The world is an awfully small place these days. The speed of jetliners has managed to make almost any corner of the world accessible within a day's time.

However, the human body has not managed to make it's adjustments quite so easily. And it isn't just the time changes that are so confusing.

Thomas and I just came back off our yearly vacation. We had free air tickets (courtesy of working at the travel agency) to Switzerland. That meant that we could go there for the same money that we could go to say, Colorado. And we've been to Colorado several times!

So, we struck out in fairly mild weather for Chicago first, then the long overseas flight to Zurich, Switzerland.

Those of you who recall our last year's trip, when the bags made it to our destination two days before we did, may chuckle when you hear that our bags this time ended up in Chicago and didn't come along with us at all!

So, there we were, in Switzerland, which was having a late spring. The temperature was hovering right at the freezing point, and our bodily thermostats didn't even have the comfort a coat provides!

It was cold...miserably so, for Texas-attuned humans. The purchase of a sweatshirt or two helped warm us up a little, but I swear, my hands didn't get warm for several days.

Our bags were still missing at St. Mortiz...where the temperature plunged even lower and it actually began to snow...and snow...and snow!

Our systems were really freaking out by then!

After three days the bags showed up, and we happily wrapped up in heavy coats, long sleeved shirts and blouses and thick layers of clothes.

That was the way it was the whole trip. Cold. We stood in snow up to our knees sometimes...it towered above us at times.

We walked in cold rain, and, occasionally a weak sunshine. That doesn't mean we weren't having a wonderful time...we were.

By the middle of the week we had acclimatized and were as comfortable as could be.

But, of course, by then it was almost time to go home.

It was hot in Chicago. It was a whole lot hotter, and more humid, in Dallas.

And, to our weary bodies at least, it seemed even hotter at home.

So here we are...back to reality...back to work...and melting. Hot, moaning and uncomfortable.

Somebody tell me what happened to the spring weather that was here when we left!

Like I said, the world is a very small place these days....but the human body just hasn't managed to figure out how it can adjust as fast as it can be transported!

Tax Rebates Running More Than 10% Ahead Of 1990

"The state's moderate but stable economic growth is one good reason there is more than a 10% increase in sales tax rebates for Texas cities and counties thus far in 1991, when compared with the first five months of last year," State Comptroller John Sharp said.

Sharp made the comments as he sent over 1,000 Texas cities, counties, city transit and hospital districts checks totaling $147.1 million in monthly sales tax rebates.

Through the first five months of 1991, the state has rebated a total of $740.9 million to city and county governments, a 10.6% increase over the same period last year.

Locally, Blossom received $2,080.71 for a 17.71% increase while Deport received $1,707.44 for a 5.72% decrease over last year.

Paris received $277,380.165 for a .89% increase.

Bogata received $8,380.62 for a 44.09% increase. Clarksville received $23,145.95 for a .29% decrease and Detroit received $1,016.24 for a 4.05% decrease.

Talco received $1,922.36 for a 3.53% decrease and Mt. Pleasant received $127,316.645 for a 19.28% increase.

tredle machine sewing, lye soap making, ironing with a flat iron, log cutting and clothes washing on a rub board. The center distributed bags of popcorn as treats.

Familiar Faces

...By Denise Wood

Anyone who has walked into the Post Office recently has probably seen the poster for Children's Hospital with Roger Staubach and Troy Aikman. The poster child is none other than our own Jared Huddleston.

Jared has done a lot of living in his six years. Two years ago this Friday he was diagnosed with having acute myeloid leukemia. Jared was only 4 1/2 years old. The doctors have no explanation of why Jared had the cancer. It was only 30% curable, treatment for the cancer was very difficult, causing Jared to eventually lose all his hair and become very ill. He was in and out of Children's Hospital in Dallas from May, 1989 to January, 1990.

The support for Jared is his family; his parents, Rex and Sherry, and his older brother, Chase, who is 10 years old. It hasn't been easy. Sherry stayed with Jared during his stays at the hospital, while Rex and Chase would visit as often as possible. Many times, Rex and Sherry would have to rush back to Dallas and leave Chase behind with relatives. Thank goodness that is all over.

Since July, 1989, Jared has been in complete remission. Now he only has to go back for check-ups every four months. Eventually that will change to every six months. The only treatment Jared requires now is a count of his blood. As long as his blood count remains normal, he will remain in remission. So far, so good.

In April, Sherry received a phone call from Children's Hospital wanting Jared to be their Poster Child. The hospital needed a patient with a success story and an outgoing personality, which fit Jared perfectly.

Jared will be Children's Hospital poster child until April, 1992. Soon he will be on billboards and possibly T-shirts. To receive a poster, contact Children's Hospital, 135 Motor St., Dallas, TX 75235 or call the hospital gift shop at 214/920-2160 or the Huddleston family at 903-632-4397 for information. All the money will help benefit the hospital.

Jared and his family's lives have gone on. His illness has helped the family become even closer. They are very open with everything and now know the true meaning of what a family is and how precious life really is.

Jared is an active six year old. This year he is attending kindergarten at Bogata Elementary School. He loves anything that involves a ball, everything from golf, football, basketball, soccer to baseball. He plays for the Bogata Rangers as right fielder and he even loves to ride horses and go fishing.

The spunk and determination of this child is an inspiration to all of us.

READING SOME of her favorite cookbooks is Regina Webb, who is sharing recipes this week in the Country Cooking column. (Staff Photo by Gerrie Bankhead)

Country Cooking

By Gerrie Bankhead

Country Cooking is coming from the kitchen of Mac and Regina Webb who make their home one mile south of Deport on the old Webb home place. Both Mac and Regina are descendants of pioneer Deport families. They have two children; a daughter, Karen and husband, Tim Walker of Graham, and they have two children, Nathan, age 17 and David, age 12; and a son, Tom and his wife, Brenda of Paris and their two children, Andrew, age 9 and Drew, age 11. Regina can always say she has one favorite son-in-law and one favorite daughter-in-law.

Both Mac and Regina are lifetime members of the Methodist Church of Deport.

Mac and Regina are both retired. Mac, being a retired school teacher now spends his time gardening and growing flowers. Regina, retired from 12 years as a reporter for the Deport Times, now enjoys sewing and cooking. She sews her own clothes but says her cooking has changed since her family is not there much anymore. She enjoys cooking family favorites. For example, last summer she spent 10 days in Graham with Nathan and David and introduced them to Beef Hash. They probably knew it by a fancier name and it proved to be such a hit she decided to share the recipe with the readers.

A favorite of the Webb grandsons, Andrew and Drew, is Dirt Cake. Rena Good served this delicious dessert to the Methodist women and Regina adopted it and the boys chose it for their birthday cake.

Tim, Tom and Mac like the old time Amber Pie. The recipe was handed down to the family from a neighbor, Ocie Grant. It goes back to Regina's childhood days.

Regina feels that most women like anything to eat, they are not as picky as men and children. Karen and Brenda like her dressing, either chicken or turkey.

This cole slaw dressing is dedicated to Jamey Backam of Clarksville. Everytime he had a cookout for the boys, he asked Tom to bring cabbage slaw with his "mama's cole slaw dressing". Those were the good ole days!! Here's looking at you, Jamey!!!

Regina also reminisces about family members who owned a restaurant in town and it was her job to carry the fresh baked Amber fried pies from home to the restaurant. She recalls what a hard job it was to get to the restaurant with the same number of pies that she started with.

If you've enjoyed the article, request a recipe or have a recipe to share or suggest a feature, please call 652-6032 or write Rt. 1, Box 67A, Deport, TX 75435.

Beef Hash
Using leftover roast:
Cut beef into small pieces
Chop one onion in little pieces
Potato, if you had potatoes with roast, cut them up. If you use a raw potato, cut in small cubes.
Put all this in a skillet that has a lid. Add water to cover plus a little more. Salt and pepper to taste. Cook slowly until onion and potatoes are tender. Remove lid. To thicken, use one cup cold water and stir in a heaping tablespoon flour. Mix flour and water well and add to hash. Stir to mix and cook until it thickens a little. Set it off burner. Serve one homemade biscuit or dry toasted bread.

Amber Pie
4 eggs, separated (beat yolks) save whites
1 cup stewed apricots
1 stick oleo
1 cup buttermilk
2 cups sugar with 1/2 cup flour sifted together
Mix ingredients, stirring well. Put in heavy pan and cook until thick. Will stick easily so stir constantly. I use a pancake turner to scrape bottom of pan as I stir. Put in a baked pie crust, top with meringue. Bake until meringue is brown.

Cole Slaw Dressing
Equal parts vinegar and sugars, as 1 cup sugar, 1 cup vinegar.
Add any seasoning you like: celery seed and salt and pepper or Mrs. Dash (not both).
Bring to a boil to melt sugar. Cool and add enough Miracle Whip salad dressing to make right consistency, probably 1 cup. Whip with electric mixer or a whisk. Keeps well in refrigerator.

Chicken or Turkey Dressing
Family Size Recipe
2/3 cornbread (crumbled)
1/3 white bread
2 eggs (beaten)
medium size onion, chopped or onion flakes
salt and pepper to taste
1 Tbsp. poultry seasoning
Broth from chicken or turkey to moisten
1 can Campbell Cream of Chicken soup
Mix ingredients, dissolving the chunks of bread. Use your hands to mix well. Let set a few minutes and then bake in a moderate oven until done. Dressing is best right out of the oven, topped with giblet gravy. Will furnish dressing recipe for cooking for a crowd on request, 25 to 100 servings. My own recipe.

Dirt Cake
2 pkgs (3 oz) vanilla instant pudding
3 cups milk
8 oz. cream cheese
8 oz. cool whip
1 cup powdered sugar
1-16 oz. oleo cookies
vanilla
Mix pudding mix and milk. Add sugar, cream cheese and cool whip (room temperature). Crush oreo cookies, sprinkle some on both of dish, 9x13. Mix other cookies with above mixture, leaving some to cover top. Chill before serving, then pig out!!

AARON ROBINSON received a set of sharpening stones from Galen Logan for winning the Meat Lab departmental award in Rivercrest FFA. Robinson

dent Council, and secretary-treasurer of his senior class. Angela is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rusty Jones and a senior at RHS. She participates in tennis, is secretary-treasurer of the Drama Club, D-Fy-It advisory council and is an office assistant. (Staff Photo by Keye Lee)

Rivercrest Coaches Attend Clinics

Head football coach Tommy Green recently attended the Lynn Graves Piney Woods Coaching Clinics at Stephen F. Austin University.

Coach Green heard Coach Jack Murphy, head football coach at Gladewater High School, speak on the offense program at his school.

Also, the University of Texas defensive coordinator spoke on defending the single back offense. Lynn Graves, head coach at SFAU spoke on defending the run and shoot. Film sessions were viewed and rap sessions with other football coaches were held. Many new trends in coaching were discussed. Coach Green felt that this was a very good clinic and will be an asset to his coaching in the future.

Coaches G. Wake Wood, Gary Schultz and Velinda Arbuckle recently attended the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches Clinic in San Antonio.

The coaches heard Nolen Ricardson of the University of Arkansas and Pat Head Summitt of the National Champion Lady Vols of Tennessee as the key speakers at the clinic. Other coaches from high schools and colleges also lectured.

Dr. Bill Farney of the UIL spoke on the new rule changes for UIL sports.

The coaches attended the awards banquet where new people were inducted to the Texas Basketball Hall of Fame. Team awards and outstanding individual awards were also presented.

The Rivercrest coaches watched four Texas All Star Basketball games, two girls and two boys. Coach Wood said that the clinics are very good experiences for the coaches as they get to see modern trends in coaching techniques and visit with other coaches. They are able to observe the new defenses and offenses that have evolved and are fascinated by the athletic talent statewide.

The clinics are hard work and it takes dedication on the part of coaches to attend. Other Rivercrest coaches will be attending clinics this summer.

You will be given credit if you still have a year before your other license expires.

All commercial drivers are urged to take the test as soon as possible.

Testament.

Later in the evening at the Paris Junior College campus, her parents, husband Kelley, daughter Courtney and sister, Sharon Strawn watched as she was awarded a diploma and associate degree in Applied Health Science.

Switzerland Is A Vacation Paradise!

By Nanalee Nichols
 Editor's Note: For those interested in hearing about a trip to Switzerland, here's your chance. If you aren't, feel free to read something else....this article is definitely for those with travel in their hearts!

Did you ever dream of having free airfare to Europe? Well, that's what we had back in February, through Paris Travel Consultants. I had earned exactly enough working there to have a choice of Munich or Frankfurt, Germany; Copenhagen, Sweden; Paris, France or Zurich, Switzerland. After careful debate we decided on Switzerland. It has beautiful mountains, and there was a tour that was inexpensive enough so that a trip to Galveston would have cost more!

All booked, there was nothing to do but wait until May when it was time to leave. Our good friends and neighbors, Richard and Helen Nance, decided that they would go along, so last week we all set off to Switzerland! Of course, we had to make a little detour through Chicago first, where they managed to lose three out of four bags. When our one, small suitcase rolled off the baggage carousel in Zurich we all realized that we had no coats, and it was cold outside. So, first thing, we went on a shopping expedition in downtown Zurich, at a place called Herren Globus. It was our first inkling of what things were going to cost in Switzerland. The country has an extremely high standard of living, and high wages. That makes goods high, too. We kept shopping to a minimum, believe me. A sweatshirt or two kept us warm, and then we had time to wander around the old city center of Zurich.

The shops were amazing, and were so exclusive that few bothered posting prices in the windows. It was very much a case of "if you have to ask you can't afford it". One of the most fascinating things we found was a clock, mounted above a jewelry store.

Musical bells began playing tunes, and a parade of three foot high figures began a dance. Shepherds with lambs, brides and grooms, bakers and lumber jacks, children and adults all in traditional Swiss costumes turned and twirled above the crowds. Zurich is the largest city in the country, and filled with banks and bankers from all over the world, all dealing with those numbered Swiss bank accounts that are so famous. The only thing to mar the afternoon was a pair of teen aged boys who attempted to snatch Thomas' camera in the Zurich train station. They didn't succeed, however, and we put it down to the type of thing that can happen anywhere and went on.

The next day we set out on our Trafalgar tour, meeting our fellow tour members and getting acquainted with our guide, a young English woman named Lesley.

There would be little chance to become acquainted with our bus driver, because Renzo spoke only Italian. Switzerland has four official languages, German, the most prevalent one, Romansche, an ancient language spoken in only a very small part of the country, Italian, and French.

Almost immediately after leaving the city we began climbing into the mountains.

They were so beautiful, and, due to a late spring, were covered with tons of snow. Huge slabs of greenish rock poked through on sunny slopes and red "pan tile" roofs and slate roofs gave color to quaint villages that dotted the mountainsides like jewels.

Every village seemed to have its own tall square church spires, or even the onion domes one normally associates with Russian churches.

The Swiss are very ecology minded. In every town there would be a recycling center where the local people put their papers, bottles and cans.

Many of the paper products we ran across were made from recycled paper. Of course, one doesn't find paper plates, cups or plastic forks except in the restaurants like McDonald's. (Yes, there was one in every city).

We noticed in several areas a set of poles outlining a plot of ground.

Lesley explained that whenever a house, barn or building is planned the builder must erect these poles in the exact size, height and shape of the proposed structure. Then, for sixty days, the poles stay up. At the end of that time if there are no objections that the building will spoil someone's view, or access, a permit to build will be granted.

Phosphate detergents are outlawed. No salt is used on the roads in winter because it flows into their rivers and streams and kills the grass on the "verge" or roadside. Their mountain water is pure, readily drinkable. They have very strict labor importation rules, and very low immigration quotas.

We soon were in the tiny country of Lichenstien. High above it's capital (and virtually only) town of Vaduz was the royal palace. The houses were prettily painted with vines, flowers and bright colors.

In a cafe we discovered just how bad coffee can be. Espresso is bitter, strong and to most of us, awful. Thomas, however, didn't find it so bad, which was nice, as he managed to drink mine too!

After mailing some post cards and shopping through a stretch of stalls we proceeded to a little town called Leazerhauf. There our tour group scattered to make their own luncheon arrangements.

We tried the traditional dried meat called "Bunderliesch" (not pronounced much like it is spelled).

This air dried beef, sliced paper thin, is served with cheese and brown bread and a pickle. We found it to be excellent.

All afternoon on the bus the scenery just got better. Soon it was snowing and we threw snowballs at one another!

At the top of Julier Pass we were knee deep in snow as we watched a small herd of deer flee down a gorgeous cliff into a deep crevasse.

There at the top is a square stone, put up by some of the area's first tourists...the ancient Romans.

Our night's stay was in St. Moritz, a favorite resort of the rich and famous. We walked around it's lovely lake, wandered streets past buildings carved into beautiful designs, and tried not to get too cold in our inadequate clothing. The promised lost luggage had failed to appear by that night, and we learned that the flight from Chicago that was supposed to have brought it had been cancelled. Lugano, they promised! We could only hope.

A dinner of soup, salad, roast pork and potatoes warmed us up. We went window shopping. That was certainly all we could do, given the incredible prices on goods!

The next morning, as the cathedral bells rang out their morning welcome, we looked out our window to discover more snow, fresh and pristine, to make our trip onwards even more beautiful.

Next week to Italy, where the scenery really changes.

Most Tornadoes In Texas Occur In May

By Steve Hill

May is tornado month in Texas. More tornadoes and tornado-related deaths have occurred in May than in any other month, state weather records show.

The two worst killer tornadoes in state history tore through Texas in May: 114 people were killed in Goliad on May 18, 1902, and the same number died in Waco on May 11, 1953.

Since 1953, when the state began keeping more reliable tornado records, the number of tornadoes have occurred in May than in April or June, the other two months in the state's tornado season.

More than 37 tornadoes hit Texas per year in May, compared to 19 in April and 18 in June. All other months averaged less than 10 tornadoes annually through 1988, according to data from the State Climatologist's office at Texas A&M University.

Texas averaged 126 tornadoes in May because atmospheric conditions for them are most favorable that month, said Jon Zietler, an assistant in the State Climatologist's office. The state's location between the Rocky Mountains and the Gulf of Mexico also makes it prime tornado country.

In the spring, early summer and autumn, cold fronts from the north converge with warm, moist air from the Gulf near the earth's surface. At the same time, warm, dry air at higher altitudes flows from the southwest out of Mexico.

Scientists have identified several characteristic behaviors of the converging airstreams that can form tornadoes, but they don't know precisely what causes the storms—or how to predict them, Zietler said.

Meteorologists do know that when the airstreams converge, the forces can create large, spinning thunderstorms, as well as violent updrafts and downdrafts, he said.

The dry air aloft can provide a "capping" effect that temporarily keeps rising, moist air from going higher. But sometimes the moist air can burst through the cap in a powerful updraft, creating thunderstorms that grow explosively upward and contribute to tornadoes.

May tornadoes have killed the most people in Texas, averaging just over 6 deaths per year while April averages just under 4. All others average less than 2.

Meteorologists point that such statistics may be somewhat misleading. The 1953 Waco disaster skews the May death total, Zietler said, but without question the heaviest tornado activity, both in number of storms and related deaths, has been recorded between April and June.

The deadliness of tornadoes has much to do with wind speeds. Those can only be estimated, because wind-measuring devices usually don't survive in winds of much more than 100 miles per hour.

But estimates based on Doppler radar and photogrammetry measurements, as well as special engineering studies of structures damaged by tornadoes, have helped scientists deduce that wind speeds can reach 300 mph or more.

Such information has been used to develop the Fujita scale of wind speeds, a 12-level scale for ranking tornadoes. None are expected to reach wind speeds of above 316 mph, or the F5 level, Zietler said. F12 on the scale puts wind velocities at the speed of sound, about 750 mph.

F54 tornadoes are powerful enough to left well-built frame houses off their foundations and carry them great distances before disintegrating them.

Many of Texas' most infamous twisters were estimated to be F5 tornadoes. Among these those that hit Waco in 1952 and Lubbock in 1970, both by dark coincidence on May 11.

The Waco twister hit in the heart of the downtown area just before 5 on a weekday afternoon, killing 114 people and injuring almost 1,100. Of the dead, 94 were found in a two block area that included the square around City Hall.

Damage totaled more than $51 million and included 196 buildings destroyed or damaged beyond repair, as well as 850 homes demolished in whole or part.

The Lubbock tornado plowed through some 15 square miles, nearly one-fourth of the city, from near the campus of Texas Tech to the Lubbock Municipal Airport.

Twenty-six died and at least 500 were injured. Eight percent of downtown's plate glass windows were shattered, and cars were smashed into 2 or 3 feet high pancakes.

The worst May tornado in recent years hit Saragosa, the tiny West Texas community that lost 30 citizens on May 22, 1987. All were the town's community center, celebrating the accomplishment of a preschool education program, when a tornado, rare in the area, struck the building.

Zietler said that tornado reporting and recording has improved dramatically since World War II, but many tornadoes go unnoticed because they occur in rural areas.

For all their ability to do major damage, tornadoes have relatively little impact on agriculture, said meteorologist Rusty Billingsley of the Southwest Agricultural Weather Service, a division of the National Weather Service at Texas A&M.
