A critical water shortage is being felt in the City of Silverton, and for this reason residents are asked to cooperate in water conservation to help avert a severe local emergency.

One reason for the emergency situation is the hot, dry weather that has been experienced in the past few weeks. A good rain is badly needed to help prevent a disaster, not only in the fields but also in the cities.

It is reported that other area cities also are experiencing a shortage of water.

The City's best well, which had been producing 360 gallons of water per minute, is now pumping only 140 gallons per minute. The other City wells are pumping about 15-20 gallons per minute.

Residents are asked to discontinue watering their grass in order for the City to refill the ground storage which was emptied over the weekend. This is for fire protection.

Parents and children are reminded that there is a ban in the City limits on the use of fireworks. Due to the drought and fire hazard involved, you are asked to discontinue immediately the shooting of fireworks. This will help guard against fires and the possibility of there not being enough water to put out the fires.

You may continue, at this time, to water your flowers, trees and the things that will die quickly without water; however, you are asked to water sparingly and not to lay the hose down and go off and leave it. Hand water these things, and please turn off the water as soon as you have finished.

It may be necessary at the City Council meeting next Monday night to come up with a plan for further curtailing the use of water.

Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated.

Citizens For Natural Weather Has Meeting

Pledges are being accepted for additional funds if the need arises.

New officers elected are Jimmy Burson, president; Donalea Garrison, secretary; Wade Steele and Grady Tyler, treasurers.

A going-away party for Chris Breedlove was held at the ASCS office in Silverton Tuesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Breedlove, who have been here since the spring term ended at Texas A&M University, will be returning to College Station to resume their studies.

Boost Livestock Production By Fertilizing Pastures

Stockman interested in increasing the carrying capacity of their pastures can turn to a good fertility program, points out Earnest Kiker, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Clarendon College Schedules Classes At Valley High

Clarendon College has announced that a college class will be offered at Valley High School during the second summer session. The second session is scheduled for July 10 through August 14. The class scheduled at Valley is English 123—English Composition on Tuesday and Thursday nights.

All classes will meet from 6:00 until 10:00 p.m. each evening and will have three semester hours of college credit.

Registration for the class will be Thursday, July 10, at 6:00 p.m. at Valley High School. Classes will begin July 10 and will conclude August 14. The cost for the class will be $50.00 for the course plus books. For further information, interested persons are requested to contact the Registrar's Office at Clarendon College, 806 874-3571.

tem. Although fertilizer costs have increased sharply, a good fertility program is still a sound investment to increase forage production from introduced or improved grasses.

Warm season grasses respond well to fertilizer, and this can lead to improved grazing along with hay production, points out Kiker.

Fertilizer will do its best job on boosting pasture production if applied during periods when growth conditions are good—conditions of moderate temperatures and adequate moisture. Best growing periods are generally in spring before temperatures pass the 90-degree mark and moisture is adequate and again in late summer or early fall when temperatures begin to moderate and moisture comes.

Moderate applications of fertilizer in the spring as well as in the fall will spread pasture production over a longer period, notes Kiker.

So, if you want to give your livestock production program a boost, consider a good fertility program, suggests Kiker. It can help your operation grow bigger within your own fences.

The American farmer builds two things better than anyone else in the world. He builds the next generation, passing along a special kind of wisdom... respect for the soil, honesty, independence, and faith in the future. And he builds his land, leaving it better than he found it. That kind of building usually requires borrowed long-term capital. That's where we have helped for 60 years.

Following the Fashion Revue, County Extension Agents Earnest Kiker and Lynda Fogerson told the group about the 4-H program and activities available to county youth.

Junior share-the-fun participants, under the leadership of Kathy Frizzell, presented their District skit, "The Ugly Bug Ball." The cast included Katrice Minyard, Terry Juarez, Joe Ted Edwards, Kristy Fogerson and Jeannita Stephens.

Senior Citizens served ice cream and cake to the members and guests.

State Has Made Unique Archaeological Acquisition Recently

The State's ability to trade its public lands for other lands has resulted in a unique archaeological acquisition, according to Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong.

Announced is a trade under which the state has acquired the largest and most significant Caddo Indian village archaeological site in East Texas.

The site, according to Armstrong, has been of prime interest to state archaeologists because of systematic looting and destruction while it was in private hands. He said it will now be protected and studied in an orderly, scientific manner under state ownership.

Under state law the site, including all of the known Caddo burial mounds along the Red River in Bowie County, will be under the supervision of both the General Land Office and the Texas Antiquities Committee which manages archaeologically valuable discoveries on public lands.

Armstrong said the 64.5-acre tract containing the Caddo mounds was traded for six small, unmanageable tracts owned by the state which had equal farming value.

The newly acquired acreage will still be leased for farming, but the lessee will agree not to disturb the mounds and will protect them from treasure hunters. Eventually careful excavation of the mounds and village site may reveal a great deal more about these early Texas residents than we now know, Armstrong said.

"I am particularly pleased that we were able to accomplish this trade," Armstrong said, "because the tracts we traded off were not financially advantageous to the state, but the Caddo site represents some of our richest and oldest Texas heritage."

AS A MAN THINKETH Gerald Beasley NOTICE!

I recently noted the following in a church bulletin: "To make things easier for all of us, please notice this important notice about notices. You may have noticed the increased amount of notices for you to notice. We notice that some of our notices have been noticed. On the other hand, some of our notices have not been noticed. This is very noticeable! It has been noticed that the responses to the notices have been noticeably unnoticeable. ### Noticing Notices."

Comment: We'd like to note that when a notice calls for an active response by the noticers, it would be noticeably superb if responsible responders took hold of responsibilities by immediately responding, not waiting for other hoped for respondents to get a job done. Incidentally, "responsibility is responding to God's ability."

Any community appreciates responsible respondents who don't balk at edifying and meaningful involvements.

EVERYONE LOVES A PARADE

To hear the band, to see the uniformed soldiers, to see the might of our tanks, to see the strength of our country, these things stir the heart and make us proud to be an American. Our God has made us strong and blessed us greatly, however our greatest strength is in the Lord. "GOD is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." In these unsettled times we need to show our faith in the Lord, and speak with the courage of one whose father can do all things. Renew your strength each week by attending services in the Lord's house.

Texas Family Land Heritage Program Opens 1980 Registration

The Texas Department of Agriculture is looking for Plains farmers and ranchers who are descendants of the earliest area settlers. Their property may qualify in the Family Land Heritage Program.

Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown acknowledged that it will be some years before there are many applicants from the Plains and West Texas areas because they were settled late. "We want people to be aware of the program in case there are some whose families have been farming or ranching for a century," Brown said.

The registration period for the 1980 program opened this month and will extend through August 15.

The Department is entering its seventh year in sponsoring the program to honor those who have maintained continuous agricultural production on the same land for 100 years or more.

So far there have been 1,294 families who have qualified. The county farthest west in the program is Howard, Brown said. The Roberts Ranch in Big Spring qualified in 1977.

Those who qualify are honored in state ceremonies and receive a certificate and a copy of the Family Land Heritage Registry, in which are printed old photographs of the family and homes as well as a brief history of the land.

"We have had excellent cooperation from county historical commission chairpersons and from county judges who have helped to locate people in their areas who might qualify," Brown said.

Basic requirements include the following: continuous agricultural production on the same land for 100 years, ownership of the land remaining in the family, complete operation or supervision of the farm or ranch production by family members, and a size of at least 10 acres with a minimum of $250 income from farm or ranch products. If all of the land has ever been rented out, the property is ineligible. Timber and recreational leases do not qualify. The Texas Department of Agriculture is the final judge of eligibility.

Persons who meet the basic qualifications and wish to enter the program can obtain an application from the county judge, county historical commission chairperson, the nearest Texas Department of Agriculture district office, or they may write the Department, P. O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

Dog Days Can Leave You Feeling Sick

Don't let the dog days of summer contribute to your feeling like a dog—and a sick one at that.

This is the time of year when people traditionally spend more time out-of-doors during vacations, picnics, camping trips, swimming, skiing—the entire range of hot weather activities. Summer is the time when food poisoning flourishes, reports the Texas Department of Health.

The culprits in most food poisonings are bacteria, and a sneeze, cough or a cut or sore on the hands or fingers introduce bacteria into the foods. Bacteria is present in many foods but are killed by proper cooking, followed by rapid refrigeration or keeping the foods hot until eaten.

Cross contamination is possible. In poultry, for example, salmonella present in a chicken or turkey will contaminate a cutting board. If the same board is used for cutting the fowl without first thoroughly washing the board with hot, soapy water, the cooked chicken may be contaminated from the residue left on the cutting board.

Most common contaminating agents are staphylococcus (Staph) and the organisms of Salmonella (Salm). Quite often, large outbreaks can be traced to a bacteria named Shigella (Shiggy), which is transmitted through fecal-oral transmission from an infected person.

Staph, Salm and Shiggy are no friends of man.

You can get the upper hand on these guys by following some basic rules of food sanitation.

The first basic is to keep hot foods hot—about 140 degrees F.—and cold foods cold—below 40 degrees F., says the State Health Department. But there are other important steps to take and a few more things you should know, suggests TDH.

While the offending bacteria may be present in foods which you eat, proper preparation and handling afford protection. Almost without exception in poisoning cases, the food was contaminated after having been cooked and was allowed to stand at temperatures which encourage bacterial growth. These bacteria thrive at temperatures ranging between 50 and 130 degrees.

Time, temperature, bacteria and a good medium in which to grow are the primary factors in bacterial contamination of foods.

Some foods you are most likely to take on picnics are the high protein, moist foods in which these culprits thrive, such as milk, milk products, eggs, meat, poultry, fish, shellfish and such favorites as cream pies, custards and potato salad.

More than 500 Marines at a training camp in San Diego, California recently were victims of food poisoning. The offending food was leftover canned meat which was improperly handled.

The bacteria, which was introduced into food, had time, temperature, and a proper medium in which to grow. Although the meat dish reportedly was heated, it didn't reach the temperature necessary to kill the bacteria.

In such delightful picnic food as potato salad, it usually is made up and stored in a large, deep dish. If the ingredients are warm when the potato salad is mixed, it takes a long time for the mixture to chill thoroughly. Often it never reaches the 40-degree safety factor. The result may be bacterial growth in the center of the mass. Then, when the potato salad is taken off refrigeration more bacteria grows. The result can be food poisoning. It is recommended that potato salad be stored in shallow containers so that it becomes chilled throughout the mixture.

Any leftover picnic food should be eyed with skepticism. A major source of food poisoning is picnic leftovers which have been exposed to warm temperatures for too long a time. Return potentially hazardous food to the ice chest immediately after the meal and keep it cool. If hot foods are cooked early, it is best to refrigerate and then reheat them immediately before serving unless they are placed in heavily insulated containers and kept above 140 degrees.

With the bulk of the summer ahead and millions of Texans planning outdoor excursions and backyard cook-outs, care should

Skin Should Be Protected From Sun Exposure

If your skin could talk, it might tell you to keep it out of the sun.

But your skin can't talk. "And," says Dr. Hal L. Harle of the Texas Department of Health, "you can't live in the real world and not be exposed to the sun at some time."

Dr. Harle, director of the TDH Chronic Disease Division, is familiar with the ravages wrought on the skin by the sun and its ultraviolet rays.

"Chronic exposure to the sun is very detrimental to the skin's health because it causes premature aging and malignancy. The importance of premature aging of the skin is cosmetic, plus the skin loses its resistance to infections. Wound healing is prolonged and the skin is more easily injured, says Dr. Harle.

Too much sun from an early age shows up later. By the time a person is into the 30's or mid-40's, the skin will appear leathery and lose its ability to withstand infections and not heal as readily.

The substance in skin giving resiliency is collagen. Ultraviolet rays from any source causes destruction of collagen, he warns.

Dr. Harle said there is a very direct cause and effect in the relationship between the sun and skin cancer. "Skin cancer is dose related. The more sun you get the more apt you are to develop skin cancer at some time in life," he said.

He identified three common forms of skin cancer. The first, squamous cell, tends to invade the skin and spread (metastasize) to other parts of the body. This is particularly true in cancer of the lips, he said.

"Second are basal cell cancers which were originally called rodent ulcers, so called because they tend to gnaw away at the skin. The cancer does not usually metastasize but continues to spread.

Malignant melanoma—or mole—probably isn't sun related, he said.

The best cure for skin cancer, asserts Dr. Harle, is prevention.

"Under ideal conditions, this means no exposure to the sun," said Dr. Harle. "But since this is impossible the next best thing is to minimize the danger and the exposure. This can be done in several ways.

"It includes the proper wearing of hats and other clothing, such as long sleeve shirts and gloves. Or, a sun-screen can be placed on the skin when you otherwise can't shade the skin.

Dr. Harle said that sun-screens which probably are the best contain paraaminobenzoic acid, or PABA. While not giving full protection, it will help. The trouble with all sunscreens is that they will wash or sweat off, and they will also come off on clothing. Reapplication is necessary for continued protection, he said.

A relatively new coding system is used to assist the consumer in purchasing a sunscreen. It gives a cream an SPF (sun protection factor) from two to fifteen. The higher the figure, the more protection is afforded.

A deep tan is popular with people today, particularly young people, but it wasn't always so, says Dr. Harle.

Light skin in women used to be popular.

"Grandma wasn't so dumb in the old days. She wore a bonnet, long sleeve clothing and most likely had on gloves when working or moving about outside. I've seen many older women who had cut off part of the foot of stockings—the sturdy cotton ones—and cut out a thumb hole so they could wear the stockings on their arms, he said.

Dr. Harle hopes that more and more people will become aware of the sun's hazards and reduce exposure to the skin. To emphasize the role of sun exposure he noted that some 93 percent of cancer of the lip is in the lower lip, which gets the full sun's rays. The upper lip is somewhat shaded.

be taken in food handling to avoid illness. One of the best pieces of advice to remember is: keep it hot; keep it cold; or don't keep it at all.

Double up, America.

Two can ride cheaper than one.

If you drive to work by yourself, you're spending twice as much money on commuting as you should.

That's too much.

Cut it in half. Take a friend.

Not only will your daily commute cost you half as much, but that monotonous trip will be a lot more pleasant.

Let's double up. Carpools are a great way to get where we're going. Faster and cheaper.

RICHARD EGAN

Richard Egan To Star In Comedy At Country Squire

Motion picture star Richard Egan will headline the upcoming production at Country Squire Dinner Theatre in Amarillo, opening onstage Tuesday, July 15.

Egan, who will star in the comedy, "Broken Up," won the Laurel Award as a motion picture top-liner, and in the 1960's was voted in the top ten percent of all entertainers world-wide by Good Housekeeping Magazine.

Richard Egan has had starring roles in such motion pictures as "A Summer Place," "The View from Pompey's Head," "Love Me Tender," "Demetrius and the Gladiators," "Seven Cities of Gold," and "Mission to Glory."

His television movies include "The House That Wouldn't Die" and "Shootout in a One Dog Town." He has appeared in "Police Story" episodes and as a guest star in "The Quest." He also starred in two television series, "Empire" and "Redigo."

As headline star of "Broken Up," Egan will be on stage each evening, Tuesday through Sunday through mid-August, and will be available after the show each evening to sign autographs.

Buffet dinner service begins at 6:30 p.m. each Tuesday through Saturday, followed by Country Squire entertainment, with show time at 8:15 p.m. On Sundays, Country Squire doors open at 5:30 p.m. with buffet dinner at 6:00 p.m. and the production on stage at 7:30 p.m. Country Squire is centrally located in Amarillo at I-40 and Grand. Reservations are advised.

SOCIAL SECURITY IN BRISCOE COUNTY

BY JANICE ULMER

William J. Driver, Commissioner of Social Security, stated this week that the payment of social security in the future is not in jeopardy. He made this statement in response to the announcement by the Board of Trustees of the Social Security trust funds that the old age and survivors trust fund will run out of money in late 1981 or 1982, unless remedial legislation is enacted.

Remedial legislation is the key to the Trustees' statement. They recommend that borrowing be allowed among three separate social security trust funds. Congress is currently considering this proposal. The Senate Finance Committee has already approved a formula shifting more money from the disability fund to the old-age fund. The House Subcommittee on Social Security is meeting this week to consider transferring more money to the old-age fund.

If this borrowing is approved it will stabilize the trust funds, and consequently the payment of benefits for the next 25 years. However, if the economy turns out to be much worse than currently expected, the pessimistic assumptions show that the combined assets of all three trust funds could run short of funds in late 1983. Driver strongly reiterated that under no circumstances would the President or Congress allow social security benefits to be seriously delayed, or go unpaid. There is ample time to pass legislation to deal with the worst of situations.

PARENTS' RESPONSIBILITY

"Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it." Proverbs 22:6

Ask anyone what his most precious possession is, and he will almost invariably say, "My children." The desire for the welfare of our children enables us to "move mountains". We will do anything, give them anything, if we think it will help them.

The one most important thing we can do for them, however, is to instill in them a love of God, and a desire to obey him. The church can help you in this endeavor, inspire and strengthen you. We invite you to take your family to church this week. It may make a great difference in the life direction taken by your children.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
