THE COUNTY FAIRS VALUABLE INSTITUTIONS

Apropos of the numerous county fairs being held throughout this state, the Evening Journal of Dallas remarks:

"They provide opportunity for a comprehensive showing of farm and range products, they exert an educational influence, bring to flower the spirit of co-operative interest and afford strong stimulus to agricultural and industrial development. The variety, perfection and abundance of the products being shown at these fairs present tangible evidence of the self-supporting capacity of all sections of our great state and should strike the calamity-crier dumb and put the pessimist to hopeless rout. As the fairs prosper so prosper Texas and the people."

And that live journal, the Progressive Farmer, discourses thus upon them:

"The season of the county fair is upon us and upon every side, and in many county seats the hum of preparation is heard upon the fair grounds and in the homes. The man who should get the greatest benefit out of the county fair is not the merchant who has a little better opportunity of advertising his wares, but the farmer who shows the products of his farm in competition with those of his neighbor. The returns from his exhibit are not in so many additional dollars received upon the spot, but in the knowledge of how his neighbor made better corn or more corn upon an acre than he did. How by certain handling he was able to get better returns from the livestock that he kept, and what the quality of this livestock meant to him in larger profits."

"Such lessons, that can be learned at the fair better than any other place, if taken home and put into practice will mean more future profit to him and his than can possibly be hoped for by the merchant. And yet, while the farmer is the man who will assuredly reap the greatest benefit from the fair, it is the town merchant who is taking the greatest interest in promoting it.

"This should not be the case in a live community of farmers. Instead of looking at the fair as a town institution that they favor by their attendance and participation in, the live farmer will look upon it as an institution and will take an active part not only in arranging for it but in making it the community school that it ought to be, by placing the best of his products on exhibition and urging his neighbors to do likewise."

Such is the universal verdict as to the use and value of the county fairs and we hope to see the farmers of Haskell county show an interest that will make their exhibits measure up to the best being shown anywhere. We know they can do it if the proper progressive spirit is shown.

New Blacksmith in Haskell

I have purchased the old Jno. B. Lamkin Blacksmith shop, near the Union gin. I will open the same Oct. 19th. Will do all kinds of blacksmithing, wood-work and horse shoeing.

I am not a stranger to Haskell county, having put up the first shop at Sagerton, where I lived for several years. I gave my patrons the best work that skill and material was capable of. I ask the good people of Haskell and surrounding country to give me a trial. All my work will be guaranteed. I will appreciate your support, and patronage.

A. Tonn.

The man that's doing the work that stands the test.

Quite a Protection.

"Summer has its inconveniences."

"I don't get you."

"I was just thinking of the vestless man who tried to carry a lead pencil, a fountain pen, his watch and his cigars in the top pockets of his coat."—Detroit Free Press.

Price is Important in Making Goods Sell, But Quality is What Brings People Back the Second Time

Seems as though there ought to be plenty of good stores between here and Oregon, but just the same, this week we had a letter from an old customer of ours, who now lives in Wellen, Oregon, asking us to send him a slicker. He said, "Send me a good one, like the one you sold me twenty years ago." Only a slicker, but it shows what confidence we inspire in our customers.

BRANDEREE KIRCAID & CO. CLOTHES.

Our clothing stock has been well supplied for this season, and we tell you now, sir, that there is good value in every garment. There is quality sir, in every one, quality that we are glad to give. Quality that we believe will bring the customer back the second time. In this ad we are showing a model of our Bal Macaan coats, and a model of one of the three button sack suits. They are both good styles. Nobby enough for a young college man, or conservative enough for his daddy.

BRANDEREE KIRCAID & CO. CLOTHES.

We are showing a long line of suits and overcoats at prices from $15 to $25. And we would emphasize the fact that we have a lot of extra values at $15 and $17.50.

Values in Shoes that Bring Orders Across Several States

Seems as there ought to be plenty of good shoes in Chicago, just the same a few days ago we had an order from a gentleman who lives in Chicago, to send him two pair of Howard and Foster shoes. He said, "Send me two pair, size 8 1-2 C, the same kind I have been ordering from you the past three years." This gentleman is a traveling man and has been living in Dallas for several years and traveling over this territory, but has lately moved to Chicago to take a different territory, but just the same, we will continue to send him H. & F. shoes. He says he paid as high as $7.50 the pair for shoes till we sold him an H&F shoe at $5.00, and he says they fit better and wear as well.

Note the two styles here shown. One a trim, well shaped button in a Glaze Kangaroo. The other one, is one of the new English lasts, we think the most sightly one we have seen. It is made of the highest grade dull calf skin that money can buy. Get that? We say the best money can buy. Fact too. Price $5.50. Compare it with a $6.50 grade shown elsewhere, or a still higher priced one if you care to.

F. G. ALEXANDER & SONS

THE BIG STORE

Haskell, Texas.

Oct. 10th 1914

Patterson-Holt

On last Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock, about 25 young people from the Ballew community came to the home of Judge Smith, in North Haskell, and after assembling in the parlor one of them gave the Judge some papers indicating that Mr. G. E. Patterson and Miss Opal Holt were ready to get married, and in a short but impressive way, the Judge tied the knot.

Mr. Patterson is a young farmer from the Center Point neighborhood, the son of P. C. Patterson, the nominee for County Commissioner of Pre No. 4. He captured for his valuable prize the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Holt of the Ballew neighborhood. The Free Press, together with their many friends, extends congratulations.

LECTURES ON DIVERSIFICATION WILL BE MADE DURING THE COUNTY FAIR

The farmers are to have the opportunity during our county fair of hearing some interesting talks on Diversification, the Silo, Dairying, Hog-raising, etc. It occurs to us that these lectures are opportune and should be particularly interesting at this time when it is expected that the cotton acreage will be greatly reduced next year and everyone will be considering of what to plant to best take the place of cotton.

Judge Poole wrote Hon. Ed R. Kone, State Commissioner of Agriculture, asking if possible that a competent man be sent by the department to visit our fair and deliver lectures on the above mentioned subjects, and he is in receipt of the following letter:

State Department of Agriculture
Austin, Texas, Oct. 2, 1914.
Mr. J. E. Poole,
Haskell, Texas.

Dear Sir:

Replying to your favor of the 30th. ultimo, I am today writing our Mr. J. W. Neill to attend your fair for the purpose mentioned in your letter. I quite agree with you as to the probable value to be derived by a delivery of lectures upon the subjects mentioned by you at all the county fairs in this state,

Very truly yours,
Ed. R. Kone,
Commissioner.

The U. S. Experiment Station was also written to for a lecturer but has not been heard from at this date.

Special Railroad Rates for Haskell

For the Haskell County Fair to be held at Haskell, Oct. 15, 16, and 17, the Wichita Valley Railroad has announced a rate of one and one-third fares for the round trip from all stations including Seymour and Abilene and intermediate points. Tickets to be good for trains arriving at Haskell evening of October 14, and for ALL trains on Oct. 15th and 16th, with final limit to expire Oct. 18th.

A large premium list and various attractions have been provided for and a large attendance is expected.

Come to the Free Press for your warranty deeds. We have them with or without the vendor's lien clause.

8c Cash For Your Cotton 8c

We will pay you Eight cents for your cotton in Merchandise. Believing it will be necessary for every farmer in Haskell county to spend the amount of one, two or three bales of cotton for dry goods, and as the demand for cotton is light, and the price low, we have decided to pay, until further notice eight cents per pound in Dry Goods, for any bale of cotton grading middling or above.

Remember our prices are the same. Our goods are marked in plain figures at rock-bottom cash prices, and our stock, we believe, is the best in Haskell county. We guarantee quality and price of everything that goes out of our store.

We are making this proposition as an experiment. First we are desirous and always willing to do everything in our power to hold up the price of the farmers' products. Second, our expense account is the same. We have our same clerk hire and house rent to pay, and if we can keep the same steady flow of business coming to our store we have been accustomed to having, we can handle it with the same expense. We want to impress upon you, YOU WILL NOT PAY ANY MORE FOR YOUR GOODS. We know our goods and prices are right, and much lower than some of you have been paying. We make this proposition purely to increase business on the same expense account, and to do our part toward holding up the price of the farmers' products. As the price of cotton will justify we will increase our price, but in case of further decline, we would naturally have to reduce our price, but we will keep our price at all times as high as good business and common sense will justify.

Get down and figure on this. See what a saving this means on your Winter dry goods. If our prices and goods don't suit you, you can keep your cotton and sell to the highest bidder.

A. J. Glasgow of Munday was a passenger on the morning train Monday. He was returning from Post City. He saw the cotton in the seed taken from the farmers and turned into cloth. The factory at Post City was paying the farmers nine cents per lb.

The Free Press is a little behind the times, but it is too interesting to omit, even if were late getting the item. On Sept., 27th Mr. and Mrs. Roy English received a visit from the stork, who presented them with a fine boy. The Free Press congratulates the fond parent for the happy event.

Mr. A. Tonn, who established the first blacksmith shop at Sager-ton, but for the past few years has lived in Knox county, has purchased the blacksmith shop near the Union gin, and will move his family here in a few days. Mr. Tonn is a German American, and makes a success of what he undertakes.

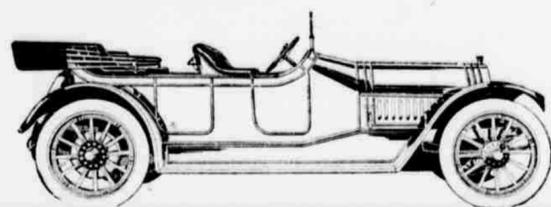

Did They Ever Give You Medicine When You Were a Baby?

If they did, they perhaps had to hold your nose, pry your mouth open and pour it down your throat. Your fond parents knew that it was good for you, and therefore they resorted to almost any means to make you accept what was beneficial.

A good many automobile buyers remind me of the time when we were babies—of the time when our noses were held and paregoric was being poured into our little mouths.

But we are no longer babies, neither you nor I, we are live energetic men, always looking for the best, therefore, I want to tell you about the great line of Mitchell automobiles without giving it to you the "paregoric" way.

If you are just a wee tiny bit interested, drop me a line and I will tell you or come and show you all the good points of all automobiles concentrated in one.

"Cascarets" always Straighten You Up

To-night! Clean your Bowels and end Headaches, Colds, Sour Stomach

Get a 10 cent box now. You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headaches, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach or have backache and feel worn out.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular, and head clear for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Getz sold their pretty little home near the Methodist church to J. E. Bernard and left last Sunday for Wapakoneta, Ohio, where they will spend some time for the benefit of Mr. Getz's health. They will probably return to Fort Worth later and make that place their future home.

Two acres, 4 room house, (large) 7 blocks west of court house, main street, good improvements, can't be crowded, formerly owned by Norris. Also one acre, 5 room house, good improvements, same street, and just west of the two acre place. If you want either of the above places write M. M. Jones, Carbon, Texas.

Confestants, NOW is the time to work. NOW is the time people are buying goods and paying up. Be on the job, stay on the job. Don't say "I can't." You can win this contest if you will work and work hard. Get your friend to working hard for you. This will be a great prize for some young lady, and some young lady in Haskell county is going to get it. Ask your friends to buy their Dry Goods from Hunt Bros. and save their votes for you.

Library Hours

The Library will be open from now on, each Saturday from 3 to 5 p. m.

Thick, Glossy Hair, Free From Dandruff

Girls! Try it! Hair Gets Soft, Fluffy and Luxuriant at Once—No More Falling Hair

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

Auxiliary Notes

The Methodist Auxilliary met Monday, Oct 5th. A lengthy and profitable business session. The Society will meet at 3 o'clock Oct. 12th. The lesson is the 13th chapter of John, with Mrs. Fields as teacher. The Treasurer requests every member to remember to pay dues as the close of year is at hand.

The Methodist ladies will serve lunch at the old Farmers Bank building on the corner opposite the Fair building on the day of the Better Baby Show during the Fair.

If Meals Hit Back And Stomach Sours

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends Stomach Misery, Indigestion in Five Minutes.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can get blessed relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion in five minutes.

A Big Baby Beef.

Labry Ballard left Wednesday for Fort Worth, to which point he had shipped an eighteen month old steer to exhibit at the fat stock show to be held in that city. The steer is a cross between a Hereford and a Durham. It was weighed here before being shipped on the scales of E. A. Chambers, and he tipped the beam at 1180 lbs. He was bred on T. E. Ballard's ranch in the eastern part of this county. The steer will probably bring fifteen cents a pound, and allowing for shrinkage, he will sell for about, $165.00. All the cattle in Haskell county could be made to bring an enormous price, if they were properly fed and marketed.

INVITATION

WE cordially invite you to pay our new Theatre a visit, and see what we have done for you. Even in the face of hard times and the general unsettled condition of the country, we have gone ahead and prepared a place of amusement for you, that excluding two theatres only in the four principal cities of the state, is second to none. In providing a new place "SAFETY FIRST" was one of main ideas in view. We have provided an absolute fire-proof projection room—not a piece of wood about it, all steel, iron and asbestos. We have provided four large roomy isles, each one of them opening directly on an exit.

Our new especially constructed picture screen is a beauty, and gives a beautiful clear picture. You can set on the front row now without that old "eye-ache." The house is not dark as it formerly was, but enough light is given now to distinguish clearly any person in the auditorium. No more stumbling over chairs to find a seat.

A new piano has been installed also, and we will endeavor to keep our musical program at a high standard.

We believe that if you will come out to see us once, you will come back again. Try it once. You will have your full share of courtesy and politeness.

HASKELL, TEXAS, Oct. 10, 1914.

Now it is simply up to the farmers to plant more grain, raise stock, or go hungry. There's where we are right now. If the war continues, you can't get bread and meat. The war will make bread and meat high and cotton low in price. What the cotton farmers have to sell will be cheap and what he has to buy will be high. You may have sense enough to learn this now or you may have one, two or three years to be starved into a realization of what you are up against. This depends on your mental capacity. Cattle and hogs are high. It will pay to raise them now. People can't move around and raise grain and stock. The itinerant system in Texas keeps thousands of people poor. Farming is going to have to be more intensive and diversified as population increases or some improvident people are going to suffer from hunger. The consumer is going to be the sufferer. The tradesman will take care of himself as he has in all ages.

Mon. Jas. E. Ferguson is quoted by the daily papers as being against Gov. Colquitt's state bank bill. Mr. Ferguson has a fine record on the banking business, and when the bankers were discussing the Aldrich scheme he demonstrated his independence of character. While it seems to us that the method by which Gov. Colquitt proposes to capitalize his state bank is defective and a menace to the school fund, yet a state bank to finance the cotton crop and market it direct to the mills is a plausible necessity. The bankers are opposed to the Governors scheme and will oppose any scheme that is new. They supported the old national bank system until statesmen gave relief. Bankers are not noted for statesmanship. They prefer perpetual panic to something new, not for meanness but because their business training makes them conservative. They were for the old national bank system with its perpetual panics, and when they saw the demand for a change they lined up almost to man for the Aldrich plan that would have concentrated all wealth in the hands of a few bankers. The bankers can get all that is coming to them out of any system out of any kind of a financial plan that may be devised, but they have never made much of a record for devising a good banking system for any body, not even for themselves.

Farmers, pay the merchants what you owe them as fast as you can do so. Do not make your merchant wait for a dollar you can pay him. The cotton farmer's credit is hit and hit hard. If the teanant do not do their best, they are not going to get the help they have been getting in the past as easy as they have. When tenant farmers leave their crop in the field and move off without trying to gather their crop and pay their debts, they hurt the credit of the tenant class. Such financing as running away instead of paying your debts is playing out. Merchants are getting wary about risking their goods on the faith of people, who show a disposition to get the goods and let the merchant hustle for his pay. Dishonesty not only hurts the individual's credit, but hurts the credit of the class to which he belongs. If it was not for the credit system, we would have famines and farmers would starve in this country like they do in China. The credit system is all right if you do not abuse it.

The London Times, commenting on the rumors of mediation peace terms and possibly as a hint to Mr. Wilson and the American people has this to say:

"The Allies, who are ranged against Napoleonism of the German Kaiser, have no thought of placing a yoke, Napoleonic or otherwise, upon the people of Germany. But they are firmly and irrevocably resolved not to stay their hands until German militarism, its causes, and its effects are destroyed once for all. They are determined that the institution and forces that have brought this unspeakable calamity upon the world at the instance of William of Hohenzollern with the acquiescence of his subjects, shall be crushed beyond hope of repair. Not until the German people have been compelled to perceive this struggle in its true light, as a revolt of the inevitable forces of civilization against the systemized ethics of barbarism forged by German potentates and professors, can there be a prospect of lasting peace for the world. Against this this ethics of barbarism there must indeed be a fight to a finish.

"Deprecatory recommendations that the Allies should avoid the humiliation of Germany are entire beside the point. No hostile force or combination of forces can inflict on Germany greater humiliation than that which she has incurred of her own choice."

NO "MERGENCY MONEY" FOR NEGROS

In this modern day, when any sort of sermon is appreciated, especially when it has some bearing on questions of personal nature, and has to do with our circumstances, it is occasionally that especially good advice on the leading questions of the day may be taken from these sermons. About the best sermon delivered to a negro congregation was that sent out to the Austin American a few days ago, and which is herewith reproduced for its genuine wit and pithy says:

"I am just a plain country nigger, who am just like lots of white folks. I depends on my hands 'stead of my head to figger out bout all dis talk in the daily paers bout murgency money. Las Sunday our paster sho preached a powerful sermon on dis lastating subject and de members who am indenticated said he was sho powered wid selusion and judgment. He says:"

"Brederns and sisterns, de time is at han' dat de bible say they shall be wars and roomers of war; dat don't mean de peaceful waitin' war wid mexico; dat means de all-lies war over yonder near jerusalem. de fulfillment is starin' you in de face; this book say they shall be weaping and wailing and snapping ob de teeth, now by cristians, dat doan mean a thing but a hongry nigger, and I, prays dat dis entire conragration will hear de rustication ob de wise pronouncement and supply yo needs with chickens dat belongs to yoself. it says earthquacks pestes will sho bound in divers places, de fulfillment ob dis passage am demon-strated in de cotton patch. Ain't de ground done crack open? ain't de pestes done crawl out ob de cracks and youing all de cotton? I hates to spress myself bout dem divers for it will sho caus confusement in de foles ob dis church. any-way day ain't nothin' ceptin white folks in de north who run de cotton market to suit deysself. dem hy tone yankees ain't thinkin' bout freein' you niggers of dis financial compressment. dey ain't no mo Abraham Lincons up dar. All dem divers care bout you niggers and po' white trash is to keep you in de cotton patch so dey can buy de cotton cheap and sell back to you at figuration prices for a calico dress. The most solemnist precisement in de tex of my sermen is de pearance ob Gabril wid his horn—when he toots de sheeps will go to de right and de goats to de left. now, in my picious judgment dat man Gabril will look out after de sheeps and de debil will tak care ob de goats.

"Brederns and sisterns, my expulshon of de facts concernin' de disturbance and de sepa-tion ob dese animules is blasted on the fulfillment of de warnings which am laid down in de good book. Dat man Gabril is livin' dis minute down in Georgia. When he tooted de trumpet hit say—buy a bale! buy a bale! de sheeps all flocked to de right side, de goats dey all stand in north and telegrams de pepul from Washington dat de confushun will soon be over. Mister Mackyko done issued a billion dollars murgency money—all de niggers and po' white trash dat raises cotton run to de postoffice to git some some ob de money on dey cotton and de man say, we hafter go to de National Bank. the National Bank man say, nigger, you owe de bank now, and yo' cotton will pay us at 6 1/2 cents a pound, sell it and bring us de money. We ain't got no murgency money. Who am goin' to git all dis money? De man dat doan need it doan want it and de

No Aches or Pains
Peruna Did It for Me.

"I find Peruna an excellent spring and summer medicine and am glad to call the attention of my friends to it. I know by experience that Peruna is a good medicine, and always recommend it whenever I have an opportunity. I can truthfully say that I have no traces of my old complaint, and have neither ache nor pain, and enjoy life. Words cannot express my appreciation for the good Peruna has done me."

PERUNA THE SPRING AND SUMMER MEDICINE.
"I used to get cramps in my stomach, I had sick headaches. My stomach nearly killed me. My family physician only gave me temporary relief. I got out of patience and had given up all hopes of recovery. I then wrote to Dr. Hartman and he advised me to take Peruna. I got a bottle of Peruna and commenced using it. Soon got better and am now entirely cured and feel like a new woman. Peruna is my comfort. I will never be without it." Mrs. Thomas M. Morgan, R. F. D. 2, Wadsworth, Ohio.

READ THIS STATEMENT OF FACTS
From W. F. Anders of 1625 Cleveland Street, Waco, Texas, who is Employed by Hill & Campbell Grocery Co.

I have been suffering with bilious headaches and stomach trouble so bad I could hardly keep on my feet, but I was compelled to work to support my wife and family. One of my customers advised me to take GRIGSBY'S LIVER-LAX and it would cure me, and to my wonderful surprise it has entirely cured me. My physician would give me calomel, but heaven knows, I would be sicker than ever and would have to lay off. I have no more headaches and feel almost a new person and I know now my trouble was my liver. I am giving it now to my children and I see a wonderful improvement. LIVER-LAX helped me the first day I took it, and is certainly a working mans friend. I bought it at, Corner Drug Store.

Question of Fact.
The judge decided that certain evidence was inadmissible.

Council took strong exception to the ruling, and insisted that it was admissible. "I know, your honor," said he, warmly, "that it is proper evidence. Here I have been practicing at the Bar for forty years, and now I want to know if I am supposed to be a fool!" "That," quietly replied the judge, "is a question of facts, and not of law, so I won't pass any opinion upon it, but will let the jury decide."—Sacred Heart Review.

Misunderstood.
"Women are the spice of life." "That's the time you said something!" "And life without spice would be—" "Spice? I thought you said spies!" replied the man whose wife had found a poker chip in his pocket.

HELPFUL WORDS

FROM A HASKELL CITIZEN

Is your back lame or painful? Does it ache especially after exertion?

Is there a soreness in the kidney region?

These symptoms suggest weak kidneys.

If so there is danger in delay. Weak kidneys get fast weaker. Give your trouble prompt attention.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

Your neighbors use and recommend them.

Read this Haskell testimony.

W. M. Tucker, Haskell, Texas, says: "Lumenec in the small of my back caused me a great deal of suffering, especially when I was at work. Nothing seemed to reach the cause of the complaint until I got Doan's Kidney Pills, at Collier's Drug Store, (now the Corner Drug Store). Since I used them I have been quite free from these annoyances."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Tucker had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Waived the Other Chance.

"At ten o'clock tomorrow morning I will be prepared to answer your proposal of marriage."

"Why the delay?"

"It gives me time for play fair with another. If he doesn't come across when he hears of your offer, I'll take you."

"Under the circumstances I must withdraw my offer."

"You do? Then under the circumstances, I waive the other chance and take you."

Local Druggist Makes Many Friends

The Corner Drug Store reports they are making many friends through the QUICK benefit which Haskell people receive from the simple mixture of buckthorn bark glycerine, etc., known as Adler-i-ka. This remedy became famous by curing appendicitis and it is the most thorough bowel cleanser known, acting on BOTH the lower and upper bowel. JUST ONE DOSE of Adler-i-ka relieves constipation and gas on the stomach almost IMMEDIATELY.

Not a Believer.

And Then he Knew.

"I was speaking with your father last night," he said at last, somewhat inanely.

"Oh, were you?" answered the sweet young thing, lowering her eyes. "Er—what were you—er—talking about?"

"About the war in Europe. Your father said that he hoped the fighting would soon be over."

The sweet young thing smiled. "Yes," she remarked, "I know he's opposed to long engagements."

Hopeless Lung Trouble Cured.

Many recoveries from Lung Troubles are due to Dr. Bell's Pine Tar Honey. It strengthens the Lungs, checks the Cough and gives relief at once. Mr. Wilkins, Gates, N. C., writes: "I used Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey in a case given up as hopeless and it effected a complete cure. Get a bottle of Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. If your cough is dry and hacking let it trickle down the throat, you will surely get relief. Only 25cts at your Druggist."

Unkind.

I wonder how many men will be made unhappy when I marry, said the first.

How many do you expect to marry? answered her dearest friend.—Man Lacht.

Your Fall Cold Needs Attention.

No use to fuss and try to wear it out. It will wear you out instead. Take Dr. King's New Discovery, relief follow quickly. It checks your Cold and Soothes your Cough away. Pleasant, Antiseptic and Healing. Children like it. Get a 50 cent bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and keep it in the house. "Our family Cough and Cold Doctor" writes Lewis Chamberlain, Manchester, Ohio. Money back if not satisfied, but it nearly always helps.

Justified at Last.

Willie—Look here, mother, haven't I been telling you for the past two years that it was no use learning all that European geography?—Life.

DIED.

Mrs. Sallie A. Williams died at the home of relatives in Fort Worth, the sixth instant, and the remains were brought here and interred in Willow cemetery, by the grave of her husband, Capt. J. S. Williams deceased, who died a few years ago.

Capt. Williams and his wife moved to Haskell in 1887, and engaged in farming and stock raising, and built up a good estate. They had no children, but have other relatives in this county. W. A. Black, a brother of Mrs. Williams, who made his home with them survives his sister.

The funeral service was held at the Presbyterian church, of which she was a member. Many friends met the funeral party at the train.

Dick's New Theatre Opened

For several weeks Dick Nolen's theatre building has been undergoing a change and remodeling, and last Saturday was opened for the first time, with a remarkable splendid entertainment, "Home Sweet Home." Dick has spared no expense in getting his house in first class shape both as to appearance and comfort, and has complied in every particular to the law governing moving picture shows in having the operating room built of iron throughout, and providing plenty of exit doors, so that in case of fire the audience may suffer no inconvenience in getting out of the building. He has also provided everything in making his playhouse an attractive one. Besides showing the best pictures obtainable, he has a splendid piano and has employed Miss Mary Steadman, a very talented young lady, to furnish music for every performance, which will be a delight to those who may attend his shows. Last Saturday evening being the opening evening, special attention was given to every detail in order to make the occasion a very enjoyable affair, and the enterprising manager succeeded in a high degree. For this occasion Miss Yeta Cummins, with her violin very kindly aided Miss Steadman in furnishing music. Miss Cummins has been taking on the violin only four months, and her many friends were very pleasantly surprised at the wonderful progress she has made. She exhibited an aptitude and talent for the violin little less than remarkable, and she has great promise of becoming noted with this very fine instrument.

The Free Press desires to congratulate Mr. Nolen on his enterprise in doing everything he can to furnish to the people of Haskell a first-class playhouse, and his efforts are deserving of the liberal support he has been receiving and will continue to receive.

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE.

To all whom this may concern: For thirty six years I have fought the credit and mortgage system. Twenty to thirty years ago, it was popular to fight this system, but nowadays we hear but little about it. Why is it so?

Is it because all business men who do a credit business have to practice this system to succeed?

Is it possible that we are becoming more untrust-worthy? I have been in business five years, and as all know, do what is called a thirty day business. During this time I have taken one mortgage, and I collected the debt and the party is still my friend and customer.

I am sad to say some others who I have trusted have become offended because I have insisted they comply with their obligations to me. Some of course can not meet the obligations, and they are to be excused, but is it possible our brother thinks more of us not to trust his honesty than for us to trust him, for we be all brothers, in part and should be our brother's keeper. Now, with the great blessings that our people have in a bountiful crop, I think we should keep our obligations. I have come to the conclusion that it is better for man to be forced to do right than not to do right at all, but it is much better for him to do right because it is his duty. Now all those owing me know it, and it will be a great help to me for everyone to help me who can, for I am under obligations, that will have to be met if it takes sacrifices to do so. M. A. Clifton.

Magazine Club Begins Year's Work

On last Saturday the Magazine Club room was thrown open after a summer's vacation, and the many members who gathered there wore a look on their faces that said, "It is good to be here."

After pleasant greetings, one to another, the club was called to order by Mrs. O. E. Patterson. After dispatching all business, the program for the afternoon was carried out.

In Mrs. Cogdell's absence, Mrs. Patterson rendered a delightful piano selection. Our newly elected President, Mrs. J. U. Fields then took the chair and in a manner all her own gave words of greeting which at once put Mrs. Fields on the list and in line with our most thoughtful and progressive club presidents.

A women's club is no longer a place where women meet in exclusive study and enjoyment, but as our President said, the slogan is, to help some one else.

In "Looking Backward" Mrs. S. R. Rike traced the interesting incidents which link the past and present.

Mrs. Rike bears the distinction of being the only remaining charter member which made her review of the club's history especially interesting.

The prospects have never been brighter for a splendid year's work, than this, the Club's twelfth anniversary.

B. W. M. W. Notes.

Shortly after 3 o'clock Monday evening sweet songs could be heard at the Baptist church where a large number of consecrated workers had met in an effort to carry out our King's command. An interesting and instructive Missionary program was carried out after which a business session.

It was voted to ask the business men to give one half day Friday to clean up and the ladies to take lunch. Mesdames Posey and K. D. Simmons, committee.

The Baptist ladies will serve sandwiches, coffee and pie the second day of the fair and invite everyone to eat with them.

Let's all be present at next Monday's lesson. Be loyal to your God. Reporter.

Let the Free Press do your job printing. We are prepared to please you.

Pete Coyne's Elevation

By SARAH BAXTER

In the development of a country its people are developed also. The leaders in the primitive state often become the leaders in its developed condition. Sometimes they take on a higher refinement; sometimes they don't.

When the first railroad was pushing its way across the great American desert I, being fond of hunting wild game, went to a small town on that part of the line that was finished and made it my headquarters for hunting buffaloes and other game. I boarded with a Mrs. Copeland. Whether she was a widow, a brevet widow or held no matrimonial commission whatever no one cared, and no one asked. Her regular boarders called her by her first name, Kate. She was one of those women who fit in readily with uncouth surroundings. Her boarders were all men, but every man was respectful to her, in accordance with the manners of the country. They did not hesitate to swear in her presence, and probably if one of them should have had a difficulty with another neither would have hesitated to shoot in her presence, but so far as she was herself concerned she was immune from any disrespect whatever.

Mrs. Copeland was but twenty-three years old and tolerably good looking. She showed no preference for any of the men with whom she came in contact and accepted no attentions from any one of them. She treated them all alike, except one, Pete Coyne, whom she seemed disposed to quarrel with. Coyne had been a professional gambler, but had recently turned his attention to a contract he had with the railroad for taking dirt from where it was not needed and putting it where rails were to be laid. He appeared to be the most forceful of Kate's boarders, and I wondered why she singled him out for ill usage. Her treatment seemed to trouble him, and every time she scolded him he would hang his head and take what she said to him like a guilty schoolboy.

I noticed that Kate's reprimands to Coyne were never occasioned by any ill treatment of her. Sometimes they arose from differences of opinion, sometimes because he was unkind of the feelings of others, and once I heard her abusing him because he had shown a tendency to backslide into his former profession of gambling. Just before I left I witnessed a makeup after one of the dressings Kate gave Coyne, and it was very amusing. The big man had got a pony somewhere and offered it to her as a peace offering. He went up to her with it as shyly as if he expected her to open on him with a six shooter.

Soon after this little episode I finished my hunting operations and returned to the east. The railroad and other transcontinental lines were finished, and the western part of North America began a development that has worked wonders. New farming territory was opened, towns and villages sprang up with modern conveniences, and the people, throwing off their uncouth manners with their rough dress, were transformed into ladies and gentlemen.

Some twelve years after my hunting trip to the west I had occasion to visit Washington. Congress was in session, and the social season was at its height. At a reception of the president, which I attended, I was moving about among the throng when I met a man and a woman handsomely dressed, both of whose faces seemed familiar to me. The lady showed signs of recognizing me, but passed on with only the sign. Later a man, evidently a westerner, approached me and said:

"Beg your pardon, sir. There is a lady in another room who desires to speak with you."

I followed him, and he led me to the woman I had met shortly before. "Mrs. Senator Coyne" said my conductor, and since he did not know my name he left us.

I stood looking at the lady wonderingly, while she sat looking at me with an amused expression on her face. Then suddenly through the silk and lace gown she wore I recognized the woman I had boarded with years before. I grasped her hand.

"You would hardly recognize in me," she said, "the woman you boarded with when on your hunting trip, would you? And you wouldn't have expected that I would marry Pete Coyne. Fact is, I saw there was the making of a fine man in Pete, and when you were with me I was trying to get him up on to a higher plane. He made money by contracting, and after awhile I married him. Then when the territory became a state he was sent to congress. That led to his being made one of the state's senators, and here we are right in it for all we're worth."

"And I assure you," I replied, "one would not suspect but that you were born here."

"Oh, this is my third winter in Washington. When I first came I was pretty rough. But, you see, Pete was rougher than I, so I had to pull myself together and get on to society ways in order to polish him. That's been my hardest job. Pete is older than I am, and you can't make a gentleman of a man after he's grown up. It's hard enough to make a lady of a woman."

Nevertheless Senator Coyne was an influential man in the senate during the time he represented his state there. I was probably the only person in Washington who knew that he owed his rise to Kate Copeland.

A RESCUE PARTY

By EVERETT P. CLARKE

Three men in plains costume—furry trousers, woolen shirts and sombreros—sat about a campfire smoking when a horse was seen in the distance galloping toward them. It grew larger till its rider appeared, larger still till that rider was seen to be a girl, and at last they recognized little Inez, a "greaser" girl about seventeen years old, whose father and mother kept a place that might be called anything from a boarding house to a tavern by the roadside several miles away.

"What's the matter, Inez?" all asked at once.

"Jim!" She tried to go on, but failed. "What about Jim?" "The vigilantes! They got him. He shot Colorado Pete!" "When will he swing?" "I don't know. He whisper to me before they take him away: 'Go tell the boys. I'll try to keep them from hanging me till tomorrow. I tell them I know where Dedrich is.'"

The listeners looked at one another. Then one of them said to the rest: "Wouldn't 'a' shot anybody unless he had a good reason. There's been so much gun play hereabouts lately that the committee has likely determined to make an example, and they've pounced on Jim. We've got to help him out—that is, if they don't do him before we get there or are too many for us."

"Are you Jim's girl?" Inez was asked. "Yes."

"Well, you'd better go with us. We may need to use some stratagem, and you may help us. Show the way."

The men mounted, and the girl, leading, rode over a distance of several miles, when they came in sight of a bivouac ahead. To avert any suspicion that might arise of their being a rescue party they diverged. The sun had set, and dusk was coming on. They rode to a point between which and the vigilante camp rose a slight eminence, where they would not be seen, and, halting, the men dismounted. Inez remained on her horse.

"What you going to do?" one of them asked her.

"I'm going to see if Jim is alive."

"Better wait till after dark." It was with difficulty that they persuaded her to wait. The twilight had barely faded when she set off in the direction of the camp. When she came near it she dismounted and, picking her horse, crawled on her hands and knees till she came near enough to see by the light of the campfire four men. They were moving about, evidently preparing for a night bivouac. On the ground lay a figure, doubtless bound hand and foot, which she felt sure was her prisoner. Then she went back to her horse and, mounting him, rode to her friends.

"Jim is alive yet," she said. "We can do it. There are just as many as we."

"Three?" "No; four."

"Oh, you count yourself as one."

"We can steal on their camp, make a big noise and stampede them. Then we cut Jim's cords, give him a gun, and we all mount and run away."

"See here, boys," said one of the party. "I don't like this interfering with vigilantes. It's all right for the time being, but all good citizens will turn out to hunt us down. We must find some other way of working it."

"I tell you what I'll do," said Inez. "You men go camp near by the vigilantes. I steal up close by Jim. You have gun play among yourselves. The vigilantes think they are attacked. I cut Jim's cords, give him a gun, and he shoot some at nobody, then run away. Nobody know you have anything to do with it."

"Good girl! That's a fine plan!" In order to give the vigilantes time to get to sleep—that is, all but perhaps one of their number, who would be detailed to watch the prisoner—they did as Inez suggested. It was agreed that she was to crawl to within some fifty feet of her lover with a sharp knife and two guns—one for herself, the other for Jim—and when she heard a shot among the rescue party she was to push forward to Jim, cut his cords and hand him a gun. Having given her time to do this—about a minute—they would begin a fusillade among themselves without intent to injure one another.

Inez, crawling forward, was soon lost in the darkness. That she might have plenty of time they gave her half an hour. Then one of them fired the signal shot. After counting sixty slowly he fired again, and two other shots were fired in quick succession. Rapid firing followed, the men mounting their horses at the same time.

Presently several shots were heard in the direction of the vigilantes' camp, and a few minutes later Jim appeared among his rescuers carrying Inez. The others helped him to mount, put Inez in his arms, and, still firing to drown the sound of their horses' hoofs, all rode away.

"See here, Jim," said one of the rescuers when they had gone far enough to feel safe and found that Inez's injury was nothing more than a flesh wound that was not dangerous; "there's a parson down at the bridge. Reckon we'll go down there for a wedding."

"You bet!" said Jim. Inez consented, and the wedding took place then. The bride and groom changed their residence to parts unknown.

THE CAPTAIN'S WIFE

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1914, by Associated Literary Press.

"I ain't mindin' other folks' business nor never was," said the third sergeant as he placed a skillet of bacon on the winter but fireplace, "but I'll go as far as to say that it don't look right."

"Of course it don't," said the second sergeant.

"What you fellows blowin' about?" asked the orderly sergeant as he came in for fire to light his pipe.

"You wouldn't guess in four years' time, and I won't keep you shiverin' and tremblin'." The captain's wife came.

"And we was sayin'," said the second sergeant as he lifted his eyes from the coffee cup—"we was sayin' that it wasn't discipline and didn't look right. Jest think of a woman down here."

"By gosh!" whispered the orderly as he sat down to his smoke.

"Want, what you goin' to do 'bout it?" asked the third sergeant after a pause.

"Dunno."

A month had passed, and no calamities had occurred. Some of the men began to breathe easier and to wonder if they hadn't misjudged the kind faced and smiling little woman who was sacrificing a good deal to be with her husband for a few weeks.

It was a cavalry command, and every pleasant winter's day the captain and his wife had a gallop over the highways. One day an engineer was dispatched to see about repairs to a bridge spanning a creek flowing through the neutral ground between the armies, and the orderly sergeant of Company D was detailed with ten men as an escort. The bridge was reached and inspected, and the engineer and his escort were ready for their ride back when there came a sudden alarm. Half a mile down the road, where Captain Shattuck and his wife had debouched from a crossroad while taking an afternoon gallop, they had run full tilt against a Confederate cavalry scout. The enemy had shouted to the captain to surrender, and as he wheeled his horse to get away a bullet brought him out of the saddle. His wife would have pulled up her steed, but he took the bit in his mouth and was beyond control. As she went flying up the road the scouting party followed. They knew of the small detachment of Federals at the bridge and were hoping to make a surprise.

"It's the captain's wife, and the Johnnies 'a' close behind her!" shouted the sergeant as the woman came into view with a great clatter. "Open ranks and let her through and then close up and give 'em hell Columbia!"

With a rush and a clatter the horse of the fugitive passed the blue clad troopers, but came to a dead halt a few rods beyond and turned about. A volley from the carbines checked the pursuers for the moment, but it was seen that they were strong enough to break through, and the sergeant gave the order to fall back to an abandoned log house a quarter of a mile in the rear.

"Men," exclaimed the woman as she looked from man to man, "do you know that your captain is back there, wounded and a prisoner? Are you going to leave him there?"

"It's too bad, ma'am, but they are three to one," replied the sergeant.

"We'll be lucky if we ain't killed or gobbled up before help comes."

"But I'm going to ride back!" she cried as her pale face flushed and her voice had a thrill to it. "If you won go with me to rescue your captain I'll let them take me prisoner and go to Richmond with him."

"Heavens, ma'am!" hoarsely whispered the sergeant, with admiration in his eyes. "But we'll have the captain or die! How far down the road was it?"

"Not over half a mile."

"And how many rebs in the party?" "Not over fifty."

"Fifty rebs and ten of us! We'll never do it, but we'll die for the captain! Into your saddles, boys! You ride on toward camp with the engineer, ma'am!"

"Not a foot. I'm going with you. Some one give me a revolver."

"By twos—right wheel!" shouted the sergeant as he handed her his navy and drew his saber. "Now, then, ride through or over them and don't stop this side of the captain or the devil!"

It was a curious spectacle the gray clad soldiers witnessed—a woman riding at the head of that charging squadron, a woman with white face and glittering eyes, who held her reins in one hand and used the pistol with deadly effect with the other. Through the thick of them followed the ten, and, fearing that the alarm might have already reached the Federal camps, the Confederates disappeared into the woods instead of pursuing.

Down there beyond the bridge the captain was lying on the ground with a bullet in his shoulder and three men guarding him. The cavalcade swept up to them and surrounded them, and there were three prisoners instead of three guards.

"Lord, sir, excuse me, sir, but it was the captain's wife who did it all," said the sergeant as he returned to the colonel. "She not only saved her husband from Libby prison, but we might all have been wiped out if we'd made a fight for it at the old house."

That evening the orderly said to the second and third sergeants, "When you finish your grub rout out the boys, for we're goin' to swing our hats and give 'em three cheers and a tiger for the captain's wife."

A Dread Of Peace

By F. A. MITCHEL

"Did you get wounded while you were serving in the Cuban-American war?"

"No."

"Not a scratch?"

"Nary scratch."

"Get sick?"

"Not even a stomach ache."

"That's singular. I always supposed in war a man is exposed to great danger."

"So he is, but he's always in danger anyway. It is fate that decides when he gets hit. The biggest danger I ever encountered was so big that the risks I was obliged to take in war seemed nothing to it. I was walking along a road one day in a country so peaceful that there wasn't even a sound of a lonely picket firing at an imaginary enemy."

"Then the first thing I knew I didn't know anything, or, rather, the first thing I knew when I came to myself was to feel a horrible crawling sensation shooting from the back of my head to every part of my body."

"I sat up, then got up. It occurred to me that I had been sandbagged, so I looked in my pocket for two ten dollar bills that had been in my possession."

"They had been in a long pocketbook with some letters and papers. The pocketbook, with everything in it, was gone. I dragged myself as far as I could, then went into a wood beside the road to rest. I was looking for a good place to lie down when I saw a heap of clothing partly covered by leaves. Going to it, I found a dead man."

"I searched for something by which to identify the man and found two ten dollar bills. Satisfied that before he died he had robbed me, I took the bills and put them in my pocket. I had scarcely done so when I saw two men coming toward me. They had simply stumbled on me and the body. I told them what had happened, and after a conference between the two, during which they looked at me suspiciously, they told me they would have to report the matter to the police and I must go with them."

"We went into a town near by, and I told the story to the sergeant at the desk. When I got through he thanked the two men for bringing me in."

"What's your name?" he asked me.

"I told him my name was Daniel Morris and that I had but lately been discharged from the army that took Santiago de Cuba."

"He sent out for the body, and when it was brought in it was searched. My pocketbook was found in it with papers and letters bearing my name."

"What's your game in taking the man's name?" asked the sergeant.

"No game at all. I'm Daniel Morris."

"He looked at me contemptuously, but said nothing. He put me in a cell, however, and that was the end of my liberty for months."

"Well, I wished another war would break out and I could enlist to go where I could stand up and be shot at. I'd had shells burst before me, behind me, beside me and above me without getting hurt. I'd been in the sweep of Gatling guns. I'd seen 80 per cent of the brigade to which I belonged come down with camp fever or some other disease. And here I was in a peaceful country knocked senseless and robbed, then arrested for murder."

"If ever I get out of this, I said to myself, 'I'm going to a country where there's perpetual war, no matter how barbarous.'"

"The evidence against me was overwhelming. I sent for my captain to identify me, but I'd been bleached for a month in a cell, besides being thinned by worry, and when he looked at me he wasn't willing to swear that I was Dan Morris of his company. I'd been caught rifling a dead man whose skull I had smashed, whose money I had taken and who for some reason that no one could understand I claimed to be. The consequence was that I was tried, convicted and sentenced to be hanged."

"You can have no idea how I longed for a big battle. Somehow it seemed that if I could hear the bullets and the shells and the r-r-r-r-r of those Gatling guns it would be sweet music and I could shake off the horrible load on me that had come in the midst of peace."

"Instead I was barred in and waiting to be strung up like an army spy. I couldn't even be shot like a deserter."

"My hanging day was pretty near when the lawyer came to my cell to tell me that a letter addressed to Daniel Morris had been found on the person of a man who had been caught burgling."

"When asked how he came by the letter, he said it was taken from a man his pal had robbed. This confession led to his being charged with the murder of the man I had been convicted of killing. They were both concerned in my being robbed, had fought over the plunder, and one had killed the other."

"No, sir; I'll never get over the danger of living in peaceful times. I'm waiting for a war to break out, when I shall enlist and get over this horrible fear."

He is now in hopes that a war will come before he passes the legal age for enlistment.

Mother! Is Child's Stomach, Sour, Sick?

If tongue is coated or if cross, feverish, constipated give "California Syrup of Figs."

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

Another Bale Bought.

The Victor Co., manufacturers of Victrola talking machines have authorized their agents, Messrs. Jno. W. Pace & Co. to purchase for their account a bale of cotton at 10c a pound, and accordingly Mr. Pace bought the bale from Mr. C. W. Shelly, who was the first farmer to enter his store after he received the advice.

This is a striking example of the genuine philanthropy exercised by foreign manufacturers that market their goods thru the legitimate channels of trade, and is quite a contrast between the cash-in-advance mail order houses, that get lots of the farmers money, and the peddler who goes through the country selling talking machines of questionable values. This move is general with the Victrola people—every agent in the cotton states are buying one bale, which will thereby hold thousands of bales off the market, thereby giving the farmer a maximum price for what he has to sell, which he ought to do till his debts are paid and then he can join the "holding club" with ease and comfort.

Contrariwise.

"Jips is a man of broad views." "Exactly, but in narrow circumstances."

Jno. R. Mauldin,
R. C. Montgomery,
Managing Committee.

Rules and Regulations

It is understood that all persons entering articles for exhibition agree to, and will abide by, the following rules and regulations.
1. All articles and animals to be entered for premiums must be presented to the superintendent at the fair building before 12 o'clock, noon of Oct. 15th.
2. Every article and animal and coop of poultry must be numbered by tag attached to same, to be furnished by the superintendent, or his assistants.
3. The superintendent of each department shall keep a record of all articles entered in his department, designating them by entry number, premium number for which they are competing and by name of article.
4. Judges for each department will be appointed by the executive committee on or before opening day. No person shall act as a judge in any department in which he is competing for a premium.
5. Premiums will be designated by a blue ribbon for the first and a red ribbon for second to be attached to the winning articles by the judges as they make the awards.
6. Articles and animals shall be known to the judges only by numbers. The superintendents and assistants shall not inform judges as to the ownership of any article prior to the award of premiums.
7. Every exhibitor must be a citizen of Haskell county and be the producer or maker of the articles exhibited by him.
8. Articles or animals not mentioned in the Premium List may be exhibited but there is no obligation to provide a premium for same, although it may be done in cases of special merit.
9. The same article cannot be entered in two departments to compete for different premiums—for instance, articles entered for individual premiums can not be included in "general displays" or "collections," but exhibitors of "displays" or "Collections" may also enter separate articles of the same kind in competition for individual premiums.
10. No article or animal entered for a premium shall be removed or taken away before 3 o'clock p. m. of Saturday, Oct. 17th, 1914.
Mr. J. E. Poole has been appointed general superintendent of the fair and he will be assisted by Jno. L. Robertson, F. G. Alexander, Felix Todd and J. D. Kennison. The superintendent will be at the Terrell building, S. W. corner of the square, Saturday Oct. 10th and each day following until the fair opens to receive articles for exhibition. Remember that all articles must be entered before noon of Oct. 15th.
John Ellis,
Henry Johnson,
J. V. Hudson,
Jno. R. Mauldin,
T. C. Cahill,
Executive Committee.

Better Biscuits Baked With

You never tasted daintier, lighter, fluffier biscuits than those baked with Calumet. They're always good—delicious. For Calumet insures perfect baking.

RECEIVED HIGHEST AWARDS

The Young Man's Opportunity

A Splendid Salary Working for Uncle Sam

The Tyler Commercial College of Tyler, Texas, makes a specialty of preparing young people to pass the Civil Service Examinations as stenographers, typists and bookkeepers. This class of civil Service work pays $900 a year and upward; our students seldom start at less than $1000 for the first year. This line of Civil Service work is about the safest work that a young person could pursue. With us they are sure of being able to pass the examination; when they have passed the examination, they are sure of the position; when they have the position, they are sure of a good salary; they are also sure of easy hours and promotion. Make your arrangements now.

The Tyler Commercial College is not a mere business college, it is a commercial training institution that fits one with a thorough, practical education that enables him to enter the business world on a broad plan. Regardless of wars, our government must have stenographers, bookkeepers and operators. Then again, there is plenty of demand for help in all parts of the country with the exception of the cotton raising districts. We have been getting many calls for help from the grain states as the crops were good and the war has caused an advance in price. A graduate from our institution is not confined to any one section of the state or to any one state. He can go where there is plenty of business and take care of himself during almost any adversity. The president of our institution, Mr. Bryne, has just returned from Europe where he went as a member of the American Commissions of Municipal Executive and Civic Leaders. He is confident that the European war is going to prove a commercial blessing in disguise for the United States, and that there never was a better time than now for young people to prepare themselves for a broad, active business career.

Write for catalog and full particulars. If you cannot enter for personal instructions, take our course by correspondence; it is practical, it is thorough; guaranteed to be as recommended or it costs you nothing. For full particulars address Civil Service Dept. Tyler Commercial College, Tyler, Tex. State course interested in.

A Quick Sale.

"I'm selling a patented floor mop, madam," said the agent. "The lady next door said she couldn't associate you with any sort of a mop but a mop of purchased hair, but—ahem!—of course—"

"The cat! Give me two."

Whenever You Need a General Tonic Take Grove's

The Old Standard Grove's Tasteless chill Tonic is equally valuable as a General Tonic because it contains the well known tonic properties of QUININE and IRON. It acts on the Liver, Drives out Malaria, Enriches the Blood and Builds up the Whole System. 50 cents.

Safely Over it.

"Yes, I have a nice home in the suburbs."

"Raise chickens, do you?"

"No, I passed that stage two years ago."

It Always Does The Work.

"I like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy better than any other," writes R. E. Roberts, Homer City, Pa. I have taken it off and on for years and it has never failed to give the desired results. For sale by all dealers.

Taking it.

"Jane, what time is it?" called down the irate father.

"I don't know, pa. The clock isn't going."

"But I am," spoke up the young man, who could take a hint.—Detroit Free Press.

Invigorating to the Pale and Sickly

The Old Standard general strengthening tonic, GROVE'S TASTELESS chill TONIC, drives out Malaria, enriches the blood, and builds up the system. A true tonic. For adults and children. 50c.

Different Sorts.

"The farmer and the comic opera directors training a chorus are engaged in similar labors."

"How do you make that out?,"

"Aren't they both raising chickens?"

The Magic Washing Stick.

"The Magic Washing Stick is the finest thing in the world. Cleans the clothes without rubbing—makes the whitest clothes I ever saw. I can not do without it any more. All you say is true, it does all you say it will. I would give it for nothing I have ever used. Hope every lady will try it" writes Mrs. W. F. Gammill, Ashdown, Ark. This peculiar article is sold by grocers and druggists, three 10c sticks for 25c or by mail from A. B. Richards Medicine Co., Sherman, Texa.

Expertly Speaking.

"Is that your daughter singin'?" asked Dugan, the plumber.

"It is," replied Mr. Dolan. "The teacher says her register is something wonderful."

"Register, is it! It sounds more like a safety valve!"

How To Give Quinine To Children.

FEBRILINE is the trade-mark name given to an improved Quinine. It is a Tasteless Syrup, pleasant to take and does not disturb the stomach. Children take it and never know it is Quinine. Also especially adapted to adults who cannot take ordinary Quinine. Does not nauseate nor cause nervousness nor ringing in the head. Try it the next time you need Quinine for any purpose. Ask for 2-ounce original package. The name FEBRILINE is blown in bottle. 25 cents.

Eighteen Holes.

"What an ideal golf course," remarked the fly as he alighted on a slice of Swiss cheese.—Boston Evening Transcript.

What Would You Do?.

There are many times when one man questions another's actions and motives. Men act differently under different circumstances. The question is what would you do right now if you had a severe cold? Could you do better than to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy? It is highly recommended by people who have used it for years and know its value. Mrs. O. E. Sargent, Peru, Ind., says, "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is worth its weight in gold and I take pleasure in recommending it." For sale by all Dealers.
