For seventy-nine years, once a week, without fail, "The Deport Times" has appeared on newstands and through the mail. For seventy-eight years, without fail, "The Bogata News" has appeared in the same way. For fifty-three years "The Talco Times" has also appeared.

Now the United States Postal Authorities have decreed that that is WRONG! Wrong? How can that be? Well, continue to hear this fascinating tale of bureaucracy at it's best.

The postal auditor arrived last Thursday. During the course of his audit, in which he does things like count how many papers we throw away, check to be sure we are collecting money for our subscriptions (they think we give them away?) and various other things, not the least of which was hitting us with a TWO HUNDRED dollar a MONTH increase in postage, he sprang the name problem on us.

This man is only doing his job, I understand that. It's not his fault that postal auditors are about as welcome as mosquito squadrons or bubonic plague, and I don't personally hold anything against him. It's the blankety blankety blankety blank government I get bent out of shape about.

It seems that sometime in the shadowy past someone, I'll presume Sam. C. Holloway, had to apply for a postal authorization. Now the post office claims that their authorization reads "Deport Times" "Bogata News" and "Talco Times"...note the big difference there? No THE!

They say we have two choices, one, (naturally) is to shell out some big bucks and reapply for a changed authorization so we can continue to use "The ...whatever paper".

The other choice is to drop the The from the titles.

Now Sam C. Holloway may have been many things...but one thing he definitely was was efficient. I cannot, and will not believe that he carelessly took out a wrong authorization. I believe the post office has LOST that The.

Of course, it doesn't seem to matter to them that we aren't responsible for that authorization anyway, had no control over it.

It doesn't matter to the mighty wheels of authority that for a combined total of 147 years those three publications have had that The.

It doesn't matter to them that countless postal audits have failed to reveal this fact. Nearly eighty years of audits...and no one ever noticed this crucial, horrible, major error on our part!

If we are to maintain our very important second class mailing permit we must correct this awful situation!

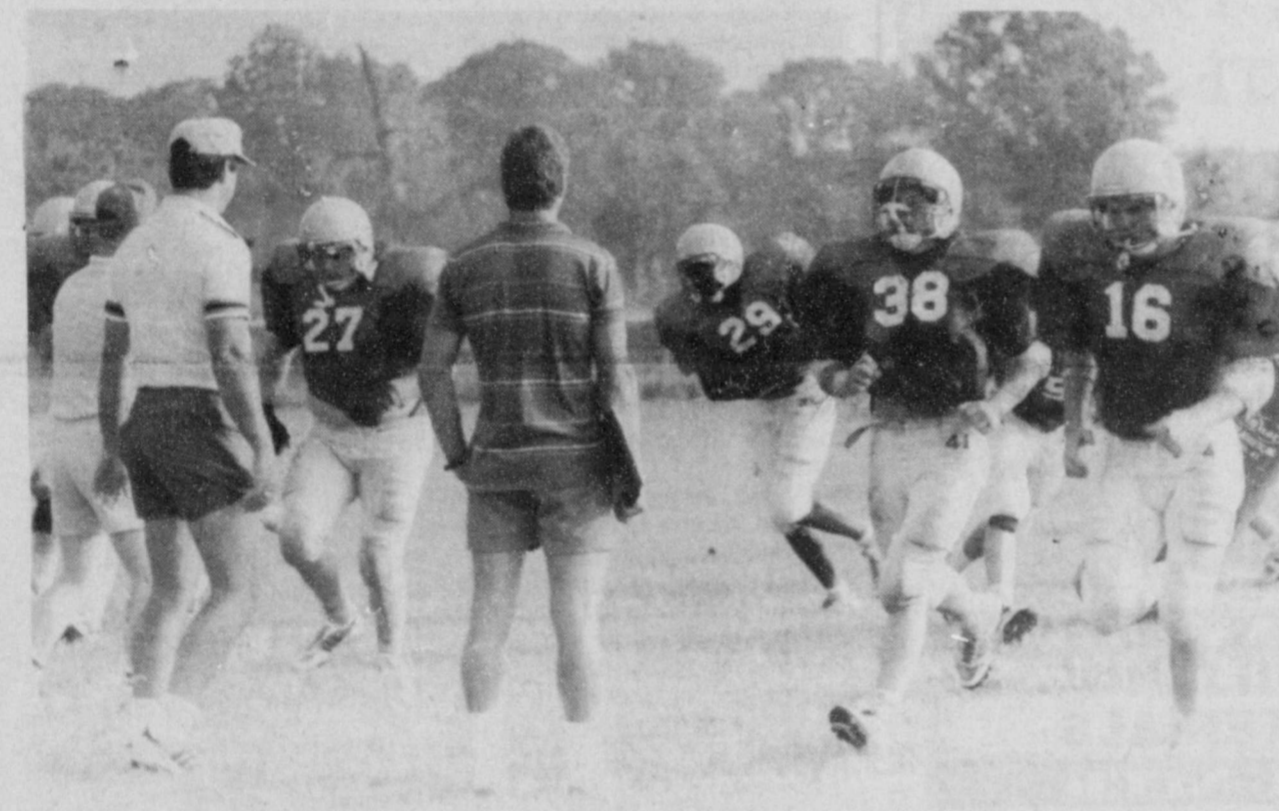

Of course, in the tradition of newspaper people everywhere I'm beginning to get hard headed. I figure that a certain very, very warm location can freeze completely over before I'm going to send the post office any more money just to obtain the right to use The on publications that have been using it for so many years. So pretty soon, I suppose, there will be a change in our names...and we won't be able to use that three letter word that the powers that be seem to deem so important!

NOTICE OF PETITION FOR APPROVAL OF DEFERRED ACCOUNTING TREATMENT FOR TNP ONE, UNITS 1 AND 2 AND ADJUSTMENT TO PURCHASED POWER COST RECOVERY FACTOR ("PCRF") CALCULATION

Texas-New Mexico Power Company ("Company") hereby publishes notice that it has filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("Commission") a Petition for Approval of Deferred Accounting Treatment for TNP One, Units 1 and 2 and Adjustment to PCRF Calculation pursuant to Sections 16(a), and 27 of Article 1446c, Vernon's Annotated Civil Statutes and Section 23.12(a) of the Substantive Rules of the Commission. TNP One is a lignite-fired generating station, being constructed by the Company in Robertson County, Texas. The Company estimates that the first Unit of TNP One will be in commercial operation in June 1990. Unit 2 is estimated to be in commercial operation in June 1991. The Company's Petition has been designated as Docket No. 8880 at the Commission. In such Petition the Company seeks an order from the Commission allowing the Company to defer the depreciation, operation and maintenance expenses, tax expenses and carrying costs associated with TNP One, Units 1 and 2 from the respective commercial-in-service dates of those units until the time rates reflecting such costs are in effect. The Company is also requesting that the Commission approve an adjustment to the calculation of its PCRF factor. The change to the PCRF factor will not affect rates until the respective commercial operation dates of the units, and would be in effect from that date until each unit's costs are allowed into rate base by Commission order. Approval of this request will not result in an increase in current rates. The rate treatment afforded these costs will, however, have a bearing on overall costs which are included in rates that customers pay over the life of the plant. The Company seeks timely regulatory action to permit the deferral of these costs to be reflected in financial statements for the deferral period, which is from the date of commercial operation until each unit's costs are allowed in rate base.

At a prehearing conference held on July 17, 1989, the Administrative Law Judge, a September 8, 1989, deadline for motions to intervene and scheduled the hearing on the merits of the Company's Petition for November 27, 1989, at 10:00 a.m. at the Commission offices in Austin, Texas.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the PUBLIC UTILITY COMMISSION OF TEXAS, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 460N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by contacting the Company's general office at (817) 737-1340 or by calling the PUBLIC UTILITY CONSUMER AFFAIRS DIVISION at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221, TELETYPE WRITER FOR THE DEAF.

Gray-Hines Exchange Vows

Miss Jessica Lorraine Gray became the bride of Danny Bob Hines in a formal ceremony at 7 o'clock Friday evening, August 18 in the First Baptist Church in Bogata.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Gray of Bogata and Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Hines of Clarksville. Miss Becky White of Bogata presented traditional wedding music prior to and during the ceremony. Vocalists were Miss Kristi Cawley and Mrs. Mikel Haynes of Bogata. Miss White also played traditional wedding march and recessional.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a victorian gown of white bridal taffeta. The gown had a wedding lace neckline, tightly fitting lace sleeves and basque-waist bodice, with a gathered skirt that flowed into a cathedral length train. Alencon lace accented with pearls covered the bodice. The sleeves featured double bouffant bows detailed with hand cut lace rose medallions embellished with handsewn seed pearls and iridescent crystal beads, highlighted with strands of wheat pearls, seed pearls and crystal beads. A similar medallion was centered on the wedding band neckline which also featured sprays of smaller roses outlined with handsewn pearls. The skirt and train of the gown were edged in hand cut scalloped lace rose medallions. The back of the dress was designed with a scooped "V" and cascading bustle topped with a double bouffant bow and medallions identical to the ones on the sleeves. More than 3,500 pearls and crystal beads were handsewn into the dress to enhance its design. To complete her ensemble, the bride wore a bouffant chapel-length veil of illusion attached to an iridescent floral wreath accented with light blue ribbon roses, streamers of embroidered lace, pearls and white ribbons. Both the bridal gown and veil were designed and created by the bride and her mother.

The bride designed and created her cascade bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, light blue miniature lilies and pepperomia leaves accented with sprays of pearls. Streamers of shades of blue ribbon, lace and strands of iridescent crystal beads fell from the lace encircled bouquet. A small white doily edged in blue, crocheted by the bride's maternal great-grandmother, was tucked into the base of the bouquet completing the traditional "something old, new, borrowed, and blue".

The Rev. Bob Posey, former pastor of the First Baptist Church of Bogata, heard the couple's double-ring vows before the altar decorated with two seven-branch candelabras and arch entwined with royal blue ribbon, greenery and white doves. A unity candelabra featuring a bible with a cascade of grape vine and blue carnations was centered under the arch. The unity candle was tied with baby's breath, royal blue ribbons and two golden wedding band stied with love knots.

Candlelighters were Jayson Benson, cousin of the bride, and Brian McIntire, nephew of the groom, both of Clarksville.

Mrs. Melinda Martin of Bradley, AR served as matron of honor. Maid of honor was Miss Judy Gray, sister of the bride, of Bogata. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jennifer Reeder, sister of the bride, and Miss Melissa Warren, both of Dallas. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Teri Speir of Bogata and Miss Kim Benson, cousin of the bride, of Clarksville. Miss Ashley Hines, niece of the groom, of Mt. Pleasant, was flower girl. All attendants wore identical tea length dresses of royal blue rayon taffeta. The dresses featured a basque-waist bodice, bouffant sleeves and sweetheart neckline. The flower girl wore a tea length royal blue chiffon dress accented with white lace and bows. To complement their ensemble, they wore floral wreaths of white carnations and roses accented with royal blue ribbon roses tied with white and royal blue ribbon streamers. They also carried cascade bouquets of white roses pepperomia leaves, accented with streamers of lace and shades of blue ribbon. The flower girl wore a wristlet of miniature white roses tied with white tulle and royal blue ribbons. All of the attendants bouquets were designed and created by the bride.

The groom was attired in a white Lord West subtle stripe full-dress tux with white shirt and white satin accessories. His boutonniere was a white rose bud taken from the bride's bouquet, accented with baby's breath. Harold Oney of Clarksville was best man. Groomsmen were Steve Shaw of Hope, AR, Donnie Thomsberry of Annona, and Glen Drew of Clarksville. Junior groomsmen were Jayson Benson, cousin of the bride, and Brian McIntire, nephew of the groom, both of Clarksville. Groomsmen wore grey At Six sterling-couture tuxedos with white shirts and royal blue accessories. Their boutonnieres were light blue rose buds.

Mrs. Shirley Smith, cousin of the bride, of Bogata, registered guests in the vestibule of the church. The register table was covered with a dusty blue linen cloth edged in lace. The centerpiece was a brass candelabra holding fluted votive cups with blue candles, grape leaf ivy and the bride's throw away bouquet. Also displayed on the register table was the couple's ring pillow. The pillow, designed and created by the bride's mother, was brocade satin, taken from her wedding dress, trimmed with white alencon lace. A rosette of lace and white and light blue handmade ribbon roses centered the top of the pillow and held the couple's rings, tied with loveknots.

Ushers were Dale Hines of Clarksville and David Hines of Mt. Pleasant, brothers of the groom, Rusty Reeder, brother-in-law of the bride, of Dallas, and Mark Penny of Clarksville.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Gray were hosts for the reception immediately following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. Assisting Mrs. Gray and directing the wedding ceremonies was Mrs. Sandra Benson, cousin of the bride, of Clarksville.

The bride's table was covered with a royal blue cloth overlaid with white lace. A four tier wedding cake sat on corinthian pillars atop a blue water fountain. A bride and groom from the bride's parents' wedding wedding cake was displayed within the corinthian pillars between the second and third layers and the cake was topped with a hand-blown crystal ornament featuring two golden wedding rings and two doves. Cut glass punch bowl, crystal toasting glasses and silver appointments were used to serve. A centerpiece featuring the bridal bouquet in a century old hobnail pedestal bowl, a family heirloom, graced the bride's table. Serving were Mrs. Linda Gray, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Billie Jo Hancock, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Paula Speir, all of Bogata.

The groom's table was covered with a royal blue cloth overlaid with white lace. The groom's cake featured a fisherman seated in a boat floating in a pool of water. Iced tea was served, and crystal and silver appointments were used. An arrangement of ferns, blue flowers and cattails arranged in a styrofoam minnow bucket was the centerpiece for the groom's table. The cake was designed by the bride and groom and the centerpiece was created by Mrs. Gray.

Bridesmaids distributed birdseed bags.

Following the wedding rehearsal Thursday, August 17, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Hines were hosts for a dinner at Ted and Ethel's Restaurant in Clarksville. The bride's colors of shades of blue were carried out in the table decorations. A basket containing a silk floral arrangement was used on the bride's table and given to the bride by Mrs. Hines. Approximately 32 guests attended. The bride and groom chose this time to present gifts to their attendants.

After a wedding trip to Rockport, the couple will make their home in Clarksville where the groom is employed by Hines Portable Buildings. The bride is a student at Paris Junior Collee.

Social Security Notes

By Ray Hudson, District Manager
Paris Social Security Office

Calling Social Security... You can contact Social Security in a variety of ways. Choose whichever is most convenient to you. You can call, write or visit. You can also make an appointment to file a claim.

Social Security recommends calling before coming to the office for a variety of reasons. You may be able to complete your business by telephone. If you do have to visit the office, you can find out what to bring with you when you come.

Before calling, you may want to have some information with you to help complete your call efficiently. You should have your Social Security number and, if you receive benefits or have Medicare, your claim number. The claim number is shown on all correspondence and is on the Medicare card. A telephone number where you can be reached is also helpful.

The best times to call Social Security are Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. The first week of each month is a very busy time and many people try to contact Social Security on Mondays. You may want to avoid these times.

Of course, you can contact Social Security at any time. If you have a question about a specific letter, or notice, you should have it with you when you call, or bring it with you if you come to the office in person.

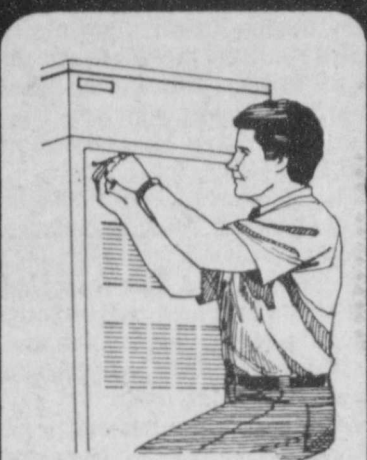

If you are calling to report an event which will affect benefits, have the information ready. For example, to report a change of address, have the full new address, including ZIP code. To report a death, have the beneficiary's Social Security and claim numbers as well as the date of death and information about the surviving spouse if there is one.

Whether you call, or visit in person, Social Security employees will try to give you friendly, efficient service. A recent study shows that most people who contact Social Security by telephone prefer to call if they have to contact us again.

Mashed Banana Smooths Way for Swallowed Pills

A swallowed pill that gets "stuck" on the way down can be painful and can cause esophageal ulceration, a common problem for bedridden patients. To alleviate this problem, ac-ording to the American Journal of Nursing, physicians advise patients to swallow a few bites of mashed banana after taking their medication. "The smooth banana not only coats the pill, but provides enough bulk to carry it all the way down to the stomach," the article stated.

Rafting Is a Key To Understanding The Power Of The River

By Nanalee Nichols

Okay, here's a little more vacation account. Thanks for the kind words regarding the first installment of our trip!

I believe that last week we left ourselves floating along in a big raft down the Arkansas river with new found friends. Brown's canyon is part of that river, and provides some rapids with names like Pinball (guess why) Zoom Flume, Numbers, Toilet Bowl and Widow Maker. Most are neat, but not very scary.

They provided lots of hard work for our oarsman, Mike, though. And nonstop screaming from Ester for at least the first hour! That young lady of the open personality and bright red hair did possess some volume when the first wave curled up at the front of the raft and sucked us in!

Mike kept things interesting too, by pointing out the various animals or people that with a little imagination could be "seen" in the rock formations during slow times. There was Winnie the Pooh Rock, a sleeping lion, a hippo, what he called Jay Hawk Rock (being from Kansas, he would, of course) and yet another one. This one sat high up on top of the ridge and he told us it was called "moon rock". We didn't quite catch on for a moment, until he clued us in that it's other name was "baby bottom rock" I muttered something about that isn't what we'd call it down in Texas.

We pulled over and climbed up above one larger rapid to look down at the swirling waters below.

This gives the guide the chance to check out what and where he needs to try and go, and the passengers time to say their prayers or ponder on the nature of the universe. It also gave me a chance to drop a brand new roll of film off the cliff into the water below as I tried to reload.

So very quickly the first day of our trip was behind us and it was time to change into dry clothes. That was a real treat after a whole day immersed in ice water.

As we began to set up camp, or watch Mike set it up, the wind began to howl and the clouds clattered up for what was surely going to be a wet night.

We rigged a tarp up and pitched our little dome tents quickly, then sat around the campfire while Mike whipped up an excellent camp meal of fettuccini, dutch oven bread, cheesecake and other goodies.

We sat dry under the little tarp and discussed a world of things, from the Wright's time spent in Bolivia to Mike's forestry knowledge and our newspaper experiences.

During the day he had told us about what "Turons" were. That's a tourist that is a pretty good moron too. Keep it in mind, there will be more about that later.

At dark we crawled into our sleeping bags and settled in. It's hard to describe the wonderful freedom of lying under a tent, hearing pattering rain and the river running only a few feet away.

The river made it's promises that night, promises about it's grandeur and glory, it's incredible strength and power, and it's lighter, happy side.

Rivers, to me, are almost alive. They run silent and swift, or noisy and ebullient. They grind huge boulders and they smooth fine sand.

Water is life itself, and nowhere is it more glorious than in a river.

At sunup we all rose, tucked into breakfast, and were treated to a golden sun shining on a pink mountaintop with the river beneath it. Before breakfast was over we also watched as a mule deer buck came down to the waterside, then shied away and disappeared.

The Royal Gorge run means wet suits. After the typical tussel with the form-fitting suits, we donned the final ludicrous item...a skate boarder's helmet! What a group we made, waddling around in our body gloves with our bright colored helmets on!

The gorge provided the waves we had been looking for. Spike Buck, Raft Ripper, Corner Pocket, Sledge Hammer provided a series of huge waves, swirling pools and drops that kept the guide very, very busy. At one point John came loose, slammed into Mike, who lost anchor just as we were coming into Sunshine Falls. That provided a few moments of excitement for sure.

One of the treats was watching the "yakkers" run the rapids near us. These hardy young men, fitted into tiny kayaks, challenge the rapids on a one to one basis.

Just hanging on, or working as an inept paddler is a challenge that makes the blood race and the soul feel in tune with the natural world. How much more these intrepid yakkers must be able to appreciate that!

One died only a few weeks before we were there, a reminder that as much fun as this was, there was a serious side to it too.

At our river-side lunch stop I made my way up to the outhouse. There I met the "touroon" Mike had warned us of. For as I left the VERY typical outdoor toilet a girl in a tight wet bathing suit came up to me, and entered...bearing in one hand a partially eaten sandwich. I'm not even going to consider what one does with a sandwich in one hand in an outhouse...I'm going to be charitable and assume she didn't realize about outhouses!

Now all of us had given 17 year old Ester a hard time. We teased her about filing her nails, or needing her makeup, or whatever. It was sunshine falls that she managed to get her own licks in, though.

We came tearing up to the falls, which loomed big and awesome. They formed a hole big enough to swallow two or three rafts the size of ours, and the roar of the water drowned out sound and thought. Just as we hung poised at the brink, oarsman madly working, Ester's tiny voice came through loud and clear..."would this be a bad time to ask for the nail file?" she queried! We almost lost it laughing...as she had known we would!

After scouting yet another monster rapid we managed to go right under the Royal Gorge Bridge, then finally hit calmer waters. Exuberant and triumphant, we laughed and laughed over virtually nothing.

All too soon the river was done and over with. It was with regret that we all parted, after exchanging addresses and promises to write. Our patient, helpful guide waved goodbye and it was over except for the memories. The recollection of the power, the force within the water, the excitement and yes, it's dangerous coldness and imperviousness would last a long time, however. Then it was time to turn to thoughts of what was yet to come and aim the car westward.

Independence pass through the Colorado Rockies, like much of that gorgeous state, was breath-taking. As our car climbed and climbed we stopped to read the information about the pass, which can be travelled in an hour now. Back in the 1800's the pass took 15 to 24 hours, and many died in the attempt to cross. Along the way we passed the ghostly stands of aspen trees, chattering softly among themselves as the breeze stirred their heart-shaped leaves.

Wildflowers lit the side of the road with color, and the vistas of mountain ranges spread beneath us.

We found the town of Aspen sadly changed. A small ski resort, it has turned in the last few years into a big ski resort, complete with traffic problems and inflated prices.

Then we plunged down McClure pass and headed off towards the town of Delta. Fertile valleys, irrigated and filled with potatoes made the trip pleasant. Then we rounded a corner and hit an area of desolate mesas and treeless expanses.

After a number of hours of this depressing countryside it again began to become mountainous as we entered the San Juan mountain range.

We turned off for the old mining town of Telluride, our headquarters for the next few days, and went to bed early so that we could arise at 4 in the morning.

At four thirty the next day we set out for Ridgway, where our hot air balloon ride awaited us.

The drive through the dark revealed deer on the side of the mountains, and sleepy dairies just setting about the day's business.

At Ridgway we met Gary Woods and his wife, our balloonists, and our companions, Joe and Rory Gonzales of California. Hot cups of coffee went a long way towards waking us up, but nothing brought us awake as quickly as the sight of that brightly colored bag of fabric being literally poured out on the ground.

Thomas and Joe drew work detail, holding the mouth of the enormous balloon open while Gary cranked a gasoline powered fan to begin pumping cold air into the inside.

Slowly the gigantic organe and yellow envelope began to fill. Wrinkle after wrinkle slid out as the balloon began to take up the whole world. At least that's how it seemed to those of us close to it.

As soon as it was filled our pilot made a radio check, sent up a pibal (a balloon with streamers attached) to check winds aloft, and made a check of winds on the surface. Then, with a roar that made us all jump, he let loose a blast of the burners, heating the air within the balloon.

Slowly, and with a lot of grace, the structure filled and began to stand upright. All of us grabbed the edges of the wicker basket to keep the thing from simply sailing off into the sky.

Then it was time to scramble in, and quietly, without fanfare, we lifted off. As if it had been planned, the sun broke over the mountain ranges and sent shafts of sunlight streaming across the earth below. Rivers glittered, windows winked, and the world grew smaller.

Silent flight, that's what hot air ballooning offers. No wind noise,

THIS 1986 Isuzu, "Jamin Mini", designed and painted by Roach Paint & Body in Talco, won first place at a truck show Saturday, August 19 in Sulphur Springs, because the balloon is going with the wind, not against it. True, it's difficult to chart a route, because one's course is decided by nature, not human desire.

All too soon it was time for us to begin to descend. At 1000 feet, the world was lovely, indeed.

It was with some alarm we realised we were heading straight into a tall tree. Laughing, our pilot instructed us to pluck some leaves from the top as a souvenir, then calmly took us right out of the top of the tree and back up! He had known exactly what he was doing the whole time.

We landed between a stream and a highway. Until absolutely the last second all the passengers were convinced that we were going to get very wet, but again, Gary knew what he was doing.

On the ground once more we were handed cups of champagne, and toasted a safe flight. Then Gary recited the balloonists prayer, something he does every time. After thanking God for a safe and beautiful flight he said the closing line, one which keeps echoing through my mind "we have laughed upon the winds...and God shares in our laughter". Ballooning is one of the most inspiring, beautiful ways to fly imaginable!

Back at the balloon ranch we all had hot, home made honey muffins, and sat under a big tree, talking with the Gonzales' about their trip and ours, about odds and ends, and simply sharing the experience. The Woods went off to take another couple up, and left us there, in possession of their home, to stay as long as we pleased.

We discovered that actor Dennis Weaver has bought a ranch at Ridgway, and is building a partially underground house, insulated with old tires! The cabin he is currently staying in is tiny and looks about to fall down.

Then it was time to leave new found friends once more (again exchanging addresses) and head back to Telluride for a leisurely day of exploring this old mining town.

Telluride is also called "To Hell You Ride" because of its lusty, rowdy past. It used to boast an enormous selection of saloons and bordellos, most of which are converted to restaurants and shops now.

Butch Cassidy, the famous outlaw, used to wash dishes in the town. I guess he got tired of that, because he showed up one day and committed his first bank robbery there on main street!

The cemetery is high on a hill, and unlike most of the old cemeteries of the past holds few infant or women's graves. Instead it holds the graves of men between the ages of 20 and 40...almost all victims of mining accidents.

The town is full of beautiful victorian style homes, filled with stained glass and gingerbread work. A delight of bright paint and careful restoration, the real estate prices are absolutely unbelievable. Some homes go for up to a million dollars!

We picniced (mostly to save money, the food prices there are high, high) beneath Bridal Veil Falls, the highest waterfall in Colorado. The 389 foot waterfall is absolutely spectacular, and provided a perfect backdrop for the picnic.

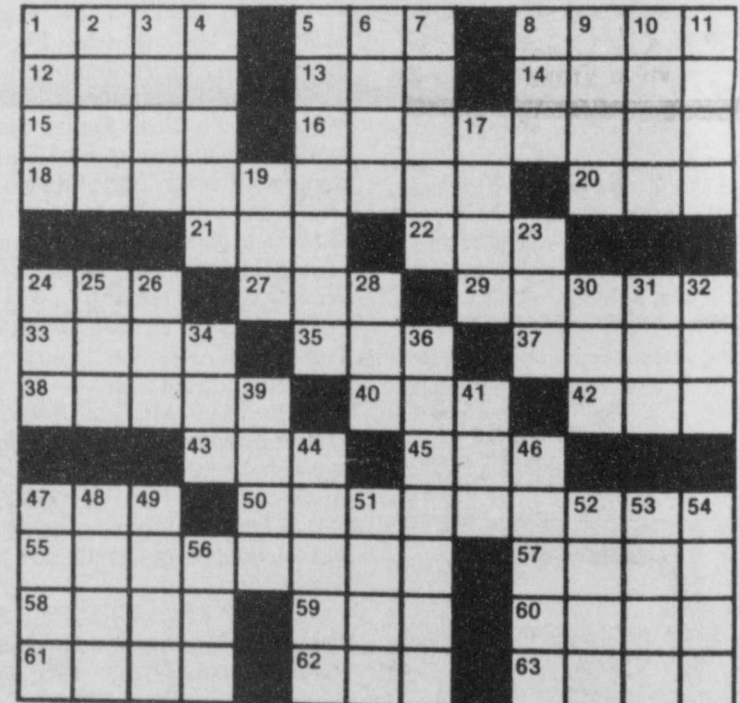

We talked to hikers as they passed and then wandered back down to town to explore some more. Then we checked to make sure our trip up Black Bear Pass was still on. That's when things got scary and hairy! What a ride!

Possible Horse Fly Relief Available

By Paul D. Payne
CEA-AG
Lamar County

Since our discussion about two weeks about on the Horse Fly problem, numerous conversations have ensued on successes as well as failures with control measures. I must say that there have been very few success stories.

However, a tip came by the way of our friend, Wallace Smith, who has a small herd of cattle located between Paris and Reno. This led to another friend, Chris Bailey, the manager of The Animal Store in Paris, to check out the results of using an insecticide, Permethrin.

Permethrin is an insecticide that was used in the ear tags five to 10 years ago that did such a great job of controlling the stable fly and horn fly population until they built up a resistance to it. The chemical is available under a number of brand names. It is available as a 10 percent liquid concentrate under the name Permethrin II and Anchor. The Ectiban formulation is 5.7 percent liquid concentrate while there is an 11 percent formulation called Atroban.

Chris reports generally favorable customer satisfaction from those using Permethrin II either as a spray or in a livestock back rubber. It does not totally eliminate the Horse Fly, but reduces the number to an acceptable number. This material can be used on dairy cattle.

Down at Big Country South, they report mixed results from their customers. They have available Ectiban and Overkill.

All of these products have the same insecticide, permethrin and are available in different formulations. The above listed suppliers are only two of the many businesses handling these animal health products. Check with your animal health supplier if you are interested in trying the insecticide.

The major insect of Crepe Myrtle plants is the aphid and the major disease is powdery mildew. In 1989 both are a big problem and plants do need attention before the leaves are shed.

The powdery mildew problem has been complicated by a heavy infestation of aphids or commonly called plant lice. The back side of most Crepe Myrtle plants leaves are lined with the sap suckers. As they suck sap, a sticky substance is released that falls to the leaves below. Then the powdery mildew fungus occurs on sticky leaves.

Crickets And Armyworms Becoming Active

By Herb Brevard

Moist conditions are contributing to increased cricket populations, according to Dr. James Robinson, entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Crickets basically live in fields and lawns, but may invade homes and businesses," said Dr. Robinson. "They feed mostly on organic matter but will feed on young seedlings such as winter pastures and clovers. They usually cause very little damage but can be a nuisance when entering dwellings and commercial buildings."

"Currently, most of the crickets are immature and do not have wings," Robinson said. "As late summer and fall approaches, they will develop wings, be able to fly and be highly attracted to outside lighting. They often congregate at lighted businesses, street lights and exterior home lighting."

"Sevin is the safest and most effective insecticide to use on crickets," Robinson said. "Dead crickets should be removed since they could create an odor. Periodic applications of the insecticide may be required."

"Persons should be on the lookout for armyworms," Robinson said. "This has the potential of being a year for severe armyworm infestations. They are very fond of bermuda grass and will attack other turf grasses, forage grasses and winter pastures. If armyworms are found, Sevin is an effective insecticide to use."

Army Worm Watch On

By Paul D. Payne

Weather conditions are ideal for an Armyworm outbreak this fall and individuals with lush, fertilized meadows, pastures and lawns will be the first target. None have been reported in the county at this time, however, the possibility does exist for problems later this fall.

The eggs of the Armyworm are deposited by a moth and the first sign of a problem will be a concentration of the moths. They can be seen fluttering about the grass laying their eggs. The worms hatch as soon as two days later.

The moth has a wing expanse of 1 to 1 1/2 inches. The hind wings are grayish with the front pair dark gray, mottled with light and dark areas.

Grass that has been eaten by the small Armyworms will have a gray cast when viewed from a distance. In the advance stages, the entire leaf is stripped from the plant. A good place to look for early signs would be around a building, tree, brush pile or along a fence row.

The biennial election of the Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board is now being held throughout Texas. Each grain sorghum producer should have received a ballot in the mail last week. Ballots should be returned prior to September 1. Extra ballots are available from County Agent's office.

The 10 varieties included in the County Soybean Variety Demonstration are making excellent progress and producers are encouraged to inspect the plot at their convenience. The plot is located on land farmed by Joe Sanders in the Direct bottom.

The date for this educational activity is February 14-17 at Houston's Marriott Hotel, the International Stockmen's School. Classroom lectures and demonstrations are planned by more than 60 speakers, all recognized authorities in their fields. Sessions are planned on beef cattle, dairy cattle, horses and total ranch management.

Benefit Tournament Held

A benefit "Trey-Day" coed softball tournament that was held August 18 & 19 at Sugar Hill ball field was a huge success.

All proceeds went to Trey Scott Logan, 5-month old son of Tim and Teila Logan of Sugar Hill, who is undergoing treatment for cancer.

The tournament was held on Friday night and "Trey Day" was Saturday with many activities going on. Ice cold watermelon, home made ice cream, face painting, helium balloons, pony rides and a home run hitting contest as well as the concession stand contributed to the profits. Highlight of the day was when the guest of honor, Trey Scott Logan, made an appearance on the ball field.

After a short prayer for his health was given by Linda Collins, the young and old alike released helium balloons all around him.

Winning first place in the tournament was Johnny Thompson's team; second place was Gregg Holt's team; and third place was Nancy Brown's team. Winners of the home run hitting contest was Ronny Strawn of Mt. Vernon; second was Stevie Evans of Mt. Vernon; and third was Ricky Joyner of Mt. Pleasant. Tickets were sold on a quilt made by Trey's great-grandmother, Mrs. Annie Bell Dyke ad two wood carvings donated by Chainsaw Willie. Winner of the quilt was James Burgin and the carved eagle was won by Jim Webster and the carved Indian head by Gary Messer.

After a day of fun and games, evening brought a fish fry of Sulphur River catfish and profits of $3,899.15.

Trey is reported doing well and his doctors are pleased with his progress. He faces possible surgery in September to remove the largest part of the cancer.

Twenty Year Old Joke Backfires

By Mollie Williams

The old saying that he who laughs last laughs best proved to be true this summer when a practical joke played 20 years ago backfired on my husband, Mike.

During his teens living in Odessa with his family, Mike had a very good friend who lived on the same street. They spent a lot of time together, driving around town and goofing off. On one particular occasion, Mike's parents were out of town and he invited his friend, Ronnie, to spend the night with him. The boys were in bed fast asleep when Mike's two older brothers came home from their dates. Being the practical jokers they were and still are, they simply could not pass up this perfect setting for a joke.

After arousing Mike and telling him of their plans, they quietly made their way to the kitchen where they got a pan and filled it up with warm water. Then they slipped next to the bed where Ronnie was sleeping soundly. They gently lifted the cover and ever so carefully poured the water next to Ronnie, letting it soak into the sheet and mattress beneath him.

Through all of this, Ronnie remained asleep. Mike and his brothers could hardly contain their laughter as they waited for him to discover the wet bed. Sometime after midnight, Mike awoke to find Ronnie out of bed, dressed and slipping out the front door. Mike and his brothers had 20 years of fun telling people that Ronnie was so embarrassed at wetting the bed, he left at midnight and walked home.

Mike and Ronnie were reunited last summer and he and his family spent several days with us this past spring. During one of their nightly sessions of catching up on the past, Mike confessed the practical joke. For the benefit of Ronnie's wife and other listeners, Mike described in detail how pitiful Ronnie looked as he quietly dressed and eased out the door on that night, so ashamed of what he thought he had done. However, Mike's laughter was short-lived when Ronnie contradicted his story by explaining that he knew he hadn't wet in the bed, he thought Mike had, and he decided he'd rather walk home in the dark than sleep in the same bed with him.

Needless to say, Ronnie's laugh was last, and far better.
