Rebels Tie Cooper In Thriller

The Rivercrest Rebels did Friday night what some sportswriters thought couldn't be done when they held Cooper's J.C. Morris to 41 yards rushing in the first half of play and tied the Bulldogs 22 to 22 in what can only be termed a spectator's game at Rebel Stadium.

What J.C. Morris does to most opponents is demoralizing at best and disgusting at worst, but by the time the Rebel defense pounded Morris throughout the first half, the talented ball carrier showed signs of losing his jest for carrying the ball.

It's really difficult to assess who did the best job against the Bulldogs Friday night—the Rebel offense, who put 22 points on the board, or the Rebel defense, who held again and again against the Bulldogs.

Credit must also go to the Rebel coaching staff, who obviously had done some excellent scouting and an outstanding job of convincing the Rebels that they could do what no other football team has been able to do against the Bulldogs with a balanced team effort. Cooper's J.C. Morris made 171 yards rushing, and most of that in the last quarter.

Scouts who saw the Rebels play last week against Hawkins must have thought that Jimmy Via was the Rebels main weapon, but this week it was Kip Stansell who rushed for 118 yards on the ground and threw four passes good for 102 yards. Gregg Norman caught all four of those passes, two for touchdowns. Via made 66 yards, Billy Scales made 32 yards and Eddie Belcher made 54 yards.

Although the score was tied, the Rebels beat the Bulldogs on the ground, beat them in the air and beat them in first downs. Cooper gained 246 yards on the ground and Rivercrest had 276. Cooper completed two passes for 60 yards and Rivercrest completed four for 102. Cooper made 14 first downs and Rivercrest made 21. In total offense, the Rebels earned 378 yards to 306 for the Bulldogs.

It was the center of the Rebel line that closed up against Morris again and again. Keith House was planted in Morris' path and refused to budge. Belcher closed the left end, and Jimmy Via, Bradley Smith, Edward Deaton and David Birchfield played excellent defensive games. Junior Dale Jean as corner back was responsible for several key

That the Rebels were going to be no pushover for Morris was evident early in the game, when the Bulldogs were forced to punt on their first possession and then the Rebels started their first drive. The Rebels lost the ball when Billy Scales fumbled, but the Rebel defense held the 'Dogs again to force a punt.

With the ball on their own 23 yard line, the Rebs drove to the Cooper 16 early in the second quarter before the drive died.

Cooper gained their first score by completing a pass from David James to James Roan for 42 yards and a pass from James to David Preas to the Rivercrest 12 yard line. Morris scored from there, but the try for extra points was no good.

The Rebels bounced back with a drive from their 30 yard line, making four first downs on their way to the goal line. Stansell's 15 yard pass to Gregg Norman was good for 15 yards to the Rivercrest 18 yard line, then Via ran a slant pattern through heavy traffic for the score. The Rebels were also unable to convert the extra points, and the score was tied, 6-6 at the end of the first half.

The Rebels took the lead in the third quarter when Stansell completed a pass to Norman in the end zone for seven yards. The score was set up with a 37 yard run by Eddie Belcher to the Cooper 21 yard line.

A Cooper score in the third quarter, when heat and fatigue began to take its toll on the Rebels, was followed by an onside kick on which the Bulldogs took possession of the ball and scored again, taking the lead, 22 to 14.

Stansell connected on a 60 yard pass play with Gregg Norman for another TD, and Stansell then struggled across the goal for the extra points and to tie the score.

The Rebel defense held Cooper through four downs, taking possession on their own 22 yard line. A screen pass to Via was good for 20 yards, then Via ran for 10 and Stansell made 20, down to the Cooper 26 yard line. With 29 seconds to go, Stansell tried four passes to Norman, but an interception on the final down ended the drive with six seconds to go.

Jimmy Smith insured the tie when he sacked Cooper quarterback David James for a loss on the last play of the game.

The Rebels will play Whitewright there September 22 at 8 p.m.

Education Or Vocation Choice Offered

Will it be education or vocation after graduation?

An answer to that question and the subsequent planning for either school or job are facing Rivercrest High School students, especially juniors and seniors, as they begin the 1978-79 school year.

Guidance counselors, parents, friends, and a national service called the ACT Assessment Program will play important roles in that decision-making and planning for many of the students.

Designed to provide extensive guidance information for education and career planning, the well known and widely used ACT Assessment Program is recommended for use by student applicants at nearly 2,700 colleges, universities, and scholarship programs.

Rivercrest students will have five opportunities during the 1978-79 school year to make use of the national program, which consists of four tests and a two-part questionnaire. Students complete the questionnaire at home as part of the program's registration process, and then take the battery of tests at area test centers on any of five weekend national test dates, said Bonnie Huddleston, Counselor.

The five 1978-79 national test dates (and corresponding registration periods) are:

- October 21, 1978 (August 7-September 22)
- December 9, 1978 (October 9-November 10)
- February 10, 1979 (November 27-January 12)
- April 17, 1979 (January 29-March 9)
- June 23, 2979 (March 26-May 25)

At area test centers on those five dates it takes students about three hours to complete the ACT Assessment's four exams covering subject areas of English, math, social studies, and natural sciences. On any of the five test dates, most local students will take the tests at Paris Junior College.

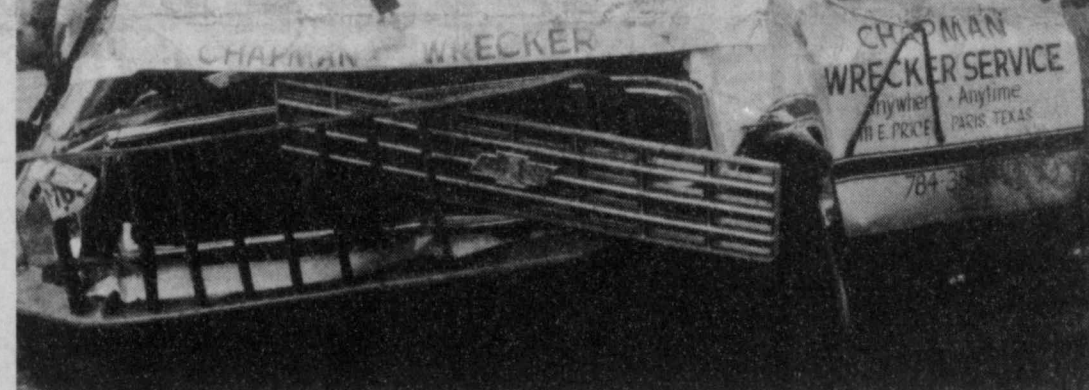

Mrs. Huddleston said the test scores provide an assessment of general educational development and the questionnaire section information focuses on academic and nonacademic accomplishments and interests, anticipated needs, as well as career and educational interests and plans. The basic student fee for using the ACT Assessment Program this year remains $7.50.

In addition to being used by students and their high school counselors, the extensive information provided by the ACT Assessment is also used by colleges for academic advising, admissions counseling, course sectioning and placement, student services, and institutional research. The students' ACT Assessment reports are sent to only those colleges specifically designated by the respective students.

One of several educational services provided by The American College Testing Program (ACT), the ACT Assessment Program is used each year by more than 900,000 students as part of their education and career planning.

The building houses everything in the way of building materials, including a full line of Jones-Blair Paint products, as well as a large assortment of leather equipment and insecticides and herbicides for farmers.

No stranger to the building industry, Bryson has built homes in the Bogata area for the better part of ten years, though this is his first effort in the actual business of building supplies. Previous to their present venture, Mr. and Mrs. Bryson were actively engaged in The Bryson Insurance Agency. Purchasing the agency in 1956, they assisted his father in the insurance business prior to that time.

Familiar with supplies and hardware related business, Mr. and Mrs. Bryson will be able to fulfill any needs that a builder could require in their beautiful new building, located on North Main Street in Bogata.

Swine Show Expanded

The Farm Bureau is currently involved in a nationwide harvest of ideas.

Annual meetings will be held in September and October in more than 2,800 counties across the country. The purpose of this grass-roots effort is to find out the thinking of farmers and ranchers on a multitude of issues.

The Red River County Farm Bureau annual meeting will be October 12 at the Detroit High School in Detroit starting at 7:00 p.m. Members who produce agricultural commodities are being encouraged to attend and participate in development of policies for 1979.

Resolutions adopted at the meeting pertaining to strictly local matters will become the county policies for next year. Those approved recommendations dealing with all other matters will be forwarded to the state and national conventions which will be held this winter.

At every step along the way, only bona fide agricultural producers may vote on policies and hold office in the Farm Bureau. Policies are not made by taking an opinion poll, but are adopted by majority vote after discussion and debate.

The Farm Bureau is trying to get as many producer-members as possible to participate in policy development. It feels that a lot of people are wiser than just a few.

This activity represents democracy in action. It's worth doing right.

Farm Bureau Urges Meeting Attendance

This year visitors to the Red River County Fair will notice quite a few changes in the hog barn and swine show. The building has been remodeled to a complete hog barn with cement floors and even a hog washing pen.

A special committee, headed up by Olen Jesse of the Cuthand Community, is responsible for the improvements.

The major change is the development of a Market Hog Show and Sale. Several FFA and 4-H members started their market hog June 1, 1978, on feed to compete in this special division. To qualify for the sale, their hog must weigh between 190 and 250 pounds. The show will be at 9:00 a.m. Friday, September 22.

The following day, the hogs will be offered at public auction to the people of the county. The hogs are expected to sell for slightly above market prices. Two additional services will be provided for the buyers of the hogs. A pig barbecue for the buyers will be furnished for lunch after the sale. Also transportation to the slaughter plant will be provided if the buyer so desires. The sale is a good opportunity to put a hog in the freezer plus help some 4-H or FFA member.

Also in addition to the hog show, the regular open hog show will be held. Be sure and visit the hog show when you attend the Red River County Fair, September 20-23.

Wood Decay Can Be Prevented

Home construction technology has increased tremendously during the past few years. Yet, many homes are being built without proper attention to preventing future costly repairs, according to Chuck Stayton, area wood products specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Lumber, plywood and other wood products used in construction are all subject to wood decay. This decay, caused by numerous fungi that break down the wood and use it as a food source, can lead to structural failure and expensive repairs.

"The best control of wood decay is keeping wood products dry in manufacturing, shipment and use," Stayton contends. "When the moisture content of wood is kept below 20 percent, most decay fungi are not able to decompose the wood."

"Twelve basic construction faults cause most decay problems," the specialist says.

"These mistakes allow excessive moisture to enter the house from the ground level or from rainfall. Certain steps can be taken both before and during construction to prevent future problems."

"Six specific precautions should be taken to prevent soil moisture from entering a house," Stayton says. "Wood siding should be installed at least six inches above finish grade. All other wood material should be a minimum of eight inches above the ground unless it is pressure preservative treated," he outlined.

"Secondly, an 18 inch or higher clearance should be provided between floor joists and the soil in crawl space areas. Greater distance is more desirable."

"Third, slope the outside grade away from the house to allow proper drainage. Ditching or drainage tiles may be necessary for some locations. Fourth, install one square foot of vent for each 150 square feet of enclosed crawl space. Vents should be placed opposite each other and as near corners as possible," he cautioned.

"Next, use four to six mil polyethylene soil covers directly on the soil in enclosed crawl space areas and under all slab construction. The final step in preventing soil moisture damage is to take special precautions with earth filled porches, patios and flower planters, keeping the soil 8 inches below the level of all house structural wood members. Slope patios and porches away from the house to prevent standing water."

Six precautions are also recommended in roof construction to prevent wood decay. "Wood shingles should be of a highly decay resistant species or pressure treated when used in high decay hazard regions. A minimum slope of four feet in 12 feet is needed to prevent water backing up under the shingles," Stayton contends.

"Secondly, provide enough roof overhang to sweep runoff away from the house. A 30 inch overhang is needed in regions of high temperature and rainfall such as the Gulf region of Texas. Next, extend shingles at least three-fourths of an inch beyond wood members at the eave and rake of the roof to prevent rain water flowing down the roof and curling under the shingle edge. Facia and rake boards should be pressure treated or of a high decay resistant species."

"The fourth precaution is to make sure gutters are sloped toward downspouts to insure proper drainage. Gutters and downspouts should be kept free of leaves or other debris and should empty onto splash blocks or into drainpipes. Next, raise the siding two inches above the shingles at the intersection of two stories or between dormers and roof surfaces. Insert metal flashing which extends under the shingles and siding. Finally, provide ventilation in attic areas. Vents, located at or near the roof ridge and at the eaves, should provide one square foot of vent for each 150 square feet of attic," Stayton concludes.

"Major decay problems that have plagued homeowners for years may be avoided by giving special attention to these problem areas," Stayton predicts. "Studies have shown

THE LEGISLATURE

YOUR REPRESENTATIVE'S REPORT

By L.P. (Pete) Patterson

The clouds came but very little rain has fallen. The Legislature met but very little tax relief was granted. At least that is the way it is while I am writing this article. I hope we can see some rain before you read this. As far as tax relief granted during the special session of the legislature is concerned, we will have to wait and see.

HB 1 dealing with inheritance tax and also the sales tax on utilities will no doubt help for years to come. However, the citizens have the final say on the constitutional amendment. I am still trying to solve some unanswered questions in my own mind regarding HJR 1 (the constitutional amendment). Personally, I don't like ad valorem tax because it is very hard to be fair with it. We continue to penalize citizens who try to improve their property.

My first question is, what effect will this amendment have on the tax base of schools, counties, and cities in the future. Is it initiating a trend toward a school system that will be completely state funded that failure to follow these guidelines causes most decay problems in residential housing. The best time to prevent decay is before the house is built."

TURN ON

Please feel free to write or call my office if you have any questions regarding this or other legislature matters. You may write Rep. L.P. (Pete) Patterson, P.O. Box 2910, Austin, Texas 78769 or call area code 512 475-5727. I look forward to hearing from you.

"I've already started my search for waste in the state budget. I want to be ready to tackle overspending the minute I take office as Governor in January. ## HUD Reserves

Ark-TEX Council

Congressman Sam B. Hall, Jr. announced today that the Department of Housing and Urban Development has reserved $168,816 for the Ark-TEX Council of Governments for use in the counties of Delta, Franklin, Hopkins, Lamar, Red River, and Titus. These Section 8 Existing Housing Assistance Payments Program funds will be used for an additional 100 units of housing for elderly and low income families, bringing the total to 597 units.

Shuckworms

Damage Pecans

Last year the hickory shuckworms damaged a large amount of pecans in Red River County. The larvae are white with a dark brown head and feed in shucks of developing pecans during soft and hand dough stage. Tunneling by the larvae results in tissue destruction and will not allow pecans to fill out. If damage occurs late in the season, the shuck will not open properly and usually result in the nut meat turning black and unfit for human consumption.

Time for spraying is the key of successfully controlling the shuckworm. The spray should be applied when the shell is beginning to harden while cutting the pecan. This can be determined by carefully cutting into the pecan. When resistance is felt, or when you feel the shell beginning to harden while cutting the pecan, the first application should be made. This should be around the early part of September in this area. It is suggested that a second application be made in 10-14 days to control late larvae. Chemicals which have been effective for shuckworm control are Guthion or Folone.

Serious pecan growers should realize that to produce quality pecans that a year round management practice must be used. Anyone who would like to obtain more information on pecan management can contact any agricultural agent at the Red River County Extension Service.

Cotton Plays Key Role In Economy

Income from cotton plays a key role in Texas' economy.

The production and processing of this natural fiber generates more than $2 billion in the state's business activity each year. Multiply this figure by the $2.50 to $3.00 which the federal government estimates is created by every dollar of cotton industry revenue, and it is easy to see why cotton's continued progress is so vital to the Lone Star State.

Cotton contributes vitally needed tax dollars to help keep state programs and services rolling. Tax revenues derived from sales and income associated with cotton exceed $66.2 million annually.

More than 27,500 businesses in Texas are centered around cotton. These include farms, gins, cottonseed oil mills, warehouses, raw cotton merchandising firms, and textile mills. Together, these cotton businesses provide jobs for 69,448 Texans.

African Swine Fever Threatening U.S.

African Swine Fever, probably the most deadly of all hog diseases, is rapidly spreading through the western hemisphere and is posing a serious threat to swine in the United States. Bob Moody, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says each livestock producer can help prevent the spread of the disease should an outbreak occur in this county.

The disease was reported in Brazil in early June and one month later had spread to the Dominican Republic, which is less than 100 miles from Puerto Rico.

Moody describes African Swine Fever as a virus disease which spreads rapidly within a herd, killing most of the swine. Some types may have a lower mortality rate, allowing some pigs to survive and spread the disease.

Since rapid diagnosis is the key to halting the spread of diseases, any disease causing swine to die rapidly should be reported immediately to a veterinarian. The Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic lab has trained personnel to diagnose ASF, hog cholera and other swine and livestock diseases.

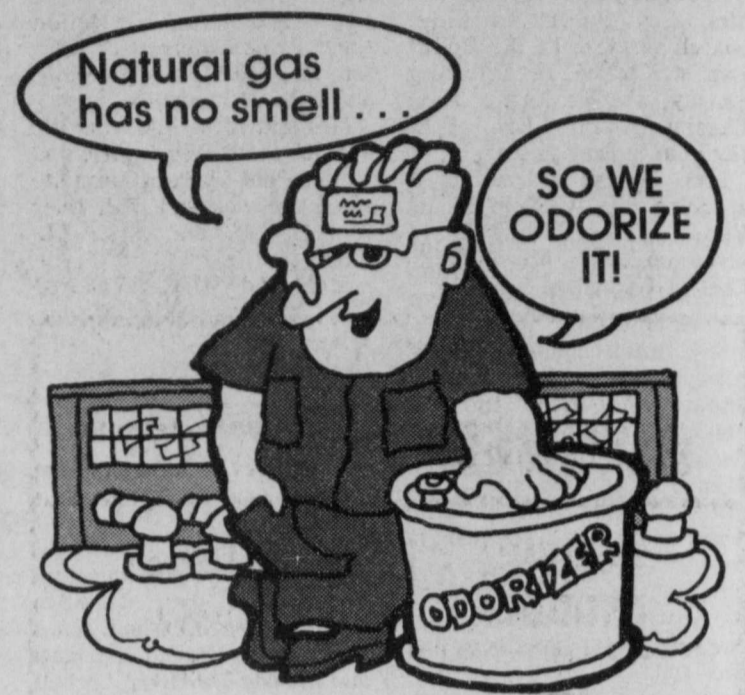

Federal authorities are responsible for preventing the entrance of exotic animal diseases into the United States, but vigilant producers can provide valuable assistance through prompt reporting.

What about the spreading of ASF? Since infected uncooked pork scraps in garbage can transmit the virus, the spread of ASF into Brazil and the Dominican Republic was probably by infected pork scraps fed to swine, usually near an airport or seaport.

Along with thoroughly cooking all garbage fed to swine, Moody recommends that producers watch swine closely on a daily basis for any abnormal conditions. Hogs may die in four to seven days after showing a fever. Initial signs of ASF may be depression, skin discoloration or reddish to purple blotches appearing on the ears, fetlocks or flank region. Some pigs show rapid breathing, coughing and incoordination. The appetite with ASF may remain normal even during a period of fever.

Moody advises swine producers to notify their veterinarian or contact a state or federal veterinarian if ASF or hog cholera is suspected. Isolate sick hogs and restrict movement of persons, vehicles, animals and equipment. In particular, do not move any swine until a proper diagnosis has been made.

Most natural gas has no odor at all.

The gas we deliver to your home or business DOES have an odor, because we put one into it. A harmless chemical odorant we've added as a safety precaution to help you detect its presence if there should be a leak.

If you smell gas, and the odor is light, check your appliances.

If the odor is strong and persistent:

1. Do not turn on any lights, electric switches or appliances.
2. Ventilate your home by opening doors and windows.
3. Call Arkla Gas immediately.
4. Turn off the gas valve located at your meter.

Natural gas has a better safety record than any other form of energy. Please help us keep it that way.

Digital Switching

We're using it to hold the line on higher phone rates.

Every dollar we can shave off our operating expenses is a dollar that helps us delay the need for rate increases. Our objective, of course, is to hold the line on operating costs without reducing the quality of your telephone service.

Sometimes this requires Continental to invest huge sums of money in technological advancements that, in the long run, save money. Digital switching is one of these advancements.

Digital switching equipment not only helps us control costs with reduced maintenance requirements, but also provides better noise levels and faster service when you dial a number.

It handles more calls with fewer trunk lines, yet occupies about 80% less floor space than conventional equipment.

Installed in areas where fast growth is expected, the new equipment will let us meet the growth without the expense of building new facilities.

Because the rates you pay for telephone service are based on our costs of doing business throughout our system, digital switching works in your behalf wherever we install it.

It's one of the ways we're doing our best to do more for you.

PUBLIC NOTICE SUMMARY OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS GENERAL ELECTION NOV. 7, 1978

"The Tax Relief Amendment" (H.J.R. 1)

H.J.R. 1 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution allowing the legislature to exempt intangible personal property, requiring the legislature to exempt certain household goods and personal effects, and allowing the legislature to exempt all or part of the personal property homestead from state and local property taxation.

The amendment requires the legislature to provide for the taxation of farm and ranch land on the basis of its productive capacity instead of its market value and allows the legislature to provide for the taxation of timber land on its productive capacity.

The amendment permits local governments to extend the present exemption of not less than $3,000 of the residence homestead of persons 65 and older to include certain disabled persons.

The amendment grants an exemption from public school property taxes of $5,000 of the market value of the residence homestead. It authorizes the legislature to grant an additional exemption from public school property taxes of an amount not to exceed $10,000 of the market value of the residence homesteads of persons 65 years of age or older and certain disabled persons. If a person 65 years of age or older qualifies for this exemption, the total amount of public school taxes imposed on that person's homestead may not be increased.

The amendment prevents local governments from increasing property taxes unless the governing body provides public notice and conducts a public hearing. The amendment requires the legislature to provide by law for each property owner to receive notice of the revaluation of his property and the amount taxes will be increased.

The amendment limits appropriations from state tax revenue to an amount not to exceed Texas' estimated economic growth rate, with the legislature authorized to make exceptions for emergencies.

The amendment prohibits the statewide appraisal of real property for property tax purposes. Enforcement of uniform standards and procedures for appraisal of property for property tax purposes is required to originate in the taxing authority where the property tax is imposed.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment providing for tax relief for residential homesteads, elderly persons, disabled persons, and agricultural land; for personal property exemptions; for truth in taxation procedures, including citizen involvement; for a redefinition of the tax base; for limitations on state spending; and for property tax administration."

NUMBER ONE (S.J.R. 50)
S.J.R. 50 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to delete an archaic reference to the "Deaf and Dumb Asylum." The amendment would allow the State of Texas to purchase products and services done by handicapped individuals in nonprofit rehabilitation facilities without complying with bid requirements applicable to other state contracts. The amendment also would eliminate the formality of the approval of certain state contracts by the Governor, the Secretary of State and the Comptroller of Public Accounts.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment deleting the archaic reference to the 'Deaf and Dumb Asylum,' allowing certain products and services of handicapped individuals to be used by agencies and departments of state government, requiring the procurement of other products and services required in the operation of state government to be made under bids awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, making all such procurement processes subject to laws enacted by the legislature, and eliminating the requirement that the Governor, the Secretary of State, and the Comptroller of Public Accounts of Texas be personally involved with such transactions."

bonds would be payable solely from the revenue from the sale or lease of these facilities. The building or acquisition of such facilities must be determined by the local government to be necessary to develop employment opportunities.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to provide that the legislature may permit political subdivisions to issue revenue bonds to develop employment opportunities for its citizens."

NUMBER THREE (S.J.R. 44)
S.J.R. 44 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution which would allow the legislature to authorize cities and towns to issue tax increment bonds to finance the redevelopment of blighted areas. The bonds are to be paid solely from revenue from municipal tax increments. Payment cannot be made from the revenue of municipal taxes, utilities, or other services.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to give the legislature the power to authorize cities and towns to issue bonds to finance the redevelopment of blighted areas and prohibiting any city or town from granting its money or lending its credit for such purposes."

NUMBER FOUR (S.J.R. 53)
S.J.R. 53 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to allow the legislature to exempt from taxation solar or wind-powered energy devices.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to exempt from taxation solar and wind-powered energy devices."

NUMBER FIVE (H.J.R. 37)
H.J.R. 37 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to grant exclusive jurisdiction to justices of the peace in civil cases where the amount in controversy does not exceed $200, except where the legislature gives exclusive jurisdiction to another court.

The amendment grants justices of the peace concurrent jurisdiction with county courts where the amount in controversy is between $200 and $500, except where the legislature gives the county court exclusive jurisdiction.

The amendment also grants justices of the peace concurrent jurisdiction with county courts where the amount in controversy is between $200 and $500, except where the legislature gives the county court exclusive jurisdiction.

The amendment also grants justices of the peace concurrent jurisdiction with county courts where the amount in controversy is between $200 and $500, except where the legislature gives the county court exclusive jurisdiction.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendments authorizing certain districts to engage in fire-fighting activities and to issue bonds or otherwise indebtedness or to issue bonds or otherwise lend their credit for fire-fighting purposes."

NUMBER EIGHT (H.J.R. 42)
H.J.R. 42 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution allowing certain political subdivisions or districts in the state that can presently issue bonds or otherwise indebtedness or otherwise lend their credit to support such activities.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendments authorizing certain districts to engage in fire-fighting activities and to issue bonds or otherwise indebtedness or to issue bonds or otherwise lend their credit for fire-fighting purposes."

Program can help you use energy more efficiently and lower your home operating costs. N.E.W. homes have been checked for many energy and money saving features, such as: proper insulation; windows and doors that are caulked and weatherstripped; efficient water heating; attic ventilation and correctly sized heating and cooling equipment.

When you build, buy or remodel, make sure your home meets the N.E.W. standards. An energy efficient home, combined with wise home energy management, can help save you money from now on!

Community Public Service Company urges you to take action in this project to save energy and money. For more information on the National Energy Watch Program, call Community Public Service Company.

That's because he's still listed as just "Michael W. Leon" in the telephone directory. There's no mention of his wife Joan. Nor their three teenagers. After all, don't they deserve their own listings?

Well now you can let everybody know about the great things happening in your life with the new edition of your telephone directory. It's going to press soon. So if you're about to make any changes or add a dual name listing, now's the time to do it.

Mrs. Choate Presides At General UMW

Fourteen members of Methodist United Women met at the church Monday afternoon for their regular meeting. Mrs. Joe Choate, president, led the opening prayer and presided over the meeting.

Two film strips were shown, "Women In The Bible" and "Land of Endless Mountains". In the business meeting, more plans were discussed for the bazaar to be held November 11, in the Lowry building of the church. Mrs. Jack Troutt is general chairman of the bazaar. There will be something for everyone that day and a turkey dinner will be served at noon. Make plans to attend. This will be the ideal time to get Christmas decorations and gifts.

The dismissal was repeated in unison.

Royal Rangers Have Meeting

The Royal Rangers, a program for boys ages 5 through 17, got off to a good start in Talco last Tuesday evening with 17 boys attending the first meeting.

Also present were the Rev. McLain, pastor of Talco Assembly of God; David Moore, Sectional Commander of the Royal Rangers program; and the leaders of the local program—Brad White-Findeisen, Nadine Cabell and Ron Presley. One leader not able to attend was Jerry Hearron.

The Royal Ranger program is a program sponsored by the Assemblies of God for all boys who might be interested in a scouting program that helps boys to develop physically, mentally, socially and spiritually. The program includes over 300,000 boys in the continental United States and many other boys in over 30 other nations around the world.

If you are interested in the Royal Ranger program, you can find out more by calling Rev. McLain at 379-3851. Meetings are held at Talco City Hall on Tuesday evenings from 7-8:30.

Not Today

"How many of you would like to go to heaven?" asked the Sunday school teacher. All the four-year-olds raised their hands — except John. "I'm sorry," he said. "I can't go because my mother told me to come home right after Sunday school."
