Rivercrest Rebelettes Lose Bid For Region III Title

By Britt Morgan
The inexperience of the Rivercrest Rebelettes showed itself a little too well this past weekend in Huntsville at the Region III state play-offs. The young Rebelette team, boasting only two seniors and three juniors, found themselves awed by the speed and agility of their opponents, the West Sabine Lady Tigers.

The Rebelettes came out in a zone defense to keep the Tigers from hitting inside and it worked until the Lady Tigers discovered the baseline and the Rebelettes broke into a person-to-person defense. But they found themselves behind four points at the end of the first quarter.

The Lady Tigers had scouted the Rivercrest feds well and knew where their main weakness lay, the pressure of playing against a full-court press. The Rebelettes, still shaky from the thoughts of being in the play-offs, time and time again turned the ball over to the quicker Lady Tigers and at half time were on the short end of a 32-26 score.

The Rebelettes tried a new tactic after the break and came out with a spread zone. The zone worked well and the Rebelettes pulled within four points before the Lady Tigers found how to break the zone and pulled out too far in front for the Rebelettes to catch up. Head coach Frank Stubblefield, seeing the game out of reach, played everyone from the bench. "We did not have much chance of winning and every girl deserved to play, and they can use the experience in years to come."

The Lady Tigers did not pull their starters, though, and they outscored the Rebelettes 21-4 in the fourth quarter to make the final tally 68-42. West Sabine was defeated the next day in the regional championship game against Grapeland.

"We had a very good year. We really did not expect to return to Huntsville, but the team proved that we could do it," Stubblefield commented about the season. And next year, "We will miss Jean Ann Norman at forward and more especially Veronica Howerton at post, but we have nearly all young players and we're looking forward to the next few years."

The Rebelettes finished their season undefeated in district play and 27-3 on the year.

Finding the best food buys this week, as every week, depends upon comparative shopping.

At the meat counter, for example, you'll find beef prices a little lower, but demand is sluggish because of large supplies of competing meats.

You'll find good buys in cuts from the chuck and in ground beef. Remember, it's cost per serving rather than cost per pound that's important.

In the pork department consumers will find prices are down and all pork cuts are good buys. Anytime you can buy a whole loin or a family-sized package, you'll save on cost per serving.

The clinic will be conducted at the Bogata City Hall in Bogata on March 11 from 2 to 4 p.m. Future clinic dates will be announced.

The Health Department emphasizes that this clinic is available to all children, preschool and school age, beginning at two months of age. Immunizations to be offered include Mumps, Measles, Rubella, Oral Polio, Diphtheria-Tetanus-Pertussis and Tetanus-diphtheria. All children must be accompanied by a parent or legal guardian. Parents are reminded to bring the child's immunization record if it is available.

The Tetanus-diphtheria vaccine is also available to adults.

Speed Up Tax Refund, Use Label

Taxpayers can help speed up the processing of tax returns by using the pre-addressed, peel off labels and by double checking their arithmetic before mailing the returns. As simple as the items appear, they are the cause for thousands of errors every year, the IRS says.

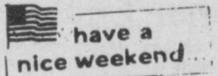

The label comes with the tax package in the mail and lists the taxpayer's name, address, social security number and other bits of information which help the IRS in processing the return quickly.

If any of the information on the label is incorrect, the correction can be made directly on the label. Taxpayers should also use the coded envelope included in the tax package. It's pre-addressed and helps the IRS sort returns.

Errors such as checking the wrong filing status, failing to sign the return, math mistakes, and the omission of necessary documents are common mistakes which can delay taxpayers' refunds. The IRS must correct the errors or obtain the documents before processing the return.

Most errors can be avoided if the return is double checked for accuracy and the label is used.

All Modes Of Travel Reach Alaska

Whole new worlds of experience from fishing and scuba diving in the summer, to dog mushing and skiing in the winter await in Alaska.

How do you get there? It's no problem for modern vacationers.

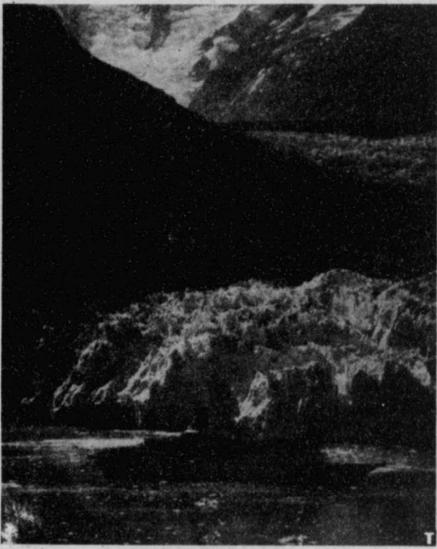

Today's adventure seeking vacationer can travel to Alaska by air, highway, sea or a combination.

At the end of the trail are the delights of Alaska's winter skiing, the famous aurora borealis, snow festivals and fine arts performances or summer fishing, camping, hiking, hunting and excursions to some of the most spectacular parks in the world.

Alaska's largest city, Anchorage, is three hours jet flying time from Seattle, Washington. Four carriers regularly schedule flights from Seattle. The vacationer can pick which of Alaska's worlds he wants to join: Southeastern's gorgeous seacoast, Central Alaska's cities and ski resorts, the Interior and Far North's pioneer and Eskimo villages, or Southwest Alaska's wilderness sports fishing and hunting lodges.

There are more airplanes per capita in Alaska than anywhere else, making even the remotest wild country wonders a short air taxi hop away. Anchorage is the air crossroads to the world, so vacationers can plan extended journeys to Europe and Asia after much memorable fun in the 49th state.

State operated ferries and elegant cruise ships accommodate those who prefer a leisurely journey to The Great Land. Passengers boarding in Seattle or Prince Rupert, British Columbia, enjoy the comforts of cozy passenger cabins during the four-day cruise and may disembark at fascinating ports of call for a drive to rejoin the ferry as they wish. Many vacationers also choose to ferry one way and drive back via the Alaska Highway for vacations that combine a seaside and inland panorama.

Cruise excursions also are available from May to September on luxury ships of five major cruise lines. Round-trip cruises from California last 12 to 14 days, with leisurely stops along Alaska's famed Inside Passage and Gulf Coast. Cruises also are designed for vacationers who want to combine ocean voyaging with organized inland tours to Alaska's famed National Parks, and a jet flight back home.

Alaska Highway gateway cities in Montana, Idaho and Washington are starting points for auto-touring vacationers. Mile-by-mile information on attractions and lodging is listed in the Milepost Magazine, available at any of the highway's gateway cities, to make the exciting week-long safari northward easy and memorable. Drivers can return south by Alaska's year-round ferry service.

THE GAS PUMP

GAS SAVER

When you are stopped at an intersection, take your foot off the accelerator and let the engine idle at the normal rpm. Most drivers have a tendency to rest their foot on the pedal, which results in wasted gas. Make it a habit, when you are stopped, take your foot off the pedal.

HOME BUYER CLINIC

By Thomas S. McDonald
President-Elect
American Land Title Association

Retained Rights

Before buying a home, remember that previous owners can retain rights in real estate after it is sold.

The buyer of a home in the midwest was abruptly reminded of this fact when a neighbor unexpectedly demanded removal of a fence just e-

McDonald rected on his newly acquired property. As it turned out, the neighbor was a previous owner of the buyer's real estate and had reserved an easement across the property before selling.

Although the buyer was unaware of it at time of purchase, the easement allowed the neighbor to plant and maintain trees, shrubs, foliage and ground cover on the land he formerly owned. When the buyer erected a fence that interfered with this planned use, the neighbor objected.

Under coverage of the buyer's policy of owner's title insurance obtained when he purchased the property, the title company resolved the problem and paid for removing the fence to protect him against financial loss.

Owner's title insurance safeguards against problems including those a search of public records may not disclose, such as previously undetected easement. Coverage includes payment for defending against an attack on title as insured and either clearing up title problems or payment of valid claims as the policy provides.

For free information on home buying precautions, write American Land Title Association, Box 566, Washington, D.C. 20044.

SENIOR CITIZEN'S CORNER

HELPFUL IDEAS FOR SUCCESSFUL RETIREMENT

STAY WITH ME

We may gradually be returning to the type of family "togetherness" that was so much a part of the great depression years. Families stayed together longer fifty years ago and often young adults who left the home- stead to seek their fortunes elsewhere were more likely to return than to stay away.

Senior citizens can remember that their family's togetherness was in great part necessitated by economics—the same force that now propels young marrieds to give second thoughts to living with in-laws and brings older citizens to consider the pros and cons of living with their children.

While it is good for families to be together, it can be difficult and trying for all concerned if they have been apart for a number of years. The move must be discussed in careful detail, with particular attention to all aspects of day-to-day living, financial arrangements, and privacy.

There can be no doubt that sharing can make life easier and more comfortable for everyone concerned. Surely, "come stay with me" can be music to the ears if one is having a tough time economically. It's an idea that works to everyone's benefit—if everyone knows the ground rules and understands that the process of sharing involves some loss of both independence and privacy. But, that's what sharing is all about.

MEDICINES

We do take our medicine as we grow older. During a discussion at the recent New York symposium, "Managing Medication in an Older Population," sponsored by the American Geriatrics Society, it was noted one study disclosed that Americans who are 65 or older use nearly one-third of the nation's medications. This is the senior citizen category that represents only about 11 percent of the national population.

Staying healthy, however, may not be just a matter of taking medicine. Another discussion at the symposium disclosed that 60 percent of older Americans use nonprescription drugs, often in conjunction with prescribed medication and usually without consulting their pharmacist or physician about the proper use of over-the-counter medications, when taken alone or in combination with other drugs.

Concern about multiple medication stems from the fact that one drug may change the effectiveness of another. The supplementing of a prescribed medication with some common drugs — laxatives, cough medicines, even aspirin — may sometimes cause side effects and interfere with other medicines. Also, doctors say, proper medication becomes more important as we grow older because the metabolism changes.

Most doctors regard self-treatment with nonprescription medications appropriate under many conditions but, as the symposium percentages suggest, patients should communicate with health professionals relative to the overall use of medications.

Blood Flower Produces Brightly Colored Flowers

The blood flower is so named because it produces in late spring and early summer dense round heads of brightly colored flowers. This is a handsome plant, with the eye-catching flowers appearing on long stems against a background of long, brilliant green leaves.

In cold climates, the blood flower is grown in greenhouse pots and tubs. In warm areas, it may be planted outdoors where there is no danger of frost, near a wall or in small beds. Potted plants require both warmth and light and full sunlight is best for outdoor location.

The summer-flowering plant is propagated by offsets. Soil should be a fairly equal distribution of fibrous loam, leaf-mould and decayed compost, with enough sand to insure adequate drainage. Watering should be as needed during growth season but should be discontinued if leaves turn yellow and begin to die.

BUYING TIP: before you order seeds or plants from a supplier in another part of the country, check to assure that the variety you select is suitable to growing conditions in your area. This information is usually included in the description of the seed or plant variety or given a zone number keyed to a map found elsewhere in the catalogue.

Agricultural Briefs

By Paul D. Payne

Faced with several changes which will affect Texas this year in the federal brucellosis eradication program, commissioners of the Texas Animal Health Commission have taken action which will allow Texas to continue its two-area brucellosis program.

Members of the TAHC have requested the U.S. Department of Agriculture to reclassify the present brucellosis control areas of the state, according to Dr. Jimmy L. Howard, Extension Veterinarian with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Dr. Howard told the some sixty cattlemen attending the educational meeting held last week at the Cattleman's Livestock Commission Company that East Texas area would become a class C area when the recommended changes in the Uniform Methods and Rules take place. This change is anticipated around February 1. However, it will take additional time to fully implement the program.

Until the new regulations are in effect, Texas producers should continue to operate under the present Texas brucellosis program, according to Dr. Richard Ferris, Veterinary Medical Officer, U.S. Department of Agriculture in Paris.

Class C area includes 114 counties and runs roughly on a north-south line west of Gainesville, Fort Worth, Waco and Laredo. The line is not a straight one. If one is unsure of the area a particular county is located, this information is available from our office.

Briefly, the following cattle movement restrictions will apply to our area: (C) (1) Officially calfhood vaccinated dairy heifers under 20 months of age and beef heifers under 24 months will not require testing prior to movement unless they are in their last three months of pregnancy, (2) Test eligible cattle will require one test within 30 days of movement when going to another location within Area C, (3) For shipment to another area or another state, vaccinated animals will require one test before movement and one test 45 to 120 days after movement, (4) Non-vaccinates will require two test conducted prior to movement and one after movement if going out of area or state.

When two tests are required prior to movement, the second test must be made within 30 days of movement and at least 60 days after the first one.

For herds that have had their first test towards obtaining Certified-Free Certification status and will not have time to gain Certified-Free prior to the regulations going into effect, only one test of those cattle will be required prior to movement. According to Dr. Ferris, this same rule would apply to any herd that had a negative whole herd test if the test was made between 60 and 365 days prior to movement.

The point should be re-emphasized that at this point, the above mentioned regulations are proposed. However, every official at the meeting last week expects the final regulation to read like the proposed ones.

Greenbugs are beginning to show up in area wheat fields, and there are a few guidelines that a producer should take into consideration when thinking about control measures.

Remember that there are a number of aphids that can be found in wheat. Greenbugs are an aphid and are by far the most damaging one. Greenbugs are pale green.

They are approximately one-sixth of an inch in length and have a characteristic dark green stripe on the back.

Greenbugs should not be confused with the dark green to bluish aphid. This is the Oat Bird-Cherry Aphid. They do not damage the wheat like greenbugs, and control of this aphid is seldom needed.

Such is not the case with the greenbug. They did become a major pest of area wheat in 1981 and we have every reason to expect damaging numbers this winter and spring.

Greenbugs develop in large numbers at temperatures between 55 and 90 degrees. Natural enemies reproduce slowly when temperatures are below 65, so the buildup can be dramatic.

The need for applying insecticide depends on the number of greenbugs present, size and vigor of plants, temperature, time of year, moisture conditions and stage of growth. For four to eight inch wheat, 200 to 400 greenbugs per linear foot would be a recommended infestation level. Occasionally populations of 25 to 50 greenbugs per foot of drill row in very young, small grain plants may warrant treatment.

Chemicals that can be used are dimethoate, disulfoton, malathion, parathion, phorate and Pennacp-M.

A new insect control guide for small grains has just been released by the Extension Service. Contact our office for a copy.

Scouts Hold Banquet

Tuesday, Feb. 23, the Cub Scouts held their annual Blue and Gold Banquet in the cafeteria of the Talco Elementary School.

The theme was "Do Your Best," which is the Cub Scout motto.

Dinner was served at 6:30, followed by Eagle Scout Tim Wood, who shared some of his experiences in Scouting. Tim also brought memorabilia from his years in Scouting.

Laughter followed when the Cub Scouts participated in a race showing how their dad's get dressed for work each morning. One Scout showed the group how his dad puts both legs in one leg of his pants! The winners were Jimmy Lewis, Jeremy Abshier and Eric Cabell.

The Scouts would like to thank the school for the use of the cafeteria and the parents for their support and help in making the banquet a success.

Sunday, March 7 is Cub Scout Sunday. If you are a Scout, you are encouraged to attend church. There will be special recognition for those attending.
