They were often science labs, gyms, auditoriums and all the accoutrements of modern education.

Many of the one-roomed schools fell by the wayside, or began to serve as elementary schools during those years.

But during the 1960's, a decline in small town population, and a need for further, more complex courses in education became apparent.

All right now, reach down and take a look at the nearest magazine. Look closely at the glossy color pictures of all those houses. Now, if you have the nerve, walk outside and take a look at the house YOU live in. Look much like those?

Well, I didn't think it would. It is an amazing fact that houses in magazines, which are always perfect, are never plagued with the problems that normal, everyday homes have.

Ever noticed a water faucet or garbage can peeking out of those magazine gardens? Ever see a line of toys equal to a discount store's toy department in the driveway? Ever see a hole as big as the grand canyon where a dog has been digging?

Why, I'll bet that those people who live in magazine houses don't even have cut worms in their vegetable gardens, much less the flower beds! They never have an unpainted eve, they never have an unsightly place where nothing will grow, and their shrubs never have an erratic or irregular growth pattern.

They never have cracks in their concrete driveways, and they have neat little potted plants hanging everywhere, which in a normal household would fall prey to various thrown baseballs, taller-than-

They have little shelves full of all kinds of lovely collections, which, no doubt, never collect dust.

There are never anything but hardbound books lying about, no paperbacks, no television guides, no children's scribbled coloring books! Which brings us onto another thought. If the houses are so perfect, what must the people be like? Do they need to take baths? Do their teeth ever grow crooked, do they ever wear over a size 7 dress?

Somehow, if I believed all I saw in magazines, I might believe that life was really like that ... , but somehow, personal experience leads me to have my doubts!

Straight Answers to Your Questions

Why is Texas-New Mexico Power Company so concerned about powerline safety?

• The powerlines you see almost everyday perform the important job of providing adequate electric service to you and your neighbors. These lines carry high voltages and are constructed with the best of care by fully trained professionals not only to do the job intended, but also to be as safe as possible.

It is most important that you avoid any contact with any powerline because of the possibility of severe electrical shock. Even if you find a downed powerline, stay away from it and report it immediately to our office or to local law enforcement officals. Keep all antennas and ladders away from powerlines. Instruct your children to fly kites and model airplanes away from powerlines.

TNP Vice President Owen Ringness is

Chief Engineer for the company. He is responsible for all TNP powerline construction.

Electricity provides many of the conveniences in our homes, but it is most important to use electricity safely.

REYE SYNDROME

An important message for parents of children and teenagers with chicken pox or flu.

A rare but serious childhood disease called Reve Syndrome may develop in children who have chicken pox or flu. Although the cause of Reve Syndrome is not known, some studies suggest a possible association with medicines containing salicylate or aspirin. So it is prudent to consult a doctor before giving these medicines to children and teenagers with chicken pox or flu.

Remember, Reye Syndrome occurs even in children and teenagers who take other medicines or no medicines. It's important to be aware of the early signs and symptoms. If your child shows unusual behavior, such as severe tiredness, belligerence, or excessive vomiting after appearing to recover from chicken pox or flu, get medical help immediately.

Give no medications. A public service announcement brought to you by the American Reye's Syndrome Association, the Reye's Syndrome Society and the National Reye's Syndrome Foundation.

The statewide death toll from motor vehicle accidents in 1984 totaled 3,913 compared to 3, 823 in 1983. The 1983 mileage death rate was three fatalities per hundred million miles traveled.

"The fact that we had a six per cent decrease in the mileage death rate indicates that we are still making progress in traffic safety," Adams said.

"Compoared to the record death toll of 4,701 in 1981, we've had a saving of over 2,000 lives in the last three years," he pointed out.

"However, the growth of our state in the coming years will lead to continued increases in the number of miles being driven, licensef drivers and vehicles on our roads. In light of this potential for additional fatalities, we must take all possible steps to reduce this staggering toll on oru roadways.'

DPS statistics indicate that at least 26.8 per cent of the 1984 traffic fatalities involved drunken driving.
