

Babe Rogers, Not Just A Coca-Cola Cowboy He's The Real Thing

Babe Rogers

By Nanalee Nichols

Babe Rogers' weathered face and humour-crinkled eyes give testimony to the many things he has seen and done during his 76 years.

A living page from a Western history book, he is the typical soft-spoken cowboy, and a distant relative to the legendary Will Rogers.

His blue jeans and boots fit like only a real cowboy's can. His belt buckle was honestly won roping and riding, his crisp white shirt and cowboy hat have the stamp of authenticity. A gentler, kinder spoken man cannot be imagined.

Cowboying, as he will smile wryly and admit, has been his first love since the age of 13. "I always kept going back to that", he grins.

He was born the youngest of four children in Claremore, Oklahoma. His father was a full-blood Cherokee Indian, who came from Georgia as a child on the infamous "Trail of Tears" which resulted in the death of so many.

His mother died while Babe was a small child, and his father, he recalls was strict.

"We learned to cook, wash, iron and clean pretty young. I know we scrubbed that old pine floor until it was white as paper," Babe murmurs, eyes looking inward to those long-ago times.

His father attended Bacon College at Muskogee, OK and when Babe was 13 years old, sent him to boarding school there. Babe, however, had different ideas, and ran away. He didn't see his father again for five years.

His first job was for a Mr. Brandon in Wagoner, OK. He worked on the Half Circle Ranch there. That meant punching cows, cutting wood or whatever chores were to be done. For this, he received $5.00 per month and his board.

Babe recalls that Mr. Brandon was a pretty hard taskmaster, not just with the hired hands, but with his own boys. He smiles as he recalls one of the boys badgering his Pa about going to a dance. The man grabbed up a handy bridle and promptly belted the youngster across the head with the bit end. It laid him out cold.

"Ole Frank didn't pester his Pa about going to that dance anymore," Babe reflects.

From Wagoner, Babe wandered on to Western Oklahoma. He saw his dad again and worked near him for a while, then hired on with "The Bows Boys" and headed for West Texas.

They were looking for a cook, and he told them he could fill the bill. Everything was fine for a while, he says, but the kitchen was set up in a big tent and one afternoon he got it afire. "That kitchen just plumb burned up," he ruefully ponders.

From near Amarillo, he signed on at the Matador Ranch.

"The first pair of new boots I ever had cost me a whole month's wages," Babe tells. "I ordered them from a White and Davis catalogue, and they were black with white stitched eagles on the tops." He obviously recalls clearly the delight those boots were to him back then. "Fifteen dollars, the whole month's wages," he says again, shaking his head a little.

Those were top wages back in those days, too.

He drifted, by his own admission, wherever it took to make a living. Through good times and bad, through a depression era never equalled, Babe did what he had to do to pay his own way.

Some of the things he has done besides cowboying include butchering, painting, general odd jobs, working in a glass factory, and every aspect of rodeo cowboying.

He met his wife, Bonnie, in Oklahoma City in 1936. She loved the rodeo circuit as much as he did, and the two traveled together until her death in 1985.

"Mercy, I hauled her and a horse a jillion miles up and down the road", he muses. It is obvious that he loved every minute of it.

He has ridden bareback horses, bulls and roped. About the only thing he didn't do was "doggin", which he was too small for.

Although he and his wife, a native of Detroit, Texas, had no children, they raised his brother's three youngsters. They are "just like my own" and a lot of visiting goes on between them.

Babe hasn't let years slow him down much. He still runs about 100 head of cattle, taking care of them himself. He still keeps a horse, and seldom misses a rodeo within anywhere in driving distance.

No stranger to broken bones, he walks with a slight limp, legacy of a cantankerous race horse who shattered his knee. It doesn't keep him off horseback, or from doing anything he wants to do.

In Detroit, where he has lived since 1969, he is known as "Uncle Babe" by most of the youngsters. Black or white, they all adore his stories of life when cowboys roamed the range and the spirit of the west flourished.

Quietly, sadly, he recalls traveling with his wife in a just-purchased travel trailer back in '85.

"She turned to me and said 'Babe, this is the best vacation we've ever had' ". That was on a Saturday and by the next Friday morning she had died.

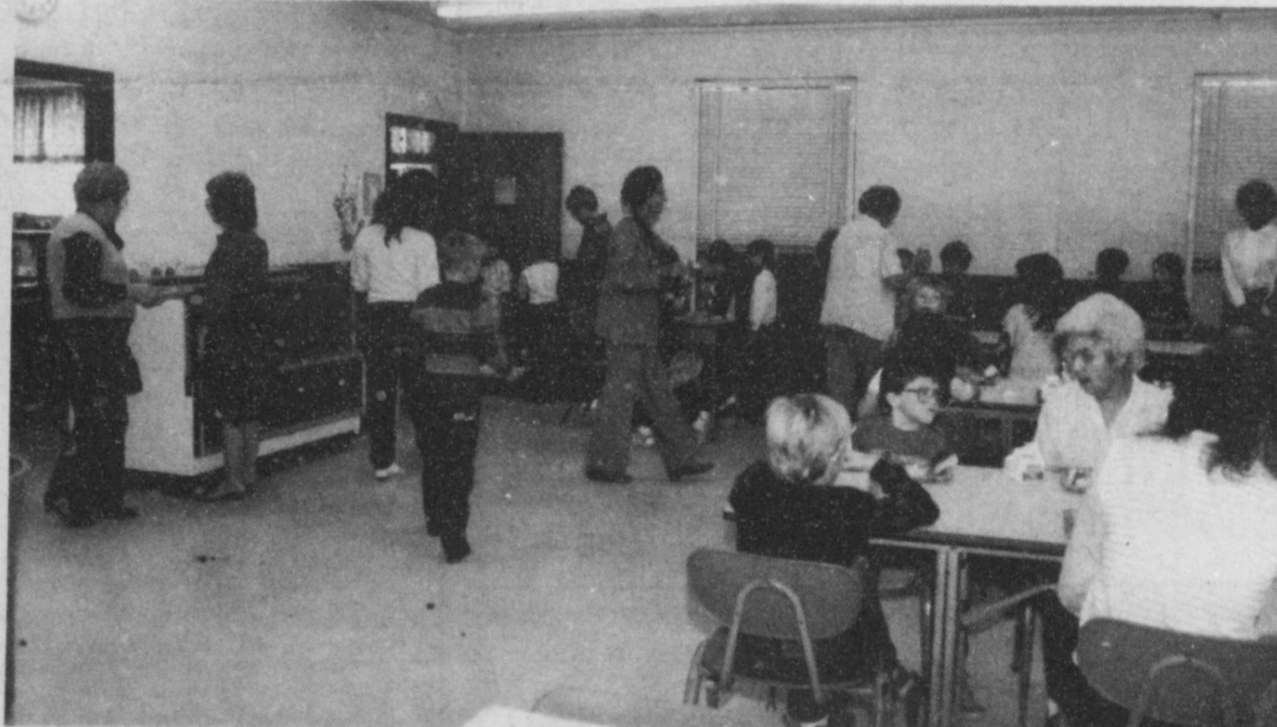

That he misses her is evident. Quickly he smiles and says once again "Oh boy, the miles, all those miles we traveled around this country."

He answers questions honestly, straight-out and with no shilly-shallying around. Except for one.

Eyes twinkling, he refuses politely to reveal his real name.

"Aw", he grins, "nobody knows me by anything but Babe, anyhow."

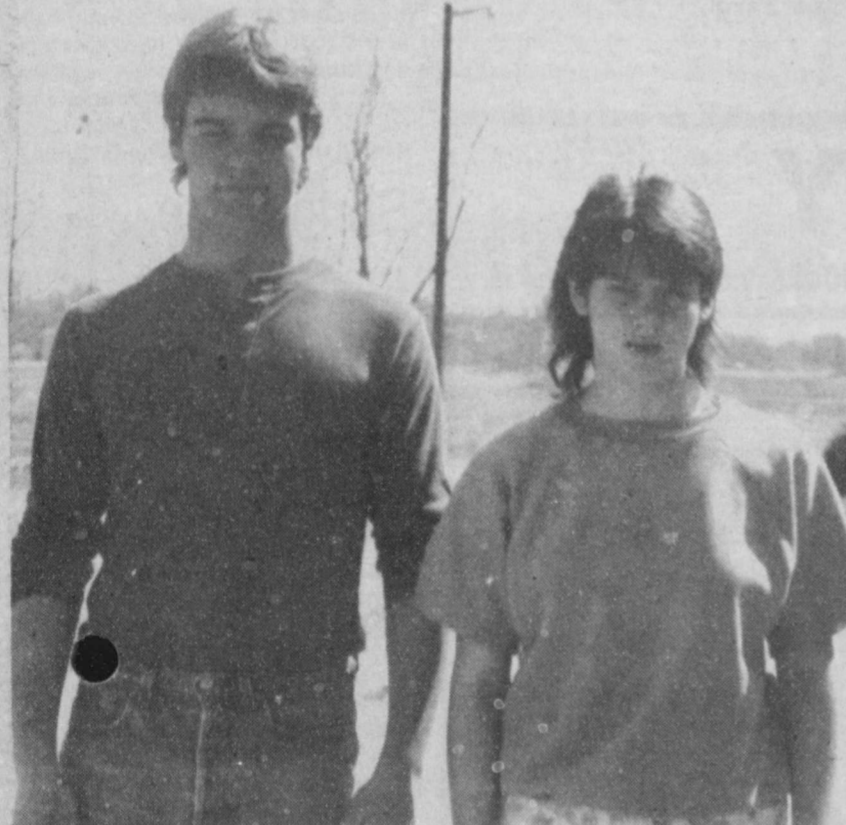

It only takes a second to realize that there's no use to press the point...it's what Babe Rogers is, not what his given name is that makes him such a likeable, special person, and a genuine cowboy.

Here's a salute to parents...grandparents...aunts and uncles. Here's a column devoted to appreciation of all that they do.

I'm not talking about your ordinary wash 'em, feed 'em, house 'em parents....I mean those who go the extra mile...or three or ten...for their children and other people's children.

These are the people who spend house decorating, cooking, organizing, taxi-servicing in order that banquets and ball games will come off on time.

They arrange for Boy Scout banquets, Boy Scout pine wood derbies, Boy Scout meetings. They arrange for Girl Scout banquets, Girl Scout parties, Girl Scout meetings. They open their homes to hordes of messy youngsters and never complain.

They serve as Sunday School teachers, chaperones for trips to amusement parks, baseball, football, basketball and soccer attendees or coaches.

Although getting kids to all the practices and games is a major job, there are those who go a step further and COACH those games. Arranging for equipment, water, uniforms and schedules is a time consuming and difficult job.

There are folks with kids in 4-H, or FFA. These people buy animals and feed, while carefully monitoring exercise, feeding, grooming and the hook-up to haul the critters all over to shows.

There are those who provide their offspring with the means and transportation to gymnastics, karate, art lessons and a wide variety of other learning classes.

And then there are the grandparents and aunts and uncles. Ready to throw themselves into the gap as taxi drivers, cheering sections or whatever is necessary, they contribute valiantly.

All of these folks work for nothing except a sense of satisfaction at happy faces.

All of these people receive criticism about their efforts from those who haven't taken time to DO anything.

All of them MAKE time instead of saying they don't HAVE time. Most work....all deserve a commendation and thanks...not only from their kids...but from everyone who can remember to take the time to say "thanks for caring".

Springtime In Texas Offers Events

Springtime is fun time in Texas, and this spring's variety of feasts, fairs, festivals, fetes and fiestas are as varied as are Texans themselves.

The spring calendar of Texas events, just issued by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, lists more than 550 different events ranging from art shows to quilt shows; from flying contests to rodeos.

Reflecting the season, several special events celebrate the coming of spring. There's the Azalea Trail in Houston's River Oaks; in Dallas it's the Dallas Blooms show at the Arboretum; wild flower trails in Jasper, Hughes Springs, Yoakum, Cuero and other cities, plus the famed Central Texas Highland Lakes Bluebonnet Trail.

There's variety, too, in the foods Texans, and their visitors, will enjoy this spring. Honored by special occasions will be such delicacies as wild hog, rattlesnake, fajitas, Irish stew, oysters, crab, crawfish, sausage, alligator and buffalo. There'll be barbecue and chili cookoffs, and to top it off, a tasting of Texas wines.

The calendar tells where and when it's all happening during the months of March, April and May. A free copy is available at any Texas Tourist Bureau or by mail from Calendar of Texas Events, Box 5064, Austin, TX 78763.

Perry Sisters To Appear At Bogata Assembly Of God Church

By Dave Wilcox
In this fast-paced world in which we live, the prevailing attitude is one of "give me, give me, give me". Even in our gospel music society, there seems to be a constant battle to see who can be "king of the hill". How refreshing it is when you meet a group who's sole purpose is to minister unto others. The Perry Sisters of Ceredo, WV are refreshing.

The sisters, Bonnie, Carole and Diana, come from a humble background. Born and raised in the hills of West Virginia, their mother, Zena, became their spiritual leader as she would take the young girls to church time after time by herself. You see, Dad Perry was not a Christian and it was up to mom to raise them right. It was during these years that the girls began singing together. Just as mom had done years before them with her two sisters.

It wasn't until 1973 when requests from other churches in the area started pouring in for these young ladies to come and share their special songs. A local evangelist heard them sing and made them regulars on his radio show on West Virginia's most influential gospel station, WEMM in Huntington.

In the early part of 1974, the Perry Sisters traveled to a small recording studio in Chillacothe, OH, to record their first LP. Shortly after it's release the phone rang off the wall. Calls came from near and far for the girls to appear at special functions. Overnight they skyrocketed from one to two dates a weekend to over 300 dates a year. It was nothing unusual for them to work 10-15 nights in a row, take a night off, and start another string of 10-15 in a row. It's tough trying to maintain a home, take care of husbands, raise teenage daughters and work that much on the road. Something had to give and it did. They stopped the radio show and cut back to about 100 dates a year.

Around 1979, the sisters started to see some real fruits of their labor. The nation was starting to recognize baby sister Diana's songwriting ability. The Hoppers cut "Lean on the Rock" and "The Clown Prince". Wendy Bagwell jumped in and recorded "He Rescued His Children". But the real dividend came when Dad Perry gave his heart and life to Jesus Christ. Now they were a real family.

The Perry Sisters decided Nashville was the place to expand their ministry of recording. But after a bad experience at a "Christian custom recording company," they turned to Nashville's top gospel producer, Eddie Crook and his Harvest label. This was just what the doctor ordered. "Gloryland Train" was the album that contained their very first national hit. "Child, You're Soon Coming Home" would reach the top 30 of all three major trade publications. Their second single, "Harvest is Plenty" is expected to follow suit. Both songs were penny by Diana and even featured her.

The Perry Sisters are a self-contained family affair. Bonnie, Carole and Diana handle all the vocals with Bonnie and Diana sharing the keyboard work. Diana's husband, Bob, an ordained minister, also plays the drums and manages the group. Bonnie's two daughters make up the rest of the band. Tina, 18, plays the synthesizer with Tammy, 14, handling the bass guitar. The Lord blessed the group and after hundreds of thousands of miles in cars and vans they now have a customized bus.

What does the future hold for The Perry Sisters? They would like to work the circuit, but not at the expense of their church work and only if they can be free to minister to the people and not just entertain. Crusades are also in the planning stages with Bob preaching and the girls singing. Also, a new album in the fall featuring more of Diana's great songs and more video work both under the guidance of producer Eddie Crook.

You may contact the Perry Sisters, in care of Bob Gillette, 1342 B Street, Ceredo, WV 25547 or through Harvest REcords, Box 213, Hendersonville, TN 37077.

In this dry and barren land, it's so special to discover an oasis of spiritual talent that truly ministers to the needs of the people. When you

Tricia Duffer Honored With Shower

A bridal shower honoring Tricia Duffer of Bogata, bride-elect of Charley Martin of Talco, was held Saturday afternoon, February 28 at the Talco First Baptist Church Fellowship Hall.

There were about 30 friends and relatives who attended the shower including her grandmothers, Irene Duffer of Irving and Zelma Mauldin of Bogata and a great-grandmother, Jettie Minshew of Bogata and his grandmother, Jean Jones of Talco.

The table was decorated with a white lace tablecloth. The centerpiece was done in the bride's colors of pink and blue. Lisa Carroll made and decorated the two cakes for the shower. One was a cake made like a bride doll dressed in pink and white. The other cake was heart-shaped with young cowboy and cowgirl figures dressing grown-up. The words "They are grown before you know it" were written between the figures. A raspberry punch was served.

Tricia and Charley received and opened many nice gifts.

Starting this year,
every American will have a new job.

According to a recent ruling by the U.S. Government, you are now responsible for the maintenance of the telephone wire inside your home after January 1, 1987. In other words, if you have a problem with any of the telephone wiring that runs through the house, it's up to you to fix it.

For this reason, Contel is now introducing a convenient new maintenance service called Wire CareSM Plus. With Wire Care Plus, which costs only a few cents a day, Contel will come to your home and fix any inside wiring problem at no extra charge. The Plus in the service is a set-check to determine if the problem is in the phone itself.

So why not learn more about the benefits of Wire Care Plus. For additional information, simply contact your Contel business office.

Conference

H.Drue Pirtle, County Commissioner, Precinct 1, joined some 700 other elected office-holders for the 29th annual County Judges and Commissioners Conference on Feb. 24-26. The program theme was "Back to Basics in County Government".

"We need every advantage in providing the public with the best services possible", said H. Drue Pirtle. "Keeping abreast of timely information through conferences such as this insures our county offices will continue to run efficiently."

The state conference is one of the educational programs of the V.G. Young Institute of County Government, a part of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The institute provides a forum of mutual support for elected county officials, the Extension Service staff and various government, academic and business leaders in Texas.

Keynote speakers include Chief Justice John L. Hill, Jr., Supreme Court of Texas; Theodore J. Maher, government program leader, U.S.D.A.; Sam Clonts, executive director, Texas Association of Counties; and Zerle Carpenter, director, Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Major conference discussions covered current legislative programs, the one-half cent sales tax option, the Fair Labor Standards Act, local government liability, county court criminal and civil procedures, solid waste management, subdivision plat approval and other nuts and bolts topics.

Participants received 12 credit units for continuing education from the Office of Professional Development at Texas A&M University. County Judges also received 8 hours credit for judicial training from the Texas Center for the judiciary.

Also attending the conference from Red River County were County Judge L.D. Williamson and commissioners Ben Storey, Precinct 3 and Lane Duncan, Precinct 4.

Lioness Club To Be Organized

An organizational meeting for the purpose of forming a Lioness Club in Bogata was held Friday night, February 27 at the Bogata Community Center.

Mrs. Betty Hinton, president of the Mt. Pleasant Lioness Club and Nancy Phillips, vice-president, spoke to the group about their club, their goals, fund raising projects and their meetings.

If the Lioness Club is formed, the Bogata Lioness Club has voted to sponsor the new club and Donald Porterfield has been elected to serve as liaison for the clubs. The new club will operate much like the Lions Club. It will plan and conduct a variety of community and humanitarian projects, join with other clubs in sight conservation and work with the blind, provide citizenship, educational, environmental, public, recreational, health and social services.

Regan Bell, Bogata Lion Club president, presided at the meeting and stated that, "The main purpose of a Lions Club or Lioness Club is to serve the community and the people in it." He told the group that the Lions Club desired the formation of a Lioness Club in Bogata to aid them in their services.

Another organizational meeting for a Lioness Club will be held Monday night, March 9 at 7:30 p.m.
