Scout Executive Stresses Need For Adult Interest

Pat Lewis, Boy Scout Field executive of Corpus Christi, told

Lewis said that a Scout organization can be what you want to make it; if adult interest and leadership is strong, the Scout group will be strong and if the interest and leadership on the part of the adults is weak, the troops are bound to be weak.

The Scout Executive commended those who are active in the Scout work but pointed out that persons are needed to assist them. Parents who started out working with the Cub Scouts when they had children of Cub Scout age, wish to continue their work with the Boy Scouts when their boys advance and as a result other parents are needed to work with the Cubs, he said.

SAFETY IN SWIMMING

The annual "drowning season" unfortunately got off to a record-breaking start over the July 4 week-end with an appalling total of 256 deaths reported throughout the nation. With vacation time in our midst, this is a good time to note the warning of the National Safety Council that 4,000 Americans are expected to lose their lives this year by drowning and that one-third of these will be children under 15 years of age.

It is disheartening but true that nine of every ten of us do not swim. For this reason "Learn-to-swim" programs have been initiated throughout the country. Instruction in a newly-scheduled 15 hour Red Cross senior lifesaving course began last night at the Cuddihy Field pool at Corpus Christi. Meanwhile the regular day swim classes of the Red Cross "learn-to-swim" campaign will continue three more weeks. Sections are held for beginners, swimmers and advanced students.

Swimming is fine exercise but only for those who are physically fit. After learning how to swim, one should not overdo. Here are some rules for safety: Remain in water of depth equal to your swimming ability. Don't dive in shallow water or water of unknown depth. Do remain within the buoyed lifelines which designate safe swimming areas. Don't go swimming immediately after you eat. Do massage or knead a muscle cramp but don't become panic-stricken. Don't push or duck others under water. They can't breathe while submerged any more than you can. Don't swim alone. Don't dive from a canoe or rowboat since the craft may not 177 days—closed its books Wedremain stationary but will float and may be out of reach when you surface.

Austin-Texas voters will have patched-up state constitution.

The ten joint resolutions sub- lege. mitting constitutional amendments are all that survived of 54 offered in the regular session of the Fifty-First legislature-46 in the house and 18 in the senate

This session's output was about average for recent years. Nine were submitted by the 1947 session and all were approved at the polls.

"Let the people decide," is the final argument of legislators fighting for submision of a constitutional amendment.

Sometimes the argument is deisive. But the record shows that the legislature screens joint resoutions a good deal more carefully than it does bills. For example, 995 bills were introduced and 537 passed in the house in the session just ended. The senate passed 204 of the measures it considered.

The last joint resolution filed in the house, H.J.R. 46, changed the date of the amendment election from September 24 to November 8. This was done in order to make one election serve for the amendments and for the naming of 21 members of the elective state board of education created by the first of the Gilmer-Aiken bills. The correction was not made however, until the secretary of state had arranged for first pubare required-in newspapers of the states 254 counties.
