COL. R. L. PENICK TAKES OVER STAMFORD BALL FRANCHISE

Col. R. L. Penick has taken over the Stamford baseball franchise in the West Texas League according to advices from Stamford. Col. Penick has been one of the most loyal boosters for Stamford in the past and as the Baseball Association was about on the financial rocks, it looked as though Stamford would have to drop out of the league before the season was over. This in the opinion of Col. Penick would give Stamford a "black eye" that it would take years to get over and it could not be considered—so he proceeded to step in, and take charge of the organization to save the day. Col. Penick left Wednesday for Clovis to take personal charge of the team.

CROP CONDITIONS IN ALL PARTS OF TEXAS EXCELLENT

Dallas, Texas, July 12.—General crop conditions in Texas this year are as good, in some places better than last year, according to railroad officials. Pasture is fine for range cattle from Abilene to El Paso, according to A. E. Pistole, official at Big Spring. "We do not have time to make a canvas of the division but the general situation is that there is no grain such as wheat and oats raised on this division this year," he reports. "Cotton was planted very late on account of rains. Crops will be late but will compare favorably with previous years. There will also be a late crop of feed such as maize and kaffir to compare with previous years."

The estimated peanut yield in the territory from Texarkana to Abilene is placed at 25 percent above 1921, by J. W. Knightlinger, railroad official at Fort Worth. Cotton is considered very favorable, with present indications pointing to a larger yield than last year. Grain and oats are about the same as last year, with wheat fully 24 percent short. Only twelve or fifteen cars are expected on this division. Melons are regarded as about 20 percent above last year.

Cotton is classed as fair in the district from Fort Worth to Denton via Sherman, commonly called the Red River territory, according to R. Wynne railway in practically the same good corn crop necessitating about 25 cars with 450 cars of watermelons is predicted. Wheat and oats there are regarded as being approximately a 20 percent increase over crops of last year. J. McKay, official at Alexandria, La., puts the crop condition on the Louisiana Division of the Texas & Pacific railway in practically the same good condition as last year except in the over-watered area of Avoyelles and Rapides Parish. From Marshall, Texas, to New Orleans, the lane crop, he declares, should be as much or more. He expects a slight improvement in cotton and that small grain will be about the same.

Reports to the office of T. L. Peeler, industrial commissioner of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway, indicate that the peach crop in Northeast Texas, between the Louisiana line and Greenville, will be below normal this season. Not more than ten or twelve full cars are expected to be handled out of the Shreveport division of the road, passing from Greenville east through Hopkins, Wood Camp, Morris, Cass, Marion, and Harrison counties into Louisiana. Mr. Peeler says. This section generally handles, he points out, from 300 to 800 carloads of the fruit a season. Good strawberry and watermelon crops are forecast by Mr. Peeler who says that the Katy road expects to handle between 400 and 500 carloads of the latter product on the Shreveport division alone. Cars are plentiful and the traffic movement will operate smoothly officials agree.

A varied account of crops in South Texas is being reported. Cotton from Dallas to Waco is said to be late, some of the plants just coming up and being chopped out. Between Waco and Temple cotton is reported also late, with corn good. From Temple to Taylor corn and cotton are good. Cotton is knee high from Taylor to Elgin; from Elgin to Smithville corn is reported poor; especially around Bastrop while cotton around Bastrop and Smithville is above average; between Smithville and La Grange, crops are late; cauloupes, cucumbers, beans and other truck being shipped from LaGrange vicinity; cream, eggs, and butter being shipped from New Ulm to Houston, with cotton above average; Brookshire shipping truck, eggs, chickens and milk.

UNDER-REAMING AT 1894 FEET IN THE GLENN WELL

Drillers on the Glenn Well in the eastern part of the county are under-reaming this week preparatory to shutting off water which has been giving some trouble at 1894 feet. According to reliable reports from this test, several favorable oil and gas showings have been encountered. At 1880 feet a gas sand was drilled through which the driller states is good for 100,000 cubic feet of gas per day.

In a letter from James Burton Glenn, Sr., trustee of the Glenn Petroleum Syndicate, he states that indications in this well look very favorable and that his company is very hopeful of bringing in the first producer in Haskell County.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Finley left Tuesday for New Mexico, where they will spend several weeks with relatives and friends. They made the trip overland.

Miss Harriet Allison of Seymour is spending the week with R. V. Robertson and family.

COUNTY TAX RATE REDUCED THIS YEAR

At a meeting of the Commissioners' Court this week the County Tax Rate was set for 1922 at 55 cents, three cents lower than formerly. Last year the rate was 58 cents. In Precinct No. 1, the special road bond tax was lowered from 45 cents to 40 cents, making a reduction in all of 8 cents in Precinct No. 1.

The Court is to be commended on the efficient manner in which they have managed the financial affairs of the county during the past year—being able to reduce the tax rate in spite of the fact that the valuations of the county has fallen off or has been rendered at about one-half million dollars less than formerly.

In Precinct 4 the rate will be 15 cents higher than the county rate on account of the special road tax voted in that precinct last Saturday.

RICHARD SHERRILL HONORED BY UNIVERSITY SOCIETY

The following account of the election of Richard Sherrill as a member of Virginia Gamma chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa society at Washington and Lee University taken from the student paper published at the University. This is an honor attained by but few students and all Haskell is proud of the record made by Richard Sherrill. The account is as follows:

Six men will be initiated into Virginia Gamma chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa society at the annual meeting to be held May 29. The four students who have achieved this coveted honor are R. M. Bear, S. E. Rogers, R. D. Smith and R. E. Sherrill, the first three being members of the graduating Academic class and Sherrill a member of this year's Senior Science class. Powell P. Glass, '07, of Lynchburg, and Dr. J. M. Hutcheson, '02, of Richmond, of the alumni will also be taken in at that time.

A well established precedent of the local chapter was broken by the recent decision to announce the initiates earlier than usual. It has been the rule for many years that the names be shrouded in closest secrecy until Finals, but it has been felt for some time that a change in the custom would give more recognition to the men honored while they are still in college, and that they could be determined as well a few weeks in advance.

As is to be expected according to the standards set by the fraternity, the new men have brilliant records in scholarship and achievement. Mr. Powell Glass is one of the publishers of the Lynchburg News and the Advance, and served with unusual distinction as a major in the U. S. Army during the Great War. Dr. Hutcheson is a professor in the Medical College of Virginia, prominent in his line of work, and has since graduation in 1902 been one of the most loyal and enthusiastic alumni in Richmond.

The students elected are the acknowledged "sharks" of the campus. A summary of their scholastic records is as follows: R. M. Bear, Economics Scholarship, 1918-19; Franklin Society Scholarship, 1918-20; Young Scholarship, 1920-21; assistant in Geology, 1920-21; 1921-22; S. E. Rogers has an almost unbroken string of "A's" and won the Education Scholarship, 1920-21; R. D. Smith, Chemistry Scholarship, 1918-19; Physics Scholarship, 1920-21; Franklin Society Scholarship, 1920-21; R. E. Sherrill came to W. & L. from the University of Texas and Worcester College with a state showing only one "B" since arriving he has not once

$200,000 BOND ELECTION TO BE HELD AT SEYMOUR

Seymour citizens will vote on bond issues aggregating $200,000 during the next two months. The first municipal bond election will be held August 8th, when the following proposals will be passed upon: city hall and auditorium, $40,000; water main extension, $25,000; sewer improvement, $8,000. Subscriptions are now being taken for the erection of a $35,000 Masonic temple and petitions are being circulated for a Baylor county memorial hospital to cost $100,000. An election on the latter proposition probably will be held the latter part of August or early in September.

WILL SPEAK IN INTEREST OF ROGERS AND EDMONDSON

L. C. Vaught of Fannin County will speak here Saturday afternoon at the Courthouse in the interest of the candidacy of Fred S. Rogers of Fannin County for Governor and Joe E. Edmondson of Anderson County for Lieutenant Governor. Mr. Vaught expects to begin his speech promptly at 3:00 o'clock. Everybody is invited to attend.

OF INTEREST TO POULTRY BREEDERS OF THE COUNTY

We call the attention of the poultry breeders of Haskell County to our Annual Poultry Show which will be held at Haskell the first Friday and Saturday in December which is the first and second day of the month.

We expect to make this the banner year for our show and we expect more birds than ever before. You remember that our last year's show was a good one and has done a great deal to advertise the poultry industry of Haskell County.

You are going to come in with us. Why not now? Our doors are open to you and we are going to give you a warm welcome and make you some money if you will give some time to the poultry industry. Ask any member of the Association what they think of the show and the progress we are making.

We have recently had some correspondence with Chas. O. Davis, a White Leghorn Breeder of Rule, who made the statement that he was coming in the show with a strong line of good show stock and he said others would be here from Rule. We invite all our sister towns to join us. The association is for Haskell county and we welcome you into our association and will help you and you can help us.

W. M. FREE, Secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Pinkerton and daughter Marylee, Dr. and Mrs. Daniels of Abilene, left last Monday for "Cool Colorado" and other points, where they will spend the summer. Walthall's daughters.

CLUB PIG GAINS 170 POUNDS IN NINETY DAYS

According to a report made by Jas. Foster Jr., of the Midway Pig Club on a Duroc pig, a total gain of 170 pounds for the 90 day period of feeding is reported. Cost of feed for the time was $6.00, which is a little less than 60 per cent.

Beginning next week will try to begin submitting reports from the boys on "How They Did It."

J. W. Foster, Chairman, Pig Club.

BIG BARBECUE-PICNIC AT O'BRIEN SATURDAY

A big Barbecue and Basket Picnic will be held at O'Brien Saturday, July 15th, and a big time is expected. Everybody is invited to attend and especially those from other communities of the county. All parents who wish to transfer their children from one school district to another are earnestly requested by the County Superintendent to attend to this before August 1st, as it is the law that all transfers must be made and in the office of the County Superintendent by this time.

If the transfer is not made, the district in which you expect to send your children will not receive the benefit of the state appropriation.

CITY ESTABLISHES MARKET SQUARE

A City Market Square has been established on the east half of Block 11, back of McNeill & Smith Hardware Store and J. F. Kennedy's garage, for the convenience of the public.

The City Council has passed an order requiring all marketing and selling of produce, wood, melons, etc., to be done at the market square. This will be an improvement over the old way. It will give those who have produce to sell a place to market it, and those who desire to buy will know where to find what they want, if it is in town.

ELKS BASEBALL TEAM WILL PLAY O'BRIEN FRIDAY

A baseball game between the local Elks team and the O'Brien team has been arranged for Friday July 21st, to be staged at the local park. O'Brien has a winning team, and have been "trimming" most of the teams playing against them. As for the Elks team, since their victory over Rochester on July 4th, several new players have been added to their already strong team, and it is expected that Friday's game will be hotly contested.

In addition to the ball game, candidates will be given a chance to speak in behalf of their candidacy after the game. The speaking will be held on the courthouse lawn.

W. A. Duncan, who has purchased the Harris-Irby-Vose Gin, arrived here Tuesday, but on account of not being able to secure a home at present, Mrs. Duncan and son left Wednesday morning for Wichita Falls and Bellevue, where they will visit relatives and friends for several weeks.

H. M. Smith and family left Sunday for the Ozark Mountains where they will spend several weeks.

EARLE B. MAYFIELD DELIVERS ADDRESS

Hon. Earle B. Mayfield spoke for more than an hour and a half to a large audience in the district court room Monday afternoon. Mr. Mayfield stressed very forcibly his position on the transportation question. He clearly illustrated what he termed the injustice of the position of the interstate commerce commission and its infringements of state commission, and bitterly denounced the Esch-Cummins bill.

He discussed at length his position on agriculture, recommending long term credits of from one to two and a half years to the farmers and stockmen. He also stressed his opposition on immigration and favors collecting every dollar of European debt to America.

The speaker paid loyal tribute to the ex-service men, concluding with the statement that he is running on his merits alone and not on the demerits of his opponents, if they have any.

ROCHESTER ARRANGES FOR ELECTRIC SERVICE

Arrangements have been made for Rochester to secure electricity and electric power from the American Public Service Corporation by tapping the high tension line running from Haskell to Munday. The line will be tapped at Weibert. Practically all this territory is now supplied by electricity generated at Haskell.

6:30 KATY TRAIN OUT OF STAMFORD IS DISCONTINUED

If you are counting on making connection with the east bound Katy train out of Stamford at 6:30 p. m. in the future by taking the southbound evening train here, forget it, as it can't be done. The Katy has discontinued this train and you will have to stay over in Stamford until 5 o'clock in the morning—and this train leaves out of Stamford before the Valley train from the north arrives. So that you will have a ten or twelve hour wait at the very best.

So far the strike has not interfered with passenger service on the Wichita Valley—however some little complaint and delay has occurred in the freight service, according to J. L. Southern, local agent.

TUESDAY HOTTEST DAY THIS SEASON

Tuesday, July 11th, was the hottest day of the season, according to the official records kept by Judge P. D. Sanders, the thermometer registering 103 in the shade. Monday was also a warm day, the mercury going as high as 102.

In the section of the county that failed to receive the recent rain, the feed crop has begun to suffer for moisture, however the cotton is standing the warm weather fine and it is the opinion of old timers that the present weather is making the cotton crop.

R. S. (Dick) Nolan, formerly owner of Dick's Theatre, and all around good scout, was in the city several days this week. Dick is now connected with the Metro Film Corporation at Kansas City.

Miss Janie Burleson left Friday for Sipe Springs where she will spend several days with home folks.

SINGING CONVENTION WILL MEET WITH MIDWAY CLASS

The Haskell County Singing Convention meets with the Midway Class the Fourth Sunday afternoon in this month at 3 o'clock. We have the promise of some visiting singers. Otis Deaton of Sulphur Springs with his quartet will be there. Beymour will be there with a quartet. Bomarton, Goree and Munday will also be represented with good singers. We ask that every good singer and lover of music come and be with us on that day. Midway is the new school house in the old Pinkerton district 4 miles west of Haskell. They have asked for the convention many times and are making plans to give everyone a warm welcome.

Help make this convention one of the best ever held in Haskell county by being present on the above date.

"The old slogan among salesmen and merchants used to be: 'Well 'em whether they want it or not.' Now it's 'educate the people to want what you are selling.' I found this to be true when buying a suit of clothes from the Haskell Tailoring Company. Mr. Sam Rodgers sold me on Tailored clothes and I'll say he made me want Tailored Clothes—Style, Fit and Quality turned the trick."

A Mature Elopement
By CLARA DELAFIELD
Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

"Amanda's hard," said Mary Tyrrell. "She's as hard as nails. And she's been watching us like a lynx ever since we got to know each other so well."

"No worse than Bob," said Frank Arnold. "That boy's got eyes in the back of his head. He watches me like—like a bob-cat."

"It's hard that our own children should turn against us," sighed Mary. "I suppose they think we're a pair of old fools who can't be trusted."

It certainly was hard on their romance. Mary was two years younger than Frank, and Frank was—well, of that indeterminate age when the hair is as much white as black and the tailor sighs reproachfully when he passes the tape-measure round you. They had been sweethearts in youth, had drifted apart, and each had married and been left alone. Now, with a grown-up son and daughter, they found themselves neighbors in the little town.

Bob Arnold and Amanda Tyrrell were engaged to be married. Bob had a fine position, and it was only a matter of a few weeks till the ceremony. And the old people, fearing the loneliness that would follow, had found consolation in each other's society.

"Mary, I've got a scheme," said Frank one day. "Let's—let's get married too!"

"Frank!" she was staggered by the proposal. "You mustn't joke about that. Those memories are too—too sacred."

"I mean it, darling. Why shouldn't we have a little happiness in our old age? After all, we've always cared for each other, haven't we?"

It took a long time to persuade her. It was not that Mary Tyrrell had ceased to care. She had loved Frank ever since their meeting with all the ardor of their youth. But she had grown "settled."

Frank did persuade her. And it was a difficult courtship that was carried on under the eyes of the young couple. They feared their children's opposition intensely. A dozen times Mary declared that she dared not do it. Then Frank hit on a plan.

"What d'you say to an elopement, darling? Remember how we'd planned to elope in the old days?"

"Frank, I—I couldn't. It would be—improper, at our age! Besides—"

"Leave it to me," said Frank. A week later he came to her again. "Come along, Mary," he said. "It's all ready. The judge will fix it for us as soon as we can get to his house."

"Frank, don't be absurd! Why, I—I'm not dressed, and there's the pudding to make, and—"

"And Bob and Amanda on their way up the hill. It's now or never, mother!"

Somehow—Mary never knew how afterward—he persuaded her. And at the back of the house, not near enough to arouse suspicion, the buggy was waiting. Frank helped her in and took up the reins.

Half an hour later they emerged from the judge's house, man and wife. Judge Engrew had chuckled and beamed, and seemed to be enjoying the joke immensely.

"I guess there'll be surprises when you get home," he said.

"I guess there will," said Mary mournfully.

All the way home her despondency increased, in spite of her husband's protestations.

"Amanda will never forgive me, and Bob won't forgive you," she said.

"If that young scoundrel tries any of his tricks on me, I'll break his teeth," said Frank Arnold severely. "I'll let him know I'm his father."

"A couple of old fools we are," said Mary, as he kissed her.

At the door, waiting for them, were Amanda and Bob. Mary descended with trembling limbs and turned to her husband.

"You tell them, Frank," she said.

"Well, you see, folks, it being a fine day, we thought we'd go buggy-riding," began Frank Arnold.

"Hope you enjoyed yourselves," answered Amanda.

"I thought you might like to know, mother, that that cake you were making burned to a cinder in the oven."

Mary ran forward impetuously, but Frank checked her.

"See here, folks," he said. "You may as well know we've just got married. And we aren't going to stand for any nonsense, either."

And he awaited the storm with folded arms. But before any one could speak Mary came rushing back in wild excitement.

"Frank! Come in and see!" she cried.

The table was loaded with a wedding feast. There were four places, and the roast ham sent forth a delicious appetizing odor.

"What—what—" stammered Frank.

"Your wedding breakfast, Dad," said Bob.

"How d'you know—?"

"Judge Engrew tipped us off. You see, we'd been hoping for it, only if we'd encouraged you you wouldn't have been so keen."

They stared at each other. "I guess that's what the judge meant by his surprises," murmured Mary.

"No, Amanda and I got married half an hour before you did. That's the surprise, Bob chuckled.

MY LAST APPEAL TO THE VOTERS OF HASKELL COUNTY:

The campaign is closing. The issues have been drawn and the positions announced. A few more days and the decree of the people will have been pronounced. From that decree there can be no appeal. In concluding my campaign I wish to make the following statements.

I have made my race on issues which I think are vital to the public welfare. Whether or not I have been correct in my judgment I am willing to let the people decide.

There have arisen unpleasant things in the course of the campaign. I have been misrepresented and criticized so much that at times my patience has been sorely tried. Under such a stress perhaps some things have been said which should have been unuttered. I regret more than I can say that the campaign has descended to a personal plane, and in its conclusion I want to proclaim that principles are greater than men. Let the voter turn from the man to the principles. None of us can lay claim to perfection. We stand or fall on the things we represent. I ask you to carefully weigh the issues I have set before you. Upon them I am willing to risk my political career.

I entered this race upon my own accord. I have made it at my own expense. I have had no organization of powerful friends to work for me. I am depending solely on the common people to elect me. I leave the issue in their hands and I do not believe they will fail me.

CARDUI HELPED REGAIN STRENGTH

Alabama Lady Was Sick For Three Years, Suffering Pain, Nervous and Depressed—Read Her Own Story of Recovery.

Paint Rock, Ala.—Mrs. C. M. Stegall of near here, recently related the following interesting account of her recovery: "I was in a weakened condition. I was sick three years in bed suffering a great deal of pain, weak, nervous, depressed. I was so weak I couldn't walk across the floor; just had to lay and my little ones do the work. I was almost dead. I tried every thing I heard of, and a number of doctors. Still I didn't get any relief. I couldn't eat, and slept poorly. I believe if I hadn't heard of and taken Cardui I would have died. I bought six bottles, after a neighbor told me what it did for her.

"I began to eat and sleep, began to gain my strength and am now well and strong. I haven't had any trouble since... I sure can testify to the good that Cardui did me. I don't think there is a better tonic made and I believe it saved my life."

For over 40 years, thousands of women have used Cardui successfully in the treatment of many womanly ailments.

If you suffer as these women did, take Cardui. It may help you, too. At all druggists.

Account of Taylor-French Wedding From Memphis Newspaper

The following account of the wedding of Miss Gladys Taylor of this city and Mr. Tom M. French at Memphis, Tenn., on July 4th, is taken from the Memphis News Scimitar of Wednesday July 5th: The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Norfolk, on Lamar boulevard, was the scene of a very pretty wedding Tuesday evening, when Miss Gladys Taylor, cousin of Mrs. Norfolk, and charming daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L. F. Taylor of Haskell, Tex., became the bride of Mr. Thomas M. French of Fort Scott, Kan. The Rev. H. O. Hofstead, pastor of the Court Avenue Presbyterian church, officiated in the presence of a number of close friends and relatives. For the ceremony the bride was beautifully gowned in silver lace and georgette crepe with hat and accessories in harmony. Her corsage bouquet was of Bride roses. Mrs. Margaret Quinn Wallace acted as matron of honor and Mr. William Sanders, of Olive Branch, Miss., served as groomsmen. Following the ceremony, a dainty ice course was served, after which a wedding dinner was enjoyed at the Hotel Gayoso. The couple left later for eastern points, and will make their home in Fort Scott, Kan. Among the out-of-town guests were: Mrs. L. F. Taylor of Haskell, Tex., and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Quinn, of Olive Branch, Miss. The groom is a newspaper man at Fort Scott, Kan., where after a trip to Eastern points, Mr. and Mrs. French will make their home.

WHY—

DO WE CLOSE OUR EYES WHEN WE SLEEP?

WE CANNOT sleep with our eyes open because to be asleep involves losing control of most of the functions of the body. When our body sleeps, our brain sleeps also—providing we are sleeping soundly and completely. A part of the brain has the power to open our eyes—to lift the eyelids—and it is only by the action of this part of the brain, either consciously or unconsciously, that our eyes remain open. When we stop exercising its power, our eyes shut.

The action is similar to that which occurs when an electric power plant, cuts off the power and the lights go out. We virtually turn off the power that keeps our eyes open and they shut. There is no connection between this action and the fact that we sleep lying down. This is done merely because the body demands complete rest and relaxation in order to secure the benefits of a sound sleep, and complete relaxation is possible only when we are freed of the necessity of supporting any part of the body. "What's in a Name?"
 By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel

PATTY

THE charming name of Patty is not a diminutive of Patricia as is popularly supposed, but comes, curiously enough, from Martha. For that reason it means 'becoming bitter' despite the fact that it has always been bestowed on the sweetest heroines of classic fiction.

Patty has a certain sacred significance since it is derived from the Martha who was one of the sisters of Bethany. It was she who is said to have destroyed by the sheer power of her faith a fire-breathing dragon which attacked her family while they were on a pilgrimage. Although she is popularly supposed to have been the sister of Mary Magdalen, there is some doubt among historians on this score.

But however it may be, Martha was the forerunner of Patty and gives to the latter name, not only a religious flavor, but a good old-fashioned name, which has become almost synonymous with domesticity. A curious fact in her evolution is that she was derived through Russia where Martha became Marfa under Slavic influence. The name was so much used by the daughters of the imperial family, that it was necessary for England, and later America, to evolve Patty as an endearment.

Ireland set the seal of approval upon Patty, preferring it to Martha, whose only survival is in "Mah," queen of the Fairies. France rejects Patty, but uses Marthe and Marthon. Marfa is the Italian version.

Patty's talismanic gem is coral. It will give her strength, wisdom, and bodily health, according to old superstition. But if she breaks a bit of her coral, its power vanishes as if the spirit imprisoned within had fled. Tuesday is Patty's lucky day and 7 her lucky number.

MORE ABOUT VACUUM TUBE AS A DETECTOR

How a "Three-Electrode" Is Connected in a Simple Radio Receiving Circuit.

Obviously working the tube at a point on the upper bend of knee of the characteristic curve would produce the same symmetrical changes in the plate current as it will if the tube is worked at the lower end of

Fig. X

Fig. 10 shows how a three-electrode vacuum tube is connected in a simple radio receiving circuit. The "B" battery furnishing the necessary plate potential is connected with its positive side through the phones to the plate. The filament is heated to the required temperature by the battery "A." The incoming radio frequency alternating current is applied to the grid and the negative side of the filament through the "C" battery. By connecting the negative side of the filament to the midpoint of the "C" battery a positive potential can be applied to the grid by moving the slider on the "C" battery potentiometer up, or the grid can be made negative with respect to the filament by moving the slider on the "C" battery potentiometer down.

In practice a "C" battery is not used to force a three-electrode vacuum tube to function as a detector.

Fig. 11 shows how a so-called grid condenser and a grid leak resistance are used in conjunction with a three-electrode vacuum tube so that it will function as a detector in a radio receiving circuit.

The grid condenser is connected in series with the grid of the tube and shunted by the grid leak resistance.

current would flow in the plate circuit and rapidly exhaust the "B" battery. Should the tube, by means of the potential applied to the grid, be made to operate at a point on the characteristic curve midway between the upper and lower bends—that is, on the straight part of the curve, symmetrical variations in the grid potential would cause symmetrical change in the

USING ELECTRIC LIGHT WIRE

Experts Tell the Safe Way to Employ This System for Radio Receiving.

Since the announcement that the bureau of standards of the department of commerce had perfected a method of employing electric light wires in place of aerials, considerable experimenting has been done by various amateurs, some of whom have had good luck while others succeeded only in blowing a large number of fuses.

Engineers of an eastern electric light company have offered the following suggestions to amateurs:

"First—Successful results have been obtained so far only with audio bulb sets. Crystal sets receive the signals, but for some reason they are very weak and indistinct.

"Second—No set should be used on this system without air or oil filled condensers, placed in series with either the antenna circuit or the ground circuit—preferably in the antenna circuit.

"Third—A fuse not heavier than one-half ampere should be used in series and just ahead of the antenna connection.

"Fourth—An ordinary separate detector plug-in set, one with two blades consisting the two separate blades of the plug-in set. Only one wire is run from this plug, the other leading wire left undisturbed. This whole condenser-wire should be long enough to reach from a handy electric light socket to the table where the instrument is located and should terminate in the fuse mentioned above. In case an externally connected condenser is used, the circuit should be run from the fuse to the condenser and from the condenser to the antenna binding post of the receiving set.

"In sets where the condenser is built into the instrument the connection from the fuse is run directly to the antenna binding post. All other connections should be exactly the same as for conventional overhead aerial receiving.

"Screw the attachment plug into the electric light socket and tune as usual. In case no signals are received reverse the blades in the attachment plug by simply pulling the attachment plug apart and turning the lower half half way around.

"Caution—Under no consideration should the connection from the electric light socket be brought directly into contact with the ground connection, or fuses will be blown in the house circuit and the whole house left without light. Operators should also be careful about making contact themselves bodily with the electric light wire and ground at the same time, in order to avoid shock."

SHORT FLASHES

The first national radio compass station on the Great Lakes was recently installed. Other stations will shortly be in service when the "graveyard" of the lakes will have lost its terrors.

It is claimed that John Hayes Hammond, Jr., and Dr. E. L. Chaffee have invented an appliance that insures secrecy in wireless. The system is based on principle of producing characteristic waves to which only especially equipped receivers are responsive.

Secretary Hoover's force of "ether cops" may take the form of special government detecting stations where aerial compasses could be arranged so as to detect the direction from which interruptions come. By a series of relays, the government station nearest the violating amateur could be notified and the source of trouble stopped.

Now the fans in England are having a hard time with their air. According to a report from England there are only 8,000 authorized amateur operators in the United Kingdom. The London Daily Mail states that the reason for the art's tardy growth is the fact that "hampering and senseless restrictions in this country prevent wireless amateurs from getting practice. The old fogies of the army and navy air forces are afraid of the amateurs and use their influence in having the postoffice authorities impose impossible and vexatious restrictions that limit the field."

THE FLAT OWNER'S FATE

A RICH man built a row of flats. All modern and complete; A velvet lawn stretched out in front Along the noisy street. And then he tacked a sign up high Above the passing crowd: "These handsome, modern flats for rent— No children are allowed."

He garnered rents in golden store And riches high he piled. The while the echoes never rang With laughter of a child. No childish feet went pitter-pat Adown the marble halls; The gloomy corridors ne'er rang With children's happy call.

The rich man died, as all men must, And neared St. Peter's gate, And o'er the golden arch he saw The words that sealed his fate. The words he saw were writ in flame, And seared his hard heart well: "This place is full of little ones— You'll have to go below."

No Preacher Shortage. Stevens county has a small but rather remarkable colored settlement. It was founded in the early '80s. Nearly every family lives in its own homestead. Their crops of maize, broom-corn and watermelons never fail in this favored district. Many of them are in independent circumstances.

"How many families have you in the settlement, uncle?" we asked a venerable old member of the race. "Why nephew," he replied, "there are summas about sixty."

"You must have a hard time getting preachers," we again ventured, hoping in mind the racial love of religious exercise. "Deed we has, sah. There is only about twenty preachers regular," Hugoton Hermes.

"When you are six you shall have a surprise for your birthday," said Etta's mother.

Etta walked upon air, because she was going to be six in just a few days. When you are six you become a big girl. You can do lots of things when you are six that you can't do when you are five.

For instance, you can walk round the block all by yourself, only you must take great care not to cross the street. Mother trusts you when you are six.

Etta didn't mean to do wrong, but she was so busy thinking about things that her feet carried her away. She was thinking of the father who was only a dim memory. He had died, mother had said. When mother said that her lip quivered in the way that means you mustn't ask any more questions. Etta wished she could remember her father. It would have been so nice to have had a father to come home from business in the evenings like the other girls.

When Etta's feet stopped carrying her, she looked up, to find that she was in a part of the city that she had never been in before, as far as she remembered. And yet it was just as if she knew it from some dream. She knew that there was a mailbox on the corner, even before she saw it. And she knew that there was a police station opposite—and there was, and a policeman was swinging his club there. Etta ran as hard as she could, because she was afraid of the policeman.

But presently she stopped in front of a block of apartment buildings and began to cry. She didn't know why she stopped there, but perhaps she thought there were people inside who would take care of her. A man who was just coming in spoke to her.

"What's your name, little girl?" he asked.

"Etta," she answered, "and I live at 127 Shenstone avenue."

"And what are you doing here?" asked the man, in a very deep voice.

"I'm lost," sobbed Etta, "and I want mother."

"Well, it isn't far. I'll take you there," said the man.

Etta slipped her hand trustfully into his, and they walked a little way, and there was their house, just round the corner.

"Can you find your way home now?" asked the man.

Etta nodded and clapped her hands.

"Mother, such a nice man brought me home," said Etta, when she had been scolded enough for going away.

"I wish we could have him for my birthday present, to be my father."

"Don't be foolish, child," answered mother.

She questioned Etta as to where she had been, but Etta could only indicate vaguely. For several days Etta was not allowed out, but at last the ban was lifted, and one afternoon, as she was going round the block, she met the man again.

"Hello, Etta!" he said.

"Hello, man!" said Etta.

"Did you ever hear of ice cream soda?" asked the man.

"Oh, yes!" said Etta, clapping her hands.

They had an ice cream soda, and the man told her not to tell her mother, else she might not be allowed to meet him again. So Etta said nothing, though she was bursting with the information. But after that she often met the man, and they always had an ice cream soda together.

Etta's mother soon discovered her little daughter's habit of going out at a certain hour. One afternoon she followed her. Etta went dancing along, and turned the corner. When her mother reached there the child had disappeared.

For an instant she was frightened; then she saw her going into the ice cream soda shop, holding a man's hand. She ran across the street and entered, just as they were sitting down at a table.

A minute later the man and woman confronted each other.

"So it's you, Jim," said Etta's mother.

They both looked so funny that Etta paused in the act of dipping up the ice cream with her spoon.

"Man, man!" she called, "won't you give mother an ice cream soda too?"

"If she cares to have one," said the man.

"I'm going to take you home, child," said Etta's mother, with the look that meant you mustn't ask any questions.

"How long has this been going on, Jim?"

"I met her two or three weeks ago. She was lost. I asked her name, and—well, I'd have known her anywhere."

"Man, give mother an ice cream soda," said Etta.

"I'm sorry we've met, Jim. I didn't know you were living here," said Etta's mother.

A Girl's Face and Fortune

By JOHN PALMER
Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

"I wish the men wouldn't pester me so," said Gertrude Miller, as she stepped out of the shop door of Bradbury's.

If ever a girl's face was her fortune, it ought to have been the case with Gertrude. Yet no sooner had she left Bradbury's than she saw the men begin to ogle her.

She passed on with a shrug of her shoulders. In fact, she was too light-hearted to care that day. She had applied to Bradbury's for an increase of salary, and had been turned down. She had given notice. Afterward the manager had asked her to reconsider. Gertrude had laughed at him.

Why not? She had a nice little sum in the savings bank, and she could afford to take a holiday. And just now she was on her way to meet Leslie, at the corner of Fifth avenue.

Leslie was her fancy boy, and they really expected to be married some day. Leslie was going to take her out in his car. Why wouldn't a girl feel good in that bright sunshine, going to meet her boy, even if the men did stare at her.

There he was—that little, persistent fellow who always followed her as soon as she left the shop. For a week past he had been lying in wait for her. Now he came hurrying up. He walked beside her mindingly.

"Fine afternoon, Miss Miller," said the little man pleadingly.

"Aw, cut it out!" said Gertrude. "I don't want you hanging around me with your proposals. I know your kind. It only takes a girl's 'no' to make them think they can't do without her."

"Say, that's one for a warm day!" said the little man, wiping his forehead.

"I've got better than that if you don't quit kidding me," said Gertrude.

"Kidding? See here, Miss Miller, I'm honest, I am. Five hundred dollars—"

"Kid, you make me sick!" said Gertrude.

She passed on. The little man knew her well enough, but to others she was only a cipher—a cipher with the most beautiful face that ever drew the stares of a Broadway crowd.

"Oh, Lord, there's the fat one!" said Gertrude.

The fat one was watching for her at the corner of the block. He raised his hat as Gertrude hurried by.

"Say, what's your hurry?" he demanded.

Gertrude turned around.

"See here, once and for all it's 'no' to you and all your kind, you cheap piker," she said indignantly.

"Come—and have a little lunch and—and something fizzy I know about," said the fat man. "Maybe you'll feel more like talking things over. What's the sense of acting in this way? A girl's got to earn her living, hasn't she?"

"I can earn a better living than you can give me," Gertrude retorted.

Eluding the fat man's outstretched arm, she hurried on, though conscious that he and the little man were following her. And at the corner of the block she gave a little cry of joy. For there stood Leslie.

"Great! Great!" he ejaculated, feasting his eyes upon her beautiful face.

"Oh, Leslie," said Gertrude, half laughing and half crying, "those chaps sure have been pestering me to death. Every time I go out into the street they accost me. There they are, trailing after me now!"

"Which one do you like better?" asked Leslie.

Gertrude wrinkled her forehead. "I guess the fat one's the better proposition of the two. He's got the cash," she answered. "But I'm just sick of them."

"Never mind if you're sick of them or not; you need the money," said Leslie. "If you'll take my advice you'll have a little talk with the fat one and hear what he's got to say."

"Do you think I ought to, Leslie?" asked the girl doubtfully.

"Surest thing you know!" Leslie answered. "You can't live on air, Gertrude, and till we get married we need every cent we can save."

Gertrude turned and marched mournfully up to where the fat man, emitting wheezy coughs, trailed in her direction.

"See here, I've been thinking things over," she said, "and if you're Johnny-on-the-spot with the maxima, it's up to you. But I want sixty berries per cent."

"Sixty berries! Whew!" ejaculated the fat one. "Well, I guess you're worth it, girlie. We got to get that face and head of yours in our shop window to advertise our hair tonic, and I always said we wouldn't make big sales till we got that little peach that sat in front of Bradbury's. Sixty's yours, and you can start this Monday."

He took off his hat and wiped his bald head.

It Always Works That Way.

Two inventors made up their minds not to experiment any further upon a certain invention. One of them came into a room and found the second continuing his experiments on the said invention. The second inventor, much ashamed, said: "I just had a new idea about this; would you mind watching the unexpected results which I obtain?"

The first inventor approached to see the results and answered: "In the first place I could say that I think we agreed to give this idea up, and secondly, I may truly mention that I just came from experimenting on it, and I obtained far better results."—Science and Invention.

Was World's Champion Eater.

Bela Vezenyi, Budapest banker, has rendered his soul to his Maker. He was in a class by himself. In the first place, he was wealthy—since the war—and in Budapest, a vulgarity; in the second place he weighed more than four hundred pounds; in the third place he was the greatest eater in the world.

Every morning M. Vezenyi devoured twenty-four sausages and eight pounds of pate de foie gras for breakfast. At noon he engulfed three huge loaves of bread and six pounds of ham. In the evening—well, never mind!

Probably, like the worthy caterer in "Grillon du Foyer," he declared: "I eat little, but I eat what I do with a fine appetite."

Disgraceful.

An Irishman on a short visit to London for the first time happened to pass by the houses of parliament. He cast an interested eye at Big Ben and, after a little consideration, accordingly adjusted his watch by it.

The next day he happened to pass by again and pulled out his watch to see if it was correct. He looked very bewildered when he found that his timepiece had gained five minutes.

With a final glance, full of contempt and scorn at the towering Big Ben, he turned away, muttering to himself: "Arrah, ye great big spalpeen! Fancy letting a little watch beat ye!"

A TONIC

Greaves' Tasteless chill Tonic restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

Greaves' Tasteless chill Tonic is simply Iron and Quinine suspended in syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs QUININE to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. Destroys Malarial germs and Grip germs by its Strengthening, Invigorating Effect. 60c.

HELPFUL HINTS

Popcorn Balls and Fritters—Take 1 cup molasses, 1 tablespoonful sugar, boil together until it hardens when dropped in cold water. While hot, pour over nicely popped, large, puffy grains of popcorn, from which hull burnt or unpopped corn has been removed. When cool, butter the hands well and form into balls. If popcorn fritters are desired, form them into flat, round cakes instead of balls.

Lemon Pie—Two tablespoonfuls flour, 2-3 cupfuls water, 1 teaspoonful sugar, yolks of 3 eggs, 1 grated lemon; bake; beat whites of eggs stiff and put on top; brown in oven.

Hamburg Roast—Take 2 pounds beef to 1 pound pork, chop very fine, as for sausage. Cut 1 onion very fine, mix well with meat, and add 1 egg (beaten); 3-4 cupful sweet milk, 1 cupful rolled crackers, season with salt and black pepper. Mix well, and put in deep, buttered pan, and bake.

Soft Gingerbread—Two eggs, 1-2 cup brown sugar, 1 cup Orleans molasses, 1-2 cup sour milk, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 cups flour, 1-2 cup butter; put soda into milk.

Green Corn Fritters—Cut through each row of kernels with the point of a sharp knife. Then, with the back of the knife press out the pulp, and leave the hull on the cob. This is better and easier than to shave or grate off the kernels. To one pint of corn pulp add 2 well-beaten eggs, 1-2 teaspoon of salt, 1-2 saltspoon of pepper and 2 tablespoonfuls of flour, or just enough to keep the corn and egg together. Do not add milk, as then more flour will be required, and this destroys the flavor of the corn. Fry in small cakes on a buttered griddle, and brown well on each side; or add more flour, and drop by spoonfuls into deep fat. When highly seasoned with salt and pepper, these fritters have the flavor of oysters. Make in same way with canned corn, finely chopped. Add two tablespoonfuls of milk, as the canned corn is less moist than the fresh.

No Worms in a Healthy Child

All children troubled with worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GREAVES' TASTELESS CHILL TONIC given regularly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a General Strengthening Tonic to the whole system. Notice will then show off or dispel the worms, and the Child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. 60c per bottle.

JUDGE KINNARD'S LETTER

To the Voters of Haskell County:
The many duties of the county judge's office prevent me from making a personal canvass of the County, and while I am confident most of you are able and willing to judge me by my official record, yet I realize that there are some who feel more or less slighted if a candidate does not call on them and solicit their support in person. To all such, I can only say that if time and opportunity permitted, nothing would afford me more pleasure than to take every voter in the County by the hand and solicit your support in person; and I hope that you will take the will for the deed.
Should the voters of Haskell County again see fit to honor me with your suffrage and elect me to the county judge's office, I can only promise to do in the future what I have done in the past, give you a clean, honest, and efficient administration of the county's affairs.

To be of real service to the people of my County and make you the best County Judge Haskell County has ever had is my highest ambition.

Yours for success,
JAS. P. KINNARD

Original Meaning of "School"
While a school is now a place of industry, it was not always thus. In fact, the word itself is derived from the Greek "scholē," meaning leisure. Probably this arose from the fact that only people with leisure were able to attend school.

You Never Can Tell.

A lady from a southern city, visiting New York, was asked by a friend if she would help her look after a party of children from the tenement districts she was taking on a day's outing, and agreed to do so.

The trip was to Bronx park and included the zoo. The day proved a wearisome one for the southern visitor, who was not young, and by the time they were all homeward bound on the subway train she was pretty well exhausted. But she felt compensated for her efforts when she reflected how she had been able to help give these poor shut-in children a glimpse of clear sky and green fields. With this agreeable thought she turned to a little girl sitting beside her and asked her if she had ever been to Bronx park before.
"Oh, yes!" the child answered. "I've been there lots of times. In an automobile. My brother's a chauffeur. And next Sunday I'm going to Coney Island."—Everybody's Magazine.

French Women as Judges.

Women as judges are undesirable, according to the Paris chamber of commerce, the Montreal Herald states. The experts of the chamber were asked to advise parliament regarding the proposal that women be declared eligible to all court positions now held by men, a bill to that effect in the chamber of deputies being intended as the first important wedge to electoral equality. To the great surprise of the deputies, many of whom are noted as suffragists, the chamber of commerce committee says that such quality is undesirable just now, as apart from the peculiarities of the feminine temperament, women seldom are endowed with broad enough knowledge of juridical affairs to warrant their dealing with delicate questions of absolute justice.

Illusion.

They were dining tete-a-tete in the new hotel's restaurant—he striving to keep alive conversation grown strangely one-sided; she answering at random monosyllabically, when courtesy compelled response.
"I do so like this room," she suddenly declared enthusiastically, aglow with heightened color. "It's ever so much nicer than the big dining room."
"It is bright and cosy," he gallantly agreed. "Everything's new and fresh. That's what you like about it?"
"Y-e-s," she hesitantly conceded, a flush flooding her neck and throat. "But I like all those mirrors best. . . . You can flirt with such a lot of men in them and before they can really locate you, why—you're gone!"

FRISCO TALKS TO HONOLULU

New Radio Station at the Presidio Can Be Heard Half Way Around the Globe.

"Hello, Honolulu."
That may sound like fiction, but it is a reality, nevertheless.
The new radio station at the Presidio San Francisco, with aerial conditions right, can be heard half way around the globe. Officials in charge of construction declare it to be the most powerful vacuum tube transmitter on the Pacific coast.
Located on the highest point in the Presidio, overlooking San Francisco bay, two 150-foot aerial towers to augment its efficiency, the new station will command similar stations in Salt Lake City and Cheyenne.

Radiophones on German Trains.
Wireless telephone instruments will be installed on a number of important German express trains, and receiving instruments will be placed in hotels and embassies, according to an announcement made recently. Experiments conducted in a moving freight car have shown that the wireless system works well, the men engaged in the testing of the instruments being able to hold conversations with friends in Berlin. The tests were made under the observation of engineers, military attaches and the diplomatic representatives of the United States and Sweden.

Handling Vacuum Tubes.
When you handle the vacuum tubes of your receiver great care should be exercised that they are not knocked about or that the elements are broken. These little lamps are the heart and soul of the set. A good way to operate these tubes is to keep the glow just a little below the critical point.

ADVICE FOR AMATEURS.

The voltages applied to the plate circuits of amplifying tubes are not extremely critical and one voltage control will suffice. The detector tube, however, is often very critical and an efficient potentiometer will work wonders in controlling it.
Apparatus used for the reception of broadcasting is exactly the same as that used for the reception of code signals. The transmitting equipment, however, is different.

The use of a single wire for reception is advantageous because it lessens the amount of objectional interference in the way of static. It is equally as good as a multiple wire system for reception.

Defective "B" batteries will often cause roaring in the telephone receivers.

The electron often talked about is the smallest known quantity of negative electrical energy. In motion it makes up the electric current.

A "soft" vacuum tube is used as a detector tube and a "hard" vacuum tube as an amplifier. The terms "hard" and "soft" refer to degree of evacuation.

Radio waves travel at the same speed as light, namely 186,000 miles per second.

A wavemeter is an instrument used for checking up the wave lengths of sending and receiving stations.

Gas pipe or water pipe systems may be used for grounds, the latter being more advisable. Lightning protection secured by grounding the antenna when not in use is essential and is required by the underwriters.

Lighthouse Apparatus
The optical apparatus of house of Galia, an island of Tunisia, is entirely of great parabolic reflector, metallic mirror many lighted by means of 7 foot reflector with a focal length of and its 292,000 candle power usually be seen 30 miles at
