March Of Dimes Working Memorial To Franklin D. Roosevelt

The March of Dimes of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is a "living memorial" to Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mr. Kelley, local campaign director of the 1947 March of Dimes declared today.

Mr. Kelley asserted that the late Mr. Roosevelt would have preferred the American people to commemorate him in a living institution like the March of Dimes, dedicated to alleviation of human suffering, rather than in monuments of stone or bronze.

The statement by the campaign director said:

"The March of Dimes is our living memorial to a great American humanitarian, Franklin D. Roosevelt. Stricken by infantile paralysis in the prime of life his indomitable courage in overcoming his affliction made him a symbol to thousands similarly afflicted.

"Through his own suffering his great spirit flamed with a love for all humanity. His personal fight to surmount his physical handicap caused by this cruel disease encouraged and gave hope not only to those stricken like himself but to the people of the entire nation and world.

"So that his own inspiration could be kept alive and handed on to polio sufferers in the nation Franklin D. Roosevelt founded the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to carry on to victory the fight against the disease.

"During his life he infused this crusade with his own unconquerable resolution and handed on a torch of his magnificent faith to the people of the nation. More than anything else he wished to see the elimination of this disease which has left a legacy of human wreckage in its trail down through the ages.

"To Americans who believe in the things of the spirit more than purely material things, he bequeathed a great living memorial to carry what was dearest to his own heart. It would be his desire that we commemorate him not in monuments of stone and bronze but rather enshrine his memory in a living institution dedicated to the alleviation of human suffering.

"In giving to the March of Dimes we are carrying out a duty we owe to a great man, a great humanitarian and great American."

Girls Basketball News

The Lady Jaybirds went to a tournament at McAadoo the past week end and came back with the championship. Our first game was with Patton Springs. The second game was with Girard which we won, that put us in the finals. We played Spur Saturday night for finals. Everyone played a very nice game.

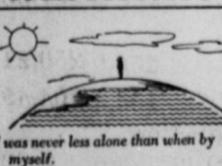

We will play Dickens Thursday night at the Jayton gymnasium. We are hoping to see a very large crowd of Jayton people out to witness this game.

We are planning to attend a tournament at Avoca this coming week end so everyone plan to go and back us in this tournament.

Farm To Market Road Being Built In Kent County

Work is now underway on farm highway 643, from Girard eight miles west in Kent County. The work includes grading, structures and surfacing and will cost $48,000. The job is being done by Ernest Loyd Construction Company.

War Against Traffic Murder

Austin. — Official declaration of war against traffic murder was made this week by the American Legion in a statewide radio address by its State Commander Bertram J. Giesecke of Austin.

"The Executive Committee of the Legion officially approved blueprints for an action program to be carried out in every Legion Post," said Giesecke. "The American Legion, for one, has declared war against this traffic murder."

"Too many of our veterans have returned from hell of war to die on our peaceful streets and highways. The Legion believes that the enactment of the six-point legislative program of the Texas Safety Association is essential to safer communities.

"The Legion believes that the addition of 200 men for the Texas Highway Patrol is necessary. At present, high speed motorists and drunk drivers are making death corridors of rural communities and open highways, these death corridors will continue to exact their ghastly toll.

"The Legion believes that the adoption of a Model Traffic Code for uniform traffic regulations is essential to safe travel.

"The Legion believes that more certainty of punishment is needed in the trial of the drunk driver, the hit-and-run driver and the juvenile traffic violator.

"It believes that driver license fees should be used for driver license administration and for the Texas Highway Patrol—not for purposes totally unrelated to traffic control.

"The Legion believes that a Controlled Access Highway Law is necessary to permit safer entry into and departure from heavily traveled highways.

"The Legion believes that driver education and driver training courses should be adopted in the curricula of our schools.

Texas can control traffic murder if the majority of law-abiding citizens will make their voices heard, and their actions felt, in this cause of a Safer Texas."

Dependent Parents Now Eligible

A larger number of dependent parents will be eligible for monthly survivors payments under the Social Security Act because of two changes that were made in that Act, effective January 1, 1947. This announcement was made today by Ralph T. Fisher, manager of the Abilene office of the Social Security Administration.

Under previous provisions of the law the parent could not become eligible for benefits if a widow or an unmarried child under 18 survived. Under the new law the survival of such child or widow will not bar the parent unless such child or widow can be entitled to monthly payments either immediately or at a later date. The parent thus may be eligible in cases where the widow was not living with the worker at the time of his death, and in cases where the children were not "dependents". Monthly payments can not be made unless the parent was dependent; proof of such dependency must be filed within two years of the date of the worker's death, although the monthly payments are not due until the parent becomes 65.

The 1946 amendments also change the wording of the law to read "chiefly dependent" instead of "wholly dependent". The parent must still have received the major portion of his support from the son or daughter who has died, but this change will make a number of parents eligible who could not otherwise qualify.

Any questions about these amendments should be submitted to the nearest office of the Social Security Administration. The Abilene Office is located at 205 Alexander Building.

Mrs. H. D. Wade Honored With Bridal Shower

Mrs. H. D. Wade was recipient to a Bridal Shower Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. L. H. Matthews, Sr.

Guests who called from 3:00 to 5:00 o'clock were registered in a lovely white leather Bride's Book by Mrs. L. H. Matthews, Jr. Eighty guests were registered during the afternoon.

Dainties were served from a lace-laid table, which was centered with beautiful cut-flowers; after which guests were asked into the bedroom to view the many lovely gifts.

Hostesses for the afternoon were: Miss Inez Rice, Mmes. H. D. Black, L. H. Matthews, Sr., G. H. Brown, L. M. Johnson, D. E. McKinzie, Cora Lewis, C. C. York, James McAttee, Mary Scogins, Ralph Brantner, L. H. Matthews, Jr., W. L. Buckelew, G. W. Branch, Glenn Hancock, Grady Jones, W. M. McLaury, and B. J. Kellett.

Veterans Are Reminded

Veterans in West Texas who have let their National Service Life Insurance lapse or become inactive, were reminded today by Zerk O. Robertson VA Contact Representative at Abilene, Texas, that they have until February 1, 1947, under existing regulations, to reinstate policies without physical examinations.

Reinstatement can be made in most cases by the veteran signing a statement that his health is as good today as it was when his insurance lapsed.

After February 1, 1947, term policies lapsed more than six months or permanent policies, such as Ordinary Life, etc., lapsed more than three months, will require a physical examination, VA's insurance service reported.

All or part of the policy may be renewed and back payments do not have to be paid on the term insurance. Only two monthly premiums or the amount to be reinstated must accompany the reinstatement application, which can be obtained at any VA contact or Regional Office.

National Service Life Insurance policies issued for war-time service can be converted to any of the standard permanent forms of insurance during the term period. Insurance issued prior to January 1, 1946, may be carried for eight years from the date of issue.

Policies issued since January 1, 1946, may be carried for five years or converted during the five years to a permanent plan of insurance.

Under liberalized provisions, veterans may designate any beneficiary to receive the proceeds of their policies in a lump sum, if they so desire. The government bears all administrative costs of the insurance.

The citizens of Jayton and territory welcome this new family and hope they prosper and enjoy their new home. Mr. Newberry and family will remain in Jayton for the present time enjoying a much deserved and needed vacation.

Pioneer Farmer Of Peacock Dies

Aspermont. — George Washington Myers, 82, pioneer Stonewall county farmer, died at his home six miles south of Peacock Monday at 4 a. m.

He had lived in Stonewall county for 60 years.

Funeral services were held at the Double Mountain Baptist church at 2 p. m. Tuesday with the Rev. W. Taylor North, former pastor in Peacock, officiating.

He is survived by his wife; two sons, Fatie Myers of Peacock and George Myers of Weatherford; two daughters, Mrs. Edith Meador of Peacock and Mrs. Araminta Crabtree of Wilson; and 13 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Tuberculosis Is Still A Very Serious Problem

Austin, Texas. — "Carelessness and ignorance represent two of the most powerful factors in spreading communicable diseases from man to man. No more emphasis example of the knowledge of its cause and spread, and of curative methods, tuberculosis is still a very serious problem not only in Texas, but throughout the United States," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"It is true that tuberculosis no longer is first on the list of killing diseases, as it was formerly," Dr. Cox said, "but despite having been reduced to fifth place in Texas, it still is responsible for more deaths between the ages of fifteen and forty-five than any other disease. And this fact exists even though the majority of tuberculosis patients could have their condition arrested if it were recognized early and proper treatment applied.

"Treatment of the early recognized case is essential. It is of equal importance, from a public health viewpoint, that the spread of this devastating infection be prevented. A more intelligent appreciation of this fact would result in the saving of thousands of lives.

"When a diagnosis of active tuberculosis has been made, examination of all of the other members of the immediate family should follow as a matter of course. Tuberculosis runs in families, not because of any especial susceptibility to the disease, but because it is communicable, being usually transmitted through and prolonged contact with the active case."

To reduce the number of deaths caused by tuberculosis, Dr. Cox suggests periodic examination of all adults, a check-up by physicians of the known active cases and contacts, regular examinations of high school children, isolation or hospitalization of the active tuberculosis case, and a more intelligent application of hygienic living principles.

You will be given a privilege to make a contribution to the Infantile Paralysis drive at The Jayton Baptist Church, Sunday January 26, 1947.

The warning signal light on highway 380 through Jayton was put back in working order Monday, and someone with nothing better to do, broke the yellow glass lens Monday night.

Marvin Jones Named To U. S. Claims Court

Washington, Jan. 20. — President Truman Monday nominated Marvin Jones, former war food administrator and member of Congress for 24 consecutive years, to be chief justice of the U. S. Court of Claims.

A laconic Texan whose chief hobbies are western movies and reading the biographies of great men, Jones served in Congress from 1917 to 1940 when he was appointed to the U. S. Court of Claims by President Roosevelt. He is a Democrat.

During his long years as a Texas representative, he won the reputation of never having one of his bills defeated. He was chairman of the powerful house committee on agriculture from 1931 to 1940.

On leave from his federal judgeship during the year, Jones served as assistant to James F. Byrnes, then director of economic stabilization, and in 1934 was appointed chairman of the American delegation to the United Nations Food conference and president of the conference.

Born on a farm near Valley View, Cooke County, Texas, Jones was graduated from Southwestern University at Georgetown, Texas in 1905 and two years later took his law degree at the University of Texas.

He never attended grade or high school, but armed with a "fireside" education he became, at 17, a teacher in a one-room school.

Jones succeeds Richard S. Whaley of South Carolina, who recently announced his retirement as chief justice.

Ed note: Judge Jones's many Kent county friends extend to him their sincere congratulations upon his deserved promotion.

Amendments To The Social Security Act

February 10, 1947, is a date that should not be overlooked by families of World War II veterans who have died after receiving their discharge.

The 1946 amendments to the Social Security Act provide that payments may be made to the survivors of certain World War II veterans.

In any case where a World War II veteran died after receiving his discharge, and the family has not contacted the Social Security Administration since October 1, 1946, an inquiry should be made as soon as possible. If monthly benefits are due these payments can be made retroactive to the date of the veteran's death, if applications are filed by February 10, 1947. Payments may be made on applications filed after February 10, 1947, but can be retroactive for not more than 3 months. For more detailed information about the veteran's amendment, interested parties should visit or write the nearest Social Security Administration Field Office. The Abilene office is located at 205 Alexander Building, Abilene, Texas.

Swing Of Southwest Farm Markets

Hogs led the upward price trend last week at most southwest farm markets with sheep, wheat, sorghums and eggs in low, but prices of cotton, feeds, cattle and most vegetables declined, according to USDA's Production and Marketing Administration.

Last week opened with good demand and strong prices for beets, cabbage, carrots and spinach in the lower Rio Grande Valley, since wet fields curtailed harvesting. As loadings became heavier, prices declined. Cabbage and carrots dropped sharply. However, beets were still scarce and high. Broccoli remained firm. Spinach from the Winter Garden-Eagle Pass area moved slowly in a dull market. Louisiana reported moderate demand and better feeling for sweetpotatoes. At Colorado shipping points, onions were higher and potatoes steady. Texas citrus shipments were rather heavy with prices about unchanged.

Demand for shelled peanuts was slow, although slightly better than in recent weeks. The market was weaker and no farmers' stock offered.

Rough rice markets were still, since small stocks in farmers' hands were being held for seed. Prices were reported rather high with supplies already scarce in some sections. Heavy demand and firm prices continue to rule milled rice markets.

Wheat and sorghums moved a little higher at southwest markets last week. Other grains were steady to weak. Feed prices followed uneven trends with bran down and shorts up. Cottonseed and soybean meals were lower. Alfalfa hay moved better under improved demand but trading was slow in other types at prevailing prices.

Fryers were lower, hens about steady, and eggs somewhat stronger at most southwest markets last week. Current receipt eggs ranged from 38 to 42 cents per dozen.

Hogs gained 50 cents to $1.50 around the market circle. Top butchers sold at $21.50 to $22 per hundred at San Antonio; $23.25 to $23.50 at Ft. Worth, Oklahoma City and Wichita; $23.95 to $24 at Denver, the highest at this market since early December.

Cattle declined at some southwest markets last week as trading grew dull. However, Denver reported firm to steady prices with medium to good steers bringing $18 to $24 a hundred and common to good cows $13 to $15.50. San Antonio prices were irregular with medium and good shorted yearlings and steers selling at $17 to $22. Medium and good steers brought $20 to $22 at Oklahoma City; $18 to $22 at Wichita and $16 to $22 at Fort Worth. Common and medium steers and yearlings realized $11 to $16 at Houston.

Active trading at southwest sheep and lamb markets last week kept prices steady to strong. But some weakness showed up at Wichita where good and choice Texas lambs sold at $22.60 to $22.80 per hundred. Good and choice fat lambs brought $22.75 at Ft. Worth; $22 to $22.50 at Oklahoma City; and mostly $22.50 at Denver. San Antonio's receipts were hardly large enough to establish a market, but a few sales of medium fall shorn lambs went at $16.

What Do You Think?

NO BONUS, PLEASE
By Lynn W. Landrum

Bonus-hungry veterans are trying to get the Legislature to sponsor a state bonus for themselves and their fellow servicemen. They are talking in terms of an average of $600 to each veteran with an estimated cost to the people of Texas of possibly $400,000,000. It is to be hoped that the Legislature does not authorize one dime to any such demand.

Too Much Patriotism.

The Federal Government is occasionally at fault in its monetary dealings with an individual veteran, but, on the whole, the generosity of the American people with the men who fought in World War II is unparalleled in the history of the world. As the Veterans Administration tightens up its own machinery and gets an adequate hold upon its job, it will undoubtedly improve its service and take care of practically every needy veteran whose claims have any justice whatever.

But this whole business of putting the dollar sign upon citizenship is mistaken, misguided and misused. The returned veteran has been given preference after preference. He has already collected large sums, whether under the guise of severance pay, unemployment pay, educational pay, or on-the-job-training pay. Those who have remained in the armed services have been advanced in rank and in pay. If anything, America has done more than it should have done for thousands upon thousands of well-to-do veterans.

Corrupting the Ballot.

There is something vicious about any political system which works out so that the voters vote more money into his own pocket. Under any such system, the ballot cannot be disinterested. The corruption of the soldier-bonus voted by the power of the soldier vote at the polls is not criminal under our statutes. But it corrupts the vote just the same. Every good citizen, whether he was a soldier or not, ought to stand against such a system and resist it with all his might.

If the time ever comes that an old soldier needs support to keep him from want, through no fault of his own, he becomes a legitimate object of public concern and of public care. But that is quite a different matter from the proposal to open the gates of the public treasury and invite all former servicemen to come in and shovel out $500 or $600 for themselves, whether they legitimately need it or not.

The whole theory of making pan-handlers and tin-cup boys out of every man who wore a uniform is wrong. The proposal to hand out $500 to $600 each, even to men who are worth a million dollars, is not good sense, even if it were good economics.

Answer to Puzzle Number 50

Series G-46

It is true that workingmen who stayed at home made far more than most Americans who went to war. But a man who can figure out a reasonable wage for crawling around in no-man's-land while the hardware is raining down is practically bound to be a man who never was out there. There is no market price for defending your country—and there ought to be none.

The Legitimate Reward

There are thousands upon thousands of veterans to whom you simply can't pay a bonus. Those veterans sleep, some of them, beneath white crosses today, and some sleep under wild waters or in unmarked graves. For them there is no reward save the gratitude of their country and the high resolve of every living citizen, whether he be veteran or not, to make America a better America and a more unselfish America.

Instead of trying to find something that the country can do for himself, it is time for every veteran to search his soul to see if there may be some service, however humble, however little noted, which he may render this wonderful America of ours.

Any soldier worth his salt abroad is bound to have seen a lot of things that America has been spared. He is bound to have had moments of deep silent consecration of himself to a ruder and finer Americanism, if the Lord God Almighty would be kind enough to permit the soles of his feet ever again to touch American soil. In the midst of blood and danger and desolation, that vow seemed sensible enough. It ought to be just as valid now.

The Larger Good.

The word bonus means good. Good for whom? Let the demander of the bonus think about that for a moment. A lot of former wearers of the uniform have become cynical as they see the selfishness around them. They see unfairness, dishonesty and racketeering. They see faithlessness between man and wife, neglect between father and child, lawlessness between tit-ten and state. It is human to say, "To hell with it all; give me mine!" It is human; but it is wrong.

Not the private good, but the larger good; not the greatest exaction from our generation but the greatest contribution to our day and time; not the hand outstretched in the age-long gesture of beggary, but the hand held out to aid the genuine distress of another—this ought to be the creed of any man who has marched into flying lead and steel and who has been permitted to come back alive to this marvelous America of ours.

Shame on the country for falling into this era of disillusionment and greedy forgetfulness. But double shame upon those who have seen flaming courage and soaring sacrifice and then turn again to the grabbing of bonuses and sinecures and rake-offs that political pressure may obtain.

Rebirth for America.

Where is the cry for peace that welled up in the hearts of millions—two millions when the guns hushed and the bombs ceased to fall? Has the prayer turned to a curse? One world? Rebirth of men? Where are they?

Surely we need an America reborn. We need a love of country not measured in dollars. A generation with itching palms is not worthy of peace. Surely the good God has something better for America than $500 to $600 to the man, demanded at the point of the ballot.

BORDERS

The depth of winter is a good time to leave the high-speed highways for leisurely recollection on forgotten lanes. Only a few are left, following the contours of low hills and dipping into valleys where concrete and macadam have not taken over.

Look at the old borders, for instance, almost a history of yesterday's folk and folkways. Here and there still stands a stone wall, lichen-covered, worn with time and the effacements of elements, but sturdy as the day some pioneer laid it with infinite patience. In its day it was a fine structure. It denoted a home and property that were respected.

It was a story of land tilled carefully by hands that knew the value of security through self-provisioning. Perhaps a path parallels it where a man and his son led stock to the valley below. Thickets and tree borders still exist, too—venerable trees like the ash and elm, and hackberry planted by those who knew not hinging of wire and impene-trating fence. One by one they go, felled for weed and space, with only a stump to remind of their years.

They are monuments, these borders, of another day when life was simpler, when man was close to the earth that gave him strength, when an ax and ox team and hard stones were foundations of an empire built with brawn and faith. They are the valedictory of a day that is gone but lingers in memory.

"SO YOU DON'T LIKE TEXAS," by Virginia Spencer in "Holland's" - a Texas Magazine:

This is your first trip to Texas, you have been here a few weeks and you are more than ready to go home. Texans are all right, but you just cannot get along with them. The facts are, they get into your hair, and are annoyed because you let them.

You have been taught that if a thing needs to be done, then do it right now. Texans are a little different. They reason that if you wait until tomorrow or next year, maybe you will not have to do it. It usually works out that way, especially if there is somebody like you around all fired up to do it right now. Which is all right with Texas.

A native Texan would rather sit down and talk it over than get the job done. He likes to talk, and after he has told you his family history, he sits back expectantly, eager to hear you tell yours. If you fail to reciprocate, you are not friendly and, therefore, queer. After patient prodding if he still gets no results, he diagnoses your case. You are just a damn Yankee, which means that you hailed from somewhere north of Red River. Lots of "furriners" from up north are real folks once you get to know them: but they are all a little "standoffish" at first.

To you, the "furriner" from up north (which may mean that you are from Kentucky or California) Texans seem nosy. It isn't that you have anything to hide, but you wonder why anyone should be interested in things which are, strictly, none of their business.

There is only one way you can ruffle the easy going Texan. Ruffle him? You will make him fighting mad if you persist in it. That one thing is to try to change him, teach him to become like you. He does not want to be like you. He confidently expects to live to put flowers on the graves of people like you, and he usually does. He reasons that if you don't like this country, you can go back where you came from. And sure enough you do.

Or maybe you don't. Possible circumstances detain you a while longer, an unwilling guest, in friendly Texas. What happens? Do you continue trying to change Mr. and Mrs. Texas into a perfect composite of Messrs. and Mesdames Massachusetts, Maine, Michigan and Montana? No, you realize you might as well try to change the miles of grassy plains into a range of snow-capped peaks.

So you admit, a bit grimly perhaps, that Texans are Texans and that is that. And since you cannot change them, you must make the necessary adjustments to get along peaceably with them. But how? The answer is simple. Be yourself and allow them to be themselves. Do

Knowing Meat Cuts Valuable To Homemaker

Ability to identify the many cuts of beef, veal, pork and lamb is of practical value to every homemaker—to every food buyer. No less important is a knowledge of the cooking method or methods best suited to each cut, since meat must be cooked according to cut for best results.

This chart will serve as a guide in selecting and cooking beef. The methods recommended were adopted following exhaustive meat cookery studies at state colleges and the United States Department of Agriculture.

In cooking meat, the degree of tenderness is the governing factor. Some of the cuts are tender and are prepared to best advantage by dry heat methods—roasting, broiling, panbroiling and frying. Others are less tender and must be cooked by moist heat—braising and simmering. Meat should never be boiled, say the authorities.

A rule of meat cookery found to be more important than any other is: "Always use low temperature." This applies no matter what cut is being prepared or what cooking method is being used.

Advantage of Low Heat

Thousands of carefully controlled tests have shown that from 15 to 20 per cent more meat is provided when it is cooked at low temperature. Furthermore, the meat is more tender, is juicier, more uniformly cooked and more flavorful.

In selecting meat cuts, it is important to remember that there is no difference in the nutritive value of the lean and fat of the less popular cuts and the more popular ones.

Irish Linen For Cruise Wear

THE characteristic quality of Irish linen, which lends itself to beautiful tailoring, is displayed to advantage in this deceptively simple dress. A square neckline is finished with a small half collar and the fly front closing is fastened at the waist with a self belt and ornamental tortoise shell buckle. Small knife pleats from the bustline add flare to the skirt.

your job as it should be done when it should be done, and let their jobs go unless that interferes with your own work. In that instance, you may prod the native gently, and if he does not respond, then do your job and his too. He will smile tolerantly and think you are a sap.

With your drive, your success in Texas is assured. At the height of that success, you take a trip back home. You rush out to see old friends, to give them the glad hand. The first fellow you meet seems a bit cold, not half as glad to see you as you are to see him. It could be that he is jealous of your success. No, impossible. He must be worried about something. Perhaps you were not sufficiently interested in him and his business. Should you look him up again, ask some friendly questions?

You meet some other friends, and they are all alike, lacking in warmth and friendliness. None of them have done as well as you, doubtless due to the stiff competition in that country. But they should not resent your success. No, jealousy was not the answer. But what?

Disappointed in your vacation, you return to Texas, and feel a glow at the prospect of getting back into the old harness. Your Texas friends and acquaintances welcome you back, give you the glad hand; they say they missed you, ask interested questions, hope you had a nice trip. You are grateful for their interest, flattered by their warm welcome.

Alone, you ponder. What was the matter with the old friends back home? Don't you know? They are the way you used to be. You are a Texan now!

The Texas Public Schools

(This is the first of a series of four articles written about the Texas Public Schools.)

Since 1941, 40 per cent of the teachers of Texas have resigned their jobs. In the United States, 350,000 teachers have done the same thing. The main reason is poor pay. Results: A grave educational problem and one out of six of our teachers sub-standard. During the school year 1945-46, 4,700 teachers in Texas drew less than $1200 per year. Even though the withholding tax on this salary was very small, most all of these teachers are members of the Teachers Retirement System of Texas and contributed 5 per cent of their salaries because of this membership. Hence, they had a take-home pay of less than what would be considered necessary to provide a bare subsistence.

Is this as it should be? Most everyone will tell you that it is not and that something must be done to remedy the situation.

A brief, yet careful study of the public schools in Texas will convince any citizen of the gravity of our educational problems. Such is the purpose of the series of articles to follow.

A study of the Constitution of Texas will show that it was the intention of the framers of our organic law that the state of Texas should provide for a system of public education in keeping with the needs of the citizenship. Article VII, Section I, reads: "A general diffusion of knowledge being essential to the preservation of the liberties and rights of the people, it shall be the duty of the Legislature of the State to establish and make suitable provision for the support and maintenance of an efficient system of public free schools."

In order to lay the foundation for carrying out this section of the state constitution, there was created a Permanent Free School Fund by using the vast public domain of the state for this purpose. The Permanent Fund now aggregates more than $100,000,000. The interest from the investment of this fund is allocated to the Available School Fund, and amounted to $2,770,685.19 for the school year 1945-46.

The Constitution also provided for the creation of County Permanent School Funds by assigning to each county some 17,000 acres of land from the public domain. The principal of the 238 county Permanent Funds is approximately $11,000,000 and provided an income of $500,000 last year.

The Constitution also created the Available School Fund and provided that not less than "one-fourth of the revenue derived from state occupations taxes . . . one dollar of the poll tax and an ad valorem tax not to exceed thirty-five cents on the $100 of property valuation should be allocated to the Available Fund to be distributed annually for the support of the schools."

The available fund is distributed annually on a per capita basis to approximately 1,500,000 children between the ages of 6 and 18.

Significant is the fact that no express limitation is placed in the Constitution on the powers of the legislature to levy additional taxes or make additional appropriations for the support of the public schools or for the establishment and maintenance of institutions of higher learning.

Has the state of Texas and local school districts made suitable provision for the education of the 1,500,000 children of school age in Texas? This will be the subject of succeeding articles in this series.

MAHON ASKS GOVERNMENT WATER AUTHORITIES TO OBTAIN FULL FACTS ON PLAINS WATER SUPPLY

Washington, D. C. — Congressman George Mahon advises that he has personally appealed to William Weather, Director of the Geological Survey in Washington, for an intensive study of the underground water supply of the High Plains of Texas. He emphasized that such a study should be made and an authoritative report given the people at the earliest possible date.

This report would be for information purposes only, Mahon stated. It would enable farmers, ranchers and city officials to better plan their water conservation programs. In commenting on the matter, Mahon stated: "I want to emphatically point out that the Federal Government in Washington has no authority to impose any regulation on the use of water in the High Plains of Texas for irrigation or otherwise. I personally feel that Federal interference would be both illegal and improper. Mr. Weather said that the Government had followed and would continue to follow a strict hands off policy as to legislation and regulation."

"Many West Texans have sought for years to get the fullest possible information in regard to our High Plains water supply. In 1936 I was able to secure an appropriation of Federal money for a study of these water resources and this study has been carried on more or less continuously since that date, and the study is still in progress. Several preliminary reports have already been made, but the reports are not sufficiently conclusive as to the quantity of water which can safely be withdrawn for irrigation purposes. A more aggressive effort to get the facts must be made."

"Director Weather of the Geological Survey, the Federal Agency charged with investigations of our national water and mineral resources, states that present studies indicate conclusively that the High Plains' underground water supply is replenished from rain which falls on the High Plains and not from a water current which flows underground from outside the area."

Mahon stated that steps now being taken in West Texas to get all the facts were in the public interest.
