AUSTIN—The Texas Highway Commission has conditionally approved highway route number changes to extend single-number designations on two important travel corridors.

Subject to approval by the Route Numbering Committee of the American Association of State Highway Officials, the Commission:

1. Extended the route of US Highway 380 eastward from its intersection with State Highway 24 near Old Glory in Stonewall County over SH 24 to an intersection with Interstate Highway 30 near Greenville in Hunt County. The SH 24 designation will be cancelled.

2. Extended the route of SH 6 from Eastland westward over US 90/11 to Cisco, then north-westward over the former route of US 380 to the US 380/SH 24 intersection near Old Glory. The action to extend SH 6 will cancel the designation on the highway northward from Eastland through Morton Valley to an intersection with US 183 in Eastland County. This section will be redesignated as SH 69.

From that intersection northward to US 180 in Breckenridge, US 183 has been marked as SH 6 also. The SH 6 designation will be cancelled, but the US 183 designation on this section will remain.

The extension of US 180 eastward will provide a single-numbered route from IH 30 near Greenville westward to San Antonio, N. M., and will afford a US-numbered bypass route of the Dallas-Fort Worth metropolitan area across north Texas. The change was requested by representatives of the cities along SH 24.

Extension of the SH 6 route number from Cisco through Albany and Stamford to near Old Glory adds significant mileage to a single-number "plains to Gulf" highway corridor. SH 6 will extend from the heart of West Texas through Waco, Bryan-College Station and the Houston metropolitan area to Texas City.

Johnny Appressed made apple pie and apple cobbler, apple butter, and apple dumplings. But he could have used peaches!

Peaches, in good supply at economical prices, have two classes: white fleshed and yellow fleshed. Both come in clingstones and free stones.

Freestone varieties are most popular for dessert, home preservation and general use. Clings are used for pickling and commercial canning.

Background color tells the peach's ripeness. Select ones with a creamy or yellowish color. Peaches picked before they are mature usually have a green color and will not ripen satisfactorily.

They lack flavor and often shrivel instead of ripening. Peaches do not gain sugar after they are picked.

Ripen peaches at room temperature away from direct heat or sunlight.

For best products, prepare fresh peaches just before using. Sprinkle slices with lemon or lime juice to prevent darkening in the air.

Medium to large peaches generally have the best flavor and quality. One pound of fresh peaches equals three medium-size peaches or two cups of sliced peaches.

For variety, try hollowed halved peaches filled with simple jellies to flaming sugar cubes. For garnishes, grill with barbecued chickens, glaze with baked ham or fill with cranberries to accompany turkey, or use sliced as a cereal topping.

(As reported by Marine Corps Combat Correspondents)
By Sgt. Dave Allen

AN HOA, Vietnam—The command of the 3rd Battalion, 5th Marine Regiment officially changed hands recently, as Lt. Col. Harry E. Atkinson passed the battalion's colors on to Lt. Col. John M. Terry, a native of Dallas, Texas.

Atkinson, of Charleston, S. C., has commanded the battalion since October 1968, leading the Leatherneck unit through six combat operations.

He is the holder of the Bronze Star with combat "V" for heroism during the Korean War and the Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry with Palm for his service in Vietnam.

Lt. Col. Terry, has served as assistant chief of staff G-4, 1st Marine Division since coming to Vietnam in March of this year. His wife and four children are currently residing at Quantico, Virginia.

Both officers are veterans of World War II and Korea.

DA NANG, Vietnam—A recon patrol from 1st Force Reconnaissance Company, battled extreme heat and a determined enemy for six hours before being heli-lifted out of the jungle, their mission completed.

The Eight-man long range reconnaissance patrol, led by Sgt. Theodore Ott was dropped off in a densely forested area 43 miles southwest of Da Nang. They were charged with reconnoitering enemy positions and strengths.

The first day was uneventful—the Marines were only able to travel 25-30 yards an hour due to the thick foliage. At 8:30 the second day, they made contact with an unknown size enemy force.

"We were checking out a trail when three or four North Vietnamese soldiers tried to walk up on the rear of our patrol. Our rear man opened up and killed two of them," said Ott.

The Leathernecks then moved 25-30 yards down the trail and set in. They were there only 10 minutes before they heard enemy soldiers breaking brush to their west. Ott and another Marine opened fire on the first three NVA they saw, killing the trio.

Ten minutes later the patrol heard some more movement in the nearby brush. The patrol fired again, wounding one NVA and taking him captive. As a medivac chopper was called for the wounded NVA, the Marines' position came under heavy fire from three sides.

"We were returning fire when an enemy grenade landed in the middle of us. Pfc. Robert Castle dove for it and threw it out of the perimeter we had set up," Ott explained.

Ott rose to his knees and yelled instructions to his men when he was wounded by a small arms round. Despite his wound, Ott continued to direct his patrol for the remainder of the day. He radioed for Marine Air support against the mounting enemy fire. Jet aircraft from the 1st Marine Aircraft Wing flew cover for the encircled Marines from 9 a. m. until 2 p. m.

"The jets and aerial observers (AO's) were always up there when we needed them. The AO's really knew their job and the support we got was wonderful. Those jet pilots were outstanding," commented Ott.

Two hours after the initial contact, the NVA force tried to overrun the Leathernecks. During the attack one Marine was seriously wounded outside friendly lines. Not knowing if the man was alive or dead, Ott moved outside the perimeter under heavy fire and brought the Marine back.

Marine jets continued to pound the enemy positions and at 3:30 p. m. a helicopter was able to drop a recovery net to the patrol. The Marines and their NVA captive hooked up to the net and made their exit.

After six hours of fighting in Charlie's backyard, Ott and his men headed for An Hoa and a well deserved rest.

QUANG TRI, Vietnam—Marine Observation Squadron (VMO) 6 is among the most versatile squadrons in the Marine Corps air arsenal in Vietnam. It is also one of the busiest.

VMO-6 flies the Corps' newest fixed-wing aircraft, the OV-10A Bronco. It also flies one of the oldest Marine aircraft operational in Vietnam, the O-1, a single engine two-seater that has proven valuable in combat as an observation plane. Not to be outdone by these two airplanes with similar missions, the aviators of VMO-6 also pilot UH-1E gunships in their observation, reconnaissance and helicopter escort missions from Provisional Marine Aircraft Group 39 at Quang Tri.

Since March, the squadron has averaged more than 3,100 flight hours per month. Fighting the monsoon clouds and rain, high winds and stinging sand of the dry season and the ever-present mountains of northern I Corps, VMO-6 has established itself as the high-time Marine

HASKELL CAP NEWS

By ETHEL PHEA

There is not much to report this week. In last week's news we tried to inform you of the coming activities for this fall and winter. So, if you remember the report, then you do remember we are inviting you to "come".

There has been quite a lot going on this week at the Center. Monday night was young people's social.

Thursday night the women met for their sewing club. There was a period of discussion on organizing a Home Demonstration Club. The women seemed to be very interested and some officers were elected. As it is not completed we will not give names until it is official and completed. Miss Ruth Ann Fansler, H. D. Agent, will meet with the ladies at the Neighborhood Center Thursday, September 4, at 7:30 p. m. to guide them in organizing. Everyone is invited to a domino party at the Center tonight, September 4, at 8:00. Notices are being given out in the community. The club is using this as a fund-raising social to help pay for sewing machines. The cost will be 25 cents per person and refreshments will be served.

The sewing club has been a help to some of the women who had never sewed and to some who do not have the time at home.

Mr. Norris Gibson donated several articles that will be of help to the school. Mr. Amos Arredondo and Felipe Arredondo put the sign board up for the CAP Center. Now we need someone to letter the sign.

We are sincerely sorry about the incident that happened to the William Reed family. Their home and all their belongings were completely destroyed by fire about 3:00 a. m. Thursday morning while the family were out of town. The family will appreciate any donations you might want to give, if you have something you want to give, you can call the Center and we will be glad to pick it up and deliver it to the family. Children are girls ages 4-6-7-11-17 and boys 8-14-15.

Just another reminder about the clinic to be held Saturday, September 6, for smallpox vaccinations.

Board meeting will be on Monday night September 8, at 8:00 p. m. It is necessary that all board members be present in order to get plans going for these months ahead. Every one

Tax Questions And Answers

(This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.)

Q—I made a profit when I sold my vacation home. Can I postpone paying tax on this if I put all the money into another summer place?

A—No, the provision in the tax law that permits the postponement of tax on the profits from the sale of a personal residence only applies to the taxpayer's principal residence. A second home, or a vacation home, is not covered.

Q—Can you lose your tax deduction for a business trip overseas if you take a vacation at the same time?

A—It is possible for your deduction to be less on an overseas business trip. Under certain circumstances the cost of travel, meals and lodging, back to the taxpayer's business deduction will not be allowed if those expenditures are located between the end and vacation portions of the trip.

Rules for handling deductions in these instances are explained in Publication 463, "Travel, Entertainment and Gift Expenses," a post card to your IR Director for a free copy.

Q—When my father inherited the sports car If I sell it, will I have come tax on what I inherited?

A—Probably not. There is no Federal income tax on the sale of the car if the time you owned it has increased in value. There would be a report if you received the car when your father's time of your father's

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The Texas Highway Department will conduct a public hearing on October 8, 1969, at 10:30 A. M. at the community center in Weinert for the purpose of discussing the improvement of U. S. 277 in Haskell County from FM 2163 in Haskell to the Knox County line. The proposed corridor route will bypass the city of Weinert. The proposed improvement will provide for a four-lane highway. The usual construction will consist of an additional roadway of 24 ft. pavement, a usual 76 ft. depressed median, and right-of-way widened to 260 ft., except (1) on the section from FM2163 to 1.5 miles north where the present highway will be widened to a 52 ft. pavement for a four-lane undivided highway with a 4 ft. painted median on the existing usual 100 ft. right-of-way, and (2) in the vicinity of Weinert where a four-lane divided highway is proposed on a new location consisting of two 24 ft. pavements, a usual 76 ft. depressed median, and 260 ft. new right-of-way. Maps showing the proposed corridor route that will be displayed at the public hearing, together with any other available information about the proposed project are on file and available for public inspection and copying at the Resident Engineer's Office at 249 North Central Avenue in Hamlin. Also, maps have been placed on file with the Haskell County Judge, Mayor of Weinert, and West Central Texas Council of Governments. Don't Throw Away Those Old Eyeglasses

Don't throw away old eyeglasses and sun glasses! These can be used to provide the precious gift of sight to the needy who cannot afford it in this country and areas of the free world. Ocie Hunt of Sweetwater, Texas is collecting eyeglasses and sun glasses to send to New Eyes for Needy, a non-profit, nonsectarian volunteer organization whose sole purpose is to help provide better vision for the poor the world over. New Eyes is endorsed by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, Fight for Sight, Inc., and the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otology.

Over half a million people have been helped in this way by New Eyes. Metal framed glasses and metal scrap are sold to a refinery and the redeemed cash is used to purchase new prescription glasses and artificial eyes for the needy in the United States, such persons being screened patients to whom no other private or public funds are available. Upon specific requests, New Eyes ships re-usable glasses to such areas of the free world as the Philippines, France, Oman, Arabia, Labrador, India, Africa and South America, through medical missions. Sun glasses are sent to leper colonies — to help those poor devils bear their afflictions. Any individual or organization wishing to contribute to this worthwhile cause may send the glasses and other items by parcel post is best! to: Ocie Hunt, 105 West 3rd, Sweetwater, Texas 79556. Wrap glasses individually, or put them in soft cases and then in a sturdy box. Please include a return address, including your zip code number, so your package can be acknowledged.

Make A Few Final Plans

Research points out that most elderly people make "peace" with themselves and face death realistically. This and other aspects of death are the subject of a fact sheet, "Planning and Financing a Funeral," just released by the Agricultural Extension Service. The fact sheet is designed to help families understand the psychology of death and become aware of the financial aspects of a funeral. Any death creates an emergency and the fact sheet considers steps in planning a funeral, including military funerals and insurance collection. In Texas, funeral costs for an adult average $924.00. A lawyer or funeral director can help determine if benefits are available and how to make claims from retirement plans, Veterans' Administration, insurance and others. The four-page fact sheet is available from your County Home Demonstration Agent.

Panama Indians Building Medical Center In Food-For-Work Project

If Columbus discovered America today, he'd find the Guaymi Indians of Panama living in many ways as their ancestors did 477 years ago, but with one great difference. The Guaymis today are working in a CARE food-for-work project that will give them a modern medical center.

The Indian villagers live in small huts (bohios) with cone-shaped grass roofs in Llano Nopo, a settlement in the remote Chiriqui mountains. It takes up to two days by mule over steep, narrow trails to reach the area from Tole, the nearest town, 25 miles away.

The CARE tools and building material, about 25 tons, were "airlifted" by a U. S. Air Force helicopter, which made 12 trips in two days.

Men, women and children who volunteered to help build the center, were given food by CARE as wages. There are now nine rooms with a roof over seven of them, and the building is expected to be completed in June.

In February, 1967, a doctor and a dentist were flown to the construction site to begin the first medical treatment the Guaymis ever had. Also, a young Panamanian teacher was brought in to begin the first formal education in the area. In one of the new rooms, he conducts a class of 40 children.

OUTDOORS -IN- TEXAS

By Vern Sanford

Looking for a new lake to fish? How about Somerville, that new and fabulous lake on Yegua Creek, just north of Brenham?

A group of outdoor writers tried it early this year. Unfortunately it was a real winter day, cold and windy, but we did see enough of it to know that this is a fabulous body of water. One thing for sure, it attracts anglers from the Houston area. They are there in droves!

Somerville dam was built by the Corps of Engineers. It creates a reservoir covering some 24,000 surface acres at conservation level. Surprising thing is that it's already full of water, something that was not expected for at least another year.

Also surprising is the fact that it seems to be full of fish. Texas Parks and Wildlife Department began transplanting catfish and bass into Lake Somerville as soon as there was enough constant water to maintain them. This stream, which provides flood protection for 9,000 acres in Burleson, Washington and Lee Counties, feeds into the Brazos.

Yegua Creek watershed is 62 miles long and 32 miles wide, with a drainage of 1,320 square miles. Construction of the dam began in 1962 and cost over $23-million.

There already are two excellent marinas and two developed parks, with more underway. Overlook Marina and Park, on the west side of the lake, is the most advanced and has more facilities available.

Much brush has been left standing in the upper reaches of the lake. Since considerable farm land was covered by the impoundment, the water is rich in food for the fish and they have grown fast. There is am-

What Happened To Interest Rates?

Why are interest rates so high? Who pushed them up? What's the prime rate and what has it got to do with your budget? The answers all have to do with inflation.

Simply put, whenever the supply of money grows faster than the supply of available goods, prices go up. That's what's always happened everywhere. That's what's been happening in this country for the past few years...the money supply has grown faster than we have been able to produce goods and services, despite galloping economic growth.

And the money supply has increased for one reason: Uncle Sam has been spending more money than he takes in and the Federal Reserve, our central bank, in effect printed the money needed to cover the deficit in 1967 and 1968. The result was bound to be higher prices that we've all been experiencing. What makes the situation worse is that when prices are rising, people borrow more and more money.

Now the Government and the Federal Reserve are both taking action to brake inflation. As you might guess, the way to do this is to stop printing money so fast.

Uncle Sam is trying not to spend more than he receives in taxes. At the same time, the Federal Reserve is slowing the growth of our money supply by taking money out of the system, making it extremely difficult for the banks to get money to lend. The banks are caught between the Federal Reserve and their customers.

The fact is, banks are simply intermediaries, getting money from one group of people and lending it to other groups. When a bank has to pay more for the money it gathers, it obviously has to charge more for the money it lends. And lately, the sources that the banks get their money from have been charging higher and higher rates.

What's more, if the banks held their rates below other rates in the market, their supply of credit would be quickly exhausted. These are the reasons why there have been increases in the prime rate...the interest rate that banks charge corporate customers who have the best credit ratings. It is only one of the thermometers that measures the heat in the money market. It reflects the action taken by the Federal Reserve to make money more expensive...the idea being that the more it costs to borrow, the less borrowing will be done. Eventually, business activity will level off and price increases will slow down to a walk. When that happens, interest rates should also come down.
