

NICHOLS' WORTH

By: Nanalee Nichols

Consider the wave. No, I don't mean those curls of water found in the ocean, the friendly hand gestures that are used to acknowledge one person to another.

There are many kinds of waves in the world...in Italy, for instance, a wave goodbye consists of pulling the arm towards the body with the palm turned in...confusing to Americans, who think they are being called BACK for some reason.

But just right here in East Texas there are numerous types of waves. There is the whole-hearted wave, which consists of entire arm movement from side to side, fingers spread wide. In a joking mood, BOTH arms may be called into service, making the wave look much like a member of a World War II signal corps without flags.

The military wave...more of a salute than wave. It consists of two fingers vaguely extended from the forehead.

Some people, usually women, wave by raising the hand and wiggling fingers rapidly.

Some folks, mostly men, will extend the friendly gesture by simply raising arm and hand, palm outward, and not move fingers or hand at all.

Others get in wrist exercise by wiggling the entire hand rapidly from side to side.

Then there are the "car waves" which are a distinct art form in themselves.

Some people wave with both hands still firmly affixed to the steering wheel. They flick up a forefinger quickly, as if afraid that the car may run off with them if they relinquish their grip for just a moment.

Then there are those who go completely to the other extreme, throw caution to the wind and take both hands from the wheel to wave frantically. In between is the most common form, one hand from the wheel to wave with while the other still remains in control of the auto.

But what happens when both hands are tied up? When one is busily engaged in some project, ranging from grooming a steer at a calf show to typing by the office window on Main Street?

Then, of course, enters the nod. And nods are very expressive. There is the quick jerk upward, the up and down several times nod, which is frequently accompanied by raised eyebrows and a big grin, and the slightly irritated, "Yes, I see you but I'm busy right now" head jerk, which is more of an acknowledgement than a friendly move.

Yes, there is a wide spectrum of waves...but they all have one thing in common...they are a quick, expressive way to say hello when distance or circumstances prevents verbal communication. Waving...it's a basic part of the English language...body language, that is.

Brothers Enjoy Delving Into The Past

By Mollie Williams

Local brothers, Donnie and Deon Williams, spend a lot of their free time digging in various areas of Red River County searching for arrowheads and other artifacts. The boys recently unearthed several pieces of Indian pottery which date back many centuries.

According to Mr. and Mrs. D.R. Williams, parents of the boys, their eldest son, Donnie, was born with a natural interest in digging for buried treasures. They recall that as a small boy he would spend hours digging in the back yard of their Odessa, Texas home, always expecting to find something. They laughingly tell of the time when he was five years old and persuaded two neighbor friends to help him dig to hell. As Donnie began to tell friends what they would find once they reached their goal, the boys became frightened and ran home. Their mother promptly called Mrs. Williams and angrily advised her to warn Donnie to keep his interpretations of hell to himself.

During summer vacations and at Christmas time, the Williams family visited relatives in Red River County. During one of these visits, the boys grandfather, Travis Williams, told Donnie about finding arrowheads near a farm on which he and his parents, George and Ada Williams, had been sharecroppers. This information, coupled with his natural desire, motivated Donnie to spend more and more time digging.

Donnie's consistency and determination in searching for things of value didn't actually begin to pay off until the Williams family bought a grocery store and moved to Clarksville, Texas in 1972. While his parents worked in the store Donnie occupied himself with digging in an area beside the store building where an old washateria had once stood. He found old coins, rings, pins, and some broken pieces of gold plated china.

Donnie found his first arrowhead on a catfish farm in Oklahoma while passing the time as his dad bought fresh fish for the store. Later he found several more arrowheads on the building site of the Assembly of God Church parsonage in Bogata, and with these, Donnie began his arrowhead collection.

The Williams family built a home at Pine Branch on the old Mauldin place in 1975. While helping his dad build a gate there, Donnie spied a tomahawk head lying nearby. He learned later that the tomahawk was made by the Caddo Indians which once inhabited this area. This new knowledge sparked a special interest to learn about the early civilization of Indians in the area.

He became an avid reader of biographies, novels of early Texas settlers and books about Indians. In later years Donnie was given the privilege of visiting the Caddonian Indian Museum in Crockett. He learned from information gained there that most of the arrowheads in his collection were made by the Caddos. Although the Caddo Indians were mostly farmers, they could become savage when protecting themselves. Another interesting fact he learned from the museum was that the Caddos practiced cannibalism. If an unhealthy, deformed or undesired child was born, the parents would use the child for food!

By this time, Deon, the younger Williams brother, was old enough to go with Donnie on his digging expeditions, and from the influence of his older brother, he too, developed a great interest in digging and began his own collectin of findings...arrowheads, tomahawk heads and other items.

The many years of digging and constantly scanning areas in search of artifacts developed into a special knack to spot items usually overlooked by most people. A common saying among the family and friends is "If you need something found, just call Donnie". His parents acknowledge that on a number of occasions while riding with them, Donnie would look out the passenger's window of their pickup and spot arrowheads along the road. At first they thought his preoccupation with his hobby was causing him to act irrationally, but after relenting to his pleas to stop, they found that he had truly found arrowheads!

Deon tells of the time when Donnie was riding his bicycle down a paved road and found an arrowhead partially stuck in the pavement. Apparently it had been dumped out with the gravel as pavers worked on the road.

With Donnie and Deon spending so much time digging, their collections have become quite large. Digging at the Cross Arrow Ranch in Maple Community, Deon discovered another tomahawk and Donnie found several "Apache Teardrops". Studies revealed that these transparent purplish-black rocks were brought into the area by Northwestern Indian tribes. The rare stones were used as money in trading by the early tribes. Other findings include small clay balls used as rattles in gourds, hard bags of buffalo hide or tortoise shells which served as drums for the Indians. They have found stones used for grinding corn for food and herbs and roots for medicine. A shark's tooth and a tiger's tooth are included in Donnie's collection and he believes that these were probably worn on a necklace by an early day Indian. The arrowheads found are made from petrified wood, bone, pine sap, soft flint, hard flint, quartz and obsidian. The most recent and perhaps the most valuable findings include several pieces of Indian pottery, some of which are in perfect condition.

The pottery was found in Red River County, buried under about two feet of earth. A white substance filled about one third of one of the bowls, and inside another bowl Donnie and Deon found and arrowhead. Digging in the same mound, Donnie unearthed several bones which a medical doctor later declared to be human.

Donnie says he can tell about how old his findings are by the number of layers of ground soil under which the items are buried and the technique used to make the arrowheads. He says that each layer of artifacts will be different. Arrowheads found in the bottom layer are usually more crudely made than the other layers, testimony that these layers are remains of different tribes and different eras of time. Donnie and Deon use a trowel for most of their digging and have learned from experience to dig carefully so as not to mar the items.

In judging where to dig, Donnie looks for sandy places near creeks or rivers. He also looks for high places or mounds. These mounds were where the Indians usually built their adobe or grass huts.

Along with their archaeological hobby, the men enjoy playing gospel music, talents which they use at the Assembly of God Church in Bogata, where they are both members. Donnie plays lead guitar and Deon plays percussion. The brothers also enjoy fishing and again their special abilities of seeking out hidden things are shown in the number of catches brought home from each trip.

Donnie is now married and he and his wife, Tina, have a 15 month old daughter, Kristen Noel. They live on Clarksville street in Bogata. Deon is a sophomore at Rivercrest High School and lives with his parents in Pine Branch community.

Although the brothers both have busy schedules with work, school and church activities, they still manage to find time each week to do what they enjoy most, pursuing a glimpse into the past through archaeology.

DONNIE AND DEON Williams have acquired a large collection of arrowheads, Indian pottery and other artifacts through their hobby of archaeology. Most of the items in their collections were found in various areas of Red River County. (Staff Photo by Mollie Williams)

Where Are The Wildflowers?

With spring in the air, wildflowers are blooming abundantly along Texas roadsides. Bluebonnets, Indian paintbrushes, pink evening primroses and phlox present a vibrant display of Mother Nature's harvest of hues.
 But where do the wildflower seekers find their favorite tapestries of color as the blooming season progresses into summer?
 For the many motorists who will be scouring the countryside looking for the most colorful displays, the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation provides a special service. Representatives in the department's 24 district offices have available the locations of the most bountiful wildflowers in their districts. The department's 11 tourist bureaus also have this information.
 With more than a million acres of highway right-of-way to maintain, the highway department is the nation's largest landscape gardener, giving Mother Nature a little help through native plant and wildflower seeding programs. The programs, in all 254 of the state's counties, cut maintenance costs, save water, and also control soil erosion on the roadsides.
 "All the conditions are right to have an outstanding year for wildflowers," said Craig Steffens, supervising landscape architect for the department. "The late freeze confused the plants, but we're just now having warm nights which will tell the plants to burst out in beautiful colors."

Wilkinson Holds 1st Homecoming-Reunion

On Saturday, April 18, some of the ex-students from the Wilkinson School held the first annual Wilkinson Homecoming Reunion.

Before the event, self-appointed members of the reunion committee met at Western Sizzlin' in Mt. Pleasant to discuss plans for the reunion. They set a date and got things rolling.

In two weeks time, the women planned the get together. They decided on the meal, what the program would consist of, how they would entertain and so forth. A history of the school was written and the gym was cleaned and decorated.

The decorations were simple but it looked nice, especially with the shortness of time and money. Blue crepe paper with white stars were used throughout the gym, along with large tissue paper flowers and helium filled balloons with long ribbon streamers. Along one wall were pictures taken through the years the school was open. Some trophies and an old basketball uniform were on display.

The gathering started at 4 p.m. at the school gym with registration at the door. Over 300 people registered but more attended. A covered dish meal was served at 5:30. There was plenty of food brought by everyone.

Around 7 p.m. the program began. Everyone was welcomed by Brenda White. The opening prayer said by Alvin Blalock. Linda Collins read the history of the school. Ensallee Blalock was recognized for cooking at the school over ten years.

Mrs. Ruth Hammonds was recognized as being the teacher who had taught over ten years. Other faculty members that attended and were recognized were Juanita Biggers Cobb, Opal Morris, Aubrey Cross, Bobby Cox and Willard (Cotton) Cecil. Treacia Logan sang "Thank You For Touching My Life" as a tribute to the teachers.

Ronnie Logan was the announcer for the Fun Awards. As Ronnie announced the winners, Linda Collins pinned badges on them when they walked to the stage to be recognized. Those acknowledged were Audrey Criswell, who had traveled the farthest from New Mexico, Evette Gentry, who was the youngest ex-student to attend, Jesse Mae Elder Griffin, who was the oldest female ex to attend, Luther Price as the oldest male ex to attend, Tommy and Maydene Sweetie Thompson as having the most kids and Jesse and Buella Thompson as having the most grandkids. During this part of the program, Ronnie was approached by a crouching old woman (LaDonna Holt) who gave her name as Miss Molly. She tried to give Ronnie a hard time, but it didn't phase him one bit. He finally got her off the stage and went on with the awards.

After the awards were given and pictures taken, a drawing was held for an Indian head that W.D. Holt had sculptured. It went to Mary Scarborough.

The closing prayer was said by Mr. Fry.

Entertainment began about 8:30 p.m. It was provided by the exes and some of their families and consisted of gospel and country western singing. The entertainment lasted until 11:30.

Members of the committee, Brenda White, Donna Taylor, Treacia Logan, Betty Kidwell, Helen Reynolds, Nancy Chancellor, Rita Bragg and Linda Collins were surprised and please with the turn out, especially with the little time and preparation they had. Plans are in the making for next year's reunion. Information on donations or contributions can be obtained from any of the above mentioned people.

City Marshall Report

Due to the many complaints and criticisms about the off-road vehicles such as dirt bikes, three-wheelers and four-wheelers being driven on the public streets without license or inspection stickers, there will be tickets issued from this day on, for any violation on a public street. Under State law, a parent can be issued a traffic citation also for allowing a minor child or unlicensed driver to drive. A vehicle must be licensed, inspected and insured to operate on any public roadway.

As you know by now, I work mainly late evening and nights for your safety, as it keeps the prowlers and thefts down to a minimum, so if you cannot reach me during the daytime and you have an emergency, or need a peace officer, please do not hesitate to call the Sheriff's Department in Clarksville and tell them I'm not on duty or cannot be reached and they will send a Deputy.

Those of you I have talked with about keeping the litter, such as beer cans, coke cans and other debris picked up from around the downtown area, such as the bank and other businesses are doing really well and the City and I thank you. Let's try to keep Bogata clean.

Thank you,
James Elston
City Marshal

Bogata First Baptist Hold Ground-Breaking Ceremonies

By Mollie Williams
Members of the First Baptist Church in Bogata, friends, relatives and other community residents met Sunday afternoon, April 26 for ground breaking ceremonies at the future building site of their church. The new building will replace the one destroyed by fire on November 16, 1986, and construction is planned to begin in the next few days. Rev. Bob Posey, pastor of the church, opened the ceremonies with prayer and welcomed those attending. The congregation joined together in singing "To God Be The Glory", led by First Baptist Minister of Music and Youth Vince Blankenship. Rev. Larry Allgood, Pastor of the First Assembly of God Church, using Nehemiah 4:6 as a text, spoke briefly to the congregation on the topic "Having a Mind to Work".

Building Committee Chairman C.D. Glass introduced special guest Charles Dawson, of Dawson and Dawson Construction Company of Clarksville, winning bidders for the contract on the construction. Mr. Glass stated the purpose of building the church as "a place to worship God, a place to bring glory and honor to God, and to meet the needs of the community".

Mrs. Ann Cody, long time member, gave the following brief history of the church: The First Baptist Church in Bogata was organized in the early 1870's. The members first worshipped in a little church which was located in our present park where the community house now stands. The Cumberland Presbyterians built a frame church on North Main Street in 1890. This church was used by all denominations for many years. In 1900, the Baptist congregation decided to build their own church on a lot donated by Rev. J.E. Horner. This was the same lot on which the church that burned stood. It was a hexagon shaped building made of lumber. Some of the early day pastors of this church were: Bro. Horner, Bro. George Ferguson, Bro. McCulough, Bro. Blanchard, Bro. Veteto and Bro. Lee Fuller. In later years, Bro. Peaden, John A. Williams, John Goodman and Robert Heugley were pastors. In 1937 under the pastorate of Rev. Heugley, the hexagon building was completely remodeled and made into a 40x60 ft. building with Sunday School rooms and an auditorium in one unit. In 1947, the church went from half time services to full time work in spreading the gospel. The church was led full time under the direction of Rev. Curtis Hoover. In 1950 with Rev. L.L. Hanson as pastor, the church built an educational building. A few years later, finding this building inadequate to meet needs, an army barracks from the closed Camp Maxey in Paris was bought and placed on the parking lot just north of where the Bank now stands. The notes were paid off and burned under the pastorate of Rev. Charles Tope and a fund started in August 1953 for a new building. In March 1954 the down payment was made on a new five room parsonage on Clarksville Street. Rev. Hoyt Brinlee was called to pastor the church in July 1954, and in May of 1955 the parsonage was paid off. In September 1955 a drive was made to complete the raising of necessary money to start a new church building. The funds were secured and on October 18, 1955 the old building was torn down and a modern new brick church was built. During the building process church services were held in the Bogata high school gym. In 1972 the old barracks was sold and the frame educational building torn down and a new two-story brick structure was built on to the church, adding 15 Sunday School rooms, a modern kitchen, a two-room nursery and an assembly room.

The old parsonage was sold under the pastorate of Rev. Bob Posey and a new brick parsonage was built on a lot donated by Bill White on Hwy. 271. Some of the pastors of later years were: Stan Nelson, Marvin Solum, Blake Dunagan, James Barnes, Dickie Golden and the present pastor, Rev. Bob Posey, who came in 1975.

On November 16, 1986, the First Baptist Church of Bogata and all its contents burned to the ground. Only the organ and piano in the auditorium were saved. Gratitude is extended to the First Assembly of God Church in Bogata who graciously offered a meeting place while the church was still burning. The church never missed a single service.

It is with deepest gratitude to God and heartfelt appreciation to each one who has come out this afternoon to join us in this joyful occasion of breaking the ground for the building of our new church.

Director of Missions presented a short sermon based on the text, Ezra 3:10-13. Rev. Lyle used three words in his exhortation to members of the church as they begin the construction of the new facility. They were: Challenge, Invitation to Commitment, and Community Involvement. He told members that there would be times during the building process when it would be necessary to put their own desires aside for the good of all involved and encouraged them to make new personal commitments to God, the church and to each other. In speaking of community involvement, Rev. Lyle said, "Buildings can be replaced, but people can't". He then reminded the people of the many needs prevalent in the community and advised them to be a church involved in community affairs.

Following Rev. Lyle's sermon, the congregation moved to where the sign for the church construction is placed for the turning of the soil by Rev. Posey, Charles Dawson and the building committee members. Those members are Johnny Topping, Buddy Damron, Jerry Gray, Mary Ann Ward, C.D. Glass, Vince Blankenship and Glen White.

Vince Blankenship then led the congregation in the hymn, "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" and the ceremonies were closed with prayer by Carl Williams.

A treasure that endures

Harmonious detail and design make the Waterford a classic floor clock in its own time. A profiled arched bonnet displays three Carpathian elm burl overlays complementing the raised book-matched Carpathian elm burl panel with dentil molding at the clock base. Both front and sides invite viewing of the large brass lyre pendulum through beveled glass. The clock face is a study in beauty with its etched brass, moon phase dial and raised Arabic numerals. Your choice of Westminster, Whittington, or St. Michael chimes is played by a cable drive, triple-chime movement. Finally, a brass plate is included to be engraved with the owner's name and date of purchase.
