SENIORS HONORED WITH ENTERTAINMENTS

On Thursday night, May 25, following the elimination contest in oratory, the seniors were invited to the Payne Drug Store, where they were highly entertained. The place was appropriately decorated with High School and Senior Class flags. The seniors were seated at different tables and were served delicious sandwiches and a small bunch of sweet peas tied with the Senior color—green and gold, composed the dainties. The members of the class sincerely thank the Payne Drug Co. for one of the most pleasant evenings of our year.

Senior Picnic
The seniors of '22 assembled on the steps of the new High School building on a bright morning, May 26, ready for a day's outing. The crowd was led in cars to Scott's Ranch where they enjoyed a very pleasant day. They are deeply indebted to the ladies of the Magazine Club for furnishing delicious eats for this occasion. Anything that could be wished for to make a "ideal picnic lunch" was provided.

Brook's Entertain Seniors
For commencement night, the seniors were feeling very happy over their great success and with the diplomas in their hands, accompanied by Mrs. Ed Robertson and Mr. Cobb, departed for the Lakes Cafe. There they were served a delicious course of sandwiches and the evening Miss Lynda Robertson. After a pleasant social hour, a toast was given to the Senior Class by Mr. Cobb, making them a great success in life. The seniors departed expressing their appreciation for the high entertainment.

SCHOOLS WIN FIVE HEALTH PENNANTS

At a meeting of the Health Association, May 23, that Texas is taking a great deal of interest in the health of her school children is shown by Texas schools winning 10 pennants in the annual Modern Health Crusade. The Modern Health Crusade is conducted in Texas by the Texas Public Health Association. It teaches the children health habits by having a program even health choices until one of them becomes natural and the other habits become trained in terms of health. Efforts have been accomplished through the Health Crusade. The pennants are awarded to the schools showing 100 percent enrollment in the health program. The Texas schools winning pennants are: Alta Lona, No. 4 and 5; Bellaire, 2; Pampa, 1; South Mountain School of Katy, 1; Austin, 1; Sulphur Springs, 1; Progressive School at Hereford, 1; Independence School at Pampa, 1. Children in every state in the Union receive a number of foreign countries every year for these prizes. A great honor for Texas to win one of the hundred and seven pennants that were distributed this year. It is hoped that next year more children will be enrolled in the Modern Health Crusade and that more honors will come to Texas. Even though children may not win national prizes they will at least win the prize of health.

Foster School Closed Friday

The Foster school closed one of the successful terms in the history of the district last Friday, May 20th. Misses Leta Dunn and Mrs. Johnson were the teachers for the year and the patrons and pupils are pleased with their work.

PEOPLE OF OUR TOWN

We all know "Doc!" When the sick, "Doc" dashes to the rescue, but when "Doc" ain't feeling everyone thinks it the Prize Joke of the Century. "Doc" says he don't like advertising, but we ain't let get Dashed Out for giving a Lift in the Paper.

CLOSING EXERCISES OF GRAMMAR SCHOOL

Those who attended the exercises of the Grammar School and the delivery of the Certificates of proficiency, which passed the Class into the High School for next year, were very proud of Haskell and its School. The large Class which was promoted is something to be a matter of pride, and it is sincerely to be hoped that each and every one of these fine little men and little ladies will increase their determination to reach the TOP in the High School and carry out their Credentials, that will admit them into the Higher Schools of Texas.

After the presentation of the Certificates to the 7th Grade by Mr. O. E. Patterson, president of the Board of Trustees, the scene changed as if by magic when 16 White Fairies with a glinting of silver tinsel appeared on the stage and presented Mother Goose in a beautiful scene; this scene was followed by the 16 Rose Fairies with songs and drill, costumes trimmed in pink with wreaths of pink flowers, which was succeeded by 12 Green Fairies, resplendent in green tinsel bearing the crescent, moon and the stars in a whirl of merry dance with songs, formed a very pretty scene and received prolonged applause, and as if by the work of the magicians was succeeded by 12 Elves in brown tight-fitting suits with toes turned up and caps of the cornucopia type, singing and dancing and their rotund figures in the weird dance was very comical, and heartily encored by an appreciative audience, when Little Rose appeared with parasol, costumed in orange with tins of points covered with pink and blue rosettes, and the dance and song was accompanied with the queer acts of the Elves in adoration of the Queen. "Hop O'er My Thumb", Louis Pearson, one of the Elves was appreciated as well and the duet "Can and Can't", by Mary Sherrill and Bert Woods.

The Rainbow Dance was very beautiful, showing a scene not soon to be forgotten, with its fitting and glinting of the many and ever changing colors of the Rainbow, which was followed by songs and choruses, concluding with some very charming voices in the final chorus, which when the sweet music had lulled, the scene changed to the "Land of the Lost" showing a western scene in the golden twilight of the setting sun, the Indian as of yore, happy in the freedom of his ancestral lands, the aged Chief the young warrior with the drawn bow, the lamp, hunkers, and the purpose, peace and expansion of the dance of the coming day, the twilight is succeeded by the darkness descending into night.

The audience left the beautiful High School auditorium feeling that our teachers have been at work building for the future, the foundation for American Method and Worthwhile, teaching, Americanism and a deep patriotism. We feel that in addition to the work of the corps of Teachers, this notice would be incomplete if we did not refer into a corner the things that are causes. The untiring and continuous work of Mrs. Hardy Grissom, with her great musical talent was reflected throughout the entertainment. Her wholehearted love of the school and the little people in the school is very much to be admired and respected, and if all the people would take the same kind of interest in the school's of Haskell as she does, we would have a school of talents, we would have a school of which we could be justly proud and which we could make our little city the Mecca of every parent who realizes the importance of an education for the boy and the girl—they are our jewels and the best is not too good for them.

The operetta which was given by the seventh grade and others of the grammar school on last Friday night was a glowing success. It was conducted by the very capable and talented Mrs. Hardy Grissom, who deserves the credit of ending praise and appreciation of every person in Haskell. Those who know anything about training children for a thing of this kind know that it takes untiring effort, energy, and tact, all of which Mrs. Grissom has in a remarkable degree.

Let us never fail to boost and patronize anything that this capable woman undertakes, for we have had many fair examples of her work.

R. C. COUCH BUILDING NEARING COMPLETION

The brick work on the new garage and filling station being erected by R. C. Couch on Depot street has been finished, and workmen are busy on the roof and interior of the building.

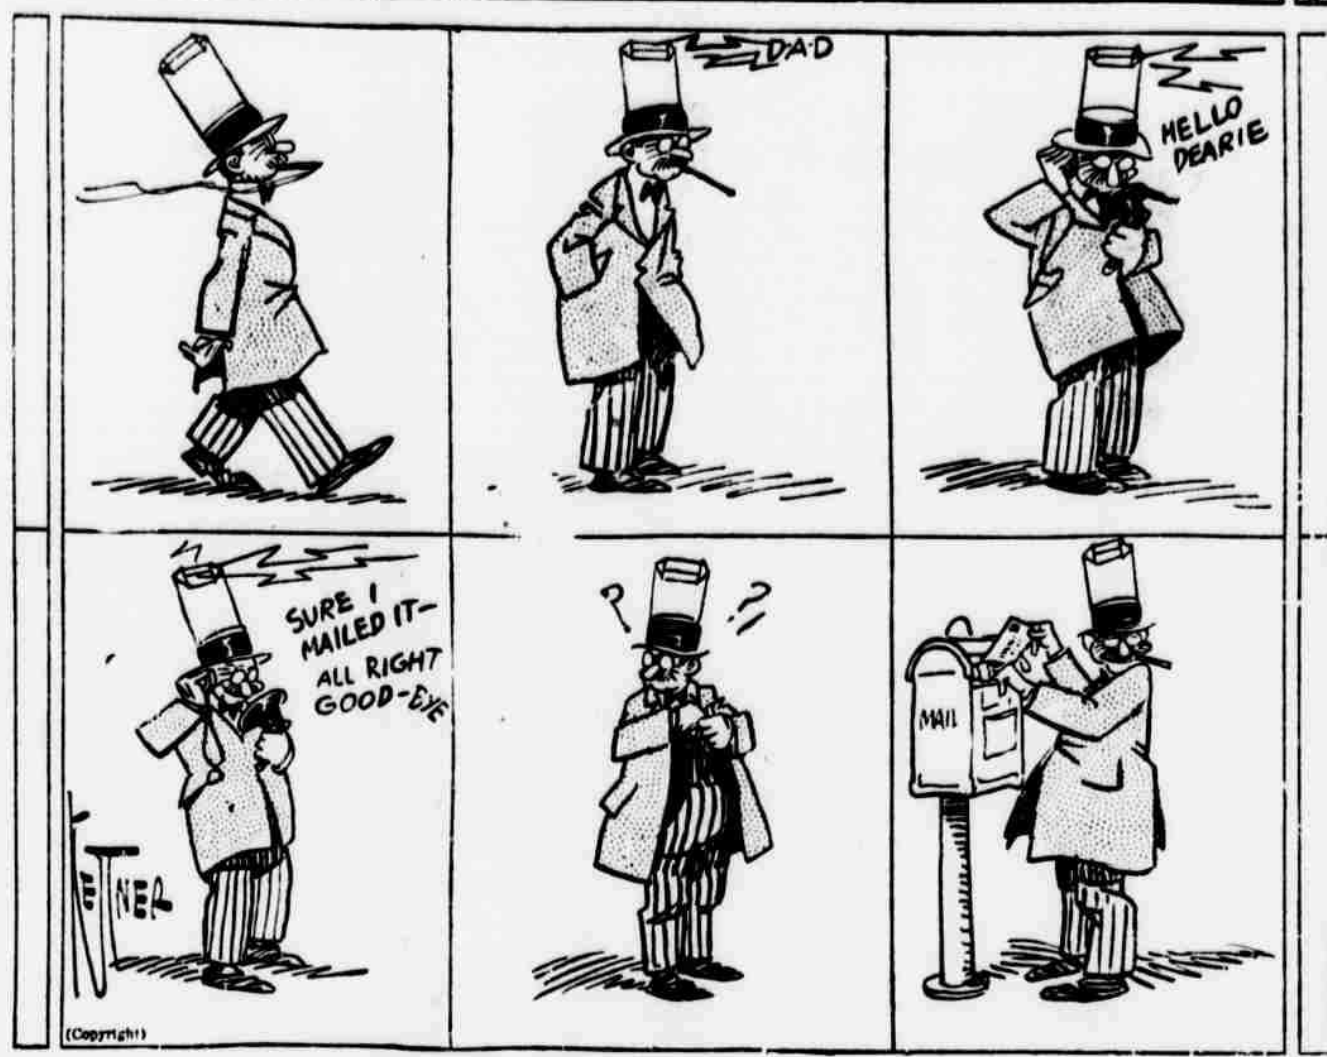

Contractor J. M. Maxwell of this city has the contract for the interior work, and he stated Wednesday that with no delays, the building would probably be ready for occupancy in two weeks.

When finished, the building will be occupied by a filling station and garage on the corner, Western Union office and Watson's Candy Kitchen. The occupants of the garage and filling station have not been announced.

The building is of brick and tile with a concrete floor, 55 by 110 feet, and adds much to the appearance of the city.

Mrs. Ed Robertson and son of Chillicothe, are visiting relatives and friends in the city this week.

This is a Wonderful Age

SUPT. COBB ADDRESSES GRADUATING CLASS

The series of exercises marking commencement week, at the new high school building, were brought to a close with the staging of final contests between the Bear Cat and Curtains Literary Societies, Monday evening, followed by the regular graduating exercises Tuesday evening.

In the literary finals, spirited contests were waged in every instance. In every case the defeated individual or team made a most creditable showing. Thelma Pearl Chitwood for the Bear Cats and Earnest Sanders for the Curtains contended for their societies in an effort to win the magnificent cup offered by Judge Marchison. The cup went to the Curtains via Earnest Sanders. The cup must be won three times in succession by the same society before they become the property of that society. Vesta Baker for the Bear Cats and Evelyn Whitman for the Curtains contended for the School Board's medal in oratory. Vesta ranked first in delivery and Evelyn in composition, the average showing Evelyn to have won for the Curtains. The climax came in the shape of a debate between Herman Weinert and Willie Barhoff for the Bear Cats and Alfons Newok and John Pace Jr. for the Curtains. This contest was most spirited. None of the boys have regularly debated previous to this year. A most creditable performance was staged. Alfons and John won for the Curtains by a vote of four to three. Judge Marchison presented the Declaration Cup in an apt speech. Rev. Walthall presented the Cup in Debate for the Knights of Pythias.

The grand climax came Tuesday evening in the shape of the graduating exercises. For the first time these exercises were held in the school's own building. Perhaps this inspired those performing to unworldly efforts. Whatever the cause, the exercises eclipsed past performances and set the pace for future commencements. Rev. Seal offered the invocation. Herman Weinert acquitted himself nobly in the role of Salutatorian. His subject, "Fire Prevention," fitted exactly the central theme of the unified program—this central theme being, "Civic Improvement." Thelma Pearl Chitwood as valedictorian, continued the same line of thought in the "Conservation of Community Health," and delivered her well prepared address most pleasingly. Bernice Mask's "Class Will" had not been heard before and was full of humorous surprises that amounted to distinct shocks for certain individuals on and off the stage. But even this humorous paper ended by fitting itself snugly into the central theme when it expressed the fervent wish that next year's Senior Class would leave the new school building in the same unblemished condition in which it is turned to them by the retiring class. Evelyn Whitman gave the winning class oration, "America the Beautiful," in most forcible and pleasing fashion. Special music interspersed the program. The Junior and Senior Chorus showed the results of faithful training by Mrs. Hardy Grissom and Mrs. O. E. Patterson. A piano duet by Pearl Chitwood and Sula Mae Ratliff charmed the audience. John V. Davis, accompanied by Madalin Hunt at the piano, gave an instrumental number most effectively.

Supt. Cobb of Waco Public Schools, delivered a brief, masterly address. He stressed the necessity for a positive life grounded on the fundamental virtues.

TWO MEN ARRESTED FOR BOOTLEGGING

Riley Mooneyham and Jim West, both living in the O'Brien section, were placed under arrest this week charged with making or selling intoxicating liquors. West was arrested Wednesday and allowed bond in the sum of $1000, to await the action of the grand jury, which he made immediately. Mooneyham is still in jail. Both arrests are the results of a Court of Inquiry which was held in O'Brien this week.

STREET TO DEPOT WILL BE GRAVELED

The contract for graveling of the Main Street from the end of the pavement to the depot was awarded last week to St. Clair & McDavid, contractors of Seymour.

This much needed improvement will consist of concrete curb and gutters on each side of the street and an eight inch layer of packed gravel, exhibiting six thousand square yards. Work will probably start the latter part of this month, as some minor details are yet to be worked out.

Since the completion of the paving of the square there has been some agitation for the paving of this street, but the City Council believes that the graveling will serve the purpose as well for the present, at much less expense.

J. L. Waldrop of Denton visited R. F. Simmons and family the first of the week.

His masterly logic was interwoven with incisive wit and humor that kept his audience in a state of delightful expectancy.

President O. E. Patterson delivered handsome diplomas to the following: John V. Davis, John L. McCollum, Choice Woods, Frank Kimbrough, John Pace, Herman Weinert, Reba Anderson, Vesta Baker, Thelma Pearl Chitwood, Frankie Mae Brooks, Madalin Hunt, Bernice Mask, Virgie Johnson, Sula Mae Ratliff, Thelma Newsom, Lela Welsh, Evelyn Whitman, and Pearl Woods.

The medal in oratory was presented in behalf of the School Board to Evelyn Whitman by President O. E. Patterson, the originator of the contest.

The medal for the best essay on local history, offered by Editor Sam A. Roberts of the Free Press, was delivered to the winner, Bernice Mask, by Mr. R. E. Sherrill, the author of the manuscript volume on local history which all contestants were required to read. The winning essay will be published next week.

The winner in the English scholarship contest was announced by Miss Ida Collins to be Mary Ella Pace, a member of next year's Senior Class. The medal offered by Mrs. C. C. Minitra, had not arrived at the time of the announcement. It will be delivered later.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Cutwell.

LOCAL LIGHT PLANT SOLD THIS WEEK

A transaction was consummated this week whereby the American Public Service Co., of Abilene, became owners of the Haskell Lee & Light Co. of this city. The new owners took charge Thursday, June 1st. The consideration was not stated. The present management will probably not be changed at present. G. W. Fry of Abilene, District Manager of the American Public Service Co., was in the city Wednesday completing arrangements for taking over the plant, which is one of the largest in this section of the state.

The local company, which under the present management has grown from a small part giving part time service to one of the most modernly equipped, supplying service to five outside towns twenty-four hours in the day. The corporation taking over this plant owns a number of electric service companies in this section, and in taking over the Haskell plant, express their belief in the future growth of our town.

JOHNSON CANDY KITCHEN CHANGED HANDS THIS WEEK

O. W. Young of Eastland has purchased the T. J. Johnson & Son Candy Kitchen and took charge the first of the week. Mr. Young is an experienced man in this line of business, and will conduct the business along the same lines as has been the custom in the past.

Mrs. R. V. Robertson had as her guest this week her mother Mrs. Plants of Seymour.

Honoring Superintendent and Mrs. C. C. Minitra

The Parent-Teacher's Association on May 27th entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Elkins with a farewell party for Mr. and Mrs. Minitra. On arriving the guests were greeted by Mrs. Tyson and Mrs. R. V. Robertson, then presented to the honorees. The home was beautifully decorated with fragrant flowers. Dainty score cards were passed; twelve tables enjoyed the ever-fascinating game of "42"; there being many who did not play. A pleasing ice course was served.

The size of the crowd attested the popularity of these charming people who are so soon to leave. It is with deep and sincere regret that the Parent-Teacher's Association see them go.

Mr. Minitra has been a most successful superintendent, leaving this school on the highest plane it has yet attained. Seeing and realizing the weaknesses of the school he set about to improve them. He did not, as most superintendents do, start with the High School. But he began with the foundation—the primary department—securing a supervisor of primary work; then the grades were strengthened by the departmental plan and by a Supervisor and Grade Principal. Also a Music and Art Supervisor was employed for one year—this work proved quite an inspiration to the children. It was through his untiring efforts that the students had the advantage and benefit of a Public Health Nurse. Believing the children were entitled to the best kind of entertainment, he was sole guarantor for a high class Lyceum course.

In order that the grades might be improved he himself made an instructor in the High School—teaching four regular classes—thus having one less teacher in the High School. Several

GEO. PAGE OF O'BRIEN KILLED SATURDAY

Geo. Page, a farmer living near O'Brien, was killed and C. Matura, a Bohemian living in O'Brien, is in the county jail as a result of a cutting affray Saturday night at the home of a farmer by the name of Pennington several miles west of O'Brien.

According to reliable reports, the affair took place about 11 o'clock Saturday night. Matura, it is stated, had been drinking and in company with several other men, called at the Pennington home, where a party had been given for the young people. Page was called to the automobile and Matura began using abusive language, and when Page remonstrated with him, Matura attacked him with a knife, inflicting a severe wound on the left shoulder, and another on the right side of the throat which severed the jugular vein. Page was placed in an automobile and rushed to O'Brien, but died from the wounds before reaching medical aid.

Sheriff Al Cousins was notified of the killing late Saturday night, and left immediately for the scene. Matura was arrested at his home early Sunday morning and brought to Haskell, where he was placed in jail to await examining trial, which has been set for Saturday June 3rd. Matura has a reputation of being a heavy drinker, and it is understood that he had killed two men previous to the affair of Saturday night.

He is the father of five boys ranging in age from five to eighteen, his wife having been dead for several years. Page is survived by a wife and six children, and both families have the deepest sympathy of the entire community.

As a result of this tragedy, public sentiment in the O'Brien section is at fever heat. At a mass meeting Monday morning in that city, everyone in attendance unanimously pledged his support toward the strict enforcement of the law.

PROF. C. C. MINITRA ACCEPTS PLACE AT OZONA

Prof. C. C. Minitra, for the past three years superintendent of the city schools, has accepted the position as superintendent of the Ozona public schools, in Crockett county. Mr. Minitra will probably leave for Ozona next week.

Under Prof. Minitra's administration, the public schools of the city have been built up wonderfully and his work along this line has attracted favorable comment all over the state. Patrons and pupils alike have been benefited by his untiring energy along educational lines. The completion of the new high school building marks another forward step in the progress of our schools, and in this movement Prof. Minitra was an important factor.

In his departure, the general school public extend their best wishes, feeling that he has been of untold worth to our schools.

of the State inspectors have said there is not a better instructor in the state than Mr. Minitra.

In a material way the crowning achievement of this administration is the new High School building. On every occasion for two years Mr. Minitra so plainly and forcibly presented the needs of a new building that the public was awakened, bonds were voted, and a new building erected.

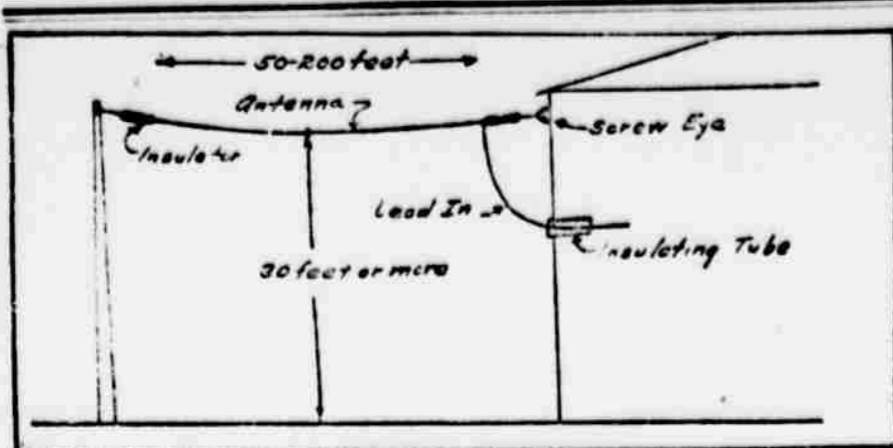

Of far greater importance, though, has been his influence on the lives of the girls and boys. He has not only taught them the fundamentals, but has inspired them with a desire for higher living. He has ever presented the importance of the highest type of citizenship. He has made them realize the true value of living.

The Antenna.

The Tuner.

RADIO

HOW AMATEUR CAN BUILD A RECEIVER

Instructions for Setting Up the Antenna and for Assembling the Tuner.

In order to pick up sufficient energy with the simple radio receiving set it is necessary to connect one terminal to an antenna consisting of one or more wires suspended in the air and insulated from all grounded material and the other terminal to a ground, usually the water supply pipe. The height of an antenna used with a small receiver should not be less than 30 feet. As the received energy varies directly as the height of an antenna, the higher the antenna the louder will be the signals or voice produced. The length of an antenna for short wave reception should not be less than 50 feet nor should it be longer than 200 feet. The minimum wave length to which a simple receiver can be adjusted for electrical resonance will be above that used by amateurs if the receiver be connected to an antenna 200 feet or more in length.

A simple radiophone receiver capable of picking up radiophone stations similar to KDKA at East Pittsburgh, can be assembled by a novice for from $4 to $15, depending upon the builder's ability to use his hands. If the builder will construct most of his apparatus he will appreciate it much more and probably will understand more about its operation than if he buys a set already made. However, for those who have not the ability or the time to spend constructing their own apparatus the following description will not only give the details as to the construction of each component part of a receiver but also what standard ready-made parts can be purchased and used in its stead. The material can be purchased at any electrical supply store.

In erecting a simple antenna for use with the receiver shown in the diagram, the antenna proper and the lead-in are of stranded hard-drawn copper wire, strand No. 22, costing about 1 cent per foot. The two insulators are of unglazed material and can be purchased for about 25 cents each. The antenna shown is supported between a house and a pole. It may be found more convenient to support it between a tree and a house, two houses or even between two chimneys of the same house. In bringing down the lead-in care should be taken that it is kept as far away from grounded material as possible and when bringing through the wall or under the window into the house it should be brought through some sort of an insulating tube, such as rubber or bakelite.

In making the ground connection the same kind of wire can be used as was purchased for the antenna. You can clean a section of the water pipe thoroughly and solder the ground wire to it.

MAKING THE TUNER

To make a tuner for this receiver, the following raw material will be required:

- Piece of cardboard tubing three inches outside diameter and five inches long, costing about 10 cents.
- 100 feet No. 22 double cotton-covered magnet wire costing 25 cents.
- Standard slider (see sketch) for 1/4 by 1/2 brass rod, 40 cents.
- 1 six-inch length of 1/4 by 1/2 brass rod (square) 20 cents.
- 2 binding posts (see sketch) 20 cents.
- 2 circular blocks of wood whose diameter is just equal to the inside diameter of the piece of cardboard tubing and between 3-8 and 1-2 inch thick.
- Some shellac or varnish is also required.

Starting one-half inch from one end of the cardboard tube wind on the No. 22 D. C. wire within one-half inch of the other end of the tube. Fasten one end of the winding to the tube but allow some surplus wire on the other end for making a connection. After the winding is in place give it a coat of shellac or varnish to hold the turns in place. Assemble the circular pieces of wood in the geometrical center of the square blocks and then shellac or varnish them for the appearance's sake.

When thoroughly dry slip the two end blocks into the wound tube and by means of a few finishing brads driven through the cardboard tube, fasten the end blocks to the wound tube. The slider is to be mounted on top of the coil and should be capable of making contact with any turn of the wire on the tube. In order to remove the insulation from the wire just under the rod where the slider moves back and forth, wrap a piece of sandpaper around a thin piece of wood and using another piece of wood as a guide, sandpaper the insulation from the winding. Drill a hole one-eighth inch in diameter through the slider rod about one-fourth inch in from each end so that the rod can be fastened by screws to the end blocks. After the slider rod is fastened in place see that the contact finger on the bottom of the slider can at all times make good contact with the winding. Mount a binding post on either end of the coil, attaching one by means of a wire to the slider rod and the other to the end of the wire wound on the tube and the tuner is complete. A tuner can be purchased already assembled for about $3.50 to $4.00.

LINKING MOVIE AND RADIO

British Scientists Have Some Success in Wireless Transmission of Motion Pictures.

British scientists are reported to have met with more or less success in developing a method of transferring motion pictures by radio. Some months ago a photograph was transferred by wireless from the Copenhagen newspaper, the Politiken, to England, and later from England to a ship in mid Atlantic, so that the possibility of linking the movies with the new art is not remote.

If perfected the new development of the already versatile art will make it possible for one to see on his own receiving instrument things that are happening at a great distance. For instance, a ship is sinking at sea. The transmitting station of the vessel, instead of sending a message of the disaster, sends a picture that anyone with a receiving set will be able to see just as the present broadcasting programs are heard.

That all sounds remote now, but the telephone was considered even more so, and the wireless, even after Marconi's immortal message had bridged the Atlantic, was generally believed to be akin to the idea of perpetual motion.

TIPS TO THE RADIOIST

- A crystal detector cannot be satisfactorily amplified.
- Insulate ends of aerial wires with several small insulators.
- Wherever possible run aerial wires at right angles to electric light wires.
- The lead wire should be the size of the combined number of wires in the aerial.
- Gas piping makes a poor ground, but the cold water pipe ground is excellent.
- A crystal detector is never as efficient as a vacuum tube detector no matter what instruments are connected to it.
- Within three to five miles from a broadcasting station indoor one wire aerials about 40 feet long stretched from room to room, are generally satisfactory with crystal detectors.

CITIZENS ORGANIZE FOR ENFORCEMENT OF LAW

As a result of the killing of Geo. Page at O'Brien Saturday night, which is indirectly attributed to the activities of "bootleggers," the citizens of that community have become aroused over the lax conditions of law enforcement. At a mass meeting of the citizens held Monday at O'Brien, the following resolutions were adopted:

It is said that Nero fiddled while Rome burned, likewise the people of O'Brien and community closed their eyes to the open violations of the law, and allowed the bootlegger and whiskey peddler to come and go in their midst until the effects of this violation ended in the murder of one of its citizens, and the arousing of the sentiment of the people to fever heat.

As the result of public announcement in our church Sunday morning and night, more than two hundred men and women were assembled in our little town by 8 o'clock Monday morning, determined, yet quiet and orderly in their manner and thoroughly awakened to their duty in the future.

The men and boys were assembled in the Woolmen hall and the meeting called to order by C. G. Barnett and the purpose of the meeting stated. A number of the citizens responded to the call for a speech and pledged themselves to stand for the suppression of crime in the community.

The result of this meeting was that a committee was appointed to draft the following resolutions which were unanimously adopted and were personally signed by practically every man and boy present. This committee was retained as a permanent factor in the community, with power to call a meeting of the citizens should the occasion require it.

After the adoption of this resolution a Court of Inquiry was held Mr. J. W. Gamble, Justice of the Peace and the citizens represented by Attorney L. D. Ratliff of Haskell.

We deplore the fact that it took a tragedy in our community to arouse the people to their sense of duty, but believe that the meeting held will do much good for the upbuilding of the community, a respect for law and order and a sufficient warning to bootleggers and other evildoers.

We believe it would be an opportune time for every town and community that is being visited by these warts of humanity to co-operate with us in the arousing of public sentiment against peddling whiskey and the violation of law, and assist our officers in the arrest and conviction of these pests. Let's make Haskell County clean, a desirable place to live, and if necessary adopt the slogan "Work or Walk" and stick to it.

T. E. ROBBINS, Chairman.

Whereas a tragedy has been enacted in our community that cannot escape the notice of every law abiding citizen, and whereas it is evident that this tragedy might have been averted by the proper enforcement of the law and the assistance and co-operation of all good law abiding citizens, and in order to avert a like occurrence of this kind and other flagrant violations of the law and to raise the standard of citizenship and respect for law and order: Therefore be it resolved by the citizens of O'Brien and community, in mass meeting assembled and by subscribing our names to this instrument and do hereby agree for and among ourselves that we will abide by the laws of our County, State and Nation, and pledge our support for the upbuilding of our community and for the enforcement of the law.

We further hereby agree, each for himself and not one for another, that

No Worms in a Healthy Child

All children troubled with Worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC given regularly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a General Strengthening Tonic to the whole system. Nature will then throw off or dispel the worms, and the Child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. 60c per bottle.

Senior Boys Entertained

On Thursday of last week, Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Fields delightfully entertained the boys of the Senior Class with a simple home dinner honoring John V. Davis, a member of the class.

The guests were welcomed in a most charming manner by the host and hostess. After all had arrived they were invited into the dining room where place cards marked the places for host and hostess and their guests. Cut flowers and dainty favors added to the beauty of the table.

After dinner some time was spent in pleasant conversation. The guests departed declaring Mr. and Mrs. Fields' entertainment.

Those present were: John V. Davis, Herman Weinert, John Pace, Frank Kimbrough, Choise Woods, John L. McCollum, and Olen Dotson.

THE KNOCKER'S PRAYER

Lord, please don't let this town grow. I've been here for 30 years, and during that time, I've fought every public movement. I've knocked everything and everybody; no firm or individual has established a business here without my doing all I could to put them out of business. I've lied about them, and would have stolen from them had I had the courage. I have done all I could to keep the town from growing and never have spoken a good word for it. I have knocked hard and often. I've put ashes on the children's slide and I've made the marshal stop boys playing ball on my vacant lot. Whenever I saw anyone prospering or enjoying themselves I've started a reform to kill the business or to spoil the fun. I don't want to grow. I don't want the young folks to stay in this town and I will do all I can by law, rule and ordinance to drive them away. It pains me O Lord, to see that in spite of my knocking it is beginning to grow. Some day I fear that I will be called upon to put down sidewalks in front of my property and who knows but what I may have to help keep up the streets that run by my premises? This, O Lord, would be more than I can bear. It would cost me money. Though all I have was made right here in this town. Then too, more people might come if the town begins to grow, which would cause me to lose some of my pull. I ask, therefore, to keep this town at a standstill, that I may continue to be the chief. Amen.—Exchange.

Baptist W. M. S. Entertains

On last Monday afternoon the Baptist W. M. S. enjoyed a Maypole party at the home of Mrs. Sam A. Roberts. The rooms were lovely with their bouquets of roses and sweet peas. In the dining room was a beautiful Maypole with its pink and green streamers.

The guests were met at the door by Mrs. Roberts and immediately on entering a small card bearing the name of some familiar flower was pinned on each guest by Mrs. W. M. Rold. When all had arrived Mrs. R. J. Reynolds took charge and asked each lady to describe herself as the flower whose name she bore.

When all had succeeded in describing their flower, a most amusing debate was enjoyed. The question was: "Resolved, that every Baptist woman should attend the Missionary Society." Mrs. W. E. Kirkpatrick discussed the affirmative and Mrs. Wilmore Dougherty the negative. Mrs. Dougherty's discussion brought out in a very amusing yet forceful manner the many excuses which our women offer for not attending our Society.

Each guest then found, somewhere about the room, a slip of paper on which was written a stunt for them to do. This caused a great deal of merriment as each woman seemed anxious to perform her stunt.

Delicious refreshments of sherbet and wafers were served by Mesdames Rold, Kirkpatrick, and Roberts.

Curtains Defeat Bears

On the evening of May 29, in the new High School Auditorium, the literary societies had their final contests in oratory, declamation and debate.

All contestants did exceedingly well, but as one would expect, the Bear Cats were not a match for the Curtains and all cups and medals were awarded to this society. It is the intention of the Curtains to hold these cups for three successive years, at which time they will become the permanent property of that society.

We are very sorry that the representatives of the Bear Cats did not get to give their "speeches of acceptance," which they had previously prepared.

The Curtains have been very successful this year in winning four out of five cups and medals offered and we sincerely thank the individuals and organizations who offered these trophies. We hope there will be as much interest created and a smany medals offered next year.

He Made Love to His Stenographer
By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Clem Stogdill looked up from his desk and glanced through the glass partition which separated him from the main office of the Acme Manufacturing company. His glance took in the big workroom where over a hundred girls were busily engaged in typing and in working at card records.

But Clem saw the girls only as a mass, and not as individuals, for he was looking for a particular girl, Alice Blake, his stenographer.

Alice was not at her desk, a short distance from the partition where Clem could see her easily, and Clem missed her. He wondered if she was taking dictation from Oliver J. Evans, the boss of Clem's department, and the only man, outside of Clem, who made use of her services as a stenographer.

At the thought that Alice might be in Oliver's private office, which was entirely screened by wooden partitions from the view of the workroom, Clem became restless. As the minutes wore on and Alice did not return to her desk Clem's restlessness turned into jealousy. What if Evans was making love to Alice?

This last thought was too much for Clem. He rose and began pacing nervously back and forth in his tiny office. He noticed some of the girls in the workroom glance up and covertly smile at him. He knew they had his nervousness properly diagnosed as jealousy, but Clem didn't care. He was deeply in love with Alice. And he thoroughly hated the idea of Alice taking dictation from anyone but himself.

For some minutes Clem paced up and down. Then his will asserted itself and he resented himself at his desk.

"I've got to cut this out," he told himself. "I'll have the whole office wise to me if I don't. And I can't do any work when I'm like this. I better get a grip on myself, once and for all."

Following this little conversation with himself Clem applied himself assiduously to the work on his desk. For fifteen minutes he didn't look up once.

And then, when he did finally look through the glass partition into the workroom again, his patience was rewarded. Alice was back at her desk.

With something like a sigh of relief Clem gazed at her for a moment or so. How pretty she was. Her black hair shone in the sunlight as she bent over her typewriter. The roses in her cheeks—and they were natural, too—tantalized him. He felt like rushing through the door out into the workroom, and clasping her in his arms right before the whole crowd.

But Clem contented himself with pushing the little buzzer that called her to his office.

He pretended to be very busy as Alice entered the room. Then he looked up at her with a stern, businesslike expression on his face.

"Take this dictation, please," he said, trying desperately to make his voice solemn but failing entirely to do so.

Clem was looking straight at Alice as he said this, and he noted the laughter in her eyes and the smile that came to her face at his words.

"More dictation?" queried Alice. "That's seven times today."

"I don't care if it's seventy-seven times," declared Clem. "It makes me raving mad every time you go into Evans' office. Did he try to make love to you again?"

"Yes," said Alice. "That seems to be quite a habit with the men I take dictation from."

"But I'm different," said Clem.

"Not so awfully different," said Alice. "You started making love to me the day I started working here. Mr. Evans waited only a week longer than that."

"I wish you'd slap his face the next time he tries to get mushy with you," exclaimed Clem.

"And lose my job?" cried Alice. "That would be a fine mess, wouldn't it? Besides, he isn't mushy—he just talks about my eyes and hair and cheeks—and tries to hold my hands once in a while."

Clem clenched his hands angrily at this. Then he leaned over and caught Alice's hands in his.

"When he does that," said Clem, "you—scream for help—or—get up and beat it; or—something like that."

Alice laughed a bit at this. "You're so practical!" she exclaimed, and squeezed Clem's hands.

Then she leaned a bit closer as though she was going to kiss him.

But at this moment a shadow gloomed over them. Clem glanced up. O. J. Evans, his boss, was standing in the doorway. Clem snatched his hands away from Alice at once. Making love to the stenographers during office hours was strictly prohibited in the rules and regulations of the Acme Manufacturing company.

For a moment or so Evans stood in the doorway glowering at Clem. Then Evans motioned to Alice to depart. She did so with a sly, roguish glance at Clem. Evans seated himself heavily in the chair Alice had vacated.

"Mr. Stogdill," said Evans solemnly. "He was a large, solemn man, and dignity robed him like a cloak." "Mr. Stogdill, I have felt for some time that I should speak to you upon an important matter. You must not make love to Miss Blake during office hours. Any further infractions of this rule will result in your instant dismissal." He arose slowly. "Do you understand?" "Yes," said Clem weakly.

But though Clem was meek enough in appearance he was a raging volcano of fire inside. The old hypocrite! It was all right for him to make love to Alice in the seclusion of his private office, but it was all wrong for Clem to do so! What an unfair advantage for a boss to take of an employee. He wouldn't stand for it. He'd—

But what could Clem do? Jobs weren't hanging on trees and he needed the money.

Clem looked through the partition at Alice hungrily. Slowly an idea took form in his brain. It was a bold thought. He wondered if Alice would do it. Not many girls would, but Alice cared for him a lot and this thing of Evans making love to her was getting on his nerves. Of course it was a lot to ask of any girl, but—

There was suppressed eagerness in Clem's manner as he left the office that afternoon, and upon meeting Alice outside began talking to her earnestly.

The next morning when Clem and Alice came to work Clem waved to her hurriedly through the glass partition as they started in on the day's routine. Then when she came into his office to take dictation he pressed her hand covertly.

"It's all right," he said. "I—"

Again an ominous shadow fell across them. Clem looked up to see Evans once more standing in the doorway. But this time Evans' solemnity was replaced by a fiery visage and angry words.

"This will be about enough!" cried Evans, furiously. "I've thought for some time there was something between you two. There must be some logical explanation for Miss Blake's repeated refusals of my advances. You both know the rules of this company. So I must—"

"You're just a little late," interposed Clem, blandly. "We both resign."

"What?" cried Evans. It was unthinkable that any employees of the Acme Manufacturing company should show such independence.

"You heard me," Clem said. "I have secured a fine position with the Superior Manufacturing company at considerably more than I could hope to ever get here. Miss Blake is willing to leave here. They want me right away, so I guess I'll go now."

"No, you don't," sputtered Evans. "The Superior company is particular about the manners of its employees, too. I'll tell them about you, and—"

"No need," said Clem. "I've already told them about myself and Miss Blake too. You see we were familiar with the rules of this company about two people from the same family not being employed here at the same time. We thought it was a fool rule, that last one about two members of the family not being employed here at the same time, so— Well, we got tired of working for a company where one of its executives—meaning you—violated the company's own rule about making love to stenographers. So we decided to get out whether I got a job or not. I landed this new job this morning, fortunately."

"But aren't you going to be married?"

"Of course not," exclaimed Clem. "I've just told you we know about your rules against employing both man and wife, and we needed what we both could earn, so Alice went as Miss Blake and—"

"You don't mean you're married?" asked Evans.

"Sure," said Clem. "We were married a year before we ever saw this dump, Goodby!"

And Mr. and Mrs. Clem Stogdill walked out of the Acme Manufacturing company's office for good.

CHINESE PROSPER IN JAVA

In a Way, Writer Says, They Are Crowding Out the Hollanders Who Are There.

The Chinese are the backbone of Java as the Hollanders are the brains, says a writer in Asia Magazine. In Java there are no Chinese coolies. The Chinese came to succeed. Java is for them a holy place where all escape starvation and none seem to fall. They start humbly, lugging their little stalls with sweets or coconuts on their backs, or carrying at each end of poles that deeply groove their shoulders heavy baskets filled with penholders and teapoons carved out of teak wood. Later they grow more prosperous and become the owners of stores in the small towns and cater to Hollanders as well as natives. The most successful open up quarters in the Chinese retail section of the bigger cities, the favorite shopping places for Dutch ladies. They come to Java to stay, and generally they marry native women. In the cities they have accumulated much wealth. They own hotels, houses and garages, and they are beginning to make the Hollanders feel more or less a guest, a renter in his own colony.

Galoshes, Begoshes!

Although the downtown streets were as dry as in midsummer the day after the wet snow, practically every flapper in the promenade wore a pair of galoshes—and wonder of wonders—every buckle was fastened. A year ago this would have been unthought of; then buckles were not intended to be buckles, but ornaments, and not only ornaments, but musical instruments, for the more they rattled the more the flapper was pleased. Now thin legs, thick legs and every other kind are encased in "buckled" overshoes. "Galoshes, begosh," said one guy with a chuckle, as he ogled the feet of the women who passed.—Boot and Shoe Recorder.

GOV. SAM HOUSTON'S SPEECH

By special request we publish the following article which was taken from the Galveston News, under the date of December 29, 1864.

Galveston, Texas.—I herewith enclose you a correct report of the great speech made by Governor Sam Houston at Brenham, Texas, in 1861 after he had been deposed from the Governorship of our State because he refused to take the oath of allegiance to the Confederate Government. He was on his way by stage travel from Austin to his home near the old battlefield of San Jacinto and remained over at Brenham one day to rest and see a few old comrades who fought with him at San Jacinto. He didn't wish to speak, but his old soldier comrades and other friends insisted he should speak his sentiment, but he refused their invitation until some of the hot blooded secessionists declared he should not speak. This aroused the old lion-heart of Brenham and he then consented to speak. I remember the scene as vividly as if it had occurred yesterday. The excitement was intense; excited groups of secessionists gathered upon the street corners and declared it would be treason against the Confederate Government to permit Governor Houston to speak against secession. The court house was densely packed, and as Governor Houston arose to speak, cries were heard, "Put him; don't let him speak, and kill him." At this moment, Mr. Hugh McIntyre, a leading secessionist, sprang upon a table and drew a large Colt's revolver and said: "I and ten other friends of Gov. Houston invited him to address us, and we will kill the first man who insults or who attempts to injure him. I think Gov. Houston ought to have accepted the situation and took the oath of allegiance to our Confederate Government, but he thought otherwise. He is honest and sincere, and shed his blood for Texas independence. There is no other man who has more right to be heard by the people of Texas. Now fellow citizens, give him your close attention, and you ruffians, keep quiet or I will kill you."

His warning had the desired effect and only frequent cheers interrupted Gov. Houston during his address. His speech so deeply impressed me I was able to report it from memory, and I gave a written copy of it to Mr. Rankin the editor of the Brenham Enquirer, who complimented me for the correct report of the speech, but he deemed it expedient to publish it. In 1875 I re-wrote the speech from memory and submitted it to Mr. Hugh McIntyre, who declared it was correct, and while I may have failed to use Gov. Houston's exact words in some of the paragraphs, yet the line of argument made by Gov. Houston was perfect in my report of his speech. So far as I know the speech has never been published, and believing it will interest the people of Texas, and other states, to read that grand old hero's speech which so prophetically and fearlessly predicted coming events of disaster to our people, I herewith submit it to you for publication.
S. A. HARWORTH.

Governor Houston's Speech

Fellow Citizens: It was not my purpose or desire to address you today upon the great issues now confronting our common country, but old soldier comrades, who fought with me at San Jacinto, and other dear friends insist that I should explain the reasons why I refused to take the oath of allegiance to the Confederate Government, and why I have been deposed from the Governorship of our beloved State. The earnest solicitation of my old soldier comrades outweigh my desire to remain silent until the whirlwind of passion and popular clamor have subsided and the voice of reason can be fairly heard. I shall therefore speak, speak my honest sentiments and convictions and now submit you the reasons why I couldn't take the oath of allegiance to the so-called Confederate Government, and thereby violate the oath of allegiance I took to the Federal Government when I entered upon the duties of the Chief Magistrate of Texas. It has always been the invariable rule of my life to never form an opinion or verdict upon any great public questions until I had first carefully and impartially heard and considered all the evidence and facts upon both sides, and when I thus formed my verdict no fear of popular condemnation can induce me to change or modify such verdict. I have never permitted popular clamor, passion, prejudice nor selfish ambition to induce me to change an opinion or verdict which my conscience and judgment has once formed and tells me is right. My only desire is to be right, and for this reason I can not or will not sacrifice what my judgement tells me is right. I love the plaudits of my fellow citizens, but will never sacrifice the principals or right and justice for public favor or commendation.

The Vox Populi is not always the voice of God, for when demagogues and selfish political leaders succeed in arousing public prejudices and stilling the voice of reason then on every hand can be heard the popular cry of "Cruelty him! Cruelty him!" The Vox Populi becomes the voice of the devil, and the hiss of mobs warn all patriots that peace and good government are in peril. I have heard the hiss of mobs upon the streets of Austin and also heard the hiss of mobs upon the streets of Brenham, and friends have warned me that my life was in great peril if I expressed my honest sentiments and convictions.

But the hiss of the mobs and the howls of their jackal leaders can not deter me, nor compel me to take the oath of allegiance to a so-called Confederate Government. I protest against surrendering the Federal Constitution, its Government and glorious flag to the Northern abolition leaders and to accept its stead a so-called Confederate Government whose constitution contains the germs of seed of decay which must and will lead to its speedy ruin and dismemberment if it can never secure any real existence. Its seed of ruin and decay are the principles of secession, which permits any one or more of the Confederate States to secede from the parent Confederate Government and to establish a separate government. Can any well informed man doubt that the time will soon come when several of the Confederate States would secede and establish separate governments? Why will such results follow in event the Confederate Government established? Because in all of the Confederate States, there are ambitious secession leaders who will be aspirants for the presidency of the Confederacy and to exercise controlling influence in its government, and in all cases where their ambitions are frustrated their leaders will cause their respective State to secede and form separate governments wherein they may be able to realize their selfish political hopes. Within ten years we could have ten or more separate Confederate Governments, which would in time fall an

What Rev. Knickerbocker of Wichita Falls says about "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse"

"I went last night to see the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." For two hours and a half the mingling of lights and shadows kept my emotions like swift winged birds from sunlit mountain tops to velvety darkness of deepest valleys. I Shuddered, I laughed, I wept and some times I nearly cursed. This is, I think I did let loose in my heart several impressions on the heads of the Germans as the delineation of heartless arrogance and maddening brutality passed the screen.

A description of the picture is impossible, but the words in it are superlatively great. The most delicate of exquisite artistry are shown both in the acting and the stage setting, and my unqualified advice to the Wichita Falls public is "Sell your shirt if need be, and engage your half interest in your mother-in-law or to any other desperate measure to get the money to see this show. It will add a vivifying inspiration to the present and an immortal treasure of memory to the future."

Kindergarten Program

On Wednesday afternoon at the Public Library Mrs. Oslin presented her kindergarten pupils to a large and appreciative audience.

This was a splendid programme, as the little tots all did their parts so well, and showed much work and patience in training on the part of their teacher. Mrs. Walden and Mrs. Meaders, assisted by Ruth Robertson and Faye Harris furnished splendid music. Mrs. Oslin is to be commended for the success she has had with her pupils the past year, as her work shows such splendid results. Haskell is sorry indeed that she will not be with us another year to teach.

At the close of the programme Mrs. Oslin made a plea to the Club Women and members of the Parent Teachers Association and all others interested in the children of Haskell to put all their efforts forward to getting a kindergarten in the public school, as this is needed very bad.

With our splendid new building to relieve the crowded condition, Haskell can well afford a room to all unders and pupils of kindergarten age.

To Name Goat Meat

Youngblood, Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station and M. College, has accepted nomination on a committee to determine the most appropriate name for the meat of the goat. The Goat Raisers' Association of conducting a contest in which a high class Angora buck is offered by Mr. B. M. Habert, Angora breeder of Sonora, the person suggesting a name for the meat which will be accepted by the committee as the most appropriate. Dr. Youngblood said: "It is very desirable to decide upon a name for the meat of the goat, the pig, the sheep, the cow, etc. as they have long had designations and are no doubt assisted in popularizing their meats commercially, as well as to conveniently designate them when writing or speaking. I am glad to see the Goat Raisers' Association has called attention to an appropriate name for goat meat which has long been popular and will continue to be popular for as a whole. There is no doubt that the goat is a most palatable as other meats, and that this meat, when properly dressed and prepared, is not equal to other meats, but is prepared by many people, who know it, as superior to mutton. The Spanish-American are especially favorable to goat and having established partiality, furnish a brisk demand in sections of the State where they are raised.

the delicious dishes which they enjoy and in which the meat of the goat figures conspicuously, are well known to all who have partaken of West Texas hospitality."

The name will be selected by the committee at the Sheep and Goat Raisers' Convention in June from those submitted to Mr. James T. Elliott, editor of the Sheep and Goat Raisers' Magazine, 806 Angelo, Texas. Other members of the committee are: R. H. Martin, President Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association of Texas, Del Rio, Texas; Robert Davis, President, American Goat Breeders Association, Rio Frio, Texas; Jack Turner, President, National Angora Record Association, Junction, Texas; and Claude A. Broome, Chairman, Show and Sales Committee, San Antonio, Texas.

... easy prey to foreign governments. The increase of secession leaders will be rapid and large in all of the Confederate States, and their contests against each other for political leadership will lead to discord, promoting southern conspiracies and revolutions, which will produce many Court Julians, or traitors, who will call to their aid foreign governments to dispossess the people who refused to help them gratify their selfish ambitions.

Never will I consent to give up our Federal Constitution and our Union States for a Confederate Constitution and government whose foundation principles of secession must and will prevent its successful establishment; or if it should triumph, its triumph would be only temporary and its short-lived existence end in revolution and utter ruin.

The Federal Constitution, the Federal Government and its starry flag are glorious heritages bequeathed to the South and all sections of our common country by the valor and patriotism of Washington, and all the brave revolutionary soldiers, who fought for and won American independence. Our galaxy of Southern Presidents—Washington, Jefferson, Monroe, Taylor, Tyler, and Polk—cemented the bond of union between all the states, which can never be broken. Washington declared for an indivisible union, and Jackson made the secession of Southern California and of other states impossible. Jefferson, by the Louisiana purchase, added a vast empire of country to our union, and Polk followed his example by further extending our Union to embrace Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, and California. Monroe established the Monroe Doctrine, which will for all times preserve and safeguard the Governments of the Western Hemisphere against foreign conquest. All our Northern presidents have been equally patriotic and just to the South. Not a single Southern right has been violated by any president or by any Federal Administration. President Lincoln has been elected, because the secession Democratic leaders divided the Democratic party and caused the nomination of two separate Presidential Democratic tickets or nominees.

Both branches of Congress are Democratic; therefore it will be impossible for President Lincoln's administration to enact or enforce any laws or measures that can injure Southern Rights. But grant for the sake of argument that the time may come when both branches of Congress are Republican and laws are enacted and enforced which will injure or destroy Southern rights, what shall we then do? I answer that sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof, nor would there be the least danger of the Republican party ever controlling both branches of Congress and all branches of the Federal Government if the secession leaders would permit the Democratic party to remain a solid indivisible party.

But if the day should ever come when Southern rights are ruthlessly violated or injured by the Republican party, we of the South will then fight for our rights under the Stars and Stripes, with the Federal Constitution in one hand and the sword in the other, we shall march on to victory.

I believe a large majority of our Southern people are opposed to secession, and if the secession leaders would permit our people to take ample time to consider secession and then hold fair elections, the secession movement would be defeated by an overwhelming majority. But the secession leaders declares that secession has already been peacefully accomplished and the Confederate Government independence and sovereignty will soon be acknowledged by all foreign governments. They tell us that the Confederate Government will thus be permanently established without bloodshed. They might with equal truth declare that the fountain of the deep blue seas can be broken up without disturbing their surface water as to tell us that the best government that ever existed for men, can be broken up without bloodshed.

The secession leaders also tell us if war should come that European nations will speedily come to our relief, and aid us to win our independence, because cotton is king, and European commerce and civilization cannot long exist without our cotton, therefore they must help us maintain and perpetuate our Confederate Government. Gentlemen who use such false misleading statements forget or else are ignorant of the fact that commerce and civilization existed a long period of time before cotton was generally known or used.

They also forget or else are ignorant of the fact that the best sentiment of Europe is opposed to our system of negro slavery. They also tell us if war comes that the superior courage of our people, with their experience of the use of firearms, will enable us to triumph in battle over ten times our number of Northern foes. Never was a more false or absurd statement ever made by designing demagogues. I declare that civil war is inevitable and is near at hand. When it comes the descendants of the heroes of Lexington and Bunker Hill will be found equal in patriotism, courage and heroic endurance with the descendants of the heroes of Cowpens and Yorktown. For this reason I predict that the civil war which is now near at hand will be stubborn and of long duration. We are sadly divided among ourselves, while the North and West are united. Not only will we have to contend against a united and a harmonious North, but we will have to battle against tens of thousands of our own people, who will never defeat the Stars and Stripes nor surrender the Union of States for a Southern Confederacy of States, whose principles of secession must inevitably lead to discord, conspiracy and revolution, and at last to anarchy and utter ruin. When the tug of war comes, it will indeed be the Greek meeting the Greek. Then, O my fellow countrymen the fearful conflict will fill our fair land with untold suffering, misfortune and disaster. The soil of our beloved South will drink deep the precious blood of our sons and brethren. In earnest prayer to our Heavenly Father, I have petitioned him to cast out from my mind the dark forebodings of the coming conflict. My prayer have caused the light of reason to cast the baleful shadows of coming events before me. I can not and will not close my eyes and ears against the light and voice of reason. The die has been cast by our secession leaders whom you have permitted to sow broadcast the seeds of secession, and you must ere long reap the fearful harvest of and revolution.
