The loss of these passes, he said, is the most important single factor affecting the fish population of the bays.

VFW Commander Tells Why They Sell Buddy

Ernest H. Russell, commander of the local VFW Post, tells why

In veterans' hospitals throughout the country, our disabled service men are relying on us to make the sale of Buddy Poppies a moving force in our welfare and spoke briefly, offering suggestions

These poppies are replicas of the little crimson flower that grows over the graves of our war on the advanced juvenile level, are heroes who sleep in 'Flanders

The VFW Buddy Poppy is symbolic of the reverence in which lives that this nation might live. Moreover, it is a living reminder that those who wear it have honored those dead, not in concrete and stone, but by helping the living who fought beside them.

Prior to each Memorial Day thousands of Americans walk the streets proudly wearing Buddy Poppies in their coat lapels - and America's concern for her disabled veterans and their needy dependents comes more sharply into focus. To meet our obligations to our less fortunate comrades and their dependents, the veterans of Foreign Wars has for thirtysix consecutive years conducted the annual sale of Buddy Poppies. Thanks for Your Comments

You probably will remember that a few weeks ago we mailed out post cards to you and all our customers in Rockport. We asked you in the post card what you didn't like about telephone service or our company.

We weren't asking for compliments. We did it to find out what customers had complaints so we could try to remove the causes of their complaints.

Here's how it turned out: We mailed 1,052 cards and 197 were returned with comments. We naturally were pleased that only 84 replies - about 8 per cent of the total mailing — were criticisms.

But let's look at the criticisms. Each of the 84 customers who had a complaint was contacted in a sincere effort to clear up the source of his complaint. About 94 per cent expressed satisfaction.

That's what we consider our most important job - satisfying our customer, giving you the kind of telephone service you want. And we hope you realize the post card canvass is only one way for you to make your complaints known.

If something's bethering you about your telephone service right now, or in the future, don't hesitate to call us. We'd like to know about it, too.
