'The Beach' Is Offered to C of C As Youth Center

RENT-FREE PROPOSAL CONSIDERED

CC Board Of Directors Postpones Action For More Discussion

The Beach, popular dining and dancing spot, was offered to the Chamber of Commerce as a recreation center by the Aransas County Navigation District on Tuesday night during a regular meeting held at the Court House.

Several weeks ago the Navigation District purchased The Beach from C. A. Duck and F. C. Simpson and took possession of same on October 15. The building which formerly housed the kitchen and cold drink stand has been converted into an office for the Harbor Master, Floyd Smith. Plans for additional plumbing will convert part of this building into a public rest room.

The Chamber of Commerce seeing the possibilities of turning the dance hall into a recreation center for the youth of Rockport appointed a committee composed of directors of the chamber of commerce to meet with the Navigation District and attempt to lease this property for that purpose. Since this property apparently will be tied up with legal proceedings for some time, the Navigation District declined to lease the property to the Chamber of Commerce but offered the dance hall to them for an indefinite period, free of charge.

At a called meeting of the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night the offer was discussed; however, due to meetings of several other organizations there was not a representative group of members present. Therefore, no definite decision was reached and the matter was left to a later meeting where more members can be present to express their opinions and ideas as to the various ways in which The Beach could be used for a Recreation Center.

Howards Spend Last 15 Winters In Rockport Best On Gulf Coast

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Howard of Olton, Texas, and Rockport, are here for their fifteenth winter in Rockport. They say this is the best place to spend the winter on the entire Gulf Coast.

They will stay here until the first of April and will then go to Hot Springs, New Mexico. Howard says they have been traveling for the last twenty-five years and have visited every State in the United States.

He purchased the Higgins Camp Trailer that has been on display at the Bailey Motor Company and handled by Bailey and the Rice Boat Company. This trailer is designed to sleep four people and has a lot of storage space in addition to an icing compartment for fish or game and space for a stove.

Howard said this Higgins Camp Trailer was just what he has been waiting for a long time and it will make his fishing and hunting trips much more comfortable.

Refugio's First County Fair Since 1917 To Be Opened Saturday November 2

Fire Department Holds Pumper & Hose Drills Last Thursday Night

The Rockport Volunteer Fire Department held its regular meeting and drills last Thursday night, with Arlie Shivers and Charles Ankele, the assistant chiefs, in charge of the pumper hook-up and hose drills.

There were fifteen men present for the meeting and Chief Lloyd Lassiter divided the men into two groups to go with the two assistant chiefs, Ankele and Shivers, for the drills. They took both trucks and taught the men how to hook up to the fire plugs and to use the pumper with the hose attached to the fire plugs.

Chief Lassiter said that he was certainly pleased with the enthusiasm that all the men showed in their work and in their eagerness to learn all they can about the department's equipment. He said also, that the practice of drilling every Thursday night had evidently developed a great deal of interest in the department because there are quite a few more men turning out every week now.

To Meet Friday Night

Chief Lassiter said today that since the ball game with Flour Bluff will be played Thursday night instead of Friday, the meeting for this week will be postponed until 7:30 Friday night.

Season Tickets Will Be Honored For The Game Here Tonight

Coach John Ramsour has announced that the game with the Hornets originally scheduled to be played at Flour Bluff has been rescheduled to be played tonight at 8:00 o'clock on Pirate Field in Rockport due to the bad condition of the playing field at Flour Bluff.

The heavy rains have left the Flour Bluff gridiron extremely muddy. The game was changed from Friday night to Thursday night because the officials who would have worked the game on Friday afternoon are booked for Friday night; therefore, they had to move the game up to Thursday night to be able to have a night game.

The Athletic Council has announced that season tickets held by people in Rockport for this game will be honored.

The Pirates will be out after their fourth consecutive win and their seventh win of the season when they tangle with the winless Flour Bluff Hornets on Pirate Field, Thursday night at 8:00 p.m.

Flour Bluff has been defeated four times and tied once in five starts this year. Woodsboro tied them with a score of seven to seven in their second game of the season. They were defeated in their opener by the Corpus Christi B squad. Gregory defeated them by a score of six to nothing, Mathis won a decision over them with a score of thirteen to nothing. Refugio ran over the Hornets scoring almost at will to the tune of twenty-seven to nothing.

The Hornets have only had enough drive to push one touchdown over the line against the five opponents, and that one was the Woodsboro Eagles, who were defeated by Rockport twenty-eight to nothing. Refugio scored four touchdowns against the Hornets, the same number of scores that Rockport won over Woodsboro.

With these statistics looking as they do, the Pirates are expected to walk away with this game with at least a four touchdown margin. If the Pirates play as they have in the last two games with Ingleside and Sundeen, the score should be much larger than that.

Pirates Can Still Win Their Share Of The Conference Title

The Rockport Pirates are not out the running for the championship of District 38-B as yet, because they still have a chance to tie with Ingleside and Refugio for the title.

If the Ingleside Mustangs defeat the Refugio Bobcats, there will be a three way tie for the championship, with Rockport, Ingleside, and Refugio each having lost one game in conference play.

Refugio has not lost a game as yet, but will meet the strong Mustangs on November 1st. The Mustangs are the only team in the conference now who have a chance to defeat the Bobcats, and they rate as having a good chance to come out on top of this scrap.

Rockport won over Ingleside with a score of fourteen to twelve, and Refugio defeated Rockport by a score of nineteen to nothing. If Refugio wins from Ingleside, they should have clear sailing to the district title with an untied and undefeated season in conference competition.

Here's how the district teams stack up at the present time:

Sundeen	2	1	0
Ingleside	1	1	0
Gregory	1	2	0
Flour Bluff	0	2	1
Woodsboro	0	4	1

LET'S VOTE FOR THIS AMENDMENT

Texas Legionnaires should all go to the polls Thursday, November 7 and by their votes assure the passage of a proposed constitutional amendment which will create a Veteran's Land Board which is designed to give 10,000 Texas veterans farms and ranches.

This amendment has twice received the backing of the American Legion, at the Fort Worth War Conference in 1945 and at the recent state convention in Galveston. Since our organization is the leading one dedicated to veterans' activities, it behooves us all to make a special effort to get out and vote for its passage.

And it will require a special effort. It will be voted upon two days following the general election the first Tuesday in November. A clerical slip-up made it necessary to hold a separate election two days later than the general election.

Land Commissioner Bascom Giles, who is sponsoring the bill, has asked The Texas Legion News to bring before Texas Legionnaires the urgency of getting out the vote on November 7.

Highlights of the amendment are that it was passed unanimously by the house and senate of the last legislature; that the board will be composed of the governor, attorney general and general land commissioner; that such board is given authority in concurrence with the legislature to issue bonds up to $25,000,000 for the purchase of additional land from the federal government, individual and other state agencies located in every sector of the state; that bonds bearing three per cent interest will be sold to other state departments carrying heavy surplus funds now un-invested, thus ELIMINATING THE NECESSITY OF ANY ADDITIONAL TAXES.

It should be pointed out that under the amendment veterans would NOT be required to "homestead" or live upon their land. They also would not be prohibited from selling their equity.

It is planned that farms ranging from 50 acres to ranches up to 2500 acres be purchased by the veterans, thus providing a wide variety of crop and livestock production in various parts of Texas. Each veteran would be limited to a maximum purchase of $5,000. His bid and check would be accompanied with a photostatic copy of his discharge. The entire purchase routine is planned to be dressed down to the simplest possible form with a minimum of usual red tape.

Only Texas veterans will be allowed to enter bids. The land would be sold either for all cash or for as low as one tenth down payment with notes to run for 40 years bearing four per cent interest per annum. Finally the veteran purchaser retains a seven eighth mineral fee on sulphur and fifteen sixteenth on oil and gas.

In this amendment, Texas is proposing to do something tangible for its own veterans. Many are anxious to enter the ranching and farming business on a modest scale. Commissioner Giles has received more than 5,000 inquiries from men and women veterans.

We urge every post commander to bring this matter to the attention of his members and do everything in his power to get out a vote Thursday November 7 to assure passage of this amendment.—Texas Legion News.

GIVE TO USO FOR ONE MORE YEAR OF SERVICE

GIs on their own, or a nation behind them—which will it be? That choice was put to all Americans back in 1941, during the pre-Pearl Harbor days. The people's answer was USO.

Since that time, the people of America have given $200,000,000 to provide a "home away from home" for the men in service. More than a million volunteers have contributed 170 million hours of selfless service.

Today the unfinished task of USO is part of the unfinished task of winning the war. The shooting is over, true; even the shouting has died down. But you can't convince thousand upon thousands of service men still "in" that the duration is off. They're still sweating it out on occupational duty, in hospitals, in training.

The same choice faces America today as in 1941: GIs on their own, or a nation behind them—which will it be?

The morale problems of our armed forces are intensified today by such factors as less action, less training, less maturity, and more leisure time. These men need the recreational and spiritual activities of USO. They need a "home away from home" as never before.

In the past 6 months, 23 entertainment troops comprising 328 professional actors, actresses and musicians have given 2,871 performances to our hospitalized veterans. In addition to providing entertainment, which is proving to be a splendid morale factor, these performances serve as a constant reminder to the veterans that they are not forgotten men and women.

USO in the months ahead has a job to do no less important to the well-being of the country and its fighting men than it has had at any time in the past five years. We face a responsibility to stand by during the most difficult days of transition from a total war to total participation in an achieved peace.

If USO has accomplished anything in addition to its

Hereford Show and Rodeo at Beeville Will Be Big Event

BEEVILLE—With approximately 150 head of best-grade Hereford show stock listed with Secretary Edwin S. Brown, and an abundance of top-notch rodeo talent lined up for Rocky Reagan's arena events, the 10th annual show, sale, and rodeo of South Texas Hereford Breeder-Feeder Association, scheduled to be held in Beeville on November 7-8-9 promises to be the biggest and best in the association's history. Mr. Brown stated.

Herd owners from all parts of Texas have sent in entries for the show, and about 70 head, including 50 bulls and 20 females, will be offered for sale in the auction ring.

The judge of the show will be Bob Tate, Bexar County agricultural agent, an authority on Hereford cattle. Judging will begin Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. Col. Earl Gartin, Col. Walter Brittain, and Pete Peterson will conduct the sale, which will be held Friday afternoon.

Rocky Reagan, Sr., famous throughout South Texas as an ace rodeo promoter, will be assisted by his three sons, Rocky, Jr., Flournoy and Robert Reagan, in staging what they say will be Beeville's greatest rodeo performance.

Mr. Reagan said that last year, due to an oversight, more arena tickets were sold than grandstand and bleachers would accommodate. This mistake will not be repeated this year, he stated. "We will sell for each performance no more tickets than the stadium will hold," he said.

Reservations for seats are now being accepted and will be taken care of in the order in which they are received. The events are scheduled for Thursday afternoon and night, Friday afternoon and night, and Saturday afternoon and night—total of six performances.

Dr. Paul Moore of Beeville will have charge of the horse show. He stated that he anticipates a large number of entries in both the Quarter Horse and Palomino divisions. There will be six classes for each breed. Quarter horses will be judged Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, and Palomino judging will take place at 10:30 a.m. the same day. W. P. Warren of San Antonio will judge. Blue ribbon horses will be exhibited in the arena Saturday afternoon.

The grand street parade, in which 1000 horseback riders will be featured, will be held at noon Friday, November 8. Earl Hunt is chairman of the parade committee. He stated the pageant will begin promptly at 12 o'clock. South Texas school bands, decorated floats, old-fashioned buggies, and Wiley McCray, famous rodeo clown, will be among the main attractions in the parade. More than 20,000 people are expected to line the sidewalks when the pompous procession passes down the main thoroughfares of Beeville.

Marion Young, Chamber of Commerce publicity chairman, is requesting nearby cities to enter decorated floats in the parade.

Reese Wade and Warren LeBourveau will have charge of the barbecue. Members of the school bands, and Boy Scouts who patrol the city, will be fed free of charge. Others may purchase dinner at 75 cents a plate. The dinner will be served on the courthouse lawn.

Former C.O. of 41st Base Unit Spending Terminal Leave In Rockport

Lt. Col. Hadley B. Elikor, former commanding officer of the 41st Base Unit at Maxwell Field, Alabama, is spending his terminal leave in Rockport.

Mrs. Elikor and their children, Barbara and Bruce, accompanied Col. Elikor on his visit to this city.

The Elikors will make their home in Denver, Colorado where Col. Elikor will be connected with the advertising firm of Shaw and Barton.

A GI Says:
 "I hope USO will not allow its hospitality to cease now that the war is over. There are still millions of men in the service who need places to spend their off-time hours."

direct services, it has through its million and a half volunteers helped to keep alive in a world of coercion and underlying faith in the fundamental good will of mankind.

Our Army and Navy have won the war, but we ourselves, moving on in the spirit of united service, can win the peace. Just think for a minute about the 1,500,000 GIs USO will serve in 1947. They're having reconversion troubles like all of us.

Some are on maneuvers, on guard duty, in training, in hospitals. Some have wives and kids at home. Many are in their teens. Like all of us, they're all wondering when things for them will get back to "normal".

To provide a "home away from home" for these GIs, USO is asking the American people for nineteen million dollars, to help them through a really tough year.

This is the final USO appeal. Let's give generously to see them through.

SUNDAY SPEAKER

ROCKPORT

Five Years Ago

Francher Archer, manager of the Rockport Chamber of Commerce for the past year and a half, tendered his resignation to the board of directors on Monday night. After considerable discussion the resignation was accepted and thanks were expressed to the retiring manager for the work he has done for Rockport.

The resignation will be effective November 1, and Jack Blackwell, editor of the Pilot, was elected manager for the succeeding six months.

Last week-end may have set some sort of record for fishing in these parts. It was almost like mid-summer from the standpoint of fishermen—and it was an extremely unlucky fisherman who didn't come in off the bay with a heavy string of big specks.

All up and down Live Oak and Lamar peninsulas people caught trout on Saturday and Sunday. Strings ranged from a half dozen for individuals to two hundred and better for parties of four.

Misses Mabel and Genevieve Bracht were hostesses to the Wednesday afternoon Bridge Club last Thursday, having three tables of guests. Mrs. Henry Stumberg won high score for the party and Mrs. Fred Booth won second high.

The Rockport high school has added to its curricular studies, two new courses. These courses are Home Making II and Advanced Math. These two subjects have brought the total up to thirty affiliated credits in the Rockport high school.

USO will continue to have an important part to play in the period of transition from war to peace.

The USO has earned the gratitude of every family in America for what it has done and is continuing to do for our fighting forces.

Camp Fire Girls Wish To Express Thanks For Help On Show

The Camp Fire Girls and Directors want to express their deepest gratitude to Mrs. H. C. Mullinax for the splendid work she did in connection with the Style Show and Chicken Supper last Wednesday night. They said that without Mrs. Mullinax they could never have gotten everything ready on time nor done as well.

The also wish to express appreciation to the Glory Oh Beauty Shop and Romaine Beauty Shop who did the girls hair for the show, and to Misses Anna Mae, Fannie, Helen and Sophia Theodore for the songs they gave at the style show. Owen James played the piano as accompanist for them. Bert Haney acted as master of ceremonies.

Kaufman's Department Store and Helen White's Dress Shop furnished the wearing apparel for the show.

Through an error, Miss Frances Lee Deason's name was omitted from the list of girls who modeled for the show last week.

This community and every other community in the land can join in a heartfelt tribute to the USO which does so much for so many.

Lest the reader become too excited, the above is a reproduction of an advertisement that appeared in a Toronto, Canada, newspaper. Indicating an abundance of meat in the dominion, ads of this type are a common sight in Canada.

TIMBER: Debate Control

Government versus private control of the 345 million acres of privately owned timberland occupied delegates to the first congress of the American Forestry association since 1905. The need for some sort of effective management of the nation's lumber resources is pointed up by an 11 per cent drop in reserves since 1938.

Calling for government control of private timberland, comprising 57 per cent of the forest area in the U. S., Secretary of Agriculture Anderson stated that current annual lumber cutting exceeds new growth by 50 per cent. Because of the steady reduction in reserves, the total now stands at a low of 1 trillion, 601 billion board feet.

Samuel T. Dana, dean of the school of forestry of the University of Michigan, pushed the so-called Higgins Lake proposals for private management drawn up earlier this year by 18 forestry and conservation experts at Higgins Lake, Mich. Justifying private operations, the proposals called for an intensive educational campaign to emphasize importance of timber resources to the nation's welfare.

PARIS: Italian Pact Following a pitched warning from Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov against the division of the world into eastern and western blocs, the Paris peace conference approved the proposed treaty for Italy.

Because it considered the treaty opposed to the interests of its Yugoslav ally, Russia led the bitter fight against adoption of the pact. Championing Yugoslavia's cause, Molotov shouted that Russia would not permit the western powers to dictate to the "new Slavic democracies," and reiterated Lenin's axiom that "a people which takes its destiny into its own hands is invincible."

The Russian bloc's objections to the treaty centered against establishment of a strong, neutral government for the key port of Trieste, and creation of a new Italo-Yugoslav border.

A strong governor would deprive the mixed Italian-Yugoslav population of its self-rule, Molotov declared in calling for a powerful constituent assembly. An alliance of Italian Yugoslav Communists would have given the Reds control of the strategic city.

The new Italo-Yugoslav border leaves the Slovene population of Gorizia and the Isonzo valley in Italy as a racial minority, Yugoslavia charged.

MEAT: Predict Plenty In pressing the administration to decentralize livestock, the beef industry advisory committee declared that there were sufficient cattle in the country to meet the requirements of the next 12 months but they were being kept from market because of price inequities.

Citing department of agriculture statistics, the committee said there were 80 million head of cattle and calves on farms Jan. 1, of which 40 million were available for meat. Despite heavy marketings this summer, 52 million head of cattle were available for meat by Sept. 24-30.

Estimating that supplies will be fully 15 per cent above requirements.

EUROPE: Needs Fertilizer Europe will continue to need much more food than it can produce for at least two more years, according to Homer J. Henney, director of the Colorado A. and M. college experiment station, who spent late 1945 and early 1946 in Europe as deputy director of food and agriculture for the U. S. military government. The basic reason, he explained, is lack of commercial fertilizers.

Vets Prefer Business A survey just completed at Northwestern university of the career preferences of 5,659 veterans enrolled for full-time study this fall showed that business is the top choice of these veterans, with 30 per cent selecting this field as a life-work. The choice in other fields is as follows: engineering and the physical sciences, 22 per cent; law, 11 per cent; medicine, 11 per cent; teaching, 10 per cent; journalism, 5 per cent and dentistry, 5 per cent.

This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Truly Surprising

So Easy. No Cooking. Big Saving. You may not know it, but in your own kitchen, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it's hard to beat.

First, make a syrup by stirring 3 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any drugstore. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action in throat and bronchial irritations.

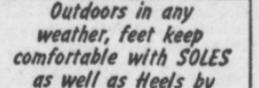

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils. Children love its pleasant taste. And for quick relief, it's a wonder. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

RELIGION: Urges Action

Declaring that the church must show cause for its continued existence and promote the interests of all classes of society, the Rev. Dr. Oscar F. Blackwelder of the executive council of the United Lutheran church outlined a broad program for aggressive action at the denomination's convention in Cleveland.

On the home front, Dr. Blackwelder said the church must: —Overcome economic and social injustices, with the watchword being abundance for all rather than scarcity for profit.

—Promote equality for racial and religious minorities and see that every qualified person has the right to vote.

—Emphasize the dignity of the individual to offset the cheapening factor of the wholesale loss of life in war and postwar cruelties.

On the international front, Dr. Blackwelder called for continuation of U. S. relief from its comparative abundance, promotion of good-will among peoples of the world, and cultivation of the spirit of forgiveness to advance reconciliation.

WORLD FORCE: Fond Hope

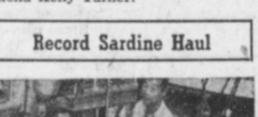

In resigning as senior American representative on the United Nations military committee, which is engaged in drawing up plans for a world police force, Gen. George C. Kenny declared that such an organization was the only assurance of peace but it may take years and years to accomplish.

Desire for security and protection of national sovereignty are two of the most formidable obstacles to formation of a world force, the general said.

Large standing armies are no assurance of permanent security, Kenny declared. As for national sovereignty, he cited the sacrifice of individual authority of the 13 American colonies for participation in an all-powerful federal union dedicated to the interest of all.

To achieve real security, peace-loving nations must be persuaded to permit passage of international troops over their border to meet an aggressor and contribute to a world force, Kenny stated. Having resigned to become commanding general of the strategic air command, Kenny will be succeeded as senior U. S. representative by Adm. Richmond Kelly Turner.

Record Sardine Haul

Protein-hungry Americans seemed to be assured of good supplies of sardines as fishermen scored a record haul on opening day of the Pacific coast season. Jap-American crew members of the "Nancy Rose," operating out of Los Angeles, are shown with their portion of the initial catch of 8,000 tons. The West Indies are the other source of sardines in the Americas.

ITALY: Riot in Rome

Angered by plans of the public works department to lay off help at a project, 30,000 Italian workers surged onto Viminale palace in Rome and waged a stormy protest against the action. Armed with carbines and sabers, police battled to hold off the mob, with truckloads of troops summoned to provide reinforcements.

While police were able to hold off most of the throng from the palace, some demonstrators broke into the building and moved as far as Premier Alcide de Gasperi's office, wrecking furniture as they went along. Meanwhile, the premier just arrived in Rome after attending the first post-fascism press convention.

Joined by the uprising, which cost several lives and injured over 100 persons, government officials attributed the riot to hostile political forces trying to embarrass the moderate De Gasperi's coalition regime. Though admitting plans to lay off help, the government asserted that it was negotiating to absorb the discharged workers on other projects.

FARM REALTY: Follows Precedent

Price trend of farm real estate during and following World War II has been much like the trend during and following World War I, according to Alexander Hamilton institute.

During the World War I period, the value per acre of farm real estate rose from an index of 100 in 1913 to 140 in March, 1919, or 40 per cent, while during World War II, it rose from 84 in 1939 to 142 in March, 1946, or 69 per cent.

Rockport Pirates Click Smoothly To Defeat The Sundeen Eagles 22 - 0

The Rockport Pirates fired their big guns at a highly rated Sundeen eleven last Friday night on the Pirate field to score three touchdowns and safety to come out on the long end of a twenty-two to nothing score to give the Eagles their first conference defeat of the season.

Pete Springle, the Pirate's center who was playing his usual heads-up ball game, scored the first two points by blocking a punt in the end zone and recovering the ball to score on the third play of the game. A few plays later, John Chupe scored on a pass from Russell Rowe on the Eagle's twenty-six yard line; however, this was called back because the Pirate's backfield was in motion. A fourth down pass was incompleated and the ball went over to Sundeen to stop the Pirate's threat.

In three plays, the Sundeen Eagles made a total of two and a half yards. They kicked to the Rockport forty-nine yard line; however, they received a fifteen yard penalty for pushing and the Pirates started their offensive from the Eagle's thirty-four yard line. The Pirates carried for a touchdown on six running plays with Russel Rowe plunging over from the four yard line for the touchdown. Denny Smith carried for the extra point to make the score nine to nothing for the Pirates at the end of the first quarter.

On the eighth play in the second quarter, Vicenti Corpus went through the line and ran for fifty-one yards for the second touchdown for the Pirates. The Eagles were held for three downs with a gain of seven yards and they kicked to the Pirate thirty-nine yard line.

Rockport lost two yards on a fumble but recovered the ball and came back with a thirteen yard gain on the second play. Then Corpus made his long run for the score. The try for extra point failed leaving the score fifteen to nothing where it stayed until late in the third quarter.

The Eagles were threatening to score when the half-time whistle blew, with the ball on the Pirate's three yard line. They recovered a Rockport fumble on the Pirate's nineteen and on the first play, made a first down on the Pirate four yard line. Then they made one yard on the next play just as the whistle ended the first half, thus ending their only scoring threat in the first half of the game.

About the middle of the third quarter the Eagles got another break when they blocked a Rockport punt on the thirty-two yard line and recovered it on the Pirate's six yard line. On three running plays they gained a total of one yard, then W. C. England scored around right end on the old Statue of Liberty play, but the score was nullified by a clipping penalty and the next play, a pass, was incomplete to give the ball to the Pirates on their own fifteen yard line.

Russell Rowe connected with Chupe on a long pass on the fifty yard line and Chupe scampered on over for the third and final touchdown of the game. Joe Johnson went over the goal around right end on a lateral from Russell Rowe for the extra point making the final score twenty-two to nothing for the Pirates.

Neither team threatened to score again during the game and most of the final quarter was play-

GAO Is Official Name Of Uncle's Watchdog

Biggest Accounting Outfit on Earth Guards Cash.

WASHINGTON. — Anybody who gets money from the government when he isn't entitled to it has to buck the general accounting office (GAO).

It's the biggest accounting outfit on earth. It has thousands of ways of nosing out leakages of government funds, whether through fraud or error.

Fifteen women, for instance, have learned how GAO catches up on marital wrong-doers. Each was married, or said she was, to two servicemen at the same time and drew wives' allotments from both men's pay.

But they didn't know that GAO has a file of paid allotment checks arranged by first names. GAO figures that when a woman commits bigamy or adopts a false surname she is likely to retain her true first name.

If in the "Mary" file the endorsements of two checks look alike, the cases are checked—sometimes with surprising results.

Every voucher paid by a disbursing officer of the government is reviewed by GAO's audit division. In the fiscal year which ended this July, 39,000,000 vouchers were checked.

GAO filed exceptions to 417,000 of the vouchers—resulting in the government's receiving refunds of $43,400,000. The discrepancies are usually the result of error and not fraud, says E. W. Bell, chief of the division.

One GAO unit, the corporation audit division, headed by T. Coleman Andrews, makes commercial audits of all wholly owned government corporations, now numbering about 95.

Andrews, who was a marine corps reserve major on duty in Kwajalein when called to his present post in the spring of 1945, has scored colleges and accounting firms to assemble 205 highly qualified accountants for his division. He intends to have 300 when fully staffed.

To an engaged couple, the three-letter word "yes" may mean eternal bliss; but it only takes a two letter word "no" to mean eternal freedom.

We couldn't understand why the son was constantly falling out with his girl friend until he said that she was always willing to kiss and make up—and he liked that.

West Texan Deeply Interested In Our Fire Department

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hughes of Ysleta, Texas, are spending a couple of weeks at the Rockport Cottages for a vacation. He is a retired business man and formerly had a lumber, building materials, and hardware company. Hughes was particularly interested in the equipment and set-up of the Rockport Volunteer Fire Department since they also have a volunteer fire department in Ysleta.

He said that the merchants and businessmen of Ysleta donated three thousand dollars to the erection of a building to house a fire truck and other fire department equipment. Then the young men there formed the volunteer fire department and put on a campaign to obtain the necessary funds to purchase their truck and other equipment.

They now have a department of which everyone is very proud, and it has the support of every citizen of that city. He was quite enthusiastic about the equipment that Rockport has and said that everyone here certainly should be happy and proud that they have such a fine department.

R. R. Roberts Moves Back To Rockport To Make His Home Here

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Roberts have recently moved back to Rockport from Edcouch, Texas, where they have been living the past year. They plan to make their home here permanently. They are staying at Forest Park Cottages until they find a place to live.

While in Edcouch, Roberts was the County Tax Assessor and Collector. Before he left Rockport, he was with Pete Bracht in the B and R Electric Company. He says he wants to simply rest for awhile and does not have any definite plans about his future at the present time, except that he does know that he wants to stay in Rockport.

Many Openings Are Available For Beauty Operators

W. B. Stevenson, owner of the Corpus Christi Beauty College, was in town Tuesday to place an ad in the Pilot and stated that there is hardly a beauty shop in South Texas that does not need experienced or well trained operators.

He has been in the beauty shop business since 1927, and has been in the schooling business for beauty operators since December 1945. His school is one of the best equipped and one of the largest schools in South Texas.

It is government approved for G. I. training and the veterans who attend school there are given the same rates that those in other schools get. Married students get ninety dollars a month and single veterans get sixty dollars each month. All tuition and fees are also paid by the government for them.

So far, says Stevenson, he has had no graduates to fail the State Examination. He said that he trains the students as if he were going to hire them himself when they finish their schooling, and they are ready to go to work when they finish.

He can handle up to one hundred students every six months. Anyone who is interested in this school can obtain the address from the ad elsewhere in this week's copy of the Pilot.

Veterans May Purchase Farm And Ranch Land

Austin, Texas—Passed by the Legislature unanimously and approved by the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the 36th Division and the State Democratic Convention, a Constitutional Amendment making it possible for Texas veterans to purchase farm and ranch homes from the State, faces ratification by the voters on Thursday, November 7, two days after the general election.

Over 5,000 Texas veterans have already expressed a desire to participate in the program in letters addressed to Bascom Giles, Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Under the plan the State would put some 10,000 tracts located in every sector of the State on sale to the veterans for as little as 10 per cent down with 40 years to pay the balance at 4 per cent interest. The tracts would range from 50-acre farms to 2,500-acre ranches with a maximum purchase price of $5,000.

Each tract would carry a fifteen-sixteenths mineral fee interest in oil and gas and seven-eighths mineral fee interest in sulphur. Purchasers would not be required to homestead the land. They would also be permitted to dispose of their equity.

The State, which owns several million acres of land, plans to select the best tracts and to supplement this acreage through purchase of some of the 2,400,000 acres of land acquired by the Federal government during the war.

The program, which would run over an eight-year period, would be administered by the Veterans' Land Board composed of the Governor, Attorney General, and the General Land Commissioner, in cooperation with enabling statutes by the Legislature. This Board would be authorized to issue up to $25,000,000 in bonds to be sold to State surplus funds, for the purpose of purchasing Federal-owned land.

Material covering all phases of the national economy as related to veterans' welfare is available in the Veterans Administration historical library at Washington or through extensive inter-library loan facilities.

SHE'S BUSIER THAN EVER

...with more calls from more telephones

Telephone operators are busier than ever during these days of more telephone calls from more telephones than ever before. But they still take pride in doing their job with the same characteristic skill, patience, and courtesy that have caused them to be known as "The Voice With a Smile."

Despite the heavy increase in calls, operators are handling most of them quickly and accurately. Sometimes, during midmorning and late afternoon (the busiest times at the switchboard) there may be a brief wait for "Number, please," but you may be sure your call will be answered as promptly as possible.

On Playing the Fiddle Badly

A favorite recreation in our town is getting together in one or another's home and making music. There's somebody at the piano; a guitar; a fiddle player; and Molly Birtles even has a harp!

What comes out isn't the best music in the whole world. In fact, a lot of it is downright bad. But nobody even thinks to question or to criticize.

Because the spirit of harmony is there—harmony between folks who like each other's company, who enjoy the simple, homey atmosphere —with nothing more exciting than old songs, and a glass of moderate beer or cider.

From where I sit, it's a heap more important to be a poor fiddle player, than not to play at all. More important to be a part of the American scene—with its community music, home entertainment, friendly glass of beer—than to hold out for professional perfection. (Besides, I like to play the fiddle—even badly!)

DOAN'S PILLS

THE STORY THUS FAR: Megan MacTavish and her father, with Annie, the servant, live on a small farm at the edge of Pleasant Grove. Their living is made from chickens and a few cows...

they would—well, feel that she should be locked away! Put in an institution—"The pain of the thought silenced his words for a moment, and after he had got himself somewhat under control he managed a smile at her that was little more than a grimace and said, "So now you know. What are you going to do?"

eyes. Poor man! and—poor woman! She shivered a little and hurried as she went, as though to run away from thoughts that bit too deeply. One of Pleasant Grove's favorite autumn diversions, when the harvest was in and the winter greens had been planted, and it was still too warm for "hawg-killin'," was quilting parties.

CHAPTER II Megan and Tom sat quietly on the big flat rocks, saying little, their eyes following the antics of the dogs and cats galloping around in circles on the Ridge. She thought she had never seen the pines look so beautiful.

He asked for permission to fill his pipe and light it, and tentatively offered her a cigarette. "Thanks, no," Megan answered lightly. "It's a habit I've avoided—I don't think I'd care much for it, and it is expensive."

Obviously Tom understood the logic of that, and for a moment they were both silent, until he got his pipe going well.

Megan said after a moment when the silence threatened to become awkward, "How is Mrs. Fallon? Does the climate seem to agree with her, as you'd hoped?"

Tom's brown hand tightened about the bowl of his pipe until the knuckles stood up in little white mounds. He tore his eyes from the landscape and gave her a look that was hard and cold and bitter, so much so that she was startled by the sudden, inexplicable hostility.

"Mrs. Fallon is—doing as well as could be expected, under the circumstances," he told her. His voice was harsh, and the very sound of the words told her that he had repeated these words until they had ceased to have any meaning; yet he had never ceased to resent the necessity for them.

"I'm sorry if I seemed—inquisitive or rude," Megan told him frankly, her face hot with color, her head up. "I had no such intention. You have made no secret of the fact that your wife is an invalid. Naturally, in a small town like this, people are interested and anxious to be of service, if they may—"

"The only service anyone can do my wife—or myself—is to leave my wife alone," stated Tom, and Megan's eyes blazed at his tone.

She was on her feet now, and she said swiftly, her voice shaking with anger. "You may be quite sure that in the future, I, at least, shall be happy to do so!"

She turned blindly to walk back through the pines, but before she had gone half a dozen steps, Tom was on his feet, laying a hand on her arm, in swift, abject apology.

"Please wait—please, forgive me," he apologized humbly. "That was unforgivable of me! It's just that—well, the subject is—an extremely painful one—"

"I'm sincerely sorry that I mentioned it," she told him stiffly, her face still hot.

He looked down at her gravely, his hand still on her arm, restraining her as she would have walked away.

"You see, Miss MacTavish," he said at last, his voice raw with pain, "my wife's illness is—chiefly mental."

He set his teeth hard when he had spoken the last two words, and Megan looked up at him, puzzled.

"Mental? You mean she merely imagines she is ill? That she is a hypochondriac?" she asked, in all innocence.

Tom's face was white and rigid now, but his eyes were alive with pain.

"No," he said huskily. "I mean that my wife is—mentally ill—that she has the mind of a young child—that she is not—not normal!"

It was obvious that he had tried to say "insane" and had not been able to get the word past his stiff lips.

Megan was conscious of a moment of stunned, shocked horror. This man—chained to an insane wife! This man, whom everybody liked, with his fine mind and his keen sense of responsibility, and a woman who had the mind of a young child!

"Oh!" was all she could say, her tone shocked and rich with sympathy and touched with keen embarrassment that she must witness his moment of naked, burning revelation. "I'm—terribly sorry—"

Tom brushed aside the choked, inadequate words and said with a sort of forced quiet, "So you see why it has been necessary for us to—deny the well intentioned callers—"

"Of course," Megan told him unsteadily, sick with pity for him.

"She is—entirely harmless," he told her, and his face was wrenched with the pain and the shame of having to put that thought into words. "She is never left for a moment alone and she never leaves her bed. But if people here knew about her—mental condition—well, undoubtedly Megan's face flamed with hurt.

He looked down at her gravely, his hand still on her arm, restraining her as she would have walked away.

"You may be quite sure that I shall reveal your secret to no one—why should I? What right—or necessity—would I have?" she told him sharply.

Tom smiled at her, a white, faint smile that was somehow very tragic.

"I know you wouldn't. Forgive me. I'm clumsy and stupid, but not intentionally or willfully so. Forgive me—for everything?"

Megan melted beneath the look in his eyes, and put her hand in his and let him draw her back to the flat stone, where she sat down once more. And as though the revelation of his tragic secret had cleared the air between them, as though they were friends now, they spoke of other things.

His mind was keen and alert; Megan read a great deal and used her mind to think, and it was for both of them a pleasant experience to be able to talk of things that had nothing to do with Pleasant Grove. Megan liked her friends and her neighbors, but there were many times when she hungered for impersonal talk of matters far afield from Pleasant Grove, and she enjoyed this contact with a stimulating mind.

He walked with her to the barbed wire fence, when she saw that she must go because the evening was ending; he laughed a little, and obligingly held up the lower strand of barbed wire so she could crawl under it without snagging her skirt.

"There really should be a gate here," she told him, getting to her feet on the other side of the fence, laughing across the four strands of barbed wire at him. "But I'm like the man who was going to fix the leak in his roof, only he couldn't work while it was raining; and when it wasn't raining the roof didn't need mending. I somehow never get around to it!"

She whistled. The two dogs came bounding to her, and the four cats stepped daintly out of a great thicket of honeysuckle vines that sprawled at the corner of the fence. And as she walked back down the meadow path to the brook, she looked over her shoulder, and lifted her hand to him in a gay little gesture, as she saw him standing there. He lifted his hat to her and bowed in a gay burlesque of a sweeping old-world gesture, and she went on, her heart a little lighter for him. She was terribly sorry for him, but she admired the gallantry with which he carried his burdens. And, looking across the fields toward the drab little five-room frame house that was the Westbrook place and that now held this pathetic woman, his wife, she felt the tears in her

A few days after her talk with Tom on the Ridge, Megan went over to Mrs. Stuart's, where there was a quilting. There were greetings, a breezy exchange of pleasantries, while Megan settled herself, brought her thimble out of her pocket, threaded her needle, and set to work.

There were perhaps a dozen women about the big frame, which was opened to its fullest width, the width and length of a double bed. Megan talked lightly and carelessly to her neighbor, the pretty little Whitaker girl whose sweetheart had just been reported injured in action in Italy and who was grateful for the chance to talk about him.

Suddenly Megan heard the name, "fessor Fallon" and looked up. Alicia Stevenson was watching her shrewdly, a little knowing look in her small, dark eyes that made Megan oddly and absurdly uneasy.

Mrs. Burns, who was president of the Parent-Teachers' association of the local school, was saying, "I think we're lucky to get a man like Professor Fallon here. The school board says his qualifications are excellent and his references are extremely good!"

Mrs. Stuart bit off a thread and patted her last stitches into place before threading the needle afresh.

"Sort of makes me wonder how come we could get a man like 'fessor Tom, in a little bitty place like this," she said, as she moistened the tip of the thread and squinted at the eye of the needle, trying to insert one through the other. "I don't reckon it's anything ag'n the man, though, if he wants to live in a little country town—"

"Maybe Megan could tell us more about that," said Alicia silkily. "About what?" asked Megan, cravenly pretending not to understand.

"Why a man like Tom Fallon would be satisfied in a little hick town like Pleasant Grove," said Alicia, smiling. "After all, you know him so much better than any of the rest of us—"

"I sell him milk and butter and eggs, yes," Megan told her curtly. "I'd hardly say that made us old friends, though."

"But I thought during some of those long hours you've spent together on the Ridge, he might have told you something of himself," suggested Alicia, limpid-eyed, her voice soft as satin.

There was a startled gasp about the quilting frame, perhaps not so much a gasp, as a sense of movement that made Megan know they were all staring at her, startled, wondering—waiting.

Megan drew a long breath. "Just what do you mean by that?" she asked Alicia sharply.

Alicia's eyes were wide with surprise, but there was a trace of malice in their depths also.

"But, darling," she protested, her voice artificially gay and sweet, "what could I possibly mean except that I've seen you and the gallant professor on the Ridge—"

"Once, quite by accident, when I was out for a walk—" Megan began, but Alicia interrupted her with pretty concern and an apology that was worse than the most open accusation.

"Of course, I'm terribly sorry," Alicia interrupted. "Please don't say any more. I never dreamed I mean I wouldn't have mentioned it for the world—" She was prettily confused, and Megan could feel the hint of tension, of curiosity, that crept about the room.

The women who had been her friends and neighbors all her life looked at her and then quickly away, very carefully not meeting her eyes, elaborately pretending to be very casual.

"This is ridiculous!" said Megan hotly. "You're trying to make people believe that I've been—sneaking off to meet Mr. Fallon—"

"Why, darling!" protested Alicia, wide-eyed, hurt, though secretly enjoying, as she always did, this by no means unusual result of her malicious dropping of bits of information here and there. "I didn't say anything of the kind. All I said was that it was obvious that you knew the man better than any of the rest of us, and that you should therefore know better than we why he was willing to hide—I mean to bury himself in a little hick town like Pleasant Grove."

Mrs. Stuart eyed Alicia belligerently.

The sinister beauty of ebony silence prows the streets searching for the dreams of poets.

Central Park spills its scenic treasure in the dark. . . . Fallen leaves frolic with balmy winds—indulging in their whackrobatics. . . . Trees drip with greenery. . . . Windings roads are disturbed only by the metallic gargle of passing cars. . . . Sometimes it's so quiet—you can hear the castanets of crickets. . . . There are always humans haunting the town from midnight to sunrise. Many of them are rootless people, withering and waiting for zeros. . . . Many are sinful and shameless. Echoes of the Past
The following ordinance was taken from the Minute Book of the City Council of Rockport and seems to indicate that the arrival or departure of trains from the depot at Rockport were accompanied by ather boisterous and noisy seekers after business, and quite possibly it indicated that the days of laissez-faire in South Texas were coming to an end.
Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Rockport:
That it shall be unlawful for the owner or lessee or any drummer, employee, or agent of any hotel, boarding or lodging house, boatman or any public carrier to go into or on any railway depot or platform in the City of Rockport and there solicit, drum for, or seek custom, trade or patronage for themselves or employers.
That it shall be unlawful for any person within ten minutes immediately preceding the arrival or departure of any passenger train, at or from any railroad depot in this City to approach, stand, or loiter on the depot platform within twenty-five feet of the center of the main track.
Any person violating either of these sections of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not to exceed twenty-five dollars. Adopted and approved June 17, 1896.

Department Announces Plans For Integration Of RA Officers
Word was received from the War department that approximately 70,000 applicants for Regular Army commissions under the first integration program earlier this year are being notified they are under consideration for the additional vacancies existing under Congressional action authorizing an increase in the Regular Army Officer Corps strength from 25,000 to 50,000.
It was also disclosed that on a date to be announced, additional applications for commissions will be accepted. Those who qualify under a processing program paralleling closely that employed to select an initial increment of 9,813 officers late in June will be added to the consideration list and given an equal opportunity on the basis of qualification with those already listed.
While machinery for accepting additional applications is not yet functioning, full details are expected to be announced shortly and the program gotten under way probably by October 15.
It was pointed out that original applicants not among the initial 9,813 given Regular Army commissions may assume they are now on the consideration list unless they have been formally notified of rejection will not be eligible. Others will be permitted to restate their interest in being commissioned as a Regular Officer and to change their choice of branches, if they so desire, before the integration of the 25,000 new Regular Officer is begun, regardless of whether they are still on active or have reverted to civilian status.
Tentative plans for integration of these officers call for appointments to be made in four increments, in January, May, September and December of 1947. It is anticipated that the greater emphasis will be given to commissioning officers in the ranks of Captain and Major than was given in the first integration.

Simpsons Fly From Ohio To Rockport In A Day For Their Vacation
Mr. and Mrs. William C. Simpson of Dayton, Ohio, flew down recently to spend a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Wood to celebrate her birthday.
Dovie Ann Bert had a big dinner with a birthday cake and all the trimming ready for them when they arrived. Mrs. Wood says that it is a small world after all when you can travel 1400 miles in one day.
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Christilles entertained them by taking them on a fishing trip on the "Christie" and they brought in eighty nice sized trout.

We regret losing them, but wherever they go it will be their gain and our loss. We give them our heartfelt gratitude and thanks for a wonderful four years of school.

The Junior Class of '46 and '47 ordered their class rings last Thursday. They are to be the same design as previous years and they will receive them about May 1.

This week October 20-26 has been officially declared Future Home Makers of Texas Week. We would like everyone to know that Rockport has a very active chapter of this organization.

More new equipment has been added to the P. E. department. Archery and badminton sets arrived Monday. Everyone is interested in becoming a 'champ' in one or the other.

The science classes seem to be learning a lot this year. The General Science class has been having some successful experiments—both failures and successes! The Biology class has begun its leaf collections.

Ray's Plumbing Shop Gets Concrete Floor

John H. Ray started work Monday on remodeling his plumbing shop with a new concrete floor from the front to about the middle of the shop.

Ray wanted to get the floor in before he tried to get very much equipment to display. Even though much of the materials are hard to get at the present time, he intends to stock up on all those items that are available. As soon as he can get bath tubs and other heavy items that are now very scarce he will have a floor that will support their weight for display purposes.
