Labeling Of Cosmetics Under Federal Fire

Cosmetic firms are one of the latest industries to come under the fire of a government agency because of consumer pressures.

Cosmetic manufacturers have resisted mandatory labeling regulations with the defense of giving trades secrets and spoiling their labels' appearance.

Roxanne Schnorr said that retailers, including drug stores and supermarkets are further pressuring the issue of satisfactory labeling of cosmetics. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has jurisdiction over the cosmetic industry.

The proposed plan isn't the final work on cosmetics. It may take mandatory ingredient listing in addition to pre-market testing and certification, to protect consumers adequately.

"The FDA and the Cosmetic Fragrance and Toiletries Association are working on a voluntary plan," Miss Schnorr said. "The proposed regulations would require cosmetic firms to specifically request secrecy of information detailing reasons why the product should be eligible for exemption from the Freedom of Information Act."

Norman Hahn Is Now The Kent County Judge

Norman Hahn, who won the Democratic runoff election here Saturday, defeating Raldo Goodall, 356 to 341, was appointed Monday to fill out the unexpired term of Bob Gallagher, and was sworn in by County Clerk Hartense North.

Hahn has been teaching in the Jayton School system for 13 years, and also raises Angus Cattle.

This was his third race for the office.

County Clerk Hartense North, administers the oath of office to Norman Hahn, who won the runoff election here Saturday, and then was appointed to the position by the Kent County Commissioners Court.

Present members of the Kent County Commissioners Court are shown here, Donnie Carrier, Commissioner, Precinct No. 4, Gordon Hamilton, Commissioner, Precinct No. 1, County Judge Norman Hahn, Sarah Byrd, Commissioner of Precinct No. 3, and Carol Dickerson, Commissioner, Precinct No. 2. Dickerson is the senior member of the Court. Hamilton will be replaced the first of the year by Bill Farks, and Mrs. Byrd will be replaced by Ricky Kyle.

Tips on Stretching Vacation Budgets

If you're thinking of a trip abroad this year, travel experts suggest several tips to stretch your vacation budget. Most European countries will have higher prices this year, including Britain, West Germany, Switzerland, France, Italy and Russia. The dollar will go farthest in Spain, Portugal, Greece, Austria and Yugoslavia.

Costs are up sharply in Japan, and most of the Far East.

In Mexico, the dollar's value is unchanged, and many hotels and restaurants offer special bargains for Americans.

Package tours are a good bargain and many show no increase in prices.

There are still good bargains in airline and steamship round-trip fares. Careful researching is a must to determine the least expensive ways to travel.

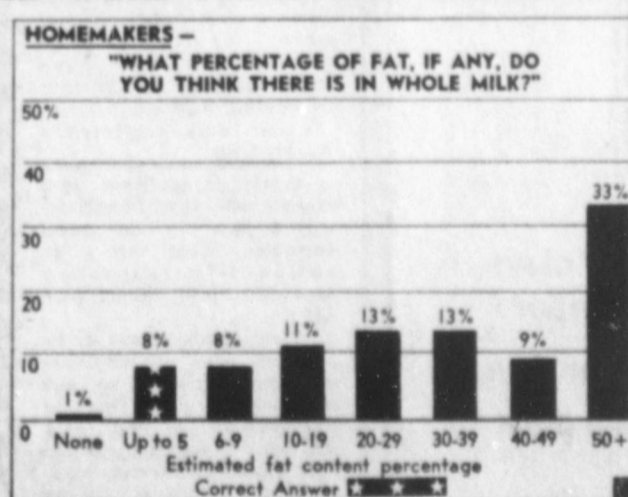

Many countries do not provide means of converting currency into dollars on departure, so keep foreign currency to a minimum before leaving.

Many travel experts and economists recommend the use of international credit cards because in times of currency fluctuation restaurants, shops and hotels will always accept well-established credit cards like Carte Blanche. Credit cards also provide an itemized list of expenses - a big help in estimating your budget for your next trip.

Count Milk In When You Count Calories

In a time of calorie counting and weight watching, it's important that Americans remember they get about 42.5 percent of their calories from fat, but only 4.5 percent of their calories from milk. One cup of regular milk contains 160 calories. And it's a fact that regular milk is 96 percent fat free, actually a low fat product. Unfortunately, not all homemakers know the facts about milk. This came out in a 1970 survey by the United States Department of Agriculture that indicated that "thirty three percent of the homemakers polled thought regular whole milk contained at least 50 percent fat."

Hour-long interviews were conducted among a representative sample of 2,200 homemakers to determine their attitudes toward dairy products. More than six out of 10 homemakers who reported having used whole milk in the year preceding the survey said "they felt the product contributed to good health and mentioned its food value or specific nutrients such as proteins or calcium." About half gave taste, flavor or preference reasons.

More than 36 percent of the homemakers polled said that weightwatching influenced food choices for their households. Because of this important sales factor and the lack of knowledge about fat content of milk, American Dairy Association conducts consumer information programs to remind homemakers that regular milk is a low fat product, at least 96 percent fat free. Serious dieters who count calories carefully should count milk in each day. As one of the Basic 4 food groups, milk can be counted on to provide the minerals and vitamins necessary to maintain a balanced diet.

As It Looks From Here

By Rep. Omar Burleson
Member of Congress, Texas

AT THE END OF LAST WEEK'S comments, a distinction was drawn between public wrongs as a matter of responsibility between the courts and the legislative branch of the Federal Government.

The Conservative view is that public wrongs do not lend themselves to judicial solutions. Rather it is a matter of legislative initiative to determine the questions of public policy and spending priorities. Only a broadly based representative body can bring the judgment to bear on these factors in order to place them in perspective.

More fundamental decisions involving public policy matters should be made by a democratically selected and a political body directly answerable to the people.

Properly, the courts have played a role in limiting excesses in the exercise of legislative and executive power. But, they have done so within the context of private litigation and have carefully avoided challenging governmental policy as distinguished from constitutional power to act.

In more recent years this traditional role of the courts has changed. More and more the judges have entertained jurisdiction and ruled on matters aimed at asserted public wrongs. If the Legislative Branch of Government should frustrate the desires of a group of people by rejecting their claims, the courts are asked to furnish relief. This judicial activism is not consistent with the original role of the courts were fashioned for and represents a dangerous shift of power from the people, acting through their elected representatives, to judges who are answerable only to themselves. It is a trend bad for the courts and worse for the Country.

It would be well for crusading judges to ponder this statement by Justice Felix Frankfurter: "The Court's authority -- possessed of neither the purse nor the sword -- ultimately rests on sustained public confidence in its moral sanctity. Such feeling must be nourished by the Court's complete detachment -- in fact, and in appearance -- from political entanglement and by abstention from injecting itself into the clash of political forces in political settlements".

Mr. Justice Frankfurter was one of the most consistent advocates of judicial restraint. It has been the failure of Federal courts at all levels to heed his advice, that constitutes the core of some of the problems we have in this country today.

All too frequently, decisions are rendered on the basis that judges disagree with the Congress on matters of policy. Oftentimes opinions may be couched in language challenging the constitutionality of a law but heavily influenced by their belief that congressional enactment is simply unwise.

THE LATE JUSTICE STONE, who served for 16 years with distinction on the U. S. Supreme Court, expressed this view: "The power of the courts to declare a statute unconstitutional is subject to two guiding principles which ought never to be absent from judicial consciousness. One is that the courts are concerned only with the power to enact statutes, not with their wisdom. The other is that, while unconstitutional exercise of power by the Executive and Legislative Branches of Government is subject to judicial restraint, the only check upon our own exercise of power is our own sense of self restraint. For the removal of unwise laws from the statute books, appeal lies not to the courts but to the ballot box and to the processes of democratic government."

NEXT WEEK'S ARTICLE will give specific examples of more recent actions of the Federal Courts in issuing what is known in legal circles as "affirmative orders."

YOUR LIFE INSURANCE

Prepared by the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters, the national society of life insurance professionals who have earned the C.L.U. designation by meeting high educational, ethical and experience requirements.

Q. Lately things have been exceptionally tight financially and I have to cut down expenses. What can I do about life insurance premiums until things pick up?

A. First, check to see if the company pays you dividends on your policies. If so, you may have specified that the dividends go to buy additional insurance, or to accumulate at interest. Now, on a short term basis, you can direct that dividends go to reduce your premium payments.

Next, if you expect the financial bind to continue, see about paying your premiums quarterly, or even monthly, rather than annually. You pay slightly more this way, so get back to annual premiums as soon as you can.

Also, your policy may have a loan value, and a loan from the company may be the lowest-interest loan you can find anywhere. You can use the loan value of your insurance to pay your premiums, or for any other use you wish. Call your agent.

NOTICE TO PET OWNERS

Due to the fact that Dr. Allen vaccinated well over 100 dogs last Friday evening, he ran out of vaccine before he got all the dogs vaccinated.

The City Councilmen have extended the deadline for two weeks, before all dogs that have not been vaccinated will not be destroyed. Dr. Allen will be back on Friday June 9th at one o'clock to vaccinate. Dr. Allen is offering his services free; all you have to do is pay $2.50 per animal for the vaccine.

If you want to keep your pets be sure and have them at the jail yard on Friday June 9th.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Pedestrian" on Skates

Roller skating on the sidewalk, six-year-old Teddy was hit by a delivery truck backing out of a driveway. In short order, Teddy's parents aimed a damage suit at the trucking company.

At the trial, they noted that pedestrians on sidewalks had the right of way over motor vehicles. "Maybe so," conceded the company. "But this boy was not really a 'pedestrian' at all. He was a roller skater."

However, the court upheld Teddy's claim. The judge said: "While a pedestrian is ordinarily one who travels on foot, the mere circumstance that he has attached to his feet roller skates, or walks on stilts, or uses crutches, does not clothe him with any other character than that of a pedestrian."

Local traffic laws often grant special rights to pedestrians over motorists. In most cases, as in this one, courts have given the word "pedestrian" a broad meaning.

But this works both ways. The status of pedestrian may involve duties as well as rights. Thus:

A woman climbed down from a trolley car and started jaywalking toward an opposite corner. Struck and injured by a passing taxicab, she later sued the cab company for damages. When the company pointed to an ordinance against jaywalking by pedestrians, the woman replied:

"Until I reached the sidewalk I was still a passenger, not a pedestrian. Therefore, the ordinance against jaywalking did not apply to me."

However, the court turned down her excuse. The judge said her status changed from passenger to pedestrian at the moment she got off the trolley.

What is your status if you have car trouble on the road and have to use your feet? In one case, a man was run down while walking behind his stalled car to set out warning flares on the highway. When he sued, he was blamed by the other driver for not walking on the left side of the road--like any other pedestrian.

But the court ruled that, at least in these circumstances, he could not fairly be classified as a pedestrian. The court said he was simply a motorist having an emergency.

Family Cooperation
There was a time when most homeowners faced the weekend with mixed emotions glad to have a few days off, but reluctant to face the drudgery of mowing the lawn and trimming shrubs and hedges.

That's no longer true, thanks to modern cordless electric lawn care tools that are self-contained and easily recharged overnight.

Today's homeowner now can look forward eagerly to an enjoyable weekend of golfing, picnicking or sightseeing--and still get all the trimming chores done. A family of specialized lightweight products from Disston, Inc., makes it possible for the entire family to help Dad spruce up the yard.

Once the grass is mowed, Dad can make short work of cutting the hedges with a cordless electric hedge trimmer that wings along at 2,200 strokes a minute. While one teenager is using the lightweight cordless electric shrubber to shape the yews and boxwoods, another can manuever the grass around trees, walks and driveway with a cordless electric grass shear. Even Mom can get into the act and neatly trim around her flower beds with Disston's upright cordless electric grass shear.

ATTEND THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE

It's pretty evident that we have toppled the little red schoolhouse. Ideas we had about economics, science, race and education itself, have come and gone. New ideas are broaching the surface of life and thundering over us.

Campus unrest and street demonstrations make us reappraise old values and ideas. But one idea remains steadfast. It is the idea that God loves man and men, and that He cares about what happens to our lives.

Are shouting television newscasts and bold headlines overwhelming you? Then you need an open mind and a steady faith. God's love is for you. Your church is where you find out about it. Try it next Sunday. It will help you grasp an old idea, even if it is a new one for you.

WANTED: SPACE SUIT FOR THE MATURE FIGURE

Five daughters are my claim to fame,
 They're now thirteen to twenty;
 Their dating habits-to-be
 Give food for thought aplenty!

Suppose Nance says some warm spring night
 She's tired of every place;
 She thinks that she and Bob (or Billy)
 Will take a walk in space.

Jane's heard her crowd is going to
 The way out, real cool bar
 That's just a few space miles beyond
 Orion's Belt's last star.

Then Bitsy and her date may say
 Before their space-ship ride,
 They might, if bored with sitting down,
 Just step outside and glide.

NEW AND EASY

Now there are first generation hybrids of portulacas too! In this class, named Sunkis, has larger flowers on larger plants than the ones you've previously grown.

A new mixture of California poppies has crinkled petals so that the flowers looked like upturned skirts. It's called Ballerina for those dancing petals.

Among the easiest annual flowers to grow from seeds are portulacas (rose moss) and California poppies. So any new varieties of these 2 flowers are doubly welcome to gardeners.

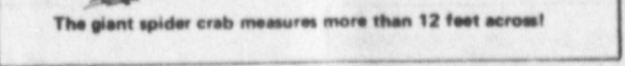

The new class of portulacas, named Sunkis, are first generation hybrids, which have not previously been available in this particular flower. The product of Dr. David Gilbert, a plant breeder, they have double flowers with ruffled petals, larger than those you've previously grown.

Blooms may grow up to 2 1/2 inches across and the dwarf plants may spread 2 feet in diameter.

Seeds of Sunkis can be bought in separate flower colors: scarlet-red, pink, gold, cream, orange and white. This means that you can use portulacas to paint garden pictures in the same way you have previously used petunias!

It has been some time since a new California poppy was introduced and this newcomer, Ballerina, looks as its name suggests. The dainty flowers with their crinkled petals literally dance in the breeze.

Seeds are available in a mixture of colors which include cream, rose, orange and apricot. While portulacas enjoy poor soil and a place in full sun, California poppies perform best where summers are not scorching, though they, too, grow and bloom well in sun and are not particular about the quality of soil around their roots.

The giant spider crab measures more than 12 feet across!

COLONEL'S CORNER

INSIGHTS INTO PSYCHOLOGY
MOTHER SHOULD NOT NECESSARILY BE THE ONE TO WAKE UP HER SCHOOL-AGE CHILD EVERY MORNING. THE CHILD MAY RESENT A MOTHER WHO CONTINUALLY DISTURBS HIS SLEEP AND DISRUPTS HIS DREAMS. IT IS BETTER FOR ALL CONCERNED IF THE CHILD IS AWAKENED BY AN ALARM CLOCK, RATHER THAN BY WHAT MUST LOOK TO HIM LIKE AN "ALARM MOTHER."
EVERYDAY CHICKEN CAN GIVE A HOME-MAKER SOMETHING TO CHW ABOUT—ONE REASON KENTUCKY FRIED CHICKEN IS SO POPULAR. "AMERICA LOVES WHAT THE COLONEL COOKS." THE SLICK CHICK WHO PROVIDES HERE GUESTS THIS TREAT MAY BE CONSIDERED BY THEM TO BE A FINE-FEATHERED FRIEND?

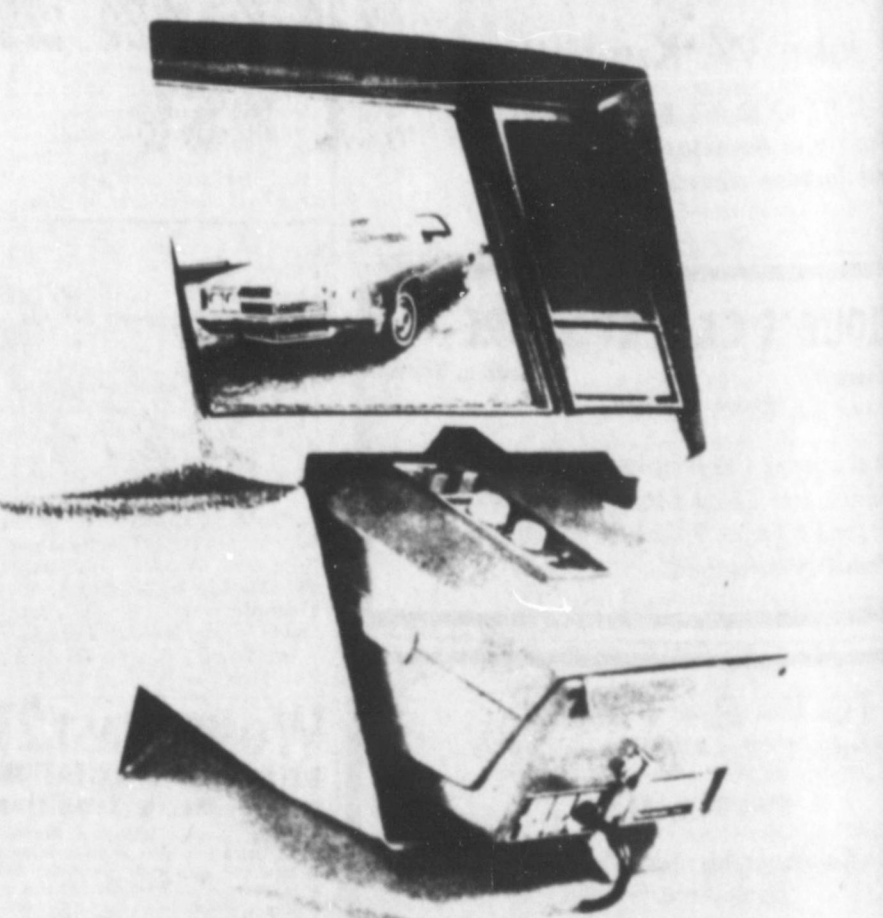

DWARF, DWARFER, DWARF

Here is a sampling of blooms of dwarf marigolds, and double forms, monochrome and bi-colored. All are useful in your garden.

What do you call dwarf in a plant? Three inches of height? A foot? Whichever you answer, there's a small dwarf in your garden. There are dwarfs like gold and mahogany-flowered Bolero; Rusty Red, blooms colored as its name suggests; and tangerine-orange blossomed Tangerine growing, respectively 12, 15 and 18 inches high. Next are "extra" dwarfs which include the 6 inch high Petite series in gold, orange, yellow and bi-colored blooms and the 8 inch Brownie Scout with double, golden flowers splashed red at the bases of the petals. And then there are the dwarf dwarfs with miniature flowers on miniature plants. These include the Signet (or Mexican) marigolds and an oddity, Irish Lace, with white blossoms so tiny and so late to appear that plants are grown for their 6-inch-tall plants and fern-like foliage. All marigolds named, except the Signets and Irish Lace, are of the type called "French" with flowers to 2 inches across if they're dwarf in stature, 1 1/2 inches if extra dwarf. But there also are low-grow-
