Voters Again Favor Water Contract; Issuance of Bonds

Sayles-Centerpoint Homecoming Expected To Draw Large Crowd

Haskell Nat'l. Bank President Roy Johnson To Retire Sept. 1

Prattle By Al. Hinds

R. A. (Shady) Lane has a new kitten, worth about a dollar, but will sacrifice it for material gain, if someone offers a home for them.

Most of people who aren't smart go all through life scarcely anybody ever tells them about it, simply by their mouths shut. Most of us just to be sociable we have got to keep them from knowing things that it is impolite to keep when we haven't anything to say that it is an affront to people if we don't hold up our end of the chatter.

Be a letter written in Benjamin Franklin to Joseph Priestly on "How to make a Decision": "The way of making important decisions is to divide half of paper by a line into columns; writing over the line, and over the other, then, during three or four consideration, I put down the different heads short of the different motives at different times occur to me for or against the measure. I have thus got them all on one view, I endeavor to estimate their respective weight, and where I find two on each side, that seem to strike them both out, I strike them both out. If I strike three, I strike them all out. If I strike some reasons on, equal to some reasons pro, I strike out the, and thus proceeding in length, where the balance is, after a day or further consideration, the new that is of importance occurs on either side, I determine accordingly. And though the weight of the decision can be taken with a pair of algebraic quantities, yet when each is thus estimated separately and compared, and the whole lies on one side, I think I can judge of it, and am less liable to rash step; and, in fact, I found great advantage in this kind of equation, in the decision of moral or political algebra.

My wife during argument, "Don't act like a fool!" "But! Do you want a fool?" "Do you want a fool?" "Do you want a fool?"

My friends, Two women at the same person. I found that my country's future is uncertain, and if we are worried about tomorrow, then, perhaps we should have come to put aside all things and return to what which made our great.

Every nation has a history that has grown great and powerful in direct proportion to its faith.

Everett Says Team's Attitude "Best Ever"

"Our team's attitude this year is the best ever." With the football coach thinking like this you wonder just how the team feels.

In a recent "chat" after the first scheduled practices Monday, Coach Everett added that the fans could expect a very exciting season this year because the pigskin would be in the air more than a carrier's protective arms.

Prince Retires From General Telephone Co.

John H. (Jake) Prince, house utility attendant at Haskell, retired July 31st, 1969, after twenty-one and one-half years with the General Telephone Company.

For the second time in less than three months, voters in Haskell, Knox City, Munday and Goree marched to the polls in good numbers, Thursday, August 14th, and again overwhelmingly approved two issues at the polls to clear the way for building a water contract reservoir by the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority.

Approval of the Water Contract Proposition in the four municipal elections authorizes each city to enter a contract with the Authority to purchase water to be stored in the reservoir. The other proposition provides a tax and revenue bond issue.

Due to the litigation attacking the validity of the May 29th election, inasmuch as voting was limited to property owners, the Water Authority felt the election again held last Thursday was the safest and simplest of the alternatives.

The North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority recently received a 120-day extension of its loan from the Texas Water Development Board. Cost of the Millers Creek lake is to be financed by HUD grant of $1.5 million; state's share, of $728,000, and Authority's share of $3.4 million.

Haskell, Munday, Knox City and Goree will be concerned only with distribution systems for serving their cities. The water supply reservoir is the responsibility of the Authority.

Proponents of the Millers Creek project say the need for a surface water supply is more a matter of quality, rather than quantity, as the present water contains nitrates in amounts higher than those recommended by the State Department of Health.

Heavily Endorsed

Haskell, the largest city of the four involved, handily endorsed both issues at the polls. Results of balloting follows:

Table with 2 columns: Issue No. 1 (Contract), Issue No. 2 (Bonds). Rows for Goree, Haskell, Knox City, Munday.

Dates for the ninth biennial Haskell Homecoming are fast approaching, and representatives of the various classes are urged to pick-up the class roster and other information needed, at the home of the secretary, Mrs. Luther Burkett, 1106 North Avenue G.

He was Post Commander of the American Legion for two years in Abilene; a member of the Board and President of North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority and was president of Haskell Rotary Club and member of the board of directors of the Haskell Chamber of Commerce.

Single men and women were widely differentiated in their leisure time goals. Of the unmarried women, 75 percent wanted to relax, with families as their choice after relaxation. Bachelors' second choice was "having fun."

Neighborhood Youth Corps Enrolls Over Two Million Boys And Girls

More than two million youths have entered the Neighborhood Youth Corps since 1965, according to Secretary of Labor George P. Schultz.

Since enrollments began in January of 1965, 630,000 have been served in the in-school program, 300,000 in out-of-school and nearly 900,000 in summer jobs up to January 1969. Twenty thousand additional youths entered the programs since then.

The Labor Secretary called youngsters and drop-outs were enrolled in the program each year.

More than $1,335,000 has been allocated to NYC since 1965.

NYC is administered by the U. S. Department of Labor's Manpower Administration. It provides the guidelines and 90 percent of the funds for the projects. Local sponsors operate the projects, usually community action agencies or school systems.

The program has provided high school youngsters 14 to 21 spare-time to work up to 15 hours a week as aides in libraries, school buildings, municipal, county and State offices and other non-profit institutions. Out-of-school youngsters 16 and over have been spending up to 40 hours a week in NYC activities. This usually includes 32 hours of work and eight receiving supportive services such as counseling and remedial education. Pay is up to $1.60 an hour.

Beginning September 1st, the Labor Department will shift its emphasis on NYC out-of-school participants to the 16-and-17-year-old age group.

After September 1, men and women 18 and older, formerly eligible for NYC participation, will be offered job-training opportunities through other Labor Department manpower programs. Those 18-year-olds still in school can participate.

The aim of the new program focus is to tie training of older dropouts to jobs through programs which offer them more than NYC's fairly limited work-experience projects.

At the same time, NYC's projected redesign is aimed to meet the special needs of 16-and-17-year-olds in the out-of-school programs.

HASKELL CAP NEWS

By ETHEL PHEA

Saturday, August 23, will complete the series of vaccines for those who started in June to take the DPT and Polio. This is not closing of the Clinic, it is just the completion of the series for some. We urge you to check your cards and be sure and come on the date specified. If you wait too long to come back the vaccines will have to begin over.

Plans are being made at the Neighborhood Center for fall classes and activities for adults and children.

The CAP is planning a class for the five-year-olds who will not be in kindergarten in the Elementary School this year. The Neighborhood Youth Club will need supervisors. We are asking for volunteer workers. If you are willing and eager to help those less fortunate, please come by the Center or call 864-3053 and let us know what you would like to do to help.

We will need tutors for the study hall each Monday through Thursday from 3:45 to 5:00, as soon as school starts.

Any child in the Elementary School who needs extra help is welcome to come. We would like for the Future Teachers Club from the High School to be in charge of this. It will be of help to you and to the ones you are working with.

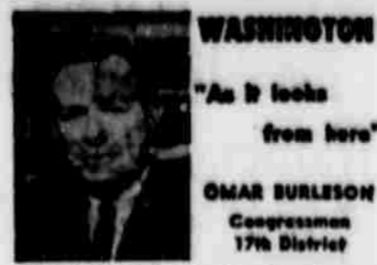

Instructors are needed for the Citizenship, Sewing and Basic Education Classes. Some clubs have already volunteered their services to help with some of these projects. But more are needed and welcome to help.

Plans are underway for some activities for the Senior Citizens.

Please let us be of service to you in any way we can. That is what we are here for. This is not for just a few people, it is for all who need help in any way.

Here are some of our 4-H girls who are showing a real interest in the club: Rosie Arredondo, age 10; Linda Collins, 11; Joyce Ann Kilgore, 13; Linda Freeman, 11; Dianne Brown, 13; Sherry Nell Whitaker, 13; Katherine Williams, 12.

We would like to say thanks to Miss Fansler, the H. D. Agent, for stimulating this idea.

WASHINGTON
"As it looks from here"
OMAR BURLISON
Congressman 17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A new administration must necessarily "feel" its way into policy and programs. For months now the legislative waters have been fairly calm on the surface with some churning just under the surface.

More recently the political seas show signs of becoming choppy. In several major pieces of legislation, the margin of votes in both the House and Senate has been extremely narrow.

The extension of the president's tax program originally passed the House by a margin of five votes. The Senate passed the first phase of the ABM by only one vote. The only major bills passing by a substantial majority were those dealing with the extension of Federal Aid to Education and the so-called Tax Reform Bill. Those continue in the legislative process and probably will not come into final action until late in the year.

The Congress is now going into a short recess but it can be expected that after Labor Day the tempo will increase considerably.

On the Legislative griddle will be the appropriation bills for all the Departments including funds for the Anti-Ballistic Missile System which will be a continuing issue for a long time to come.

The Tax Reform Bill will be in the Senate Committee for what they promise to be thorough hearings, with action hoped for in October.

In both houses of Congress, the extension of the Voting Rights Act of 1965 will be the principal civil rights legislation and is billed as a hot issue.

The President has sent a message to Congress recommending early action on a start to solve the problem of public transportation, the subject of last week's release.

The Administration is asking for a revamping of the Welfare Program which has already stirred up controversy.

Major proposals are pending in the areas of law enforcement, foreign affairs and anti-trust legislation. Central to the matter of law enforcement is legislation known as "Organized Crime Control Act of 1969," the details of which have yet to be spelled out.

In the matter of foreign affairs, Congress has before it the Administration's request for $2.5 billion in foreign aid. The figure is the lowest request in the history of Foreign Aid Program but stands a good chance of being further cut by the Congress.

An issue not surfaced as yet is continuation of the present restrictions on trade with communist countries. Some support relaxations of trade but seemingly the Administration is in a wait and see attitude as to what may develop towards a agreement on nuclear arms limitation and communist nations' actions and support of North Vietnam.

The reorganization of the Post Office Department, partially placing it in the hands of a Government sponsored corporation, has many facets and no hard and fast proposal has yet been developed to the point of submitting it to a vote. At the present, there appears no solid reason to believe this issue may finally come to a vote in this Session although sentiment could change.

Fairly soon after Congress returns from its recess, legislation overhauling the Electoral College System may come before the House of Representatives. The Bill produced by the Judiciary Committee provides for the direct popular vote of the President and Vice President. No doubt there will be long and vigorous debate on this and alternatives which doubtless will be proposed.

Numerous bills will be before both Houses of Congress on consumer matters, including safety of products. An attempt will be made to control smut mail.

Many matters of legislation involving education, health facilities and health insurance, monetary matters, natural resources and conservation, veteran affairs and agriculture will be subjects of continuous Committee hearings. A number of measures being developed by the Committees will not be presented for action in this first session of the 91st Congress but will go over to 1970. A major agricultural bill come in this category. By reason of the release will be seen in the first week of

HEALTH & SAFETY

Mainly for Mothers by Carol Hart

Family Health and Safety Concern of Brides

More than two million brides will be starting new households in 1969. Among their first chores as homemakers will be planning home safety and family health.

Certainly a new bride and bridegroom should select as soon as possible a family doctor who can history and keep tabs on their growing family.

Keep your physician's phone number on the telephone together with any others you need in an emergency — your pharmacist, your fire and police departments, and your local hospital.

The Council on Family Health, a non-profit organization sponsored as a public service by leading members of the drug industry to promote home safety and family health, suggests that the new bride establish good safety habits on the storage, care and use of medicines.

Following are some safety rules for every homemaker:

1. Plan the contents of your medicine chest. Keep medicines and toiletries in separate cabinets, or, if they must be kept in one cabinet, store medicines on the upper shelves and toiletries on lower shelves.
2. Divide the medicine section into two parts—one for medicines that are to be taken internally, and the other for those medicines that are applied externally.
3. Take inventory of the contents of the cabinet at least once every six months. Discard medicines with damaged or unreadable labels. Flush discarded medicines down the drain. If you have any doubt about discarding a medicine, consult your physician.

4. Just as the manufacturer, physician and pharmacist have their responsibility in respect to medicines, the use of medicinal preparations involves responsibility on the part of the user. One important thing to remember: Read the label at least three times when taking or giving medicines to your family.

TAX MAN SAM SEZ:

When you're rolling down the interstate highway you find yourself wishing that there was a completed interstate highway going to wherever you are headed. You may also wonder whether the road builders are really trying to finish the highway or not. (It's a reasonable guess that they are—since you don't get paid until you finish the job.)

Highways and streets cost money. In the case of the interstate highways, Congress imposed a highway use tax on trucks and busses to help pay for the highways. After several years Internal Revenue found that the weight schedule on which the truck owners pay taxes needed revision. The taxes have not been revised, but the definitions have been. All Internal Revenue offices and most county clerks have the new schedule of rates and weights posted. If you are a big trucker, or own a big truck, you need a copy of the new Publication 349.

VA Questions And Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q—To qualify for G. I. Bill educational benefits, is service in VietNam a requirement?

A—No. Qualification is based on when a veteran served in the Armed Forces and not where he was stationed. You are eligible if you were released after Jan. 31, 1965, with at least 181 active duty days or for a service-connected disability. Service must have been other than dishonorable.

Q—I am attending school under the G. I. Bill, but I want to transfer to another school. What should I do?

A—You must get a new Certificate of Eligibility if you change either your school or your stated educational objective.

Q—Since both my wife and I are veterans, can both of us claim our one child as a dependent to qualify for increased educational assistance? I realize, of course, that each of us can't claim the other as a dependent.

A—Both of you can qualify for the increased educational assistance allowance by your claiming your wife as a dependent and your wife claiming the baby as a dependent.

Q—Instead of a grave marker given by the Army, can we get the money to apply toward a stone we want to buy for my veteran father?

A—No. The marker is furnished on application, but no monetary allowance in lieu of the marker is authorized.

Fires A Real Hazard To Rangeland During Hot, Dry Summer Months

The greatest hazard to rangeland during the hot and dry summer months and into the fall and winter is fire.

Everyone, explains B. J. Ragdale, Extension range specialist at Texas A&M University, has a stake in preventing range fires. The rancher depends upon range vegetation to produce livestock which ends up as steaks, lamb chops and other meat products and which are enjoyed by Texans.

And, adds Ragdale, fishermen and water enthusiasts want clear rivers and lakes for fishing and water sports. Fire denuded rangelands are conducive to soil erosion when the rains come, resulting in silt laden rivers and silt-filled muddy lakes.

The forage produced on range land also provides cover and food for wildlife. Wildfires, points out the specialist, can very materially reduce the hunter's opportunity for a successful hunting season.

God moisture last spring resulted in much vegetative growth but a hot and dry summer have combined for optimum fire conditions, says Ragdale.

He has the following suggestions for preventing range fires. Motorists should snuff out cigars and cigarettes and place them in the car's ash tray instead of throwing them out the car window. Recreationists should be very careful with camp fires. Fires should not be left unattended.

Landowners can protect their ranges by building fire guards. Sprayers and other fire fighting equipment should be kept in good repair and readily available for any emergency. Communities and counties should have up-to-date workable plans for fighting fires, emphasizes the specialist.

Because everyone has a part in preventing range fires and

MUCH TO LOSE IN CASE OF FIRE

Ragdale urges full compliance with all safety measures and immediate reporting of any fire which might be noted.

In USDA tests, all-cotton sheets withstood more than 275 use-laundings.

Cotton is less likely to retain oily soil and odors than are man-made fibers.

Felker's Cafe Back In Business Following Fire

Following a disastrous fire some two weeks ago, Felker's Restaurant is now open for business.

Elsewhere in today's issue of the Free Press will be found an advertisement concerning the re-opening of the Restaurant, which is owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Felker.

"The fire's out and we have everything under control and we express our thanks for being so patient," Mr. and Mrs. Felker said.

The Restaurant is open seven days a week for the convenience of the customers.

WHEAT VARIETIES FROM NEW GERMINATION TOP YIELDERS

Wheat varieties from a new generation emerged as top yielders in the 1969 Small Grain Performance Test at Texas Research Foundation at Renner.

Twenty-two varieties in the annual evaluation produced a remarkable average of 67.7 bushels to the acre.

"Agent," an Oklahoma-developed hard red winter wheat, produced the highest yield with 86 bushels to the acre. A soft red winter variety named "Arthur" placed second in the test, yielding 78 bushels an acre.

"Some of the traditional varieties were so far down the list that farmers should consider planting some of the newer varieties this fall," Dr. C. L. Lundell, Director of the Foundation, said announcing results of the performance studies. Ranking 18th, 19th and 20th among the 22 entries were "Caddo" and "Knox 62," each with a harvest of 60 bushels to the acre, and "Improved Triumph" with 59 bushels.

Wheat grown in the Renner Farming System—a three-year rotation of grain sorghum, cotton and wheat with each crop fertilized—turned out 37 bushels per acre this year in Renner's continuing studies of the farming systems.

This compared, Dr. Lundell reported, with 24 bushels produced by wheat grown continuously without fertilizer, and only 12 bushels in an unfertilized rotation of wheat, grain sorghum and cotton.

In other studies on the effects of increased levels of nitrogen and phosphorus on wheat, the primary need for large, balanced amounts of the two elements on small grains was clearly evident, according to the Director. We urgently need to use more fertilizer in the blacklands, he said.

Caddo fertilized at the normal rate of 60-40-0 weighed out 41 bushels of grain. A plant food treatment of 40-80-0 yielded 37 bushels, but when fertilized at the maximum level of 80-80-0 the production of Caddo was increased to 52 bushels to the acre.

In the performance test, plant lodging was not a major problem this year among the newer varieties, with lodging ranging from zero up to only five percent. By comparison, 20 percent of Knox 62 plants fell to the ground before harvest.

All varieties in the performance test were seeded at 90 lbs. per acre October 23 and the total fertilizer application was 76-92-0 an acre in two applications.

Rainfall generally was well distributed during the small grain growing season of 1968-1969 at Renner. Relative humidity for the period February to May was higher than normal, and soil temperatures during March, April and May ran below normal, the report of the test explains.

In addition to Agent and Arthur, other varieties and their rankings included Ace 76 bushels, McNair 75, Ben Hur 75, Blueboy 74, Parker 70, and Coker 65-20. Sturdy 69, McNair 233 and Riley 67, all yielding 69 bushels; Andox 68, Sturdy and Coker 61-19, 66 bushels; Logan 63, Stadler 62, Wakeland, Caddo and Knox 62 all 60 bushels; Improved Triumph 59, Scout 66, 58 bushels, and Shaw-

Outlook Good For Quail Population In Haskell County," Says Boykin

The outlook for a good quail population in Haskell County is good," says Jimmy Boykin, wildlife biologist with the Soil Conservation Service, assisting the California and Wichita-Brazos Soil Conservation District. Many "old" covies have spotted throughout the county. You can hardly drive a country road without a rooster bobwhite nesting only a few feet away. The conditions are for a good hatch—abundant food and cover.

Quail is one wildlife species that has dramatically points out that the quail population has never been so high as it is now. Specialists have been saying since the first research was done in the late 1930s, that the quail population has increased over the years. It is pointed out that "hunt em or you have em."

Attempts at increasing quail populations by restocking, killing predators or closing seasons all failed. Game biologists determined that a quail population is determined by habitat, food, cover. A landowner who hunts should not be allowed to over-harvest of quail.

There are many acres of quail habitat in Haskell County, a lot of which is never harvested on one farm.

Little Dribblers, Inc., To Provide League Play

America's favorite home-grown sport has finally gone all the way. LITTLE DRIBBLERS, INC. (A non-profit organization) has been formed to provide league play and tournament playoffs leading to a World's Championship for boys age nine to twelve.

The Little Dribblers was formed following an eight-year experimental program in Levelland by a group of youth-sports minded men. The tests achieved astonishing results. PRESERVING THE MEANING

People sometimes get impatient with the 'checks-and-balances' system of government in the United States. But, time after time, it has proven its worth. A recent instance of this was near hysteria over gun control legislation following the tragic assassinations in the months before the last presidential election.

In the emotional uproar, millions of law-abiding citizens and their spokesmen were virtually thrown into the same kettle with professional criminals by advocates of police-state regulations of guns.

The National Rifle Association, for nearly 100 years a staunch supporter of law, order and the right of citizen gun ownership, was subjected to a campaign of vilification that has few parallels.

This happened partly because there was little public knowledge of the great accomplishments of the NRA in safety, police training, conservation and other fields.

President Nixon, in advocating both federal and state legislation, has stated, "...Congress should consider immediate legislation providing for a mandatory prison term of substantial duration for any felon who uses a firearm in the commission of a serious federal crime."

We should give thanks for the delays built into our representative form of government...for the "checks and balances." It takes a little time to find the path of reason leading to policies that will correct abuses and still not destroy the substance of personal responsibility and freedom that give meaning to the very existence of this nation.

There has been a lot of discussion about how we should run the Post Office. Without getting involved in this question at all, we do think that the Post Office deserves some sort of public service award.

The Postmaster in most small towns and rural communities acts as "Mr. Federal Service" for all government agencies. If you want a Federal job, you go to the post office. If you want any kind of Federal information, or have to register under any Federal law, you ordinarily go to the post office.

The Dallas District Office of Internal Revenue started working with Post Offices in Northern Texas many years ago to make common tax forms available at the Post Office for taxpayers who need them and to provide a simple postcard order form for the other, or out-of-the-ordinary forms. This helps the taxpayer get his publication or unusual tax form from the Dallas IRS office without giving the mail men too much trouble.

Every year the 1000 Post Offices in Northern Texas help taxpayers get several million extra tax forms that they need over and beyond those IRS sends them through the mail in the regular tax package. The Postmasters and all of the Post Office employees who work with the tax folks deserve the taxpayers' public service award year after year.

This Costs Texans $2 MILLION A DAY

YOU HELP PAY THE BILL

The way cars are being wrecked and the way folks are being injured and killed in traffic accidents, it looks like this year's Texas traffic toll will top $800 million. This figures out to be more than $2 million a day and that is a lot of money!

When you pay for your auto insurance you help pay this bill because most of your insurance rate is for the amount of money insurance companies pay for traffic accidents. Add to this the amount they pay for autos destroyed or damaged by collision, fire, hail, theft and pilferage. Lower these amounts and your insurance costs will go down. Raise these amounts that insurance companies must pay and your auto insurance costs will have to go up. It is as simple as that.

Here are three ways to cut your auto insurance costs.

1. Help reduce the number of Texas traffic accidents. You can do this by driving the very best you can and by insisting that traffic laws are enforced in your town, county, and state. Let your Mayor, County Officials and Governor Smith know that you want all traffic laws enforced.
2. Help cut down on car thefts and vandalism by locking your car and taking the keys whenever you park. Always try to park your car in a safe place.
3. Ask your insurance agent to show you how you can save money on your auto insurance by taking full advantage of the Driver Education, Two Car and other discounts now offered in Texas.

Auto insurance costs will be cut in Texas after accidents and their costs go down. You and other motorists of Texas can bring this about... if you really want to. IT IS UP TO YOU!
