Worth

Fishermen are fishermen the world over. They are devoted. On vacation in Ireland recently my cousin Medora, who is as dedicated a fisherman as ever lived, would spot people fishing and immediately have to go talk to them, asking what they were fishing for, what they were fishing with and all those questions fisherpeople are bound to ask.

We came up with some extra time on our trip, and told Robert, our driver/guide, that it would be nice if Medora could go fishing. We were in his home town of Killarney, and in no time at all he had arranged for us all to go out in a "clinker" a twenty-four foot wooden boat with an outboard motor, run by Fergus O'Doneugh.

Now my husband, Thomas is just not a fisherman. He had made jokes all afternoon about having to go fishing. It's not his thing, but he does enjoy being on the water.

I guess the attitude must have shown, for he sat in the boat as we trolled, engrossed in the absolutely breathtaking scenery around us, his rod and reel upside down, his attention to the process absolutely nil!

Every now and again the brake on the reel would come loose, either because he bumped it or because it was faulty. Line would begin to pay out, and he would try to reel it in, only to find that since it was upside down he was letting out more line. Fergus would take the rod, fix the situation and hand it back to Thomas.

This happened two or three times, and on the last time Fergus said "you are a very, very bad fisherman!" Medora, Thomas and I collapsed in laughter. In fact, we laughed so hard that I think the poor man became a little embarrassed, and blushed, blurted out "Well, he had to be told, he had to be told".

This provoked even more laughter from the three of us.

Finally, I managed to choke out "you don't understand, there's a second verse to that statement". "What's that?" he asked, puzzled.

"He doesn't CARE!" I chortled. The look on this poor man's face was priceless. Stunned amazement sprinkled with pure confusion best describes it.

Thomas happily relinquished his fishing gear, and gave himself up to the total joy of the boat ride sans the pretense of fishing.

Our friendly boatman kept sneaking glances at my husband. And I realized that he was like my cousin...like all fishermen...he couldn't understand Thomas. Not like to fish? Not care about doing it right? Not even WANT to catch anything? I believe in the ten commandments of fishing, that this is probably listed as the first and worst sin of all.

But, sin or no sin, we had a good time, no one caught a thing, and if he ever is challenged about fishing in Ireland he can always act like a true fisherman...and make something up! Best of all, I suspect that in the pubs of Killarney there is a fishing guide he can regale his listeners with tales of a totally inept Texan who (gasps of horror) didn't even care whether he caught a fish or not!

Country Cooking

By Liz Irwin

Bessie Garrett of Blossom is our featured Cook this week. She lives in Blossom with her husband, Tom. They are members of the Blossom Church of Christ and Mr. Garrett is retired from Lamar County Electric.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett enjoy visiting with the senior citizens at the center at City Hall. Until recently, they enjoyed going down visiting and having a nice hot meal at lunch. With the budget cuts from the government, Blossom senior citizens no longer enjoy this bit of privilege. They still meet at the center to play dominoes and games and occasionally will go into Paris, "dutch treat" and enjoy a meal out or do a "pot luck" meal.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett have two sons, Paul and Sue Garrett and their children Jamilyn and Curtis. Curtis is married to Christi and they have a son Landon. Jerry and Patty live at Lake Tawokani and they have a son Chad and daughter Kim Redditt.

Chad is married to Melissa and they live in Paris. Kim is married to Clay and they live in Ft. Worth.

I got to know Mrs. Garrett by visiting with her each Monday for the newspaper. I enjoy these visits and through these, we share the "comings and goings" of our families and friends. She is a dear lady and a delight to know.

The recipes that she is sharing are some from a recipe book that was given to her by her late mother, Lillie Mae Smith. She cherishes the book and it is always on the lookout for new recipes.

She is giving us her recipes for Orange Pound Cake, Peanut Butter Cookies, "Grand"'s Strawberry Shortcake, Upside Down Cobbler, Pecan Pie, "Beer"' Bisquits and Tangy Lemon Cake. They all sound delicious and thanks for sharing them with us Mrs. Garrett.

We will see you in the kitchen!

NOTICE OF RATE CHANGE REQUEST

For Texas-New Mexico Power Company customers within the State of Texas, the Company announces that it has filed, on May 2, 1996, an Application for Approval and Statement of Intent for Transition Plan in accordance with the regulations of the Public Utility Commission of Texas. The effective date of such change is June 10, 1996. All classes of customers receiving service from Texas-New Mexico Power Company will be affected by said proposed rates. TNP serves approximately 170,000 customers in Texas. The proposed rates, for all of TNP's Texas operations, will not increase gross revenues to the Company over adjusted test year revenues.

The purpose of this filing is to obtain approval for TNP's transition plan, known as Community Choice, which will address potential stranded costs and increasing competition in the electric utility industry. Community Choice is comprised of the following three major elements:

(1) Effective Aggregation of Small Electric Loads. Community Choice aggregates electric service customers at the community level for the purpose of purchasing bulk electric energy. This approach to aggregating customers will provide residential and small commercial customers some of the same buying power that large commercial and industrial customers likely will enjoy in a competitive environment.

(2) An Opportunity to Recover Stranded Costs. During a five-year transition period (1997 - 2001), in which TNP will implement Community Choice, TNP will have the opportunity to reduce the so-called "stranded costs" associated with TNP One, TNP's generating plant. TNP's stranded costs are the difference between what it costs TNP to produce electric energy and what a customer is willing to pay for electric energy in a competitive environment. Rates, including charges associated with fuel and purchased power, will remain constant during this five-year period at 1995 levels. TNP will use normal depreciation, depreciation shifting, and any fuel or purchased power savings to reduce the capital cost of TNP One. In addition, Community Choice will include a mechanism for using some earnings above a specified level to reduce the capital cost of TNP One.

(3) A Commitment to Provide Customer Choice. Beginning on January 1, 2002, TNP's customers will have the opportunity to choose their suppliers of bulk electric energy and energy-related services. Customers will be able to choose which company provides these services to them, while TNP will continue to provide transmission and distribution services.

A complete copy of the requested rate filing package is on file with the Public Utility Commission of Texas. You may inspect a copy of the filing during normal business hours at the business office of Texas-New Mexico Power Company in your area.

Persons who wish to intervene in or comment upon these proceedings should notify the commission as soon as possible, as an intervention deadline will be imposed. A request to intervene or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission's Consumer Affairs Office at (512) 458-0256, or (512) 458-0221 for text telephone. The deadline for intervention in the proceeding is 45 days after the date the application was filed with the commission. 5/96

ITS THE SAME the world over! If there are cattle, some will get out! ## Return to Ireland better than before!

By Nanalee Nichols
For those who ask repeatedly for our vacation escapades, here they are. We're glad you asked, and hope you enjoy them!

My cousin, Medora Ann, wanted to go on vacation with us this year, and we wanted her to come along. So, back in February we began to put our heads together and try to figure out where we could go that would be lots of fun.

I wanted to go to Spain, early in March, but neither she nor my husband were overwhelmed by that idea. We tossed Greece around, decided that was too expensive, and finally began to toy with the idea of returning to Ireland, since we missed two days of our original tour, loved the country, and Medora had never been.

At first it seemed that this trip would be ill-fated. We had trouble getting airline seats at a reasonable price on the dates we could all go. Then, only three weeks before our trip we received notice that the tour had been cancelled! That left us in a fix, since we couldn't change the airfare dates, but something do turn out for the best. We managed to contact a company in New York which specialize in Irish tours and ended up with a mini van and a driver just for the three of us. Yes, it cost more, but not that much more since we decided to stay in bed and breakfasts instead of hotels. What a fortunate choice that turned out to be for us all!

Let me announce to the world that for the first time in five years we didn't miss a connecting flight, didn't have any bags come up missing and didn't have mechanical trouble on the plane! How nice it was to breeze to Atlanta, connect with my cousin (who was coming in from Tulsa, Oklahoma) and stroll on board a plane for the long overseas flight.

We arrived on time at Shannon airport, to be met by Robert Downing, our driver/guide for the entire trip.

Tired as we were, since none of us slept on the plane, we still knew to stay up so that we could get adjusted. We stopped at Dromoland Castle now an expensive and beautiful hotel. The grounds were gorgeous, with people out shooting skeet, archery, playing golf or rowing the lake. The price for a night's stay was way, way to rich for our blood, of course.

We went to the Cliffs of Moher, and stood in the wind in awe as the cliffs soared 700 feet straight up from the sea. Waves crashed far below, sea birds plaintively punctuated the sound of harp music, coming from a young woman seated on the hill above us.

We watched as a group of teenagers lay done on their stomachs and wiggled to the edge of the cliffs to peer over, then wormed their way backwards to get up.

We traveled the narrow country roads to the village of Doolin and had lunch at O'Connors, a pub lunch that would set the standard for the rest of the trip. After that we drove to the Burrens, a rocky "moonscape" that defies description. Strangely, there are two kinds of plants there on this barren land that draws botanists from all over the world...artc plants and tropical plants! Below the naked rock there are caves, and we went through one, Alwee Cave. There were wallows in the mud with bones of the Irish Brown Bear, which has been extinct for 1500 years! The animals used to hibernate in the cave.

Frozen falls of stone tumble in grandeur down the walls of the cave, and tiny straws of mineral deposits. A lighted waterfall throws crystal droplets into the air, sliding down, down into an invisible, but hearable darkness.

We checked in to our bed and breakfast that night, Riverdale Farmhouse. Medora and Thomas went to bed quite early, being exhausted. As usual, I was tired, but not sleepy.

I sat in the sitting room with Mary Fitzgerald, our hostess, drinking hot tea and getting to know this friendly woman. She has two boys and one girl. The family farms, mostly beef cattle, she says the regulations for dairy cattle are too strict for small farmers.

I asked her about volunteer fire departments, and she said that they have them just as we do here in rural areas. They have an additional duty in Doolin, though, and that is cliff and water rescue. It hit me that this must be an additional function of most volunteer fire departments all round the coast of an island country like Ireland. Shortly after that I discovered my little dragon ring, which I had made many years ago, was gone, apparently having come off my finger when I put my hand in my pocket and then pulled it back out. Mrs. Fitzgerald, the folks at the pubs & our guide were all very helpful in looking for it, but it didn't turn up...which gave me a quest for the trip, to find a Celtic ring to replace it!

That night, Thomas and I were cold, not adjusted to the temperatures of an Irish May, and allergic to the nice wool blankets that would have kept us warm!

Since energy is so expensive, the radiators go off about 10:30 each night, in all the bed and breakfasts. No matter, though, those big Irish breakfasts warm one up quickly enough!

After bidding our friendly hostess good-bye we headed down the road to Galway, travelling all the way around Galway Bay. Gorgeous scenery beckoned on every side. Sunlit bays invited one to stop and stay a little, soaring mountains reached up to the sky in benediction. Along the sides of the roads miles and miles of sturdy rock fences separated cattle and sheep, lots from gardens while the myriad shades of green shone round about.

We stopped for cattle in the road once, and kids came to run them back into their pasture, smiling and waving.

We went to the Connemara marble factory, and it was nice to be able to see the beautiful colors, rose and green, black and greys. The stone is almost mined out now, and only small objects are made from the famous marble. The factory has been in the family for generations.

We shopped outside of Galway in place called Standu'n which featured beautiful handmade things. Once more we were impressed by the two nicest things about the Republic of Ireland...the friendly people and the quality of their gifts, souvenirs and goods. Finding something stamped "Made in Taiwan or "China" is difficult. Instead the label says which county in Ireland the are made, a welcome change.

We also began to realize that in Robert we had a treasure...his driving skills, efficiency and patience with our endless questions was priceless. If he didn't always know how to take our silliness, we figured he would soon learn...and he did, soon joining in the jokes with us!

Next week we'll explore some new territory, and tell you how we munched our way across Ireland, enjoying some superb food and playing havoc with my diet!

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL) -- A new drug has been approved that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain. This material has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis..." and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis... relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis... is an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream and is available immediately without a prescription and is guaranteed to work. Use only as directed.

In Pursuit Of Happiness
 As the pursuit of happiness goes on continually for most people, the goal of true happiness is rarely achieved. It appears within reach in the next set of circumstances, in the next item purchased, in the next person with whom some type of relationship is established. Then the bubble bursts, and the fact dawns that what we had held with so much promise for happiness is proven again to be fallible, earthly, and thus hollow.
 As we consider another factor in the pursuit of true happiness, look at *Rule No. 3: Learn to say, "I love you." The Bible has told us all along that there is a principle which is a foundational principle for true happiness. Jesus said, "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind. This is the first and great commandment. And a second is like unto it, you shall love your neighbor as yourself" (Matthew 22:37-39).
 When people don't or won't love God and other people, they don't have the slightest chance of finding true happiness. Love, in the highest sense, is concern for the ultimate good of the other person. That kind of love is sacrificial, not self-centered. Jesus, the Son of God, showed us the ultimate love when He gave His life on the cross to save sinners. He gave His all for all! He was, in effect, telling us, "I love you!"
 Be more like Jesus. Tell someone today that you love him or her, and mean it! When other people become important, Rule No. 3 is not hard to practice.

VFW/Auxiliary to hold Service

The VFW and Ladies Auxiliary to Post 3990 want to invite the community to a Traditional Memorial Day Service starting at 11 a.m. Thursday, May 30th.

This is the day set aside by Congress as the day we remember our fallen heroes, those veterans that have answered the last call. To allow for a four day weekend that day has been forgotten. The purpose for the day forgotten or never known by our young people. People get together for picnics and family outings to the lake. HOw many take the time to pause and remember the reason we have memorial day. To remember and give thanks to those brave men and women that went to war to protect this great country that we live in and our way of life?

This weekend is over, people have gone back to work. Those that have children at home, are retired or on vacation that owuld like to come out and have your faith in this country renewed, and good comradeship are invited out for a traditional memorial day service and meal afterward. All VFW members, their families and neighbors are invited. The memorial service will be a 11 a.m. The meal provided by the post and ladies auxiliary will be at 12 noon.

Remember
 Power Cords Near Water Can Turn Deadly.

They strike when you least expect it—dangerous electrical hazards in and around lakes, pools, ponds and showers. So it's important that you always be alert when using electricity near water. This summer be sure to keep radios and other appliances safely away from the water's edge. And never try to retrieve or unplug anything connected to a power cord once it has fallen into the water. Remember, the mixture of electricity, water and you can be deadly. To learn more about preventing electrical accidents, call or visit your local Texas-New Mexico Power Company office. Make sure your relaxing day by the water doesn't turn into something scary.
