DaLinda Black is new County Agent

DaLINDA BLACK

by Caron Yates

DaLinda Black, CEA/FCS, has been hired to fill the vacancy that was left when Haskell County Extension Agent Jane Rowan resigned last May, to accept a job with Taylor County.

Black was born and raised in Friona, where she graduated from high school. She began her advanced education at Eastern New Mexico University. After a while, she decided to put her schooling on hold, and gain some life experiences. Returning to ENM University, she completed her Bachelor of Science Degree in Family Consumer Sciences.

For the past two years, she has run a licensed day care in her home town of Friona. Feeling the need for a change of pace, she decided to apply for the Haskell County extension job. Although this is her first experience as a county extension agent, she is very enthusiastic about the opportunities it offers.

While pursuing a degree in Family Consumer Sciences, her interest was piqued in the profession by her mentor, Connie Moyers, who was serving as the extension agent in Roosevelt County. The opportunity for interaction through classes and activities, gave her some insight and inspired her to seek out this position.

Black is very excited about the upcoming programs already scheduled and looks forward to making contacts with the county schools, hospital and early learning center to discuss topics and programs that will benefit many age groups in the county. The extension office will be working to update their website, as well as offer a facebook page and newsletter to provide information on many topics of interest to the public.

She will also be involved in the many 4-H programs, including the upcoming fashion show, and the county Texas Extension Education Association (TEEA). Black will receive some hands-on training from Knox County CEA/FCS Lorrie Coop.

The extension office will hold an Open House Meet and Greet on Monday, March 24 from 5 to 6 p.m. They are very pleased with the updates to the facility and want to give Haskell County residents an opportunity to check it out. It will also be the perfect time to get acquainted with Black and Jason Westbrook CEA/Ag, who has been on the job since August.

Black and her husband Trey have a seven year old daughter. She expects them to join her in Haskell after the school year has ended. She also has an older brother.

Black says that when she began looking for job opportunities as an extension agent, she specifically looked for a small town setting. Having been raised in a small town, she knows the many advantages.

Hee Haw set March 27-29

The annual Sagerton Hee Haw will be on March 27, 28 and 29, beginning at 8:00 p.m. each evening. Music and singing will be held an hour before the Hee Haw program begins. The program for Thurs., March 27, is especially for groups. Reservations for group tickets may be made by calling 940-997-2688.

Tickets for the Friday and Saturday performances may be ordered by calling 940-997-2688 or by coming to 1825 FM 1661, Sagerton, for tickets.

Plate lunches, sandwiches and pies will be on sale in the cafeteria from 5:30 p.m. until 7:00 p.m. on Friday and Saturday. Only sandwiches and pies will be sold on Thursday night.

The price of the tickets is $5.00 each.

Haskell Co. 4-H reschedules Fashion/Photography Shows

The Haskell County 4-H Fashion/Photography Show has been rescheduled. It was originally set for March 2 at Paint Creek ISD cafeteria/auditorium. Due to bad weather it was cancelled.

The rescheduled date is Sun., March 23 at the Paint Creek ISD cafeteria/auditorium. Viewing of the photography pictures entered in the photography contest will be from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served during that time.

The Fashion/Photography awards program will begin at 2:30 p.m.

Open house set Monday at Extension Office

Texas A&M AgriLife Extension would like to invite all residents of Haskell County to join us for the First Annual Open House/Meet and Greet Mon., March 24 from 5:00 to 6:00 p.m.

The building has been updated, thanks to the Haskell County Judge David Davis and County Commissioner Tiffen Mayfield and his work crew. Also, involved were the other three County Commissioners Bill Hester, Kenny Thompson and Neal Kreger and their work crews.

Nancy Sanders also played a big part in the remodeling job. Our many thanks to all involved in the remodeling project.

Within the last year Jason Westbrook was hired as the County Extension Agent for agriculture. DaLinda Black was hired this month as the County Extension Agent for family and consumer sciences. They are teamed up with Tammy Parham, County Extension office manager.

The agents are looking forward to meeting and serving Haskell County.

Tea and coffee will be served.

Tues., March 25 is National Ag Day

USDA Texas Farm Service Agency (FSA) Executive Director Judith A. Canales, encourages everyone to take a moment to appreciate the hard working farmers and ranchers in Texas on March 25, National Ag Day. This year's theme is "Agriculture: 365 Sunrises and 7 Billion Mouths to Feed."

USDA is proud to stand behind the producers who rise before dawn 365 days a year in order to put food on the table for 7 billion people.

"We recognize the importance of agriculture and hope that the recent passage of a new Farm Bill is a sign that 2014 will be a 'banner year for the industry,'" said Canales. There is no better way to show our support for farmers and ranchers than to begin implementing a new Farm Bill-legislation that will provide farmers, ranchers and consumers alike supportive results."

While the American economy is rebounding and gaining strength, the agricultural economy has remained strong and at its best. Looking ahead, the U.S. has seen a trend towards aging farmers; however, according to the recent Census of Agriculture, the nation is beginning to reverse that trend. There is an increase in the number of farmers under the age of 35.

And although the agriculture industry promises a bright future, many farmers and ranchers are still recovering from natural disasters that occurred this year, including the continuing drought. Fortunately, these producers were still able to grow the commodities that Americans rely on in order to remain a food-secure nation. Our farmers and ranchers have also continued their legacy of protecting natural resources and environmentally sensitive land through the use of conservation programs.

Please join FSA in celebrating America's farmers and ranchers—a selfless group of individuals who make up less than two percent of the world's population. They feed our country and make our nation secure. And, they supply quality foods to the rest of the world's seven billion people.

From the clothes we wear, the foods we eat, the fuel we burn and the agricultural byproducts we use daily, American agriculture adds to the quality of our lives.

None of the contributions of U.S. farmers and ranchers should be taken for granted, because no one can live without agriculture.

Ag Day is a project of the Agriculture Council of America. For further Ag Day information and events visit www.agday.org. For information on programs administered by FSA, contact your local FSA office or visit us online at www.fsa.usda.gov.

continued its track record of strong earnings in 2013, enabling it to maintain its long tradition of returning profits to stockholders through its patronage program. Since 2006, Capital Farm Credit has returned over $385 million to its stockholders—equating to an effective annual rate reduction of 1.10 percent on an average loan.

“Capital Farm Credit is committed to the cooperative principle of managing our capital, and our business in general, for the benefit of our customers,” said Ben Novosad, chief executive officer. “Our ability to return patronage each year sets us apart from other financial institutions. We believe this is a benefit that strengthens customer relations and reinforces our mission to provide financing and related services to support Texas agriculture—while affording our membership lower net borrowing costs.”

Capital Farm Credit has provided financing to Texas farmers, ranchers and rural property owners for nearly a century. Headquarter in Bryan, it has nearly 70 offices spanning most of Texas.

Distance Learning and Telemedicine opportunities to expand in rural areas

Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack has announced that the Obama Administration is investing in rural telecommunications equipment to help expand access to education, create jobs and improve health care in 25 states.

"Expanding access to broadband will greatly improve educational and economic opportunities for rural residents," Vilsack said. "Broadband gives students more courses to choose from, more skills to use in high-paying jobs, and more opportunities to enroll in colleges and universities offering the best education available today. We must make needed investments to connect our rural residents to the 21st century technology that will help them compete in a global economy."

"Schools and health care facilities in rural Texas have increasingly tighter budgets each year. Distance Learning and Telemedicine grants are powerful tools for providing expanded educational and medical opportunities which otherwise may be unavailable to students and residents of rural communities," said Paco Valentin, USDA Rural Development State Director of Texas.

This announcement of nearly $16 million in USDA grants for distance learning and telemedicine services helps to support President Obama's ConnectED initiative. In June 2013, President Obama announced an effort to connect 99 percent of America's students to high-speed Internet over the next five years. Since 2009 USDA has provided support for more than 3,300 educational institutions receiving distance learning services to help rural children get an education that is as good as that of their peers in cities.

These investments are being provided through USDA's Distance Learning and Telemedicine Loan and Grant program. It provides funding to rural hospitals, clinics, schools and libraries for equipment and technical assistance for telemedicine and distance learning. Grant recipients must demonstrate that they serve rural America, prove there is an economic need and provide at least 15 percent in matching funds.

The Region XIV Education Service Center in Abilene has been selected to receive a $288,192 Distance Learning and Telemedicine Grant to provide video conferencing technology throughout a 15 county area in partnership with Cisco College, Ranger College and Western Texas College. The counties included in the project are Eastland, Taylor, Brown, Erath, Scurry, Shackelford, Jones, Stonewall, Callahan, Nolan, Stephens, Mitchell, Comanche, Haskell and Fisher. The main focus will be online career-oriented classes. Teachers will be able to make use of the technology to provide an integrated approach of mentoring students from elementary through college level work. The partnership will provide distance learning opportunities to students with the required education and resources needed for local careers, including those in shale oil production. This training will allow high demand technical jobs to be filled by local rural students.

Since 2009, USDA has invested almost $150 million in the Distance Learning and Telemedicine program. These investments complement other USDA efforts to improve rural communications. In FY 2013, USDA provided $305 million in loans for broadband infrastructure. These loans will result in new or upgraded broadband service for about 120,000 rural households, businesses and community institutions once the projects are completed. High-speed broadband access is as vital to the educational and economic fortunes of rural America as electricity was in the 1930s and 1940s.

Each award is contingent upon the recipient meeting the terms of the grant agreement.

President Obama's plan for rural America has brought about historic investment and resulted in stronger rural communities. Under the President's leadership, these investments in housing, community facilities, businesses and infrastructure have empowered rural America to continue leading the way—strengthening America's economy, small towns and rural communities. USDA's investments in rural communities support the rural way of life that stands as the backbone of our American values.

Reed brings Study Club program

Elaine Reed of Haskell was the guest speaker for the Haskell Progressive Study Club meeting Thurs., March 14 held in the Haskell County Library meeting room.

Susan Turner, first vice president, introduced Reed who spoke of living in different towns and the hardship of raising her family after the sudden death of her husband. Reed spoke of different ventures she had tried and decided she enjoyed the arts and crafts shows the most and would enter them. She has a booth at Kaleidoscope, located on the east side of the square in Haskell. Several items of Reed's work were on display and she explained the making of each item.

Turner asked the group to name a woman that influenced them in their life and the impression they had made on them. Several names were told, some deceased and some alive today.

In the business meeting that followed, minutes and treasurer's report were given and approved. Members were reminded of the TFWC Spring Convention to be held in Albany Sat., March 15.

Franciene Johnson and Susan Turner volunteered to deliver Meals on Wheels.

Refreshments of cookies and punch were served from a table laid with a white cloth and holding a large shamrock. Hostesses were Nelda Lane, Susan Turner, Evelyn Cobb and Oleta Cornelius.

Brazos West Art Assn.

Nelwyn Beakley of Rule brought her greeting card components to the Brazos West Art association meeting March 10 in the Church of Christ annex.

Those present designed and fashioned unique greeting cards from her assorted collection of stickers, stamps, lace, crimped paper and simulated jewels.

Hostesses Joyce Ivy and Jessie Hill served wonderful sandwiches and many types of delicious cookies.

Those present were Betty Hook, Pansy Harris, Gayle White, guest Jax White, Joyce Ivy, Jessie Hill, Nelwyn Beakley and Peggy Middlebrook.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

State Capital

HIGHLIGHTS

By Ed Sterling

Many registered but few voted in primaries

AUSTIN—Looking back at the March 4 primaries, Texas boasted 13,601,324 voters registered in time to cast a ballot.

An estimated 9 percent of the overall number of registered voters (about 1.3 million) voted in the Republican primary and 4 percent (500,000) voted in the Democratic primary.

Runoffs between the top two vote-getting candidates in a number of contests are scheduled for Tuesday, May 27, the day after the federal holiday, Memorial Day. Votes count big in any election, but as historic participation records reveal, the portion of the electorate that actually votes in runoffs is an even thinner slice of the whole. And voter turnout is especially low in mid-term (non-presidential election year) runoffs, as those set for May 27 will be. Usually about 2 percent of registered voters cast a ballot in those.

Next, let's look at the final component of the March 4 primary ballot—propositions—reflecting interests of the Texas Democratic and Texas Republican parties. Propositions and percentages of votes in favor or against each, as posted by Office of the Texas Secretary of State's Elections Division, are as follows.

Republican Prop. 1: Ability to freely express religious beliefs and prayer in public.

- In Favor: 1,311,353 (97.24%)
- Against: 37,117 (2.75%)

Republican Prop. 2: Expanding locations where concealed handgun-permit holders may carry.

- In Favor: 1,160,360 (86.92%)
- Against: 174,594 (13.07%)

Republican Prop. 3: Abolish the state franchise tax to encourage business growth.

- In Favor: 1,152,521 (88.47%)
- Against: 150,132 (11.52%)

Republican Prop. 4: Welfare recipients to be tested for drugs before receiving benefits.

- In Favor: 1,280,839 (94.90%)
- Against: 68,729 (5.09%)

Republican Prop. 5: Elected officials and staff be subject to same laws as constituents.

- In Favor: 1,344,230 (99.36%)
- Against: 8,583 (0.63%)

Republican Prop. 6: Repeal The Affordable Care Act.

- In Favor: 1,253,915 (93.00%)
- Against: 94,310 (6.99%)

Democratic Prop. 1: Immigration reform.

- In Favor: 477,578 (86.46%)
- Against: 74,744 (13.53%)

Democratic Prop. 2: A living wage for all Texans.

- In Favor: 498,360 (89.09%)
- Against: 60,977 (10.90%)

Democratic Prop. 3: Medicaid expansion.

- In Favor: 495,788 (88.95%)
- Against: 61,567 (11.04%)

Democratic Prop. 4: On non-discrimination legislation.

- In Favor: 488,148 (88.11%)
- Against: 65,850 (11.88%)

Tax revenue increases

State sales tax revenue in February was $2.2 billion, up 5.8 percent compared to February 2013, State Comptroller Susan Combs said last week. "Sales tax revenue continues its growth streak and has now increased for 47 consecutive months," Combs said. "Growth in tax collections was seen across all major economic sectors including oil and gas, wholesale trade and the services sector." Combs said the state would send cities, counties, transit systems and special purpose taxing districts their March local sales tax allocations totaling $553 million, up 4.1 percent compared to March 2013.

Protection ruling to come

U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is proposing to protect the lesser prairie-chicken as threatened under the Endangered Species Act and a ruling on the bird's status is expected March 30.

The bird's Texas habitat includes short grass and mixed grass prairies in 24 counties of the Panhandle region, where energy companies have interests.

A lesser prairie-chicken advisory committee that first met in February 2010 produced a list of recommendations, and one was that industries operating in lesser prairie-chicken habitat develop best management practices to minimize impact. Many oil and gas companies responded, saying they voluntarily would enroll acreage in a habitat conservation plan for the bird.

In 2012, a conservation compromise was struck between the State of Texas and the federal government over the listing and proposed protection of the dune sagebrush lizard and its West Texas shinnery oak dunes habitat where oil, gas and wind energy development operations are sited.

DWI enforcement steps up

Texas Department of Public Safety on March 6 announced a planned increase of DWI patrols, before, during and after spring break, running from March 7 to March 23. For the duration of the enforcement period, state troopers' focus has been on "high-risk locations" at times when alcohol-related crashes are most frequent.

During last year's spring break enforcement period, the agency reported, more than 1,000 DWI arrests with enforcement also were made, resulting in more than 11,400 speeding citations, 1,600 seat belt/child safety seat tickets, 552 fugitive arrests and 463 felony arrests during the period.

Letter to the Editor

Dear editor,

I just want to send out a huge "Thank you" to all those who braved the sleet and snow to attend our fund-raiser at the Experienced Citizens Center Sun., March 2. When it started to snow and sleet, I was a little concerned, but then you made our day by bravely attending.

It is a wonderful comfort to know that when we ask for help, you deliver and it comes in leaps and bounds with love from our caring community.

We were humbled by your support of the Center, and the wonderful donations that were received.

"Thank You" is just not enough, but it is given from our hearts and we know how much you have helped us during hard times of your own.

As you know, we deliver to the home bound, who can't get a meal any other way. It is an honor to serve these lovely seniors and I know there are many more in our community that could use our help. If you know of someone we could reach out to, and deliver them a meal, please let me know. Some of these precious seniors are lonely and we brighten their day by visiting, but we are the ones that receive the blessings from their smiles, hugs and thanks.

Just give me a call at 940-864-3875 and we will take it from there.

Sincerely,

Jennabeth Kimbrough

TDA private applicator license training set

by Jason Westbrook
CEA-Ag, Haskell Co.

A private pesticide applicator is someone who uses or supervises the use of restricted-use or state-limited-use pesticides or regulated herbicides. Individuals who want a private applicator license must attend a private applicator training program offered by Texas AgriLife Extension Service (Extension) or a private entity approved by TDA. And individuals must pass the TDA private applicator exam and purchase a license.

A Private Applicator License Training will be held in Throckmorton at the Throckmorton First Methodist Church, located at 220 North Reynolds, Wed., April 2 from 8:30 a.m. til 12:00 noon. Testing will immediately follow the training. Study materials are available in advance.

For more information, contact Kaylee Farquhar, Throckmorton County Extension Agent at 806-549-6740.

Maidens offense too much for Anson team

The Haskell Maidens jumped out to an early lead against Anson and captured a 20-2 victory Tues., March 11 at Anson.

Fourteen runs in the first three innings allowed the Maidens to put the game away early.

A two-run double by

Madison Homeyer, an RBI double by Chelsea Chavez, a two-run home run by Madaline Williams, and a two-run single by Krysta Winegeart the first inning and an RBI single by Chavez, an RBI single by Williams, and an RBI triple by Breezy Gibbs during the second inning fueled the Maidens' offense early.

Chavez racked up four RBIs on three hits for Haskell.

Williams baffled Anson, striking out 11 batters. The Maidens' pitcher gave up just one hit over four shutout innings.

The Maidens pounded Anson pitching, as eight hitters combined for 20 hits, 19 RBIs and scored 14 runs.

Player of the week

Haskell Maiden Madison Homeyer, pitcher, was named to the Abilene Reporter-News Big Country Other Top Performers Tues., March 18. The senior Maiden went three for four with two doubles and four RBIs in a game against Anson. She worked four scoreless innings in the circle with eleven strikeouts.

The Haskell Indians and Maidens competed in the Hamlin Pied Piper relays last weekend.

The Indians placed in sixth place with 51.7 points. Discus: 3. Weise, 122-4. 800: 1. Smith, 2:07.33. 400: 1. Bell, 53.07.

300 hurdles: 1. Dever, 42.05.

The Maidens placed eighth with 28 points.

400 relay: 3. Haskell 52.58.

The Rule Bobcats also competed and tied Eula for twelfth place with 10 points.

USDA enhances farm storage facility loan program

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has announced the expansion of the Farm Storage and Facility Loan program, which provides low-interest financing to producers. The enhanced program includes 22 new categories of eligible equipment for fruit and vegetable producers, and makes it easier for farmers and ranchers around the country to finance the equipment they need to grow and expand.

This is part of a broader effort to help small and mid-sized farmers and ranchers, as announced recently by Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack.

Producers with small and mid-sized operations, and specialty crop fruit and vegetable growers, now have access to needed capital for a variety of supplies including sorting bins, wash stations and other food safety-related equipment. A new more flexible alternative is also provided for determining storage needs for fruit and vegetable producers, and waivers are available on a case-by-case basis for disaster assistance or insurance coverage if available products are not relevant or feasible for a particular producer.

Additionally, Farm Storage and Facility Loans security requirements have been eased for loans between $50,000 and $100,000. Previously, all loans in excess of $50,000 required a promissory note and additional security, such as a lien on real estate. Now loans up to $100,000 can be secured by only a promissory note.

"The Farm Storage and Facility Loan program has helped American farmers and ranchers to finance on-farm storage for almost 13 years," said Farm Service Agency Administrator (FSA), Juan M. Garcia. "We anticipate these changes will increase the number of individuals who qualify for these loans and help them access new market opportunities."

The low-interest funds can be used to build or upgrade permanent facilities to store commodities. Eligible commodities include grains, oilseeds, peanuts, pulse crops, hay, honey, renewable biomass commodities, fruits and vegetables. Qualified facilities include grain bins, hay barns and cold storage facilities for fruits and vegetables.

Other new changes to the Farm Storage and Facility Loan program will allow FSA State Committees to subordinate Commodity Credit Corporation's lien position.

These changes to the program were issued via an official notice to state and county Farm Service Agency offices and are effective immediately.

More than 33,000 loans have been issued for on-farm storage, increasing grain storage capacity by 900 million bushels since May 2000.

More information about tools and resources available to small and mid-sized farmers will be rolled out in the coming months, including information about access to capital, risk management, food safety, and locating market opportunities on USDA's Small and Mid-Sized Farmer Resources webpage.

Visit www.fsa.usda.gov or an FSA county office to learn more about FSA programs and loans, including the Farm Storage Facility Loan Program.

Make overdraft protection work for you

No one likes to get a "declined" message when using a debit card, but if you have ever faced a $30 plus overdraft fee, you know it is a situation you would also like to avoid. Almost every financial institution offers some kind of "overdraft protection," also called "overdraft privilege," which allows you to spend more than what's currently available in your checking account. Given the charge that usually accompanies these overages, bank customers should think of the service as a safety net that allows access to funds when you've made an error balancing your checking account or you're in need of funds before your next deposit.

While incurring an overdraft fee is never ideal, there are ways that you can avoid doing so unwillingly. Or, if you find yourself in need of the service, there are ways to use it wisely. Below are a few tips to consider:

Opt Out

At one point or another, you may have "opted in" to overdraft fees on ATM transactions and debit card purchases. All bank customers have the option of "opting out" of the service, which will lead your bank to decline these transactions rather than cover them with funds beyond your current balance.

Know Your Real Balance

While many of us are in the habit of checking our bank balances online to determine whether we have money to spend in real time, it's easy to get in trouble by relying solely on that displayed amount. If you use your debit card to buy gas, for instance, it usually takes several days for the full charge to come out of your account. Rather than relying on online balances, it's safer to use the account ledger that comes with a checkbook to keep a running tally of what you've already spent, including online payments that may not be deducted from your account yet. This extra step will help determine the real amount you have to spend and keep you out of unnecessary trouble.

Balance Your Account Monthly

Balancing your account monthly will not only help prevent overdrafts, but will also help ensure you identify unauthorized transactions. You only have so many days after receiving your statement to let your bank know about an unauthorized transaction. By picking a day at the beginning of each month to balance your account, you will have a firm grasp on where your money went that month, if the charges are correct and how much you have left. If you don't know how to balance your account, ask your community banker who will gladly teach you the process.

Ask for Forgiveness

Overdrawing your account can be frustrating and embarrassing, but it happens sometimes. However, if you never (or very rarely) overdraw your account, it doesn't hurt to ask your bank to waive the fee. Many banks are understanding of the rare mistake and are willing to both waive the fee and help you figure out what went wrong to avoid future missteps.

Set Up An Alternative "Backstop"

If you have money in a savings account, it's fairly simple to avoid using overdraft protection. Ask your bank if you can connect your savings account to your checking account so that if you overdraw the checking account, money will automatically roll over from the savings account to cover the expense. While some banks charge a nominal fee every time you use this service, the fee is typically lower than a full overdraft fee.

Minimize the Fees

If you truly need to access your overdraft safety net before your next deposit, you're better off withdrawing the total funds you foresee needing in one transaction, rather than using your debit card at multiple locations. Most banks assess a full overdraft fee for each charge or withdrawal made while an account is overdrawn. That means it's cheaper for you to make one large cash withdrawal to access emergency funds rather than making several smaller withdrawals over the course of a few days until your account is replenished.

This Week's Devotional Message:

When winter snows have left the earth
And warmer breezes start to blow,
Behold the annual rebirth,
When grass will soon begin to grow
And tiny buds of leaves will sprout
On limbs of trees in forest glades
Then flowers soon will blossom out,
Exquisite in their pastel shades.

The air is filled with songs of birds,
And humming insects will abound,
A scene of beauty, where no words
Do justice to each sight and sound
Incorporated in the plan,
Or could describe each living thing
That signifies God's love for man,
When nature comes alive in spring.

Should you lease or buy a new car?

It's time to get a new car. If you're thinking about letting your favorite charity haul off your current clunker, good for you! An added benefit of this good deed: it's a tax write-off. Now it's time to give some thought about whether to lease or purchase your next vehicle. For 20 percent of those in the market for a new car, it makes more sense to lease a vehicle, but the vast majority would fare better by buying the car. Below are tips to consider that will help you decide if leasing or purchasing is right for you.

Leasing Is Like Renting a Car for a Specific Period of Time

You don't own the car, you just get to use it. You get to drive it, usually for 24 or 48 months, and at the end of the lease you turn it in to the dealer with or without the option to purchase the vehicle. During the term of the lease, you will be expected to maintain the vehicle and provide adequate insurance coverage. You will also likely be limited on the number of miles you're allowed to drive the vehicle. It's usually 12,000 miles per year but you can negotiate more miles for an added cost. How many miles you normally drive should be a major factor in your decision about whether to lease or purchase a new car.

Monthly Lease Payments

Are Usually Less Than Loan Payments

However, it would be a mistake to focus solely on the monthly payment as the decision maker. A rule of thumb is that the lower interest rates are, the narrower the spread between the lease payment and loan payment. Conversely, the higher interest rates are, the greater the savings when leasing. The upfront cost can vary as well. If you purchase, you pay the down payment, taxes, registration and other fees. If you lease, you pay the first month's payment, a refundable security deposit, a down payment, taxes, registration and other fees.

Educate Yourself Before Visiting the Car Dealer

There are certain terms you should be familiar with before you visit the dealer. The purchase price plus "acquisition fees" equates to the "capitalized cost" for the lease. It is that "capitalized cost" that is negotiable just like a purchase price. Any down payment or trade-in you make is considered a "capitalized cost reduction." You should also be familiar with the terms "residual value," a prediction of the vehicle's value at the end of the lease, and "closed-end lease," a lease that fixes that residual value at the end of the lease.

When the lease is over, you may have to pay either a "purchase option fee" if you elect to purchase the vehicle or a "disposition fee" if you return the vehicle to the dealer. Those are fees to be aware of when you review any lease contract. When deciding if leasing is right for you, a few other things to consider include "early termination fees" and "excessive wear costs." If you elect to terminate the lease early, you will be charged a percentage of the remaining lease balance, which can be almost as much as the lease balance itself. Although your lease will allow for normal wear and tear of the vehicle, you will be expected to pay any expenses associated with

"excessive wear and tear" when the lease terminates.

What's Right for You?

If you like to upgrade your car every few years to the latest and greatest model, then leasing may be the best option for you. On the other hand, if you keep your vehicles for ten years before contemplating making a change, purchasing makes more sense. While leasing may allow you to get a more expensive model for the same monthly payment, remember to consider the total cost and not just the monthly payment. Finally, if you are self-employed, you may be able to write off lease payments as a business expense.

Wheat pests impacted by unusual weather

by Jason Westbrook
CEA-Ag, Haskell Co.
SITUATION

Unfortunately, we know all too well that the dry land wheat is hurting for water. And, irrigated fields with limited water are just hanging on. The freezing temperatures are also burning back the leaves. This is not a very encouraging report, but if you are an eternal optimist the rains will be coming soon.

Our extreme cold temperatures have also had a detrimental impact on the pest complex. There is very little or no pest activity at this time. Usually by the middle of March, aphid infestations (greenbugs, Russian wheat aphids, Bird cherry oat aphids) are beginning to be a concern. And with the drought conditions the past few years, brown wheat mites are usually active by now. Just because these pests are not active now, do not think they will not become a problem. As temperatures do begin to warm up, damaging populations could still develop from those that have survived the extreme conditions. This is because aphids and mites have a high reproductive capacity.

The reproductive capacity of greenbugs increases dramatically at temperatures between 55 degrees to 75 degrees and Russian wheat aphid at temperatures between 50 degrees to 70 degrees. Both of these aphids give birth to two to five living young per day, depending on the temperatures. The young nymphal aphids will mature to an adult in five to seven days and will begin giving birth to more living nymphal aphids. All of the aphids are females and each female will reproduce for about three weeks. As an example of the high reproductive capacity, if we start with 1,000 female adults and each gave birth to an average of 3 nymphs a day within a week (3x7 days = 21 nymphs/female) there would be 21,000 aphids in week 2. Then if the population continued increasing by 3 per day there could be 441,000 aphids by week 3. So, depending on the temperatures and the number of aphids starting out, heavy damaging infestations can develop quickly.

Brown wheat mites are just as prolific as the aphids. All brown wheat mites are females. They lay eggs which hatch in about 7 days, giving rise to multiple generations in a very short period of time. And, drought conditions are ideal for the build up of heavy infestations.

Since these wheat pests can become problematic rather quickly, begin checking fields if you have not already begun scouting.

Weed and brush management workshop set March 25

by Jason Westbrook
CEA-Ag, Haskell Co.

The Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service office in Jones County will conduct a Weed and Brush Management Seminar for Pasture and Rangelands from 8:30 a.m. until noon March 25 in the Lawrence Hall Activity Center at 801 23rd St. in Anson.

"Controlling unwanted weeds and brush in our pastures is a constant battle," said Steve Estes, AgriLife Extension agent in Jones

County. "The purpose of this workshop is to acquaint our producers with the latest, best and most cost effective control methods now available. There are some new products out there this season, so if anyone has been out of the loop regarding the new herbicides now available, this workshop would be well worth their time if controlling weeds and brush is in their future."

Individual registration fee will include a catered meal. Estes asks those planning to attend to preregister by March 21 by calling the AgriLife Extension office in Jones County at 325-823-2432. More workshop information can also be obtained at that number.

Three Texas Department of Agriculture continuing education units, two integrated pest management and one general, will be available for those with a private applicators license.

The program topics to be presented by AgriLife Extension personnel and company representatives will include:

- Weed Identification and Management, Ralph Porter, Dow AgroSciences, Abilene.

- Brush Control Options, Dr. Morgan Russell, AgriLife Extension range specialist, San Angelo.

- Herbicide Options for Range and Pasture, Gerald Hobson, DuPont, Peaster, and Porter.

- Pasture Recovery Following Drought, Russell.

- Seasonal Weather Outlook-Patterns and Predictions, Randy Turner, chief meteorologist, KRBC-TV, Abilene.

- Maximizing Forage Utilization for Livestock, Tony Ballinger, beef specialist, ADM Alliance Nutrition, Morgan Mill.

The workshop will conclude after lunch.

For more information contact Estes at 325-823-2432, saestes@ag.tamu.edu.
