Producers are considering placing stocker cattle on wheat pasture, corn stalks, milo stubble and native grass. Decisions such as what weight, grade and sex of cattle to purchase must be made. Other management decisions such as whether or not to pre-condition the cattle, whether to supplemental feed grain and whether to hedge the cattle must be determined.

The Stocker Cattle Budget Analysis computer program is designed to aid producers in making management decisions. This service offered by Extension Service has been well received by area producers and efforts have been made to make the data input forms and the program capabilities more functional under a wide array of production situations.

Revised data input forms are available at the Briscoe County Extension office located in the basement of the county courthouse. Interested persons are urged to come by and pick one up.

1980 ANNUAL REPORT Cap Rock Soil & Water Conservation District

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

Jack Sutton, Chairman

Don Burson, Vice Chairman

Murry Wayne Morrison, Secretary

Jimmy Myers, Member

Jarus Flowers, Member

The Cap Rock S.W.C.D. has responsibilities in a number of programs involving conservation. The directors worked on a plan to renovate the channel improvement in the Kent Creek Watershed Project. The district is one of the four sponsors of this project. They also are one of 14 sponsors of the North Rolling Plains Resource Conservation & Development Project. The City of Quitaque is a sponsor of the project. Congress approved this project this year after an eight-year delay. RC&D could be used in park improvement, city improvements, control of roadside erosion. The directors studied the alternative conservation programs offered in the Resource Conservation Act. They obtained 84 signatures on a petition prepared by the district. They felt that the present conservation programs are adequate if their appropriations were increased.

The district is a member of the Panhandle and the Texas Associations of Soil & Water Conservation Districts. Jack Sutton, Don Burson and Bob Rauch attended meetings of the Panhandle Association. The district directors helped develop the county programs of A.C.P. and G.P.C.P.

The Soil Conservation Service is assigned by U.S.D.A. to assist the Cap Rock S.W.C.D. In 1980 the S.C.S. staff performed 741 services on 315 farms or ranches. One hundred ninety-six of these did one or more new conservation practices. Eleven new conservation plans were completed covering 19,450 acres of agricultural land. Cletus Grady retired in August after 35 years of service. Cletus was a superior employee recognized as an authority on conservation.

SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE STAFF: Bob Rauch, District Conservationist Eddie Northam, Range Conservationist Cletus Grady, Conservation Technician

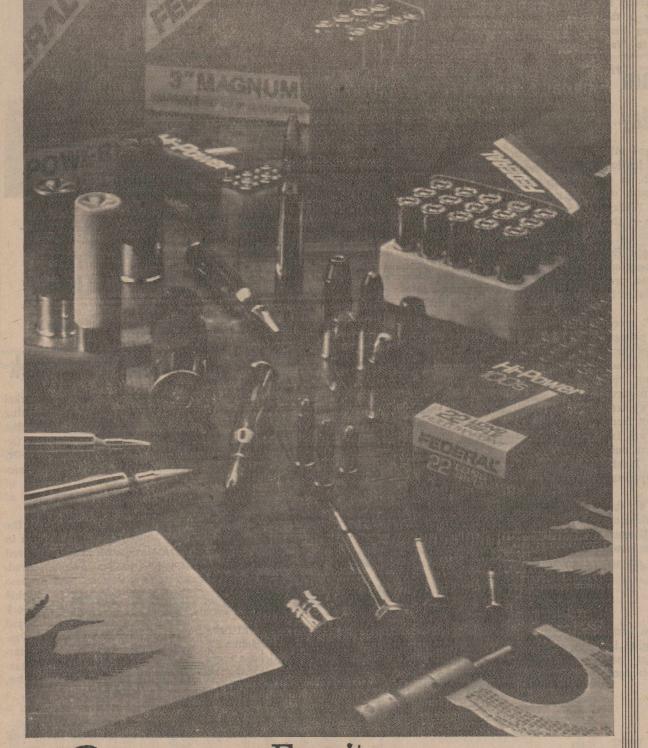

The Cap Rock Conservation District plans to make high quality trees available to Briscoe County residents. The trees will be potted. They can be used for windbreak or landscaping. Contact the Soil Conservation Service if you would like to order trees.

The year 1980 was a big year for terracing. Almost 200,000 feet or 38 miles of terraces were put up on seven farms. Five of these farms had never been terraced before. Both standard and parallel terraces were used. Terraces can be designd for the use of 6-row equipment. Terraces not only reduce erosion but get water into the soil.

Max Ham planted a rye cover crop in his pecan orchard. These small trees are irrigated by a drip system.

PAR

Gladney Stubbs planted a 70-tree windbreak to protect his home on the county line east of Quitaque. He used potted red cedars grown by the Texas Forest Service in their greenhouse in Lubbock. Mr. Stubbs did not lose a tree in spite of the drought and heat.

Cover crops are planted on more farms every year. An estimate of 2,100 acres have been overseeded. Some farmers are drilling their turnrows to wheat or rye to protect the edge of the field. Prof Patrick used a mixture of vetch and rye for grazing. Scotty Stark overseeded forage sorghum with rye. This should be excellent pasture.

Sprinkler irrigation systems not used for several years were put back into use because of the devastating heat, drought, and the expectation of high cotton prices.

The S.C.S. checked out 11 sprinkler systems to see if they were working as they were designed. Four center pivot systems and seven side roll systems were evaluated. One center point system needed to have every nozzle replaced. The others did their job. The side roll systems were generally working well. One system was being moved too far. Two systems could be moved farther than they are being moved.

Next year the S.C.S. will have the equipment to evaluate row irrigation systems. Contact S.C.S. if you would like to have your system checked out.

Two can ride cheaper than one.

If you drive to work by yourself, you're spending twice as much money on commuting as you should.

That's too much.

Cut it in half. Take a friend.

Not only will your daily commute cost you half as much, but that monotonous trip will be a lot more pleasant.

Let's double up. Carpools are a great way to get where we're going. Faster and cheaper.

Two Games At Hail Damages Crops

Hail and a heavy downpour of rain driven by strong wind damaged cotton crops in the area south and west of Silverton on Wednesday night of last week. Approximately three-quarters of an inch of rain was measured in Silverton.

that were heaviest damaged in 5:00 p.m. this storm were the same as those that were heavily damaged by hail in October of 1979.

Even though frost was received over the weekend, it was not cold enough to knock the leaves off the cotton plants, and farmers, eager to get their crop to the gins before further damage results, are continuing to chemically defoliate. The weather has become so unpredictable that it is no longer profitable to play the waiting game.

Most of the other crops have been harvested.

Soil Conservation District Taking Orders For Trees

by F. E. Northam Range Conservationist Soil Conservation Service The Cap Rock Soil and Water Conservation District board of directors are considering selling windbreak trees and shrubs to citizens of Briscoe County. If enough people are interested orders will be made this fall for trees to plant next March.

Other conservation districts have had good results from trees produced by the Colorado State University Forest Service. Last year the following trees were available that are well adapted to this area: Green Ash, Chinese Elm, Hackberry, Lombardy Poplar, Honey Locust and Russian Olive. They also provided these shrubs: Honeysuckle, Lilac, Native Plum and Sumac. The evergreens they have that do well in this country include Austrian Pine, Rocky Mountain Juniper, Scotch Pine and Ponderosa Pine. The trees that will be available next spring were planted this summer. The hardwoods are shipped as bare root seedlings, while the evergreens are potted seedlings. Due to shipping distance, bare root evergreens are not recommended.

Unless Colorado State changes the prices, the district will sell trees for 50 cents per tree for bare-root (hardwood and shrubs) and one dollar per tree for potted (evergreen) trees. The trees are shipped from Fort Collins on

There is pleasure indoing things with others. It may be looking at a picture magazine, or riding toys, or for parents it may even be sharing knowledge of the day's events that bring joy. God's people have a desire to share with you in the greatest joy, that of worshiping together in God's House. ATTEND CHURCH

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
