We Have Been Given a Gift
After suffering through the terrible drought of this summer, we have been given a gift of great beauty. This autumn the colors have been more outstanding than usual.

While it may be small consolation for the intense heat, ruined crops and severe pasture and hay shortage, it is still a delight that everyone needs to get out and enjoy because it is fast fading.

Where our oak trees frequently turn a leathery dull brown they are brilliant glowing russet.

Hackberry trees, that lowliest of "brush" and nuisance tree, is a glorious bag of coins, each one as golden as newly minted money.

The hated poison ivy is redeemed by virtue of changing into brilliant reds.

Shumak, hickories, maples, and even pecans are clothes in their final fall outfits.

Like stained glass they are gorgeous on a cloudy day...but when the sun comes through the leaves turn into shards of glittering gorgeous glass. It is truly breathtaking to behold.

Sunday afternoon we took a drive around the countryside. Cattle grazed in pastures greener now than they have been all summer. Squirrels scampered up and down, around and about.

Children ran in the cool weather, laughing and playing outside in the sunshine.

And the breeze shattered the leaves, sending them drifting downward and scurrying around over the road surface.

Passing cars suck a whirlpool of colors like a kaleidoscope behind them.

In many areas that traditionally have more colors than we do the drought has ruined them. But for some reason the autumn color aura here is exceptional.

Take a quick trip around to see them, it's more than worth the time it takes to do it, and a few rains or high winds will wipe our fall slate clean.

Paper sale begins early this year, renew now!

We're starting early! The Blossom Times, Bogata News, Deport Times and Talco Times are now on SALE! This is the first time that the sale has begun in the middle of November instead of the first of December, but more time is needed to handle the volume of new and renewed subscriptions.

From the middle of November through the end of December, subscriptions are now $2 off the regular price. That means that within Lamar, Titus or Red River Counties the paper is $16 for a whole year, and $19 anywhere else. That's two dollars off of the regular price and a real bargain when you consider the news, photos, cooking columns, sports and community news you receive. It's a $10 per year savings over buying it at the news rack.

Publisher Nanalee Nichols says "We have so many renewals and new subscriptions during December that we have chosen to begin the sale a little earlier this year. This gives our customers two weeks more to get their subscriptions taken care of, and gives us more time to see that they are put into the computer in a timely manner."

Please use the coupon on the full page ad in this week's paper to assure the best service possible.

No notices will be sent out at the first of December to those who renew in December, due to the volume.

My Hero

By Sarah Haley Hawkins

What is a hero? A hero to me is someone you trust, someone who loves you. There's only one person who lives up to the standards of being a hero. This person I can depend on and love for as long as I live.

My hero went to the hospital about two months ago. He was working chopping bushes at the garden he works on nearly every day of the summer or when he can. I was at a church member's house when my mom called and said, "Haley, your pop went to the hospital."

And I was so scared that I would never hear any more of his jokes, and when he walks in the door when he gets off of work he kisses me and says, "There's my sweetie".

When they took him to the hospital they had to run tests on him. Everyone was crying and we were very sad. My Maw was very sad. She was so worried.

The people at the hospital said,

"We are going to run more tests on your husband." She was worried. They sent red dye through a little bitty tube and they found a blood clot. They were very scared.

My mom, me, my aunt, my uncle and my grandma were in the room. We were crying so bad we were waiting for a call from the doctor. Everybody was scared. We wanted to hear good from the doctor. Then the phone rang and my grandma answered the phone. She said, "Hello, is James going to be all right?" The doctor said "Of course. He has a minor blood clot that medicine can take care of." Thanks," my grandma said and hung up the phone. My uncle said, "Is the results all right?" She said, "Yes, he has a blood clot that they can fix." Now I can hear all of his jokes and he can walk in the house and say, "There's my sweetie."

My hero is a person I can depend on and love for as long as I live. He's my grandpa, James Gibbs.

FOOT NOTES

HEALTHY FEET? NO SWEAT

Few things are as unappealing--not to mention uncomfortable--as hot, sweaty feet, squirming inside soggy socks. (They're usually smelly, too!) Battling a case of sweaty feet can be frustrating and embarrassing. It can also be important for your health. "Hyperhidrosis" is the medical term for the tendency to sweat excessively. Hyperhidrosis can be caused by wearing air-tight shoes, or it may be a symptom of such conditions as an over-active thyroid or infection. The important thing to know about it is that, in addition to being uncomfortable, it can lead to more serious problems such as fungus growth and other infections. These disorders thrive in the dark, warm, moist environment provided by sweaty feet.

Whatever has caused "hyperhidrosis" to plague your every step, don't just accept it as the norm. Relief is close at hand through podiatric attention. There's no need to suffer since compassionate care is available to alleviate pain, accomplish optimum function, prevent recurrence, and help you again walk in comfort. We have office hours for treatment for all foot and ankle problems by appointment. Please call 784-5585.

OFFENSIVE CHARGE???-Rebel Josh Posey had the offensive charge called on him as the Rebels met Commerce Saturday, Nov. 21. As Posey, who is one of the tallest Rebel players, turned to make his shot the player to his right gave him a little help from the back causing the loss of balance and picking up the call for the Tigers. The Rebels won the contest 54-48. (Staff Photo Nancy Brown)

Rebels host Commerce in first home game of season

The Rivercrest Rebel Varsity played host to the Commerce Tigers on Saturday, Nov. 21, 1998. In first quarter play starters Jared White, Josh Posey, Chad Holland, Jason Freelen and Keith Hines were pushed hard by the Tiger team. The Tigers took the first tip of the ball and were first to get on the board. They held the Rebels scoreless until there was just over 2 minutes left in the quarter. Michael Galloway started the Rebel scores off and Chase Collins and Chad Holland followed his lead. Holland was called off the bench and scored on free shots off a Commerce technical foul. The Rebels gained 8 points in just over 2 minutes to finish the quarter trailing 8-14.

In the second the Rebs took the wake up call the Tigers had given. Chase Collins blocked a Tiger shot, Josh Posey pulled down rebounds and Jason Freelen used his quickness on the court for steals. Freelen busted two 3 pointers. Cory Tucker added a try, field goals and free shots came from Keith Hines, Chase Collins and Michael Galloway but the Rebels still trailed 29-24 at the half.

In the final half the third quarter saw the Rebels work even harder. Kyle Stansell had a good defensive quarter for the team and he along with Keith Hines, Josh Posey and Chase Collins added points to bring the score to 36-37. The Rebels were in hot pursuit of the Tigers. Josh Posey was lost to foul trouble in the last minutes of the quarter but the Rebels made up for the loss. The final quarter saw Galloway, Holland, Hines, Freelen, Josh Griffin and Collins net points as the Rebels began their run and gun offense and defense. Final 54-48 Rivercrest.

The Rebels were to host Mt. Pleasant on Nov. 24 and following the holiday will host Lone Oak Nov. 27 beginning at 5:00 p.m. On Monday, Nov. 30 the team will travel to Commerce with game time set at 5:30 p.m. Go Rebels!!!!

The Lady Rebel JV and Varsity hosted Pittsburg on Tuesday, Nov. 17 and took wins in both games. On Thursday they traveled to Dodd City for tournament play. In Thursday's game the team met the Sam Rayburn Lady Rebels. Nickerson will be able to return in two weeks if all heals well. They Lady Rebels played a relaxed quarter with scores coming from Kim Shirley, Katie Hare, Tiffany Prentice and Kembre Baker. The Lady Rebs went into the second quarter with a 16-9 lead.

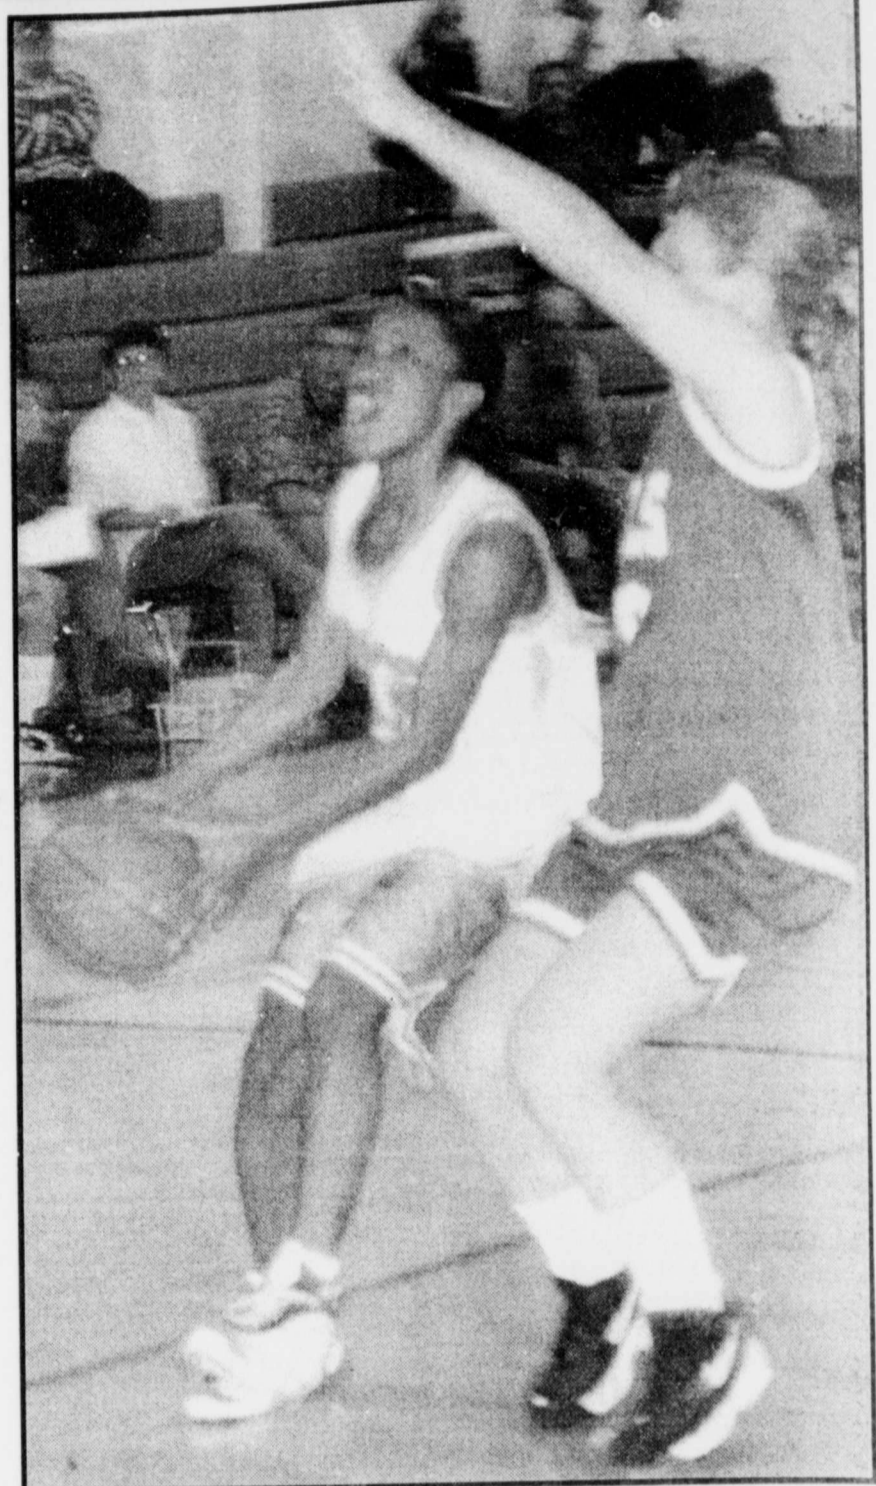

In the second quarter the Sam Rayburn team worked hard to take a lead. Katie Hare had a good offensive quarter and Jill Foster did a good job on the defense. Hare, Prentice, Cara Morgan and Kim Ross added points and the half ended with a 29-22 Lady Rebel lead.

The final quarters saw the game change. In the third the Lady Rebels of Sam Rayburn drew few fouls while the Rivercrest Lady Rebels drew one foul after another. Courtney Jones came into the game to add good defense and Ross, Morgan and Prentice added points. Missy Carroll had draw 4 fouls by the quarters end as had Ross. Score 38-30 Lady Rebels. The action came in the final quarter. Missy Carroll was lost to foul trouble and the Sam Rayburn ladies took the Lady Rebels 10 point lead away and held the top score for the first time in the game. Score 39-38 Sam Rayburn. The Sam Rayburn ladies still drew few fouls while the Rivercrest ladies could not move without a foul being called. With 3:40 on the clock Sam Rayburn led 42-38. Lady Rebel fouls added to their score. The score climbed to 45-50 Sam Rayburn. Kim Ross, Kim Shirley and Tiffany Prentice scored for the Lady Rebels and drove the score to 53-50 on a try from Prentice with 3.3 seconds left. The ball was regained by the RHS ladies too late for the last 3 point shot. Final 53-50 Sam Rayburn.

Paris Community Theatre presents show

The Paris Community Theatre in cooperation with the Paris Arts Alliance will be presenting their annual holiday show opening December 3. This year the production will be "The Best Christmas Pageant Ever" by Barbara Robinson, based on the popular children's book by the same name.

The touching and heartfelt show proves the Christmas spirit truly touches all of us when Grace Bradley (Mary Helen Lewis) is elected to direct the church's annual Christmas Pageant. Terror sets in as the Herdman kids, the meanest kids in town, decide to participate. Throughout the hectic situations that develop, the Herdman's teach all of us what the Christmas season truly means. "This has been a great experience." Charlie Thompson, director of the production. "It has gotten all of us into the holiday spirit, and has reminded all of us what it really means. The cast has worked hard and are going to give the public a good show.

The show will open on December 3 at 7:30 p.m. and will run December 4th and 5th at 8:00 p.m. continuing the following Thursday, December 10 at 7:30, Friday and Saturday, December 11th and 12th at 8:00 p.m. and closing on December 13 with a Saturday matinee at 2:30. Tickets can be reserved and purchased at the Paris Community Theatre Box Office weekday afternoons from 1-5 p.m. or by calling 784-0259.

This production is part of a trilogy of holiday shows that the theatre revolves every three years, consisting of A Christmas Carol, It's A Wonderful Life and The Best Christmas Pageant Ever. "It is our hope to make our holiday production a tradition in Paris," said Tim Wood, Publicity Director for the theatre, "By revolving the three productions we will be able to provide Paris and the surrounding areas a means of quality family time."

JMBC youth enjoy hayride

Thirty-three people participated in a hayride and cook-out Saturday afternoon from the Johntown Missionary Baptist Church. Steven Hawkins furnished the tractor and a large trailer loaded with hay for the ride. The group left the church building at 2:15 p.m. and traveled from Johntown to Steven and Kathy's home near Cuthand and then went to the Cuthand Cemetery and turned south toward Sulphur River. They then returned to Johntown to Drue and Billie Pirtle's home for games and a cook-out. The kids played volleyball while the hot dogs and all the trimmings were prepared for them.

After supper, a large campfire was built in the backyard and the adults enjoyed sitting around the fire talking about old times. The weather was clear and beautiful and the temperature made the campfire feel very good.

A sisterhood of seven

Seven sisters meet once a month to share stories

By Nanalee Nichols

Many years ago, A.L. and Burnice Webster took a giant step and ran off to marry, it is doubtful that they envisioned what life would bring them. From their marriage came seven daughters!

A.L. Webster was twenty-two when he fell in love with fourteen year old Burnice, and she sneaked away from school to run away and marry. The nervous, frightened couple rode the train to Texarkana, Arkansas to marry, then returned home to "face the music".

With deep ties to the land they set about farming in McCrury Community. About every three years the couple had another baby, and without fail those babies were girls.

Today these seven sisters have a unique tradition that reflects the character and upbringing they were given by their beloved parents. Once a month, the "girls" meet for dinner. They have done so since the death of their mother in 1983. At these dinners, which take place either at one of their homes, or at a restaurant, they share again the joys of growing up in a large, all-female group of siblings, and catch up with the lives of their children, grandchildren and other relatives.

The seven Webster sisters are: Christine Nix of Hooks; Helen Stanley of Hagansport; Hattie Abernathy of McCrury; Bettie Pace of Clarksville; Juanita Sparks of Deport; Hiawatha King of Pattonville and Nelda Talley of McCrury.

Talking and chattering all a once, getting stories of their childhood isn't always easy, but some constant things emerge-these are women brought up in joy and laughter, Christian values, respect for farming and the land and honest character.

Life must sometimes have been a bit difficult for their father, after all, he was a lone male in a household of eight women.

They remember one time when they had several friends over, one staying for two weeks, two others for several days. That swelled the number of females to a point where .

"Daddy couldn't find a place in the house to change clothes. Everywhere he went there were girls". He finally retreated to the barn to change!

The house they grew up in wasn't large, it was a small, three bedroom home. Everyone, had their chores to do, and without that discipline the household couldn't have operated.

Two of the sisters (who must remain nameless or else this story can't be related) had the task of washing and drying the dishes every evening. The younger one got into the habit of retreating to the outhouse and staying until the older one finished her chores for her.

"She knew if I wanted to go out I had to get the job done, so she would wait until I did both jobs".

Finally, the older sister sneaked out and slipped the latch down on the outhouse. Locked in during the waning heat of a summer's day, the younger sister was trapped for a long, long time.

"Well, it worked, she didn't shirk her chores anymore" laughs the older sister!

Their mother dressed them in ruffles and frilly dresses, in spite of having to wash without benefit of electric washing machines or dryers. In addition, she made everything they wore. She had the amazing talent of looking at a picture in a catalog, then creating its replica. They would select their fabric from a peddler that came around, then show their mother what they wanted made. Of course, they had to wear one another's hand me downs, but didn't seem to mind.

Their grandmother lived next door to them, and she counted the number of girls "unmentionables" pegged to the line one week. There were 47 pairs!

Next to the youngest, Hiawatha, was the family's tomboy. She used to love to follow her dad around in little boots and overalls.

Hiawatha's rather unusual name is the result of oldest sister Christine being told she could name the impending child. At that time she was studying the poem "Hiawatha" in school, and promptly sadly her newborn sister with the name. It seems to have been the last time the Websters let a daughter name a baby!

How do you discipline seven girls, with a three year age difference? Not by spanking. Instead, if they fought or fussed among themselves they had to stand in front of the mirror, then kiss one another. For real offenses they had to put out their tongue for a small dose of terrible tasting castor oil!

Love was more a part of their lives than stern discipline, though. Christian values were instilled early, and they recall when the father, after working all day in the fields, would go from bed to bed at night, fanning his beloved daughters so that they could sleep.

Their mother would recall as she grew older that "When I was raising my girls I had time to visit with my neighbors, wash, iron, cook and clean, now I'm older and have all-electric appliances and I can't get much of anything done".

As the young women of the Webster matured the subject of dating came up. They could date, but were not allowed to go by themselves, either other friends had to go, another sister, or it had to be a double date.

The youngest sister, Nelda, laughs that she is now only one half mile from where she was born and one half mile from where she will be buried.

"I guess I didn't get very far in life" she laughs.

All the sisters love to cook and are excellent cooks. Most sew beautifully. They have worked at a variety of jobs. Five of them began their work careers working at the Duke & Ayers "dime store" in Clarksville.

They have sixteen children between them, and thirty-six grandchildren. Christine is the only one with great-grandchildren so far.

As they gather together in Juanita Sparks' living room they flood the room with laughter and good nature. They tease and "pick" at one another. It's a view back in time, for a moment one is witness to what life must have been like for A.L. and Burnice Webster as they raised their seven daughters. It is a pleasant sight indeed.

Buckboard Annie Says.....
Dear Lord,
So far today, God, I've done all right. I haven't gossiped, haven't lost my temper, haven't been greedy, grumpy, nasty, selfish or even overindulgent. But in a few minutes, God, I'm going to get out of bed and from then on, I'm probably going to need a lot of help!!
