Ask Some One Who Was There!

On Tuesday May 3rd, at Dick's Theatre, the New Edison proved that there is no difference between its RE-CREATION of music and the original music. It was proof that would be good in any court of

If you did not attend, take the trouble to find out exactly what happened. Investigate all the details of this drastic test. It was given particularly for the music-lovers of Haskell,-so that they might know, through their own personal experience, that there is a phonograph which can give them the exact performance of the living artist.

Miss Helen Davis, popular mezzo-soprano made the test. She stood on the platform, beside the New Edison. She sang. In the midst of her song, she stopped singing. The New Edison took up the song, and continued it alone. Thus, they alternated,singer and phonograph.

The audience had to watch Miss Davis' lips, in order to be certain which was singing. The New Edison's triumph was complete and spectacular.

Miss Sibyl Sanderson Fagan made the same test of comparison with her whistling selections with the same successful result.

Remember that no other phonograph can sustain this test! Remember that you want a phonograph which does! And remember that the New Edison did it,-right here in Haskell.

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul."

You can have, in your own home, the exact kind of instrument used in the test. This was an Official Laboratory Model, taken from the home of Chas. McGregor, and was exactly like those we have in stock. Select any Official Laboratory Model in our store, and we will guarantee it to sustain the test of direct comparison, and to do everything that was done in the test at Dick's Theatre.

Ask us about our Budget Plan. It brings you this New Edison for a small payment. You don't have to sign an installment-house contract. A gentleman's agreement is good enough for us.

There were contestants from every grade in school. Thomas Murchison, a fifth grade pupil, was awarded the prize, He selected "The Declaration of Independence" by John Trumbull. The themes were judged by Mrs. Douglas.

Below is the winning Theme: "The Declaration of Independence" John Trumbull was born on June 6, 1756, at Lebanon, Conn., and died on November 30, 1843, at New York. He was the son of Jonathan Trumbull, a RESOURCES was the son of Jonathan Trumbull, a colonial governor. He was a graduate of Harvard. When he was only a mere boy he entered the American Revolutionary forces. In 1784 he studied under West in London. His picture, "The Declaration of Independence" was painted along with several others, in 1785 at Paris.

In the "Declaration of Independence" there is a central group of men standing around a table. These men probab ly are John Adams Henry Lee, and other important Revolutionary leaders. The man seated at the table is Thomas Jefferson. On the table are the papers pendence. In the background are the other people who composed the Second Continental Congress. ### DOWN IN THE HEEL

By MARIETTA A. BONNER.

(C by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

I do wish someone would be inspired to invent some sort of receptacle capable of comaining an eleventh portion of Satan's kingdom. I do wish that someone else would herd together all these creatures who have found it their "bounden duty to tell somebody something for their good." Then, last of all, what a blessingwhat unbounded joy-would there be if those who were "told" could crowd aforesald vessel with "tellers." Only yesterday I was perched on the lower rall of a fence in deep thought. You know, I am one of those people who just have to sit down when they think-and besides. ma had sent me two miles for milk. and I needed a rest. Before I had been there half a wink, along came one of the "in duty bound" talkers "Why, child alive," she cackled, "ain't your nose full of enough freckles now 'thout settin' on fence rails in August heat? Besides, It pears to me as if women twenty years old might find something else to do 'stend of spending the afternoon by the road!" She stalked on, kick ing up clouds of dust in a satisfied

I made no answer. She had spoken the truth. Here I was-dumpy, a double chin-not enough hair, and that bit straw colored-too many freckles. and each one flaming red-twenty years old, and still known as "Miss Katle."

"Everything is lovely-lovely-love ty." I told myself-"except me." Gathering up my pails. I gloomly began to trudge home. When I sat down at the table I al most forgot my troubles. "The whole world beautiful. I'm the ugliest thing in it," thished through my mind.

Before my eyes came floating myriad faces-plump, thin, oval round-all beautifully molded. There were round blue eyes, almost round black eyes, and brown eyes that sloped in slits. Girls, girls, and more girls. One dazzling creature bobbed up and down mockingly before me.

"She's the advertisement for that 'Get Pretty Chemical company,' " I cried aloud.

"What'd you say?" called ma from her room.

"Ma! Ma!" I shouted to reply. "where's those magazines Aunt Hester hought at the county fair last summer?"

"What in the name of sense d'ye want of them this hot day? They're up in the trunk room."

At first thought I drew back. Attics are no easy places to search when the heat is 96 under the trees. Then It came to my mind all at once that I had heard of one famous European enuty whose complexion had excited universal comment.

On the inside cover of the magazine, glowing in softest rose shades and sparkling at me, was the plump face I'd been searching for.

I stood up on a chair, took down my mirror, stuck it up against the lamp and began to set out the boxes. Somehow or other one of them rolled and in snatching at it I struck the lamp. The shade tipped of and crashed to the ground. In a panic I blew out the lamp, and then my heart sank.

I had no other shade, and if I went down for another ma would have to come up and see how it all had happened. Feeling cautiously among the pieces of glass on the table, I picked up one box and sniffed at it. "I'd better carry it to the window, thought I, but when I tried this,

MAY MORNING

By MOLLIE MATHER.

John Towne drove through the village on his quickest route to the city beyond. The ride was longer than he had anticipated, in his wish to avoid close trains, and the spring time vista of field and meadow, brought from him no conscious admiration. Above all things, was John practical, and this journey but a necessary factor in a necessary arrangement of his life's future plan. Jeremy Dawn, the success ful president of the great company in which John Towne himself had made his way, was dead. Jeremy Dawn had died several months ago; but John, installed as succeeding president, had been too busy to seek the carrying out of the plan which his superior unfolded to him on his sick bed,

The capable junior member of the business concern was well aware of the need of an efficient mistress in his home. The pretentious building that John had fitted for a dwelling, was to him merely a well ordered institution. Upon several past occasions where he had been a guest at Mr. Dawn's summer home, John had rec ognized the value of a woman's hos pitality and home management. The poise and intelligence of Mrs. Jeremy Dawn clarmed him. John Towne pictured his fature wife as just such a woman, and dispatred of finding this paragon of choice. Now, the wife that Jeremy Dawn had named for him was no other than his own daughter, the daughter of this perfect woman. The girl had been at college, John remembered, during his visits to the Dawn's home, but he had absolute confidence in his shrewd old friend's judgment.

As John Towne reached the last hill he decided, wearied of rough roads. to leave his car in town and continue the journey by rail. He drove up to a girl seated on a stile and asked the way to the village station.

"I have," John told her crossly. "Just ten minutes to make my train."

"That," pleasantly remarked the girl in the red sweater, "is nothing in my young life."

John stared, then he glared; which appeared to the pretty creature in-feresting but not disturbing. She continued the hum of her song as s'e started down bill. All at once, John realized amazingly the beauty of the morning, that pink flowers peeped be tween green leaves—that the girl's cheeks were rose plak too, that violets bordered the country road, that the girl's eyes were as deeply blue. She glanced back over her shoulder pres-ently, and smiled. John found himself giving an answering grin. It was very, very strange-it was undignified-but he wanted more than anything to hear her saucy speech again. "As I am going your way." descended, "I might as well take you

The girl tilted her chin. "Nobody asked you too, sir," she quoted. With an impulse inexplicable, be sought to detain her, "You are on your was to lage?" be persisted. The girl looked dem her pail.

"I was about to carry the milk is the farm house," she said. As he lingered a shrill whistle sou ed, the girl turned to him. "Your train has gone," nounced.

John Towne's impatience had "There will be no other going out until tonight," he stated calmly.

"I wonder if I could persuade the to give me luncheon at your farm house? I am beastly hungry."

The girl nodded in friendly fashion. "It's a country appetite," she ex-plained, "I will fetch you sandwiches." She sat beside him as he ate.

"I would like," said John Towns,
"to know your name." The girl laughed, turning her eyes upon him. "I." she replied, "am just May

"I thought you were," John agreed,
"when I first looked at you, all rose,
and violet, and laughing sunshine."
She frowned.
"When I saw you," she retorned.

To the motorist who has quit

A LONG about this time of year a man finds his motor-ing neighbors getting anxious about their tires. With folks expecting old tires to "pop" any minute, there comes the question of what kind of new ones to buy.

U. S. Tires are answering a lot of questions like this nowadays.

The U.S. Tire following embraces two kinds of tire buyers.

Those who started with quality first, and have never bought anything else but the quality standard tire.

Those who came to quality first only after dabbling with "bargains," "rebates," "job lot" and "surplus stock"

Getting one hundred cents value on the dollar in tire buying is a straight-forward business proposition - not guess-work or a game of wits.

The most essential man for you to know today is the local U. S. Tire dealer who is concentrating on a full, completely sized line of U.S. Tires.

He gets his U.S. Tires straight from his neighboring U. S. Tire Factory Branch - one of 92 such Branches established and maintained all over the country by the U. S. Tire makers.

He is the man who can give you fresh, live tires—not stuff shipped to him from some point where it did not sell, but new tires of current production.

Giving the same quality, selection and price-advantage to the owner of the medium weight car as the big car owner gets. With equal service and buying opportunity whether he lives in the smaller localities or the greater centers of population.

THE U. S. NOBBY TREAD

Where the going is specially heavy with snow, mud or sand, in hilly country where maximum traction on the road is a factor, no other tire tread yet devised is quite so effective, or so wholly approved by motoring opinion, as the U. S. Nobby Tread.

Its very simplicity—two diagonal rows of ob-long studs, interlocking in their grip on the road—is the result of all the years of U. S. Rubber experience with every type of road the world over.

I. N. Alvis,

In Memory of a Friend

On last Sunday morning, May 8th, 1921, the spirit of our loving friend, Francis Cadenhead, of Weinert, took its flight to that happy home prepared by our blessed Savior.

Tho' all was done that a devoted brother and other physicians could do the All Powerful Master seems to have said, "So sweet is my treasure, she must come home."

The operation by skilled men was done but still the voice of God whis-pered. "Man's skill is great for the relief of physicial suffering, but mine Haskell, Texas. is greater for the soul," so He called her higher on. So beautiful is the scene as we picture her on this beautiful morn of "Mother's Day" as her spirst took its flight to meet the mother who went on some years ago.

A voice whispers weep not, but still we weep for that beautiful face and sweet smile of true friendship which was always hers to give. Sweet are the thoughts that in a hone so beautiful as to far surpass all of earth's beau-ty she will dwell and we shall see again that sweet loving friend as she was, so we would say to loved ones: Weep no more; her going only makes heaven sweeter to us and a greater longing to go there, where no sad hours of part-

CARDUI HELPED REGAIN STRENGTH

Alabama Lady Was Sick For Three Years, Suffering Pain, Nervous and Depressed-Read Her Own Story of Rocovery.

Paint Rock, Ala.-Mrs. C. M. Stegall, of near here, recertly related the fol-lowing interesting account of her recovery: "I was in a weakened condition. I was sick three years in bed. suffering a great deal of pain, weak, nervous, depressed. I was so weak, nervous, depressed. I was so weak, I couldn't walk across the floor; just had to lay and my little ones do the work. I was almost dead. I tried every thing I heard of, and a number of doctors. Still I didn't get any relief. I couldn't est, and slept poorly. I believe if I hadn't heard of and taken Cardui I would have died. I bought six bottles, after a neighbor told me what it did for her.

"I began to eat and sleep, began to gain my strength and am now well and strong. I haven't had any trouble since . . . I sure can testify to the good that Cardul did me. I don't hink there is a better tonic made and I believe it saved my life."
