Blazing Summer Slows Down Pace

By Nanalee Nichols

Main Street, U.S.A.-Texas: it's the same all over. Main thoroughfares drowse in the blazing summer sun, ditioning do so, those that can't move and the only visible movement seems to be the mercury in the thermometer..on it's way up. This week's temps are predicted to hit 105-110 degrees!

The "dog days" are here with a vengeance. Even canines seek the shade of the trees rather than doing their loitering on the street.

The year's activities are in recess in deference to old sol. The girl scouts and boy scouts have called a halt to their meetings. The forty-two and domino clubs won't resume until fall. School is still out, and all it's related activities are, too. Little League baseball and softball is over, the prac-

The vegetable harvest has peaked, the produce canned, frozen or consumed, depending on the nature of the bounty On Main Street, a sleepiness seems to have taken hold. Greetings are slower, activity almost non-existent. No shopping trips are made for fun, only necessity prompts a trip.

Vacations have depleted the ranks of regulars...those kids who spent a good portion of the summer holiday riding their bikes up and down the center of town. Even those who remain are more likely to be found sitting on the curb with a cold coke than popping "wheelies" on their bikes.

A cold glass of iced tea, a frozen slush drink, popsicles are all favorites for everyone

The Talco Times

TALCO, TITUS COUNTY, TEXAS

It is a time for relaxing a little. A time for pondering, reading a good book, spending the weekend at the lake. Water is evryone's friend. Whether swum in, boated across, or poured on lawns and children alike. it retains a comfort almost disproportionate in scale.

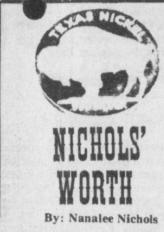

Spring has become a memory, fall is only a wistful idea. East Texas is in the grip of summer.

Even the combines harvesting milo seem muffled in their roaring course up and down the rows, while hay meadows have a strange silence about them, as balers plunk out yet another and another bale. The time when those bales will be needed to fend off winter's bitter stab seems unreal, unobtainable

Summer is a time for reunions, homecomings, vacations. A time when somehow, in spite of air conditioning at home and at work, the body's rhythms slow down in time to the season, and everyone makes allowances for "summer doldrums". It is natural, and it feels, somehow, good.

What has happened in Deport can happeners any small community with er fire department. Hopefula volu ly, it will not. Perhaps someone reading this will think twice before they take something from the fire station, no matter how trivial it seems. Saturday morning the Deport Volunteer Fire Department responded to a call...a five year old boy in a cistern. In this case, the child had already been there too long, and there was nothing that could have saved him, despite desperate efforts. But the operation was severely hampered by the fact that when the fire department arrived, the flashlights had been stolen.

It was dark in that well, and IF the child had still been alive, the rescue operation would have been hampered by that darkness, and the time lost locating a light source. What if the casual theft of one of those flashlights had caused the death of a child? What if the lack of flashlights had hampered rescue operations at a fire, or a night-time wreck?

The necessity of having lights there and ready is critical. The firemen cannot waste precious time checking to see that all of their equipment is in place, nor can they lose time with a locked fire station...the volunteers

Five-Year Old Dies In Cistern

An abandoned cistern proved a death-trap Saturday morning in Fulbright, as five year old Thomas J. Massey fell into it and apparently drowned.

The youngster and his sister, age one year, were playing near the family's home in Fulbright when the grandmother, Marie Massey, noticed them missing and began searching for them.

Mrs. Massey found the little girl standing near the cistern at an empty house next door. She discovered the boy's body at the bottom fo the cistern, and called authorities, including the Deport Volunteer Fire Department

Thursday, July 24, 1986

Volunteer firemen put a latter down the fifteen foot deep cistern, which had a concrete coping about two feet high around it, and went down and retrieved the child's body.

CPR was started, and all efforts were made to revive the child, he was transported by Red River Ambulance Service to McCuistion Regional Medical Center where he was pronounced dead.

25 Cents

A sheet of peg board, some tin and boards had apparently covered the old cistern, which had about four feet of water in it.

The child was the son of Tommy and Brenda Massey.

Funeral arrangements were made at Turrentine-Jackson-Morrow Funeral Home in McKinney, after Gene Roden's Sons transferred the body to them.

from fire to fire vary, and everyone cannot carry a key to all the doors, nor take the time unlocking side doors, garage doors, equipment doors, etc.

This isn't the first thing to come up missing from the station. Gloves, and odds and ends have disappeared before. An air pack was thrown into a nearby pool. Those air packs cost literally thousands of dollars, the gloves are special fireproof equipment, and cost over twenty-five dollars a pair. Again, each piece of equipment needs to BE IN IT'S PLACE at all times.

As the fire department's letter this week states, it takes a special kind of person to climb down into a cistern full of water and retrieve the limp body of a child. It takes a special person to know, and administer the proper efforts of revival.

But those efforts are overshadowed by the senseless theft of valuable, critical equipment.

How frustrating it must be for those volunteers to fe'el that what they are trying do is cancelled out by the carele ontempt of someone else. I prefer to think that whoever took these things didn't really think about the consequences. Hopefully they aren't so insensitive as to realize they could cause loss of life or property by their theft.

Hopefully, they will give it careful consideration now, and realize that it could be their home, their brother or sister, their OWN life that they could lose because of their thoughtless act. Come on, folks, let's bring this to a halt now ... before tragedy does.

Nanalee Nichols Edgar Lee Bryson, better known to those who know him ... and that's just about anyone in the area, as Ed, is a retired newspaperman.

Retire t, however, hasn't been a restful, resurely thing for Ed, as he has been as busy retired as he was working full time.

At 79, his interest in reading and free lance writing is undiminished.

A book lover from youth, he now possesses a large collection of books. Though the volumes have no visible order to an outsider, Ed can find any book desired promptly.

Included in his collection is a Cherokee Bible. Having some Cherokee ancestory, he intended to visit Oklahoma and do a study on the Cherokee Indians, something he hasn't given up on yet.

In his late teens, Ed wrote poetry for magazines and newspapers and had some short stories and articles. published.

He began working at the Deport Times back in 1930, when the depression set upon everyone's shoulders heavily. During World War II he served four years in Navy Aviation. After the war, in 1947, he began to work for the Paris News.

Later he moved to Beaumont where he became the City Editor for the Beaumont Journal. Later, he became the Chief Editorial Writer and Editor of the editorial page, working for grin, are "reading, writing and rocking". He writes the Sunday editorial page feature and an occasional Monday column for the Paris News.

He is a "Democrat and professional Texan". He is also one of the most thoughtful people around. Anyone doing worthwhile things, from a good article in the Bogata News on, is likely to receive a postcard from Ed letting them know they are appreciated.

His interest in other people and the dedication to the profession he spent his life in, is evident from the articles he writes.

"I have a great respect for people in small communities," he states, 'they are special people'

As in most cases, those who see others as "special" are usually pretty special themselves. Ed Bryson appreciates people, he likes them ... people like and appreciate Ed, too.

PJC Has Financial Assistance For Students

Persons interested in attending Paris Junior College in the 1986-87 1921 school year may be eligible for financial assistance to cover much of the coss, according to Dr. Jerry deBin, director of student financial aid.

The college has financial aid programs in the form of grants, lowinterest oans or work-study employment to help students pay their educaosts. Often, these programs er tuition, fees, books and supplies for students who are eligible, deBin said. Students then only have to pay the normal living expenses of room and board.

All prospective students are encouraged to apply for the financial aid; many eligible students fail to make application because they do not think they can qualify. Requirements for eligibility differ from program to program and constantly change. The awards are based on various factors other than income, so prospective students should take the time to apply for the assistance.

The Pell Grant Program is the largest federal student aid program. For many students, these grants provide a foundation of financial aid, to which aid from other federal and nonfederal sources may be added. Unlike loans, grants do not have to be paid back. Supplemental educational grants may be obtained in addition to the Pell grants.

To apply for the Pell grant only, students should complete the U.S. Education Department's Application for Federal Student Aid. Those applying for the Pell grant and other types of financial aid should complete the Americna College Testing Program's Family Financial Statement. Awards range fro $200 to $5,000 or more, depending upon the student's need and the availability of funds.

Veterans who have eligibility entitlements also should apply through the Financial Aid Office at PJC. Texan veterans whose benefits have expired may apply for a tuition waiver through the Hazelwood Act. Prospective students interested in PJC scholarships should contact the department head in the program of their major interest. A large number of applicants for the 1986-87 school year have not submitted the required documents for the particular aid they are seeking, the financial aid director said. Until these procedures are completed, the aid cannot be awarded. There are certain documents which must be submitted before any money can be awarded.

Area residents should take advantage of the opportunity for a college education at a community college with reasonable costs. PJC's indistrict tuition for a full time student for one semester is $202 while out-ofdistrict tuition is $286. Additional costs include laboratory fees, books and supplies.

These educational costs are often covered by the financial aid award, the director explained. Therefore, all area residents have an opportunity to work toward a college degree which will make a difference in their lifetime incomes.

Before deciding that college is too costly, students should visit the PJC Financial Aid Office in the Rheudasil Learning Center, Room 130. Applications may be obtained from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 8,a.m. to noon on Friday this summer.

Sorghum Infested

I read the article by Mollie Williams, "The Tale of the Borrowed Cat" in the newspaper last week. She mentioned the runaway cat getting under Tom Underwood's Beauty Shop. I remember that beauty shop very well and exactly where it stood. I got my first permanent there in 1936. My husband, Lee Minshew and a cousin, Wallace Stevens, cut stove wood for me and his wife, Mary, to get the permanents. They were paid $1.00 a rick for the wood, hauled and ricked up at the buyer's house. It took two days to haul the wood from the Mauldin Community, then Mary and I came to town with the money and got the permanents from Tom which cost $1.00 for each of us. It took us a whole day, but it was worth it. We felt so pretty. Jettie Minshew

Keeping Healthy

Hot Weather Hard on the Elderly

Older people have an increased risk of heat-related illness and the National Institute of Aging of the National Institutes of Health warns against heat exhaustion, heat cramps and heat stroke.

The Institute suggests several ways to cool off during a hot spell: taking lukewarm or cool baths or showers, allowing the body to air dry; placing an ice bag or wet towels on the body; staying out of direct sunlight and avoiding strenuous activity; wearing lightweight, lightcolored, loose-fitting clothing; wearing a hat outdoors. Whenever possible, remaining indoors in a cool place is advisable.

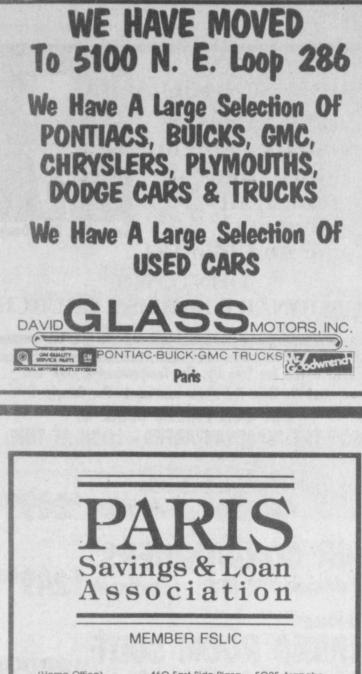

Another suggestion from the Institute is to drink plenty of water or fruit juices to replace fluids lost through perspiration but to avoid alcoholic beverages.

Elderly relatives or neigh-bors should be checked on routinely, and especially those who live alone. Danger signs such as nausea, dizziness, fatigue or fever require prompt medical attention.

With Midge

By Paul D. Payne Producer with sorghum fields are still in the flowering stage should monitor the fields daily for midge activity. In fact, it is almost a certainty that infestation levels of the tiny orange colored insect are high enough in every field to require spraying. Now, we certainly do not advocate the application of an insecticide without checking it, but insect numbers are extremely high throughout the area.

Due to the wet spring, the sorghum plants within a field are in various development stages. In many fields part of the crop has already begun to change color while other plants in low spots are just now beginning to head. This fact complicates the situation as to when a field should be treated.

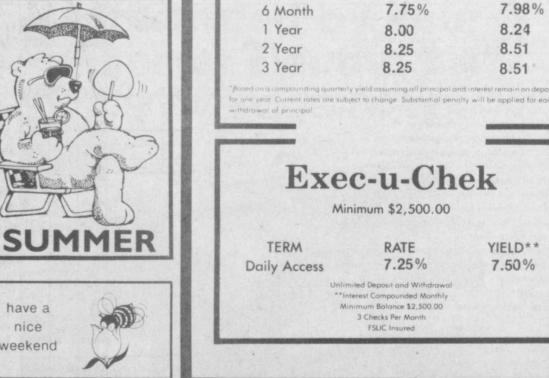

The life of an adult midge is about 24 hours. This is why it is so important for one to inspect his crop. If an infestation is found today, it should be treated if the crop is in the proper development stage. Waiting a day to treat will only result in a significant loss in grain.

One should determine the economic injury level for their crop. This take sinto account the cost per acre to treat and the market value of the crop. More than one application of an insecticide could be required this season. Applications at three to five day intervals are suggested if a sufficient number of the crop is still in the flowering stage.

There are several insecticides that are labeled for midge control. Pydrin is the latest insecticide to get a label and is beign used extensively in the area. It will cost $2.23 per acre plus application. Lannate will cost $3.89 for one pint her acre and Lorsban will cost $2.61 for one-half pint. Parathion is a cheaper insecticide at $1.30 per acre, but evaporates soon after application. Other chemicals suggested include Sevin, Diazinon, Malathion and Di-Syston

Since all insects are bad this year, we can anticipate Sorghum Headworms to be bad in sorghum once the grain begins to harden. This is the same worm that gets on corn, the Corn Earworm.

Grub Control Should Take Place Now insecticides

By Herb Brevard

June bugs or May beetles had a peak flight from mid to late June. According to Dr. James Robinson, entomologist, the best tiem to treat for whit egrubs, the larval stage of the June bug is from late July to mid-August. Lawns should be checked for grub population before applying an insecticide. Treat if more than four grubs per square foot are found. Diazinon and Dursban are two of the old standby insecticides for grub control. Water in teh insecticides with one-half to one inch of water immediately after application.

The same insecticides applied for grub control should also control chinch bugs in the lawn. This is the time of year that chinch bug infestations begin to build. Follow label directions for applying the Whiteflies and scale are increasing an Euonymus and some other landscape plants. Both whiteflies and scale can be controlled by several insecticides, including cygon, orthene and MSR.

Aphids are common on pecans this time of year. The water-stage spray for insect and disease control, which is due now, should kill the aphids. Additionall, fall webworms are becoming more prevalent. Control of the hickory shuckworm in pecans should begin about the middle of August. Preparation should be made now to carefully scout the orchard and apply insecticides at the proper time.

Producers should keep a close watch for armyworms in forages. Although none have been observed, this is the time of year for infestations to begin.

Unwanted Animals In Roach Town!

By Mollie Williams I grew up in a portion of South Bogata which most people called Roach Town. They called it that because at that time most of the houses in the area belonged to my grandfather, R.L. Roach. It has recently been included in the city limits and has officially been named Roach Street.

In later years, after I married, my husband and I built our home in that same area. It could be a really nice area in which to live, except for the fact that it's just far enough out of town for a lot of people to feel their liberty to dump their trash, unwanted animals, old furniture and whatever else they don't want. It also seems to be a favorite hangout for booze drinkers. It's not uncommon at all to have to back all the way from the bridge to the highway because of cars being parked on the bridge and to keep our children from being exposed to uncomely sights. I've often wondered how these same people who mar our part of town would feel if others treated their homes and the streets by their homes with the same disrespect.

This dumping has been a problem since way back when. On one particular occasion, many years ago, some high school boys decided to rid themselves of a litter of kittens. Of course, it was common knowledge that when you needed to get rid of animals, dead or alive, just take them to the old bridge below Roach Town and put them out, and this is exactly what these boys did, except they didn't wait until they got to the bridge to deliver their baggage, they just threw them out in front of our house. Now, it just so happened that my mother had gotten a gut full of stray animals about this time, so she ran and grabbed the old shotgun from it's place behind the door.

She had never shot a gun in her life, but those boys sure couldn't tell that. She pulled the gun up and aimed it right at the driver and demanded that he stop the vehicle. He tried frantically to stop the old jalopy truck, but the brakes were out. Fearful that she would kill them all, they jumped outof the rolling truck and stopped it with their own strength.

My mother then ordered then to gather every single cat that they had put out. It was quite a sight to see those boys running here and there trying to catch all those cats, but somehow they managed to secure all of them and left, thankful that they had escaped unharmed.

I can't help but smile ech time I see or hear the "Don't Mess With Texas" slogan because it reminds me of that time when my mother instilled within the minds of those boys her own slogan, "Don't Mess With Roach Town'

Frustrated by Your Summer Electric Bill? Try the Average Billing Plan

It's nice to beat the summer heat with air conditioning. As temperatures increase however, keeping cool has probably caused your electric bill to rise.

This is because your air conditioning equipment is having to work harder to overcome the summer heat. These seasonal "highs" in your electric bill can make it difficult to stay on your household budget, but this can be avoided. The Average Billing Plan offered by Texas-New Mexico Power Company allows you to pay approximately the same amount each month all year long.

With the Average Billing Plan, you already know about how much your electric bill will be, so you can better plan your household budget. We're here to help you with the Average Billing Plan. For more information call our office today.
