Ruben Cantu-Rodriguez
Winters Enterprise

WINTERS, Texas.- The Runnels County Historical Commission donated copies of their newly released book, "Runnels County, a Look Back," to the Winters Elementary Library and the Junior High/High School libraries, and they also presented the WISD with a historical area map.

Last Thursday morning Ruth Cooper, chairwoman of the commission and appointee Linda Duggan, made a presentation of the recently printed books to a group of elementary and high school students for their libraries.

David Hutton, superintendent of the Winters Independent School District, received a copy of the historical map and recognized the publication as a unique opportunity to bring past and future together, through regional history and education for future generations.

A Look Back is the first publication in over 30 years by the Runnels County Historical Commission. The book was made possible thanks to the intense research work by the commission members.

"This is a way to get closer to the community and make a difference with the younger generations," said Ruth Cooper, chairwoman of the commission.

The book features information about the Rock Hotel, historical markers in the county, old pictures contributed by people and area maps.

Pictures include some old images of the original Runnels County Courthouse and other historical buildings, and some others that are no longer standing.

Commission members also agreed to donate the new publication to the high school libraries of Olfen and Miles.

Ruth Cooper and Linda Duggan, from the Runnels County Historical Commission, present Alana Cooper with a copy of "A Look Back" for the Winters High School and Junior High Library. Alana is the daughter of Alan and J'Lynn Cooper.

USDA funding renewable energy

Winters Enterprise
Staff Report

TEMPLE, Texas.- Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack announced that USDA Rural Development is seeking applicants interested in increasing the production and use of renewable energy sources. Funding is available from the USDA Rural Development Rural Energy for America Program (REAP) authorized by the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008.

"This funding will help spur investments in technologies that will reduce reliance on fossil fuels, conserve natural resources and help build a sustained renewable energy industry in rural America," Vilsack said. "Support provided by USDA through these programs will not only benefit the environment, it will create green jobs and help America become more energy self-sufficient."

Eligible projects include installing renewable energy systems such as wind turbines, solar, geothermal, biomass, anaerobic digesters, hydroelectric, and ocean or hydrogen systems.

Funding may also be used to purchase energy-efficient equipment, add insulation, and improve heating and cooling systems. In fiscal year 2009, this program helped fund 1,485 REAP projects in 50 states, the commonwealth of Puerto Rico and the Western Pacific Islands.

The program is designed to assist farmers, ranchers and rural small businesses that are able to demonstrate financial need. All agricultural producers, including farmers and ranchers, who gain 50 percent or more of their gross income from the agricultural operations are eligible. Small businesses that are located in a rural area can also apply. Rural electric cooperatives may also be eligible to apply. Typically eligible businesses have less than 500 employees and revenue of less than $6.5 million.

Grants are awarded on a competitive basis and can be up to 25 percent of total eligible project costs. Grants are limited to $500,000 for renewable energy systems and $250,000 for energy efficiency improvements. Requests as low as $2,500 for renewable energy systems and $1,500 for energy efficiency improvements will be considered.

USDA Rural Development will accept applications for Rural Energy for America Program (REAP) grants and loans until 4:30 p.m. on June 30.

All applications should be mailed to Business Programs, 101 S Main St, Suite 102, Temple, TX 76701. For information, contact Daniel Torres or Billy Curb at the Texas State Office (254) 742-9780 or view the Notice of Solicitation of Applications <http://edocket.access.gpo.gov/2010/pdf/2010-9580.pdf>. Those interested in applying are encouraged to submit an application as soon as possible.

USDA, through its Rural Development mission area, administers and manages more than 40 housing, business and community infrastructure and facility programs. These programs are designed to improve the economic stability of rural communities, businesses, residents, farmers and ranchers and improve the quality of life in rural America. Rural Development has an existing portfolio of more than $134 billion in loans and loan guarantees.

"The Obama Administration and USDA are working to ensure that rural homeowners have safe, sanitary, energy-efficient places to live."

Housing Preservation Grants are provided to intermediaries such as town or county governments, public agencies, federally organized Indian tribes and non-profit or faith-based organizations. Chatting with Paw Paw

By John DeMoss Jr.

My wife and I have four grandchildren, two boys and two girls. Unfortunately, two of these babies did not make it into this world. One died at the hands of an abortionist, while the other died as the result of an induced miscarriage.

Surely, there is nothing like losing children. Our younger son was the father of these two little ones. But, a great and merciful God has given Bryan and his wife a beautiful little girl named Brynn. And yet, Satan has twice tried to kill this little girl before she was even two months old. Brynn was diagnosed with meningitis and rushed to Texas Children's Hospital in Houston. There is nothing like hearing the hopelessness and horror in your child's voice as he considers the thought of losing another baby.

The Lord Jesus told us in John 10:10 that the thief (satan) comes to kill, steal and destroy but that our Lord Jesus said He has come to give us life.

One of the many promises of God is the one that children are precious in His sight. We believe that our little ones are in Heaven with God. THAT, dear friends, is the hope, the promise we have from our blessed Savior.

Two grandkids are in Heaven with their great grandmothers and great grandfathers and my wife's mom and dad. WHAT A PROMISE, PEOPLE! God loves us THAT much! Whew!

RUNNELS COUNTY ROUND-UP

Fishin' with Dave

Fishing Report
Dave Caudle

The fishing at Ivie and surrounding lakes is continuing to heat up as the waters warm and the fish get in the feeding mode. Bass fishing continues to take the spotlight at Ivie with what seems like a never-ending parade of big bass being brought to the scales. The guys who run the Sharelunker Program were bringing back two 13 pounders to be returned to the waters of Ivie and picked up the 16.02 and another entry, which puts Ivie at the top of the big fish list for this year.

Catfishing is also on the move with the good-eating fish heading to the shallows to spawn, eating everything that gets in their way. Cheesebait fished on treble hooks seems to be the bait of choice for the cats. The crap-pie spawn is nearly over, but some good panfish can still be boated by fishing the trees near the river channels. White bass are also on the move, chasing the shad in shallow water, and in the past week we've seen some strong surfacing activity on the larger flats. These fish will hit anything that moves—in-line spinners and plugs being a good choice.

Speaking of good choices, it seems that a new Supreme Court Justice is about to be appointed by the administration. The appointee is apparently well educated; however, she has never been a judge. As always, there are two or three ways to look at this situation, and maybe someone with no experience in the job might be a better choice. Not to worry because by the time she gets the appointment, everyone will know how she thinks and how she may decide cases that come before the high court.

I would think that "Lady Justice," the one blindfolded and holding the balanced scales, would be appalled at the way we decide who will sit on the bench. It seems that all parties involved, including the White House, want to know the decision before the case is heard by the judges. This same way of thinking would make baseball and football games more interesting when we know or at least suspect the outcome before the game is played. It might be best to judge candidates by their qualifications and just try to determine if they are reasonably sane prior to appointing them to such an important job. After all, the Supreme Court decides cases based on constitutional law and not by personal bias or who put who in office. I would think the appointment process is going to be quite difficult since finding anyone reasonably sane in the Washington D.C. area presents a problem.

Last week on TV I saw a benefit run for an animal center. One of the options allowed the runners to have the animal of their choice make the run or at least part of a run. While there are those runners who might select a dog, cat, or some other fleet-footed creature, I wondered how something like a snail or a turtle would do on a short run. I'd think that a lawn chair, umbrella, a tall glass of iced tea, and a short lease might fit my participation for this worthy cause. After all, I wouldn't want to wear out the snail and cause it any discomfort.

I've also learned that our one act play cast went to State Contest and competed at the highest level. While they didn't win, it's a tremendous accomplishment just to get there and have the chance to compete. In 1968 our team got to the Small College World Series and were in the final eight. We came home early, but we did get there and had the chance, and that's all we'd worked for. See you on the lake.

ASU 'Storm Ready'

Winters Enterprise Staff Report

SAN ANGELO, Texas.- NOAA National Weather Service officials have recognized Angelo State University in San Angelo, Texas as a Storm Ready community. Home to more than 6,600 students and faculty, Angelo State is a member of the Texas Tech University System and is now the fourth university in Texas to achieve Storm Ready status.

"Storm Ready encourages communities to take a proactive approach to improving local hazardous weather operations and public awareness in partnership with their local National Weather Service office," said Hector Guerrero, warning and coordination meteorologist of the National Weather Service forecast office in San Angelo.

Paint Rock ISD accepting student transfers

Winters Enterprise Staff Report

PAINT ROCK, Texas.- Paint Rock ISD is now taking applications for student transfers in grades PK-12 for the 2010-2011 school year. Paint Rock ISD offers a private school quality education in a public school setting. Both the district and the campus are rated "Recognized" by the Texas Education Agency.

The district has a tradition of academic achievement and has earned "Recognized" status from TEA many times in the past several years.

This year, 100 percent of Paint Rock ISD fifth graders passed the TAKS math exam; 100 percent of those same fifth graders passed the TAKS reading exam; 100 percent of the eighth graders passed the TAKS reading exams; all but one eighth grader passed the TAKS math exams; and 100 percent of the senior class have met the TAKS requirements for graduation.

Paint Rock ISD is also expecting great success from their other students when they get the rest of their TAKS scores later this month.

The campus features caring school personnel, small class sizes (a 12-1 Student to Teacher Ratio), traditional values, a safe learning environment, firm consistent discipline, high test scores, high expectations, certified teachers, leadership opportunities, full academic offerings, a wide array of extra-curricular programs, opportunities for students to earn college credits while still in high school, and free bus transportation. Paint Rock ISD does not charge students to attend or transfer into its schools and it is actively looking for quality students in every grade level Pre-Kindergarten through 12.

Every educator knows that students learn best in small classes where they can get more individual instruction. Classes in Paint Rock ISD average just ten kids to a class.

Paint Rock ISD students compete and have been highly successful in 6-man football, cross country, basketball, cheerleading, track and field, tennis, golf, UIL acad-mic, 4H and other events and competitions throughout the year.

Currently, transfer students from San Angelo, Ballinger, Eola, Lowake, Lake Ivie, Rowena, Olfen, Millersview, and Mereta attend Paint Rock schools. School bus service is provided to and from San Angelo, Ballinger, and the other communities that Paint Rock ISD serves.

In fact, over half of all of the students attending school in Paint Rock ISD are actually transfers from other school districts mostly San Angelo, Ballinger, and Eden. For more information or an application, interested parents should call (325) 732-4314 or come by the school for a tour.

Stamping out hunger

Winters Enterprise Staff Report

WINTERS, Texas.- Cans, soups, juice, pasta and every kind of non-perishable foods were diligently collected by the mail carriers in Winters last Saturday, with the eighteenth Annual Stamp Out Hunger Campaign.

The campaign, considered the largest food collection in the whole nation, was held on May 8, in conjunction with the local citizens and the National Association of Letter Carriers.

Jerry W. Sims, Postmaster in Winters, said that for this year the campaign gathered 1450 pounds of food, which will be delivered to the local food pantry.

Rodeo heritage

WINTERS, Texas.- Born with the rodeo in their blood and a taste for action, the Allen kids: Laramie, Dakota and Chisum, have qualified for state rodeo events to be held next month.

Laramie, a 16-year-old junior at Menard High School, clinched her ticket in barrels, poles, break away roping and goat tying on April 18, at the rodeo event in Graham. This young lady demonstrated excellent horsemanship while competing in the goat tying, which is an event of speed and skill. Laramie will participate in the state competition in Abilene.

Dakota, 13, also performed extremely well, and will participate at the state event in Gonzales.

Finally Chisum, the youngest of the three kids at age 9, won a saddle in barrels, took second in the break away competition and fifth in goat tying.

These amazing kids are the children of Rusty and Carman Allen, of Menard, and the grandchildren of Marie Allen, of Winters.

They grew up with rodeo as part of their heritage. Their father, Rusty, shared his own passion for riding and roping to his children. The three kids have been in the saddle all their lives and have practiced their own cowboy skills in order to qualify to participate at the state level of competition in their own events.

Community leadership

"Leadership is the art of influencing others to work enthusiastically and effectively towards goals identified as being for the common good."

Hunter

Chief Nathan Johnson

When I was in the Marine Corps during the 1980's, I learned that every organization has leaders and followers. I also learned that "everyone" affects the lives of others to some degree and therefore "everyone" is a leader.

As Chief of Police there are seven principles of leadership on which I consistently rely and pursue in an effort to be more effective as a community leader.

Robert Greenleaf coined the term "Servant Leader" in his 1970 essay outlining the role of "servants" as "leaders". Since that time, many authors such as Steven Covey, Jim Collins, and Joseph Jaworski have popularized the term in their writings on leadership and business management.

The idea of "Servant Leadership" is founded on the basic principle that working through people within an organization by giving them direction and support helps the individual become more capable and autonomous. This creates an environment where the individuals are more likely to be servants themselves and more capable of accomplishing the organization's mission.

Leadership principle 1

An effective leader cannot DEMAND enthusiasm, loyalty, or devotion. These elements MUST be earned.

When sufficient members of a group do only what is REQUIRED, the outcome of the group is at great risk of mediocrity. When people work with enthusiasm, putting their heart into the task, the probability of success accelerates exponentially.

Leadership principle 2

The effective leader must be able to define and articulate the group's goals and priorities, and the goals must be "bigger" than the leader and the individual members of the group. It is not about one person. It is about the mission. This process requires the leader to personally understand the mission objectives, discuss the ideas and issues with the group, and gain the support of key group members.

Leadership principle 3

The effective leader must be able to articulate the group's values. Effective leaders are clear about why their organization exists, what business the organization is in, and what their organization's core values are. If the leader does not establish the organization's values, someone or something else will.

Leadership principle 4

Leaders must understand the difference between power and influence. Leaders can operate on "POWER" for a while; however, over time, relationships and the leaders influence WILL deteriorate. The unchecked exercise of power erodes the kinds of relationships that make real "AUTHORITY AND INFLUENCE" possible.

AND INFLUENCE" possible.

Leadership principle 5

The most valuable asset to any organization is its "PEOPLE". "The right people, in the right place, and at the right time."

Leadership principle 6

There are five foundations for excellent performance: Presence, Purpose, Passion, Preparation, and Perseverance. If the right people are present... If they understand the purpose at hand... If they have passion for what needs to be done... If they are prepared for service... If they persevere through hardships... the organization exponentially increases the opportunity for the results to be excellent, the process efficient, and the problems minimal.

Leadership principle 7

A servant leader knows when and where to look during times of success and periods of failure. When things go RIGHT, the servant leader looks outward toward the people who he leads to give credit. When things go WRONG, the servant leader looks in the mirror to assign responsibility.

"Leadership is a journey along a series of stepping stones that we call choices. The choices we make set the pace for the journey and define the destinations along the way. Choosing to truly "serve" others as a leader allows us the greatest potential to influence and inspire others to serve".

Michael Gentry

At the Winters Police Department, our mission is to serve the community by providing a professional law enforcement presence within the city and we are thankful for the opportunity to do so. We continue to ask for your support as we strive to faithfully execute our duty.

MAKING SENSE OF INVESTING

HEALTH NOTES

At North Runnels Home Health our focus is providing the best care possible for patients and helping them care for themselves. We believe the more our patients know, the better care they receive.

WHAT ARE THE SYMPTOMS OF A PANIC ATTACK?

The symptoms of a panic attack appear suddenly, without any apparent cause. They may include: racing or pounding heartbeat, chest pains, dizziness, light-headedness, nausea, difficulty breathing, tingling or numbness of the hands, flushes or chills, dreamlike sensations or perpetual distortions, terror—a sense that something unimaginably horrible is about to occur and one is powerless to prevent it, fear of losing control and doing something embarrassing, fear of dying.

A panic attack typically lasts for several minutes and is one of the most distressing conditions that a person can experience. Most people who have one attack will have others. When someone has repeated attacks, or feels severe anxiety about having another attack, he or she is said to have a panic disorder.

WHAT IS PANIC DISORDER?

Panic disorder is a serious health problem in this country. At least 1.6 percent of adult Americans, or three million people, will have panic disorder at some time in their lives. The disorder is strikingly different from other types of anxiety in that panic attacks are sudden, appear to be unprovoked, and are often disabling.

Once someone has had a panic attack—for example, while driving, shopping in a crowded store, or riding in an elevator—he or she may develop irrational fears, called phobias, about these situations and begin to avoid them. Eventually, the pattern of avoidance and level of anxiety about another attack may reach the point where the individual with the panic disorder may be unable to drive or even step out of the house. At this stage, the person is said to have panic disorder with agoraphobia. Thus panic disorder can have as serious an impact on a person's daily life as other major illnesses—unless the individual receives effective treatment.

IS PANIC DISORDER SERIOUS?

Yes, panic disorder is real and potentially disabling, but it can be controlled with specific treatments. Because of the disturbing symptoms that accompany panic disorder, it may be mistaken for heart disease or some other life-threatening medical illness. People frequently go to hospital emergency departments when they are having a panic attack, and extensive medical tests may be performed to rule out these other conditions.

Others often try to reassure the person who is having a panic attack that he or she is not in great danger. Expressions such as "nothing serious," "all in your head," or "nothing to worry about" may give the incorrect impression that there is no real problem and that treatment is not possible or necessary.

WHAT IS THE TREATMENT FOR PANIC DISORDER?

Thanks to research, there are a variety of treatments available, including several effective medications and, also, specific forms of psychotherapy. Often, a combination of psychotherapy and medications produces good results. Some improvement may be noticed in a fairly short period of time—about six to eight weeks. Appropriate treatment of panic disorder can prevent panic attacks or at least substantially reduce their severity and frequency, bringing significant relief to 70 to 90 percent of people with panic disorder.

In addition, people with panic disorder may need treatment for other emotional problems. Depression has often been associated with panic disorder, as have alcohol and drug abuse. Recent research also suggests that suicide attempts are more frequent in people with panic disorder. Fortunately, these problems associated with panic disorder can be overcome effectively, just like panic disorder itself.

Tragically, many people with panic disorder do not seek or receive treatment.
