

Former Resident Recalls Oil Discovery

By David Teague
"Extra, Extra, Oil Discovered In Talco."

This was the cry of the paper vendor as he made his way down our street in Deport. The time was mid-March of 1936 and I was a seven year old boy returning home from a sandlot baseball game. It was almost dark as people gathered outside on their porches and in their yards. Some bought papers, others simply asked what had happened. I didn't fully grasp the significance of all this, but could feel by the excitement among the grown-ups that it was something unusual and the fact that papers were being sold in this manner seemed to underscore the importance of it all.

A few days later, I remember standing in front of John Thompson's store, listening to him tell my dad the importance of the oil boom and what an impact it would have on the whole area. He pointed to the traffic over on the highway and said it was being caused by the oil strike.

Eventually, the events were to affect the lives of many people, including my family. Within a year my dad was working for Magnolia Petroleum Company. We moved to Talco and lived in the Magnolia Camp near Meadows Curve. We left a life in a placid little farming community to become a part of the hustle and bustle of "Boom Town".

With the approaching of the 50th anniversary of this boom, I have recently spent several hours researching old newspapers or any other information I could dig up to retrace the events of those days.

Most of this was obtained from the Barker Center, a part of the LBJ Library in Austin. I am grateful to the Paris Morning News for their old copies that are preserved there, with complete coverage of the events of those days.

Friday, February 7, 1936
Messrs. R.L. Pevelo, C.N. Housh and E.G. Thompson successfully tested a wildcat well east of Talco, known as their No. 1 Carr. That night the well ran 750 feet of 27 gravity oil in 23 minutes through a 3/8" coke on top and bottom, from a depth of 4166 to 4208 feet.

Sunday, February 9
Word of the strong showing of oil rapidly spread throughout the industry and by Saturday the town was overrun by operators from all parts of the country. All area hotels and restaurants were filled to capacity. The telephone company called on employees from other towns to help out as their services were extended around the clock. Calls came in from the greatest oil fields in the world to men high in the oil circles. Joe Berry

Hopwood, agent for the Paris Morning News in Talco, increased his order for the current issue by 200 extra copies.

Due to the influx of leasing and royalty activity, the bank was open throughout the weekend, including Sunday. Leases brought as high as $150 per acre for land near the test site. One man asked $1,000 for a least on three 100'x75' town lots, a 150'x300' lot was reportedly leased for $425. Leases in the general area were bringing $20-$25 per acre and $10 per acre as far away as Deport. It was estimated that $500,000 changed hands as brisk trading continued.

On Broad Street, the main thoroughfare, one man unfurled a map but soon had to push people back in order that he might proceed with his prospect who wanted to buy leases and royalties. At least one leasing company, the Unsell Lease Exchange operated on this thoroughfare. It was apparent that if oil greased the wheel of prosperity, Broad Street was likely to be the hub.

Sunday brought 6,000 to 7,000 automobiles and 12,000 to 15,000 visitors to Talco and Mt. Pleasant. Though difficult to reach, some drove their cars to the No. 1 Carr to see oil in the slush pits, where they were seen stirring it with sticks and carrying it away in cans. One mistook a mud-filled pit for firm earth, and plunged head-long into it, without injury.

Monday, February 10
Pipe and casing were set and cemented at a depth of 4166 feet with 5 feet of bottom. Leases were now bringing $35 an acre as far away as ten miles from the test site. The cement had to be set for 72 hours before the plug could be drilled.

Friday, February 14
"Expect the plug to be drilled Sunday"—Eggs were selling for $.29 for two dozen—Sliced bacon was $.35 a pound.

Sunday, February 16
"We expect to drill the plug on Wednesday," announced R.L. Pevelo.

He and other operators who had been actively buying leases locally, left to go to Stamps, AR, where another good oil showing was reported. Others extended their activities into Hopkins, Hunt and Franklin Counties. Many believed the trend of play would swing along the defines of the Balcones Fault. The Stamps field was an extension of that same fault line. It runs east and west through Miller and LaFayette Counties of Arkansas, on to Smackover and down to Rodessa, LA. From Talco, they believed the fault to go mostly west through Sulphur Bluff and Nelta, some six miles north of Sulphur Springs, across the county to a point near Campbell, where it turned south toward Kaufman, down to Mexia, Seguin and on to Corpus Christi.

Hunt County reported leases bringing up to $100 per acre, with 250 to 300 instruments filed in Greenville.

Kaufman County Clerk's Office reported 100 instruments filed in one week.

Hopkins County activity had reached a feverish pitch in the past week with leases bringing $30 per acre near Nelta and Sulphur Bluff and 60,000 acres under lease. Some 400 instruments had been filed and bank deposits had increased by $1,000,000

TRAIN WRECK-This wreck happened across the Sulphur River back in 1952 or 1953. TP&L was hauling gravel to their plant site at Rivercrest when the bridge collapsed, dumping the gondola cars filled with gravel into the river. The engine, coal-tender and one gondola car had already crossed the bridge when it collapsed, no one was injured.

Tall Tales Contest Logs "Whoppers"

Last week's tall tale contest was a big hit! We received more lies than can be heard at a political rally in Washington, D.C.!

They ranged from the totally outlandish to the subtle, and all were good for a smile.

The top two were submitted by Mildred Whitt of Paris and Rab Skidmore of Deport and are reproduced herein.

Remember, turn your entry in to the papers and see your work in print! Plus, a special prize will be awarded to the biggest "whopper" at the end of the contest. Join the fun today!

Send entries to Deport Times, Box 98, Deport, TX 75435 or Bogata News, Box 306, Bogata, TX 75417.

"In the early 1930's, the men were sitting around the wood heater at the Rugby Store. Each one was trading tales how cold it was that morning. "The man told his wife to stay inside. He went out to milk the cow and set the bucket down under the cow. When he came down with the stream of milk to the bucket, it had turned to ice, so he left his bucket and brought the milk in his arms to the house like sticks of stove wood."

And the second tale goes:
"The other day I was sitting around the house, didn't have anything better to do, so I picked up my double-barreled shotgun, walked off up the creek. I heard a noise and looked up the creek, there were 100 geese. I heard another noise, I looked down the creek and there were 100 ducks. About that time, I noticed a big, big snake at my feet. I was so scared, I didn't know what to do. I threw my shotgun straight up and pulled both triggers. That thing flew all to pieces, one barrel went up the creek and killed the 100 geese, one barrel went down the creek and killed the 100 ducks, a piece off of my stock choked the snake to death and kicked me in the creek. When I came up I had both boots full of fish. It wasn't a good day for hunting or fishing, either one!"

This week's tall tale contest winner is a clear cut one. Richard Nance of Deport swears, moreover, that his story is a true one, not a figment of his imagination, and that it occurred only last week.

The Skunk Story
The other morning early I decided to drive up to the barn and check on a cow that is supposed to calve soon. When I got up to the lot, there were two black and white critters performing a weird dance out in the open! Closer (but not too close) inspection revealed two skunks performing what can only be termed as a courtship dance. The male was prancing around the female in circles, and they were chattering to one another happily.

They must have heard me, but paid no attention. Out of curiosity I picked up a stick and hurled it at them, thinking to frighten them.

To my complete astonishment, the male skunk keeled over on his back, all four legs sticking straight up in the air, and apparently dead as a doornail!

The female skunk stopped in puzzlement. She sniffed the air, her brow wrinkling in perplexity. Then she scampered away into the barn.

Lacking the courage to run right out and examine the inert skunk, I sat for a while just thinking about what to do, after all, a dead skunk in the middle of the barn lot isn't exactly what everyone always wanted.

To my surprise, after a few minutes, the skunk flopped over on his side then rose to his feet. He shook his head back and forth for a few seconds, looked all around, then went scurrying off to the barn after his companion.

Obviously, this pair had learned that privacy pays when it comes to courtship!

Area Weather Not Severe

High winds, rain and scattered hail, plus the threat of tornadoes kept area residents on the uneasy side Tuesday night.

Reports of golf ball sized hail stones, a sighted tornado, and lashing winds made for some "hard down" weather watching, but most people were relieved to find that the only damage was some loosened sheets of roofing tin and only splatterings of small hail.

NICHOLS' WORTH
By: Nanalee Nichols

Most folks would rather have major surgery than go to the dentist (only a slight exaggeration).

Dentists, for some reason, inspire terror and tension better than an invading army.

Despite the modern benefits of novocaine, gas and a variety of power "tools" for drilling, filling, crowning and extraction, the dentists of the world have never emerged from the dark ages in the average person's mind.

I am no different. For the last week, I have listened to more "wife beating" jokes than are funny, because of a large blue bruise on the side of my face, left because I braved a dental chair to have a tooth crowned. I had spent six months with the tooth hurting, knowing it would have to be crowned, and putting off the inevitable. (Do we ever quit hoping it will heal itself?)

Once ensconced in the fancy little spaciess chair at the dentist's office, I cravenly begged and pled for mercy. "Please, can't you fill it just ONE more time?", I groveled.

He only looked at me sadly and shook his head.

So they began. Most of us are familiar with the routine. First the swab coated with that awful tasting stuff that starts the stomach to churning. Then the foot-long needle. The bright lights in the eyes. The hissing suction, gurgling and echoing in the head. Then the drill. It isn't the drilling that's so bad, it's the smell of smoke...coming from one's mouth!

As usual, when there is a suction, two metal hooks, and an entire hand hanging out of one's mouth, the dentist will ask a question. Then acts a little put out when no answer, or at least no recognizable answer, is forthcoming.

With a crown there are impressions. Why does that stuff they use have to taste like the Play Dough we used as kids? Why, if they can do bypass surgery on the human heart, can't they make things that taste good in a dental office?

After two hours in the chair, two shots more, and a temporary cap which feels at least four inches across, the dentist is through.

Letting me sit back up, he smiles brightly and says "There, that didn't take TOO long, did it?"

Feeling the sore, mutilated gum, unable to raise my eyebrow because it is numb, fighting off nausea because of all the goop, I can only glare back.

I can't answer him, you see, because my tongue refuses to work!

ST. PATRICK'S DAY MARCH 17

have a nice weekend...

Did I Pass Or Didn't I?

It's all over but the worry and wondering, did I pass or didn't I? Then waiting for six weeks to find out.

The wonder and suspense could drive a person up the wall. Teachers were expected to be back in their classrooms Tuesday, acting as if their state leaders had not questioned their ability to teach. They smile as the million and one questions are flung at them, "Did you pass?" or "Was the test hard?" or "How did it feel to be tested again", and "Oh, gee, I hoped you would flunk".

A person could answer every question given in the government test and still not be a good teacher. A teacher comes with something special placed within the heart as well as the head. They have to have common sense as well as book sense to teach.

These tests say nothing about the teacher that cares for those children that do not have enough clothes, so out of their own pocket buys shoes or other garments for them. Teachers that get to know their students well enough to know when things aren't going well at home, teachers that know the difference between a problem that is bothering them and goofing off. Teachers that notice a change in a student and does something about it. Teachers do not have the time to get to know their students like they did in the past. Now, they make lesson plans, fill out government paper, grade papers, fill out government papers, fix bulletin boards, fill out government papers. Get the picture?

As in all professions, there are always some bad apples. Some are insensitive to the needs of the students and to their feelings.

Teachers need an extra cup of patience to survive the neverending "Can I go to the bathroom, my pencil needs sharpening, I can't zip my britches, I need a band aid, he pulled my hair or she hit me first." The higher the grade, the bigger the problem.

We have a superintendent, two principals and a board of trustees. If they can't weed out and fire teachers who are not qualified, then the community needs to get rid of them.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES R. VIA of Talco announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Judith Kay, to Kelly Frank McCuller of Mt. Pleasant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robbie L. McCuller of Mt. Pleasant. The future bride is a 1981 graduate of Rivercrest High School and is currently attending night courses at Northeast Texas Community College. She is currently employed as secretary at Johnson Pump and Supply in Talco. Kelly is a 1979 graduate of Mt. Pleasant High School and is currently employed at Via Well Service in Talco. The wedding will take place April 5 at 7 p.m. at the Calvary Baptist Church in Talco. All friends and relatives are invited to attend.

It's Important To You

We're here to Help

Supplying you with dependable electric service is a task that requires highly knowledgeable personnel. Because of this, our linemen and construction crews are rigorously trained to work with electricity safely.

Even though you and your family do not work with power lines, you should make it a practice to use electricity safely too. Here are a few guidelines:

- Always use tools and appliances that are properly grounded.
- Replace worn or damaged electric cords.
- When working outdoors, avoid contact with overhead power lines. TV antennas, masts, tree pruners, ladders and other metal objects are extremely dangerous when used near power lines.
- If you see a downed power line, don't touch it. Call our office or a local law enforcement agency.

Electricity is the safest and cleanest power choice, but it has to be used properly. We're here to help with information about electrical safety.

Franklin County had been hit with the full fury of a Texas tornado—some farmers who had been in debt for years were paying off land notes and taxes dated back to 1927. Over $4,000 in taxes had been paid in the past week and twice as many automobiles had been sold in one week as had been sold in the history of Mt. Vernon. Nine extra employees were working in the County Clerk's office to handle the overflow of instruments being filed, 428 in one week.

Drilling activity was reported at Rosalie, south of Deport, 2 1/2 miles from Minter and around Cooper and Honey Grove. Other tests were poised and ready to start at Talco, but were awaiting the drilling of the plug and further testing to the Peveto, Housh and Thompson No. 1 Carr.

Friday, February 21
 Humble Oil Co. moved to one of its leases on the King & Hughes tract southwest of Talco, just over the Franklin County line, to start another test well, their Windsor No. 1. Under the terms of their lease, production had to be secured by April 3, 1936. This agreement had been entered into ten years previously. Bateman Drilling Co. was selected to drill the well.

Thursday, February 27
 Humble set surface casing on Tuesday night. Dizzy Dean was asking for $21,500 more than his offered salary of $18,500 from the St. Louis Cardinals. A new Ford V8 sold for $510.

Tuesday, March 10
 Mt. Pleasant was living in an air of uncertainty and expectancy, the city was described as "being in tip toes" and had been for a month since the Carr No. 1 had made such a good test. The big question was, "When will they drill in, when will it commence to flow into the tanks?" Until that time, they and Talco were in a state of nervous hysteria.

Thursday, March 12
 Starting one day earlier than expected, the drilling crew began the long-awaited drilling of the plug in the Carr No. 1. It was reported that the delay had been caused to allow time to catch up on legal matters. They got up steam during the night, and started drilling about 6 a.m. If everything went well, they hoped to bring in a well late on the 12th or sometime Friday, the 13th.

Friday, March 13
 People swarmed about the test well as indications were that Friday the 13th might be a lucky day for Titus County and all of Northeast Texas. At 3 o'clock all tubing had been run into the hole, preparatory to swabbing. Members of the drilling crew believed the well would be brought in that afternoon. A barbed wire fence had been erected around the location with "Danger" signs to keep the crowd back. Swabbing was started and some reported that oil was being produced at 9 barrels an hour. An estimated 2,000 people visited the well as swabbing continued in an effort to make the well flow. Four armed guards had been hired to handle the crowds.

Sunday, March 15
 Swabbing continued as Mr. Peveto declared the test a "Sure Producer" whether or not it would flow on its own.

Thursday, March 19
 All of northeast Texas had watched as the well had been swabbed for five days, but the operators were unable to make the well flow. As subsequent drilling on nearby tracts proved, the hole was bottomed out in the top edge of the rich 90' deep oil sand. As they started dismantling the rig, after deciding to put the well on pump, without warning, it started to flow by heads.

The Paris News issued an EXTRA, headlining the flow of oil in Northeast Texas's first commercial well. The oil tested at 28.5 gravity. The flow was not rapid enough, however, and the well was finally put on a pump.

Sunday, March 22
 Humble's Windsor No. 1 King-Hughes was declared to be a producer of 50 to 75 barrels daily. The Pleasant Oil Co. Inc. of Mt. Pleasant was chartered in Austin with capital stock of $1,000. Incorporators were W.B. Hinton, C.N. Housh and Robert L. Peveto.

Monday, March 23
 Long distance calls in Talco were running about 100 per day placed and about 70 completed. License plates were observed not only from Texas, but from Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, Tennessee, California and Michigan. One cafe reported it had served more food during the last two days than in any week in its history.

Thursday, March 26
 Bogata Chamber of Commerce with E.G. Hutchings, president, and Walter McDavid, secretary, announced that Friday night, April 3, would mark the largest civic gathering ever held in Bogata, to launch a campaign for building a bigger and better town. Civic leaders from Paris and surrounding towns had been invited as had Messrs. Peveto, Housh and Thompson. "We want to go forward and we are sure to benefit from the Talco field."

The first oil was shipped from the new field on Wednesday, March 25.

Sunday, March 29
 Talco was to be given nationwide publicity as Paramount and Universal Studios were to take newsreel pictures of the new field.

Tuesday, March 31
 Windsor No. 1 flowing 650 barrels daily—8th test to be spudded in—Pouring of concrete on Hwy. 49 between Deport and Rugby had been completed and work had been started on the strip between Rugby and Bogata—Felix Jones of the Talco State Bank said that a deal had been completed to bring a refinery to Talco.

Tuesday, May 12
 Humble's No. 1 May Groves came in flowing about 10 a.m. Monday with 40 barrels an hour. Humble's No. 1 Myra Galt started flowing before daylight Sunday morning.

Thursday, May 14
 In one week, 20 permits were issued in Austin to drill in Talco, bringing the total to 37. Housing was critical, with one farmer reporting more than 50 persons applying to him in one day for lodging. Rooms in Bogata that had been renting for $2.00 per week were now going for $18.00 per month.

Saturday, May 16
 Magnolia's No. 1 Carr, west offset to the discovery well, was expected to make well at any time. The last report was that it was at 4,219 feet, with casing being set in hard formation, preparatory to drilling into the sand.

Diabetes Awareness Clinic Set

Diabetes is a crippling, and many times fatal, disease of which everyone needs to be made more aware. It affects many families of our city and surrounding communities. This disease can cause blindness, heart failure, renal failure, poor circulation, and many other major, permanent disabilities. It is the third cause of death by disease.

You will be given an opportunity to learn more about this crippling disease, how it can affect you and your family, how to recognize the symptoms, and some suggestions in dealing with it, at a Diabetes Awareness Clinic on Friday, March 21.

Jerry Lancaster, who has a B.A. degree in Science from the University of Georgia, and is employed by the Eli Lilly Pharmaceutical Company, will present an informative program, assisted by Mrs. Potts from Mother Francis Hospital in Tyler. They will give a short slide presentation and discuss the symptoms of the disease as well as the economic impact it has on our state. The members of the audience will receive handouts and a questionnaire for self-evaluation.

The Bogata Lions Club, in connection with the Lions International, is proud to offer the clinic to the area. The Talco-Bogata School system is cooperating with the Lions Club in the project.

Everyone is urged to attend the meeting in the Rivercrest Auditorium, March 21 at 7 p.m. There will be no charge to the public.

Local Students In Honor Society

A total of 46 Paris Junior College students are new members of Beta Zeta Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa, scholastic honor society for junior college students. The initiation ceremony was conducted in the PJC Theatre on February 25.

To be eligible for membership, a student must have completed one long term semester at PJC and must have accumulated 15 semester hours with a grade point average of 3.5 or better. Phi Theta Kappa membership is the highest scholastic recognition for a junior college student.

Dr. Dennis Michaelis, PJC president, praised the initiates for their achievement and challenged them to provide leadership as a campus student organization.

A special presentation was made by Dr. Michaelis to Betty Clement for her years of service as sponsor of the Phi Theta Kappa chapter. Mrs. Clement is chairman of the college Communications Division.

New members of the group include Becky Brooks of Bogata, Jennifer L. Gray of Bogata, James Gordon VanDeaver of Deport and Donna Rae Vaughn of Blossom.

The ceremony was conducted by Dr. Michaelis and Phi Theta Kappa officers.

The Way We Were

Week of March 2, 1956
 Mr. s Ray Hall of Talco was slightly injured when her car overturned. She was treated and released. Her son was not injured...The Bogata Elementary girl cagers were County Champions...Another truckload of deer has been freed in the Pinhook Game Management Area, this one with six does and five bucks...Bids for construction to 170 miles of telephone poles, line wire and cable for the Northeast Texas Telephone Company were opened. These lines were to serve rural subscribers out the offices of the telephone company at Bogata, Deport, Birthright and Detroit...Two oil test wells were due to be drilled soon. One located on the Oscar E. Westbrook property and the other on the Raymond D. Dugger place...Howison and Howison purchased the insurance agency of John K. Ford and carried on their business at an office near the house of Miss Edna Howison on W. Maple Avenue...Twin sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Thelma E. Curtis of Talco, and were named Jimmie and Jerry. They weighed 5 1/2 and 6 pounds respectively...

Tuesday, May 19
 The fifth producer, Lucy Petroleum Co.'s No. 1 Crawford, was brought in on Sunday night, May 17.

Monday, May 25
 Magnolia's No. 1 Carr started flowing at 8 a.m.

Sunday, May 31
 Murchison-Sanders No. 1 Talco School became the seventh producer in the new field.

The list goes on and on—for the next several years, hundreds of people came to work and build an oil field that stretched most of the way from Sugar Hill to Hagansport. The work was hard and demanding, but it was the humorous things that were relived many times in stories.

I cherish the memories of so many that I knew then and who have gone on. They were the heroes of the time.

Happy Birthday Boom Town
 Your city limit sign may reflect some 900 plus residents, but you may rest assured that there are many hundreds, if not thousands, of us who once called you home, lived through your exciting years and look back at those days with fond memories.

Legislation Chairperson Susan Crocker said "Senator Howard exemplifies the sort of legislator who has consistently supported the improvement of education in our state. He does his homework, works tirelessly, and is always willing to listen to educators."

TCTA's Legislative Hall of Fame was created to honor outstanding state legislators who through the sponsorship or passage of legislation have advanced and protected the interests of professional educators, students and parents.

Recipients must be nominated by a current or former member of the TCTA Legislation Committee. Once inducted in the Hall of Fame, the recipient becomes an honorary life member of TCTA and is eligible to participate in TCTA's benefits and services.

Financial Aid Applications Available At PJC

Students interested in financial assistance for the 1986-87 school year may obtain applications now at Paris Junior College, said Dr. Jerry deBin, director of financial aid.

Application should be made soon, as a period of six to eight weeks is required for processing, deBin said. In addition to grants, financial aid may be obtained in the form of loans or work-study employment at PJC.

To apply, students or prospective students should go to the Student Financial Aid Office in Room 130 of the Rheudasil Learning Center on campus. No appointment is necessary, it will take only a few minutes to obtain a form and receive instructions on completing it, deBin explained.

The director encourages all prospective students to make application for the assistance, whether or not they feel they are eligible. Everyone should at least apply for the Pell grant because many who fail to apply would be eligible, he noted. Texas veterans interested in qualifying for educational aid under the Hazlewood Act must apply for the Pell grant before eligibility may be determined.

More information on financial aid at PJC may be obtained by calling the office at 784-9429.

Comet Visible Again

Now is the time to start watching for the reappearance of Halley's Comet in the early morning sky. Although the comet emerged from behind the sun about a week ago, the predawn moonlight has made it difficult to spot. By March 7, however, the moon will no longer be a problem, setting just before Comet Halley rises.

Shortly after 4 a.m. on that morning, Halley will rise in the east-southeast, providing about 45 minutes of viewing before morning twilight begins. For the next two weeks, the comet will rise about five minutes earlier each morning, ultimately allowing almost 90 minutes of predawn observation. On March 21, the moon again starts to interfere, and will continue to do so until early April. At that time, the distance between Earth and Comet Halley will be at a minimum and best viewing will occur.

Throughout early March, the comet will move a little farther westward each day, slowly moving away from the constellation Capricornus toward the familiar "Teapot" figure in Sagittarius.

From The Other Side

By Britt T. Morgan

The falling oil prices have many state legislators very worried. And with good reason. One-third of the state budget comes directly from projected cost per barrel of oil. That amounts to about $1.3 billion. And that amounts to thousands of jobs lost and spending cuts in other areas. What other areas?

Well, about 50% of the state's budget goes to fund education—colleges, universities and public schools. I really do not foresee any budget cuts to public schools, what with H. Ross Perot and Governor Mark White bringing about so many reforms to public education they certainly would never take candy away from their baby. So, that means if the legislature cuts into education, it will probably come from colleges and universities. Higher education is supposed to expand the mind and create an atmosphere for learning, not only book knowledge but also about life and the world beyond the wall we have unknowingly built around ourselves. But without money, the wall cannot be torn down, only dented a little in a few places.

Another large chunk of the state budget pie goes to build, repair and/or otherwise fix state highways. The Texas Highway Department and the Texas Department of Public Safety could feel the jolt of decreasing oil prices much like the front tire of your car bottoming out a pot-hole deep enough to tickle a Chinaman's foot. This could mean lay-offs, but will probably just mean that those pot-holes will be there a lot longer and the badly needed repairs to many state highways and farm to market roads will just have to wait.

Other areas of cutbacks could come in social services, such as aid to dependent mothers and state-supported welfare and food stamps, or state agencies. But before the state starts mass cutbacks, let's look at the alternatives.

First, they could institute a state income tax, since we do not have one now. But this is an election year. And any talk about raising taxes in an election year is like throwing kerosene onto a fire to put it out. Second, the legislators could take a cut in salary, but seriously, would you vote to give yourself a cut in pay. The next alternative, and probably the most popular, would be to institute some sort of program that would generate a lot of income with very little expenses. Sounds like extortion to me. And in a way it probably is. But the program is known as a state lottery. Many states generate huge amounts of income with a legitimate lottery. Illinois and New York have two of the biggest lotteries, that is, biggest amount of income and biggest payoff, and they do it with relatively no expenses. It probably works for them because of population. New York ranks second among the states in population and Illinois ranks fifth.

What does this have to do with Texas? Texas ranks third in population plus, even though we will not admit it, Texans are big gamblers. How many football pots, poker games, turkey shoots or otherwise harmless forms of gambling do you know about or have taken part in? Quite a few. Many Texans travel to Louisiana Downs in Shreveport or Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs to the horse races and just as many travel to Las Vegas or Tahoe to spin the wheels, roll the dice and battle the one-armed bandits.

Well, so much for my sa...e-face-of-Texas-through-a-lottery theory. I think a lottery has its good points, but it also has its bad ones. The main point is Texas cannot afford a drop in oil prices. Over the past three months, oil prices have plummeted from $31 a barrel to just under $15 a barrel. Drilling in Texas oil fields has all but stopped, only about 440 oil rigs are currently pumping the vicious "black gold" from Texas' heart. And the state's number one industry has fallen far off that ranking. Many smaller oil and drilling companies have closed their doors and left thousands jobless because they just do not have the revenue to hold together for long periods of time. Many banks that have a majority of loans to these small oil companies will soon follow the bankruptcy suit. But do not expect gas prices to fall much more than they already have, after all, the big oil companies are not going to go bankrupt.

What can we do? Not much, except sit back and wait to see what the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC to you economists) has in store for us. If we recover too quickly, we could send ourselves in to another '72 energy crisis. If we do not recover soon enough, unemployment will be too high to curb and the state government will have to operate in a deficit, something that state law has prohibited ever since Texas became Texas. And meanwhile, back at the ranch, the lonely farmer turns away from a still rig as the sun sets on another day.
