Soil Test Now For Spring Planting

By Gary Bomar
County Extension Agent
Soil tests may be taken at any time of the year. So why wait until bad weather sets in this fall or the rush of spring to take a soil sample. Numerous studies have shown that nutrient levels and soil Ph levels do not change rapidly so that soil samples can be collected well ahead of planting.

The Red River County Extension Service can provide anyone with information plus forms to take a soil sample. There is a sheet for field crops and pastures which asks crop or forage to be grown plus a past history of the field.

Also, for you home gardeners, the extension office has some forms for soil testing in lawns and gardens and flower beds, which would make your gardens more productive and lawns and flowers more attractive.

After sending the soil test to the lab, you will receive the analysis within 3 to 4 weeks. Contained in the analysis will be soil fertility levels, suggested fertilizer rates, Ph levels; plus suggested liming rates.

Cost for the regular soil test is $2. If you desire a test which in addition to the regular test gives iron, zinc and manganese levels, the cost is $5 per sample.

Therefore, if you have not taken a soil test of your field or pastures within the past few years, contact the Agricultural Extension Service in the Baker Street Annex, Clarksville, or phone 427-2493 for further information.

Homemakers Sponsor Rock-A-Thon

The Rivercrest Future Homemakers of America will sponsor a Rock-a-Thon on Saturday, October 14 from 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., to raise funds for the March of Dimes.

Prior to that time, members will be soliciting pledges to be paid according to the number of hours rocked, and also distributing materials related to the prevention of birth defects.

All students and other interested persons are invited to bring a rocking chair downtown and join the effort. Prizes will be awarded for first, second and third place, according to the amount of money collected.

Members collected more than $800 last year.

Red River 4-H'ers Celebrate National 4H Week

The 250 4-H members in Red River County will be among 5.5 million across the United States celebrating National 4-H Week October 1-7, points out Wilma Hall, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

A number of special activities are planned in relation to this national observance, which has as its 1978 theme, "4-H-Freedom to Be."

The 4-H members are conducting a Rally Day on Saturday, September 30 and concern for others, points out Ms. Hall.

4-H continues to be a highly flexible program and continues to expand and adapt to the changing needs and interests of young people. Project areas continue to expand, providing youth with many learning-by-doing experiences that will help them grow into productive, contributing members of society. 4-H helps youth learn skills to cope with real-life situations today as well as to prepare for the years ahead, emphasizes Ms. Hall.

"Each situation will be an individual case based on its own merits-management differences, such as grazing or fertilizer rates, will make variations in production losses," he continued. Many farmers and ranchers are under the impression that they have only a short time to apply for this loss loan. "This is not so," said Stroud. "They have until August 23, 1979, to file for losses due to drought occurring after June of this year."

"Next, since the loan is based upon the loss incurred, it naturally follows that until the loss has been determined, it is not possible to figure the amount of the loss loan. So the 1978 crop must be in and sold, this includes cattle operation, before good concrete planning can be carried out. Hay and grazing losses are eligible for the loan losses," said Stroud. Applications are now being taken at 213 N. Walnut Street, Clarksville, Texas.

Bentsen Announces Funding For Big Pine

Senator Lloyd Bentsen announced Wednesday that Congress has approved funding to begin construction on Big Pine Lake in Northeast Texas.

Bentsen said $900,000 for the project is included in the Public Works Appropriation Bill for fiscal 1979, which now goes to the President.

"This action is good news. The Administration has included nothing in its budget request for this important project. I testified in favor of it earlier this year and I am pleased that my colleagues in Congress agreed," Bentsen said.

"Located in the Lower Red River Basin, this lake was authorized by Congress in 1962. It will provide needed flood control capability, municipal water and will serve as a recreation area," Senator Bentsen said.

"Celebration Texas Style" Theme

"Celebration-Texas Style," loud, boisterous and bigger than all outdoors is a description aptly fitting the nation's largest annual exposition, the State Fair of Texas.

From October 6-22, more than three million visitors are expected to pour through the gates to join in the 1978 State Fair of Texas, a 17 day festival packed with music, color and action.

Fairtime activities span a cultural and entertainment spectrum from musical comedy to rodeo, fashion shows to football, Suffolk lambs to jellies and jams.

"A Chorus Line," acclaimed by critics and audiences as the Broadway hit of the 70's will open at the State Fair of Texas on October 3. This award-winning musical is built around

Sherry Blakely Honored With Tea

Sherry Blakely, bride-elect of Rex Huddleston, was honored with a gift tea at the Fellowship Hall of First Baptist Church in Bogata on Thursday evening, September 28.

Guests were greeted by the honoree; her mother, Mrs. Barney Gayler; and the future bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Gilbert Huddleston. Mrs. Donald Mankins presided at the registry.

Refreshments of frosted punch, decorated cake squares, nuts, and mints were served by Mrs. George Marshall and Mrs. Frank Stubblefield. An arrangement of carnations in the bride's chosen colors of lime green, ivory, and apricot centered the serving table which was covered with a floor length cloth of green overlaid with a floral sheer. Appointments were of crystal and silver.

The hostesses gift to the bride was a Sunbeam electric skillet.

Hostesses were Mrs. Eldon Chaloner, Mrs. Jim Bill Chaloner, Mrs. Clarence Barnett, Mrs. Bill White, Mrs. Dennis Tackett, Mrs. Pete Taylor, Mrs. Mack Glover, Mrs. Mankins, Mrs. Marshall, and Mrs. Stubblefield.

The bride received an array of lovely gifts.

The Craft Village and the Embarcadero are especially fun for those with an itch to buy. The Craft Village is for the art-minded, while the Embarcadero features unusual gifts from jewelry to T-shirts.

The State Fair is a kaleidoscope for all, with fashion shows daily and football mania surrounding a multitude of activities, a true "Celebration-Texas Style."

Transportation Assistance To Elderly

The United States Congress, realizing the need to increase mobility of elderly and handicapped citizens by improving access to transportation facilities, passed Section 16b(2) of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended. The purpose of this program is to furnish capital assistance to private nonprofit organizations providing transportation to the elderly and handicapped.

According to L.L. Jester, Jr., District Engineer of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, under the 16b(2) program the State of Texas has been allocated $1,189,000 in federal funding for the 1978 fiscal year.

This program, administered by the Urban Mass Transportation Administration with assistance from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, will provide funds to private nonprofit agencies to purchase vehicles and related equipment for transportation of the elderly and handicapped.

Interested individuals or organizations may obtain information and grant applications by contacting Bill Runnels, Planning Engineer, P.O. Box 890, Atlanta, Texas 75551 (area code 214 796-2851).

Don't Be Alarmed By Gas And Electricity Bills

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Friday said Texas homeowners and renters should not be alarmed if their October gas and electricity bills continue to carry the state and local sales tax.

"Under the law, the utility companies will continue adding the tax on their October bills if their billing cycle begins before October 1, Bullock said.

The Texas Legislature voted in special session earlier this year to repeal the four percent state sales tax on residential gas and electric bills effective October 1.

In addition, some 125 Texas cities have also eliminated the local-option, one percent city sales tax on those bills effective the same time.

Under the law, the repeal of the sales tax actually is effective with the start of the utility companies billing period on or after October 1.

This means, Bullock explained, that a customer whose billing period is October 3 through November 3 will get advantage of the tax break as of October 3.

A customer whose billing cycle is September 25 through October 25 will continue to pay the sales tax through October 25, he said.

Bullock said that homeowners and renters needn't jump on their utility companies about the sales tax on the October bills.

"They are only following the law," Bullock said.

He said elimination of the state sales tax on gas and electric bills will save homeowners and renters $150 million a year.

Senate Action

Prevents OHSA

From Spending Funds

Senate action prohibiting the Occupational Safety and Health Administration from spending funds before May, 1979, to enforce the cotton dust standards was hailed today by National Cotton Council President Lon Mann.

Action came on passage of an amendment offered by Sen. Bennett Johnston to the Labor-HEW Appropriations bill.

"We are encouraged by passage of the amendment. The Council had applied for a stay of the standards pending judicial review, but was turned down by the Labor Department," Mann stated.

"If the amendment can be retained in the House-Senate conference on the bill, enforcement of the costly and highly inflationary standards will be delayed until the Congress has the opportunity to examine their impact and feasibility," Mann said.

Too Many Nutrients Cause Problems

By Wilma Hall County Extension Agent Eating too many nutrients causes major problems among U.S. consumers. For years, major efforts in nutrition have focused on assuring a balanced diet with the recommended servings from the basic four food groups.

Now, the major problem in this country is not getting enough nutrients, but consumers eating too many nutrients. As a result, one fourth of the population is believed to be overweight or obese.

Food fads have been quite rampant because people really don't know the facts about foods and nutrition.

Most people are interested in foods and nutrition, but just don't know enough about the contributions of some food items such as fiber, cholesterol fats, vitamins and minerals. Instead, they resort to various nutrition information which often is based on fallacy.

Nutrition has gained importance on the local, county, state and national levels. More and more legislation is directed toward nutrition, especially as it relates as one of the causes of the major diseases. Currently, the USDA is conducting a food consumption survey to determine what the major problem areas in nutrition are. Many nutrition programs—such as Women, Infants and Children's Programs, Food Stamp Program and programs for the aged have been formed to meet the ever-increasing nutritional needs of the population.

By the year 2030, it is projected that older adults will comprise one fifth of the population. Nutritional problems of the older adult includes osteoporosis and anemia. Diet can improve 75 percent of the cases of osteoporosis affecting 25 to 30 percent of women and 15 to 20 percent of males. Twenty-five percent of older adults have also anemia due to lack of iron, protein and certain vitamins.

Effective nutrition education must focus on problem areas. If you would like further information concerning questions about foods and nutrition, please contact the local extension office. Also, start planning meals on a balanced diet

Dept. Of Interior Authorizes $96.6 Million In Payments

Congressman Sam B. Hall, Jr. announced today that the Department of the Interior has authorized payments totaling $96.6 million by the Bureau of Land Management to 1,582 local governments throughout the United States with certain tax exempt Federal lands. These payments are made annually in lieu of property taxes which could otherwise be levied on certain Federal lands. Current payments are for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1978, and the U.S. Treasury is to mail these checks out on September 29.

The Payments in Lieu of Taxes Act of 1976 authorizes payments of up to seventy-five cents an acre for Federal lands classified in the Act as "entitlement lands". The amount of each payment is determined under a complex formula that takes into account population and certain other payments received under various Federal land laws. The First Congressional percent for the first six months of 1978, actual numbers of major crimes rose. There were an estimated 335,302 major offenses in Texas during the first half of 1978, compared to 330,169 such crimes in the same months of 1977.

Looking specifically at violent crimes, Speir said reports submitted to DPS indicate these offenses soared during the first six months. The murder rate rose 14.7 percent, rapes were up 15.2 percent, and the rate for aggravated assaults climbed 6.2 percent. "Part of the problem" said Speir, "is that growth in law enforcement just has not kept pace with the state's growing and increasingly mobile population. That certainly is true in the Department of Public Safety."

Speir observed that while the crime rate per 100,000 population has risen 32 percent since 1973, the department's authorized criminal law enforcement strength has risen by only 10 percent.

Regarding traffic enforcement, he said that California, Florida, Illinois, Michigan and Pennsylvania—states with populations, vehicle registrations and licensed drivers comparable to Texas—have an average of 2,043 Highway Patrol troopers per state while Texas has but 1,350. "If we compare our strength to population, these states have one trooper per 6,083 people while we have one for each 9,504," Speir added.

The DPS director noted that the problem is further compounded by inadequate pay levels for law enforcement officers and essential support personnel.

"We have a department wide annual turnover of 15 percent, and our turnover in enforcement personnel is nearly 50 percent more than just two years ago," he said.

"The DPS urgently needs additional personnel, and we need salary adjustments which are sufficient to permit retention of trained and productive employees," Speir added. "This is essential if we are to provide the proper response to these growing problems."

Denmark produces many high-quality cheeses. Among its best is Danish Feta—sold in small, one-pound cans or in bulk. Feta is made from cow's milk and has a salty, tart taste.

Deaths previously peaked at 3,692 in 1973—the last year of the 70 mile speed limit, but had been lower in the 1974-76 period.

Regarding crime, the DPS director noted that while the overall crime rate per 100,000 population was down by one

The director of the Texas Department of Public Safety today expressed serious concern over the state's rising traffic death toll and increasing rate of violent crimes.

Colonel Wilson E. Speir said these trends are symptomatic of the rapid population growth experienced in Texas during the last few years.

The DPS director observed that traffic deaths on the streets and highways of Texas are 11 percent higher than at the same time in 1977. "If this trend continues, we will for the first time kill over 4,000 people in Texas traffic in a single year," he said. The all-time traffic death record was 3,698 killed in 1977.

VA Medical Budget Totals $6 Billion

Congress has passed and sent to the White House a fiscal year 1979 Veterans Administration medical budget totaling $6 billion that leaves intact some 3,000 hospital beds the administration had proposed closing. The budget also adds significant amounts to the President's funding requests for research and the construction of medical facilities.

Leadership for increasing the VA budget came from the House of Representatives Committee on Veterans Affairs. Cong. Sam B. Hall, Jr. a member of the Committee, said, "I'm as much in favor of trimming the federal budget as anyone else but not at the expense of veterans."

Early in the session of Congress, the Veterans Affairs Committee won a trend-setting legislative battle on the floor of the House to authorize full funding of existing VA programs and make improvements in other benefits that would help veterans offset inflation.

Hall said that the senate agreed with the House to increase the VA budget but proposed a lower figure. The House had recommended adding approximately $170 million to the administration request for medical programs. The Senate recommended adding approximately $62 million. The compromise figure agreed on by both bodies was $140 million.

Here is a breakdown of items added by Congress to the administration medical budget request:

Medical and prosthetic research...$10,180,000.
1500 additional staff to keep hospital beds open...$32,300,000.

700 additional staff for outpatient increases...$18,000,000.
Staffing new VA medical facility...$4,375,000.

Major construction projects...$69,705,000.
State extended care facilities...$5,000,000.

The House was successful in adding six major projects to those the Senate had already agreed to: a 208 bed domiciliary home at Bath, N.Y.; a 120 bed nursing home at Livermore, Calif.; a 120 bed nursing home at Wilkes-Barre,

Listening At The Library

By The Bookworm
As I was heading for the youth book shelves from the biography shelves, I had to pass through the Texana Collection, and I must admit, I never did reach my destination. My goodness, do you realize what a fascinating selection of books are here pertaining to Texas? Let me tell you about a few—Of course, all of William Humphreys' books are here plus many other novels about Texas, including Edith Kirkland's "Love is a Wild Assault" and "Blood and Money" by Thompson. Then there are books on Texas homes, historic sites, famous landmarks and towns; any kind of history book from one on the Alamo to one on oil drilling, cowboys and Indians. If you like reading about people you have heard of, there are several shelves of biographies. To name a few—Sam Houston, Stephen F. Austin, Roy Bean, Charles Goodnight, James Ling and Audie Murphy and many, many others. There are also beautifully illustrated and informative books on Texas trees, flowers, birds, cattle, mustangs and other wild life.

Can you believe that there are also Texas songbooks and Texas cookbooks—I was humming a tune as I looked through the great-sounding recipes that will really entice all you cooks—and there are many good ones in our county. It really struck me as I happily browsed through this section that these are not dry, humdrum books. These are books that will hold your interest and there is something here for everyone, no matter what your interests might be. Why don't you all come and see if I'm not right? You will be glad you did, and you will be proud of this Texana Collection as I am.

Jimmie Lawson gave a lovely picture to the library, which had been in her family for many years. It was painted by Mrs. Mary Pearson who was a member of the Donoho family. Thanks, Jimmie; we have all enjoyed it.

I also want everyone to know we have paintings by Anthony Martin, Mary Eula Sears and Greg Palmer, a former Clarksville artist. We also like to display art work of our young friends, and during the school year, we have several shows featuring art work from the schools.

I'll bet some of you didn't know all we have going on down here at your library. There is something of interest for someone all the time, so—happy reading!

INSULATION

IS "R" FACTOR A MYSTERY TO YOU?
You don't have to be a detective to find out the facts about insulation. Do not let the thickness of some insulations fool you. The "R" factor stands for the resistance to heat loss and is the clue to the effectiveness of a particular type of insulation. The higher the "R" factor, the more effective the insulation is in preventing summer heat gain and winter heat loss. "R" factor requirements will vary according to climate. So, check to make sure the insulation in your home has the recommended "R" factor ratings. Properly insulating ceilings, floors and walls can make your home more energy efficient and save you money from now on!

To find out the "R" factors for this area, or for more information, call Community Public Service Company.

Frozen Foods Should Be Handled Properly

The type of appliance used to store your frozen foods determines the length of time such foods may be expected to maintain freshness.

Food kept in the ice-cube section of a conventional one-door refrigerator should be used within a few days. Such refrigerators will probably have a temperature reading between +15 to +20 degrees F, and some frozen foods begin to thaw in this temperature range, even though the packages feel hard.

The frozen food compartment of a conventional one-door refrigerator will likely register +10 to +15 degrees F, and food should be used within a period of several weeks.

A well-insulated freezer-compartment of a 2-door refrigerator and freezer combination should register zero - +8 degrees F. At the higher temperature you can retain freshness for several months.

Frozen foods in a separate household freezer, chest or upright, may be kept for one year at Zero degrees or lower.

The best source of information for thawing and cooking is on your frozen food package. All frozen food companies have determined the methods which are best for their particular product. Usually, frozen vegetables and entrees do not need to be thawed. Cakes should stand one hour at room temperature; breads ½ hour, unopened. Frozen fruits should be defrosted as close to eating time as possible. They should have a few ice crystals clinging to them.

If They Last Porches Are Enjoyment

Improperly built porches add to wood decay and termite problems, according to Chuck Stayton, area wood products specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "However, if attention is given to five danger zones, porches should have a long and useful life," Stayton contends. "Posts touching the porch surface soon decay." Stayton points out. "The base of each post should rest on a concrete pedestal, metal bracket or a preservative treated wood support. On existing porches with the base of the posts in contact with the porch surface, the post base should be flooded with a water-repellent preservative. Be sure plenty of the preservative seeps under the base." "Screened porches are another danger zone," Stayton continued. "Water runs down the screen and settles on the wood framing below, making it susceptible to decay. Soak the area where screen meets wood with a water-repellent preservative. If the framing rests on the porch surface, treat the entire lower framing." "The third danger zone is porch slope," Stayton says. "An important rule in house construction is to divert water by sloping the porch surface away from the house. This is especially true for exposed porches receiving a large amount of rain water. If the slope is wrong on an existing porch, place enough caulking or concrete at the house juncture to force water away from wooden members. If the porch has a roof, many of these problems are avoided," Stayton contends. "Less water comes onto the porch and windows and doors are better protected from wind blown rain." "Wooden steps are the fourth danger zone. Following a few simple rules can extend the life of wooden steps many years," Stayton pointed out. "1) Put a concrete apron at the base of steps to prevent contact with the soil. 2) Use preservative treated wood for stringers. 3) Support treads on preservative treated cleats that are bolted to the stringers. Notched stringers are not recommended because they are weaker than solid stringers and the notched portions expose end grain of the wood to moisture. 4) Use two narrow treads one-eighth to one-fourth inch apart rather than one wide tread. Place the tread bark-side up to reduce cupping and splitting. 5) Treads and railings should be of pressure treated wood or the heartwood of a naturally durable species." "The fifth danger zone is underneath the porch," Stayton says. "Avoid using earth-filled construction if possible. Self-supporting concrete slabs reduce termite and decay hazards. If earth-filled construction is used, be sure the soil fill doesn't touch the house and that the soil is at least 8 inches below the level of any structural wooden members of the house. The site should also be drained so that water does not stand under the porch area," Stayton concluded.

East Texas Legal Services Taking Appointments

The Texarkana Office of East Texas Legal Services is now taking appointments from low-income people seeking legal assistance. Residents of Bowie, Cass, Red River, Morris, Titus, Miller, Little River, Hempstead and Lafayette counties can make an appointment by calling 214-793-7661 or by writing ETLA, P.O. Box 170, Texarkana, Texas 75501.

The ETLA Texarkana Office which opened September 1, 1978, is funded through the Legal Services Corporation in Washington, D.C. The Legal Services Corporation is a private, non-profit organization created and funded by Congress to provide legal aid to the poor in non-criminal matters. Public defender offices and court-appointed private lawyers assist those unable to afford private counsel in criminal cases.

To qualify for legal help from ETLA, a low-income person should (1) live in one of the nine counties listed; (2) meet with ETLA financial eligibility guidelines; (3) the legal problem should be non-criminal; and (4) the legal problem should be within the list of priorities set by the ETLA Priority Planning Session. More than 180 delegates representing low-income community people from nine Texas and Arkansas counties voted on priority areas at the Southwest Community Center. The ETLA Texarkana Office currently has a full-time staff of three attorneys, two law clerks, two paralegals and a small support staff. To determine how to best utilize staff time and resources, ETLA community consultants asked low-income people what they felt were the most important needs of their respective area. At approximately 60 community meetings held this summer throughout the nine county service area, community delegates from each of the small meetings then met August 19 at the large Priority Planning Session to vote and set priority areas.

Major priority areas as determined by delegates are: (1) municipal services, (2) health care, (3) employment, (4) problems unique to senior citizens, (5) utilities, (6) public schools, (7) representational government, (8) housing, (9) consumer problems, and (10) government entitlements.

Congress enacting the Legal Services Corporation Act of 1974, mandated Legal Services Corporation: "To provide high quality legal assistance to those who would be otherwise unable to afford adequate legal counsel. That mandate was founded on the judgment that 'Equal access to the system of justice in our nation must be provided for all.'"

The Legal Services Corporation is governed by an eleven member board of directors, appointed by the President of the United States, with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Lone Star Gas has already laid the groundwork for your energy future.

The jobs of more than 100,000 Texans employed in plants served by Lone Star depend on gas for heat processing or as a product ingredient. Long-term gas supplies are needed to preserve existing jobs, create new ones, and meet the requirements of our residential customers. Fortunately, Lone Star is in an excellent position to continue energizing our area's economy.

Lone Star has an 11,400-mile gas gathering and transmission pipeline system that connects with basins estimated to contain 50% of the remaining onshore gas reserves in the United States.

This same network also enables Lone Star to accept gas deliveries from growing offshore production in the Gulf of Mexico.

No other gas company in Texas has a pipeline network as extensive or versatile as the one we've put together and constantly modernized during the 69 years Lone Star has been in business.

No other gas company in Texas has the built-in opportunity to buy gas as selectively, to bargain as well for the best prices on new gas, as Lone Star.

Our pipelines can have an important effect on your energy future, because it's here where Lone Star is strongest that gas companies from across America will be shopping hard for new gas reserves.

Here's your key to the energy storehouse.

We fully understand the efforts of other gas utilities and transmission companies to get new gas supplies. Their areas also want this most economical of fuels for industrial use.

Nevertheless, Lone Star's obligation is to the million-plus residential, commercial and industrial customers who depend on us to meet their energy needs in the decades ahead.

We're determined to meet our obligation in full by getting our area's fair share of new gas reserves as they enter the market in volumes large enough to be handled economically.

It can be done because of Lone Star's pipeline system.

Our gathering system goes into areas where other gas companies haven't begun to build. Our far-reaching transmission network gives us excellent capabilities. Our underground storage system often lets us take deliveries when many companies cannot.

All we need to buy the gas you'll need in the decades ahead is your understanding that we must recover the actual cost of the new gas we buy.

Give us that, and we'll deliver you the best gas bargains that money can buy. But the longer we wait, the more expensive the bargains will be. And we're eager to get on with the job.

Carrier Systems

They're helping us control our costs and improve your telephone service.

It's in the best interests of all our customers for Continental to control expenses wherever it can. The reason, of course, is that expenses throughout our system affect rates throughout our system.

Importantly, however, we can't pinch pennies so tightly that we reduce the quality of your telephone service. The ideal situation is for us to control our costs and improve your service at the same time.

We sometimes have to spend money to save money.

That's why we're installing sophisticated new "carrier systems" in some of our faster-growing exchanges. These new systems let us provide a larger number of high-quality voice channels (circuits) with existing telephone lines.

They eliminate the need for expensive construction of new telephone cables and poles, but help us provide improved service to more customers.

Our cost-effective carrier systems are working for your benefit wherever we install them. They are another way we're doing our best to do more for you.
