

Area Crops, Lawns Respond To Rains

The Lamar, Red River and Titus County areas, along with the rest of East Texas, can generally count themselves lucky, at least moisture-wise.

Various scattered thunderstorms throughout the month of June and July covered most of the area with much coveted rainfall, and has kept lawns, gardens, orchards and crops looking promising.

Hay crops are still extremely short, as little as fifty percent of normal, due, apparently to the severe cold weather which stunted bermuda grass and other grasses that contribute heavily to area hay production. Hopes that the rains will continue through August and will create a lush second cutting are high.

Other than hay, the rest of the crops are looking as good as they ever have. Milo crops, due to adequate moisture, are producing heavy, well filled heads. Insect problems, however, are causing many farmers to resort to spraying their crops, which will reduce their profit margin.

Soybeans, whether planted early or late, are deep green, and growing by leaps and bounds. In June the need for moisture became critical, but a good series of thunderstorms relieved most worries before blooms could be rejected.

Cotton is also producing an abundance of blooms and squares, and if insects don't prove too big a problem, could yield well.

In local gardens, tomatoes seem to be the big winner, with giants of a delightful, rich red ripening in high numbers. Those who have gardens are generally keeping neighbors supplied with tomatoes, okra and peas, and it is difficult to find anyone who is doing without fresh vegetables right now.

Several gardeners report excellent corn crops, while others report poor crops. Apparently the variety of corn has something to do with the variance.

Youngsters who make their summer money mowing lawns are happily pocketing a steady stream, but those who have to "push their own" or pay out the money sometimes wonder if they should have applied quite as much fertilizer as they did.

All in all, the summer months promise a rich bounty if the rains will only continue...and everyone hopes that they do.

have a nice weekend

Nichols Worth

By: Nanalee Nichols

Here we are, back from vacation, supposedly relaxed and ready to go again. But sometimes I think it will take more than five days to get me revitalized...if that's possible!

Especially after the experience we had during our trip. We went to Galveston with friends, and did all the things tourists do, swimming, sunning, horseback riding, touring old houses, and most especially, touring Galveston harbor and the Houston ship channel.

It all began one night when we sat on a pier talking to an elderly shrimper...who filled us with harbor lore, tall tales and general information about the shrimping industry. All the while a noisy pump kept kicking on and off, punctuating the conversation.

Finally, someone inquired as to what the pump was all about. The shrimper pointed to a nearby new boat, and told us that the "Dixie Queen" there caught a swell last week and smacked into a drilling rig...barely made it back to port with a boatload of tourists, and the pump kicks in to keep her from sinkin'."

We gave the matter no thought.

The next afternoon we sauntered up to a charter boat office and purchased tickets for a two-hour excursion around the harbor. The sign out front read "Tour Galveston Harbor aboard the Jean Lafitte". We probably should have caught on when the name Jean Lafitte was inscribed on silver tape over whatever was under it.

But we boarded the boat, made ourselves comfortable, and noticed that in several other places Jean Lafitte had been superimposed over the name...you guessed it...Dixie Queen!

As a deck hand went by, Thomas, who sometimes likes to bait people, asked "Is this the same captain who ran the Dixie Queen into the drilling rig?" The deck hand looked at him strangely, hesitated, then said "No." Again he was the recipient of a strange look, and the boy went off, obviously trying to figure out how the tourists knew about the mishap.

Our harbor tour was uneventful, and enjoyable, but we've been having a good laugh ever since. The hesitation in the deck hand's voice was all too apparent, and we are convinced that it surely was the same captain who smacked the other boat in two!

People and Things

THANKS TO JAMES WOOD of Bogata who sent us a little tidbit from READERS DIGEST...it is sooooo true...it read "A country editor friend once noted that a small town is a place where people know all the news before the newspaper comes out, but they take the paper anyway to see whether the editor got the stories the way they heard them".....

ROSALIE LODGE AF & AM 527 will meet THURSDAY (tonight) at 8 p.m. All MEMBERS are URGED to ATTEND and VISITORS are welcome...

The fellow whose airstream travel trailer overturned near RUGBY on MONDAY couldn't say enough about how GREAT the PEOPLE in the area are...they helped him right his truck, air his tires, took his wife and children into their homes, and generally take CARE of them...he extended special thanks to RALPH CRAWLEY who took the family to his home...we couldn't agree more...the greatest folks in the world live around here....

RED RIVER County Republican Chairman, ALTON KENNEDY, has announced that Congressman PHIL GRAMM, candidate for United States Senator, will attend a coffee at the COMMUNITY ROOM of the First Federal Savings and Loan Building in Clarksville at 4 p.m. Friday, July 27. The public is invited to attend.

BLOOMING—Cotton in the area is blooming heavily, and squares are well formed. Hopes that the generally satisfactory rainfall

OVERTURNED—This Airstream travel trailer fishtailed out of control near Rugby Monday afternoon and overturned the pickup truck pulling it. The rig was owned by Forrest Davis, who, along with his wife and three children, were heading for a month long vacation. They live in Shreveport, Louisiana. Bystanders righted the pickup, took the family to a private home to rest, and helped Davis get things taken care of. There were no injuries in the accident except bruises. (Staff Photo)

Texas-New Mexico Offers Free Filter Alert

Texas-New Mexico Power Company is giving free air filter alerts to its customers who receive information about TNP's Average Billing Plan.

The Average Billing Plan allows a customer to pay an average cost per month for electricity. It reduces a customer's bill during high use months by having him pay slightly more in low use months.

There is no extra cost whatsoever. A customer's total yearly bill is the same.

The alert is an easy to install device which notifies residents when their air filters in their heating and cooling systems are clogged and ready to be replaced. Clogged air filters cause higher utility bills because the unit must unnecessarily work harder.

The air filter will emit a high pitched alarm when the filter needs replacing. The alert can be used on any heating or cooling system that requires an air filter including central air heat and refrigerated window cooling units.

TNP customers can get their free air filter alerts by receiving information on the utility's Average Billing Plan at any TNP office.

Red River Haven hosted the second quarterly Family Night on Thursday, July 19 at 7 p.m. in the chapel.

A large group of residents, their families and employees of Red River Haven were present to enjoy a short program by the Texas Tradition. The following are members of the band: Kelley Screws on the guitar, Jerry House on the fiddle and Eric Moreno on the drums. They played several selections such as Orange Blossom Special and Boil Them Cabbage Down, which brought back memories for several of those present.

A Fun Auction was then played by the group. Each person present was given a mock bill with a dollar amount written on it. Each person could bid on the wrapped prizes individually or each family present could pool their money together and bid. This proved to be much fun.

Refreshments of Braum's ice cream and homemade cookies made by the kitchen staff was served in the dining room.

Pensioners' May Owe Taxes

Pension income may be either fully or partially taxable, IRS says; and federal income taxes may be withheld from pension payments. Many retirees may find the withholding a convenience that can spare them penalties when they file their federal income tax returns. Withholding is not compulsory, and any person can apply to their payor for exemption. However, without tax withholding, a retiree who owes $400 or more for 1984 may be liable for an estimated tax penalty.

A retiree who chooses not to have tax withheld from pension payments may pay quarterly estimated payments to avoid the penalty. Additional information can be found in Publication 505 which is available free from the Internal Revenue Service.

And Has Been For More Than Thirty Years

Just imagine 240,000 homes. That's a pretty good-sized city, right? Well it doesn't top the number of homes Jim Walter has built since 1946 when he started in business, over 30 years ago. Which adds up to NOTHING unless you are looking for a homebuilder. If you are, this information, for sure, is important to you. likely, may not be around when the dust settles.

With Jim Walter, we finance our own. You won't have to worry about the third party that steps in to "buy your mortgage" as soon as the last nail is driven ... one who could care less whether your roof leaks or your doors don't fit, or the foundation cracks or if you just plain aren't satisfied with the workmanship. WE CARE. And we will continue to care because we will be with you for the full term of your mortgage. With builder financing, quality is assured.

most other financing.

So, before you decide on a builder be sure to check with Jim Walter ... one of the world's largest ... one whose parent company is listed on the New York Stock Exchange with assets in excess of two billion dollars and rated by Fortune Magazine among the nation's top 500 industrial companies.

Local Girl Scouts At Camp

Nearly 300 girls, ages 7 to 16 made Camp Gambill their home for a short while this summer. "I Had a Ball at Camp Gambill" was the theme, and it readily expressed the sentiments of the girls who took part in this summer's camping program, offered by the Red River Valley Girl Scout Council.

Girls attending from Bogata were Susan Tabb and Amy Stidham.

According to Camp Director, Linda Woolston, "Camping is many things, but most of all, it is a unique experience which can teach the girls self-reliance, responsibility and joy of knowing the out of doors."

In trying to meet the goal of serving each girl's individual interests, the camp program offered a variety of activities including campcraft, hiking and backpacking, sports and games, conservation projects and the ever-popular, cooking out over an open fire.

Attending Camp Gambill from Deport were Shanna Denison, Gina Lane, LeAnn Farris and Marti Gifford.

Attending from Blossom were Alicia McDowell, Kelly Pilip, Marleena Bryant, Geri Bridges, Kelly Townsend, Holly Townsend and Adrienne Bailey.

Access to Lake Gibbons offered the girls a daily opportunity for swimming, canoeing and sailing and at least one beach party during their stay.

Girl Scouting is open to all girls ages 6 to 17. Anyone interested in becoming a Girl Scout should contact the Girl Scout office in Paris.

THESE GIRLS took time out to rest and eat their lunch in the shade of the trees after a long morning of hiking. The hike was one of the requirements for

Change In Vaccination Program Proposed

The Texas Animal Health Commission is proposing a change in the existing Brucellosis Calfhood Vaccination Program. This proposal reads as follows: "All female cattle which are born after October 1, 1984 and are four months of age or older, shall be vaccinated, "S" branded or spayed prior to change of ownership. Heifers may be consigned to a livestock market for official vaccination, "S" branding or spaying on arrival at no expense to the State of Texas."

"Females are exempt from these requirements if they are: 1. Sold as a pair and still nursing their tested dams; or 2. Consigned direct from a farm or ranch to slaughter or a quarantined feedlot."

Red River County, along with the eastern half of Texas is in the Class C Area concerning brucellosis, while the western half is in Class B. This proposal should provide more control of the disease. It may also hasten the day when the Class C Area can be upgraded to a Class B Area which will mean fewer restrictions on movement of cattle in and out of the area.

There will be four hearings in the Class C Area. The dates, times and places are:

July 31, 1:30 p.m. Ramada Inn Ballroom, 5701 S. Broadway, Tyler, Texas.
August 1, 1:30 p.m. Brazos Center, professional education. A toll free number is available to anyone seeking information about arthritis or the Arthritis Foundation. To continue these programs, continued community support is needed.

Room 102, 3232 Briarcrest, Bryan, Texas.

August 2, 1:30 p.m., Wharton Junior College, Johnson Health Center, 911 Boling Highway, Wharton, Texas.

August 3, 1:30 p.m., Alice National Bank, 601 E. Main, Alice, Texas.

Persons interested in this proposal are invited to attend one of these hearings to obtain more information on the program and to present their comments. If you can't attend a hearing but would like to comment, you may send written comments to the Texas Animal Health Commission, P.O. Box 12966, Austin, Texas 78711 to arrive by August 31.

Army Recruiters Authorized To Offer Advances

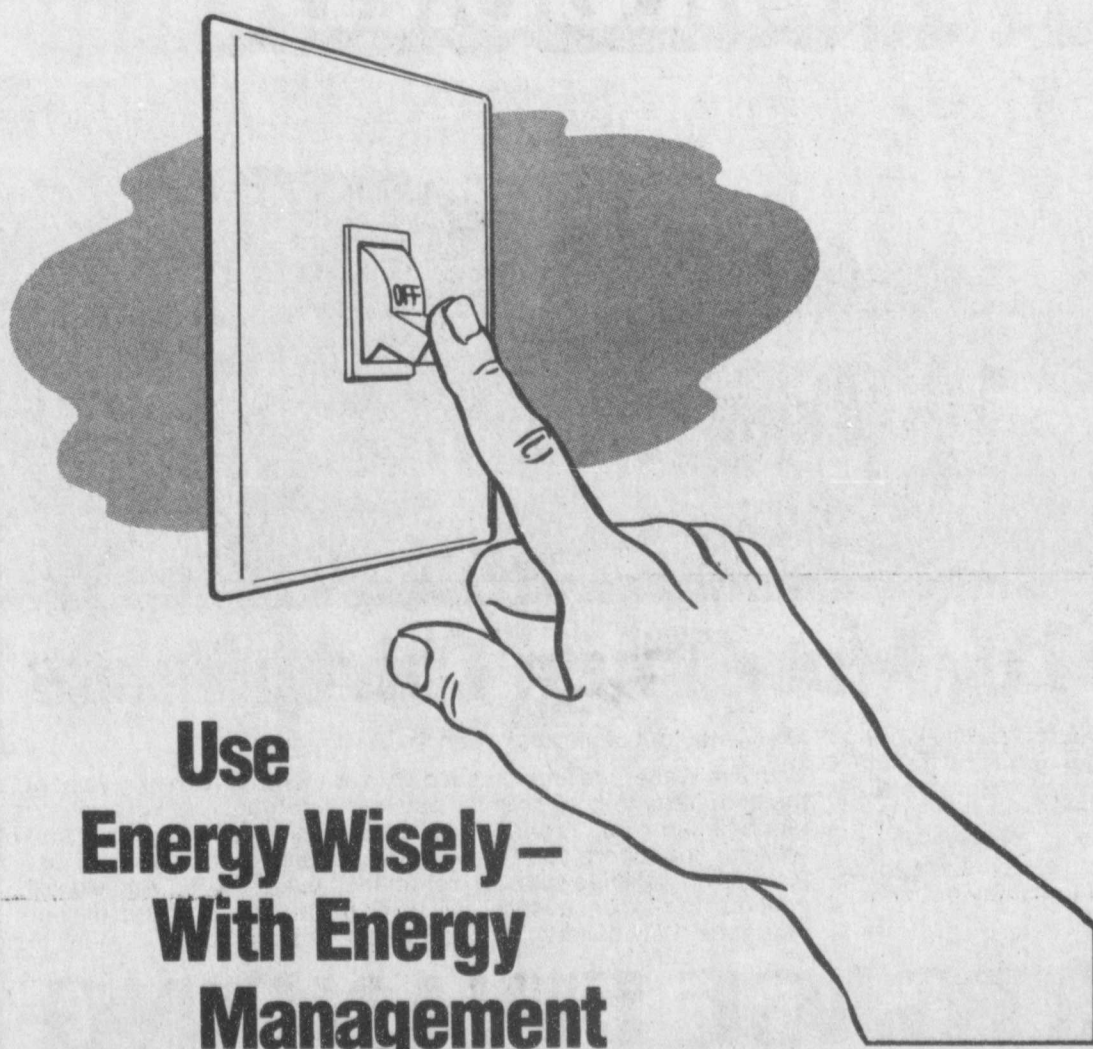

Army recruiters have been authorized to offer advanced promotions to Private E2 and enlistment bonuses of up to $8,000.

"Both of these programs," according to Lt. Col. George D. Featherston, Jr., commander of the Army's Dallas Recruiting Battalion, "will be available to qualified high school diploma graduates who score in the top half of the Armed Forces Qualification Test."

"Both of the military occupation specialties in the $8,000 enlistment bonus package are from the electronic warfare and cryptological operations career management fields," said Featherston. "A total of 12 different military occupation specialties have been made available to receive bonuses from $5,000 to $8,000. The enlistment must be for a four-year period in the regular Army in one of the specified occupation specialties."

"Our recruiters can also offer a $4,000 bonus for three year plus training enlistment into selected COHORT units," Featherston said. "A COHORT unit, similar to the British regimental system, allows a group of recruits to train together and then is deployed either in the United States or overseas as a unit."

"The introduction of the advanced promotion program and the expansion of the enlistment bonus packages is in addition to some very exciting existing programs," Featherston concluded. "We can offer qualified young men and women the Army College Fund, where the young soldier can accumulate up to $20,100 for continuing education; a two year enlistment option, and training in a particular skill and in many cases a station or unit of choice guaranteed in writing before enlistment."

Growing Up At Middle Age!

By Mary Lou Williamson

Middle age can be the peak years, or the pit, of adulthood. Middleaged women, in particular, have been the subject of research studies concerning the way they respond to the middle years.

Because women are living longer, the middle years have been extended. Not long ago, middle age began in the 30's, old age in the late 50's. Now, with a life expectancy of more than 70 years, women are "in the middle" much longer.

Researchers studying middle age make some assumptions about development in the middle years. They believe that life unfolds in sequences and in stages. Each stage is marked by a crisis, a turning point, a period of vulnerability and potential. At these stages, progress or regression occurs and the future is formed. Each period has specific tasks that need to be accomplished before one moves one, and external family events such as marriages or graduations, affect each developmental stage in some way. For growth to occur, challenges need to be slightly greater than present coping skills, so the person can stretch, yet not be overwhelmed and forced to retreat to safer ground.

One researcher at Washington State University, interviewed 100 women aged 50-75 and drew some interesting conclusions about middle aged women. She noted that historically, women have found their major identify in relation to another person, as mother, wife, sweetheart or someone's child. But this changes if middle age is lived successfully. Women learn to trust themselves and achieve self-identification during these years.

The researchers also identified a number of personal resources many middle aged women possess: long lasting friendships with both sexes, concern for physical health and well being, including preventative health care, careful grooming and cleanliness, continuing to learn, a sense of responsibility to others, an outlet for imagination to escape, temporarily, from reality, ability to look positively toward the future, someone or something, such as a pet, who enjoys and show affection.

Middle age is a transition period between two fairly stable periods of life. One of the reasons transitions are difficult in our society is that we have not developed acceptable models or patterns for changes in our life structure or family situation, especially the painful periods of separation, grief or loss. Middle age is a stepping stone to life in older adulthood. The quality of life we enjoy in the last quarter depends on how well we have planned and progressed in the first three quarters of life.

Weekly Agricultural Update

How To Tame The Bear.

Since it looks like the hay supply may be short this year, this may be the year to grow winter pasture, says Dr. Sim A. Reeves. Winter pasture is sensitive to the pH level in the soil. Therefore, this is a good time to soil test and make lime applications as needed.

For small grains and clovers, the pH should be about six. If needed, lime should be applied well in advance of the crop. Lime breaks down slowly and it takes time for it to affect the crop being grown.

If the hay supply is short, producers should take extra care in storing hay. Research has shown that at least one-third of the hay can be lost when stored improperly. If possible, put the hay under a shed, in the barn or under a cover of some kind. If shed space is not available for large round bales, put the bales on pallets, old tires or something to keep them off the ground. If stored outside, leave a small space between the large round bales so that they will shed water easily.

Reeves suggests having the hay tested for better planning of the winter feeding program. Any management practice that saves costs is a definite advantage this year.

Weekly Ag Update

By Herb Brevard

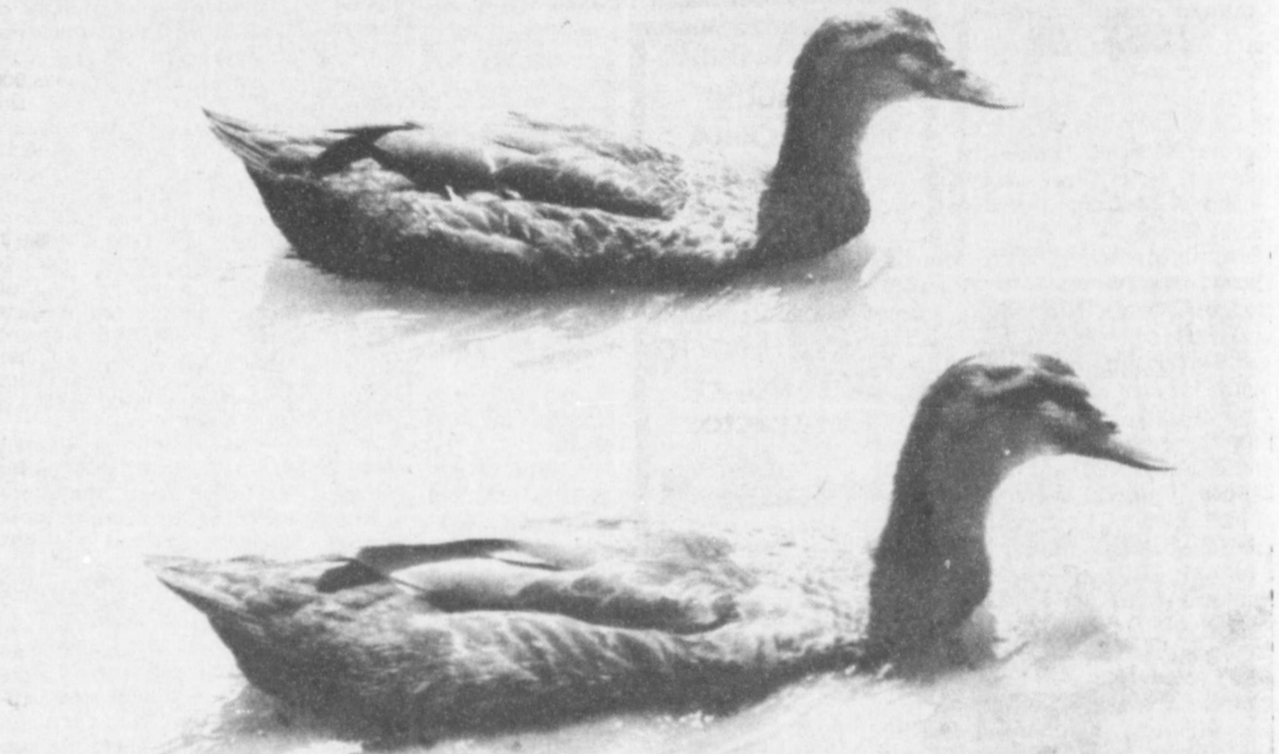

A few reports of tree "bleeding" have come in during the past few weeks. According to Dr. George Philley, this condition is caused by freeze damage during the past winter. The damage caused the bark to separate from the trunk of the tree. Some of the affected areas are only a few inches long while others are quite severe. Philley says to tap on the tree with a wooden mallet. If the bark is separated from the trunk, the tapping will make a hollow sound. Removal of the old bark to allow the wound to heal may help in some instances.

Fusarium wilt and Southern blight have been bad on tomatoes, peppers and watermelons. Philley says that the outbreak was probably triggered by the dry spring followed by wet weather. When damage is visible, it is probably too late to treat. For Southern blight, rotation, deep burial of organic matter and possibly planting on a raised seed bed might help in prevention. For Fusarium wilt, the best prevention is to use resistant or tolerant varieties. Several of these varieties are available.

Powdery mildew can become a problem on crepe myrtle and other woody ornamentals this time of year. Crepe myrtle generally stays in bloom for approximately 100 days and if protected from diseases can give many hours of pleasure. Fungicides are available to prevent and control powdery mildew.

COOL DIP—by the ducks. Hot summer days for ducks don't look too bad, as these mallards not only get to swim in the cool water most of the time, but frequently take a dive underwater for some tasty food. The rest of the long summer days they spend sleeping under deep shade...a life style many humans might envy this time of year! (Staff Photo)

Bears can be dangerous. Even the Wall Street bear can take a bite out of your financial future. But don't worry. Buying U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan will let you ignore any bear market. Bonds have a variable interest rate combined with a guaranteed minimum of 7.5%, if you hold them 5 years or more.

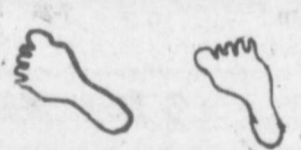

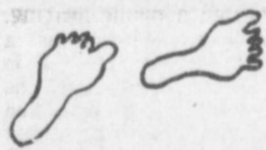

So you share in higher returns with the bull, but can't lose to the bear. That's the best of both markets.

Footprints From The Past

By John W. Hood

Listening to the kids shoot off their fireworks over the Fourth of July holiday took me back to the days when I was still a small boy and got fun out of all the holidays. But I think that the Fourth of July is my favorite holiday, after Christmas.

I can still remember the expectations that I got out of the fourth, there was the thrill of getting ready for the picnic that the American Legion always had at some shady spot in some trees not too far from town where almost everyone would go or at least send for some barbeque that had been prepared by Jim Breedlove, one of the colored men as we called them in those days. Mr. Breedlove was an extraordinary man he was well liked by both colored and white and as for me I thought there was no one like Mr. Breedlove, as he would always have something good to say to me and to a kid for a grown person to say something to him in those days was to be as big as anyone.

Mr. Breedlove would dig him a pit about six feet long and some where like three or four feet wide and he had some iron bars that he used to lay across the pit to cook the barbeque. He would get some hickory wood that was seasoned and build a big fire in the pit, but he did not put the meat on the iron bars until the wood had burned down to a bed of coals. He would then season the meat and put it on the pit to cook.

Every once in a while he would add a few sticks of wood to the fire just enough to keep a good bed of coals and it took him all night to cook the meat as he said that you would ruin it if you cooked it too fast. If you were lucky enough to be one of his helpers, you had to do it his way as he said that he wanted the barbeque just right for we were celebrating our country's birthday and besides having everything just right he wanted the meat to be the very best just like the great country we lived in.

Mr. Breedlove had a set of twin boys that helped him on all the cookouts and sometimes we would get them to ask their dad to let us help or we all liked to just be around Mr. Breedlove.

Before the barbeque there usually was a big baseball game and it seemed to me as if everyone in the countryside came out to cheer on the hometown team and stay for the picnic afterward for they knew that they would get some of the best eating that was available anywhere and besides it was an opportunity to take a day from work in the fields or the store whichever and enjoy a day with friends and neighbors.

The baseball games were something that I will never forget as we had a very good team and all the rest of the town also and there were some really close games. They would wind up in a big free for all fight and that was when I cut out for home as I did not like to see grown men fighting and besides there was always the possibility that you would get hurt as some of the fights got pretty rough with everyone hitting everyone else with anything that they could get their hands on.

I bet if you were to ask either of the Lee brothers and also some of the other men in town, they could give you some pretty good examples of what I say, for they were old enough to be in some of the games and besides they were good baseball players as was Jimmy Underwood and some of the others about that age.

They are just a little older than I am, and besides, as I said, they were very good ball players. We did not have as many things to entertain us then as we do now, so everyone always went to all the picnics and ball games.

NUMB ARMS, LEGS Danger Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric-shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

Here are nine critical symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations which are usually the forerunners of more serious conditions. Any one of these usually spells back trouble:

- (1) Paresthesias (see above), (2) Headaches, (3) Painful joints, (4) Numbness in the arms or hands, (5) Loss of sleep, (6) Stiffness in the neck, (7) Pain between the shoulders, (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back, (9) Numbness or pain in legs.

These signals indicate that your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will become. Don't quit! Should you experience any of these danger signals... call for an in-depth consultation in Layman's terms.

New Ambulance Service Now Available In Bogata

The city of Bogata will once more have access to a fast ambulance service as there will be a Bogata ambulance available again.

Boles Ambulance Service began serving the community on July 15.

Boles says that he will honor Red River Ambulance Service memberships until November, when customers will have the opportunity to transfer them to the new service.

Memberships held in Deport, Bogata, at the nursing homes, or the surrounding area will be honored, and any new memberships will be more than welcome.

Ray Boles, owner and operator, will also employ Roy Lee Hutson on a part time basis. Boles has twenty years of experience in ambulance service and Hutson has six years.

Boles says he is opening the service because of the apparent need expressed by the citizens of the area who have been dissatisfied since the Bogata based ambulance is no longer in service.

Memberships will be $55 per family and $35 for an individual. Six months subscriptions are also available.

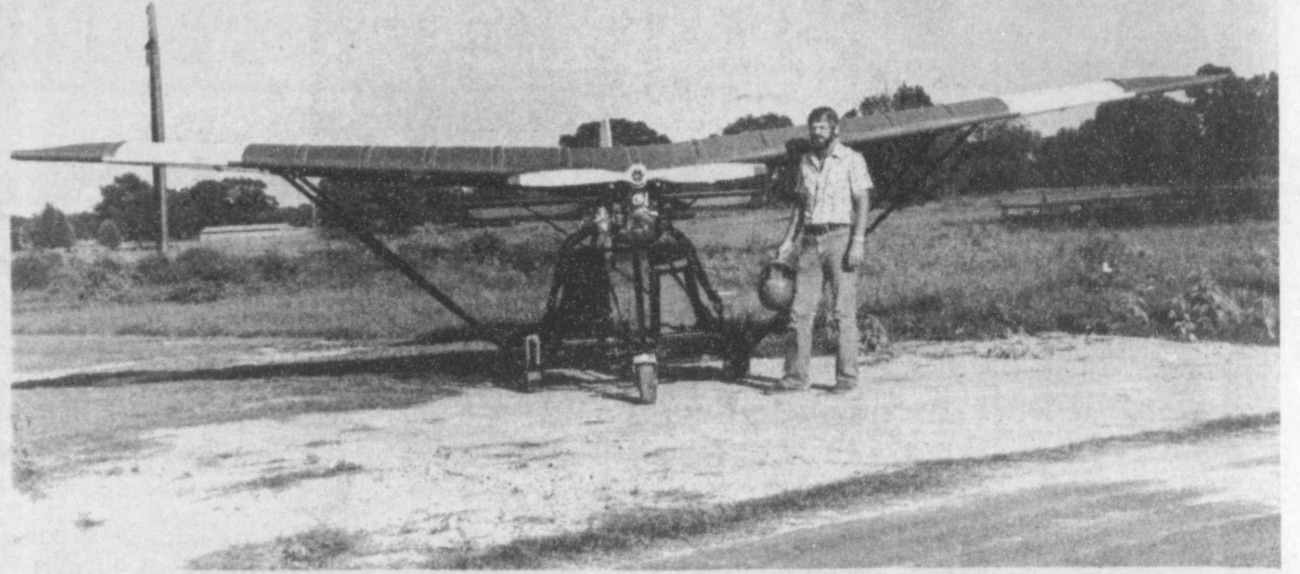

A subscription will enable a patient to be transported anywhere within a fifty mile radius of Bogata at no charge, and after the fifty mile radius, the fee will be $1 per mile.

Subscriptions can be taken out by contacting Roy Lee Hutson at Bogata, 632-5734 or by Calling Boles at 632-4102.

The ambulance is based at 332 S.W. 3rd in Bogata and is state licensed and meets all state requirements.

Boles and Hutson stated that "the people of Bogata and the surrounding area have expressed a wish for a locally based ambulance. They now have the opportunity for this, but it cannot be achieved without the support and memberships of the citizens themselves".

Agricultural Update

If you wilt in summer heat, think how your lawn feels. It can't retreat to air conditioned comfort or pour itself a cool drink from the fridge. But if you take the proper survival steps, your lawn can make it through hot, dry weather to grow green and lush again.

Proper watering is the first lesson in the lawn survival course. It's a good idea to either soak your lawn regularly with at least one inch of water a week, or cease watering the lawn and let it go dormant for a time.

How do you know when you've given the lawn an inch of water. Measure one inch up from the bottom of several coffee cans and mark the one inch level. Place the cans at various distances around the sprinkler and keep track of the one inch mark. In the future, water each area of lawn for this length of time.

One inch of water will actually soak down through five to six inches of soil.

A compromise program of light, infrequent sprinklings can harm your lawn by encouraging a shallow root system that is more vulnerable to stress.

Increasing your mowing height is the second lesson in helping your lawn beat the heat. At John Deere we suggest setting the mower at its highest because tall top growth shades the soil from the sun and helps retain soil moisture. It also encourages deep root growth, enabling grass roots to seek water deeper in the soil.

A well timed fertilization program is the third lesson. It requires long range planning because fertilizer should be applied at the proper time of year. You can begin this year to prepare your lawn for a possible dry spell next summer.

Cool climate grasses can receive their first dose of fertilizer in late fall, when grass roots begin their active underground growth period.

Wait until early spring to fertilize most warm climate grasses. Feeding these grasses in the fall often stimulates winter weed growth.

And never try to play catch up by fertilizing a weak, wilting lawn in the middle of a drought. Nutrients that normally nurture grass can burn and even kill it when applied during a hot, dry spell.

Your county extension adviser can help you identify the type of grass you have and recommend a compatible fertilization schedule.

Mow high and water infrequently and thoroughly to get your lawn through a dry spell. That's the short survival course for parched lawns.

Extensions Must Be Filed By August 15

Taxpayers who asked for an automatic extension of time to file their 1983 federal income tax return must file the complete return and pay the remaining tax due by midnight August 15, according to the IRS.

For additional information regarding the filing date extension, taxpayers may call the IRS Forms Tax Information number listed in the local telephone directory under U.S. Government.
