VA Questions And Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q - I will be discharged from the service this month. What must I do to establish entitlement to educational benefits through the VA?

A - You should apply immediately to the nearest VA office for a Certificate, present it immediately to the registrar of the school you plan to attend, or to the employer you plan to receive on-the-job training or apprentice training.

Q - I am receiving a nonservice-connected pension. When must my annual income questionnaire be returned to the VA?

A - The deadline is January 15, 1970.

Q - Can I use my dividends to pay my National Service Life Insurance?

A - Yes. You may authorize the VA to automatically apply your dividend each year to premiums. The VA will then take your dividend and apply it to future premiums. You may also tell the VA to keep your dividend as a credit to your account, and use it to pay a premium in case you forget.

Q - How much would a VA pensioner with an annual income of $1,650 be entitled to under the new law?

A - A monthly pension of $31 is payable to such veterans who do not have dependents, and whose annual income ranges between $1,600 and $1,700. A veteran with dependents would receive $93 a month.

Conservation of Natural Resources Continues To Play Very Vital Role

"Area producers made a stake in the future by applying needed conservation measures during 1969," said J. C. Yearly, Jr. Yearly is District Conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service serving Haskell County.

"The conservation of natural resources continues to play a very vital role in the everyday life of Haskell Countians," Yearly said. "They are realizing more than ever before the need for applying sound and complete conservation programs on their land. Evidence of this fact lies in the amount of conservation work carried out during 1969," Yearly said.

Highlights of the 1969 accomplishments were the construction of over 147 miles of parallel terraces, the application of nearly 22,000 acres of conservation cropping systems and approximately 16,000 acres of crop residue management reported Yearly.

Local housewives and merchants of the seven towns and communities in the area realize the value of good residue management. Less blowing dust in the winter and spring is a direct result.

According to Yearly about $326,000 was expended by the Agricultural Conservation Program, the Great Plains Conservation Program, and participating farmers and ranchers during 1969. These funds were spent for over 6,000 acres of brush control, eleven farm ponds, 55 acres of grassed waterways, approximately 7,000 feet of underground irrigation pipeline, 70 acres of land leveling for irrigation, 184 acres of pasture planting, 1,279 acres of range seeding, 500 acres of mulching with cotton burs, 20 miles of standard level terraces, and 146 miles of parallel terraces.

The Haskell Work Unit of SCS reported 44 producers developed new conservation plans and 57 revised or updated old plans. A total of 564 producers were assisted during the year. 318 of these producers applied one or more conservation practices. 12 separate units of government were assisted with resource problems.

"The informational program of the work unit," Yearly said, "is of utmost importance in the prouounding of conservation news to the public. It is only fitting that the news media of the area be credited. The Haskell Free Press, the Rochester Reporter, the Stamford American, the Abilene Reporter News, Radio Station KDWT of Stamford, and the Centex Cable Company of Haskell assisted in over 100 news releases and stories, radio programs, and TV Scanner messages on conservation," Yearly concluded.

Cotton Classing Report

Cold weather has continued to hold cotton harvest at a standstill with 80 percent of the crop harvested in the Munday Classing Office territory.

The office classed 2,768 samples during the week ending January 9, 1970, according to A. D. Peebles in charge. This brought the season total to 39,528 for the 1969-1970 season.

Predominant grade for the week was 42 at 31 percent with 52 making up 26 percent of the week's classing. Spotted grades increased with 9 percent 43 and 14 percent 53 respectively. Staple lengths ran 21 percent 29, 36 percent 30, 18 percent 31 and 11 percent 32.

Micronaire readings continued good at 77 percent 3.5 to 4.0 but showed an increase in high mike cotton with 13 percent reading 80,000 pounds per square inch and higher.

Cotton continued to sell good through Thursday with most qualities bringing 200 to 300 points over CCC loan. A slight drop in prices was reported on Friday.

Yearly Speaker:

(Continued from Page 1, Sec. 1) ried out in Haskell County along the lines of soil conservation. He also showed and stressed particular instances of water pollution and illustrated how easily it was being carried into Lake Stamford and urged all citizens to be particularly careful about such practices as it would also involve the proposed Miller Creek Lake.

President Eldon Anderson presided over the meeting. Invocation was given by Rev. H. O. Abbott, and the song session was led by Mayor H. V. Woodard, with the club pianist, Gail Barnett, at the piano. "Prexy" Anderson reported that the recent club sponsored of loans to minorities in the Lubbock Region. This information was released recently by Lubbock Regional Director Fred Neumann, whose territory covers 86 counties.

According to Mr. Neumann, "There were 164 loans made in 1969 for $5,297,000. This compares with 136 loans in 1968 for $4,385,000." "Despite the continuance of tight money SBA has shown a large increase in loans to minorities," he said. "In 1969 thirty loans were made to minorities for $333,000. The figure for 1968 was eleven for $92,500."

Neumann also said, "There has been a steady increase in the number of loans approved with bank participation or under SBA's loan guaranty plan. In 1969 there were 111 loans totaling $7,047,500 with banks compared to 76 loans for $3, 452,500 in 1968. These figures do not include loans made to disaster victims which will vary greatly from year to year."

"Our Region experienced a good increase in management assistance provided to small business both in training programs and counseling," said Neumann. In 1969 SBA co-sponsored or produced 26 management training programs for small businessmen with an enrollment of 1127. "This compares with eight programs in 1968 with enrollment of 826."

"We are encouraged by our Service Corp of Retired Executives volunteer counseling program which is available to any small businessman with a management problem and allows individual counseling by experts."

Registered PUBLIC SURVEYOR County Surveyor O. H. BARTLEY Phone 866-9254 SEYMOUR, TEXAS

Neumann added. The number of SCORE volunteers available for counseling was 18 at the end of 1969 as compared to 14 in 1968.

Any small businessman or prospective new businessman desiring information about SBA should contact the Lubbock Regional Office at 1616 19th St., P. O. Box 10107, Lubbock, Texas.

Henderson And Honea Honored With "Supper"

Tax Questions And Answers

The Haskell County Commissioners Court honored Doc Henderson of Rule, and Ed Honea of Haskell, with an appreciation supper at Felker's Restaurant dining room, Monday, January 5, at 7:30 p. m.

(This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.)

Some 25 persons were present for the special occasion, including the County Commissioners, road hands, and Alford Turnbow, former Haskell County Commissioner and County Judge.

Q—When will the new income tax forms be ready and are you going to mail them to taxpayers as you have in the past?

A—The new 1040 tax forms and instructions for 1969 were mailed to some 75 million taxpayers the last week in December. The forms will also be available at local IRS offices as well as many banks and post offices in January.

All taxpayers will use the new basic one-page Form 1040, adding schedules as needed to accurately report their income and expense situation. It is estimated that over 30 million taxpayers will need just the one-page Form 1040, while another 22 million will have to prepare only one schedule.

To make it more convenient for taxpayers to prepare their 1969 returns, copies of the most used schedules have been included in the tax package. Taxpayers should use only those they need.

Q—In a divorce, who gets to claim the children as dependents?

A—Generally, the parent who has custody of the child is entitled to claim the exemption. The other parent may be entitled to the exemption depending on the wording of the divorce decree and on how much he or she contributes to the child's support.

These rules apply in situations where the divorced or separated parents together provide more than half the child's support and have custody for more than half the year. For more details, send a post card to your IRS district director and ask for Publication 501, Year Exemptions and Exemptions for Dependents, It's free. Q—I have to pay Social Security tax for a cleaning woman I hired this Fall. What is the deadline?

A—The next quarterly return on Form 942 and payment are due February 2 for the calendar quarter ending December 31, 1969, if you paid her $50 or more in wages during the quarter.

Also due by February 2 is a statement to her covering the total amount of wages paid and Social Security taxes withheld during 1969.

This statement should show your name and address as employer, her name, address and Social Security number, the total amount of wages paid, the total amount withheld for Social Security tax. The statement should also indicate that the employee's tax of 4.8 percent for old-age, survivors and disability insurance.

For your convenience, IRS has a form you can use to provide this information to household employees. Copies may be obtained by sending a post card to your District Director

In Time of Emergency Even Untrained Persons Could Help Save Lives of Casualties from Nuclear Attack

In addition to the guidance given in the first of these two articles on emergency care of the sick and injured, there are other important first-aid measures that would save lives in a time of nuclear attack, when doctors and nurses might not be available.

This article is intended to help untrained persons treat four conditions that can cause death or permanent injury—shock, broken bones, burns and radiation sickness.

Preventing and Treating Shock

Being "in shock" means that a person's circulatory system is not working properly, and not enough blood is getting to the vital centers of his brain and spinal cord.

These are the symptoms of shock. The patient's pulse is weak or rapid, or he may have no pulse that can be found. His skin may be pale or blue, cold or moist. His breathing may be shallow or irregular. He may have chills. He may be thirsty. He may get sick at his stomach and vomit. A person can be "in shock" whether he is conscious or unconscious.

Important!

All seriously-injured persons should be treated for shock, even though they appear normal.

Second of 2 Parts and alert. Shock may cause death if not treated promptly, even though the injuries which brought on shock might not be serious enough to cause death. In fact, persons may go into shock without having any physical injuries.

Here is how to treat any person who may be in shock:

1. Keep him lying down and keep him from chilling, but do not apply a hot water bottle or other heat to his body. Also, loosen his clothing.

2. Keep his head a little lower than his legs and hips. But if he has a head or chest injury, or has difficulty in breathing, keep his head and shoulders slightly higher than the rest of his body.

3. Encourage him to drink fluids if he is conscious and not nauseated, and if he does not have abdominal injuries. Every 15 minutes give him a half-glass of this solution until he no longer wants it: One teaspoonful of salt and a half-teaspoonful of baking soda to one quart of water.

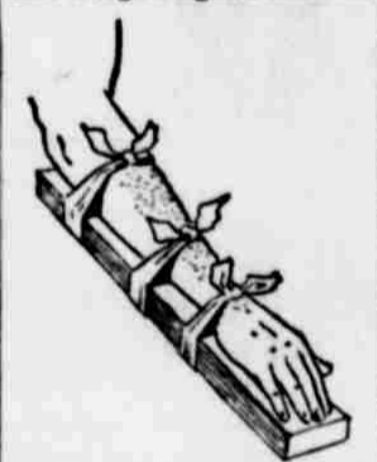

Treatment for Broken Bones

Any break in a bone is called a fracture. If there is a chance a person may have a fracture, treat it as though it were one. Otherwise, further injury may result. For example, if an arm or leg is injured and bleeding, splint it as well as bandage it. With any fracture, first look for bleeding and control it.

Keep the patient comfortably warm and quiet, preferably lying down. If there is an ice bag, apply it to the fracture to ease the pain. Do not move the patient (unless his life is in danger where he is) without first immobilizing the bone that may be fractured. Treat the patient for shock.

A FRACTURED ARM OR LEG should be straightened out as much as possible, preferably by having two persons gently stretch it into a normal position. Then it should be "splinted"; that is, fastened to a board or something else to prevent motion and keep the ends of the broken bone together.

As a splint, use a board, a trimmed branch from a tree, a broomstick, an umbrella, a roll of newspapers, or anything else rigid enough to keep the arm or leg straight. Fasten the arm or leg to the splint with handkerchiefs, strips of cloth, handkerchiefs, neckties, or belts. After splinting, keep the injured arm or leg a little higher than the rest of the patient's body. From time to time, make sure that the splint is not too tight, since the arm or leg may swell, and the blood circulation might be shut off.

If the broken bone is sticking out through the skin but the exposed part of it is clean, allow it to slip back naturally under the skin (but don't push it in) when the limb is being straightened. However, if the exposed part of the bone is dirty, cover it with a clean cloth and bandage the wound to stop the bleeding. Then splint the arm or leg without trying to straighten it out, and try to find a doctor or nurse to treat the patient.

A FRACTURED COL-LAR BONE should also be prevented from moving, until the patient can be given professional medical attention. It can be immobilized by placing the arm on the injured side in a sling and then binding the arm close to the body.

A FRACTURED RIB should be suspected if the patient has received a chest injury or if he has pain when he moves his chest, breathes or coughs. Strap the injured side of his chest with 2-inch adhesive tape if available, or with a cloth bandage or towel wrapped around and around his entire chest.

FRACTURED BONES IN THE NECK OR BACK are very serious, because they may injure the patient's spinal cord and paralyze him or even kill him. He should not be moved until a doctor comes (or a person trained in first aid), unless it is absolutely necessary to move him to prevent further injury.

If a person with a back injury has to be moved, he should be placed gently on his back on a stiff board, door or stretcher. His head, back, and legs should be kept in a straight line at all times. A person with a neck injury should be moved gently with his head, neck, and shoulders kept in the same position they were when he was found. His neck should not be allowed to bend when he is being moved.

What NOT to Do About Burns

- Don't pull clothing over the burned area (cut it away, if necessary).
- Don't try to remove any pieces of cloth, or bits of dirt or debris, that may be sticking to the burn.
- Don't try to clean the burn, don't use iodine or other antiseptics on it, and don't open any blisters that may form on it.
- Don't use grease, butter, ointment, salve, petroleum jelly, or any type of medication on severe burns. Keeping them dry is best.
- Don't breathe on a burn, and don't touch it with anything except a sterile or clean dressing.
- Don't change the dressings that were initially applied to the burn, until absolutely necessary. Dressings may be left in place for a week, if necessary.

Treatment for Burns

Burns are normally in three categories. First degree burns are the least serious, and appear as reddened skin, sore and tender but not blistered. Second degree burns appear as reddened and swollen skin, usually with blisters. If the blisters break, the skin has the appearance of "weeping." Third degree burns involve the total destruction of the skin, and usually some tissue beneath. The skin appears dead white, brown, bright red or charred, and may be swollen at first.

First degree burns should not be covered; in fact, nothing needs to be done for them. However, if a first degree burn covers a large area of the body, the patient should be given fluids to drink as mentioned in Item 2 that follows.

The most important things to do about second or third degree burns are: (a) Treat the patient for shock; (b) Prevent infection; and (c) Relieve pain. These specific actions should be taken:

1. Keep the patient lying down, with his head a little lower than his legs and hips unless he has a head or chest wound, or has difficulty in breathing.

2. Have him drink a half-glass every 15 minutes of a salt-and-soda solution (one teaspoonful of salt and a half-teaspoonful of baking soda to a quart of water). Give him additional plain water to drink if he wants it.

3. Cover the burned area with a dry, sterile gauze dressing. If gauze is not available, use a clean cloth, towel or pad.

4. With soap and water, wash the area around the burn. The dressing will help prevent surface washings from getting into the burned area.

5. Use a bandage to hold the dry dressing firmly in place against the burned area. This will keep moving air from reaching the burn, and will lessen the pain. Leave dressings and bandage in place as long as possible.

6. If adjoining surfaces of skin are burned, separate them with gauze or cloth to keep them from sticking together (such as between toes or fingers, ears and head, arms and chest).

7. If the burn was caused by a chemical, or by fallout particles sticking to the skin or hair, wash the chemical or the fallout particles away with generous amounts of plain water, then treat the burn as described above.

- Don't pull clothing over the burned area (cut it away, if necessary).
- Don't try to remove any pieces of cloth, or bits of dirt or debris, that may be sticking to the burn.
- Don't try to clean the burn, don't use iodine or other antiseptics on it, and don't open any blisters that may form on it.
- Don't use grease, butter, ointment, salve, petroleum jelly, or any type of medication on severe burns. Keeping them dry is best.
- Don't breathe on a burn, and don't touch it with anything except a sterile or clean dressing.
- Don't change the dressings that were initially applied to the burn, until absolutely necessary. Dressings may be left in place for a week, if necessary.

Facts About Radiation Sickness

Radiation sickness is caused by the invisible rays given off by particles of radioactive fallout. If a person has received a large dose of radiation in a short period of time—generally, less than a week—he will become seriously ill and probably will die. But if he has received only a small or medium dose, his body will repair itself and he will probably get well. No special clothing can protect a person from gamma radiation, and no special medicines can protect him or cure him of radiation sickness.

SYMPTOMS. Symptoms of radiation sickness may not be noticed for several days. The early symptoms are lack of appetite, nausea, vomiting, fatigue, weakness and headache. Later, the patient may have sore mouth, loss of hair, bleeding gums, bleeding under the skin, and diarrhea. But these same symptoms can be caused by other diseases, and not everyone who has radiation sickness shows all these symptoms, or shows them all at once.

TREATMENT. If the patient has headache or general discomfort, give him one or two aspirin tablets every 3 or 4 hours (half a tablet, for a child under 12). If he is nauseous, give him "motion sickness tablets" if available. If his mouth is sore or his gun is bleeding, have him use a mouth wash made of a salt-and-soda solution.

If there is vomiting or diarrhea, he should drink slowly several glasses each day of a salt-and-soda solution, plus bouillon or fruit juices. If available, a mixture of kaolin and pectin should be given for diarrhea. Whatever his symptoms, the patient should be kept lying down, comfortably warm, and resting.

Radiation sickness is not contagious or infectious, and one person cannot "catch it" from another person.

The information in this story, the last of two articles on emergency medical care, was furnished by the U.S. Department of Defense, Office of Civil Defense, to help people prepare for a nuclear attack and learn what actions to take in case an attack should occur. Local government authorities are responsible for supplying the public with more detailed survival instructions for this area. This information was drawn from the OCD publication "In Time of Emergency" (H-14), which is available without charge at local civil defense offices.

HASKELL CAP NEWS

By ETHEL PHEA

The Haskell CAP staff attended a three-day training program in Abilene the past week. The session consisted of "Community Development," Contact and Referral Forms, Parliamentary Procedures and other procedures necessary in organizing the community and upgrading the CAP workers.

January 9, Friday...A meeting was held at the Neighborhood Center.

The executive director, Joe

Ramon, assistant director, John Stripling; program specialist, Mrs. Marie Slaughter, met with a group to inform them about the plans Mr. Ramon has for the coming year.

Among those present were: Mayor Woodard and Board members, the Rev. Isaias Longoria, Felipe Arredondo, Albert Sharp, George Billington, L. C. Johnson and the local CAP personnel.

Mr. Ramon said he hoped to be a part of the organization, working hand in hand and shoulder to shoulder with the citizens of the community. He said he is not here to make trouble. He is here as a friend and his purpose, he declared, is to fulfill the objectives of the CAP. Mr. Ramon said, people don't understand each other, because they don't communicate. Even as human beings are alike, each differs. Life must be "you and I together, but not mixed. As we share and communicate we grow and learn, but we retain our individuality, and our preferences and choices." We believe like Mr. Ramon, that pressure is not the point. We believe that we can meet together, discuss our problems together, and try to solve our problems together.

January 15: Thursday night is CAP Home Demonstration Club at the Center.

January 10: Twenty-five were given inoculations at the Neighborhood Center. If you are one of those who has gotten behind with your shots... February 7th is the next clinic date. Dr. Williams, Mrs. Medley, Mrs. Kimbrough, Mrs. Ar-ther and Mrs. Bertha Jasso worked in the clinic last Saturday. Mrs. Robertson, the Coordinator, has given time at each clinic.

Lone Star Sets $40.9 Million For Projects

Lone Star Gas Company and its subsidiaries plan to invest nearly $41 million in construction projects in 1970, a $6.43 million increase over the company's 1969 construction budget, according to Louis G. James, president.

James announced the new budget this week and said that the funds would be used in part to increase the company's gas reserves and gas delivery capabilities, improve gas distribution services and extend utility service to a projected 22,200 new customers during the year.

James also said that the 1970 budget represents a continuation of company programs in the areas of safety, air and water pollution control and diversification.

AN EPOCH BEGINS

"If we can land men on the moon, we can do anything." These or similar words expressing the same thought, have been uttered countless times since Neil Armstrong took his one small step in behalf of mankind last July on the surface of the moon.

Christendom itself may well have begun with the travels of Jesus. Centuries later there were the Crusades. Marco Polo's legendary odyssey spread the knowledge of an Asian civilization.

The essence of the landings on the moon may elude our grasp for generations or centuries to come, yet the record on balance indicates that the U. S. and its millions of good citizens will be feature attractions in the unfolding story...

Ice Follies To Abilene February 4-8

The world-famous Shipsteads and Johnson Ice Follies International will play in Texas for the first time in 1970.

The Texas premiere will be in Abilene February 4-8, in the new Taylor County Coliseum, recently completed at a cost of over $2 million.

Ice Follies is the oldest of the ice shows. It is billed as "The Most Beautiful Show in the World." Each season, Ice Follies is an entirely new show, spectacle after spectacle of major production numbers and the featured acts of such exciting new stars as Jay Humphrey, whose intricate footwork, airborne whirls and acrobatic cartwheels on ice skates won him the 1968 and 1969 Canadian Men's Singles Championships.

Abilene's Feb. 4 opening night of the Ice Follies has been reserved as a Dyess Command Performance for the military, dependents and civilian employees of Dyess Air Force Base at Abilene.

An Abilene box office for ticket mail orders opened January 5. Joe Cooley, Taylor County

Coliseum manager, has announced.

All seats are reserved. Tickets are $4, $3 and $2. Special consideration is given to groups of 25 or more.

An area of the Coliseum grounds will be reserved for buses which bring school and other large groups to Ice Follies from throughout this West Texas area, said Cooley.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor: The members of the Wesleyan Service Guild of the First United Methodist Church of Haskell wish to express our appreciation to the men of West Texas Utilities and of General Telephone Company, who worked so hard under very adverse conditions to restore the electricity and telephones to which we have become so accustomed.

I am drafting this letter by lantern light while waiting for our New Year's blackeyed peas to cook on our little gasoline camp stove, to express some New Year's thoughts on this first night of 1970.

It is so unique during this modern age of moon walks, astrodomes and jet air travel, to find an old boy under candle light thinking about a good hot bath, but here I am, surrounded by neighbors in the same condition.

Our security lights are dark, the water pumps inoperative, electric blankets pulled off the bed, the TV is quiet, and the telephones inoperative for the fifth consecutive day.

Actually though, the purpose of this letter is not to describe what most of your readers have already experienced during this ice storm, but rather to tell you how I have become more aware of many of the things that have become so commonplace that they are taken for granted in our society.

The greatest example I can think of tonight is that precious electricity I can see in Haskell and Stamford right now. If you don't think it is taken for granted in this house, just follow me around some day and see how many switches I flip at dusk automatically, knowing full well that our electricity is off.

One of my neighbors even tried to turn on a light to check the electric clock so he would know what time the electricity went off. It's really awful to realize how dependent we've become on the stuff.

My Dad has often spoken of those few men who banded together in 1939 to originate our electrical Co-Op system, of the pressures that were brought to bear to stop them, and of the problems they had, but up until now, it was just a story like Daniel Boone or Ben Franklin and his kite.

Also, while we are at it, let's bless those people we rarely see who keep our electricity in our homes. I see linemen every day who are giving up their holidays to climb ice slick

JAN. 1 SAW INCREASE IN HOSPITAL CARE COSTS FOR MEDICARE PATIENTS

Rising hospital care costs across the nation have forced Medicare's inpatient hospital deductible and coinsurance amounts to be increased accordingly, announced R. R. Tuley, Jr., social security district manager in Abilene.

New rates in the hospital deductible and coinsurance became effective January 1, 1970, he continued. The deductible, payable at the beginning of a "benefit period" upon entrance in a hospital, was increased by $8, from $44 to $52.

The coinsurance payable by the patient after the first 90 days of hospitalization, rose from $11 to $13 per day.

Coinsurance for the 60-day life insurance reserve (beginning after 90 days hospitalization) was increased from $22 to $26 daily.

Although Medicare will continue to pay all costs for the first 20 days in an extended care facility (skilled nursing home), the patient will be required to pay an additional dollar a day, $6.50 instead of $5.50, for the 21st through the 100th day of such care.

Tuley noted that these increased rates apply, however, only to benefit periods or "spells of illness" beginning on or after January 1, 1970. This means that Medicare beneficiaries receiving hospital or skilled care in a nursing home on December 31, 1969, will continue to pay at the old rate through this spell of illness.

The increased rates will apply for the next spell of illness, which will begin after they have been out of a hospital or skilled nursing home for at least 60 days.

Some of them from other areas who have come in to help light this community, then they will disappear back into the background and we will all start taking them for granted again.

So from one grateful man, bless you linemen, foremen, storehouse managers, administrators, clerks, electricians, and what one else connected with our Co-Op. And especially, God bless that tired little man that finally pulls the switch that fires up that old water pump!

TOO LATE FOR LAST WEEK
Because of the bad weather and the telephones being out, I have not written my column

BITTER CRITTER — The Litter Critter, the Texas Highway Department's faithful sidekick in the battle against highway litter, now is making his appearance on colorful 17x22-inch posters. for the past two weeks, hoping that I could contact everybody this week, but still some of the telephones are not working in Sagerton, and many of the people out from town still do not have electricity for over a week where poles were broken and the crews are unable to get to them. All this bad weather might have taken us back to the "good old days" and we enjoyed the togetherness with our families, but it sure was inconvenient.

Our community mourns the passing of one of our oldest citizens, Mr. Oscar Gibson, who passed away Friday at the Stamford Memorial Hospital. The Gibsons, living in Stone-wall County, but being in the Sagerton School District, were always a part of both the Sagerton and Old Glory communities and they had many, many friends. He and Mrs. Gibson, who passed on in January of 1969, will both be missed.
