Listen to the Christmas story we have to tell....this was the Christmas nothing worked!
 It all began when friends came for our early Christmas together. Proudly, they handed us a beautifully wrapped package. It seemed awfully light, and when I commented upon it, she replied "I checked every box there, and they were all that light." They were light alright, the blender box was empty! The warranty booklet and recipe booklet were the only things in it.
 When they recovered from their embarrassment, we realized that the box was sealed at the factory and had been opened!
 After a good laugh over that one, we proceeded on to Christmas day. When the beautiful full-length mirror box was open (it was sealed, too) the cross piece on the mirror stand was missing.
 Then Thomas' watch was opened, and it looked great...the only problem was that the second hand hung on the minute hand!
 My brother gave me a 32 piece glass cookware set...he reduced it to 30 pieces by breaking the top two bowls!
 Finally, my parents gave my husband a new stereo system for his pickup truck. It worked great, looked great, but it was a real shame there weren't any knobs packaged with it!
 That's right folks, about the only things that worked were a set of towels. I was afraid for a while that they might rub blue dye off on us after a bath.
 All in all though, I think we laughed more over this Christmas than any one we've ever had!
 As usual, there are New Year's Resolutions to be made, but the other evening, this little piece of doggerel occurred to me. Anyone else feel the same way?

My 1985 New Year's Resolutions
 At the end of '85 there will be,
 Quite a bit less of me...
 And with this weight loss I will be
 Pleasant and smiling to all I see.

I'll clean the house and mow the yard,
 Read more books and study hard,
 Nasty words I will not say,
 All bad habits throw away.

I will put travel from my mind,
 And hard at work, myself I'll find.

But resolutions don't last long,
 Something always comes up wrong.

I guess I'm just a weakling fake....
 I know these vows I'll surely break!

Happy New Year to all and may it be
 The best ever!!
