Rebels Win 1st Place Spot

By Britt Morgan

At Fridays pep rally, assistant coach Perry Cowan made a small prediction that came very true. He said, "... James Bowie may come up here flying the Pirate skull and crossbones, but they'll go home flying the Rebel banner!" The only thing Cowan did not account for was the rain that poured down on players, fans, and flags. But the rain did not seem to affect the Rivercrest Rebels as they pounded the Pirates 37-0 and put themselves atop district 20-AA. But in achieving the first place district standing, the Rebs got a little help from Harmony's Eagles as they held Maud to a scoreless tie Friday night which gave Maud and Rivercrest identical records. But the Rebs actually won their game with Maud on penetrations which means if Rivercrest wins next week, they will represent the district in the playoffs.

The Rebels are fast approaching their full potential. The ball control wishbone offense of the Rebs pounded out 250 yards while the defense held Bowie to only 60 total yards and four first downs. Bowie's only possession in Rebel territory came on the opening kick-off when the ball ricocheted off a Rebel player and the Pirates recovered at Rivercrest's 44 yard line. They then engineered their only drive of the night to the 15 yard line before turning the ball over on downs. The Rivercrest express then cranked up and drove 85 yards to a touchdown. In the drive, Wade Cline had runs of nine and 13 yards. Billy Stewart had a 10 yard gain, and Jerry Merchant added a 17 yard run to the one yard line from where he punched the ball over for the score. Merchant then added the extra points and Rivercrest led 8-0 with just seconds gone from the second quarter. James Bowie only kept the ball on three plays as Stan Wood intercepted a Pirate pass at the 25 yard line. It took only seven plays for Merchant to once again penetrate the goal line with 7:02 left in the second quarter. Cline added the two-point conversion and the Rebs were up by 16. After receiving a Bowie punt at the Pirates 48, the express again took the ball to paydirt, with Merchant again doing the honors from 13 yards out giving the Rebs a 22-0 lead at halftime.

After exchanging punts, the Pirates found themselves in a hole near the beginning of the second half and on fourth down the Bowie punter was forced back into his own end-zone to punt. As the ball was snapped, defensive tackle Terry Fulbright shot through the line and partially blocked the punt. Larry Davis recovered the ball for the Rebs at the 20 yard line. The Rebs then took the ball to the four yard line where, with a first down, they fumbled the ball over to the Pirates. This made the Rebel defense rather angry and on Bowie's first play from scrimmage, the defense stormed the quarterback behind the goal line for a safety. This made the score 24-0 with 5:35 left in the third quarter. Merchant, who scored last week on an 80 yard kick off return, brought the Pirates free-kick back 40 yards to the Pirate 41 yard line. Cline then put the ball on the 20 with a 21 yard run. A few plays later a holding penalty against Rivercrest gave them a first down and 17 from the 17 yard line. That's where James Strickland threw his only pass of the night to Bradley Moore who was wide open in the middle of the field for a touchdown. Charlie Skaggs then added the extra point and Rivercrest led 31-0 with 2:18 left in the third quarter. James Bowie seemed to be having all the luck. On their next possession they fumbled the ball over to Rivercrest at the 15 yard line, from where the Rebs second team offense carried the ball over with Stan Wood, now at quarterback, doing the honors from the one. The extra point try failed, and the Rebs led 37-0, the score they took to the field house.

Wade Cline led rushing for the Rebels with 102 yards on 13 carries, while Merchant added 87 more to his yearly earnings. The entire Rebel defense played an excellent ball game; holding the Pirates to only 60 yards rushing, no yards passing, and credited with a blocked punt and a safety.

The Rebels must travel to New Diana this week for their last district game. The players are surely to remember last years game when New Diana beat the Rebs and won the district title, so the contest will prove to be a battle, and hopefully New Diana, like Redwater and James Bowie in the past weeks, will get tired of the Rivercrest band playing Dixie to their defeat.

Buy A Home

While some families will find it harder than ever to purchase a home in the next 10 years, a home will remain their best investment, says a real estate researcher. Although rising monthly payments may be hard to cope with, inflation will continue to push the value of houses upward throughout the '80s.

Where the flying fishermen play

The waiter poured the coffee and we both sat there watching the hot, black liquid fill the cup. Finally, Joyce looked up at me. "For a guy celebrating a nice pay raise, you sure don't seem to be overflowing with joy." I laughed and shook my head. "Hey, I'm happy about the raise. Lord knows we can use the extra dough."
After fifteen years of marriage, I knew Joyce was not someone to be put off when she sensed something wrong. "So why the trapped look in your eye? Is it the work?"
"Well, it's all right. I feel secure. And I sure studied for it." She just kept looking at me, waiting. So I finally spit it out. "However, I don't get a great deal of satisfaction from it. I guess I really don't enjoy it. And yet, the more I make, the longer I do it, the harder it will be to ever get out."
She nodded, not surprised at all. "Then why not do something you enjoy?"
I shrugged and looked out the window. A small plane was banking into what looked like a final airport approach. I kept watching him as I spoke. "Looking back—I guess I should have joined an airline when I got out of the Air Force. There's nothing I like better than flying—except, well, maybe fishing."
"So start a charter line for fishermen. You know, those rich ones, who can afford to seek out remote fishing spots. You could do that."
The idea appealed to me a lot. "Yeah, what a dream. But you need some hard cash to get that going."
She grabbed my hand. "Listen, we've both been buying United States Savings Bonds on the Payroll Savings Plan since we started working. How much do we have?" I had the feeling she knew.

I had forgotten our cache of Bonds, but they'd been growing for a long time. "I'm not sure... but a lot," I answered.
"We've got enough to start. Enough for a down payment. I always thought I married an adventurous man. Now prove it."
Well, that was two years ago. Now I'm doing what I want to do. Just flew a bunch of businessmen up near the Canadian border for some of the best fishing in the country. And Joyce is happy running the business end. Instead of being a secretary, she's hiring one.
But, you know, we both still buy Bonds on a regular schedule, 'cause we know that's the easy way to save for those dreams. Every time I take off, I think: "Bonds helped get this airline off the ground."

If your heart pounds as you tear open your monthly utility bill, the Average Billing Plan can help you. The Average Billing Plan helps you know how much of a utility bill to expect, by giving you about the same amount to pay each month. No more highs and lows in the billing cycle... and no more surprises.

Here's how it works:

FIRST MONTH	AVERAGE	*15% of accumulated difference is added when prior to the current bill, the calculated amount for electricity used is more than the accumulated amount billed under the Average Billing Plan.
MOST RECENT 12 MONTHS ACTUAL USE	+ 12 = BILLING AMOUNT
EACH MONTH THEREAFTER	15% OF ACCUMULATED DIFFERENCE + BILLING AMOUNT
MOST RECENT 12 MONTHS ACTUAL USE	+ 12 = ACCUMULATED DIFFERENCE + BILLING AMOUNT

BUDDY'S WORKSHOP

Build Or Renovate— That's The Question

Now that we are both retired and all the children are gone, my wife and I realize that we need to give up our large home and either build a new, smaller residence or purchase an existing smaller structure and renovate it to suit our needs. My wife wants to build. I want to buy and renovate. I think we can get more for our money by buying a solid, well-constructed older home and putting a little money into it. Am I right?

Whether you're right or wrong depends upon a number of variable factors—the housing market in your area, construction costs, interest rates, the sales potential of your present home, etc. The only way to make the right decision (for both of you) is to thoroughly investigate both options. New home builders are eager and anxious to work any way they can to help potential buyers. Inflation has raised building and mortgage costs to the point that buying and renovating existing housing must be considered, especially by young would-be home purchasers, but also by retirees who find themselves with more house than they need.

Which is more important when buying home insulation—thickness or R-value?

The R-value of insulation is most important. R-value indicates the material's ability to resist the flow of heat through it; thickness does not. Hire a contractor or consult an expert if you plan to install your own.

Footprints From The Past

By John W. Hood
I was in Paris the other day and ran into one of my old school mates. We got to talking and thought back to some of the things that went on during our high school days. One of the first things we remembered was when ten or twelve of us boys who needed a half credit to graduate took home economics.

It was the only course that was on an accredited college list so we enrolled in cooking. That would have been fine, except that they made us eat everything we cooked. Sometimes that was really a chore, for we weren't good cooks at all.

One time we had made something that none of us liked and hadn't done it right either. The bell rang and we hadn't eaten the dish, so we all stuffed our mouths full. We weren't allowed to leave anything we had prepared or it would count off on grades.

Well, we got to our next class and Clyde Barham was still chewing mightily on the mouthful of food he had. The teacher asked him what he was eating and he mumbled "nothing" but his mouth was so full he could hardly talk. The teacher asked him again, and he said "Well, if you just have to know I am just chewing on my hollow tooth".

You can imagine what that answer did for him! He had to write on the blackboard 100 times that he would not eat in class. After that the teacher began to check the rest of us who had come from the cooking class and found all of us still chewing away. So we all had to march up to the black board and write that we would not eat in class.

We had a lot of fun in cooking class, even though we took a lot of teasing about it. But the course has come in handy many times over my life when the food I have cooked for myself has been edible instead of otherwise.

Local Soil Erosion Worse

Soil erosion on cropland in Red River County is more severe now than in the past 25 years, according to local conservationist. Much of the increase is due to land ownership changes, landuse changes and huge equipment.

Soil erosion by water is becoming more serious in Red River County as cropland acres increase. Some soil erosion from the action of water is inevitable. It becomes a threat to productivity only when the annual rate of erosion exceeds the rate at which new soil can be created. On most cropland, pasture and forest, an erosion rate of 4 or 5 tons per acre is acceptable because the eroded soil is replaced through natural processes. Of Red River County's 150,000 acres of cropland it is estimated that about 70,000 acres are losing more than 5 tons of soil per acre annually. This means that about 46 percent of the cropland is losing more soil than can be replaced by nature. Basically soil erosion by water takes two forms. Sheet erosion removes a fairly uniform layer of soil. The more obvious rill erosion is the formation of small channels caused by surface runoff. When a rill gets deeper than one foot it is usually referred to as a gully. Continued high rates of soil loss will adversely affect the lands productivity. It can damage down stream property, and increase the sediment deposited in road ditches, streams and lakes.

Fortunately, there are practical solutions available for controlling soil erosion. Grassel waterways and parallel terraces are two of the most effective ways to control erosion. Contour plowing and stripcropping are also useful. Among the newest and most successful techniques for erosion control are various forms of conservation tillage, in which residue from a previous crop is left in the field. Besides conserving the soil, conservation tillage can save fuel, labor, time and machinery without limit, they are vulnerable.

The technology of soil and water conservation is more than adequate today to reduce much soil erosion to acceptable limits. Our soil and water resources are not. For information on technical help with erosion problems contact the Soil Conservation Service.

BUYING APPLES

Too many people buy apples without regard to variety and, consequently, fail to get the best the market affords.

There is no such thing as a typical apple flavor, as each variety has its own distinctive taste. It may be sweet, mellow, or tart.

There are 7,000 varieties of apples produced in the United States and listed by the Department of Agriculture. Of these, 9 provide about 85 percent of the total production.

Red Delicious is the leader, with 30 percent of the production, followed by Golden Delicious, McIntosh, Rome, Jonathan, York, Stayman, Winesap and Newton Pippin.

Many people still do not recognize that the Newton Pippin is really an all-purpose apple. Although it is green, it is not just a cooking apple.

Another fine green-skinned apple is the Granny Smith. Similar in size, shape and uses to the Pippin, it could become one of our major varieties.

I didn't care about the rainy day. Just looking at her happy face made everything seem sunny and bright.

A rainy day.

"Good Lord, Harry, just look at all this. They ought to lock us up. We must have flipped. We really can't afford it!"

I looked around the reception hall of the local country club. Table after table had been set up for the wedding feast. An orchestra was tuning up off to the side on a raised stage. Waiters were scurrying around with buckets of champagne. Others were going through the ceremony of uncorking the wine. And it was all on me.

Mrs. Hillman, second cousin to the groom, passed by and grabbed my arm to say something I couldn't understand. But I smiled at her while I said to my wife, Martha, "Don't worry. I told you I had a way to pay for it. So you might as well enjoy it. Eat, drink, dance."

Now Mrs. Hillman was holding Martha's hand, babbling away. Martha smiled back at her but otherwise she was not paying any attention. Out of the corner of her mouth she said in a pained voice, "But I do worry. I'm a born worrier. What do you have in mind? A second job? Selling the house? Or just taking every last cent out of the bank?"

I wondered what the chances were of getting a glass of the champagne as I waved to the departing Mrs. Hillman. "Nope, not the house," I said to Martha. "But on the other hand, we will have to cash in a large chunk of those U.S. Savings Bonds."

"The Bonds! Oh, Harry, you clever devil you, I'd forgotten about the Bonds. What a lifesaver!"

I had almost forgotten them, too. But that's one of the good things about U.S. Savings Bonds. You buy 'em and forget 'em. Meanwhile they grow. When you really need 'em, there they are, all grown and matured.

The band struck up as the wedding party came in the door. Everyone applauded, Martha was smiling with a big tear rolling down her cheek.

"Oh, Harry, isn't she beautiful? It's worth it. Even though we were saving those Bonds for a rainy day!" I put my arm around her and said, "Don't worry, I'm still buying them every payday. And as far as rainy days go...take a look out the window."

As I waltzed with my daughter, it really did seem worth all the expense. I didn't care about the rainy day. Just looking at her happy face made everything seem sunny and bright.

As the dance ended, she looked up at me and said, "Thank you, Daddy. For everything. And especially for today. I shrugged, and said in an offhand manner, "It's nothing, nothing at all."

When you put part of your savings into U.S. Savings Bonds, you're helping to build a brighter future for your country and for yourself.

WHO BUILDS THE BARRIER?
November 8, 1981

Background Scripture:
Romans 8.

Devotional Reading:
Galatians 5: 16-24.

In those times when God seems absent from our lives, when it appears that he is not present to help us in our trouble or sorrow, it is customary for us to assume that he has for some reason placed a barrier between himself and ourselves. It is also customary for us to assume that the reason for his absence is his displeasure with us—something we've done or not done, something present in our lives that shouldn't be there or something lacking that should be.

The Psalmists frequently complained that God had forsaken them: "O God, why dost thou cast us off forever?" (74: 1). King Saul was convinced that God no longer listened to his prayers. Even Jesus cried on Calvary, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" If all of these—and more—experienced a barrier between God and themselves, it is not so surprising that we have also experienced it.

According to the Flesh

Yet, the Bible seems to indicate that it is really not God who abandons us, but we who abandon him. If there is a barrier between us in times of great need, it is because we have perhaps unwittingly erected it ourselves. God does not desire to separate himself from us even in the midst of our sin.

One of the ways in which we build such a barrier is to focus our whole attention and being on the material side of life. Whether our hangup is food, drink, clothing, money, power or our other material pleasures, we stifle our spiritual selves when we fail to recognize that we are both flesh and spirit. It is not that God becomes angry with us for our material preoccupation, but that these "things" erect a barrier that tends to shut him out. Thus, Paul reminded the Romans that "all who are led by the Spirit of God are sons of God" (Romans 8: 14).

Who is to Condemn?

Another way we build a barrier between ourselves and God is by failing to really accept his forgiving grace. Although in our minds we "know" that it is through God in Christ that we are freed from our guilt, we still may live as if we don't believe it. We act as though we are more powerful sinners than he is a Saviour. So Paul reminds us in Romans, "It is God who justifies, who is to condemn?" (8: 34). To live with unrelieved guilt is to actually reject the grace of God.

"Who shall separate us from the love of Christ?" asks the Apostle (8: 35). His answer: Nothing or no one! "For I am sure that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor things present, nor things to come, nor powers, nor height, nor depth, nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord" (8: 38).

Cases Tried, And Sentences Set

During the week beginning October 26, three jury cases were tried in District Court in Clarksville before District Judge Henry Braswell of Paris.

A jury found Charles Wayne Jackson, a black male, not guilty of the aggravated rape of Mary Ellen Tillery, a black female, alleged to have occurred on May 23, 1981.

A second jury found William D. Francis of Valliant, Okla. guilty of speeding in a case appealed from Justice of the Peace court and assessed him a fine of $200 and $77.50 court costs.

The third jury found Billy D. Robertson of Clarksville not guilty of speeding.

Judge Braswell also heard guilty pleas and set punishments as follows:

Hollis English from the Bogata area was sentenced to 2 years in prison, no probation or fine, for the August 4, 1981 burglary of a shed belonging to R.B. Schrimpsphere of Johntown during which tools belonging to Roy Joe Wells of Johntown were taken.

Vera Patt of Clarksville was sentenced to 5 years probated, no fine, for the August 13, 1981 aggravated assault on Robbie Thomas of Clarksville in which a shotgun was alleged to have been used, but no physical injuries were sustained by anyone.

Teddy Ray Bullard was sentenced to 5 years in prison, probated, and a $1,000 fine for delivery of marijuana on September 1, 1980.

Jack Pollock of Clarksville was sentenced to 30 days in jail probated for one year for the August 31, 1981 assault on Frances Pollock, his ex-wife. He had previously paid restitution for hospital and doctor's bills.

Milton Coleman of Annona was sentenced to 53 days in jail probated for one year, having been incarcerated already for 23 days for the September 18, 1981 criminal trespass of his mother's home in Annona. Mr. Coleman was also sentenced to 14 days in jail for driving while intoxicated and driving while license suspended on October 13, 1981 and in addition was fined $200 and $100, respectively, in the two cases.

Donald Young of Clarksville was sentenced to 18 days in jail for resisting arrest by Clarksville City Policeman Rufus Hamilton on October 11, 1981. No blows were landed, and Young was released for time already served.

The DWI charge against James Edward Clark of Clarksville was dismissed without trial when it was learned that a local doctor was prepared to testify that the Defendant was not intoxicated when he examined him in the hospital emergency room after the accident he was involved in. No breathalyzer was given because of the accident.

The DWI charge against John Bedford Hall was dismissed without trial because the whereabouts of the arresting officer, ex-deputy John Hill, were not known.

Dear Mrs. Alexander,

Enclosed is a money order for $8.00 for another year of the Talco Times. It is a good little paper and I would like for you to start my paper coming immediately as I like the East Texas Country. It just can't be beat. I have learned a lot from the Talco Times and I have a few good friends in Talco and Mt. Pleasant. I plan to retire in the Talco and Mt. Pleasant area. I like the fishing and hunting there and the ground there is good for most any kind of crop, beside all the beautiful country. It just beats Dallas anytime.

Truly yours,
John Chovanik

Transportation Woes

Transportation research in the United States has been "almost criminally neglected" in the last decade, says the director of the Texas Transportation Institute. Much of the decline in mobility we are experiencing—overcrowded highways, airways, railways—stems from the lack of a soundly funded transportation system and the problems will get worse.

Reports Needed From Farmers And Ranchers

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service will begin interviewing Texas farmers and ranchers in mid-November on 1981 final acreage, yield, and crop production and end of the year poultry and livestock inventories for Texas and individual counties.

The confidential interviews will be conducted through the mail or phone or in person by field enumerators. Data collection will end in early January.

Doug Murfield, State Statistician, has urged farmers and ranchers to return questionnaires promptly. He said all information reported is kept confidential and is combined with out reported information for state and county estimates. These estimates give Texas farmers and ranchers information in which to plan their production and marketing activity in a way that will be most beneficial to their individual operations.

The reports help in transporting, storing, marketing and processing farm products to maintain an orderly flow from producer to consumer. They also assure competitive markets, Murfield said. Without them, most producers would have to depend on trade sources for information on crop and livestock prospects.

The cooperative effort between the Texas Department of Agriculture and the U.S. Department of Agriculture eliminates duplication of effort and saves tax dollars.

County estimates are available for livestock, dairy, poultry, field crops including cotton, small grains, vegetables, fruits and pecans, and cash receipts from the sale of Texas farm commodities. They can be obtained by writing the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, P.O. Box 70, Austin, Texas 78767 or Agriculture Commissioner REagan V. Brown, The Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

Commissioners Court Adopts Budget

The Red River County Commissioners Court adopted a $1.4 million dollar budget at the annual budget hearing last week.

In the most controversial issue of the hearing, the Court agreed to change the distribution formula for Road & Bridge funding. The money had previously been divided equally between the four precincts, Precinct 1, Commissioner Bruce Scott and County Judge, Connie L. Sullivan attempted to divide the funding on the basis of miles of county roads, which would have been as follows: Precinct 1-32 percent, Precinct 2-26.5 percent, Precinct 3-19.5 percent and Precinct 4-22 percent.

However, Commissioners R.L. Edwards, Ben Storey, and Darwin Floyd supported a compromise as follows: Precinct 1-28 Percent (112,000); Precinct 2-24.25 percent (97,000); Precinct 3-23.5 percent (94,000); and Precinct 4-24.25 percent (97,000). This passed three to two.

The only other area of conflict involved was setting salaries for county employees. On a 4-1 vote, with Judge Sullivan voting no, the Commissioners approved raises for county employees ranging from 7 to 30 percent.

Other highlights of the budget included a 10 percent raise for county officials, funding for one new replacement vehicle for the Sheriff's Department, and money for a new roof for the Courthouse.

The budget as adopted would involve a tax increase of only 3 percent.

This is the first time in many years that the county has not operated in the red or had to borrow money to meet routine financial obligations.

As a result the county coffers will have approximately $290,000 at the beginning of 1982 budget year.

Chrysanthemum Is Popular Summer/Autumn Bloomer

The chrysanthemum is one of the best-known and most popular of all summer and autumn bloomers. The plant originated in China and Japan, where it was grown long before the Christian era began in Europe. Cultivated varieties appeared in Europe in the 18th century.

A member of the Compositae family, the chrysanthemum takes its name from the Greek chryso, gold and anthos, flower—thus, goldflower. The chrysanthemum rivals the rose in the cut flower category, primarily because the daisy-like flowers are offered by florists in a variety of colors year-round. The chrysanthemum generally bloom in late summer and autumn but will bloom in winter under glass and bloom at any time of the year under selected conditions.

Hybrid varieties offered by florists are of Chinese origin. Several varieties are available, with differing petal formations and flower shapes. Flowers may be daisy-like singles or doubles, small pom-pom shapes or florets which curve inward to form a globular shape.

Chrysanthemums require sunlight, need fertile soil containing lime and must be watered frequently during the growing season. Propagation is possible by division or seed, with division generally the most successful method. Cuttings from the base of the mother plant should be kept warm under glass to encourage sprouting. The smaller varieties are best under glass for wintertime cut flowers.

Immunization Clinic Slated

The Texas Department of Health, Public Health Region 7 office announced plans today for the continuation of a series of monthly immunization clinics for all children needing immunizations. The clinic will be conducted at the Bogata City Hall on November 12, from 2 to 4 p.m.

The Health Department emphasizes that this clinic is available to all children, preschool and school age, beginning at two (2) months of age. Immunizations to be offered include Mumps, Measles, Rubella, Oral Polio, Diptheria-Tetanus-Pertussis (DTP) and Tetanus-diphtheria (Td). All children must be accompanied by a parent or legal guardian. Parents are reminded to bring the child's immunization record if it is available.

Red River Haven Has Party

The residents of Red River Haven enjoyed a Halloween pumpkins. Second place winners were Virginia Bishop, Madge Burns, and Zura Newsome. After the program the residents were served butter rolls and hot cider.

Coasting Approach
If a light turns red as you approach it and you know it will be red when you reach it, ease off the gas and coast up to the light slowly. Even though you will have to stop, a slow, coasting approach uses less gas getting to the light than gas wasted idling at the light with a fast approach. Remember, approach slow and save gas.
