

THANKSGIVING DAY (1978)

Give Thanks Through Giving

By David W. Griffin
Pastor, First United Methodist Church
Bogata, Texas

Matthew 25:37-40 (TEV)
"The righteous will then answer him, 'When, Lord, did we ever see you hungry and feed you, or thirsty and give you a drink? When did we ever see you a stranger and welcome you in our homes, or naked and clothe you? When did we ever see you sick or in prison, and visit you? The King will reply, 'I tell you, whenever you did this for one of the least important of these brothers of mine, you did it for me!'"
Surely one of the best ways to express our thanksgiving is to give thanks through our giving. I might here be accused of a play on words, but there is more than a little bit of truth in the above statement. The description of the final judgment as we find it in Matthew's Gospel makes quite plain the vital importance of showing genuine care for one another. The Gospel, reporting Jesus' words, indicates that love of God is affirmed or denied in the ways we treat each other, including the 'each others' who are dirty or different, somehow unlovely. As we celebrate the uniquely American holiday of Thanksgiving, there is before us as Christians the opportunity to give thanks in special ways, to show love by giving and sharing of ourselves and our substance. We are blessed not only by a unique opportunity but by a unique reminder to be thankful and living thankfully during every month of the year.

May God bless us all this Thanksgiving. Happy Thanksgiving to you all!

Rebels Win District 20-A

Mother Nature and the Redwater Dragons gave the Rivercrest Rebels a run for their money Friday night when the Rebels won the District 20-A Championship by defeating the Dragons 36-7.
The slippery surface and the slick football were strange creatures for both the Rebels and the Dragons, who have been playing on dry, hard surfaces all season. Dragon field was in excellent condition, however, and there was little mud, only water.
The 29 point spread belies the fierceness of the battle, as the Dragons refused to hand the District title to the newcomers in District 20A without a fight, and fight it was, from start to finish.
The inability of the Rebels to handle the wet football early in the game was the primary reason that the Dragons went ahead in the first quarter with the opening score.

After the Rebels took the kickoff, quarterback Kip Stansell had trouble finding the handle for several plays before the ball went over to Redwater on Downs.
Redwater had the same problems, but a fumble by Via late in the first quarter on the Rivercrest 26 yard line was the slip that led Redwater touchdown. A 26 yard pass put the Dragons ahead six to zero, and the extra point kick was good.
It was sobering for the Rebels to be behind, but they gained six more yards on the ground before the end of the quarter.
On the first play of the second quarter, Via broke through the middle to the left side and gained 43 yards running as hard as he could before being caught from behind at the Redwater five yard line. Eddie Belcher carried to the one, then Via finished the job with a run through the middle. Via's extra point kick was good.

The Rebels got 28 of their 36 points in the second quarter, when all the breaks were going their way.
The only Dragon drive in the period ended at the Rivercrest 30 yard line with an incomplete pass.
Billy Scales carried the ball five successive times for a total of 87 yards to the Redwater nine yard line, then Via took it to the four. Scales finished the drive with a TD, and Via tacked on the extra points.
Still not ready to rest, Scales intercepted a pass from the Redwater quarterback on a spectacular play. He was completely off the ground when he caught the ball and was thrown off balance on the way down when a Redwater pass receiver caught one foot. Scales fumbled the ball when he hit the ground, but the ball was ruled dead while it was in his possession.
The next touchdown drive belonged to quarterback Stansell, who busted through the center of the line at the 50 and outran the defense all the way to the goal. Via's extra point kick was good.
A fumble on the kickoff by Redwater gave the ball back to the Rebels at the Redwater 20 yard line. A personal foul was assessed against the Dragons, which placed the ball on the Redwater seven. Billy Scales took it to the one, then Stansell crashed the center of the line for the TD. The kick was good.
The halftime buzzer ended most of the scoring for the Rebels, with only eight points left to be posted in the fourth quarter, but the Dragons dominated the third period and there were only a few bright spots for Rebel fans as the ball changed hands again and again.
One of the bright spots was early in the third period, when Rebel linemen stripped the Redwater quarterback of the football and then Bradley Smith fell on the ball.
The turnover should have produced another score, but the Dragons refused to let the Rebels past the nine yard line.
The Rebel scoring drive in the fourth quarter began on the Redwater 25 yard line, with a roughing the passer penalty and a 26 yard completion from Stansell to Via good for a first down at the Dragon seven yard line. Three plays later Scales crossed over from the one for six points. Stansell, who holds for Via to kick extra points, snared a high pass from center and scampered around the left end for two points after.
The Rebels threatened again in the quarter, but the pigskin escaped Nicky Brown after he had caught an 11 yard pass from Stansell. An interception by Via was nullified on a face mask penalty, and then the Rebels were caught offside. The final blow was a pass interference call at the Rebel nine yard line, which amounted to a 26 yard penalty.
The Dragons were at their one yard line and still trying when the whistle blew.

Rivercrest To Meet Hawkins In Bi-District Play

The Rivercrest Rebels will meet the Hawkins team in bi-district football competition on Friday night at the Mt. Vernon Tiger Stadium, November 24, beginning at 7:30 p.m.
The Rebels being victorious in this game, will progress to regional competition, the place being decided upon the day following Friday's game between school officials of the winning teams.
Tickets for the bi-district game will be $2.50, which may be purchased at the Rivercrest school office on Wednesday, or at the gate. Student tickets will also be available at the office for $1.00 on Wednesday.

This will be the second time this season that the Rebels will play Hawkins, with the Hawks taking the first decision 14-12. That ballgame was played on Rebel turf, and was the first of the season for both clubs.
"Both clubs have improved a great deal since the first of the season," Rivercrest coach Milford Groves said last week, "but the boys feel they can take Hawkins this time."
The Rebels came very close to taking Hawkins the first time, and piled up more yards on the ground than did the Hawks by a sizeable margin.
The Rebels had 243 yards rushing to 185 for the Hawks, and both teams had only one turnover.

It was the Hawkins quarterback, Vincent Griffin, that gave the Rebels most of their problems, coupled with a punting problem. Griffin took the ball through the center of the Rebel line on a number of quick, successive plays, the Hawks scored early and made the two points after, and the extra points won the game.
The next week, the Rebels faced another great young football player, J.C. Morris with the Cooper Bulldogs, and shut him down completely. The Rebels tied that game, 22 to 22.

Late in September, the Rebels beat Whitewright 14-10, but lost to arch-rival Prairiland 34-30 at the Rivercrest Homecoming. The Rebels were tough against the highly rated Mount Vernon Tigers, losing by nine points.
Then the conference season began, and after suffering through a 6-0 squeaker against Queen City, the district 20-A competition has been relatively light.
The Rivercrest coaches, staff and the Rebel varsity squad asks that everyone in the district come to Mount Vernon Friday night to support the team.

Rain Soaks Soil

The rain that farmers needed in September and October for the soybeans began coming last Tuesday, Nov. 14 and fell through Thursday.
In Deport, 1.70 inches fell on Tuesday, 4.57 inches on Wednesday and .71 on Thursday for a total of 7.03. Deport Creek did not run over the banks.
By Thursday afternoon, Sulphur River was running full, but there was little water in White Oak Creek along Highway 37 south of Bogata.
John Hartrick with H&H Soil Service in Clarksville reported that his company was able to get into the fields to fertilize immediately following the rain and that the sandy soil was still hard north of Clarksville in spite of nine inches of rain reported there.

Rivercrest Graduate Killed In Accident

Rhodney Birchfield, 19, of Talco, was accidentally killed Sunday, Nov. 19, while apparently dragging his 44-0 deer rifle through heavy underbrush near Sulphur River.
Birchfield and Stanley Jones, also of Talco, were hunting together in Franklin County south of Sulphur River in the wooded area north of the Birchfield property at the time of the accident. Franklin County Sheriff Don Qualls speculated that Birchfield was dragging the gun when it discharged, with the bullet entering the right side of his body and exiting through the left side.

Jones reported to the sheriff's department that he heard a shot about 8 a.m. and discovered the body at about 9 a.m.
Birchfield was a graduate of Rivercrest High School, where he played football and ran track. He had attended Kilgore Junior College and was employed by Talco Well Service at the time of his death.

East Texas Eating

By Margie Rice
Thanksgiving season on into the new year has been pumpkin pie time since early America. Pioneer Virginia and Maryland homemakers sliced the top off pumpkins, scooped out the fiber and seeds, filled the pumpkins with milk and baked them on the open hearth. Later, a greased pan sprinkled with rye meal was filled with pumpkin combined with milk and spices. Later, the pastry crust was added. Pumpkin pies, as lots of others, were "about the thickness of a board" so as to stretch the meager food supplies of those days. The pumpkin pie we enjoy today is usually a custard type pie; eggs added when they became available lend smooth texture and rich flavor. A couple of other ingredients have been added to the pumpkin pie recipe that Mrs. W.C. Chisam, of Gainesville, has graciously agreed to share with East Texas Eating readers. Her Pumpkin Chiffon Pie was the grand prize winner of the Gainesville Daily Register's 1975 Recipe Contest. My mother passed it on to me with the words "This is the best pumpkin pie I've ever eaten". We agree and think you will too.

Mrs. Chisam's Pumpkin Chiffon Pie
1 T. unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup orange juice
3 egg yolks
1 cup sugar
1 1/4 c. cooked or canned pumpkin
1/2 cup milk
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
3 egg whites
Soften gelatin in orange juice. In top of double boiler, beat egg yolks until bubbly; stir in 1/2 cup sugar, pumpkin, milk, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly until thickened. Stir in softened gelatin and continue to stir until gelatin is dissolved. Remove from heat; chill until slightly thicker than unbeaten egg white consistency.
Beat egg whites until forming stiff peaks; gradually beat in 1/2 cup sugar, about 1 tablespoon at a time. Gently mix pumpkin mixture into egg whites; pour into baked pastry shell. Chill until firm.
Serve garnished with whipped cream; add slivered candied ginger or chopped pecans for a special touch. Serves 8.

This recipe makes a nice, high nine-inch pie. I usually make and bake the crust the night before and then add the filling about three hours before serving. This gives time for the filling to become firm. The resulting effect is a light, rich, fresh pumpkin pie with a tender, flaky crust. The richest, freshest pumpkin flavor is obtained by using freshly roasted pumpkin. I usually slice a pie pumpkin in half, remove fiber and seeds, lay cut sides down on a baking sheet and bake in a 350 degree oven until tender when pricked with a fork. Scrape out the pulp and put through a sieve to remove stringy fibers.

Stocks Ease Shortage

Consumer demand for butter is outpacing production, but that doesn't mean you won't be able to baste your turkey with U.S. produced butter this Thanksgiving, said the president of Associated Milk Producers, Inc. meeting in Chicago recently.

Quite the contrary, said Irvin Elkin, Amery, Wisconsin dairy farmer who heads AMPI. He noted that consumers are presently benefitting from the storage stocks of butter held by the U.S. Government under the dairy price support program.

"The value of the program as a hedge against inflation was confirmed this past week when the Commodity Credit Corporation sold back to the commercial market more than two million pounds of butter," Elkin said. He added that the total is more than 14 million pounds of butter for the year.

Butter production generally has been running behind last year's output.

Digital Switching We're using it to hold the line on higher phone rates.

Every dollar we can shave off our operating expenses is a dollar that helps us delay the need for rate increases.
Our objective, of course, is to hold the line on operating costs without reducing the quality of your telephone service.

Sometimes this requires Continental to invest huge sums of money in technological advancements that, in the long run, save money. Digital switching is one of these advancements.
Digital switching equipment not only helps us control costs with reduced maintenance requirements, but also provides better noise levels and faster service when you dial a number.
It handles more calls with fewer trunk lines, yet occupies about 80% less floor space than conventional equipment.
Installed in areas where fast growth is expected, the new equipment will let us meet the growth without the expense of building new facilities.
Because the rates you pay for telephone service are based on our costs of doing business throughout our system, digital switching works in your behalf wherever we install it.
It's one of the ways we're doing our best to do more for you.

Many hunters have killed a deer and then found that the animal was infested with "bugs". Have you ever wondered what they are, what they do and will they bite man? Dr. James Robinson, Extension area entomologist at the Texas A & M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Overton, says that most deer killed in Texas are healthy, but do have their share of external parasites. The most common are deer keds, biting lice and ticks.

"Deer keds, which are actually wingless flies, are about one-fourth inch long and have short strong legs and a flattened body," Robinson said. "Their shape allows them to move sideways among the hairs much easier. The deer ked sucks blood from the deer through hypodermic type mouth parts. They may be found in chains of three or four with the first fly drawing blood from the host, the second with its mouth parts thrust into the abdomen of the first, the third drawing on the second and so on. Deer keds do not attack man but may crawl on the body and cause an itchy feeling."

"Biting lice, usually no longer than one-eighth inch, feed on hair and skin," the entomologist continued. "They do not such blood and cause little harm to deer. Their body is also flattened and wingless. These critters are not harmful to man but may get between the skin and clothing and cause a person to think they have the itch."

"Ticks are a different matter," Robinson cautions. "Several species of ticks may be found on deer and they will also attack man. Ticks may be carriers of certain diseases which are transmittable to man. Caution should be taken when handling or skinning a deer to prevent ticks from moving from the deer carcass to man."

"Proper care of the deer after the kill should eliminate any problem with parasites found on the body of the animal," Robinson concluded.

The Rivercrest Varsity and Junior Varsity Cheerleaders along with their sponsor, Mrs. Kay Kennedy left to attend the SMU Cheerleading Clinic at 5:30 a.m. on the morning of Nov. 3.

The clinic started with warm-up stretches for the cheerleaders and a meeting for the sponsor and went on to the teaching of yells and chants for the coming basketball season. This was followed by competition between the 800 girls representing many different schools as well as states.

The Varsity cheerleaders consisting of Robyn Reeder, head, Carla Mills, Tracie Jones, Lisa Barger, Staci Brooks and Connie Brown each received a superior ribbon. Their competition yell was "Combination" and the chant "Stomp 'em Rebels Stomp 'em".

The Junior Varsity cheerleaders consisting of Sherri Hanna, head, Marla Martin, Sandra Spencer and Mary Lynn Vaughan each received a superior ribbon for their competition yell of "Beware!"

Starting at 2:30 that afternoon, all cheerleaders attending the clinic gave a pre-game ceremony at the SMU, A&M football game. They presented a yell for the A&M Aggies and one yell to the SMU Mustangs. The Rivercrest cheerleaders stayed for half-time ceremonies, then returned to Talco and Bogata late Saturday evening.

Following, they were instructed by Cherri Rapp in offensive techniques and shooting, fast breaking with Sandra Meadows, and pre-season basics with Pat Moses.

After a full day of practice sessions, the girls returned home and will begin their basketball season with their first game on Saturday, November 18.

Doesn't this cool weather make you feel really grand? The first cold night I got out my robin's down cardigan, popped a thimbleful of popcorn and settled down all nice and cozy with a good mystery book. Somehow cold weather and mystery books seem to go hand in hand—don't you think so, too?

I am so proud of our collection of mystery books. I'll bet'cha we have just about every "who dun it" author that you could think of wanting to read.

Let me name a few. Of course we have all the books of the queen of mystery, Agatha Christie. You know there is a current movie out called "Death on the Nile" by her and all of her books are just as exciting such as the books with Hercule Poirot and Jane Marple as the major characters.

Other authors also have special heroes in their books such as: Hugh Pentecost with his Pierre Chambrun set in a large Metropolitan hotel; Rex Stout writing of that great gourmet detective Nero Wolf; the French author Simenon solving crimes in Paris with Inspector Maigret; Dell Shannon writing of the workings of the Los Angeles Police Department led by Luis Mendoza; John Creasey in London solving crimes with Inspector West; Emma Lathen has a bumbling financier named John Putman Thatcher solving crimes in her books; John Dickson Carr has Gideon Fell as his detective and even though he gets the job done he isn't your usual everyday detective.

Oh, dear, I could go on and on with others like Ngaio Marsh, Rae Foley, Eilery Queen, John McDonald, Bill Knox, Richard Lockridge, and Anthony Gilbert. I really get so excited about these fun books to read I don't know when to stop. Suffice it to say, there is just about every mystery book available from private eyes and police departments to the supernatural. It all depends on your mood, I guess, but whatever your mood might be, come on in and look over our fabulous collection of chillers and thrillers.

Listen, folks, I've got to get back to my book now. I know the butler didn't do it and I can hardly wait to find out who the guilty really is. See you soon!

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Residential burglaries are increasing across the State, and Texas consumers have been purchasing various kinds of burglary prevention devices to protect their homes and personal property.

Possibly the most popular burglary prevention device that is used on homes is the burglar bar. Attorneys in our Consumer Protection Division say, however, that homeowners should be wary of certain unscrupulous burglar bar businesses. Our attorneys have recently received several consumer complaints regarding alleged deceptive practices in the burglar bar business.

Unscrupulous operators often advertise in local newspapers and distribute promotional fliers offering to sell and install burglar bars at a very low price. Consumers are also urged by the advertisements to contact the company for free estimates.

If a consumer inquires about the low-cost burglar bars, one of the company's sales representatives will induce the customer to purchase a better quality bar at a much higher price. This is a typical "bait and switch" tactic.

These unscrupulous sales people fail to mention that the bars are small and flexible and have only limited usefulness against intruders. They may also represent that the bars are guaranteed for 30 years and won't rust or need to be painted for five years, when in truth the window guards are often improperly installed and show rust within a year. Defective burglar bars have even been known to cause damage to some homes after being installed improperly.

Our Consumer Protection Division lawyers offer these tips to consumers when purchasing burglary prevention equipment:

*Do not fall for "bait and switch" tactics. If an advertisement offers burglar bars at an incredibly low price, be very wary. If you do decide to purchase the bars, make sure you get a written guarantee or warranty.

*Be sure to check the bars for durability and check with your local police department to see if they recommend the company's product.

*Talk to your friends and neighbors who have installed burglary equipment and see if they recommend the company.

*Also, check with your local Buettner Business Bureau to determine the company's reputation.

If you are the victim of an unscrupulous burglary prevention equipment company or salesperson, contact our Consumer Protection Division in Austin, Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, Lubbock, El Paso, or McAllen. If you live outside these areas, call toll-free: 1-800-252-9236.

Food Costs
When buying meat, compare costs per serving rather than price per pound. In the long run, it doesn't matter how much you pay per pound, but how much each serving of cooked meat costs. As a general rule, one-quarter pound of meat without bone equals one serving and one-half to three-quarters of a pound of meat with bone equals one serving.

The first child to be born in the New England Colonies was Peregrine White, a baby girl born aboard the Mayflower in Massachusetts Bay.

The Good Word from the Bible

... a weekly inspirational message for today's life-styles...

Rejoice, O young man, in thy youth; and let thy heart cheer thee in the days of thy youth, and walk in the ways of thine heart, and in the sight of thine eyes; but know thou, that for all these things God will bring thee into judgment.
Ecclesiastes 11:9

It is a way of life that most of us awake one day to realize that we are no longer young and that the time has passed for doing some of the things for which youth is a prerequisite.

We think of missed opportunities, of dreams that were never realized, and wish for the opportunity to "start all over again."

Most of us would do a thing or two differently if given a "second youth" but, only because time and experience has made us wiser... hopefully, wise enough to remember the final judgment will be upon the manner in which we have lived all the days of our lives.

YOUR WEEK AHEAD By DAMIS

Forecast Period November 26 - December 2

ARIES The twins — jealousy and envy are apparent in your chart. Don't be concerned about an associate's advancement.

TAURUS See that your established romance patterns are not broken. There's a big difference between opportunity and temptation.

GEMINI Let your conscience be your guide. Most members of your sign are haunted by thoughts in the shade — remember consequences.

MOONCHILD You are as solid as the "Rock of Gibraltar." Emotionally you can face any hair raising reversals!

LEO Good news concerning your job or project is inevitable. You will be puzzled — it will come in a rather bizarre and misleading form.

VIRGO No written error will get by you. At this period of your chart, your mind is sharply honed.

LIBRA You will be called upon by your superior to do something that is well — some sort of honor. Beware — you will not gain popularity.

SCORPIO Verbal battle is tempting to you this week. It may get you places, temporarily, but the end result will be disastrous.

SAGITTARIUS You will make a few blunders, but things will actually go well for you this week... in all departments of your life.

CAPRICORN You have had your eye on someone quite a while. Your overtures and his/her acknowledgements are paying off.

AQUARIUS A change in your immediate environment will be hard to get used to. Incidentally, it will be to your advantage.

PISCES Turn up the wick at your job, task or project. Whether or not you are aware of it, it's an ideal time to start new programs.

Older Workers Called Loyal and Diligent

While many companies are upset by recent legislative changes raising the mandatory retirement age from 65 to 70, Bankers Life and Casualty Company of Chicago, Ill. has no special policy for older employees.

"We deal with all identifiable employee groups the same way," Bankers Life vice president Gerald Maquire told a writer from the National Council on the Aging. "Whether a person is elderly, handicapped, female or represents a minority, he or she is expected to contribute their best efforts to the company."

Not only is there no mandatory retirement age at Bankers Life, but the com-

Q: Neighbors on two sides of my property have put up electric shock fences to control their livestock. What are my rights if I object to this type of fencing?

A: Your neighbors are legally entitled to erect any type of fence they desire on their property. Your legal rights would be violated only if the fence encroached on your property, in which case you could remove any of the fence on your land.

Q: Is it true that if you don't make a will three years before death, the government will take your property?

A: No. The government would not be entitled to take your property upon your death unless you leave no heirs to claim your estate.

Q: When I put my home up for sale, the realtor had it appraised by FHA, and I was sent a $50 appraisal bill by FHA. Also, the appraisal was lower than the price which I was told a buyer was willing to pay. Do I have to pay the appraisal fee, even though the appraisal was lower than the buyer's offer, and therefore cancelled the sale?

A: The normal procedure for paying FHA appraisal fees is for the seller to bear this cost, regardless of whether it adversely affects the sale of the property. A person selling property can protect their interest by working with their lawyer to draft an escrow sales contract to cover such contingencies as an FHA appraisal which is lower than the asking price.

Q: Our daughter died without a will and is survived by her husband and two small children. Their father won't let us see them at all. Is there any way we can see these children? And, who handles the estate the children should receive?

A: Any grandparent has the right to petition the district court in the county where the grandchild resides in order to obtain visitation rights. To do so, the grandparent asks to be named as a possessory conservator of the child and asks the court to compel the managing conservator, who in this case apparently is the child's father, to make the child available for visitation. The duty of managing the child's estate is placed on the managing conservator.

Auto Service Tips

With the changing seasons, it's wise to check the coolant level. If it's low, add a 50-50 mixture of water and glycol antifreeze. Water alone will dilute the mixture. Be sure engine is cold before removing radiator cap!

While you're at it, clean the radiator by spraying with a hose from the engine side. Dead insects and foreign matter that get caught in the radiator reduce air flow and cooling efficiency.

Facts from a pro on driving to survive.

Q: We're a group of high school students and we need an argument settled. Is it true that teenagers have more accidents than older drivers? T.B., San Antonio

A: Unfortunately, it's true. The yearly accident rate for drivers under 20, as measured by the National Safety Council, is consistently higher than the rate for other ages, with the 20-24 age group next. The fatality rate is highest for the 20-24 group, and the under-20 group is second. In fact, motor vehicle accidents are the leading cause of death for those between 15 and 24 years of age... Lots of room for improvement.

Q: Is it the law anywhere in the United States that drivers and passengers must use their safety belts in a car? J.F., Amarillo

A: No state, at present, has a mandatory safety belt law, although such a law does exist in the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico. Tennessee law calls for infants in cars to be properly restrained. Several Canadian provinces, parts of Australia and some European countries have belt laws. In all cases where these laws have been enacted, accident injuries and fatalities have dropped sharply.

Q: Winter's not far off, and someone at work was talking about his car's freeze plug. What was he referring to? K.W., Austin

A: Freeze plugs are metal alloy "corks" in the water jacket of the engine block. The plugs pop out to relieve pressure if water in the block should freeze, to prevent the block from cracking. But don't count on freeze plugs alone to protect your engine block. Keep the proper mixture of antifreeze and water in your car for cold-weather driving.

Some of the foods unknown in Europe until Columbus brought them back from America are turkey, peanuts, pumpkins and potatoes.

the arguments in favor of mandatory retirement—loss of productivity and creativity, making room for younger workers and so on. We haven't found them to be true."

In some cases, Maquire says, older workers are labeled unfairly.

"If a younger worker is forgetful, we call it absent-mindedness," he said. "If a 70 year old forgets something, we call it senility."

One of the chief concerns companies have is getting rid of the employee who can no longer do the job, a problem that many personnel managers feel is best handled by mandatory retirement.

On this subject, Maquire said. "We've found that our employees are among the first to realize when their productivity is suffering. In most cases, employees retire voluntarily when this happens. Pride and concern for the company are among the chief factors, although I wouldn't discount financial security through the company pension plan and social security payments."

Maquire also feels that older workers are valuable in an intangible way and preserve a feeling of continuity, stability and permanence.

"Perhaps we don't have a space-age personality but we like it that way," Maquire said. "Our older employees teach us persistence, diligence, loyalty, trust and honesty. These are values that every employer is searching for."

MORE AND MORE airlines are offering special reduced fares for older persons. Discounts for a guaranteed reserved seat for persons 65 and older range up to one-third off the regular fare and require only a one-day advance reservation.

Among the airlines offering these special fares are Allegheny, American, Braniff, Delta, Eastern, National, Northwest, Ozark, TWA, United and Western.

Some airlines do have certain restrictions, such as limiting discounts to flights within the continental United States, so check with the airline before making reservations.

Youth Invited To Join 4-H

4-H is a unique youth organization for several reasons. First, 4-H uses real life experiences to learn how to do jobs and make decisions that are important in life. 4-H is a family affair; there is a place for all members of the family to participate. 4-H is a flexible program that can be adapted to fit any individual, home or community. 4-H is working for others. Learning to stand for what you believe in and learning to work with others are important to each person. 4-H provides for ownership by allowing members to grow, make, care for, buy and sell their projects. 4-H is based on science and fact. The resources of Texas A&M University, business, industry, and your community are used in developing and carrying out projects and activities. 4-H is a part of the community. 4-H'ers learn how to be good citizens by carrying out community responsibilities.

All boys and girls who are 9 to 19 years of age may join 4-H. Youth of all races, places of residence, socioeconomic situations, and religions are welcomed. Anyone interested in the county 4-H program and would like to get involved may contact the County Extension Service at 427-2493 or Box 709, Clarksville.
