

By Nanalee Nichols I think I'll Clean My House Now.

After being in the same house for almost fifty years the time has come for us to go through our parent's things and take what is worth keeping and discard the rest.

It's really hard to do, as many of you know, undoubtedly having gone through it.

After all, what do we do with those Christmas cards and Mother's Day cards and Valentine's cards with shaky childish handwriting that turns out to be our own? It's hard to justify keeping it...but it hurts to toss it out.

Where do you put a collection of books that spans not only my parent's 80 years plus lives but also that of my book-devoted grandparents? Since I inherited that trait, my bookshelves are full already, and how in the world am I supposed to take on a few hundred books? My brothers are not big readers, and they don't have the shelves for them either.

Where do you put a miscellaneous collection of old dishes, from great grandparents, grandparents and parents?

How do you deal with a collection of National Geographic magazines dating back to the 1940s?

Do you keep the lock of your baby hair, and your baby shoe, and the little straw bonnet with silk lilies of the valley? It takes a really tough person to trash them!

There are newspaper clippings of every event that affected our lives, from our birth announcements to high school awards to feature stories.

There are little gifts that have

School lunch rules to be observed

The Talco-Bogata cafeteria staff done. would like to explain the way the government lunch program works due to children and parents misunderstanding the guidelines set by the government.

thor of "Gateway to Texas-History of Red River County" will be honored at an autograph party on Friday from 3-5 p.m. in the lobby of Guaranty Bank Bogata.

Each day the government requires that one of three combinations be put on the tray of each child to meet the ozs. cheese, 1 egg, 1/2 cup beans or requirements for breakfast. Four com- peas, 4 Tablespoons peanut butter or ponents must be offered and claimed other nut or seed butters, 3/4 cup of been given to them over the years, and notes and letters and tidbits clipped from all kinds of things.

Cookbooks, cooking utensils (my dad loved gadgets), knick knacks, old linens, sheets, embroidered pillowcases, the list just goes on and on and on.

We have thrown away things, given them away and family members have swamped their homes with treasures.

What have I learned from this? I'm going to clean my house now. I mean deep clean. I'm going to do the closets, under the beds, sweep down the ceilings and get rid of things. No more kept Christmas cards, nomore left over odds and ends! By golly, when I'm gone the nieces and nephews won't have too many years of our stuff to deal with. Of course, they are still going to have to deal with all this stuff that came from my parents' home, because all that space I'm cleaning out in the closets will be occupied by hose little sentimental items that I couldn't bear to throw away. And so the cycle goes on!

Talco PTO officers meet with school principal

The Talco PTO officers met Monday, Aug. 18 at 9:00 a.m. with the school principal, B.J. Setliff in the library to discuss goals for the coming school year.

Several ideas were discussed some of which were to automate the library and connect to the Internet. Students would be able to have access to the Internet for academic purposes and could check out books through a computerized process. Some teachers and parents feel that this would give the students the needed edge to keep up with the technology so necessary for their education and would benefit the entire school.

Money earned from the biggest fund raiser of the year, the Fall Festival, would be used to purchase these items if there is a unanimous vote for the purchase.

This week is our "Salute to the Sardine". You know that lowly, silver, smelly little fish that no one likes! Well, surely someone likes I found sardine recipes! him. That's right sardine recipes. They had their own place in a cookbook, maybe it was a 1940'scookbook... but there were recipes. I could not resist it. . . so here they are! But first let me give you some facts about sardines.

Sardines are members of the herring family (European sardines are Sardina pilchardus and Pacific sardines are Sardinops sagax--you never know when this might come up in conversation--so be ready!) and an important food fish. The word sardine refers to several groups of "fishes". It is used mainly for such species as the Pacific sardine or pilchard. Other members of the herring family, including sprats and young Atlantic herring, are also sold as sardines. The name sardine was given to the fish because they were first caught near (you guessed it!) Sardinia, an Italian island in the Mediterranean Sea.

Sardines live in warm ocean waters near the shores of almost all the continents. They are especially plentiful off the coast of Japan, northwestern Africa and western South America. They average 9-12 inches in length and about 4 ounces in weight. The upper part of their body is bluishgray and the lower part is silvery. Adult sardines usually swim in large schools. They feed on small animals and plant life called plankton.

Most sardines are caught at night with special nets with the worldwide catch totaling about 11-1/4 million short tons or 10.2 million metric tons. In other words, lots of the little critters!

Cans of sardines are seen in grocery stores. Canneries precook sardines and remove part of their natural oil and moisture. Sardine oil is used in products such as linoleum, paint and varnish along with animal feeds and fertilizers. Small ones are used as bait in commercial tuna fisheries.

Broiled Deviled Sardines is her would be something different.

Sardines and Mashed Potatoes. Whatever happened to mashed potatoes and gravy.

Sardines and Fried Onions. Okay. . . . and Amy thought just plain liver and onions was bad!

Sardines and Spinach. Do you get the feeling that these recipes would not be you kids favorites!

Sardines and Eggs on Toast would not be one to have for every day for breakfast. . . . maybe a weekend treat!

Sardines and Crackers The perfect thing to send with your spouse on a hunting trip. What other human would want to get near them!

We hope you enjoyed our little bit of fun with the sardine and if anyone ever got deserted on a desert islan, I;m sure if they got hungry enough, sardines would be wonderful. See you in the kitchen!

NOTE: Special message to Josephine Williams of Odessa, Texas. She writes that she enjoyed the Coconut Chess Pie recipe and that it possibly came out in the Spring of 1996. I need help finding this one as I cannot locate it in my files. Does anyone have it? Please let us know.

alkaline. Soils in Red River County with this description are near the Clarksville and Whiterock areas. Most of the soils will need large amounts of phosphate and some potash to grow red clover.

Most local ranchers use this legume in a grass mixture. The grasslegume mixture is harvested for hay and is allowed to make seed between cuttings. Red Clover turns a dark color when cut, but the hay is eaten readily by cattle.

Charles L. VanDeaver has a good start of red clove located about .3 of a mile south of the hospital. VanDeaver has the clover in a mixture with common bermudagrass and tail fescue. When asked how long he has had the clover, VanDeaver replied, "about 25 years."

Most of the red clover grown in this area is the Kenland variety. However, several other varieties of red clover are being grown in the United States. Red Clover is mainly biennial. The seed germinates and produces a green plant the first year. During the second winter, the plant makes new growth and produces flowers and seed during spring.

Red Clover should be planted on adapted soils from September 15 to November 15. Pastures can be overseeded with 10 pounds of seed per acre. For more information on Clovers, contact your local Natural Resources Conservation Service at 1606 East Main Street in Clarksville.

A few years ago, as a representative of the newspaper, I was entered into a Chili Cooking Competition, with my permission. After that day was over I swore that I would never enter another competition of any kind as long as I live. I still have the same feelings about competitions as I did that day. I have now added another thing to my list of things I will never do again as long as I live. I will never have another garage sale if I should live to be a hundred.

A few weeks ago I planned a garage sale to get rid of some very good items that we no longer needed or no longer fit or we no longer liked or whatever. We decided that we would put an ad in the paper so that more people would know about the sale. The ad turned out just perfectly. No misspelled words or anything of that sort. We decided that each item should be marked with a price to keep down confusion. I began to worry about the ants in our yard. What if a potential customer was bitten by an ant? How would we solve that short of putting out Keep Moving or Beware of Ants or Not responsible for ant bites signs. We needn't have worried. It rained and turned cold. My first mistake was not remembering to put Cancel if raining in my ad I put in the newspaper. Big mistake. If you don't do that you are not sure whether to put out your goods or just assume that everyone will think you had enough sense to stay in out of the rain. There was a large Estate Auction in town the second day of my be out anyway so they will just make all the garage sales too." Not so. They just went to the Estate Auction to look around and stayed for lunch. Everyone who came out in the rain was interested in children's clothes, toys and games, etc. My daughter did really well with her children's things. This was just about all people were interested in. It had never dawned on me just how much it would bother me to have people digging through my good stuff and not wanting it. I felt rejected. I began watching the people walking around and hoping that they would not pick up something of mine because it hurt my feelings too much when they put it down and walked on. It is not like the people were unkind. They were very nice people, but if you don't want something, you just don't want it. They could not purchase all of my junk just to keep me from getting my feelings hurt.

I appreciated the people who came, but others stayed away in droves. I guess I thought that if I were outside with a coat on the first week-end in August everyone else should come on out and join me.

Anyway, back to not ever having another garage sale. I will take my discards to the Salvation Army or Good Will when my closets begin to bulge at the seams again. I flatly refuse to work like a slave to get everything ready for people to come at their leisure and dig through and then reject. Call me sensitive. I just guess I can't handle rejection.

Rivercrest High's new band director, Richard Davis is working hard to get the year off on a good note.

A special meeting was called on Monday, Aug. 18 at the band hall at Rivercrest for all sixth grade band students and their parents. The meeting was a "come and go" event. Jim Gaylon of McKay Music Co. in Paris was present with instruments and accessories for the students and their parents to view and to have rental/ purchase plans explained. Mr. Davis reported a good turn out of students and parents whom he enjoyed meeting and who made instrument arrangements.

Rivercrest Athletic Booster Club gearing up for new season The Rivercrest Athletic Booster coaches for each team. Come out

The Rivercrest Athletic Booster Club is ready to kick off a new year. Plans have been made for the upcoming football season. Come on out to the games and help support our team in another quest to reach the playoffs.

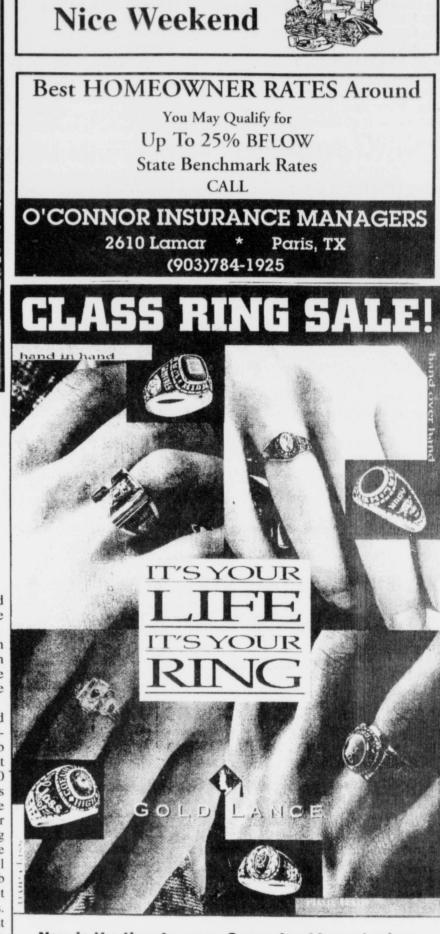

The Booster Club will host a Hamburger Supper for the scrimmage game on Aug. 28 at Rivercrest. The supper and the game will start at 6:00 p.m. Hamburger baskets will sell for $3.50 and cheeseburger baskets will sell for 3.75. In addition, the booster Club will sell "Rebel Freezes" (sno cones) for .75¢ each.

The annual membership drive will begin on September 28. Family memberships are $10.00 and individuals memberships are $5.00. Please buy a membership and help support our teams.

On September 4, the Booster Club will host a Fall Kickoff at the JV game at Rivercrest vs Hawkins. All Jr. High, JV and Varsity team members will be introduced as well as the coaches for each team. Come out and meet the teams. Refreshments will be served.

Tee shirts will also be for sale on September 4 with the theme chosen by this year's contest winners. The theme is "Rebel Pride"; Learn It, Love It, Live It.

September 12 has been designated as Spirit Night when we play Clarksville at Rivercrest. The Booster Club will be selling cowbells that night which are blue and white for $5.00 each. These are great noise makers please make plans to purchase one and help the boys on the field hear their fans. Fans will be urged to bring their bells to off games so everyone knows the Rebels are in town. All proceeds earned by the Booster Club go to support the Rivercrest student body in the form of scholarships. Come out and support the Rivercrest Rebels and Lady Rebels this season and help the Athletic Booster Club help Rivercrest students!!!!

Also showing were; Linda Crawford and Murl Hawks with Johnny being the groomer. Others attending the show were; Barry, Colt and Mandy Crawford, Bob and Gwin Womack and Jerry and Pat Crawford been busy the past two weeks starting training on the Rebel football teams. Head Coach, Keith Brown said, "

We have a total of 60 boys out for football, all of which have tested drug free. We have more size this season than we have had in several years. The boys are working hard and looking good in practice and although we do not have alot of speed what we have will be a threat to any team we meet." Varsity Assistant Coach, Terry Hill said, " With the right improvements the Rebels will go even farther than we did last year" Junior Varsity Coaches Steve Weddle and Ben Connell are also well pleased with the turn out and with the amount of effort the boys are giving as they prepare for the season in this hot weather. The JV will be made up of mostly Freshman boys who have not reached their full size ing in from the eighth grade and the entire JV group have good attitudes on their side"

The team was made up of; Keely

Williams, Michelle Bryant, Krystal

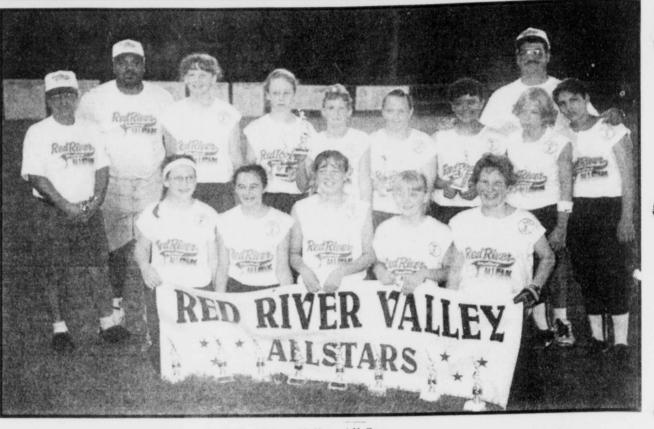

Valenzuela: Bogata, Megan Graham,

Rebecca Rufial, Natalie Wilson,

Kelly Kincaid: Deport and Rachel

The Talco-Bogata Junior High team has 30 boys suited out but of the 30 only 8 are eighth graders. Coach Gary Schultz said, " I am not sure exactly how we will play but Coach Daugherty and I hope to play seventh grade games and not be forced to put seventh graders up to fill an eighth grade team. At this age the year separating the two is a large gap and we would like our seventh grade boys to compete with their own age group. The guys are giving 100% in hustle and we will work hard at whichever way we play'

All the Rebel Coaches are ready to take on the new season and encourage everyone to come out and support the teams.

Our main number will remain the same, 427-3851.

However, if you know your patient's room, you may now dial: 427-65--(room number), and your call will go straight in to their room, without having to go through the PBX Operator.

For example, if you want to call a patient in Room #311:

Dial: 427-6511. If their phone does not answer within 6 rings, your call will then be redirected to the Operator, for assistance.

We believe this new system will prove to be very helpful in your day to day communications with ETMC-Clarksville, as it should prevent you from naving to encounter a busy signal when you call the hospital.

We are continually striving to update every area of patient care, in an effort to improve treatment and satisfaction, and hope that the new telephone system will be just one of the many areas of improvement that you will notice as you visit the ETMC-Clarksville facility.

So why shouldn't you have a choice when it comes to your energy provider?

It's amazing that when it comes to something as basic as selecting an electricity supplier, you've never really been given a choice.

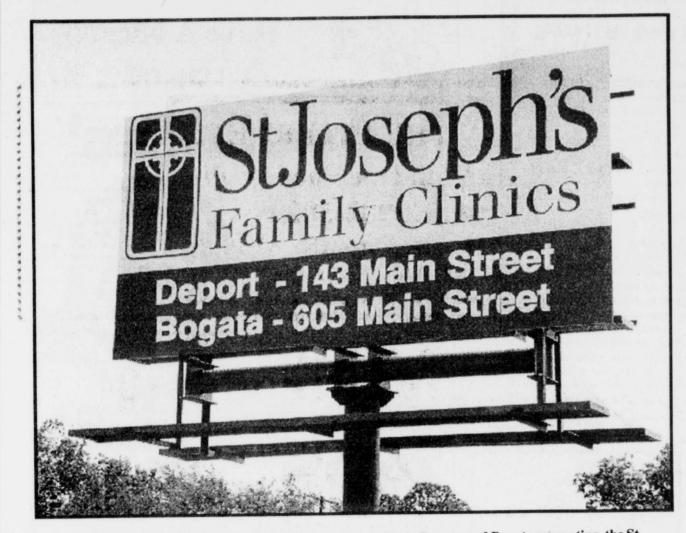

At Texas-New Mexico Power, we believe you should have the right to decide which energy supplier is best for you, even if that simply means keeping the same company you've relied on for years. That's why we've filed a plan that would allow you to do just that at the end of a five-year transition period. To prove we're ready to compete for your business, we'll reduce our rates by about 6 percent for residential homes during this transition time.

Of course TNMP will always be here to deliver electricity to your homes and businesses over our wires. But if our plan is approved, you'll be able to purchase your power from whoever is offering you the best service at the best price. Which is the kind of choice that's always made our country great.

We put all our energy back into our communities www.tnpe.com
