The Social Side of School.

Social companionship moulds the future destiny of our boys and girls so far as character and intelligence are concerned. Manhood and womanhood are the outcome of human socialibility. The policy of the average school during the past has been an open feud with the social hunger of its students, but social life has ever been the strongest motive power in shaping the progress of civilization.

A social department should be established in every rural school in Texas and should be equipped thoroughly as the social center of the community. It should be the headquarters for all social, civic and athletic movements. It should be the headquarters for all the community art clubs, music guilds, literary societies, dramatic clubs and social organizations. There should be reception rooms, music halls, auditoriums and any other feature in current social use should be a gymnasium with a swimming pool and complete equipment for recreational sports.—Mrs. E. P. Turner.

INFORMATION ABOUT POSTOFFICE MATTERS

To Patrons of Haskell Postoffice:

As there have been so many new things added and changes made in the POSTAL BUSINESS within the last 12 months I thought it proper to make a few suggestions and offer some information that will facilitate business and save time and expense.

The first and most important thing, is to address every package and letter legibly and in proper form, put your name and postoffice in upper left hand corner, then addressee's name, street number, postoffice and state. Be sure to seal all written matter but leave all other matter unsealed. Use good boxes, wrapping paper and twine, have them all ready for mailing when brought to the window, then the package can be dispatched at once, without keeping others waiting. You can insure all packages up to $25.00 value for 5 cents, and from that to $50.00 for 10 cents. Never send money or valuables in common letters, but send money orders to pay bills, and register valuables, such as jewelry, diamonds, etc., then you are absolutely sure not to lose anything. The C. O. D. business lately added to the postal business enables one to send merchandise to all parts of the United States and her provinces and have money returned by money order, without cost to you, as remitter pays money order fee. Another suggestion that I would make is, that all business concerns use stamped envelopes, as stamps sometimes fall off and important letters are held for postage. All letters dropped in postoffice here for city delivery require one cent per ounce, letters for rural routes, 2 cents per ounce.

The registration and money order window is always open from 8 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. Mail for the morning train should be in the office by 7:50 a. m. and the evening train by 6 p. m. Mail for rural routes should be in office by 9 a. m., as carriers have to leave promptly on time and cannot wait for delayed mail. When windows are closed please do not ask us to do anything, as we are very busy making up mail for trains, rural routes, and putting mail in lock boxes. When you do not come, and send someone for your mail in lock boxes, please give them the combination, as the postal laws do not require postmasters to give the mail out of lock boxes.

When you do not get your papers and magazines please call for them at the window, as we receive some every week with wrappers torn off and illegible addresses by publishers and we cannot tell whose they are until they are called for.

When you have any cause for complaint I will esteem it a great favor if you will let me know, and I will use every effort possible to see that you do not have cause for complaint in the future. I know that many times people expect important mail and do not get it, and they think perhaps it might have been overlooked in the postoffice. I have had that experience many times in my life, but 99 out of 100 times I have found that correspondents had been careless and had not written. If you will watch you will see that I am correct. It is to the postmaster's interest to rush mail out as rapidly as possible, as every day it remains in the office he or his assistants have to handle it dozens of times.

It is my ambition to give as good service in the postoffice here as you have ever had, and you have had some good postmasters. I could have gotten cheaper help than I have, but I preferred to make less and give the people good service. I have had more than a score of clerks in the last 30 years and have never had more polite, faithful and efficient clerks than I have now. There are 5,000 people or more who get their mail at Haskell, or on the five rural routes out from here, and many of them the same name on different routes and in town, and a postmaster and his assistants would have to be omniscient to never make any mistakes; so I do not promise you that I will not make any, but will make as few as possible. Since attending the Postmasters' Convention and hearing the most competent postmasters and inspectors explain the workings of the postal system, I have a higher conception of my duty to the government and patrons of the office. It is estimated that there are 250,000 people employed in the postal business in sending hundreds of millions of packages of merchandise, literature and letters (the white winged messengers of love) into the homes of millions of the people in this great country of ours.
S. G. DEAN, Postmaster.

We Are Undersold Every Day in The Papers—But not in the Stores

F. G. Alexander & Sons

You want to trade where your dollars will get you the most value—don't you? Certainly, that's natural. That's our ticket. That's the way we buy our goods. The way we have bought them for these twenty-three years. And when we are selecting our goods we bear in mind that you will have the same idea in view when you buy your goods from us or the other fellow.

The Fall season is on us and we are expecting to do business with you. No matter what you want, no matter how small the item—no matter how large, we want you to come to our store before you buy. No need to say that though, you know that we and every other merchant want to show you our goods. When buying goods, we will ask you to please keep in mind the headline of this advertisement.

We are undersold every day in the Papers—but not in the stores. We want your business. Give us a chance and we will get it.

FARM FACTS

By Peter Radford

Farmers who are capable are always in demand.

Ability is the only measure of merit in farming.

The farmer who does not know where he stands does not stand anywhere.

A silo costs but very little compared with its real value. Build more silos.

The farmer that farms with his mind as well as his hands is generally a success.

Success in farming depends largely upon marketing, cheap money and co-operation.

Every farmer should buy his implement from the home dealer and acquire the home industry habit.

Co-operation between the rural and urban districts means better school, better roads and better living.

Texas farmers will spend $30,000,000 this year outside the state for corn. Plant more corn and keep Texas money in Texas.

Benjamin Franklin must have been thinking of Texas farmers when he said: "If we dot not all hang together, we will assuredly hang separately."

The nation's menu must be made up from the fields, pastures, orchards and gardens, and to farm intelligently the farmer must know what is needed.

Sure Sign—"Your teeth are in pretty bad condition," said the dentist.

"They must be," sighed the patient. "You look so happy."

At Least One—"Everyone has some secret sorrow," says a philosophizing friend.
"Even the fattest and jolliest of us has a skeleton in his midst."

CITY BUILDING NOTES

By L. M. Ward

Discontent is commercial leprosy.

Don't shirk and knock; build and boost.

Patronize home industry; every purchase is a boost.

Civic beauty is an important branch of city building.

The undertaker becomes a city builder when he gets a knocker.

The best and cheapest city building proposition is good roads.

Confidence is the companion of success; have faith in your city.

Lazy men are just as useless as dead ones and take up a lot more room.

The fellow who has the future prosperity of his town in mind is a valuable citizen.

A good commercial organization is as necessary to the growth of a town as moisture is to growing crops.

A commercial club's purpose is to establish and maintain cooperative effort and harmonious action in all things leading to the upbuilding of the community.

"Think of the good the gas company has done!" he cried. If I were permitted a pun, I would say, in the words of the immortal poet, "Honor the Light Brigade."

Voice of a consumer from the audience: "Oh, what a charge they made!"

Manager McGraw says the reason he writes baseball articles was because the fans were "crazy" to know what he had to say. Crazy is right.—Fort worth record.

When this house has put on a sale in the past it has said in its advertisements just what it would do, and it has done just what it said it was going to do. That has always been the Robertson way, and we are going to stick to it. We will make good the statement that this is a sale of

We have decided to treat the people of Haskell and adjoining counties to a real money saving, cash sale which we are sure will be fully appreciated as such when they come and learn how we have chopped prices down.

We have decided upon this move from the fact that when our orders for fall and winter stocks were placed conditions were promising and we made our orders large with the expectation of a flourishing trade this fall and winter, but Alas for the rosy dreams of all of us, our expectations of good crops and general prosperity failed and we find our store stocked with more goods than we can hope to sell in the ordinary course of business at a profit during this season.

Now here is the point. We prefer to get actual cost and expenses out of these goods--let the profit go--rather than carry them over until another crop is harvested, because many of them would be out of style and shelf-worn.

Then they would not sell readily and we would be out of the use of their value for nearly a year. So we prefer to take what they will bring now and use the money to buy fresh goods for cash as they are needed to meet the demands of our trade.

This explanation will make it clear to you that this sale is a good business proposition for you and for us. While you get the goods with

Class of Goods

There is no better, more seasonable or stylish line of goods in this country than ours is in all lines. It is our purpose to keep our stock in that condition all the time.

That is the main reason why we are willing to sacrifice our profits on the present stock. We don't intend for it to get out of date on our hands.

The merchant of these times must keep up with the new styles in clothing, dress goods, ladies' and gentlemen's furnishings and notions else he will soon be put in the back number class.

A HAPPY CHILD IN JUST A FEW HOURS

If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it cannot cause injury. No difference what ails your little one, if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomachache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

A Merciful Farmer.

A young lady from the city was going to make her first visit to a cousin in the country. At the station she was met by her cousin, and after a half-hour's drive he told her they were approaching his farm. In one of the broad fields that met the young lady's attentive eye stood a windmill, and gathered around it, some standing and some reclining, were several hogs.

"Well, that beats anything I ever heard of!" exclaimed the fair one. "I didn't know you farmers were so considerate."

"What about?" queried the country cousin. "That over yonder," replied the city girl, pointing a pretty finger.

"Just think of having a fan out in the field to keep those hogs cool.—Christain Endeavor World.

A Night of Terror.

Few nights are more terrible than that of a mother looking on her child choking and gasping for breath during an attack of croup, and nothing in the house to relieve it. Many mothers have passed nights of terror in this situation. A little forethought will enable you to avoid all of this. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a certain cure for croup and has never been known to fail. Keep it at hand.—For sale by all Druggists.

GIRLS! GIRLS! TRY IT, BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR

Make it thick, glossy, wavy, luxuriant and remove all dandruff

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it thru your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes, but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it sure get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

The State of Texas. To the Sheriff or any constable of Haskell County.—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summons C. O. Hefner, J. A. Lindsey, A. A. Stewart and C. A. Harris by making publication of this citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Haskell County, Texas, to be held at the Court House thereof, in Haskell, Texas on the 4th Monday in November, A. D. 1913, the same being the 24th day of November A. D. 1913, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 22nd day of Oct. A. D. 1913, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court, No. 1738, wherein A. D. Harmon is plaintiff and C. O. Hefner, J. A. Lindsey, A. A. Stewart, J. L. Norris and C. A. Harris are defendants and the cause of action being as follows:

Suit upon two promissory vendor's lien notes, plaintiff alleging that he is the owner and holder of same.

Plaintiff alleges that on or about May 7, 1907, by deed of that date, defendant Lindsey conveyed to defendant Hefner the southeast quarter of section No. 9, H. T. & B. Ry. Co. survey by virtue of Certificate No. 10-329, located in Haskell and Knox counties, Texas; that as a part consideration for same Hefner executed and delivered to Lindsey seven promissory notes of even date with said deed, in which notes and in which deed the vendor's lien was retained to secure payment of said notes; plaintiff alleges that the first six of the said series of notes have been paid off and discharged, but that the last note of said series, to wit, a note for $287.00 due Jan. 15, 1915, is unpaid and is now the property of the plaintiff and by reason of defaults in the payment of the annual interest upon same plaintiff has elected to and has declared the said note due and matured. Plaintiff also alleges that the defendant Lindsey has endorsed his name in blank upon said note of $287.00 due Jan. 15, 1915, by reason of which he is liable to plaintiff for the payment of same.

Plaintiff further alleges that on or about the 30th day of September 1908, by deed of writing bearing that date, W. T. Mathis and wife conveyed to A. A. Stewart the West half of the Southeast Quarter of section No. 9, H. T. & B. Ry. Co. survey by virtue of Cert. No. 10-329, located in Knox and Haskell counties, Texas, being the west half of the above described tract; that as a part consideration for said land the said Stewart executed and delivered to the said W. T. Mathis one promissory vendor's lien note in the sum of $120.00 of even date with said deed and due Nov. 1st 1910, in which said note and deed a vendors lien is retained to secure the payment of said note. Plaintiff alleges that he is the owner and holder of said note.

Plaintiff alleges that the first of the two above described notes, to wit, the note for $287.00 bears interest from Jan. 25, 1907 payable annually as it accrues; that said note provides by its terms that if default be made in the payment of any annual installment of interest when due, the owner and holder of same may declare the entire note due and matured; that such default has been made in the payment of the annual interest on said note and plaintiff has elected to declare the entire note due and matured.

cent attorney's fees on both of said notes, alleging that they provide if placed in the hands of an attorney or if suit is brought then an additional amount of 10 per cent of the principal and interest shall be added thereto as attorney or collection fees.

Plaintiff prays for judgment for his debt due upon said notes against the makers and endorsers thereof and also for a foreclosure of his vendor's lien upon the tracts of land above mentioned with decree for order of sale directing the sale of said lands in satisfaction of the judgement, as well as judgment for costs, etc.

Plaintiff also alleges that through mistake the land is described in said $120.00 note as being a part of the H. & T. C. Ry. land, whereas it is in fact a part of the H. T. & B. Ry. Co. land and plaintiff prays for decree of reformation or correction to the end that foreclosure may be had upon the proper land.

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends stomach misery. Indigestion in 5 minutes

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, can get blessed relief in five minutes.

True as Holy Writ

A few years ago the scarlet women of Dallas were driven into a reservation. A district was set aside for them and they were warned by the police authorities to keep within the place. Many of these women invested in homes and are owners of dwellings which they occupy. It was charged at the time to the real estate dealers who owned land in the territory designated were responsible for abolition of the old district and the selection of the new site. Now these women have been notified by Judge Robt. E. Seay that they shall be given thirty days to vacate their residences before the county attorney proceeds to abolish same. There will come a slump in the property values but no mercy will be shown the scarlet sisterhood. The hand of every man is turned against them, and men are responsible for their fall and placed them in a district set aside as the home of Babylon's daughters. A mad wolf is shown about the same degree of leniency as is extended by society to a woman who has fallen into the mire. A pet dog is given better treatment and shown far gentler consideration. For the woman who has stepped aside from the narrow path to walk in the promised land of dalliance she is given hell here and is promised hell in the hereafter. With a man it's different. He can take a Turkish bath, order a tailor-made suit, announce a willingness to reform, and repentance of his sins and he is taken by the hand and lifted to a high place in church and society. This is a blunt way of telling the story, but it is the truth and men who are not hypocrites are aware of the fact. The scarlet women will be driven from their homes in the segregated district in the city of Dallas. They will be scattered to the four quarters of the globe. But the makers of scarlet women will continue to hold high their heads, retain the confidence of their fellows, especially if they have money and position and the old world will jog along as it has jogged for ten thousand years.—Ft. Worth Record.

Keep Informed.

In this day of progress the man who would succeed must be informed about the world's doings. The local paper gives him local information which is needful, but it cannot cover the whole field. Hence the man who would keep step with march of the times will take a general newspaper also. The Fort Worth Semi-Weekly Record has taken front rank among the great publications of the South and West. It is specially prepared for the reader who has not the time or the opportunity to read a daily paper. First of all, it is a newspaper. The Record believes that the people of the country and the village are as much interested in current events as the people of the city.

In the next place, it carries features suitable for all the members of the family—women and children as well as men.

Last, but by no means least, the Record's editorial policy comprehends the economic welfare of the farmer and stock raiser. The Record is an acknowledged leader in the discussion of public questions in their relation to agricultural production.

In subscribing through this office you can get the Fort Worth Semi-Weekly Record, together with the Haskell Free Press, both papers one year for only $1.75. Accept this remarkable offer today.

REMINGTON UMC

AUTOLOADING SHOTGUNS

ANY way you look at it, the Autoloader is the highest development in modern shotgun design. It puts five loads at your disposal by merely pressing the trigger. It puts the recoil to useful work—to eject the empty and slip in the fresh shell. It saves the gunner's shoulder—rids his sport of annoyances—increases his shooting average.

Your danger is that in your enthusiasm over the autoloading principle, you may forget to insist on getting the finest embodiment of that principle—the Remington-UMC Autoloading Shotgun.

The peculiar advantages of the Remington-UMC are too many to detail here. What you want to do is to get one of the Remington-UMC dealers in this section to demonstrate them to you on the gun itself.

Declare War on Colds.

A crusade of education which aims "that common colds may become uncommon within the next generation" has been begun by prominent New York physicians. Here is a list of the "don'ts" which the doctors say will prevent the annual visitation of the cold: "Don't sit in a draughty car." "Don't sleep in hot rooms." "Don't avoid the fresh air." "Don't stuff yourself at meal time. Overeating reduces your resistance."

To which we would add—when you take a cold get rid of it as quickly as possible. To accomplish that you will find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy most excellent. Sold by all Druggists.

Reporter—"I would like to get some details of yesterday's wedding."

Mrs. Parvenu—"I am sorry, but every thing is eaten up."

What is Good For Headache.

One lady says after suffering dreadfully for about seven years, she tried Hunt's Lightning Oil, which almost instantly relieved her, and has been entirely free from those dreadful headaches since. Ask your druggist.

Either way would do—"It would be nice if everything one touched turned to gold, wouldn't it?" asked the dreamer.

"Yes or if every one, one touched turned over gold," suggested the Deadbeat.

Play Pleases Amarillo

The following notice regarding the merits of The Price She Paid which is to play at Dick's Theatre, Mon Nov. 17th was copied from The Amarillo Daily News of Tuesday Nov. 4th.

"The Price She Paid" was presented before an appreciative audience at the Grand last night, though the attendance was light. However, those who braved the rain storm were well repaid, for they saw one of the most pleasing dramatic offerings of the season.

Each member of the cast appeared to excellent advantage. High commendation is due play production and the company and should "The Price She Paid" ever return to Amarillo, a large house surely will greet it.

The company that will be in Haskell is positively the same as was seen in Dallas and the other large towns of the state. Miss Mayberry who will be seen in the leading role will be remembered as with "The Lion And The Mouse" which toured the state three years ago.

Pain, Pain, Pain.

To those who suffer PAIN, let us say Hunt's Lightning Oil is truly wonderful in the way it destroys pain. So many praise it that you cannot doubt. You simply rub it on and the pain goes away. All Druggists.

Mr. Bryan's Paper, The Commoner

Through the columns of The Commoner Mr. Bryans meets the attacks of those who are opposed to Democratic reforms, as well as the clever misrepresentations made by the organs of the "special interests." As an exponent of the plans and purposes of the national Democratic administration, the Commoner is of unusual interest to all progressive citizens. Mr. Bryan's signed editorials give a timely discussion of public questions and are interesting and valuable to all students of governmental affairs. It is a big 32 page monthly. Besides supplying the best political and general matter, it has interesting Home, Fashion, Farm, Cartoon and other departments. A carefully prepared report of the work of the various members of the President's Cabinet is especially interesting to each tax payer. The subscription price is $1 a year.

Many of our readers are already Commoner subscribers; many others may desire to be. To make it convenient as well as inexpensive for our readers to send subscriptions to The Commoner, we have arranged with Mr. Bryan to furnish his paper to our readers, at a special low rate. Only $1.50 pays for a full year's subscription to this paper and a full year's subscription to The Commoner. If already a subscriber to either paper your expiration date will be extended one year.

10 CENT "CASCRET'S" IS YOUR LAXATIVE

Best Liver and Bowel Cleanser and Stomach Regulator Known

Get a 10-cent box. Put aside—just once—the Salts, Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters which merely force a passageway through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage organs and have no effect whatever upon the liver and the stomach.

Keep your "insides" pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep, never gripe, sicken, and cost only 10c a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, Coated Tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated Bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.

The whole stock goes into this Money Saving Sale, so that you can come here with the assurance of getting anything you want at bargain prices from a paper of pins, a bolt of domestic or a stylish dress pattern or from a pocket handkerchief to a lady's or gentleman's stylish suit of clothes.

The Auxiliary met Monday afternoon promptly at 3 o'clock. The Bible lesson was begun. Mrs. Sanders as teacher made the lesson very interesting and instructive. The class was unusually large. Several visitors were present.

The program given on Thursday the 9th was well rendered and much appreciated.

The Auxiliary will give its Bazaar the first week in December. The committee is now ready to take orders for fruit cakes. Mrs. Sanders makes the best of fruit cakes, and make any size wanted.

Next Monday we have the regular mission study. Don't be absent and miss the connection.

Married.

Mr. Thomas Pence and Miss Linzey Reed of Rule were married the second inst., at the Baptist parsonage in this city, Rev. Sams officiating. A party of friends were with them. The Free Press hopes for this popular young couple all the joys of a happy married life.

Mr. and Mrs. Pence will move to Haskell and make this place their future home.

Wheat sown in November will make just as well as earlier, though it may not pay as well for pasture. There are many farmers still sowing wheat. In this they are acting wise. If the yield is as fine as rains give promise of, the farmer who has wheat will have some money, and credit while the all cotton farmer will have no money and a starvation credit, if he has any at all.

The merchants have bought goods on credit and accommodated their customers, and every man who owes a merchant should pay something as fast as he gets the money. It hurts your credit and embarrasses your credit to make your merchant wait. It is the man who pays promptly who can always get help when he needs it.

HASKELL, TEXAS, November 15, 1913.

The situation between the United States and Mexico indicates war. The fact that the authorities at Washington refuse to recognize Huerta will prevent him from borrowing money. All a revolutionist gets out of the revolution is the money they get from capitalists and concession hunters. Wilson and Bryan have indicated to European governments that this country will back up a repudiation of bond issues and concessions granted by the revolutionist. This is a wise policy and should benefit the whole of Latin America.

We believe all preaching does good. There are all kinds of people in the world, and it takes all kinds of preachers to reach all kinds of people. He is more intelligent than the average of his followers and has stronger and a more stable character. If such preachers were not superior in intelligence to his followers, the followers would not follow. Having demonstrated the superiority of the preacher we are bound to conclude his influence is elevating to his followers. If he succeeds in elevating his hearers to his level he has done good. We have studied, the sociological conditions in this section for many years and watched the sociological development of the community with the greatest interest, and if an intelligent baboon should come to Haskell, he would do some good and find a following, no doubt.

The Abilene Reporter has induced many farmers of Taylor county, who have bottom lands, to put in small irrigation plants. The Free Press some years ago, began the agitation of the subject, but has failed to get any of our people interested. Every small farm in Haskell county ought to have a big reservoir on it, that would furnish plenty of stock water, a fish pond and water sufficient to irrigate a family garden.

A TRIED AND PROVED GUARANTEE.

Man bought a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, then took it back and asked for his money and got it.

A man recently tried out the guarantee which the Corner Drug Store gives with every bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. He bought a bottle and then went back to the drug store and said the medicine hadn't helped him.

This druggist just reached into his cash register and took out a half dollar, the price of the bottle of Liver Tone, and handed it back to the gentleman. But he didn't take the money. He owned up that he was just trying the guarantee and as a matter of fact, he had found Dodson's Liver Tone the best remedy for constipation and biliousness he had ever tried. "Why," he said, "my wife would not be without a bottle in the house for anything. It's the best medicine in the world for the whole family, and the medicine I prefer to take or to give to my children for a lazy liver."

The Corner Drug Store sells Dodson's Liver Tone and guarantees it to start the liver without violence. It is taking the place of calomel everywhere. If you buy a bottle and don't find this pleasant-tasting vegetable remedy the best thing to start a lazy liver he will hand your money back with a smile.

Will interest readers of the Free Press.

Those having the misfortune to suffer from backache, urinary disorders, gravel, dropsical swellings, rheumatic pains, or other kidney disorders, will read with gratification this encouraging statement by a Haskell man.

W. M. Tucker, Haskell, Texas, says:

"There was an extreme lameness in the small of my back and this together with soreness over my kidneys caused me a great deal of suffering, especially when I was at work. Nothing seemed to reach the cause of the complaint until I got Doan's Kidney Pills, at Collier's Drug Store now (The Corner Drug Store). Since I used them, I have been quite free from these annoyances."

The Price She Paid

The attraction at Dick's Theatre on Monday Nov. 17th will be nothing less than the dramatized story, "The Price She Paid", which comes direct from its triumphant appearance in all the larger cities. The play, which has been a veritable sensation on the road, has as its star that charming emotional actress, Miss Rachel May Clark, and the management, knowing the importance of presenting a competent company, has surrounded Miss Clark with the best players available.

David Graham Phillips' book has been widely read and commented upon, but for genuine thrills and gripping characteristics, it does not begin to equal this wonderful play. The story of the play shows definitely what a girl can do unassisted, if she only sets her mind on it and is built of the proper stuff. The drama deals with an employee of a millionaire jeweler, who steals some diamonds to make good his speculating losses, and is detected in his thievery. The thief's sister, who has long been admired by the wealthy jeweler is approached by him with a proposition of love, her reward being the freedom of the brother and ease and luxurious surroundings for the rest of her life. She has a scene with the jeweler, in which he tells her that he is separated, but not divorced, from his wife in the West; hence, cannot marry the girl, providing she gives her consent.

He proposes that they unite without the formality of a marriage ceremony, defining his position as that of a gentleman defending his proposition by saying that a few mumbled words of a clergyman made no difference in the sight of Heaven. He contends that if there is true love and respect, two people can live together just as respectably as if there had been a wedding. Naturally she spurns the proposition and is shocked and horrified by the brazenness of the man who makes it.

The play has been very carefully written, and the characters that one would expect to find revolting in the ordinary stage offering have been considerably softened. For instance, the wealthy jeweler is not the cold calculating villain that he might have been made. Instead, he is rather an agreeable business man filled with false notions of marriage. He is an honest man with distorted ideas and the consequence is that nothing is repelling about him. Even the dishonest brother of the girl has admirable qualities, and when the final curtain falls on the play there is his sweet face left that is in striking contrast to the effect produced by many of the former dramatic offerings.

The principal character in the play is taken by Miss Rachael May Clark, one of the most capable emotional actresses on the American stage. Miss Clark's wonderful experience has given her a delicacy in handling a difficult role like the one she has at present, and her work is truly an artistic triumph. In point of scenic mounting the management have left nothing to be desired.

Haskell Free Press: Much has been said in the past about railroads pro and con. In this land of the far West, where railroad facilities are not so plentiful as in the more thickly populated districts we feel that we need railroad facilities far more than railroad hostilities.

Man, you love your country, don't you? And if you love your country how can you afford to go on record as being in favor of railroads? Don't railroads ruin every community they enter? Don't they muss up the landscape with depots and telegraph poles? Don't they bring in trains that run over perfectly good cows and calves, sometimes, and destroy the happy homes of innocent prairie dogs? Aren't they cormorants, and don't they eat coal and blow smoke into the unskillful countenances of many white-face cattle? Don't they oppress widows and orphans and exasperate politicians pitifully? Don't you love your country?—State Press, in Dallas News.

AN INCESSANT COUGH.

A severe cough is always a grave symptom. It may not indicate organic disease of the lungs. Even though the cough is a functional disturbance it is of sufficient gravity to demand prompt attention.

The dropping of mucus from the back part of the nose into the throat indicates nasal catarrh. Sometimes this goes on a long time before the patient pays any attention to it. It is stated on good authority that mucus dropping into the throat in this way is apt to excite catarrh of the stomach. At any rate, the condition ought to be corrected as soon as possible.

Mrs. Bourland, of Frankton, Texas, found after using Peruna that not only did the incessant cough disappear, but the dropping of mucus into the throat had also ceased. Read what she says:

"For twenty-three years I was a constant sufferer from chronic catarrh. I had a severe misery and burning in the top of my head. There was almost a continual dropping of mucus into my throat, which caused frequent expectoration. My entire system gradually became involved, and my condition grew worse. I had an incessant cough and frequent attacks of bilious colic, from which it seemed I could not recover. My bowels also became affected, causing alarming attacks of hemorrhages."

"I tried many remedies, which gave only temporary relief, or no relief at all. I at last tried Peruna, and in three days I was relieved of the bowel derangement. After using five bottles I was entirely cured."

"I most cheerfully recommend the use of Peruna to any one similarly afflicted."

People who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.

AN UNPAID DEBT

By MANTON HENDERSON

The outing season was over, and the outers were returning to town. Expecting an aunt whom I was to meet and see through the city to her home, I went to the station to meet her. I didn't meet my aunt. She had delayed her coming, but I met with an adventure.

Those waiting for the train were roped off to inspect those who left it and to pounce on those we expected when they came along. Among the last was a young lady whose face the moment she saw me broke into a smile, and, advancing to the rope, she dropped a suit case she was carrying and, clasping my hand, put up her lips to be kissed. She was a stranger to me.

I defy any man, be his intentions the most scrupulous, to have a pretty girl put up her mouth to be kissed to draw back. Why, it would be an insult to the girl. At any rate, I kissed the young lady, fervently since I was about it, and awaited developments. I confess I wondered should my aunt come along what she would think of the proceeding. Then I was afraid she would come along and bring about an explanation before an explanation was called for.

"I'm so glad you've come," said the girl. "Did you get the telegram? I'm tired out carrying this suit case." And, taking it up, she handed it to me. "Have you got a carriage? You have changed ever so much."

Now, if she had stopped for an answer to the first of these questions I would have been in honor bound to explain. But she didn't, and, taking the suit case from her, letting her do all the talking, upon which she seemed bent, I escorted her to the street, called a carriage and, my conscience prompting me to go no further, stood still. She looked at me with wonder in her big brown eyes and said:

"Why, what are you waiting for?" This rattled me, and I got into the carriage and shut the door.

"Where to, sir?" called the driver. I hesitated a moment, got out the word "Number" hesitated again, and the girl supplied the information. Then we rattled away, I feeling as though I had been committing a forgery and expecting an arrest at any moment. Unfortunately the girl subsided from her loquacity, and I felt bound to say something. I thought it a good time to confess—that is, if I could pump up the courage to do so.

"I feel it my duty to tell you"—I began.

"Oh, heavens! What is it? Any one dead?"

This rattled me again. I hadn't the sand to go on in the vein I had started. I switched off.

"Oh, no," I said, "not that at all. What I was going to say is that for a few days I shall be loaded down to the guards with work and shall not be able to show you the same attention as I."

"Dear me, how you frightened me! I know Uncle Ben is quite ill, and I feared you were going to tell me that the poor old man had gone."

"Not at all, not at all. I assure you I had no such intention." I mopped my face with my handkerchief.

All the while the carriage was bowling toward the address given the cabman, and I was thinking of that "day of wrath" when I should meet those who would uncover my unintended deception and make me an object of contempt.

"Do you know," said my companion, turning to look at me with her face, her lips dangerously near mine, "that had I not been looking for you I wouldn't have known you."

"You, too, are changed," I replied, and a method of saving myself flashed into my brain. Why shouldn't I pretend to have made a mistake as well as she? Splendid idea! Now was the time. So I continued, this time with perfect composure: "But, Lou, the change is for the better. You were pretty when I saw you last. Now you are beautiful!"

"I'm glad you continue to call me by my first name," she replied. "I was afraid you would 'Miss' me."

Great heavens, rattled again! I had accidentally struck her name. Instead of wondering that I didn't call her Alice or Evelyn or some name other than her own, thus bringing out the double blunder, she was glad I did it.

The carriage swerved to the curb. I was lost. In a moment persons would be running out to meet the girl and give me away. Miserable me, what should I do? Oh, for a little more time!

"Before we alight," she said, "I wish to say something. You won't feel hurt, will you?"

"Certainly not! Go on."

"Please don't see me to the door. They don't know anything about this meeting, and I don't care at present to have them know."

I gave mute thanks to heaven. "I think you are quite right," I said. "I will remain in the carriage."

The devil had been sick and would be a saint. He had suddenly recovered, and devil a saint was he. Conscience with safety vanished.

THE PARSON'S REMEDY

By M. QUAD
 Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press

It was love that brought about the marriage of Abraham Scott, a young farmer, with Tilda Hastings, and for the first year they were very happy. Then it happened that Tilda's mother passed a week with them, and when ready to go home she said:
 "Tilda, I've been watching things since I've been here."
 "Why, what is there to watch?" she asked.
 "Henry's tyranny over you."
 "Why, mother?"
 "It's a fact. If your father treated me that way one of us would leave the house in short order!"
 "But I can't understand you at all. Just what has Henry done?"
 "He's treated you like a child or a slave. I saw it the first day I was here, and it amazed me that you didn't show your spunk."
 "Why, mother, how strange you talk!" said the wife. "Tell me one thing Henry has done that wasn't right."
 "I'm going to tell you of more than one, Tilda. I've been setting them down on paper so as to be sure, and here they are:
 "The first day I was here he walks in and orders you to melt some mutton tallow for a sore back cow."
 "Why, he didn't order. He asked me to."
 "Don't try to excuse him. There was a commanding tone in his voice. The second day he comes stomping in like a duke and calls out:
 "Hey, Tilda, I'm going to town, and don't you forget to feed the hogs at noon."
 "But I don't see anything wrong about that," was protested. "He was going after milk."
 "Well, I'd just like your father to roar out at me like that just once! I'd tell him to go to Texas quicker'n wink. On the third day your Henry hollered at you from the barnyard and wanted to know if the sheep shears were in the kitchen."
 "But he wanted them, mother."
 "I s'pose he did, but he spoke like old Nero. If your father had called to me like that I'd have gone down there with a club. On the fourth day, as we was eating supper at 6 o'clock, the clock stopped. You must remember what Henry said?"
 "He said it had stopped."
 "Yes, but how did he say it? He looked right across the table at you, and there was pounded glass in his tones as he said:
 "Tilda, you forgot to wind up the clock last night."
 "But I did forget, mother."
 "And what if you did?"
 "What do you want me to do, mother?"
 "Assert yourself. Be the boss of the house. Have things go as you want them to, the same as I do. Your father wouldn't dare to pull a cabbage head in the garden without asking my leave."
 The wife hadn't looked upon her husband as a tyrant. On the contrary, she regarded him as one of the kindest men she had ever heard of. She had no wish to meddle or boss, and she had felt that she was getting all the rights she could well take care of. But the mother had sowed the seeds of discontent, and they soon sprouted. Tilda began to find fault and tender advice and to even threaten suicide if her opinions were not deferred to. Henry figured out that the mother-in-law had been talking and using her influence against him, but he went ahead patiently and availed anything like a rupture.

It was when the boy baby was born that Tilda's mother said to her:
 "Now, you want to put your foot right down about a name for baby. I am sure Henry will want to call him James, after an uncle."
 "But that's a good name, isn't it?"
 "Tilda Scott, have you lost your senses?"
 "I hope not, mother."
 "Then perhaps you can tell me who the ravens fed."
 "Moses, wasn't it?"
 "Not by a jugful! It was Elisha, and that's the name you want to give baby."
 "But I'm sure Henry won't like it."
 It so happened that Henry overheard most of the conversation as he was training a vine by an open window. He didn't walk in and order the mother-in-law out of the house, but he sauntered off to the home of the parson whose church he and his wife attended and stated his case down to the baby, then added:
 "My wife is to threaten to jump into the horse pond if I object to the name."
 "You have a horse pond?"
 "I have, sir."
 "How deep is the water?"
 "About four feet."
 "The mother-in-law is about five feet, I believe."
 "Thanks," said Henry. "I have the idea."
 Henry got home just as the mother-in-law was leaving the house. He picked her up and carried her to the pond and heaved her in. When she waded ashore he heaved her back. When this performance had been repeated for the fifth time he asked:
 "Have you anything to say to me?"
 "Y-yes!" was gasped in reply. "Baby can be named James, and I'll never darken your door again."
 And peace came back and never left the household again. What should we do with the parsons to advise us?

THE SCALE TURNED

By ARTHUR GRIGSBY

Edwin Hoxie, an American artist seeking subjects for his brush in Spain, left Madrid to go to the mountains of Toledo, some sixty miles from the capital. Arriving at an inn midway between the plain and the summit of the range, he concluded to make it his headquarters, going about among the mountains sketching. He arrived in the evening and concluded to put off any work till the morrow. The inn being in a lonely spot and at the time apparently no other boarders in the house, he seated himself on a veranda where he could overlook the plain far below, and called for supper.

The cloth was laid by a girl in a short petticoat encircled with stripes of various gay colors, beneath which appeared a dainty foot and ankle. Hoxie was very young, and youth is unthinking. He permitted himself to gaze too admiringly on the seniority and did not take the pains not to do so while she was looking. He spoke some Spanish and began to chat with her, but could get nothing except "Yes, señor," and "No, señor," for she was a diffident little thing, especially in the presence of one in the social scale so far above her.

There were many points in the vicinity where attractive views were to be obtained, and Hoxie attended to his work, not thinking about the girl when doing so. But in the evening between supper and bedtime he needed company and after supper would invent ways to keep her with him on the veranda. The inn was kept by her aunt and the two women were the only persons in the house besides the few wayfarers who stopped there. The aunt Hoxie addressed as senora, the girl as Pepita, which was her name. When he was not out sketching he was continually calling on the one or the other for something—either a glass of wine or a bit of cheese or for Pepita to bring her guitar and play for him.

"You are troubled about something, Pepita," he said one evening to the girl while she waited upon him at supper. "What is it?"
 "Nothing, señor," she said.
 "Yes, there is something you fear. Tell me."
 "Well, then, señor, there are bandits in these mountains. You should not go out sketching."
 "You must be mistaken. I asked about that before coming here and was told that I would be as safe here as in Madrid."
 This did not appear to relieve the girl's fears. There is something that draws a man to a woman who fears for him, and Hoxie drew the girl to him and kissed her.

"It is very lovely for you," he said. "To be anxious for my safety. Don't worry. I think I can take care of myself."
 There was a sound in some shrubbery just beyond the veranda. Pepita started, gasped and trembled. Hoxie looked up at her, surprised, and was about to ask her what had frightened her when she ran into the house.

The next evening was very warm, and Hoxie lay smoking in a hammock in the yard. The moon was at the full and in the rare atmosphere at such a height cast a bright light. Hoxie dozed. Suddenly he roused himself and looked upon a shadow cast by the moon on the ground directly before him. It was the shadow of a man with arm uplifted. The closed fist seemed to grasp something, for there was a protrusion from it not clearly enough shadowed for Hoxie to discern what it was. Hoxie divined that it was a weapon of some sort, most probably a knife.

Whatever was done must be instantaneous. Hoxie's reasoning certainly was. He reasoned that some one was about to kill him; that the murder would be committed silently. The only method of escape seemed to be to call to some one. This might frighten off the murderer.

"Senora!" he called without displaying any alarm in his voice.
 "What do you wish, señor?"
 "A glass of wine."
 At the first word the shadow withdrew so that he did not see it. His enemy had sprung back.
 "Never mind," Hoxie said, rising as he spoke. "I will drink it in the house."

Not daring to betray his knowledge of his danger by looking back, he walked into the house without turning his head. He had not seen his enemy—only his shadow. Nor did he see him later. His coolness had saved his life. His enemy quite likely was in such condition of mind that a word spoken by the man he would kill was enough, momentarily at least, to deter him, and before he had time to begin again it was too late.

Hoxie was never in a hurry about anything. He said nothing to the landlady about the matter, preferring to think it over before doing so. He remembered the sound in the bushes, where the evening before he had kissed Pepita, and her fright. Here was an explanation.

"Pepita," he said the next morning when he was alone with her.
 "Yes, señor."
 "You have a lover, one whom I have never seen."
 "Yes, señor."
 "Is he a good fellow?"
 "Yes, señor," faintly.
 There was silence for a few moments, when Hoxie added: "I am going down to Toledo, Goodby."

His Blunder

By GREGORY GIBSON

Woolcott during the summer met Miss Martindale and did a lot of spooning, with the usual result. However, the affair was not brought to a finish, and Woolcott was obliged to take a thousand mile trip for the purpose of making a proposition. He was preparing to do so when the lady wrote him that she would be at M. shortly and would be happy to receive him there. Since M. was some 900 miles nearer than her residence, Woolcott concluded to see her there instead.

Miss Martindale wrote that she would be at the Cliffs, meaning that she would visit a family of that name. Woolcott took this to mean that she would stop at a hotel. On alighting at the station he asked a man who was in a hurry where he could find the Cliffs. The man pointed to a handsome house on a hill near by. He found the baggage agent and, pointing to the house, told him to send his trunk there; then he set off to walk the distance. On arriving he opened the front door, entered a spacious hallway and saw a gentleman reading a newspaper before an open fireplace.

"The Cliffs, I believe?" said Woolcott. The gentleman looked up at him over a pair of glasses, somewhat surprised, and replied in the affirmative. "Are you the landlord?" asked Woolcott.

"I would like a room in your house for a few days," continued the traveler. "Have you a young lady staying with you of the name of Martindale?"
 A light seemed to break in upon the gentleman's brain. "Miss Florence Martindale? Certainly. She arrived a few days ago. But she's out in an auto just now. She will not return till late tonight. Be seated and I'll call a servant to show you to a room."

Howard Cliff, banker, entertaining a few friends at his country residence, had sent them off in his car, remaining at home himself. He went himself for the butler, instead of ringing for him, to tell him to show a gentleman to his room who supposed he was in a hotel and who was not to be told he was in a private house. Then Mr. Cliff returned to the guest, followed by the butler, who took him upstairs. While Woolcott was making a toilet his baggage arrived and was sent up to him. When he came downstairs he found Mr. Cliff in the library.

"We have very few guests at present," said the supposed landlord. "You see, ours is a summer house, and we shall close up for the winter within a few days or a week. It depends upon how long I can keep those who are now with me. You will have to dine alone, for all have gone on the auto party."

"I don't like that," said Woolcott. "If you are alone may we not dine together?"
 "Certainly."

"What wine have you?"
 Mr. Cliff mentioned several kinds of wine, and his guest selected champagne. He asked for a wine card, but the host told him it was unnecessary. Woolcott regaled his host with one bottle and called for another. The dinner was delightfully served, and altogether Woolcott found the landlord a very agreeable companion. Judging by the number of foreign places he was familiar with, Woolcott thought that he must have kept hotels all over the world. Mr. Cliff suggested that, since the auto party would not return till late, perhaps Woolcott would not sit up for them. Since the latter did not relish a meeting with the lady to whom he had come to propose before others he said he thought he would go to bed.

When he went down to breakfast in the morning he met a genial party, every one of whom had been coached with regard to his reception. Miss Martindale had been horrified at the blunder he had made. She had expected him to stop at a hotel and call upon her at her friend's. But Mr. Cliff pleaded with her to permit her friend to remain in ignorance of the situation temporarily and continue to be entertained by the Cliff family.

Miss Martindale advanced with a smile, not unmingled with embarrassment, but refrained from mentioning the mistake. All sat down together to breakfast, and Woolcott thought what a charming place it would be for him to make his proposal.

He had ample opportunity, for the members of the family kept out of the couple's way, having some suspicion of the young man's errand. During the afternoon the two took a long walk, and when they came back Woolcott looked very proud of himself. At dinner he remarked to Mrs. Cliff that he had never before stopped at so charming a hotel.

"Hotel!" exclaimed the lady, feigning surprise.
 "Mr. Woolcott," said the host, "I have to thank you for making a mistake in taking my house for a hotel. Had you not done so I should not have had the pleasure of entertaining you."

Woolcott saw by the looks of those present, especially his fiancée, that he had blundered, but both host and hostess came to the rescue, and it was not long before he was feeling quite at home and laughing with the rest over his mistake. But it is not to be expected of a man who has won the girl he wants that he will mind a little thing like that.

Truth Creates Confidence in Advertising

A modern business concern with its wide-awake eyes on the balance sheet can not overlook the fact that advertising pays big dividends. Printer's ink, distributed through the columns of the local paper, is the best advertising medium, and no merchant can climb the ladder of success without it. Truth in advertising is manifestly essential. It creates confidence, and confidence is the first requisite for securing buyers. Honesty creates good will. The good will of the purchaser is both desirable and necessary in successful selling.

Successful selling consists not only of furnishing the buyer with the commodity he desires. It is the least of the service he performs in selling. The manner in which the article is transferred to the purchaser, the courtesy, kindness and decency with which the transaction is made is supremely important.
