Chamber of Commerce NEWS NOTES

MEMORIES-As we look back over last week's work and the huge success of our Open House, the Chamber of Commerce is at a loss to know where to begin to say "Thank You." To every member of the Chamber of Commerce who helped plan and execute this affair, from the men who did such a wonderful pob of the cooking to those who sat on the speakers stand we would say thank you for a job well done.

Those who contributed their time and labor out of pride in their community deserve a special thank you from us all. To Mrs. S. F. Jackson and her committee who served as hostesses in the building, extending a cordial hand of welcome to all of our visitors. To Miss Alma Jean Ratliff and her group of junior hostesses who served on the grounds. To the girls who helped serve the food. To Mr Ceylon Ammons and his Boy Scouts who were everywhere doing whatever was asked of them. To Ceylon's Flower Shop for their beautiful basket of flowers that addded so much to the attractiveness of the building.

To Mrs. J. H. Mills and the ladies of the Woman's Club for opening their building to our guests. To Mr. J. L. Baughman for keeping the Marine Laboratory open and showing the pictures that were enjoyed by so many. To the Cage Funeral Home and the V. F. W. for the use of their furniture and equipment.

If "Thank You" is the predominate phrase in this column it is meant to be so. If we have left out anyone, and we feel sure we have, we humbly apologize for the Chamber of Commerce is indeed grateful to the entire community for making the "Grand Opening" a huge success.

The appendicular bones of the arms and hands, legs and feet, are sually called either long or short bones. Long bones are tubular shafts which are mainly used as levers for the muscles. Short bones look more like dice, having six sides and being cube-shaped. Flat bones are sandwich-shaped, two layers of solid bone with spongy bone and marrow in between.

Bones are not like pillars of cement stuck around to hold up a building. If you can visualize the pillars of cement as growing things and the building as a constantly changing structure, then the similarity between cement pillars and bones is a bit closer.

Thus, bones are living things, constantly undergoing change, constantly receiving food from the body and depositing waste to be eliminated from the body. Bones have blood vessels, lymph vessels and nerves. They grow. The are subject to disease and injury. When they break, they heal themselves.

When the part that à bone supports becomes paralyzed or fails to function properly, the bone undergoes chanage, too, becoming smaller. When the part that a bone supports becomes heavier, bones become thicker anad stronger.

About two-thirds of a bone is a fiber, a dense elastic sort of thread and cell which makes the bone flexible and tough; this is called organic matter. The other third of a bone is made up of inorganic salts, calcium, which

"Thanks, Whitey," I told him. "But why in blazes call to tell me at this time of night?" "Simple," he says, "your paper boy just delivered it a short while ago. Been waiting for it all evening."

Next day, Buzzy Wilson tells me he delivered Whitey's paper late because he stayed for the school dance and thought it would be OK

From where I sit, I can't blame Whitey for his joke. He was just reminding me we owe other people the same respect we expect from them. Since I'm always talking about respecting the other fellow's rights-including his right to enjoy a glass of beer if he chooses, it was only fair that Whitey should "wake me up" to his right to get his copy of the Clarion on time. Thanks again, Whitey!
