Patriots Fall To Commerce After Half

By Tina Moore

The Prairiland Patriots traveled to Commerce last Friday evening where they battled the Tigers in a struggling ballgame with a final score of 19-6, Commerce.

The tigers received the ball first but made little progress as the efforts of Nelson Hevron, William Newman, and Stephen Sugg forced them to punt.

The Pats came on strong in their first possession as Ron Nichols, and David Edwards moved the ball down the field and following their efforts, Norman Alexander threw a pass completion to Ricky Harrel for a 56 yard gain and a Pat first down.

However the Tigers also came on strong in defense and as a result the Pats were forced to punt.

The Tigers took possession on their own five yard line with D.A. Morrison and Greg Wilson heading the team for more yardage as they gained two first downs.

However their efforts were faded with the defensive plays of Nelson Hevron and Chris Phipps.

As the first quarter came to an end, both teams remained scoreless but the second quarter showed the two at each other's throats, each desperately trying to put a score on the board and at the same time prevent the scoring of the other.

However after the Tigers were forced to punt, the Pats took charge in gaining two first downs with pass completions to Lowell Ford and David Edwards and last but surely not least a touchdown pass to receiver Ricky Harrel. The Pats failed at the extra points which made the score 6-0.

Both teams appeared to have their ups and downs for the remainder of the half, but Tiger quarterback, Kevin Bryant pulled away and hustled the ball across the goal line for the Tigers' first score of the evening. The Tigers failed their extra points making the half-time score a tie of 6-6.

In the second half the Patriots took first possession with David Edwards and Ron Nichols moving the ball and with Edwards and Alexander gaining two first downs.

However the Pats were forced to punt and the Tigers immediately put the ball into action moving it into threatening territory and with a minute and nine seconds left in the third quarter, Vincent Galloway ran the ball in for the Tigers' second score of the game. The Tigers again failed the extra points which made the score 12-6.

During the fourth quarter defensive efforts showed up in touchdown saved by Tim Henry, Stephen Sugg, Calvin Graham, and Nelson Hevron.

However the Tigers managed to get in another score when Greg Wilson scampered in over the goal line on a first and goal play. The extra points were good making the score 19-6.

Although disappointed in last Friday evening loss, the Patriots' performance is still showing them they have what it takes to reach the goals they have set.

Jaynes Nominated For Highest FFA Degree

Ricky Jaynes, son of Shirley and Roy Jaynes, Blossom, has been nominated to receive the American Farmer degree, the highest degree presented by the National Future Farmers of America (FFA) organization.

He was nominated on the basis of Beef Cattle Production. The 1980 Prairiland High School graduate raised and exhibited registered Brahman while attending school.

Jaynes was the recipient of the Lone Star Farmer degree in July, 1978.

Bob Winters, Doug Salter and Max Ballard were his high school vocational agriculture instructors and FFA advisors.

Jaynes is currently a sophomore at Paris Junior College where he is working on a degree in agricultural education and plans to continue his education at East Texas State University.

He is a member of the Madrigals at PJC and is a singer and vocalist with the Decisions which is a gospel quartet.

The Texas FFA Association nominated Jaynes for the degree and the nomination was approved at a recent meeting of the National FFA Board of Directors in Alexandria, Va.

The degree will be presented in a special ceremony on Nov. 12 at the 54th National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

Jaynes is one of 778 FFA members nominated for the degree, the vote will be by 121 student delegates to the convention.

only by the National FFA Organization to members who have demonstrated exceptional agricultural and leadership achievements.

To qualify for the American Farmer Degree, FFA members must have advanced through a system of degrees unique to the FFA organization. FFA members begin as Greenhands and after one year of membership may be advanced by the local chapter to the Degree of "Chapter Farmer." The third degree, that of "State Farmer," is presented by the State FFA Association to two percent of the State's FFA membership in any one year. Only students who have earned the State Farmer Degree are eligible for the American Farmer Degree.

Travel awards will be presented to American Farmer Degree recipients to offset their expenses to the national convention.

Nichols Worth

By Nanalee Nichols
Want to hear me complain? The only problem is, the only person I can complain about is myself! Sometimes I need the stupidity award of the century or at least for disorganization.

Last Friday night's football game at Commerce was a classic example of how to ruin an evening.

It began when I realized that someone else had all the telephoto lenses. They had borrowed them, and I hadn't bothered to get them back.

After frantically trying to contact the holder of the lenses, I gave up and decided to do the best way I could with normal lenses.

After arriving at Commerce I hopped right down to the field to take pictures. The first exposure felt all wrong. The reason was quite simple—there was no film in the camera! It hadn't been reloaded after removing the last roll for processing, and I hadn't taken the time to get a spare roll.

At half-time here we went, walking a half a mile to a little quick stop market. No film.

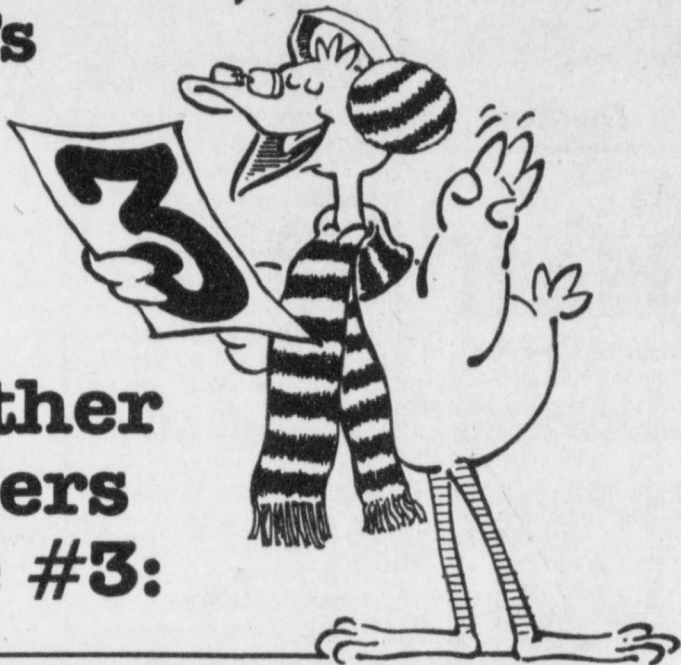

We hiked about a half a mile to a big discount store, barging in the door right before they closed, and bought a roll of film.

Then it was run back, load up and proceed to shoot pictures.

After all of that, I was really disgruntled, tired and embarrassed at my own inefficiency.

Such is the life of a big city reporter?

For lower heating bills this winter, here's

Weather Beaters Rule #3:

INSPECT YOUR HEATING UNIT

Weather Beaters Rule #1, Insulation, and Rule #2, Caulking and Weatherstripping, are naturally followed by Rule #3, inspect your heating unit. An inefficiently operating unit uses more energy for the same amount of heat, making your utility bill higher than necessary. Call a qualified heating unit inspector to check for worn parts or loose connections. He can also clean the unit, removing dust, dirt and grime that might obstruct air flow. Don't wait 'till the colder weather puts higher demands on your central heating unit. An inspection of your heating unit today, can mean lower bills tomorrow.

Farm To Be Honored

A Lamar County farm will be honored this year in the Texas Family Land Heritage Program, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has reported.
The current owners will be invited to an awards ceremony to be held in the Capitol Rotunda November 10 at 1 p.m. with a reception to follow.
The county honorees are: Shelby and Helen (Johnson) Bledsoe, Roxton, owners of the Bledsoe Farm.
The Program recognizes families who have maintained continuous agricultural production on the same land for 100 years or more, Brown said.
Instituted in 1974, the program has now registered 1,454 farms and ranches. Eleven from Lamar County have been honored so far.
"A short history of the farm or ranch is printed in an annual Family Land Heritage Registry," Brown said. "It has proved to be very useful to genealogists and historians. The books are in high school, public, and college libraries in the counties which have honorees."
County Judges and county historical commission chairpersons have been very helpful in registering families, Brown said.
Persons interested in applying for the honor next year may write to Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

Footprints From The Past

By John W. Hood

Fall of the year and harvest time don't have the same old excitement that they used to. Back when I was small the most exciting thing were the strangers who came to help with harvesting crops.

There would be wagons to get ready to haul the cotton to the gin, and for gathering corn. To get those wagons ready all the wheels had to be taken off so that they could be soaked for a bout a week so the rims would tighten up on the wooden fellows. Wood would shrink during the hot dry summer and the rims would come off. That was not a good thing to have happen when there was a bale of cotton on the wagon.

The side boards had to be rounded up from where ever they were, when the previous year's bale had been finished. It seemed like those side boards were awfully hard to find!

The axles had to be greased so the wheels would run free and not pull so heavy. Axles with out grease wore out in a hurry, and besides that, screamed like nothing you ever heard!

The gins would get all the "bugs" worked out of the machinery that had been sitting up all winter and summer. There were belts to mend, the boiler to be overhauled and lots of folks coming in looking for work.

More money could be made working at the gins than picking cotton or corn.

Local merchants were also busy getting their stock built up for the busy season. The dry goods stores laid in a big supply of winter things for folks to buy as they made their yearly money.

Saturday in Deport and Bogata there would be so many people on the street that you could hardly walk from one end of the street to the other.

There were three gins in Deport, two or three in Bogata and nearly every settlement such as Fulbright, Cunningham, Rugby and places in between.

When folks talked about King Cotton back then, it was spelled with capital letters-cotton was the big money crop around here!

Insurance Offered On Wheat, Oats

A new insurance plan authorized by Congress is now available to wheat and barley growers in Lamar County, according to Dottie Sampley, District Director of USDA's Federal Crop Insurance Corporation. A key feature of the insurance program, which is designed to replace the ASCS disaster payments program, is that the government pays up to 30 percent of the premium cost.

Another important feature, Sampley adds, is the opportunity it provides for wheat and barley growers to choose the amount of protection they want to carry. It's possible to purchase a policy that guarantees 50 percent, 65 percent, or 75 percent of the local average yield. Policyholders can also select the price per bushel they want to be paid in the event of a loss. The choices are $2.50, $3.50 and $4.50 for Wheat; $1.20, $1.40 and $1.70 for Oats; and $2.00, $2.25 and $2.60 for Barley.

Ms. Sampley offers this illustration of how the insurance works: in an area where the average wheat yield has been 29 bushels per acre, farmers can elect to carry a policy that guarantees 14.5 bushels, 19.0 bushels or 22.0 bushels. If a wheat grower chooses the maximum guarantee of 22.0 bushels per acre and the maximum price per bushel of $4.50, he will be paid an indemnity of $4.50 for each bushel his yield is below 22.0 bushels per acre.

Because of sharply higher production costs and last year's drought losses, Ms. Sampley points out that most policyholders are choosing insurance that protects their entire production investment. Others are carrying enough insurance to guarantee the amount of income needed to meet specific financial obligations, such as the repayment of bank loans or land rental payments.

The deadline to apply for 1982-crop wheat and barley insurance in Lamar County is Oct. 27, 1981. Federal All-Risk Crop Insurance policies can be purchased from the local FCIC representative or from private insurance agents and lending institutions. Wherever purchased, the protection and the cost are the same.

PART 1 IN A SERIES

CHILDREN LOVE TO LEARN

when the classroom is the kitchen

When adults cook, it can be a creative experience. Often, however, it is merely another chore.

But to children, cooking is more. It's magic! A toddler's favorite play area is usually the kitchen; pots and pans his favorite toys. As they grow, youngsters remain entranced by the putting together of meals... the way gelatin gels and puddings go from liquid to semi-solid, the way crisp pasta softens in boiling water, and dough becomes bread after baking. It's entertainment, and it can be educational.

Experts in the field of child development indicate that there is a great deal to be gained by having children participate in the meal-planning and producing process. It can enrich the family relationships and encourage creativity, boost self-confidence and improve coordination. In the kitchen, a child can learn to develop organizational abilities and a cooperative spirit.

Menu planning can be an early introduction to the science of nutrition and the importance of eating well balanced meals. Grappling with measuring cups and spoons can lead to a better understanding of the formidable fractions that plague most fifth graders. The study of recipes and labels can help improve reading skills. And even the tiniest of tots find learning how to tell time easier when they're watching the clock's big hand for the moment that the cookies can come from the oven. Nourish minds as well as bodies.

Of course, there are negatives, too. It is generally faster, neater, and less demanding of one's patience to do it oneself. The rewards, however, are there, and supervision of initial efforts can reap them.

Getting Started With Budding Young Chefs

"Yes, I know it would be good for my child to learn to cook, but I don't think he can handle things carefully." You may ask, as do many parents, "How do I begin to teach him to cook?"

Kids can do much more than their parents think, report children's cooking school teachers. Unfortunately, most parents underestimate the abilities of their children. With patient instruction and encouragement, kids can learn to cook at a relatively early age.

The time to start is before the magic fades. The experts advise parents to start encouraging children to do simple things when they are very young and eager. But how do you know what your child is ready to do?

Of course, your child's age and skill level are the keys. Even a two-year-old is able to try a hand at stirring and adding light-weight ingredients to a bowl. A three-year-old should be able to pour liquids and to stir a cheese sauce mixture into macaroni which you have cooked, for example.

Also, starting children out with nutritious foods, rather than the typical cookie projects, sets an excellent example at the beginning and encourages an appreciation for a variety of wholesome foods. And cooking is a valuable experience for both boys and girls.

By four or five, children can peel oranges and eggs, tear lettuce for salads, wash vegetables, shape hamburgers and cookies, and even stir mixtures on the range. Their hand coordination and attention span is improving at this age, and they can accomplish more advanced tasks.

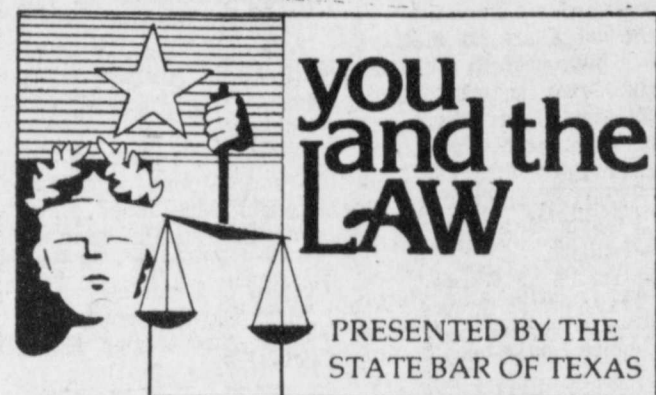

At about age seven a nationally-known children's cooking school begins accepting youngsters for its classes. By this age, children should be able to cut and chop ingredients, with adult supervision of course. They can also learn to measure and can follow instructions with several steps.

After They Can Read

Learning to read opens up a whole new world to a child—and is a big step toward cooking independently. When a child can read simply-written steps of recipes, he is on his way to preparing a whole dish on his own.

By age 12, or sometimes younger, a child should be able to prepare a simple meal completely on his own, if you have cooked along with him since childhood. He has learned many techniques from you, enjoyed the experience, and now has the confidence to strike out on his own. As your child moves into the teen years, the rewards of your efforts can begin to be measured in terms of the easing of your own time in the kitchen. Many teens make a valuable contribution to the family work load by having dinner started when parents get home from work and by cooking some weekend meals.

This series on cooking with children includes a lesson on measuring, kitchen safety, and four recipes specially designed by the Kraft Kitchens as ideal for family cooking projects. The tasks handled by children will naturally depend upon the age of the particular child and his level of cooking skills. But the idea is to have fun, be creative, and then enjoy eating a nutritious meal.

Q: Recently I received a promotional letter trying to interest me in some land. I was invited out to look at the property, with a chance to win in a drawing. I wasn't interested so I threw the letter away. Two weeks later another letter arrived informing me that I had won, but I had to tour the property to receive the prize. Must I go there to get my prize? Since they said I am a winner, shouldn't I be entitled to it anyway?

A: The promotion organizers can impose conditions to receiving the prize. Requiring you to accept it at a particular location is a valid condition, and they may withhold the prize until you appear.

Q: When selling my house I was told I would have to pay, among other selling costs, a certain number of points. This amounted to a considerable amount of money. I still don't understand what is meant by paying points. Could you please explain?

A: Texas usury laws place a ceiling on interest rates which causes a lender to seek additional ways to recover the cost of lending money. If a savings and loan obtains its mortgage money at 11% but may only charge 10% to borrowers, this 1% deficit is made up by charging points to either the buyer or the seller. A point is 1% of the mortgage, and payment of these points is usually negotiable between buyer and seller. However, points paid by the buyer determine whether the loan interest rate exceeds the usury ceiling.

Q: I'd like to throw away some of my old income tax records, but I don't know how long I'm required by law to keep them. How far back can the Internal Revenue Service check your records?

A: Usually, these records may be discarded three years from the date the return was due or filed, or two years from the day the tax was paid, whichever comes later. However, records of property transactions should be kept as long as they are useful to you in determining the value of the property. For example, you should keep all records involving the purchase of your home including any major improvements you make.

Q: I've been needing an answer to this question... How can a person get in touch with a reliable lawyer in another state to handle a legal matter?

A: There are several ways to go about it. You can contact your lawyer here to handle it. That might be best, because an out-of-state lawyer may need to consult with a Texas attorney before acting in your behalf. Or, you can write the State Bar of the other state to put you in touch with their lawyer referral service. In addition, your local attorney has access to directories of out-of-state attorneys who specialize in particular areas of law.

Q: In a job interview last year, a company paid me more for my travel expenses than I actually spent. Do I have to report this excess amount as income on my tax returns?

A: Yes, you do. The compensation you receive from a prospective employer for job interviews is seen as income if the amount you received was greater than the amount you paid. The Internal Revenue Service requires you to report as income, any reimbursement for interview expenses that exceeds the actual amount expended.

NEWS OF SPORTS

World Series Record

Know sports? Here's a timely question. Who participated in the most World Series?

Answer: The Gillette Company which has been part of the World Series scene for the past 42 years. The company first purchased radio rights to the World Series in 1939 when the opponents were the New York Yankees and Cincinnati Reds. The entire cost was $203,000. It included air time, production and talent — an amount that would not buy a minute of Series television advertising today.

THE GAS PUMP

IDLING EXCEPTION

As a rule, turn off the engine when you reach your destination. Unnecessary idling wastes gas. However, there's usually an exception to every rule. After a long, high speed trip, it is more economical to allow the engine to idle a few minutes before turning it off. This will help prevent hot fuel vapors from causing a vapor lock.

Polyscias Leaves Bordered With White Irregular Margin

A pretty leafy plant which will make an attractive house plant for anyone is Polyscias (balfouriana marginata) which belongs to the Aralia family. This plant changes its appearance as it matures, especially the shape of its leaves. In the beginning they are jagged and shaped as one leaf; as they age they become three rounded leaflets. From its name marginata, you can expect a correlation with the showy leaves. Their color is a grayish-green trimmed with a margin of clear white. The margin is not consistent; some parts of the leaves are thickly bordered and other areas of the leaves have no border.

Although Polyscias has a preference to moisture and humidity for ultimate growth, they will not fuff if given less than the best. Average heat and humidity and a supply of bright light rather than full sun is sufficient for them to grow heartily. An invader of this plant is red spider mites. Measures to prevent the pests is to make sure there is good strong air circulation. Misting often with plain water will also thwart their invasion.

Any damp soil is sufficient to root cuttings from polyscias. If the cuttings are covered with cellophane or some other plastic covering, the cuttings will root much faster. Continued use of this wrap will avert wilting and will aid in giving life to dormant knobs on the stem where leaves are attached. The moisture from the wrap revives the area and spurs new growth.
