's resurging manpower rolled like a tidal wave over the endless Russian plains, and Germany's stubborn armies gave under the weight.

To the north, the Reds drove on Smolensk from two sides, leaving the Nazis a 140-mile gap in which to retreat along the corridor Napoleon Bonaparte used over a hundred years ago to pull his ragged and beaten army out of the country.

To the south, the Reds bore down on Kharkov, like they bore down on Orel, from three fronts, the north, east and south. Possessed with no natural fortifications, battered Kharkov, once the mighty "Pittsburgh" of Russia, lay exposed on the barren plains to the Reds' massed fire power and troops.

BUSINESS: Biggest Merger

Originally incorporated in New York state in 1851, the Western Union Telegraph company, with a capital of $170,000, almost immediately established a policy of purchasing or consolidating with less formidable competitors.

Biggest step in the policy loomed recently when stockholders of the Postal Telegraph company voted to merge with Western Union, now more than a $340,000,000 enterprise, world-wide in operation.

AGRICULTURE: Below '42

Total production of the five leading grain crops was set at 5,282,000,000 bushels for 1943, 700,000,000 less than harvested last year, on the basis of estimates of the department of agriculture.

Because of favorable growing conditions in July, the department looked for a corn crop of 2,874,711,000 bushels against last year's harvest of 3,175,154,000; a wheat crop of 834,894,000 against 981,327,000; an oats crop of 1,189,546,000 against 1,244,255,000; a barley crop of 348,848,000 against 426,150,000, and a rye crop of 33,314,000 against 57,341,000.

Combined production of the four feed grains—corn, oats, rye and barley—was estimated at 111,000,000 tons below last year's yield. Soybean harvest was set at 200,328,000 bushels.

Milk production held close to last year's level and egg output was at a peak, except in the West.

PACIFIC: Hit Both Ends

While American troops hemmed in the last surviving band of Japanese on New Georgia island in the Solomons, U. S. airmen lifted their Liberator bombers off of the Aleutian runways and headed them for the northern-most chain of islands of the Japanese empire.

As the Liberators rumbled over these islands, known as the Kuriles, 40 enemy fighter planes rose up in defense. But the Americans opened their bomb bays and death and destruction tumbled on the designated target areas. Two Liberators were shot down, but the others swung their noses homeward to complete the 1,000-mile trek.

Bad weather made the jungle on New Georgia a stew, but nevertheless less U. S. Doughboys slogged through the mire to complete encirclement of the remnants of the Japanese force on the northwest coast of the island.

ALLIED MEETING: Politics and War

With Allied forces at the gates of the European fortress, with Marshal Pietro Badoglio's military government of Italy reportedly receptive to peace terms, and with Russia having indicated willingness to negotiate with a "democratic" Germany purged of Nazism, Prime Minister Winston Churchill and President Franklin D. Roosevelt met together for their sixth personal meeting of the war.

Flying to the North American continent with Churchill was a staff of military and naval chieftains, and joining them for discussion were ranking U. S. army and navy officers. The combination of these staffs indicated further operations of joint character, such as those in North Africa and Sicily, where the services of the two nations teamed for effective action.

As Churchill and Roosevelt met, Russia threw a bombshell into the diplomatic picture by declaring that Premier Joseph Stalin had not been invited to the conference, and therefore neither he nor an accredited Soviet representative would attend. Russia's diplomatic jockeying to share in the dominion of Europe after the war will be one of the Allied leaders' chief considerations.

MISCELLANY: SPORT OF KINGS: A group of 54 thoroughbred yearlings, offspring of such famous racing sires as Blenheim II and Sir Galahad III, sold at an average price of $3,507 at the Lexington, Ky., sales.

STAR: While flying over Europe to take pictures for the aircraft gunnery school, Clark Gable's plane was hit 15 times, but returned to base.

People in the News

On March 8, 1942, Wiley M. Creps of Chicago was killed in action in the North Atlantic. Just recently, his father revealed that Creps was only 15 years old, having altered the date on his birth certificate to enter the service.

Seventeen-year-old Richard Lajeskie of Passaic, N. J., got off to a good start in the baseball world. The New York Giants paid the youthful shortstop $10,000 to sign a contract, then shipped him to Jersey City in the International league for seasoning.

After 67-year-old Frank A. Wilhelm, Tacoma, Wash., paper executive, had sunk an eight foot putt in a golf match, he swung his arms over his head in joy. Then he dropped dead of a heart attack.

GAS: Ration Change

Reduction in the gas ration in the Midwest and Southwest was planned by the Office of Price Administration following Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes' report of a critical fuel shortage. Formerly, rationing had been imposed in the area to limit driving and conserve tires.

According to the plan, A, B and C coupons will be cut from four to three gallons. Many holders of C cards will find their gas allowances trimmed from a maximum of 720 miles per month to 480. Preferred motorists like doctors, ministers and certain war workers will continue to receive unlimited supplies according to need.

It was said increased movement of oil to the East through the newly completed "big-inch" pipe line would draw from the affected area's supplies, contributing to any reduction in the gas ration there.

TAXES: Who Pays

Of the total of 22 billion dollars collected by the U. S. treasury for the fiscal year 1943 which ended June 30, the states of New York and Illinois contributed almost 28 per cent.

The treasury's figure showed that the people in eight highly industrialized states paid 59 per cent of the government's total revenue. Besides New York and Illinois, these states were Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan.

By contrast, the treasury said North and South Dakota, each with a small population, paid about .08 of the total revenue.

Of the revenue collected, more than 10 billion dollars was in the form of individual and corporation income taxes.

LABOR: Shun Lewis

Big, burly John L. Lewis found the road back to the American Federation of Labor, from which he once bolted to form the CIO, blocked.

Headed by AFL President William Green, the union's executive committee officially refused to accept the United Mine Workers' application for re-entrance. Instead, the council said that the matter would be referred to the AFL annual convention.

In rejecting Lewis' application, the council showed no disposition to bargain with him. Whereas Lewis had insisted that the UMW be accepted as presently composed, the council called for dissolution of UMW's District 50, which has been unionizing various branches of labor. Otherwise, the council said, District 50's activities might interfere with established AFL unions.

MINERS: Seven weeks after passage of the Smith-Connelly anti-strike bill, 30 coal miners, including officials of various United Mine Workers locals, stepped into federal court and asked that the case be thrown out on constitutional grounds.

The miners' counsel declared that the anti-strike law was in opposition to the first amendment of the Constitution guaranteeing freedom of speech, and the 13th amendment to the Constitution against involuntary servitude.

Kathleen Norris Says:

About Divorcing the Defense-Worker Wife

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

Her shoes low-heeled, she goes off gaily in the morning with her lunch box. At noon she and her fellow-workers make themselves a cup of coffee; gradually some of the men have joined them, contributing their own supplies.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

BETTY ELLIS is an extremely attractive woman of 32. Betty is one of those pretty, friendly, intelligent girls whose husband wins from all other men the involuntary tribute of "Lucky Bob!" She seemed to have too much charm, spirit, beauty, capability to be sunk out of sight in one man's nursery and kitchen, but that's what happened to her. She married Bob Ellis, salesman in a big motor-parts industry, she had a daughter and then a son; she loved home, children, garden, cooking, books, radio, club, marketing, and she loved Bob, like the fine, normal, typical young American woman she was.

Then came the war. Bob's mother was living with them now, herself a fine housewife and devoted grandmother. Betty and old Mrs. Ellis like and understand each other; when Betty had a chance at a good job in a munitions plant it was her handsome, efficient 54-year-old mother-in-law who advised her to take it. Betty made more money than Bob did, for the first.

And how she enjoys it! Dressing comfortably in shirts and slacks, her hair cut short, her shoes low-heeled, she goes off gaily in the morning with her lunch box. At noon she and her fellow-workers make themselves a cup of coffee; gradually some of the men have joined them, contributing their own supplies, and now Betty is queen of an adoring circle that meets daily.

Betty enjoys freedom. In Betty's case all this has gone to her head. For ten years her interests have been centered in kitchen, babies and husband. Now she is free. Free morally, for Bob can't check on what she is doing and nobody else has any right to; free financially, for she can spend more money on her clothes nowadays than she used to have for all household expenses combined.

It is Betty's husband who writes me about it.

"About four months ago there was a great change in her," says Bob's letter. "All winter long she had been coming home too tired to do more than just kiss me and the children, eat her dinner listening to the rest of us talking, and tumble into bed. But last spring she seemed to come to life. Once or twice she was late; she called it working overtime, but she wasn't at work. She changed her clothes at a friend's apartment and went out to dinner and dance. This happened three times before I caught on.

"We'd been putting most of her earnings into bonds, but she stopped that; she had gotten herself a fur coat in March. She said it cost two hundred, but my mother said it was worth at least a thousand. But I didn't really suspect anything until I heard that Betty was out dining and dancing, after which it took very little evidence to convince me that she had a lover; a rich young fellow some years younger than she, who works in the same plant. When I questioned her, trying not to show her how insane with nervous anxiety and wretchedness I was, she laughed and kissed me, saying that she was no different from other women, that X was soon entering the service, that it was not serious on either side, he not wanting a divorce any more than she did. As a matter of fact this man did go away, but now another, an older man who has a wife and two grown sons, is constantly tele-

FORGIVE ERRING MATE

This time a husband writes Kathleen Norris asking for advice regarding a wandering defense-working wife. An attractive woman of 32, she has found more freedom and profit in her new work than she can handle wisely. With her two children in the care of her mother-in-law, she apparently has been associating a great deal with other men. One of them has his own wife and children. Her husband is advised not to divorce her but to try and be forgiving and hope that a return to sanity on the part of his wife will accompany the close of the war.

phoning her, and a week ago she went away for the week-end; she said with a party of friends, but I know he has a small place in the mountains and I do not feel at all sure that there were others in the party.

"The catastrophic effect of all this upon my home happiness I can leave to your imagination. My wife has always been on a pedestal, to me; she has always seemed the wisest, truest, happiest of women. What accounts for this horrifying change, and what can I salvage from the wreckage of my home? Our daughter is nine, the boy six. They worship their mother; they need her. My mother will live with us only during the war; when peace returns, she must rejoin her husband in a distant city.

"Shall I divorce my wife, embittering her and myself, and scarring the children's lives? After all, a man has his pride, and this sort of thing can't go on forever without causing a lot of talk. Please advise a heartbroken husband."

Unfaithful Mate Serious Problem. My dear Bob, thousands of women have written me of your problem in the past 15 years. What to do about the unfaithful mate is a very serious question. I am going to advise you as I almost invariably advise them, hard as this course is to follow.

I advise you to treat Betty's temporary departure from decency and common sense as you would a mental illness, with silence, patience, forgiveness and, when you can help, with help. Wars do not last forever; soon there will be three million strong young men back from the battle fronts, looking for work and entitled to find it. Our social situation will receive a jolt then, will be faced by a predicament that will take all we have of courage and faith in ourselves to solve. Even with the maintenance of an enormous military force, even with the return of activity and prosperity all along the line, there will be readjustments that will stagger us all.

It will especially stagger the money-making, defense-job-filling women. A comparatively small force will keep our armories filled with munitions. In peace. The great factories will turn their machinery in a different direction; the men will swarm in, and the women will come home. And just between ourselves, Bob, thousands of them will be glad to return.

The relationship between you and Betty will never return to its old confident, loving status. Your hurt pride will never wholly recover. But you won't be the only man and woman who extract considerable satisfaction, comfort, and even companionship out of a life built upon just such wreckage.

Queer Bedfellows, his fleet, Good Commanders though unwillingly, in Come Out of Wars to New York in 1776. But here is Sir Henry with the Russians, French and Americans all on his side, and he is cheerfully on theirs.

Wars make strange bedfellows. They have also made a good commander out of General Wilson. He holds honors won in three wars, and when he surmises that Hitler cannot keep the Balkans without Italy or other good Allied commanders do not disagree with so sound a tactician. Sir Henry will feel a four-square satisfaction when the fuhrer lets go. It was Nazis, pouring down the Valley of the Vardar, who wrecked his bold attempt to hold Greece two years ago, and this English soldier must want to close the door.

The general is 62, with a wife waiting, and once the Germans are down he probably will be willing to close the military section of his own book. There aren't many laurels left for the general to win. He has the Queen's, the King's medals, with clasps, from the Boer war; a DSO from 1914-1918, and already this conflict has seen him made a Commander of the Bath, Knight of the Grand Cross of the British Empire, and a full general. He left Eton for the South African campaign. Now he is back in Africa again, at Cairo, commander in chief of the Middle East.

all that is behind him now and he is at least a light-heavyweight diplomat sturdily taking on his 60-year-old shoulders three commissions, any one of which would be a full time job if we were back, as someone used to say, to normalcy.

Before the invasion of Denmark he was our minister there and the title still holds, although he has no duties. Similarly, he is minister to the exiled Luxembourg government. Finally, he is just settling down into the busy office of minister to Canada.

This is the sizeable post to which he has risen in 27 years as a career diplomat. After Harvard and Paris and a spell at banking, he entered the diplomatic service at 33. It was a late start, but he moved at a fair gait around Tokyo, Peking, Manila, Athens, London, Stockholm and finally Copenhagen. Before going to Ottawa he served as our state department's chief of the division of European affairs. In spite of much work and so long a career, his cheek is smooth, his mustache a la Hemingway, only grizzled, and if his air of easy assurance isn't youthful it certainly is no more than middle-aged.

REPORTING on Rear Admiral Alan G. Kirk when he was a naval attaché a London pressman called him personable, discreet and Adm. Kirk Lean, a Bit Academic, but is Discreet? Hardly!

leaily academic. Kirk is the man whose arm- phibious force, Atlantic fleet, blasted away under a cloudy moon for the Sicilian invasion. This was about as discreet and academic as Wild Bill Hickok's rootin' tootin' shootin' in the old West.

Home to tell about it all, Kirk is unmistakably lean and maybe even a mite academic. But he belongs to the Ends of the Earth club and that suggests a romantic strain more in keeping with the hell-bent job he cleaned up on Mussolini's murky, storm-tossed lake.

Thirty-two years in the navy, Kirk has got to some of the earth's ends, reckoning from Annapolis; to China, and a fair bit of Europe, at least. He has spent 19 years at sea, and he won for the vessels on which he served trophies galore for battle efficiency, gunnery, engineering and communications.

Much of his best work, however, has been done in this country. He is an authority on gunnery and Ballistics and even back in the last World war was kept on this side doing experimental work. Before he was chosen to top off the amphibious force operating out of North Africa he was director of naval intelligence.

THE STORY SO FAR: The story of their part in the battle for the Philippines is being told by four of the five naval officers who are all that is left of Motor Torpedo Boat Squadron 3. They are Lieut. John Bulkeley (now Lieutenant Commander), squadron commander; Lieut. R. B. Kelly, second-in-command; and Ensigns Anthony Akers and George E. Cox Jr. The battle for the Philippines was nearly over when the Japs invaded Cebu. Separated from his squadron, Lieut. Kelly had spent the night at the home of an American civilian. When the Japs began their invasion he fought his way back to the dock where Lieut. Bulkeley's boat was tied to learn that he had been reported dead.

CHAPTER XV

"After Cebu fell," explained Cox, "an army aviator arrived—he'd left Cebu that morning. He said he'd talked to a Catholic priest who had said burial mass over you and another sailor, killed in an engagement."

"And I was very glad to hear it," said Kelly. "Because then I knew that Harris and Reynolds had gotten decent burial at the American cemetery in Cebu before the Japs arrived. But then I asked, 'Where's Bulkeley?' You see, the last I saw of him he was tearing around the other side of that Japanese cruiser, trying to draw its fire away from me, so I could get in to polish it off. I thought they'd probably got him. I heard he'd turned up later in Mindanao, but it was just a rumor."

"What actually happened was this," said Bulkeley. "They didn't get me, but three destroyers chased me until dawn, when I pulled away into shallow water, and we tied up under a pier to get some sleep—as I think I said."

"When night came I went on up to Iligan, where I intended to get gas and go on up to Cebu to see what had happened to Kelly, although I was pretty sure he hadn't got out alive. But at Iligan I was met by a radioed order from Wainwright; there were no more torpedoes for the MTB's, so he couldn't let us have any gas. They were heading it all for the planes out to Australia."

"So there we were—stuck at Iligan. I went on over to headquarters at Del Monte to report the battle with the cruiser to General Sharp—certain that the end was before us on the island. We'd be fighting here on Mindanao with rifles to the end. But that morning—it was April 13—General Sharp called me in to say he'd just got orders from Melbourne that I was ordered to report to MacArthur immediately on the plane leaving Del Monte that night. For a while I felt rotten."

"Then I figured it another way. If I could get to Australia, I might be able to persuade MacArthur to bring out the rest of the squadron. It looked like it was their only chance. 'I'm going to try to get out all your officers and key men,' he had said. 'I'm not going to let you die in a fox hole with a rifle. I knew he had believed the MTB's had a great future in the war.'

"So I went down to the rest I would get them flown out if possible, and got aboard the bomber that night. As we left the field, the Japs divebombed it and put one motor out, but we got through."

"He left me in charge," said Akers, "and presently General Sharp sent me up to Lake Lanao in a peculiar mission. They were afraid the Japs might land seaplanes on it and I was to set up defenses there. I was to teach the army how to run the machine guns."

"Cox told me Bulkeley had gone home," said Kelly, "and, thinking I was dead, had made him squadron commander. And I didn't know what to do. There I was—no crew, no boat, no job, while they were busy dismantling the 41 boat, to take it up to Lake Lanao and end the war fighting with the Moros. So I decided I'd better get up to Del Monte and report to Sharp so he could tell Bulkeley I was alive, and send in my report by radio to the States on the scrap with the cruiser and what happened to my boat."

"The General was amazed to see me. 'Bulkeley said you'd been killed in action,' he said. He listened to my report on the battle. 'I'll send you to Kalasungay,' he said, 'near the airfield where the planes come in. But I warn you, there's not too much hope of getting out. There's almost no more gas to refuel the planes at this end, so I doubt that they'll send any more.' I said I was sure we were getting out—MacArthur had told Bulkeley he would do it if it was humanly possible."

"The town was forty-five miles away, and I reported to the army colonel there at noon. He asked me why I was here. 'Waiting transportation to Australia,' I said."

"No use getting your hopes up," he said. "And since I've had no instructions, I assume you're here on a duty status and am going to put you to work."

"That's okay," I said, "if I don't have to leave the vicinity."

"I can't even guarantee that," he said. "I'm organizing a carabao pack train to Lake Lanao. They're cutting the trail now. I have another man rounding up fifty carabao and drivers. When he gets them, you'll be in charge of leading the pack train."

"I didn't say much. I figured he and I were in for a showdown. I didn't intend to miss a plane being off herding a bunch of milk cows through a jungle, but I thought there was no use being unreasonable now. After all, fifty carabao was a lot to round up. It would take several days."

"Back at the quarters I found an old navy captain who'd arrived the day before—used to be in charge of the industrial department at Cavite. He listened to my story, and MacArthur's promise, and then said, 'The way it looks, I don't think I'm getting out.' Then he talked about the thirty years he'd spent in the navy, all of them training so he would be useful in case of war, and you could see it was discouraging for him to end like this—apparently forgotten by the country he had wanted to serve. What had his life been for?"

"On the night of April 22 my hopes were down. I was fiddling with the radio and cut in on a news broadcast from the States—a short-wave station in San Francisco. It was the navy news release on our fight with the cruiser!

"Tell him the end here is drawing near."

"I went to bed sick as the silky-voiced commentator again repeated his account of our victory, when all out here knew we had only expended ourselves in the hope that it might slow down a Japanese victory, and we had failed even in this."

"Next morning the army colonel sent for me. He'd had a plane-less aviator hard at work who had collected thirty-nine of the fifty carabao. Soon the others would be here, so I was to start work today—a trail-blazing expedition to inspect the jungle path up to Lake Lanao. But suppose a plane came while I was away? I didn't even bring it up; it seemed so hopeless now. I went back to my quarters and had just packed to go when the phone rang. I was to report to General Sharp at the landing field at once, and bring everything I had with me."

"It was grim waiting at the airport. The priority list was made up in Melbourne and each man had a number. A plane would not hold more than thirty, they knew, but more than a hundred were waiting there. Because perhaps two, maybe even three, planes might come. Or perhaps someone whose name was called would not show up, and your number might be high enough on the list to claim his seat. So they waited—all young technicians, most of them aviators, for this last chance to get out, so they could fight again. General Sharp had told me he had telephoned Cox and Akers that they were on tonight's list; why weren't they here?"

"At 10:30 the list was called—thirty names, mine and theirs among them, but only I answered present. So they put an army tank major and an air-corps captain in as substitutes, if they failed to arrive. But at 10:35 here they came on the run, so the captain and the major were turned aside. They were to go on the next plane—if there was a next."

"Just before we got aboard, General Sharp came over to tell me good-by. He is a grand old man, all six feet of him, a commanding person and every inch a soldier, as his father and grandfather were before him."

"He said this was probably the last plane out, and he wanted me to take a message to MacArthur. 'Tell him the end here is drawing near, and if help can't be sent, in a few days Mindanao will fall. Of course, probably he understands this, and maybe nothing can be done.'

"Then he talked about us. 'Everybody left here in the islands should realize,' he said, 'that those who are called to Australia are the ones who will be most useful for the work ahead. Those who leave are the men for the job, regardless of rank and years of service. The rest of us,' he said, 'consider ourselves as being expendable, which is something that may come to any soldier. We are ready for it, and I think they will see that we will meet it squarely when it comes.'

"Then they called my name, we shook hands, and I climbed aboard. Each of us who were leaving unstrapped our 45's and handed them out through the plane's windows to the fellows who were staying behind. They'd be needing them badly and we wouldn't."

"And Peggy?" someone asked. "There were three seaplanes sent out from Australia to Corregidor at the very last," said Kelly, "which, among other people, were to bring out the nurses. One of them was shot down off Corregidor, but the other two loaded and got back to Lake Lanao, where they gassed up for the big homeward hop while Sharp held the Japs back from the lake. One of these two got safely away; the plane Peggy was in cracked up on the take-off. So now we won't ever know."

"But as our big ferry-command bomber swung wide out over the field after the take-off, you could see the island and then the path of moonlight glistening over the water, just as we used to watch it glisten from the tunnel entrance at Corregidor. And suddenly I remembered the last thing she said to me—her voice was just as clear as if it had been two seconds ago, instead of many weeks, over that signal-corps telephone in the army hut on Bataan, after I had told her this was good-by. 'Well,' she said, 'it's been awfully nice, hasn't it?' And her voice had sounded clear and brave, but seemed to come from far away."

Frosty Drinks Will Cool You!
(See Recipes Below)

Frost Yourself!

When the thermometer rises to the hundred mark, homemakers look for cool ideas, and thirst-chasers are first on the list. Cooling drinks literally give you a frost and insulate you from the warm rays of Old Man Sun.

In today's column I'm attempting to give you a parade of cool drinks to fit every pocket-book, every occasion. They use fruit juices, prepared beverages, prepared drink powders, milk, citrus fruit and of course, plenty of ice. After you've prepared them, find the coolest spot on the porch, sink into the most comfortable chair, and start sipping!

Chilling fruit, juices, milk or beverages is of first importance in preparing your cool drink, but then you've probably already done this. If a survey were made during these summer months, I'm sure it would reveal that a larger percentage of the refrigerator is used for cool drink preparations than any other item.

One of the best bases for a good, cool drink is a citrus fruit. Doesn't it honestly cool you already to think of orange or lemon juice cool and frosty in a glass with tinkling ice? Indeed, it does. There's a scientific fact behind this, for scientists tell us that in hot weather the tissues of the body require more vitamin C than when temperatures are moderate. That's one reason why oranges and lemons are ideal for summer drinks.

If you want something to serve company on a summer evening, here's a drink that will fill any order:

Hollywood Parade.

(Serves 15)

- 1 pint orange juice
- 1 pint orange sherbet
- 1 pint vanilla ice cream
- 1 pint chilled ginger ale

Beat orange juice, sherbet and ice cream with a whirl type beater until well mixed. Add ginger ale. Stir and serve at once.

Another kind of orange drink which is nice to fix individually for yourself in the afternoon when you're feeling a lag is this:

*Orange Cream.

(Serves 1)

- 1 egg yolk
- 3/4 cup orange juice
- 3/4 cup thin cream or evaporated milk
- Sugar, if desired

Beat egg yolk until light, add orange juice and blend thoroughly. Pour into glass and stir in cream. Sweeten to taste. Serve at once. There are several delightful flavors obtainable in fruit powders that

The Score Card: Good news is in sight with the word that coffee supplies in the country are coming back to normal and present prospects point to an end of coffee rationing by the middle of August. Even the current period for rationing provides more coffee per stamp than has been allowed since rationing came into effect.

Those of you who are canning can get additional supplies of sugar with your stamps to make putting up fruit at home easier.

Fruits and vegetables are scarce this year because of lack of help to pick them, and therefore prices run high. If you possibly can, get in touch with anyone who has crops and offer to help with the picking and packing of them—and also to get your own fruits and vegetables for home canning in much better condition than would be possible if you waited for someone else to do the picking.

are simply delicious when made into cooling, frosty drinks. Use the directions on the package for mixing, garnish with a cherry and of spring of mint and you have a drink without the trouble of extracting fruit juice. Use the fruit powders also for making light sherbets that solve the dessert problem nicely.

Sherbet.

(Makes over 1 quart)

- 1 package flavored fruit powder
- 1 cup heavy cream, well chilled
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 cups milk

Dissolve fruit powder and sugar in milk. Turn into freezing tray and freeze 3/4 to 1 hour or until slushy. Whip cream until stiff. Add to first mixture and beat through until blended, keeping as cold as possible. Return quickly to freezing tray and freeze at coldest point. When frozen, set cold control back to normal.

The hotter the weather, the more wiled you become. Nothing quite picks you up as a nice salad, and even the thought of cool, crisp greens brings back the starch to your spirits. Here are some suggestions which are perfect for summer:

*Ham Supper Salad.

(Serves 4)

- 2 cups diced cooked ham
- 1 cup diced celery
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, diced
- 3/4 cup mayonnaise
- 1 1/2 teaspoons sweet pickle relish
- 1 1/2 teaspoons chili sauce
- Salad greens

Combine first three ingredients. Then stir in next three ingredients which have been combined together. Mix thoroughly and chill until ready to serve. Serve on any desired salad greens.

Summer Dream Salad.

- Watermelon balls
- Grapefruit sections
- Fresh whole raspberries
- Pineapple segments
- Orange sections
- Honeydew slices
- Blueberries
- Mint
- Salad dressing

Arrange fruit on a bed of salad greens according to a pattern. Serve with salad dressing and garnish with mint sprigs.

Salad Dressing.

- 2 tablespoons currant jelly
- 3/4 cup lemon juice
- 3/4 cup salad oil
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 2 tablespoons granulated sugar or honey
- 2 teaspoons chili sauce

Crush jelly with fork and beat smooth. Add remaining ingredients and beat with hand beater until blended. Serve over fruit salad or mixed greens.

Sandwich Hints

In making sandwiches, soften butter or margarine before using. Avoid melting butter or margarine as it seeps into bread and makes a greasy filling.

A good way is to mix 1/2 cup peanut butter, apple butter, or jelly with 1/4 cup of butter to extend the butter supply. This makes enough spread for 16 slices of enriched bread.

Varieties of fruit-nut bread, orange bread or cheese bread make a combination that really is a victory special. Wise use of enriched flour saves needed ration points.

If you have a canning problem, write to Lynn Chambers, Western Newspaper Union, 210 South Desplaines Street, Chicago, Ill. Please enclose a self-addressed envelope for your reply. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

It did have a bearing on rubber use—the close to 24 billion gallons of gasoline used by highway vehicles in 1941. California led the states with a mark on the edge of 2 billion gallons. These are numbers for the "A" card holder to conjure with.

Tires for our fighting aircraft consume from 35 to 96 pounds of rubber, depending on the size of the plane. Inner tubes take from 24 to 54 1/2 pounds.

School Lunch
Programs to Get Federal Aid

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 26.—Government assistance in operating community school lunch programs this year will be in the form of indemnity payments amounting to about 60 per cent of the cost of the food served, the A and M. College Extension Service has been notified. Local communities will contribute the remaining goods or services necessary to operation of the program, according to E. L. Upshaw, state representative of the Food Distribution Administration.

The school milk program will be combined with the lunch program. Additional indemnity payments of two cents per meal will be allowed when fluid milk is served, Mr. Upshaw says.

In carrying on the program, the Texas State Department of Education will cooperate with FDA in carrying out the program of government assistance to school lunch projects. Previously the FDA purchased food and distributed it through state agencies for use in school lunches. Now, the FDA says all of the food buying will be done by local sponsors of the program, and they will be reimbursed by the FDA up to a certain amount, depending on the type of lunch served.

Mr. Upshaw says funds available will not permit the FDA to approve applications for this help except in communities which cannot operate an adequate school lunch program without this financial assistance. Labor for the operation of the program must be furnished locally. In many communities, home demonstration club women or other groups have canned or otherwise preserved huge quantities of food for use in lunches during the coming school year.

Executive Board Votes for Continuance of Free
Lunches

The executive board of the Rockport Parent-Teacher Association decided at a meeting this week to continue the lunch room program at the schools during the 1943-44 term. This program will provide hot, nourishing lunches for children and without cost to those who are unable to pay.

The first regular meeting of the P.T.A. for the 1943-44 school term will be held Wednesday, Sept 1, at 4 p. m. at the high school auditorium, at which time it is expected that the members will ratify the plans of the executive board for continuing the lunch program.

"We would greatly appreciate hearing from anyone who is interested in being chairman of the lunch room program," Mrs. Chas. Garrett, president of the P.T.A. said. She pointed out that it was necessary to have a chairman in charge of the program who could act in a supervisory capacity.

Mrs. Garrett stated that it may be possible to secure valuable assistance this year from the home economics department of the school. The P.T.A. here has received a certificate from the Tenth District P.T.A. headquarters citing the local organization for "worthy achievement in war time activities" last year.

At the meeting Wednesday the members will vote on nominations for chairman of standing committees.

Officers of the P.T.A. here are Mrs. Garrett, president, Mrs. Ted Atwood, treasurer; Mrs. Elbert Mundine, secretary; Mrs. Hugh Morrison, corresponding secretary Mrs. H. B. Butler, program chairman; Mrs. L. W. Hunt, membership chairman; Mrs. Houston Ratliff, ways and means chairman; Mrs. Paul Dupuy, parliamentarian.

Miss Alene Fullerton of San Antonio spent a few days here this week visiting her aunt, Mrs. J. O. Blackwell and other relatives here.

Mrs. Floyd Smith

Bombers Not Suited For After War Freight Carriers

AUSTIN.—Bombers can't be converted into freight carriers when the war is over, a University of Texas transportation authority points out.

Both because of their construction design and their high cost of operations, bombers are unsuitable for carrying cargo, Dr. J. H. Frederick, University professor of transportation and industry, explains.

In a bomber, the ship is fitted around the load, carried in the center of the plane, and it is designed to release that load in flight.

signed to release that load in flight.

A cargo plane, on the other hand must be able to carry many kinds of freight of varying sizes and weights.

Heavy bombers contain much more expensive material than goes into cargo planes and have a high cost of operation, so that their commercial use would be impracticable Dr. Frederick said.

Most of the bombers in use during the war, he predicted, will be either worn out or kept in use by the government, with the few remaining ones scrapped and turned back into metal trades.

Bombers Not Suited For After War Freight Carriers

AUSTIN.—Bombers cant be converted into freight carriers when the war is over, a University of Texas transportation authority points out.

Both because of their construction design and their high cost of operations, bombers are unsuitable for carrying cargo, Dr. J. H. Frederick, University professor of transportation and industry, explains.

In a bomber, the ship is fitted around the load, carried in the center of the plane, and it is designed to release that load in flight.

signed to release that load in flight.

A cargo plane, on the other hand must be able to carry many kinds of freight of varying sizes and weights.

Heavy bombers contain much more expensive material than goes into cargo planes and have a high cost of operation, so that their commercial use would be impracticable Dr. Frederick said.

Most of the bombers in use during the war, he predicted, will be either worn out or kept in use by the government, with the few remaining ones scrapped and turned back into metal trades.

CARL HUBBELL brought out a neat point the other day. It was Carl's idea that too many good ball-players were left in the minors too long, and often were facing baseball's middle age before they were given a big league chance.

Carl Hubbell was born in Decatur, Ala., 35 years ago.

For the first eight years of his wanderings Sewell pitched for Nashville, Raleigh, Toronto, Beaumont, Detroit, Seattle, Toledo, Louisville and Buffalo. Rip was 30 years old before he reported to Pittsburgh, at an age of baseball servitude when most pitchers are supposed to be over the hill. Or at least facing in that general direction.

In spite of this late start Alabama Rip turned in 57 victories in four years for Pittsburgh up through 1942.

A year ago at the age of 34, Sewell won 17 games for the Pirates. Winning 17 games for the Pirates last season was no kindergarten work.

Late last winter in company with Frank Graham and Lou Little, we listened to Frank Frisch give out his sobbing notes.

The Fordham Flash that winter afternoon was in a low and melancholy state.

He was especially shy on pitchers. He admitted that Rip Sewell was smart and game, but at the age of 35, after so many pitching years, he wasn't to be compared to such men as Mort Cooper, Pollet, Vander Meer, Passeau, Riddle and many others.

But the snows of winter have given away to the blazing heat of late August.

And who is in front of the parade? A fellow by the name of Rip Sewell, the first pitcher in either league to win his 14th game, the first pitcher in either league to make it eight in a row.

As Mort Cooper of the Cardinals told me—"Rip is one of the smartest pitchers I ever saw. He can drive a nail with his control."

The Mystery
What we can't understand is why pitchers such as Carl Hubbell and Rip Sewell were allowed to drift around year after year before they were finally given a big league chance.

Carl Hubbell was a first class pitcher and a promising prospect in 1923 and it was 1928 before the Giants finally decided he might have something packed away in that left arm.

The same is true of Rip Sewell. There are any number of ballplayers today in minor leagues who are much better than any number of big leaguers.

One answer is that after the war there should be a new distribution of big league cities. To this list you can add such places as Los Angeles, Baltimore, San Francisco and Buffalo, all major sporting centers.

The major league situation was set up many years ago before centers of population and sporting interest took a big switch.

If the present setup is continued, there is almost certain to be a third major league.

There can be a large number of changes in the general sporting situation after this war is over.

Left Handed Golfers
In this mid-summer season it is easy enough to start an argument. Especially camp arguments. The latest one that has broken out, or rather has been renewed, is whether the right hander or the left hander has a better average in sport.

There are more right handers than left handers, so the former get the jump when it comes to quantity. The quality side can stand a brief debate.

Different games have different answers. For example, no left hander that I can recall has ever won a National Open or a National Amateur golf championship.

There are and have been good left handed golfers. But no Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Byron Nelson or Ben Hogan.

No one has been able to explain this peculiar side of golf. It just happens that way. You would think that once in a while, at least, a left handed golfer would slip in and nip off a big title.

It hasn't happened yet.

Baseball is entirely different. Here the proud southpaw can hold his own in either hitting or pitching. Championship tennis has known a few fine left handers. Heading the list is Norman Brookes of Australia. Then there was Murray.

Left handers in tennis nevertheless, have had a much better average than left handers in golf.

The course of the last 20 years have probably heard a different reasons why left handers win major championships make any sense.

WOMEN, ARISE!
Mrs. Elmer Twitchell is out with a demand for a Fifth Freedom. She wants Freedom From Returning Bottles.

"If there is one thing the women of America are sick of," she writes, "it is returning bottles. It is getting worse and worse every minute. Once upon a time it applied only to milk bottles, but today the Pay-a-Deposit-and-Return-the-Bottle nuisance has become epidemic. I have figured it out and I think two-thirds of a housewife's time is spent saving bottles, finding something to put them in and remembering to tote them back. It's awful."

"Aren't you exaggerating?" asked Elmer.

"No," insisted Mrs. Twitchell. "What do men know about it? When did you ever return a bottle? If we women left it to the men not a bottle would ever be taken back and the deposit reclaimed."

"Oh, I often take them back," argued Elmer.

"Twice in eight months, if I remember correctly," said the wife. "Everything from a demi-tasse pill bottle to a soda pop, beer and maraschino cherry bottle has to be carefully kept, stowed and then carted back. When I drive the flivver to the market it sounds as if a crockery store was moving and I was carrying two loads. It's a major job remembering what bottles go to which stores."

"And you should see the faces on the storekeepers when they see me coming in with empties. They've got troubles enough without checking my returns, and they show it."

"So what?" asked Elmer.

"So, how about arousing the women of America to a revolt or something? I'm starting a drive. I think I'll found an organization to be known as the American Women's League for Fewer Deposits on Bottles."

"Can I help?" asked Elmer.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Twitchell. "Take back those two baskets of empties down by the furnace. I've been trying to think of it for a week."

A candy magnate has bought the Blue Network for eight million dollars. And yet there are people who still go on insisting that all candy does to a fellow is to increase his weight.

Of all the thrills that come through purchases, the acquisition of a great radio chain must be close to tops. What sensations must come to a man as he plunks down a check and realizes all the power, prestige, influence, opportunity and fun he has bought, with all those commentators, quiz kids, masters of ceremonies and bazzoo players thrown in!

What emotions he must feel as he realizes that he has signed a check and that in return he owns all those time signals! All those theme songs! All those sound effects (particularly the hoofbeats)! All those mikes, amplifiers and gadgets!

Sue Denton sent in from New Rochelle a reminder of bygone days that should bring a sigh from all Americans. It is this note from a paper during the Cleveland administration:

"The tax of 2 per cent on incomes exceeding $4,000 was set aside today as unconstitutional."

Germans cannot understand how a ruler of a totalitarian state could resign like any minister in a democracy.—News item.

Two Million More Women Needed for War Plants; Twice That Number Ready, Says Census Survey

Must Replace Men At Lathes and Forges To Supply Armies

By ELLIOTT PINE
Released by Western Newspaper Union.
Nearly two million more women must be recruited for war jobs before the end of the year, says the war manpower commission. This is as many as entered industry in all of the twelve months between March, 1942, and March, 1943. In that period 1,900,000 women took over factory work of all sorts, as well as transportation and communications tasks that used to be considered exclusively men's fields.

These two million women will be found, along with 800,000 older men, handicapped workers and others not now employed, if vital production is not to lag in the victory phase of the great conflict, WMC officials warn. The nation has every confidence that women will come forward to man the machines.

According to census bureau surveys, there are about four million women available and willing to work, although these potential workers have only been registered in a few large cities. There are no doubt many thousands ready to help if they knew they were needed.

Women seem to be able to do almost any work that men can. Skeptics have had to admit, time after time, that they were wrong. For many years women have been employed in light factory work, like sorting parts, packing, dipping chocolates, canning vegetables, and so on, but whoever expected to see them in roundhouses, wiping locomotives, shoveling sand, or operating huge cranes and lathes in shipyards, or doing welding? Well, women are doing all these things, and doing them well. They have had to learn to use unfamiliar tools, and new ways of thinking and acting, and they have done it in a hurry.

It's in the heavy industries that the entrance of women is most startling. Figures show that during a one-year period employment of women in munitions increased 69 per cent, 36 per cent in steel making, 50 per cent in electrical manufacturing, 62 per cent in chemicals, 164 per cent in shipbuilding, 184 per cent in aircraft factories!

These huge increases were not in jobs generally called light. While there has been plenty of need for help in all the clerical and light factory lines, the real openings have been in the heavy mechanical trades. It stands to reason that with heavy metal construction multiplied many times by war demands, and millions of men going to war, there must be a great lack of technically trained employees. Women have been the answer in Europe and they have been the answer here. They have cheerfully gone to training schools, obeyed rigid shop discipline, worked long hours at hard and unaccustomed tasks, and earned high praise from hard-bitten executives. Despite worry about "absenteeism" in some quarters, women have not been away from their jobs unnecessarily, in most cases.

More Than 15 Million.
At the end of March, there were 15,200,000 women gainfully employed, according to Chairman McNutt of the War Manpower commission. Of these 14,100,000 were in non-agricultural work, so about a million were on farms. Of course, made. In fact, strength is becoming less and less important as machines take over the duties of muscles. Overhead cranes carry castings and other parts around from lathe to lathe, and shop trucks haul materials and tools about the huge plants. In really big factories, particularly in the aircraft industry, the workers ride about in busses.

Even with all these aids, war work is no "featherbed." In the shipbuilding yards, for instance, women do strenuous, dirty work, wearing cumbersome costumes for long hours. Forty-eight-hour weeks are common, and overtime is the rule some places that have been launching ships at unbelievable rates.

Get Same Pay As Men.
Women shipyard workers are paid the same scale as men for the same kind of work. The scale is quite attractive, too, but the work, as said before, is hard, and somewhat dangerous. Every shipyard maintains a plant hospital with doctors and nurses in constant attendance. Workers are urged to report every accident, no matter how trivial.

In the aircraft industry, too, many thousands of women are helping to turn out the 7,000 planes a month that are needed to smash the Axis. Airplane manufacturing requires people able to work to fine tolerances, to be amazingly accurate, and yet speedy. In the modern plane there are hundreds of operations necessary, and women are working at most of them. Except for a few highly technical jobs, where women have not yet been able to get in the years of experience necessary, they are doing everything from drafting to test-piloting. At the present pace, women will be able to make complete airplanes without any help from men!

This is a highly paid field, with much overtime work. Most women engaged in it have taken consider-

When Mrs. Winifred Tennill's husband was drafted, she took his place at this machine in a war plant in Ohio. She is shown pressing a button which started construction of the first airplane parts made in the plant.

Mothers, sisters, aunts, nieces, sweethearts, and even grandmothers are pitching in to see that their soldiers at the fighting fronts are not endangered through lack of ammunition because of a labor shortage at home. Here are four grandmothers working at the Port Newark yard of a shipbuilding company in New Jersey. War Manpower commission officials reported that from 1942 to 1943 women workers increased 1,900,000. A like number is needed by the end of the year.

able training before entering, and many have had some technical education in high school or college. There are comparatively few air-plant factories, and most of these are located near big cities, as Los Angeles, Detroit, and Chicago. Because it is such an attractive field, women have gone into it eagerly, and there is not so much demand for new workers here perhaps, as in

But it is the women in heavy industry who have come forward to fill the breach, somewhat to the joyous surprise of everyone. A sample list of the work women are doing is given by Laura Nelson Baker in "Wanted: Women in Industry." She says women are "Sewing uniforms and barrage balloons, assembling radio tubes, drafting, wiring assemblies for bombers, inspecting, making gas masks, riveting, welding, operating gear cutters, lathes, grinders, drill presses and saws. These are but a few of the well-paid jobs that women are taking over from men. Often they show men up by their efficiency."

Many times women have found better ways to do the operations men have been doing for years. There have been many improvements in working conditions put in for the benefit of women that will no doubt remain when men return to the factories. Some of the changes introduced are, according to Mrs. Baker:

"Safety devices, opportunities to change posture and position, machines at the right working height, and other provisions against fatigue are now in general practice. Steel jigs too heavy for women to lift were replaced with masonite jigs weighing less than one-tenth as much. Engineers put a new lever on a spinning lathe so it could be operated with 70 per cent less exertion than before."

So women are able to do things that used to require strength and endurance, by having a few changes

Women with technical educations are needed in research. Catherine Ferguson, a graduate of Northwestern university, where she majored in metallurgy, is assisting in the hunt for new alloys to replace strategic metals such as nickel and aluminum. She is shown beside a furnace in the laboratories of the General Electric company at Schenectady, N. Y., reading an electric pyrometer, or high temperature thermometer.

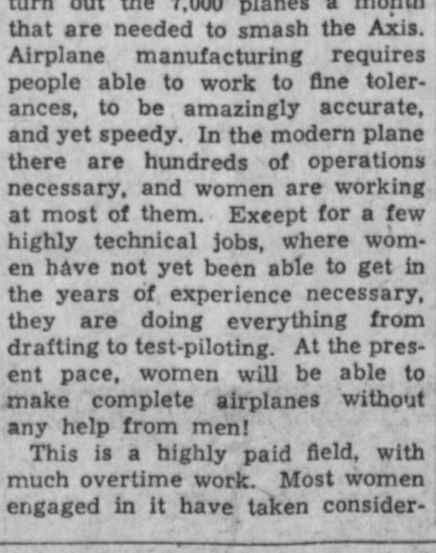

While manufacturing of planes, guns, tanks, and other weapons and equipment used directly in combat is holding the spotlight, there are thousands of other articles most important to the army and navy that are made by companies turning out their regular peacetime products. Army quartermaster corps officers say that they buy at least 18,000 articles in the open market, that is, the same goods that are made for civilian use. Women are needed to make all these things, both for servicemen and for civilians, who must live during wartime too.

Those women who are employed on farms are doing a most necessary job, of course. They should not be tempted to leave their food production to go to a factory. Food is a "munition," and is so recognized in military circles.

With all this change in the traditional role of women, however, social minded thinkers are pointing out alarming possible after-effects when the war ends. They ask whether women who have been earning high wages and have achieved a large measure of independence are going to be content to return to their homes and live on the comparatively lower standard that their husbands' income will provide? Or whether there will not be more friction than ever between married people, as wives who formerly worked at high rates become dissatisfied with the frequently drab task of maintaining a home and caring for children? Sociologists, clergymen, jurists and others interested in social welfare are perturbed about what may happen.

There is also grave concern voiced about the effects of the times on children of war workers. Mothers who are away from their children for long hours are not able to give them that care and affection that no agency can supply. Many children do not get even the inadequate supervision of playground directors, kindergartens or nurseries. The results of haphazard parental direction in formative years may be a serious matter, a few years hence.

But this is war, and war is always profoundly disturbing to the social fabric. More optimistic commentators believe that America can recover from these shocks and come out of the war with conspicuous gains. Having millions of women who can do skilled work is hardly a thing for any nation to deplore. New products will mean a higher standard of living and thereby better health and educational opportunities for all.

There is no need for despair in the heart of the one who deals with God. The missed opportunity for obedience and blessing may be gone forever, but God is still on the giving hand ready to meet the returning prodigal, ready to give beauty for ashes (Isa. 61:3) and to restore the years that the locust has destroyed (Joel 2:25). Amazing grace!

God is righteous, and cannot look with approval or in forgiveness upon sin until His mercy has been stirred and set free to act by repentance. Then He whose wrath is holy kindled against man's transgression shows Himself as the tender and gracious God, "keeping loving-kindness for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression—Numbers 14:18.

In the huge ammunition plants that have made the United States the "arsenal of democracy" women can be found in many capacities. This lady war worker is tapering shell cases for anti-tank guns at the Frankford arsenal in Philadelphia.

some of the less glamorous industries.

One of the latter is the chemical industry. Here the work is not so arduous as in the manufacture of ships or planes or tanks, but it is just as vital to the success of the war. The wage rate is not so high as in the metal working crafts and similar lines, but it is still very interesting.

Chemical workers generally need some training before starting in the plant, but high school chemistry is often sufficient background for one of the advanced positions. There is opportunity for after-war careers in this field, probably more than in most other lines.

Safety Pins Necessary, Too.

In the keeping of these commandments, Israel was assured of the blessing of God. As we pointed out last week, the real fulfillment of the law came in Jesus Christ, who did not set aside its requirements, but met them all, for all who believe in His name.

ISRAEL'S SIN AND RESTORATION

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 32:7-10; 34:9, 27, 28.
GOLDEN TEXT—"The Lord is long-suffering, and of great mercy, forgiving iniquity and transgression.—Numbers 14:18.

God is righteous, and cannot look with approval or in forgiveness upon sin until His mercy has been stirred and set free to act by repentance. Then He whose wrath is holy kindled against man's transgression shows Himself as the tender and gracious God, "keeping loving-kindness for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin."

This grace of God is fully revealed in Christ and the redemption which He brought to man, but is prefigured in the experiences of Israel under the law.

I. God's Wrath Kindled (Exod. 32:7-10).

There are those who would have us think of God as a benevolent old gentleman who is easily hoodwinked by clever sinners who can talk fast to cover their iniquity. Even if He does see it, He is supposed to be so tenderhearted that He overlooks their sin.

Such folk had better read these words, "That my wrath may wax hot." The wrath of God is a real and awful affection of the divine nature and it is revealed against man who sins against His holy law.

The special sin of Israel on this occasion was idolatry, which is the setting up of some material symbol to represent the invisible God. Moses had been with God in the mount for 40 days. He had been the Lord's representative in their midst. His presence had evidently been the chief stabilizing influence.

Having their eyes set on a man, or a material object to take His place, they had lost sight of the invisible God. So they proceeded to establish this idol which would provide a center of worship. At first it was evidently intended to remind them of God, but soon it led them out into heathen revelry (Exod. 32:6, 17, 18).

Whatever a man puts between himself and God, even though he may at first intend it to be but a reminder of God, will lead him away from God. Ritual, symbols, theology, scholarship, all good in their places, may become the idols which separate present-day man from God.

II. God's Mercy Invited (Exod. 34:9-11).

Aaron had only a weak "alibi" to offer. The golden calf had practically made itself (see Exod. 32:24). How quick man is to justify himself instead of admitting his guilt. No doubt our excuses sound just as silly as Aaron's in the ears of God.

Moses knew better. The sin was dealt with in drastic fashion. When one deals with a wild ravenous beast, there is one remedy—"shoot to kill." Not only were the leaders of the wickedness slain, but the ground gold of the calf image was put into water, which all Israel drank. Thus were they all marked as sharing the guilt of this idolatry.

There is a lesson here for us. America is far from God. We need to seek His face in repentance. But let us remember that we (that is, Christian men and women) are a part of America. It is our guilt, and we ought to be on our faces before God, pleading for God's mercy upon our land.

Moses was now ready to seek the Lord's mercy for his wayward people. He is the intercessor, the intermediary. God had a man who had compassion and love in his heart, and the Lord heard him. Loving-kindness and tender mercy flowed forth in place of flaming anger.

Note that God has not changed. He is the unchangeable One. His wrath is still hot against man's sin, but man has repented, and moved out of God's wrath into His love and grace. That too is always being shown to His obedient children.

III. God's Covenant Renewed (Exod. 34:27, 28).

Moses had broken the first tablets of commandments. The people had sinned and were not then ready to listen to any word from Jehovah. But now they were prepared to receive it, and God renewed the covenant as He again gave Moses the law.

Value of a painting often depends on whose nail it hangs from. None of these celebrities have played sauteville, so there is little danger that their little masterpieces are plagiarisms on the "Berle-Youngman-Jesse!" school. Here are some favorite jokes of famous people:

AL SMITH:
A citizen attended his first political jamboree. He wasn't there long before somebody copped his watch. He reported it to the district leader, who whispered: "Next to which guy was you standin' last?" Victim pointed to a fellow in the center. "Just don't say nothin' and it'll be O.K." In a few minutes the leader handed the watch over to its owner. "What did he say?" asked the grateful man. "Sh-h-h—quiet—he don't know I got it!"

MAYOR LA GUARDIA:

(Tells this one on himself)
Two Soviet representatives arrived at City Hall. Instead of the expected and accepted costumes of Stalinists, they wore high hats, etc. They looked at LaGuardia, in baggy everyday clothes, and all he could say was: "Gentlemen, I represent the Proletariat!"

FANNIE HURST:

A dapper fellow walked into a bakery and ordered a special cake: "I want it 55 inches in diameter—nine layers—seven colored frostings. In the center, I want my initials, R. N. I want it as soon as possible." "I'll have it for you in a week," was the answer. On the appointed day, he called, inspected the cake: "It isn't exactly the way I want it—change the yellow frosting to orchid." On the second inspection, the fellow was delighted: "Perfect—perfect." "Where shall I send it, sir?" "No place—I'll eat it here!"

BERNARD SHAW:

When Lionel Barrymore was scheduled to appear in "Macbeth," there was much doubt among New York ticket brokers whether to "buy in" before the opening. McBride was the leading broker. All the "specs" were on hand for the premier. Lionel floundered through the part. Then came the big moment—his shout "Lay on, MacDuff!" Came the answer, from the rear of the house: "Lay on, McBride!"

JIM FARLEY:

Joe Louis, in the Polo Grounds, finished an opponent in a few seconds of the first round. After the victim got in his dressing-room, he didn't say a word—he was still out. He dressed and his manager escorted him to the street. It was raining. The pug put out his hand and moaned: "Gee, this will hurt the gate receipts!" "Oh," cracked the manager, "I forgot to tell you—the fight was called off!"

JIMMY WALKER:

A hillbilly called on a girl for a year. Finally, her father flagged him: "Time I asked you something—are your intentions to my daughter honorable or dishonorable?" "You mean I have a choice?" queried the hillbilly.

ILKA CHASE:

A young radical refused to work. His old man let him have it: "Fine burn—why don't you go to work and make some money?" "Aha, I'm glad you brought that up. It'll come the revolution and we'll have a Utopia—we won't need the money!" "But why don't you go to work and make $50,000—when it comes the revolution, then you can help them with it." "Aha—suppose it don't come the revolution—then I'm stuck with $50,000."

MARC CONNOLLY:

When Caesar tried to take Ireland, he was repulsed by Clancy and Finnegan. Caesar returned with more legions—again was pushed back. Julius was now really mad. He gathered the full might of his armies and navies and started for Ireland again. This time, Clancy and Finnegan were careless. Sitting on a raft, they were surrounded, captured after a terrible struggle and brought to the Forum, as captives. Caesar threw the pair into the arena against 500 gladiators. Clancy and Finnegan mowed them down. Caesar burned. He ordered them to fight 2,000 lions. This day the crowd really turned out. As Caesar and his retinue entered the arena, Clancy pointed: "See that beautiful blonde with Caesar?" Well, this morning, she looked at me and—"Just then there was a mighty roar—"Sorry, Finnegan, here come the lions—I'll have to tell you the rest later!"

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT:

Ailing gentleman ambled into a doctor's office: "I'm having trouble with my eyesight and hearing." "Are you a drinking man?" "Yes, doctor." "That's it—stop drinking at once, report to me in a month." A month later he reported: "Doc, I still have trouble with my eyesight and hearing." "Did you stop drinking as I told you?" "Nope—what I've been drinking is so much better than what I've been seeing and hearing lately I decided to keep it up!"

Many Tax Laws Suggested To Get 'Nervous Dollars'

Compulsory Savings, Personal Excess Income Tax, Spending Levy Found Unpopular or Unwieldy; Orthodox Bill Seen.

As far back as biblical days, the tax collector was an unpopular person.

Today you don't see the tax collector but you know who writes the tax laws and the folks who do (congress) lead a most unhappy life, especially in an election year such as we are approaching.

The complicated problem they face can be simply stated—think it over and figure out what you would do if you had to write a tax law. The problem is this: how to collect the most dollars and lose the least votes.

Soak the rich? Well, they have the money and it hurts them the least, but unfortunately there are not enough of them to soak. It is too bad because they are so few in number that their votes don't matter so much. (Only 46,949 people or approximately one eight-hundredth of those with incomes earn over $10,000 a year.)

Tax the rest? That will bring in the biggest total but they are the ones with the votes.

The President says we need 106 billion dollars to run the war this year. The treasury says that out of every dollar collected, 90 cents goes to pay the war bills.

So there have been a number of schemes concocted which are aimed at getting the nervous dollars, the ones most likely to create inflation. Presumably they are the dollars that belong to the people who are now getting a lot more money than they did before the war. It would be just to take the "excess profits" to pay for the war especially because the people who are getting a lot more than they are used to are the ones who spend most freely.

So compulsory savings has been suggested. That is, making Uncle Sam collect a part of everybody's income, which would be returned after the war. Then there is a scheme to tax spending. In other words, tax the dollars which are spent on extras, dollars that get back into circulation and push up the inflation spiral. Not the dollars that go into homes or life insurance or paying old debts, but the dollars that romp off for more clothes than you need to wear, more food and drink than you need to absorb, more gadgets than you ought to get along with in wartime.

Then there is another tax—the personal excess income tax. That is a tax on the amount of money that you are receiving now that you weren't receiving before the war.

Lacking Popularity
None of these methods is popular. There is a sentimental objection to compulsory savings. It smacks, according to its opponents, too much of totalitarianism, of an interference with the individual's personal habits. The President is opposed to it—and his wife agrees with him—the treasury is opposed to it.

The spending tax is said to be too complicated and likewise appears to be unpopular with the treasury.

Then there is this personal excess income tax of which you will soon be hearing more. The chief objection to that tax seems to be that it is too hard to work out; that it is too hard to make it just and fair. Even the Nazis who tried it gave it up after about a year's trial.

When the personal excess income tax comes up, you will hear many arguments against it. Like many of these other "unorthodox" methods, it requires the establishment of what is called a "base period" to establish a comparison. That is, some period of time during which the amount earned by the individual is taken as a base. Then what he is making now is compared with that "base" and the difference taxed. But that is a pretty hard thing to work out because so many adjustments would have to be made for special cases that the government would never be able to examine each case and pass on it fairly.

Take the young doctor. The year before the war, he may have been graduated from medical school. Probably he had little or no income then. Then he begins to practice and in wartime, doctors are in demand. He may have made a fair income this year. Would it be fair to tax the "excess" if it were the difference between this year's earnings and the "base period" when he was earning nothing at all?

Too Many Inequities

Then there are many men who are getting more money now because they work longer hours or have received just and deserved promotions—all these things immediately come into the picture when you begin to straighten out the inequities, when you really try to tax a just percentage of a man's income.

And so the predictions which are being made in Washington now are that the next tax bill will be a pretty "orthodox" affair, it will simply have about the same kind of exemptions, a little higher percentage tax, and will be rushed through at the last minute after as many members of congress have objected to the clauses which they think will be unpopular with their constituents. The government needs the money and needs it quickly. The people don't want to be taxed any more than can be helped and the congressmen will lean over backwards trying to please the people.

Meanwhile, the treasury tells us that most of the money which is being earned due to the great increase in production caused by the war is going to people whose incomes are less than $5,000 a year—seven-eighths of it. So at least seven-eighths of the taxes ought to come from that group.

Transcribing Battle Noises
Real battle noises will soon be transcribed by American radio stations through a new sound recorder about to be used on many fronts, says Collier's. Operating on batteries and recording magnetically on a thin wire that runs for four hours without a reload, the machine registers the sounds of battle and a running description made on the spot by the news commentator who carries the device on his back.

Here, at Least, We Have A Man of His Word!

Jones looked coldly at his friend Smith. "A short time ago," he said, "I thought you never meant anything you said. Lately I have changed my mind."
"Oh," replied Smith, somewhat surprised, "and what caused you to change your opinion of me, may I ask?"
"You remember borrowing five dollars from me?"
"Yes."
"You said that if I lent it to you, you would be indebted to me forever."
"Yes."
"Well, you're keeping your word like a man."

2. What was the population of this country when Washington was President?
3. What is the approximate cost of training a U. S. pilot?
4. If it is 7 p. m. in New York, what time is it in San Francisco?
5. What is the average length of time spent by an American soldier at his meals?
6. What is the scuttle butt on a ship?
7. What is the largest army hospital in the United States?
8. What food crop exceeds all others in the world in tonnage production?
9. What is vellum?
10. How long does it take an American submarine to submerge?

The Answers

1. Jutland.
2. The population was 3,929,000.
3. For a trained pilot, $27,000.
4. It is 4 p. m.
5. The average length of time spent by an American soldier at his meals is 18 minutes at breakfast, 19 at dinner, 17 at supper.
6. A drinking fountain.
7. The Holleran General hospital on Staten Island occupying 383 acres, with 43 brick buildings, including auditorium, recreation hall, mess buildings and garages.
8. Potato.
9. A fine variety of parchment.
10. American submarines, when on the alert on the surface, can submerge entirely in 40 seconds, during which time the ballast tanks have to be opened and partly filled, the conning tower closed and all power connections switched over from the Diesel engines to the electric motors.

NO SUGAR NEEDED IN EASY-TO-MAKE ALL-BRAN MUFFINS

Here's an already favored recipe that's gaining new wartime fame... ALL-BRAN Muffins without sugar! See for yourself how the flavorsome crispness of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN gives these delicious muffins a texture and taste all their own!

Kellogg's All-Bran Muffins
2 tablespoons 1/2 cup milk
shortening 1 cup flour
1/2 cup corn syrup 1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg 2 1/2 teaspoons
1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran baking powder

Cream shortening and corn syrup thoroughly; add egg and beat well. Stir in All-Bran and milk, let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400° F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 8 large muffins, 3 inches in diameter, or 12 small muffins, 2 1/4 inches in diameter.

NITRAGIN INOCULATION

Don't let legumes rob your soil! When not inoculated, they steal fertility. When inoculated, they build up the soil and yield better.

Costs Only a Few Cents An Acre
Nitragin is the oldest, best-known inoculant—widely used by farmers in every locality for legume crops. NITRAGIN costs only a few cents an acre. Don't take a chance—inoculate every pound of legume seed.

An honorable discharge from the army during the present war will be signified by a lapel button, the war department has announced.

The British radio in a French-language youth hour broadcast to the continent declared: "Young men, gain time. If you avoid going to Germany today, perhaps you will never have to go."

The Nazi ministry of propaganda has ordered all literature about Benito Mussolini withdrawn from German libraries and bookshops especially those drawing a parallel between him and Adolf Hitler, the Russian Tass news agency said in quoting a report from Berlin reaching Geneva. The parallel did exceedingly little to help the cause of Hitler in his countrymen's eyes.

PILOTING--

can be opened readily for censorship. The contents should be packed tightly.
Perishable goods, such as fruits that may spoil, are prohibited.
Intoxicants, inflammable materials such as matches or lighter fluids, poisons, and anything that may damage other mail also are prohibited. Gifts enclosed in glass should be substantially packed to avoid breakage. Sharp instruments such as razors and knives, must have their edges and points protected so that they cannot cut through the coverings and injure postal personnel or damage other packages.
Since the armed forces are being plentifully supplied with food and clothing, the Army and Navy recommend against these as gifts.
Addresses must be written clearly and completely. In addition to the return address of the sender, a parcel for an Army man should show the name, rank, Army serial number, branch of service, organization, Army post office number, and name of post office through which the parcel is routed. A typical address for an Army man: Pvt. John R. Doe (Army Serial No) Company F, 167th Infantry A.P.O. 810, c/o Postmaster
The address on a parcel for a Navy man should include the name and rank or rating of the addressee, the Naval unit to which he is assigned and the Navy number assigned thereto, or the name of his ship, and the fleet post office through which the parcel is routed. A typical Navy address: John M. Jones, Seaman first class, U. S. Navy Naval Air Station Navy 199 (one nine nine) care Fleet post office San Francisco, Calif.
or: Lt. Roger W. Doe, U.S. Navy U.S.S. Minnesota, Care Fleet Post Office San Francisco, Calif.

Seabees Recruiters In Corpus Christi Next Saturday

Lieut. (jg) A. T. Gaffney, rating officer, and Dr. Ross D. Margraves, medical examining officer, will return to Corpus Christi, Texas, Saturday, August 28, 1943. The entire day will be devoted to rating and examining men who are qualified for Petty Officer ratings in the Navy Construction Battalions, "Seabees."
Construction men, mechanics and cooks if interested in enlisting in the Seabees should secure three (3) letters of recommendations and bring them to the Navy Recruiting Office, Federal Building, Corpus, Texas for an interview.
For the present time quotas have been lifted on all ratings in the Seabees and men are urged to take advantage of that fact immediately.
Men between the ages of 18 and 38 enter the Seabees through voluntary induction and men from 38 to 50 1/2 years can volunteer for enlistment.
I suppose they were among those. Quite a number died of exposure on the rafts. I suppose the only thing that saved me was the heavy clothes I had on. That was a big help even if it was wet. Two more hours would have seen every man on the raft dead.
This is enough for now. It is all a bad memory. I lost everything, but have accumulated everything I need to get along by buying an article here and there. My equipment of course, was reissued upon arrival.
I know this will be a surprise to you but there's no use of worrying about it now and I don't think it will happen again. A lot of men have gone through the same thing.
Good night for now. Write soon.
Your loving son,
Vernon

KELLER --

after 4 o'clock and it was dark as pitch. It was a good thing I had pulled a lot of guard because I knew the ship's decks by heart. Anyway I knew where all the extra rafts were so I made for them but to find them gone but one old one that was laying on deck. A group of us threw it overboard and jumped on. By that time the waves were coming over the decks about knee deep and everybody was getting scared. All jumped but that could get on—22 in all. But then our troubles had just started. I was too frightened to notice the cold water at first but the water was rough and the raft was so weighted down that we were all sitting in water, some on each other's legs with not enough room to move.
Occasionally, the waves would break just as the raft was on top of the wave and would drench everyone. Each time I thought the raft would turn over but luck was with us there. Later I learned that a couple of my buddies did overturn. About 5 out of 15 were saved. I am glad of the experience I had had with boats.
When the men would shift so that the raft was listing dangerously, I would, with some persuasion, get them to shift and level it. By daylight, one man was dead. A second lieutenant in the Marine Corps.
It must have been around 2 o'clock in the afternoon when the rescue ship picked us up. We had been watching it for about 3 miserable and tense hours. It would start toward us and then stop and drift while. It was evidently picking up other survivors but we didn't know at the time.
That was the most welcome sight I have ever seen when it's bow came abreast of us and lines were thrown to us. By then 2 more had died and 2 more almost dead. They were completely out of their minds
