

By Nanalee Nichols It seems absolutely incredible that another Veteran's Day is already here

The year is almost over, and it doesn't seem possible!

This is the third year we have published our special Veteran's Edition. We have added 70 new pictures this year alone!

At first we thought we would make room for the new pictures by not running those that appeared three years ago.

We couldn't do it. It just didn't seem right. We have left them all in place.

The Veteran's Edition isn't a money-making proposition for us. By the time we add four or five extra pages with the sponsorships on it the postage and printing, plus the cost of the color picture eats up the sponsorship money

It's the only edition we publish where it doesn't bother us to "just break even" or even lose a little money

The sacrifices, the struggles, the every-day, boring tasks of service men and women are just too important to reduce to a dollars and cents figure.

No, our Veteran's Edition is something we began because we wanted to express some small bit of recognition to those who have served or are serving.

It's appropriate, I think, that the Veteran's Edition appears during election time.

The right to go to the polls and cast our ballots as we see fit is directly related to those people who fought for and still preserve that right.

Once more I have been honored and awed at the trust people

Bill Clinton took a sweeping victory over President George Bush, claiming 363 electoral votes to the incumbent's 80.

It is being billed as the biggest defeat of an incumbent president since Herbert Hoover.

In Texas Bush carried the state with one million eight hundred thousand votes to Clinton's one million seven hundred thousand votes. Third party Ross Perot, who claimed no electoral votes, garnered950,000 votes within the state

Asked what it was like he laughs and shakes his head. "It was awful...just awful. The supply lines were bad and the food was bad and supplies were so slow in coming".

Worst of all, though, was the wet. He remembers having to vault a huge puddle of water to get into his bunk. "It seemed like it rained every day"

he recalls. The mattresses on the bunks mildewed, the men couldn't keep their feet or clothing dry, and they never felt warm.

He recalls that one morning the sun was shining and his commanding officer came by to make everyone stuff their mattresses out the doors and windows to lie on boards in the sunshine. Then they all were loaded into vehicles and taken off for the day

During the morning the sun disappeared and it began to rain. For months after that the men slept on wet bedding which couldn't be dried.

I was just thinking about the changes my cooking has gone through over the years. Soper of them have been pretty drastic, and some of them were not noticed by anyone other than myself.

I remember a few of my cooking attempts before I married. Mama and I were at my aunt's house one day and they wanted to be able to talk without me sitting around listening. Aunt Tad told me to go into th kitchen and pop some popcorn. How was I supposed to know that you had to put a lid on the pan? One time, LaNell, Randle and I decided to fry a chicken while Mama was at work. One of us stayed on the phone with Mama getting instructions while the other cut up the chicken. I honestly don't remember how the chicken turned out, but I also don't remember us frying another one. I made a chocolate cake by a recipe that called for a confectioner's sugar icing. How was I to know the difference in powdered sugar and granulated?

I used granulated and the cake tasted like it had sand on top of it. When we had been married just a short time, we lived next to Pat and Kenneth Jeffery. One day Pat brought us a plate just piled up with fried apricot pies. They were still warm, and I remember how good they were. I had read somewhere that if someone was nice enough to cook something and bring it to you, you should carry their plate home clean, with something to eat in it. I feel sure that they didn't intend for me to carry it back the next day full of apricot fried pies made by the recipe Pat had given me. Pat didn't laugh, in fact, she was very nice. I don't see how she managed it.

Donald said my first biscuits tasted like Fritos. From then on I used canned biscuits.

I finally learned to cook fairly well, but for a while I went through a real exasperating thing with Donald and the kids. We would go visiting, and they would just carry on and on about how good something tasted. Then when I'd fix it at home the way our hostess had, they would gripe. I had to learn to not pay any attention to their politeness when we went visiting Of course many of the meals we ate away from home were delicious, but they didn't want me to change the things they were used to eating. I think most families like the feeling of security they get from knowing how their food will taste at home

I have also learned that there are just some things you cannot duplicate to suit your family. I have never managed to make foot long cheese coneys and onion rings the way they do at the Sonic. I also cannot duplicate Fajitas from Two Senoritas or Crab Salad from Sam's. I wish I couldn't make baked fish the way they do at Furr's. I can make Super Burritos with sour cream the way they make them at Taco Delite.

I rarely use a recipe to cook by anuymore. If I do, it's usually one that doesn't have any ingredients and isn't real complicated. I'm sure this has nothing to do with my age.

I'll share a few of the recipes I use occasionally. I hope you enjoy them.

Friday night the Rivercrest Rebels played their final road game of the season against the Chisum Mustangs. Rebel Clay Pirtle returned the opening kick-off 27 yards. Things went down hill for Rivercrest as the offense would never get on track. Chisum's Ronnie Blake scored the initial touchdown with 2:20 left in the first quarter. The mustangs failed on the extra point attempt and left the score 6-0.

The Rebel's bad luck continued in the third quarter as Chisum's Kerry Crittenden scored to give the Mustangs an 18-0 lead.

Ronnie Blake scored his third touchdown of the night with 9 minutes left in the final period. The Mustangs finally made good on an

VETERAN'S Day, 1992

What is a Veteran? More than simply someone who served in a country's military forces...much more. A Veteran is someone who went through the drudgery and boredom of boot camp and waiting as well as battles and dangers. They may never have seen "action" as it is usually defined... yet their contributions are great.

They have been drafted as well as enlisted...but they went and did their best.

A veteran may have been wounded, or never received a scratch. A veteran may have been imprisoned, are be dead...or have never left this country's shores at all...but they are all veterans.

Veterans have families, too. And those families have made huge sacrifices, waiting, wondering if their loved one was safe, or hearing that dread news that their particular loved one would never return...or never be whole again.

A veteran is someone who came back from the service ... or from war... picked up the threads of everyday life and went forward again. Or, a veteran may be someone whose entire adult life has been spent in the armed services.

A veteran is someone who tells "war stories" to children and grandchildren....or cannot be persuaded to talk about their experiences at all.

Some are aging, some still young...but one thing each and every one has in common...they deserve our respect, remembrance and admiration. They have given this country it's freedom...it's strength and it's glory.

The Bogata News, Deport Times, and Talco Times (there was no Blossom Paper then) were filled weekly with news items about men and women in uniform. Some were happy reports of those found who were thought lost, of those who would be recovering from wounds and coming home soon...others reports were not so happy, bearing the sad tidings that a loved one was lost forever. For many of those "back home" not knowing was the worst of all.

Below Are A Few Samples....from a May 3, 1945 Paper

"Word had been received recently by friends that Pfc. Bennie Williamson has been wounded while in action in Germany. He was shot thru the shoulder and chest. He is when you return to the folks at home, a 1943 graduate of Deport High School, and entered service in Jan. 1944."

"Mr. & Mrs. Tim Hutson have received a letter from their son, S/Sgt. Roy Lee Hutson, who is somewhere in Italy, saying he was in a hospital suffering from leg injuries and did not know when he would be up and about again."

"Sgt. Dixie Walker was wounded in France, landed in New York on April 17 and was flown by plane to Santa Barbara, California to a hospital for an operation on his left arm. He said it was good to be back, as he could lie down and go to sleep now without a worry."

"Sgt. Horace W. Walch, still in a hospital in Paris, France after receiving a shoulder wound in Germany in February. had sent his twin sister, Doris a box of gifts, incluidng perfume, a braclet, his service ribbons and several interesting pictures."

Wittlich, Germany, Feb. 22, 1919 Brother I am on gard to night and will try; to wright you a few lines. I am here and have nothing to do.

I will try and tell you a few things about our last drive that started Nov.

We went over the top on the morning of the first, just at day light.

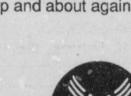

Things were pretty lively about that time our big guns was throwing a few (G. I)cans over to the bosh and old Fritz was sending us a few all at the same time. We foughtall that day and the next it rained and rained but we fought just the same at dark on the we of the sect. we stopped tired and hungry had not had a meal in two days and very little water, you can not imagine how we felt we had lost some of our best friends.

Morning of Nov. 11th, 1918.

"Boys, before we leave this field I want to try, if I can, to find words to express to you my deep feeling of appreciation and great debt of gratitude toward you for your work in recent operations, and to tell you how deep and high is my feeling of admiration, honor and respect for your actions on the field of battle, I want each and every one of you to know and feel that deep down in my heart, seared into my soul is a spot that shall always be dear to me, for it shall forever be occupied by you boys, you and your officers, and there are none better, have shown and proved yourselves to be willing to fight and if need be to die for your country, some of our comrades have fallen, some of our boys made the supreme sacrifice, but you know and I know that they have not died in vain, that their names, their deeds, their actions are immortal and just as surely as the sun will rise tomorrow to proclaim to the world that God still rules, just as surely ae We takened up a position that night those boys now sitting on the right and expected at any time to have to hand of God, for they died that the

a man's part and played it well and with a high head and clear eye you can receive the well deserved praise and love of mothers, wives and sweethearts

Again, I would like to have my soul to you and convey to you my true feelings, but that is imporrisble, as I have bared my sould to God for he understands and I have asked him to deal gently with you through the fire and hell through which you came and today I raise reverant thanks to him for the opportunity he has given me to lead such men into battle and with his help to see you drive a proud and haughty foe into utter retreat and defeat, and boys when you return home the folks are not going to rush out to greet some famous General...no...they will not do that..for the people know and understand and they will welcome you, the "doughboy" of the ranks who has faced the hot lead, and the cold steel, and when they look into your eyes they will bow heads in reverence for in your eyes is the true spirits the true American of today.

ight some more, but nothing happened that night.

Sgt. Allen Balley, Sgt. Hood and myself and two more men sit in one shell hole that night very very little sleep we got . Now you may think that was a big shell hole, but I have seen them bigger than that one... I have seen four or five men sleep in one shell hole and have what we call a pretty good bed at that time. The next morning I saw one of the prettiest sights that I ever saw in my life. It was a clear morning, the sun was as bright as it ever shone. We were all hungry and nothing to eat ideals, beliets and the religion taught to us by Jesus Christ the son of God, might rule the owrld. Could God do otherwise than love them and bedeck their crowns with stars?

At Villers-Devant-Dun you covered yourselves with glory. You have received high praise from Marshall Josh, General Pershing, General Alen, General liggett, General McAlexander and you are the idol of your colonel, your battalion and your company officers. But your real satisfaction, your real glory comes from within, in that of a clear conscience and clean soul, you know that you have played Soldiers of America, I salute you. Major Tom G. Woolen, Commander Sec. Battalion, 359th Inf. Amercan, E.F.

Brother, you ought to have seen that bunch of men. We could not keep the tears back. We knew we had done something but he made us think more strongly about it. We were a happy bunch of men.

Well, this is a rough night in Wettlich, Germany. It is raining, the weather is bad and I would like to be in Texas very much tonight. our bud FIGHTING FAR FROM HOME-Five sons of Sam H. Westbrook, Deport (Lamar County) farmer, are serving in the United States Army, three in North Africa, one in the Southwest Pacific, and the fifth in a camp in Georgia. Farmer Destbrook's most welcome caller these days is the mail man and seldom a week passes that letters fail to arrive from some of the boys. Left to right, the Westbrook soldiers are Boyd, 24, in Africa; Esker, 38, in Africa; Donald, 22, in Africa; Elbert, 36, in the Southwest Facific area, and Earl H. 26. at Camp Gordon, Ga.

Article Tells of Airman's Liberation During WWI

An article in the Deport Times on his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.N. Philley, May 3, 1945, reports that 2vt. Larry could not tell them where he was, but philley had been found alive and liberated from prison. Such articles were common, along with the ones listing the dead and wounded, in local newspapers during the long years of World War II.

reported that he had been liberated and that his wounds were improving under the care of an American docand an adapter she has a second a second

It was the first definite newsthat he was still alive, since a Christmas Pvt. Philley had written a letter to card dated Nov. 30, 1944 had been posmarked in Germany.

These cards had been received after the message from the War Department notifying his parents on December 27 that he had been missing in action since Dec. 6. No report had been sent as to the extent or nature of his wounds, but the Red Cross and War Department had been notified of receipt of these letters and his parents were hoping to soon be able to contact him.

Pvt. Philley was born in Deport. and enlisted in the Air Corps in 1942.

He was part of the 84th Divisionwith the 9th Army which the Germans called the "Hatchet Men" from their insignia and the ferocity of their fighting. The Division had seen heavy fighting when he was captured and imprisoned.

The following letter appeared from Editor Sam Holloway in the February 18, 1944 Bogata News, Talco Times and Deport Times. It carries a message well worth repeating!

This is a letter from the editor to the men, and their wives and sweethearts too, Just some observations about degree of satisfation:

Following the first World War there was considerable criticism of the generation it produced, so-called drug store cowboys and flappers. Some pious oldsters throught they were "no good" and that the nation had produced a generation of "softies". This war has shown how wrong they were: Physically most of them are stronger and neavier men than were their dads at their ages, and nearly an inch taller. IQs are higher and they are better

And then, consider the "flappers": They are operating typewriters, riviting and punching machines, drill presses and such in war palnts; others are saying goodbye to husbands, some of them fathers of their children and carrying on as best they may with the money a liberal government is contributing and what

Yes, the fathers of the first World War sired better children than they thought. These children had teh benefit of more knowledge, of hygiene, preventive medicine, more balanced rations and the benefit of the radio, motion pictures, better transportation facilities, more highly educated school teachers and better newspapers, books and magazines.

Any generation that fails to produce a better one is a failure, and it appears that veterans of the first World War were successful in battle and at producing a generation better than their own.

In the present national crisis these drug store cowboys and flappers are being asked to defend this nation and to smash for all time to come, dictators who would overrun the earth, and if you want to know what this country editor who writes from personal observation thinks, they are doing a damned good

Just in case someone complains the editor is using profanity, this is to say that in the above case it is only a descriptive adjective, and that if he could say it in more expressive language he would do so.)

In this war you have proved to be the finest generation any nation ever produced. I am not writing this to flatter you. I am not seeking any office or favors of any kind from you..only our friendship and good will...and trying to pay tribute where it is due.

My thoughts have traveled over things said here, but it is the first time I have attempted to put them on paper.

Anyway, you know what I think about the subject and I'm sure some who scoffed in your care-free pre-war days have changed thic ropinions.

But in addition to winning this war you also have another responsibility to your country-to raise a generation of fine, patriotic, liberty-loving children who will be better men and women than you are. Only in this way can America continue to grow and increase in usefulness to her subjects and to the world.

Editor Holloway's message is almost fifty years old now. And it's a fair bet to say that now there are people saying that the current generation is "soft" useless and poor. Editor Nichols (myself) believes that if the call came today we would all be astonished at just how well THIS generation would respond Indeed, this country depends upon it.

Teach Children How To Use Their Resources

Guiding the development of your child's personal resources builds the greatest resource they will ever have--themselves. As you build your child's confidence in his or her resoursefulness, it is also important to help youth understand that resources have limits. That means that we all have choices to make and about how we use our resources. Making choices begins by helping youth undestand the difference betwwn needs and wants. Let your children look up different. Then involve them in deciding what their needs are and their wants. Reinforce the idea that needs and wants are different whenever your child asks for something. Ask the child to consider his request and help ;him to determine whether it is a need or a want and what choices the two of you have for meeting the need or want.

Teaching children the principles of resourceful living gives them a foundation for thinking about using limited resources to meet unlimited needs and wants. This will increase their responsibility for managing money resources and they become more aware of the limits of our natural resources. They become resourceful in applying the same principles to living with all resource limitations with greater understanding and les stress.
