

Along The Waterfront

Mills Wharf reports that fishing hasn't been too good lately although there have been quite a few redfish caught by people who waded out from the shore in Copano Bay or off the shores of Goose Island.

Harry Mills took R. A. Deebles of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, and H. H. Roberts of Fulton fishing Friday and they brought back 31 trout, 27 redfish and 10 drums.

Edward A. Martin, Emit Albright, Walter Bluntzer, all of Goliad, C. C. Dickerson, Jack Haymaker, John T. Langley, and L. J. Bateman, all of San Antonio, went out with Harry and Herbert Mills on the "Fisherman" and the "Sonata" and caught 45 redfish, 7 trout and 7 drums last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Farmer and Jack Lawler of Lamar went out with Herbert Mills and caught 50 redfish and trout.

The "Fisherman" has been launched and is back in operation as a party fishing boat at Mills Wharf, after receiving a general repair job and new paint. She is now white with green deck and top.

Clyde Armstrong recently purchased a 31-foot cabin cruiser.

Capt. H. M. Howard, of Corpus Christi, stopped over night on his way to New Orleans, La. His boat the Lorene was docked in the Yacht Basin. The skipper, Henry LeFores is a former Rockport skipper.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Weltens, R. San Antonio, are spending a week at Palm Courts. Mr. Weltens is Collection Manager for the San Antonio Light and comes to Rockport at regular intervals to enjoy the fishing in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Weltens, R. A. Reinarz and Fred Botz went out with Shorty Townsend on Tuesday and again on Wednesday and brought in a total of about 170 pounds of trout and redfish for the two days. They caught 117 trout and reds Tuesday and 170 on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Fauer and eight year old daughter went out with Shorty Townsend Saturday and caught 67 trout that weighed about 50 pounds. They are from San Antonio.

Rockport To Meet Strong Ingleside Team Friday Night On Pirate Field For Crucial Conference Test

Water Soaked Field To Even Chance Of Both Teams Friday

The Rockport Pirates will be out against stiff opposition for the first time since meeting Refugio when they come up against the Ingleside Mustangs Friday night on Pirate Field here in Rockport.

Ingleside is undefeated so far this season, although they were tied by Taft last week. Taft looked pretty strong in holding the Mustangs to a six to six score and playing them for first downs by eleven to five. Rockport gets the nod for the game due to the fact that they have won games by a much wider margin from opponents that later met Mustangs than did the Ingleside team.

Woodshoro fell before Ingleside to a score of 14 to 0, while Aransas Pass lost to them by a score of 13 to 6. Rockport defeated Woodshoro 28 to 0 in an easy contest and Aransas Pass 32 to 6 in a game that was very one sided. In comparative statistics, Rockport looks to be a pretty heavy favorite; however, with more rain on the field this week the teams should come out much more even than comparative figures would indicate. The Mustangs have a mighty fine mud runner in Bobby Walker who has scored against Woodshoro, Aransas Pass, and Taft in some long runs on a muddy field.

The Pirates have played to capacity crowds at all their home games this year and another large crowd is expected for this game therefore, fans are urged to come early to assure themselves of good seats.

Claesson and Cope first became acquainted when they were assigned to the same Army Photographic outfit in North Africa, and it was at Cope's invitation that Claesson has moved to Rockport.

The Commissioners stated that more rains have delayed the project further, but that it will be done as soon as possible.

Court To Determine Right To Lease The Property Nov. 6th

In District Court last Monday, Denver Agler and his wife were temporarily enjoined from erecting their proposed building at the corner of Austin and Cornwall Streets for a sandwich and coffee shop. The Aransas County Navigation District Number One was also named as a defendant to the suit and was enjoined from erecting any building on the site.

The injunction hearing came up when Attorney Joe Caldwell, representing Norvel F. Jackson and James B. Jackson, contested the right of the Navigation District to lease property which he stated had been decided to the District as a public right of way by S. F. Jackson in February of 1936.

Denver Agler and his wife and the Aransas County Navigation District No. 1 notified the Court of their exception to the ruling and filed notice of appeal to the Court of Civil Appeals, Fourth Judicial District of Texas.

This injunction will be in effect until the case is tried on the 6th and 7th of November in Rockport as to whether the Navigation District has the right to lease this property.

The Navigation District requested that the attorney for the plaintiffs agree to except part of this property from the provisions of the injunction for the purpose of paying it. They did not get together on this proposal; therefore the commissioners stated that part of this property by the basin will not be paved until after the trial.

FD Plans Trip To Woodsboro; Room For Recreation

The Volunteer Fire Department in its meeting last Thursday night with the Aransas County Emergency Corps brought up the subject of the Woodsboro Fire Department's anniversary celebration and decided to send a team of ten men to compete in the various contests to be held.

They also requested approval of the Emergency Corps for their plans to fix up the recreation room at the Fire Station for the members in good standing of both the Fire Department and the Emergency Corps, which were approved. The problem of obtaining the necessary games and equipment was turned over to the publicity committee, and will include a ping pong table and pool table if they can be obtained at a reasonable price.

Chief Lloyd Lassiter moved that the Department express its appreciation to K. Theodore for his fish dinner to benefit the Department and to all others who assisted Mr. Theodore in that project. This was approved unanimously.

Fire Department Extends Its Appreciation

The Rockport Volunteer Fire Department at its meeting last Thursday night voted to go on record as expressing its most hearty appreciation to K. Theodore for his most generous effort in their behalf when he put on the fish dinner for the Department. They asked that the secretary, Miss Iris Sorenson write a letter expressing their thanks to Mr. Theodore.

They also asked that Marvin Davis and Jack Davis be given recognition for their help in furnishing the shrimp for the dinner, as they were omitted from the article in the Pilot last week.

The funds that were taken in were sufficient to have the old truck repaired with some balance to be used later for new equipment or for other repairs that may be necessary. This pleased the firemen very much and they were happy to know that the people of Rockport are such good supporters of the Department.

Sullivan To Drill Test Well On L. M. Bracht Estate Two Miles North Of Causeway On Highway 35

Harry Traylor announced Friday that there will be a test well drilled on a location on the L. M. Bracht estate about two miles north of the causeway and about 800 feet west of the highway within the next few days by John L. Sullivan, a well known independent operator from San Antonio and Kerrville.

Traylor and O. K. Crowe of Corpus Christi have blocked off about four thousand acres of land around this test area which include in addition to the Bracht estate, the Vineyard, Preston Paul and Edwards estates. They then sold their leases to J. V. Calvert of Corpus Christi who was representing Sullivan.

The drilling contract calls for an 8500 foot test to be drilled within the next thirty days; however, equipment is being moved in and the drilling is expected to start sometime this week. Traylor is very optimistic about the new test and says, "If we get an oil well or a good gasser, it will be a mighty fine thing for Rockport and all of Aransas County because it will bring a great deal of revenue, employment and new business to the County."

Saturday, October 12, the property owners of Rockport and Estes will go to the polls to determine whether the two schools will be consolidated.

The Rockport School Board has asked that every eligible voter get out to the polls to express their opinion, whether it be for or against consolidation. However, the board expressed the hope that this merger would be effected because of the many advantages to the citizens of both communities.

Both communities would benefit from the better equipment that can be furnished and from having more money to pay teachers salaries. Estes would have better education facilities, and more and better extra-curricular activities.

If the election fails to carry in the Estes district this does not mean that the Estes district will be compelled to establish a school at Estes. This is only an appeal by the Rockport Independent School District for help in solving financial difficulties caused by the rapid rise in prices of every product and commodity.

The carrying of the election does mean that the Estes district will have separate transportation instead of the present facilities with one bus serving two routes.

Voting places will be the Estes School in the Estes community and the Main Building on the grounds of the Rockport School.

The polls open at 8 a. m. and close at 6 p. m.

Election Judges for the election will be Miss Violet Percival for Rockport and Joe Kring for Estes. They were appointed by the County Judge.

WHAT ABOUT TEACHERS IN ROCKPORT?

For so long a time that it seems like ages the teachers of the state and nation have waited in vain for the "people" of the United States to awaken to the fact that they are human beings, that it takes just as much for them to live as it does other human beings, that they like to be treated just as normally as other human beings, that the idea of "9 to 4" and everything closes at the school is just a way of saying that we don't think teachers would be teaching if they could do anything else; therefore, we won't pay them very well; that they have emotions, feelings, and all of the other likes and dislikes of human nature, and that they primarily only want the encouragement of the parents themselves and equitable living income for their sustenance.

While the ditch-digger, the farmer, the machinist, the druggist, the doctor, the business man of other forms, are talking in terms of thousands of dollars, the teacher is still talking in terms of cents. Why? Why should they never be allowed to live a life outside the school which is one of their own; why should they be suffocated financially because the people howl when the evaluations or taxes for school purposes are raised; why do they place the dollar mark in front of the child and say, "Your life isn't worth raising taxes on my property, because you'll get along without raising taxes so them there old teachers can get more money than I am making." Why do parents cheat their children of the right to the kind of an education they deserve? WHY?

One can walk down the main street of our town and enter into a discussion of the teacher situation in Rockport, and one will say, "My, my, what is the school coming to, anyway! Of course, they are under paid, but their loyalty to the profession should keep them going a mighty long time. Besides, they are getting more than my pension is bringing me. What are the teachers hollering about? They are all well off and don't know it. Anyway, it won't be long before they'll want a job at half the salary, because things just can't stay this way much longer." Everyone who even takes the time to discuss it (or who even dares stoop so low) will admit that teachers are very, very underpaid, and "I wouldn't teach school for a thousand dollars a month," is what most of them wind up by saying.

Just what can Rockport do about this situation? Well, there are several things we can do about all of the above mentioned conditions, things that are not hard to do, things that are easy and take a small amount of time. First, all can get to know the teachers, personally. Second, we can agitate among ourselves for higher evaluations in order to obtain the best trained teachers in Texas; third, we can write our Congressman to fight for everything that means federal aid to schools in this sparsely settled region, guaranteeing every teacher here who is qualified at least $3,500.00 per year with the possibility of permitting him to earn $5,000.00 per year during his useful career. These things we can do, but like most everything else done in Rockport, we probably won't do it; we'll just sit down and wait for 'John do it'. If for just once the teachers are given their rightful place in the community, if for just once they are paid adequately for the all-important job which we expect them to do for our children, if for just once we treat them as we do others, then we might be able to stop the still growing exodus from our schools and class rooms.

The following figures on the finances of the Rockport Schools shows the amounts the schools receive and who pays it and was taken from the First National Bank School Depository Report for 1946:

State (available fund)	$17,453.40
State (equalized fund)	6,186.00
Interest & Sinking Fund (Local)	7,280.00
Local Taxes	11,470.54
Transfers	2,000.00
Total	$44,389.94

Of this amount the state itself is paying $23,639.40, while the local community is paying $18,750.00. Our school salary schedule (as set by the state—not locally) amounts to well over $30,000.00 which pays on the average for all teachers around $1300.00. What individual wants to live and will live on $13,000 whether he be school teacher or a ditch digger?

Every year for the past four years, except this one, teachers salaries have been raised, but the cost of living has risen so drastically that the increase of an already below standard salary does not take care of the teacher and her living expenses. Stable boys at the Hialeah Park, Florida, make $2600.00 per year for cleaning out the stables and they work six hours per day, five days a week.

Do we citizens of Rockport wish to intrust the education of our children to the inferior teachers because better salaries in other fields are draining off the competent well trained teachers?

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS No Tax Reduction in Sight as U. S. Uses Funds to Cut Debt; Foreign Relief to Continue

Released by Western Newspaper Union

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

GREECE: Civil Strife

King George II of Greece faced no happy return to his homeland as open civil war raged in the mountainous northwestern border region and the Red-dominated Albanian and Yugoslav governments were charged with actively aiding the rebels.

Premier Constantin Tsaldaris bluntly attributed the strife to Russian efforts to tighten their grip on the Near East. Said he: "It is as clear as noon-day that this is... for the benefit of those who aim to take advantage of our troubles from a view of securing an outlet to the Aegean sea."

NATIONAL DEBT: Being Cut

With reduction of the huge national debt one of the administration's primary goals, the U. S. can expect no immediate slash in taxes, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder told the American Bankers association meeting in Chicago.

Next to debt reduction, Snyder declared the administration's second primary fiscal objective was a balanced budget. With the present level of taxes, the government actually will have a cash surplus of almost three billion dollars for the present fiscal year, but the accrediting of terminal leave bonds and other items payable in the future to the current budget will produce a paper deficit of two billion dollars.

FOREIGN RELIEF: To Continue

End of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration does not portend termination of American relief to war-ravaged European countries, President Truman told congress in a report on operations of UNRRA for the second quarter of 1946.

LABOR: Defy Injunction

Always jealous of its right to strike to enforce wage and other demands, organized labor presented a united front against a county court's anti-strike injunction against the Independent Association of Employees of Duquesne Light company in Pittsburgh, Pa.

In issuing the injunction, the three-judge court heeded the city solicitor's plea to act in the public interest in preventing a costly power strike. Though the order later was dissolved when the solicitor declared that it had served to force a resumption of bargaining between the disputants, IAE members remained adamant about returning to work as long as it stayed in effect.

Apprehensive of the no-strike and no-picketing features of the injunction, AFL and CIO unions supported the IAE walkout. Labor charged that the court order was in violation of both the state and federal anti-injunction laws and there was no law requiring men to work against their wish.

Truckers Idle

Trucks remained idle in New York City and pickets patrolled ferry, bridge and tunnel approaches to prevent admission of motor freight as big operators continued to hold out against AFL teamsters demands.

While smaller employers agreed to a proposal to pay the teamsters $71.40 for a 40-hour week instead of the old $64 for a 44-hour week, the big firms held fast to their offer for a $3-a-week raise. They claimed 75 per cent of the trucks remained off the street and 10,000 men were idle.

Five New Jersey teamster locals co-operated with the embattled New York strikers in stopping freight movements into the city. Union stewards sought to tie up freight at starting points while pickets took up stations along strategic entrances into New York to guard against trucks slipping through.

ROCKPORT Five Years Ago
Mills Wharf was the scene of a Chamber of Commerce banquet Wednesday night. Navy officers and officials of the Westgard-Rice Bros. Company were guests Wednesday night of the Rockport Chamber of Commerce at an annual banquet held at Mills Wharf. More than half a hundred members were present to enjoy the banquet and program presided over by Edward Barnard, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

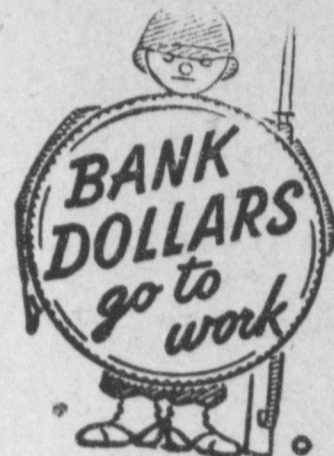

Mrs. Clarke Rooke was hostess last Thursday afternoon to the Women's Society for Christian Service of the Methodist Church and was assisted by Mrs. Leonard Roberts, who was co-hostess.

A dozen or more members of the Rockport Fire Department will go to Sinton Sunday to attend the last quarterly meeting of the South Central District Firemen's Association for this year.

Chief Francis Smith said that a Rockport team will be entered in the pumper contests.

A Chamber of Commerce plan to acquaint the people of many sections of Texas and the United States with the outstanding facilities offered vacationists at Rockport and all along Live Oak and Lamar Peninsula has been formulated by the advertising committee. The committee adopted a budget of $800.00 to cover the minimum expense of the 1941-41 advertising campaign, pointing out that additional funds could be used advantageously.

It is almost impossible to find a person 40 years of age, man or woman, who has perfect sight.

FEATURED SPEAKER

Houston, Tex., — Russell B. Brown of Washington, general counsel of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, will be a featured speaker at the Victory Meeting of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association.

Russel B. Brown

Oct. 17 and 18 in Houston, President Fred W. Shield of the Texas Mid-Continent announced.

Mr. Brown will address the opening convention session Thursday morning, Oct. 17, on "A National Oil Policy," discussing the important place of the petroleum industry in re-establishment of national peacetime activities.

"Mr. Brown is one of the best-informed leaders in our industry," Mr. Shield said. "His long representation in Washington of the Independent Petroleum Association and his familiarity with all phases of the industry's operations make him particularly fitted to discuss this subject."

The 1946 meeting of the Texas Mid-Continent, to be held at the Rice Hotel, will be the first general gathering of the state's oil and gas operators since 1943.

CORRECTION

The Pilot regrets that in its story of the Aransas Butane Gas Company last week it inadvertently stated that Fred Wolf and Noah Taylor have purchased the company from W. L. Mikeal and W. H. Taylor.

This statement was incorrect insofar as it related to W. H. Taylor. The article should have stated that Fred Wolf and Noah Taylor had purchased W. L. Mikeal's interest in the company since W. H. Taylor retained his interest.

Singing Convention At Fulton Was Well Attended

The Aransas County Convention Class held its regular monthly singing convention last Sunday at the Independent Church in Fulton and had visitors from a number of places.

A local quartette composed of Joe Smith, Guy Epps, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cunningham gave a mighty fine performance. Also there was a quartette from Corpus Christi which everyone thought was very good.

This convention is held on the first Sunday in each month at the Fulton church and everyone is invited to attend.

Officers of the Aransas County Convention Class are President, Bob Cunningham; Vice President, Joe Smith; Secretary, Mr. Tatum; and Reporter, Mrs. Valley Cole.

TREASURE OF THE SEA

BY George E. Walsh WNU Release

THE STORY THUS FAR: Dick Jordan, survivor of a steamer bound from South America to the United States, comes upon a drifting schooner. Only others aboard are the demented captain, and his daughter, Rose. A crew of pirates under Tucu attack the vessel, but after a fruitless search for treasure they leave because a storm is brewing. Captain Bedford recovers and they sail the schooner to an island. There Dick discovers that Tucu and his crew are on the other side battling a group of white men. Dick sees some automatics at the ship and returns. The white men rout the black pirates. Dick saves Pettigrew from Tucu, but endangers himself.

CHAPTER XI

Dick tripped on a stone. With an exultant animal cry, the half-breed took advantage of the accident. Dick made a fruitless effort to wriggle away from him; but the uplifted knife followed until it was poised directly over his throat.

The near report of a gun did not seem to be connected with his danger, and its echo in his ears made no appreciable impression on his mind. Even when the giant half-breed shivered, and began to topple over, he could not associate the act with the pistol crash. But the knife did not descend. It dropped from the nerveless hand of the Carib and fell with a thud to the beach.

Tucu, like a giant forest tree whose base had been shattered by lightning, swayed a moment uncertainly and then without a moan or sigh fell with a crash, sprawling on top of his adversary and pinning him to the ground.

"Dick! Dick, are you hurt?" Out of the strange apathy that had numbed his mind, Dick heard the voice, and came to his senses as Rose rushed to his side. She grasped his shoulders and pulled him from under the inert body of the dead half-breed.

"Are you hurt?" she repeated anxiously. He smiled and shook his head, his eyes on her as if unable to comprehend. "I was afraid I'd be too late," she murmured, tears close to the surface. "Or miss him."

"You shot him?" he asked in a dazed voice. "Yes"—shuddering and turning away from Tucu—"I had to, or he'd killed you."

In the excitement of the conflict and the relief that followed their deliverance from Tucu, neither Dick nor Rose noticed Hen Pettigrew, who had watched the proceedings at close range, and who now sat staring at them in evident surprise and bewilderment.

How Dick's Ruse Made Complications Dick sat up and faced the situation bravely. In saving Hen's life, he had unwittingly made his own exposure a certainty. There was no need for further subterfuge; Rose would have to know all.

"I was lucky," he replied, "but not the rest. They were all lost. I clung to a raft for days and nights until Tucu here picked me up on the lugger, and then—"

He glanced at Rose, and added: "Ask her. She'll tell you the rest." But Rose's sympathy for Pettigrew was unexpectedly aroused to action. Hen's strength, that had been restored for a time by the excitement, showed signs of waning; he grew deadly pale, and began sinking rapidly. His eyes closed and the head sagged forward until it touched the ground.

"Oh!" she exclaimed, jumping to her feet. "He's dying! We must get help, Dick."

ed to rob them of what few possessions they had carried away from the steamer, and when they objected the inevitable conflict had been precipitated.

"He had a crazy idea we knew something about smuggled jewels that he said were aboard the steamer," Hen Pettigrew explained later. "Don't know where he got the idea. Must have dreamt it."

"No," replied Dick, smiling. "I told him."

Hen and the others looked at him inquiringly. Dick chuckled ruefully at the thought of how his ruse had complicated the situation so that others, perfectly innocent of any attempt at deception, had been drawn into the net.

His invention had nearly cost the lives of a dozen men including that of his old enemy, and for a moment he grew grave and serious; then, recalling the various sequences of events that had ended so satisfactorily, he laughed again.

"I guess, after all, that was the best story I ever invented," he added. "Anyway, it seems to have worked."

Briefly as he could he outlined this part of his adventure. The others listened and nodded their heads with grinning approval. When he was through Hen glanced keenly at him.

"I could almost believe you were a smuggler, Jordan, if I didn't know you weren't."

Dick flushed. "Perhaps I am," he retorted challengingly. "How do you know I'm not? You know my record."

"Yes," slowly, "I know your record." The sudden gravity of their faces, and the challenging light in their eyes, disturbed Rose, who glanced from one to the other. She began suddenly to distrust the man they had saved.

"Dick's record," she said slowly, thrusting an arm into one of his, "is clean. Whatever it might have been in the past, it's been wiped out now."

There was a silent pause, an awkward period in which the two men exchanged glances that none of the others could interpret; but there was evident hostility between them based upon something in the past. Rose pulled Dick gently away.

"Come. There's so much to do. We must help the wounded, even if they are Caribs and our enemies."

Captain Bedford had already assumed charge of the situation, and the seamen willingly took orders from him. The dead Caribs were buried on the beach, and the wounded cared for. Then with the small boats they made a visit to the lugger, which had been rolling lazily at anchor in the cove.

Captain Bedford overhauled the craft, and finally sniffed his scorn. "She ain't worth sailin' into port. She's a stinkin' hulk that ought to have gone to the bottom long ago. We'll leave her."

"But, Cap'n," protested one of the seamen, "she's good enough to carry us home. We ain't figgerin' on staying here longer'n we have to. We're a bit homesick."

"Sure!" was the grinning retort. "But the Betty's worth a dozen sich luggers. I figger we can patch her up in less'n a week an' sail home. We'll have a full crew now. Wait'll ye see her."

A visit to the Betty on the opposite side of the island put new heart in the castaways, and under Captain Bedford's direction they began to work cleaning up the decks and restoring the schooner to her old-time condition. The lugger was used to tow her around the island where, anchored in the quiet cove, repairs could be made without fear of another storm wrecking her.

"Then why'd you save my life? Tucu had me."

"Yes, but I had to get Tucu," Dick replied. "I wanted to settle an old score with him. I guess that was it."

"And leave the score with me open?" smiled Hen. Then frowning, he added: "Jordan, you got me guessing at times. You're a contradiction in character—weak and strong, simple or foolish and shrewd, brave in some things and cowardly—"

Dick's hand clenched. "If you think I'm surrendering because I'm afraid of you, Hen," he began truculently, "get it out of your mind. I—"

"There you go again—off on a tangent," was the quiet interruption. "Now, listen!" he added, raising a hand. "I'll prove to you that I'm right. I'll make an even bet you'll contradict any reasonable man's guess what you'd do under the circumstances. I'll put you to the test."

He paused an instant, his eyes twinkling with amusement. "Jordan, you can have your choice of returning with me to answer that old charge, or going scot free. No, you won't be hounded by the law. I'll report you went down with the City of Bahia. That will close the case. Your name will be eliminated from our books. You'll be a free man to choose your own life."

"You mean—" stammered Dick, his eyes lighting with hope. He stopped and glanced from his old enemy to Rose. Her face and eyes were strangely noncommittal. He would have his freedom, able to look every man fearlessly in the eye, and not dream of nights that the shadow of the law was pursuing and ready to close about him. A great burden slipped from his mind.

"I—" he muttered, beginning again, and stopping abruptly. Rose would not have a part with him in that new life of freedom; he would lose her either way. He turned suddenly to Hen, his mind made up.

"I hate to disappoint you on that bet with yourself, Hen," he said easily, grinning, "but I'll go with you. I said I would, and I haven't changed my mind."

"Consider carefully, Jordan," warned the other. "If you can't prove your innocence of that theft it means five years for you."

"Sure! Don't I know that?" "You believe you can prove your innocence?"

"No! If I had I'd never have run away." "You were guilty?"

"Hell! No! I've told you that a thousand times." "Then why'd you leave? Didn't you know that would brand you as a criminal?"

"That's final?" Dick nodded and turned his face to the window. He was not aware that either of the others had moved until a hand touched his arm. He swung around, and found himself alone in the cabin with Rose.

"Dick," she said softly, "I know all about it. Mr. Pettigrew told me—told me more than he's told you. There is a chance if you go back. New evidences have been discovered, he says, and he doesn't believe you're guilty. With a good lawyer now, you can establish your innocence, and—"

"Rose," he replied, smiling gently into her upturned face. "there's no money to pay for a good lawyer—or any other kind of lawyer. I have nothing. I didn't decide to go back with Hen because I thought there was a chance of clearing my name. There isn't a chance! I'm going—going—"

"Why?" she asked when he paused. "Because—because—of you!" Her face flushed with happiness and shy emotion.

"Then we'll go together," she breathed softly. "No!" he answered sharply. "I didn't mean that. I won't drag you into it. If I did I'd despise myself. I love you too much for that, Rose, and you know it."

Memos to All Editors

The anti-Roosevelts are using this: A Republican (Chicago) paper's reporter asked Bob Hannegan: "Who'll be your candidate in '48—Truman?"

"Nope," Hannegan replied (don't forget this is an alleged joke), "not strong enough. The public apparently no like."

"Could it be Wallace?" pumped the reporter. "Hell, no! Can't take chances with him. They think he's a Red."

"Well," said the scribe, "if it ain't Truman or Wallace, who do you think it might be?"

"Oh," said Hannegan, "I dunno! There's plenty of time. We'll dig up someone."

"Oh, NO!" roared the Republican, "not HIM!"

Prof. Manne Siegbahn's trip here is for several counts with Einstein. He's Sweden's top atom man (collaborer of Lise Meitner). . . . The influential members on Eisenhower's staff are for "complete remobilization."

Dr. Paul Scheffer (see clips in morgue) was once chief of nazi spy ring in Russia. Now very active here. One of the top propagandists for "getting the U. S. into a war with Russia soon as possible."

When Field Marshal Montgomery was honor-guest (at the Barlizon-Plaza) a man, en route to the 30th floor, was hauled back into the elevator an. made to identify himself before the law in the foyer. Said to be J. D. Rockefeller Jr.!

Add significant Russ-U. S. notes: The Russian purchasing commission in Washington (which numbers about 300 expert Soviet engineers and technicians) is discharging its U. S. employees, preparatory to shutting down Jan. 1. That means, I'm told, the Russians do not expect to buy from us any more the way things stand now, etc.

Reminder: Great Britain and Russia signed a non-aggression treaty in 1941. Which side would British be on in event of conflict, considering treaties are pieces of papyrus? . . . Big news expected from Puerto Rico during next few months. Break said to come between Luis Munos Marin, president of the senate there and most powerful political figure in islands—and Jesus Pinerio, Truman's appointment for the governorship. . . . Cost of atoms are down to a mere million each. That sounds expensive, but look at it this way: The entire civilized world can now be destroyed for less than the war cost the U. S., 70 billion.

Reason Russians so cocky lately is they allegedly have cosmic ray bomb. Plan inviting Americans and other nations to a demonstration of the new weapon in their "war of nerves."

Insiders unimpressed, claiming we have a weapon that makes the Atom obsolete. . . . Senator Bob LaFollette may head a non-gov't committee to study all phases of modernizing the federal gov't. This new outfit will be financed by wealthy citizens, some of whom held high gov't posts during the war.

N. Y. Novelette: The ABC network had a correspondent in Tokyo. His name, Joe Julian. . . . He went to Hiroshima to do a broadcast months after the atom fell. . . . As Julian walked along rubble-strewn streets he met a man on a bike, who introduced himself. . . . "I'm the Reverend Tanimoto," he said. . . . He was of great help to the broadcaster in getting material, etc. . . . A year later Julian (who is also an actor) found himself jobless. . . . Last week, while wandering about Radio city he was spotted by the director of the John Hersey-Hiroshima broadcast. Julian was engaged to read one of the parts. . . . It was the role of the stranger Joe met in Hiroshima—the Rev. Tanimoto!

The Late Watch: Elliott got 25 Gs for that mag series. . . . Truman (as we first hinted long ago) personally doesn't want to run again. If he does, they'll have to drag him via the draft. That explains why he is so "candid." . . . The White House is spreading happiness to the Germans in Germany and to the Republicans in America. . . . Our foreign policy is about as clear as the mud diplomats have been throwing at each other. . . . Too many American leaders are arguing about our foreign policy instead of explaining it.

Mr. Peron's Austrian friend, Fritz Mandl, reported inquiring about possibilities of buying a newspaper here or Philly. His Buenos Aires office is working with experts on preparations for a news syndicate and newspaper chain for Latin America. . . . Argentina will use all dollar assets to purchase military equipment and machinery from U. S. . . . British and U. S. brass in Japan not hitting it off too well. The Tommies feel they are being treated like sojers of a 2nd-rate power.

Pirates Take Easy Victory Over Woodsboro Team Last Friday On Their Own Home Field

The Rockport Pirates pulled a raid on a surprised Woodsboro population last Friday and walked off with a 28 to 0 victory over the Woodsboro eleven. This definitely put the Pirates back in the running in the 39-B conference.

Rockport sparked by Joe Johnson walked over the Woodsboro team almost at will to score four touchdowns and convert four extra points. Johnson led the scoring with two touchdowns, while Russell Rowe and Vicenti Corpus each tallied one. The extra points were made in the same proportion by the same men. Two for Johnson, one each for Rowe and Corpus.

The practice that Rockport has had in the rain and on a wet field should have helped them as it rained intermittently all during the game.

Rockport made fifteen first downs to eight for Woodsboro.

The Pirates will meet much stiffer opposition next Friday when they run into the Ingleside Mustangs who defeated the Woodsboro team 14 to 0 on a water soaked field.

Are Returning Veterans "Different"?

During the war you heard a lot about how hard it was going to be for returning veterans to get adjusted to civilian life . . . how they'd be "different."

Well, plenty of them have returned to our town, and a finer, steadier bunch you couldn't ask for. Most of them are back at the same jobs . . . going with the same nice home-town girls (getting married, some of them, and setting up families) . . . renewing the same old friendships.

Even their amusements are the same. Nothing more exciting than fishing Seward's creek or pitching horseshoes . . . enjoying an outdoor barbecue with friendly wholesome beer and pleasant talk.

If they've changed at all it's in the direction of maturity and tolerance . . . tolerance for everything except dictators, and those who would destroy our democratic principles of live and let live. And from where I sit, that's another reason to be proud of them.
