Storm Causes Flooding, Wind Damage

A major storm system swept Lamar, Franklin, Titus and Red River counties Thursday, dumping more than three inches of rain in most areas and causing the most severe flooding in Deport since June, 1974.

Rain gauges throughout the Blossom, Deport, Bogata and Talco areas caught more than three inches of rain, as the National Weather Service broadcast severe thunderstorm warnings, then tornado warnings as the storms grew in intensity.

National Weather Service reported a tornado north of Mount Vernon in the Hagansport area, and that storm swept across country to Whites Trailer Sales, where a portable building was destroyed and several trailers were blown down a hill.

In Talco, a 149-foot two-way radio antenna blew across a car belonging to Charles Gibson. The antenna fell around the north side and curved to the east side of the Well Service doghouse, just as if someone had bent the pipe to fit around the building. No damage was done to the building, and only the window air-conditioner was knocked loose.

Most of the damage caused by the storm was due to flooding, with water reaching the highest level since June, 1974. Although measurements made by the Corps of Engineers will not be available for several months, the water level reached Thursday night was within six inches of the June 7, 1974 flood, when the high water mark was 416.91 mean sea level. A survey marker on the front of the First National Bank building in Deport is the 420.606 msl mark.

Water poured into the buildings of Tide Products, City Garage, Roach Oil Company, City Barber Shop, Community Public Service, Faith Baptist Church, and Davidson's Dry Goods.

Water crossed Highway 271 at Deport, north of Pattonville and between Bogata and Deport, and Sulphur River peaked at 48 feet.

Construction of the new bank building in Deport has not yet begun, so no damage was incurred to that project. Only the clearing of timber and dirt work had been completed on the Deport Dam, and no estimate has been made to the damage done to the damsite.

Talco-Bogata School Board Meeting Held

The Board of Trustees of the Talco-Bogata Schools met in regular session at Rivercrest on Tuesday, May 1, 1979 at 7:30 p.m. In a relatively brief meeting, the following action was taken:

Transfer students were approved as recommended.

A Commodity Agreement for school cafeterias was approved.

A meeting was set for July 27 at 10:00 a.m. for the Board of Equalization to meet with oil and utility firms.

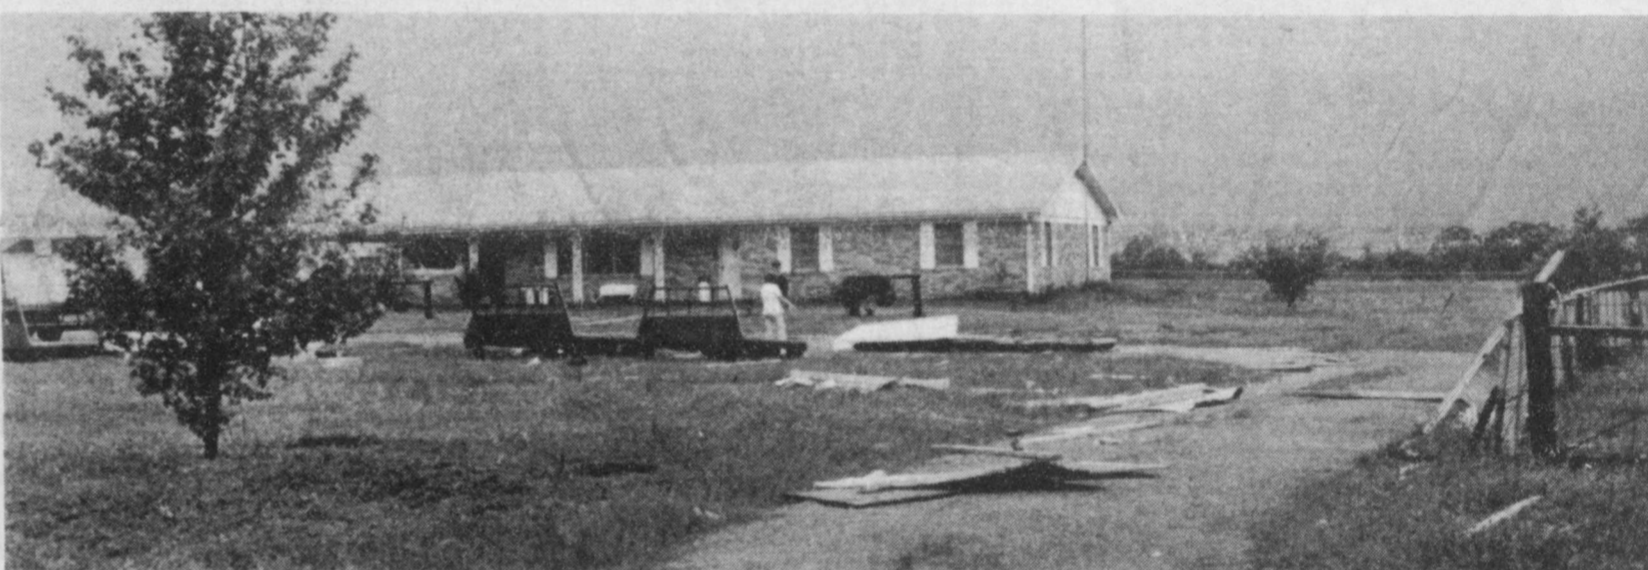

Various financial reports were approved.

In other matters, preregistration numbers were given for the Kindergarten classes for next year and there was a brief discussion related to personnel needs on each campus for the 1979-80 year.

The next regular meeting of the Board will be on Tuesday, June 5, 1979 at 7:30 p.m. at Rivercrest with the public cordially invited to attend.

At the June meeting, the Board will have an informal session and workshop to discuss the impact of present and proposed school tax exemptions, School Tax Assessment Practices Board minimum requirements, productivity values (ag use) and its' impact, and the implications for the tax office. Associated Tax Services will present information on these matters.

DAMAGE due to high winds in the area last Thursday afternoon was apparently limited to Whites Trailer Sales, just south of Bogata on Highway 271. An 8'x16' portable building was completely demolished and the debris was blown across the yard and into the pasture, the highway, and some distance into a neighbor's pasture across the highway. Several trailers received minor damage when they were blown into each other. The roof of a hog barn, in the pasture, was lifted off the building and set on the ground. (Staff Photo)

FHA Awards Banquet Held At Rivercrest

"FHA-Stairway to the Future" was the theme of the annual FHA Awards Banquet held Tuesday night, May 2 at Rivercrest High School.

Tables were covered with white, centered with red streamers and silver stars. Red roses trailing down silver stairways accented each table. On the window, the words, "FHA-Stairway to the Future" surrounded a long stairway motif leading upward toward the sky.

After the invocation given by Laura Vaughan, a covered dish meal was served buffet style to seventy guests. Following the meal, a program was presented in the auditorium. The stage was centered with a large glittered torch, the symbol of Level III Encounter, and red roses. The words, "Awards Banquet" done in silver, and the FHA emblem graced the front of the stage. The installation table was covered with a floor length white cloth centered with an arrangement of red silk roses.

President Rebecca Taylor welcomed guests. A devotion, "Kumbaya" was narrated by senior member Lori Gordon and sung by Junior Chapter members Helen Ridge, Sandra Spencer, Mary Lynn Vaughan, and Tammy Strain.

Flower Show School Set

The Paris Council of Garden Clubs will sponsor Flower Show School Number One, May 28-29 in the Paris Junior College Student Center ballroom.

Mrs. Jim Noble Thompson, president, says Mrs. A. M. Aikin, Jr., is chairman of the first in a series of five schools to be held in Paris, with the second to follow in the fall. Schools are open to any person interested in learning horticulture, flower show practice, and floral design. "Garden club members working for credit towards becoming nationally accredited flower show judges can take the examination on May 30," Mrs. Thompson says.

Nationally accredited instructors include Mrs. J.

Elmer Weaver, Cedar Hill, design, and flower show practice; and Mrs. John Warmerdam, horticulture. Mrs. Weaver will illustrate and teach line, mass-line, and mass designs, providing workshop time to allow students to practice judging. She will also teach planning flower show schedules and duties of other committees.

Mrs. Warmerdam will instruct in basic horticulture - plant life, cultivation and fertilization of soils, and will emphasize two plant-pansies and African violets.

Mrs. Thompson says registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. May 28, with lectures starting at 9:00 a.m. each of the two days.

Registration is expected from many garden club members and others in the Northeast area of Texas, since this is the only school in a radius of 100 miles. Advance registration of $10 should be sent to Mrs. A. M. Aikin, Jr., Box 385, Paris, Texas 75460 (214-784-4193).

Contracts Renewed For Law Enforcement

The Tulsa District, Corps of Engineers, has renewed 20 contracts for law enforcement services at specific public use areas on 20 lakes and the navigation system in Oklahoma, and has five additional contracts under negotiation, Col. Robert G. Bening, District Engineer, said.

The contracts will provide increased law enforcement services to meet the needs of specific areas during periods of heavy visitor attendance at Corps lakes. They are with 21 county sheriffs and four local police departments in Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and Kansas.

The law enforcement contracts will cost approximately $190,000 and will run from May 10 through September 10. They call for the law enforcement agencies to patrol specific public use areas from 6:00 p.m. to 6:00 a.m.

Col. Bening said the contracts are authorized by Section 120 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1976 and may not run for more than 120 days each year.

Cancer Research Grants Awarded To Texas

A man-made anti-cancer chemical has been designed by a scientist at Texas A & M University here to control and possibly cure a deadly type of cancer in children that arises from a primitive nerve cell that never developed.

A pharmacologist, Dr. Chung Y. Chiou who contrived the new compound, said it has completely cured neuroblastoma in mice in his laboratory. His research is supported by an American Cancer Society grant.

Dr. Chiou, who is Professor and Head of the Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology at the University, has completed animal studies with his compound designated BrACH which stands for "bromoacetylcholine," a combination of chemicals that are especially attracted to the neuroblastoma cell.

BrACH was man-made to bind to a receptor on the neuroblastoma cell surface which normally attracts a vitamin component. Once the chemical bond occurs, it is irreversible and this reaction blocks the cancer cell's reproductive ability.

More than 40 per cent of the mice with neuroblastoma treated with BrACH were cured of their cancers, Dr. Chiou reported. They were treated with doses of the compound comparable to 10 milligram doses for children which, the scientist said, should produce only minor if any side effects in human patients.

The deadly nerve cancer which affects children, usually two to five years of age, develops from a primitive cell that fails to complete its transformation into a normal nerve cell for a particular role in the human system. During the first few years of life, the crude nerve cell is subject to some unknown stimulus that alters it into a cancer cell.

Until now no cure has been found for neuroblastoma. Dr. Chiou thinks the clinical trials which will start later this year will find BrACH just as effective in humans as it is in mice.

Dairy Farmers To Pay Increased Rates

Beginning July 1, dairy farmers operating under 10 southwestern federal milk marketing orders will use a larger share of their milk payments for advertising and promotion.

The increases would affect the Texas, Wichita, Memphis, Fort Smith, Red River Valley, Oklahoma Metropolitan, Central Arkansas, Lubbock-Plainview, Texas Panhandle, and Rio Grande Valley orders.

P.R. Smith, U.S. Department of Agriculture assistant secretary, said the changes were approved by 96.1 percent of the farmers supplying the Wichita market, 67.7 percent under Red River Valley, 94.4 percent under Oklahoma Metropolitan, 97 percent under Lubbock-Plainview, 99.4 percent under Texas Panhandle, 83.3 percent under Rio Grande Valley, 97.6 percent under Central Arkansas, 100 percent under Fort Smith, 100 percent under Memphis and 79.2 percent under Texas.

Assessments for advertising and promotion now on a fixed rate schedule will be based on the average price that handlers pay farmers for their milk. Based on current prices, the starting rates would be 9 cents per hundredweight, up from the current 5 cents. Smith said this increase should have no effect on the retail price of milk which consumers pay.

These increases, he said, were needed to keep pace with the constantly increasing costs of operating the programs.

House Lost In Blaze

A two-bedroom house located just southwest of Talco, burned Thursday morning, May 3. The fire of undetermined origin apparently started in the kitchen.

The home was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Russell, but was being rented by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dixon and three children.

Mrs. Dixon, who was at home at the time of the fire, reported she had just dressed after taking a bath when she smelled smoke. On investigating she found a blaze in the kitchen area. Mrs. Dixon ran a quarter of a mile to the county road to summons help from Lou Hall, who called the Talco Volunteer Fire Department. Firemen were unable to start the Talco unit and members of the Mt. Pleasant Fire Department answered the call, but found the house already engulfed in flames upon their arrival.

The five-room frame structure and most of its contents were a total loss.

Vickie Horn Honored With Bridal Shower

Miss Vickie Horn, bride-elect of Earl Hale, was honored with a bridal shower Tuesday, May 1, in the home of Mrs. E. L. Miller.

Co-hostesses for the courtesy were Mmes. R. W. Prestidge, R. G. Hood, Johnny Cook, Hoyt Taylor, Vivian Westbrook, Jack Mills, Wayman Alexander, and Miss Alice Ruth Tidwell. They presented the honoree with a yellow daisy corsage and both mothers with corsages of white carnations. The three together with Mrs. Miller greeted the guests.

Mrs. Bobby Kuhl, the honoree's sister, presided at Miss Horn's wedding book at the registry, which was complimented with a wedding tree decorated in tiny white bells, bows, baby's breath and white net puffs scattered throughout the branches. Standing underneath the tree amid ruffles of net and small roses were a bride and groom.

Miss Ruth Ann Hale, sister of the groom-to-be and Miss Tina Vickers served pineapple sherbert punch, cake squares decorated in blue, blue and yellow mints and nuts from the serving table, which was covered with a mass arrangement of dogwood in a white vase. Tall white tapers flanked the centerpiece. Crystal and silver table appointments were used and the napery was white and silver.

Guests viewed the many gifts displayed in the bedrooms.

Cancer Crusade Fund Raising Lagging

The 1979 educational and fund raising Cancer Crusade is lagging behind that of last year's. Only $3500 has been turned into the chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wren and Mrs. Imogene Wooley. This is not even half of the county's goal. Volunteers are being urged to work their areas and turn in their crusade dollars at their earliest convenience.

As everyone knows, the cost of everything—including research—is going up. The American people have invested so greatly in the fight against cancer and we have made such progress that we can't stop now.

Today, there are an estimated three million Americans who have a cancer history, and some two million are five years past original diagnosis and treatment. In the early 1900's very few cancer patients had any hope for cure. In the 1930's less than one in five were alive five years after treatment. In the 1950's it was one in four. Today we are able to save one out of every three cancer patients which means that from the 1950's to 1979 we have advanced enough to save about 58,000 more people each year.

Thanks to the support of research and continuing education for medical professionals, modern cancer treatment is quite different from the past. A major trend today is the use of teamwork to give the patient the best possible combination of different therapies including surgery, radiation, and drugs. There are new insights into how blood component therapy and special nutritional boosters can be valuable additions to therapy. And, due in part to the efforts of the American Cancer Society, there is a growing recognition of the emotional and economic needs of the cancer patient. It is just not enough to save a life, it is the responsibility of everyone to help make that life positive and rewarding.

The annual ACS Cancer Crusade now taking place helps make progress possible. If you have already contributed, you have our thanks. If you haven't, please give what you can because our goal is your goal—a world free of cancer.

DRIVELINE

Believe It Or Not! In Idaho Falls, Idaho, it is illegal for people over the age of 88 to ride a motorcycle. And in Hartford, Connecticut, it's against the law to cross a street while walking on your hands.

DEADLY MYTH DEPARTMENT: "A can of beer or a glass of wine won't affect my driving as much as a mixed drink." Wrong. The average serving (12 ounce can of beer, 6 ounce glass of wine) has about as much alcohol as a highball or one ounce shot of whiskey. If they are consumed in similar time periods, they could each impair your driving ability to about the same degree.

Works Fast and He's Reasonable! If you're in the market for an automotive designer, remember Karl K. Probst. He did most of the initial design work for what became known as the Jeep in a hectic three and a half days. The Jeep became the workhorse of World War II and one of the most famous and popular designs in automotive history. Probst got a $200 bonus.

You'll notice they didn't name the Jeep after Karl. A few of the names that were considered: Bantam, Buggy, Blitz, Bug, Gnat, Quad, Pygmy, Midget, Peep, and G. P. (for General Purpose.) Finally inspiration dawned . . . Jeep!

"What's the best thing to do if your brakes fail in traffic?" Immediately shift to a lower gear and apply the emergency brake with as much force as it takes to stop your car as quickly as your immediate situation demands. Remain calm as you get your car stopped and out of traffic. Use your emergency flashers.

ANCIENT HISTORY LESSON: The Appian Way in Italy was begun about 312 B. C. Parts of it are still in use today. It included "modern" features such as controlled access lanes, frontage roads, load limits, and speed limits. The Italians may have the oldest roads, but the U.S. has the mostest. We have 3.8 million miles, of which 1.8 million are paved. Comparisons? Well, the Soviet Union, for example, has only 860,000 miles of road, of which 167,000 are paved.

Woman Needs 26-Hour Day

If there were a few more hours in the day, 72-year-old Rosa Gilchrist might have time to take care of all the things she's involved in. But then, Mrs. Gilchrist has never been one to sit back and take it easy. As a younger woman, she went to work in a tobacco factory as soon as her three children were old enough for school. It wasn't until 10 years later, at her husband's insistence, that she finally quit.

"I've always believed in keeping myself busy," Mrs. Gilchrist told a writer from The National Council on the Aging. "I think your mind has to be occupied doing something."

The youngest of seven children, Mrs. Gilchrist was raised on a farm in Wake County, North Carolina and moved to Durham when she was married.

Her husband owned and operated a two-car taxi service for which Mrs. Gilchrist kept the books. Since her husband's death nine years ago, she has been running the business. She is also the treasurer for the Associated Cab Company, which her company belongs to.

"I'm also a notary public and I collect the rents for several landlords," Mrs. Gilchrist said.

Aside from business, Mrs. Gilchrist is active in almost every community affair imaginable. She has been a member of Mount Zion Baptist Church for about 50 years, an affiliation which is responsible for many of her activities. Along with teaching Sunday school, Mrs. Gilchrist has been an officer of the church, advised the Young Adult Missionary group and has been a den mother for the Cub Scouts.

If someone is sick or is a shut-in, Mrs. Gilchrist is likely to be at their house to visit and care for them. She also baby sits and is famous for her cakes, which she bakes for people in the community on request.

If she has a spare minute, Mrs. Gilchrist likes to read or sew. Spare time is limited though, because in addition to all her activities, she has 12 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren, who, she admits, "keep me quite busy."

"To me, being needed means a great deal," Mrs. Gilchrist said. "And the thing is, you're not only helping someone else, but you're keeping yourself busy. I feel that staying busy is very important."

IN MICHIGAN, a new law regulating nursing homes is considered to be a model statute. The law establishes a reimbursement and penalty system for violation of patients' rights and provides for protection against abuse. The law also includes setting up a system for transfers and discharges, provides for patient complaints and spells out procedures for collecting fines from nursing home operators. Violators of the new law can be prosecuted for misdemeanors and face imprisonment and/or fines if convicted.

IN LOS ANGELES, Operation Carrier Alert is designed to locate and assist older persons who become ill in their homes and are unable to help themselves. The program is currently being operated in 25 zip code areas where large numbers of senior citizens live.

To participate, persons 60 years of age and older fill out application forms obtained from the Aging Division of the city's Community Development Department. The names of the registered participants are passed on to the Los Angeles City Post Office by the Aging Division.

Mail carriers notice if a participant's mail from the previous day has not been taken from his or her mailbox. The carrier notifies post office officials, who then contact the Aging Division, which at that point alerts the individual listed by the senior as the party to contact in case of emergency. If the emergency contact is unavailable the Division assigns someone to go to the home of the older person.

Research Report

The Scientists Tell Me ... Potatoes and Other Roots and Tubers Can Increase Our Food Supply

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

Potatoes and certain other roots and tubers can help increase food production on existing cropland. With growing world population pressures and dwindling food and energy supplies, this marvelously productive food family deserves expanded usage by serious home gardeners as well as commercial producers.

Scientists say that more people can be fed from an acre of sweet potatoes than can be fed from an acre of rice, and with much less energy input.

If world population does grow by 2,000 million people in the next 20 years, as predicted, we'll need every advantage to feed them.

The root and tuber crops (potato, sweet potato, cassava, yams, taro, yautia) have amazing food potential, are relatively resistant to attack by pests, and produce high dependable yields with a minimum of such costly energy inputs as fertilizers and pesticides. For example, yields of as much as 57.5 tons of taro per acre have been grown under ideal conditions.

The corms of taro and yautia are comparable to the white potato in nutritive value.

It's true that at present most of the tropical root crops serve mainly as a source of calories, but efforts are being made to improve their nutritional content.

Many of them furnish other plant parts that are nutritious. For example, in parts of Asia the tips of the sweet potato vine are eaten as a delicious green vegetable. The young leaves of the "sweet" cassava varieties are edible as are those of yautia.

Texas, at present, grows only a small percentage of the white and sweet potatoes we consume each year. However we could readily expand the 21,000 acres now in production if growers were given enough economic incentive.

The present potato industry in Texas exists because of unique climatic conditions which allow production during months when other areas of the nation are unable to produce. In the Texas High Plains this period extends from early July, when shipments from California and Arizona begin to taper off, through August.

After this time, Texas is unable to profitably compete with the Columbia River Basin of Washington and other areas which are beginning their harvest. The principal reason for this inability to compete is the high cost of production of relatively low yields.

Texas' yields of marketable potatoes range from 150 to 175 hundred-weight (cwt) per acre, compared to over 400 cwt/A for the Columbia River Basin.

If yields could be increased, Texas could profitably compete with other areas and extend its growing season. Research is seeking to do this in a number of ways, including the development of new varieties.

To develop improved varieties specifically suited to Texas conditions, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station has had scientists working on this problem since 1973.

They seek to develop an early, high-yielding russet potato variety with superior processing qualities, in order to help High Plains producers meet the demands of the present marketing period.

They're also developing a medium-to-late maturing russet potato with high yield and good processing qualities to expand the High Plains marketing period.

"Also needed are improved red and white potato varieties with superior shipping and processing qualities," according to Dr. Creighton Miller, an Experiment Station horticulturist in vegetable breeding.

A 47-cwt increase per acre with a 100% increase in yield of premium weight potatoes resulted from research with antitranspirants.

Dr. William N. Lipe, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock, who did the research, says this was due to continuous tuber (potato) enlargement made possible by elimination of stress between irrigations.

Other research is seeking to further increase yields through improved varieties, scientific fertilization, and better production and harvesting practices.

Lipe has already discovered that many producers are using too much nitrogen fertilizer with an adverse effect on quality of potatoes. He fertilizes only on the basis of soil test results.

Another finding was that West Texas potato growers can lose up to one-third of their potential yields if they use undersized seed pieces and wide spacings.

Random samples of machine-cut seed pieces being used by some growers were found to be less than one ounce in size. A minimum of 1 1/2 ounce is considered desirable for strong, healthy plants.

In tests, Lipe found that seeds of less than one-half ounce made 21 cwt per acre of 8- to 14-ounce grade potatoes, compared to 154 cwt from 1 1/2-ounce seeds, and 182 cwt from seed pieces over 2 1/2 ounces.

Spacing is another important factor reducing yields of Norgolds. Many varieties respond to higher density plantings by increased total yield but reduced yield of 8- to 14-ounce grade.

This has not been the case for Norgold russet and spacings of 7 to 8 inches have resulted in higher yield of 8- to 14-ounce grade, as well as total yield increases.

Two important problems in sweet potato production are extreme variability in root production and shape of roots at harvest.

Research by Dr. Don Paterson with the Experiment Station at Overton is aimed at discovering the means to improve both yield and shape of sweet potatoes.

In experiments to determine the feasibility of breeding for sweet potato weevil resistance, about 75 breeding lines have been rated each year for the past 5 years for crown and root weevil infestation at Yoakum, Texas.

Indications are that there is a 5-fold difference in weevil infestation between lines being tested.

Exposure of the root system of Red LaSoda potato plants to an 80% carbon dioxide and 20% oxygen atmosphere for 12 hours resulted in increased tuber formation.

Treatment of potato seed pieces in a similar atmosphere of carbon dioxide and oxygen resulted in an increase in sprout growth and tuber yield. This leads us to believe that such treatment of seed can increase both stand and yield in the field.

"Present research indicates that we're a long way from being able to capitalize on the full food production potential of both white and sweet potatoes," Miller says.

"We believe that research can give us the answers that producers need to greatly increase production of root and tuber crops that are so widely popular."

Accent On Health

Texas Department of Health
Raymond T. Moore, M.D., Commissioner

Spring is the time campers and backpackers take to the woods. Unfortunately, ticks—many of them infected with Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever—take to these outdoorsmen.

Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever has been increasing in Texas. In 1970, only seven cases were reported, but in 1978, seven cases were found in Tarrant County alone, with a total of 28 for the entire state.

Most cases reported to the Bureau of Communicable Diseases Services of the Texas Department of Health have been from the northeastern and southeastern areas of the state. Even though a number of tick species are found in these areas, only a few are thought to be involved in the transmission of Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever.

"The American dog tick (Dermacentor variabilis) is a primary vector," says Paul V. Fournier, of the State Health Department's General Parasitology Branch. "Medical investigations by the State Health Department, however, have also shown the association between the lone star tick (Amblyomma americanum) and RMSF.

One Millionth Telephone

General Telephone Company of the Southwest installed its one millionth telephone in May 1973 at Texas A&M University. The one million milestone was reached after almost 47 years of operation, the company being incorporated in June 1926.

However, the trip to the next million appears to be much shorter as it has taken less than six years to install another half a million, and projections on company growth indicate the 2nd millionth telephone will be installed by late 1982.

General Telephone serves over 400 exchanges made up of over 990 communities with over 2.2 million in population in 59,000 square miles of area in Arkansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas. Size of exchanges range from 51 telephones in Fowlerston to 85,391 in Garland in the Dallas Metroplex.
